that everyone else is now absorbing that all emanates from the alienation caused by the industrialization cutting off growth and so over time the party itself becomes taken over by those people the true believers and now what we see with Trump is this 0:20:44 that like his war with the deep state is a war with the now totally triumphant lumpin reactionary Hicks basically over the remaining shell of establishment Republicans who understand that they're in a global ***** system we are in a global system you dumb Hicks we can't bring the jobs back you have to give people bread and circuses what are you doing but guys like Trump and the specific and the people who follow Trump - one way or another they don't understand that they think that like the capitalism is discrete economies and then America needs to compete against the other discrete economies not that capitalism is monopolizing and totalizing and that there is no separating these there's no separating us from China there's no separating us from Europe or Mexico or anybody else there's only facilitating the flow but because we don't talk about that to people and no actual conservative voters 0:21:46 think that's what's going on they think we're in a battle between states they vote for people who also believe that and now they run everything and they're in a civil war with the remaining institutional memory of the bureaucrats who are more connected to the data and less connected to the ideology than anybody in the system still knows to be necessary and that's why Trump got in there and he immediately folded on everything because that establishment bit back but now over time we're seeing that the pressure is mounting because that's the center of gravity of the Republican Party and like that's the kind of thing that you kind of hoped could have happened in Reverse with Bernie he gets in there and you've got the true believers but now you know the idea of being now it's believing that that scene through their lie as opposed to the Republicans who are just taking seriously the propaganda of the up of the you know the upper ranks and that's because at the base the Democratic Party could theoretically make a solitary and anti-capitalist argument which is impossible 0:22:47 for the current Republican Party to do consider capitalism is embedded in DNA the argument the debate between the populace and the establishment is just what that means it's a it's a it's an information question it's not ideological and I would say that the establishment ones no understand the nature of capitalism more than the Nationalists and the populace so they're dumber technically even if they don't like capitalism and that's good they really think no it's just this type of capitalism and that we can get a good capitalism which we whiten it up they have less information or they're dumber and it's a combination of both and they reinforce each other they're dumber conservatives than the establishment ones who understand that this is a global system and you know may have to manage flow and that means cultural change is gonna happen and you have to defuse it by by giving cultural grievance 0:23:51 a a vent whoo all right I hope that made sense I was thinking about that all day and I was like this is gonna be a little abstract and I and there's gonna be a lot of threads I hope it made sense so anyway that's why that's a good book and that's also why the liberal culture war can never be the place where anything will be won it's impossible it is a busy box it is an Oregon accumulator for all the political alienation that should be channeled towards building institutions of resistance to capitalism you're just putting all yours usance engineer you're filling it up you're nothing into this thing every day and all of your political anima goes out of it and then so yeah stop stop putting or go and stop getting the Oregon keep your Oregon to yourself 0:24:53 you sometimes you get an overflow and you got it you got to like relieve the pressure from the tire and I I understand I do it I have to do it I mean I have to do it for the job but also I have to do it for myself but I try to do it less and less I tried to wean myself like today I tried to start talking big picture and then I ended up talking back once again but the thing is I'm not even talking here about political talking here about the Internet I mean I'm sorry but the social issues the social the culture war cannot be a plus a plate that doesn't just mean on the Internet it means anywhere it can't be a productive place and I think you'll find anyone who says but what about XY and Z what they're talking about is the potential for those things to be wedded to a socialist project that you're talking about breaking open a consensus that is now open for capture and it frees free is this free flowing and it's a question of how to exploit that how to use that energy the most beneficial but that is always with in mind the knowledge that it cannot be the endpoint of struggle because then you end up going from tearing down one statue to trying to tear down a bigger statue and just finding more emotionally somebody asks how did materialism and Buddhism go together in my mind it comes down to this Buddhism is a base to me and you can say I'm wrong but it works for me and that's what matters to me and no one else can check my work because there is no great and test-taker in the sky sorry it's just an acknowledgement of the unity of everything at very very fundamental basis the idea that the universe is one thing eternally we are all connected we are all the same stuff to the point that our assumption of separateness is a delusion I think that's it and then the next thing is the next recognition is okay so separateness is an illusion but it still is one that that persists because of our accumulated experience of it you know like it's it's like echolocation we build a world around us that becomes real and to separate it that's how we that's how consciousness is formed out of the void and then it's right it's that that is thinking that it's a void and not that it's just more of the same stuff and I think materialism is the analysis of how that illusory but still existent material world operates it's like okay there's separateness and illusion but look through this this dimension this this the shaft of light it shapes up to look like something how does that something operate like how it's it's describing the waves like if you imagine the universe is a giant ball of water with waves rippling back and forth throughout it materialism is describing how they how they came to be and how they are bounce bouncing off of each other and how they will bounce off of each other in the future and I think that dialectical the grinding of opposites of objective to subjective momentum and position I think that's what generates the form the material the all right that was good I felt good so let's take some questions cuz that was pretty heavy let's get silly with it if anyone has like some fun history counterfactuals or or f marry kill things or just you know how many ducks i can fight a knife to i grilled yeah i grilled a couple times last week I did birds and and Glee's as we now have to call them as now in my head I can't call anything else I heard it like two weeks ago and now it's instinctive that's how culture works so insidious but of course I'll probably forget it in another week it holds you tight and then let you go I'm gonna try to smoke some pork in fact guys this is a good chance for me to announce this so tomorrow if things go well I might cancel it cancel it I'm gonna try to smoke a pork but tomorrow I'm gonna you know put some stuff on it put some rub on I'm gonna get one of those low and smoke things going it's good I'm gonna do it it's only got two pounds of two pounds of pork shoulder so probably like five hours five six hours I'm gonna make a hoisin sauce that someone gave me a recipe for but I'll have backup if it doesn't work and I'm hoping to stream at some pro during the process so you can like take a look at what it how it's looking and watch me maybe spritz it down with some with some vinegar solution so if everything goes well I'll have that but I'm gonna have backup probably just some steaks or something in case it it goes to ***** okay so you don't want to I don't want to don't I'll leave everybody empty-handed after they come for a grill but I do have a meat thermometer so I apparently I had one the entire time I didn't even know I did I found it on top I look the mossad up that weird-ass poster that that Cuomo made 0:31:8 someone Ursula Lawrence is a Twitter shout-out she pointed out to me that it looks very much like one of the paintings that hardwood flipped Fritz merrill made of like the the symbolic alchemical paintings that explain the the nature of the universe and how to pierce its mystery he he it looks very alchemical it looks very very much like an esoteric shark it looks like one of those things that you find in a book of errata from like a famous schizophrenic intellectual one of those like Henry Darger guys who leaves a tiny apartment filled with scrawls that end up getting published by soft skull press and there it is in the back oh yes the the the consciousness-raising arch this is this is the cowbell of eternity here it was really cool or like yeah like a medieval text 0:32:10 like a medieval a medieval drawing of like the Kingdom of Heaven or or illustration from it looks like if you turn it upside down it could have been Dante's 9 rings whoa what if what if you put like a black light on it or something or put like put a candle behind it and it just becomes that I'd be pretty funny god damn it I'm so mad I'm so disappointed that logic authority 9 is not gonna get another season they had said they were setting up such good stuff and you know that it wasn't gonna be a thing where oh it's gonna lose its momentum they had I guarantee you they had like a season the number they said it a season number in advance like I would guess like 4 or 5 probably would have tied it up damn it shouldn't have made a deal unless they could have sworn to get him at least three seasons because I think you can do ok with three but two is especially when you got such a great mystery in the background all the stuff with Orbis and the parabola group and of course duds dad who 100% is 0:33:12 not dead like 0% chance that their father is dead the Dudley the Dudley clans dad no way he will come back he would come back for sure third season although I think it could have been a fun twist if dad finds out that he finds evidence that his dad's alive and of course Liz doesn't believe him and he follows the trail and finds out that yeah his dad did faked his own death but then he had died subsequently I think that'd be kind of funny and like fit with the themes of the show but yeah and I'm assuming that the parabola group invented Bitcoin like that seems to be pretty clear that that's gonna happen I would like to know more I would like to know more I'm clicking on that and they won't give it to me ***** it Bezos rescued the the expanse from cancellation and put it on prime and it's like people tell me that's a good show 0:34:13 whatever sci-fi bah bah bah not really my thing it just shows that ***** lizard man has no taste that he won't pick up ***** lodge 49 for one more I'm calling you out Bezos on your own platform ***** ball ***** that's right I'm on twitch right now hey I'm speaking to you you ***** gecko ass ***** put the show back put the show on I had to live in Europe where would I live problem maybe people's Berlin was it but really is it's it's cliché to say but it's very nice Ireland too but realistically Iceland in a compound geothermal heat hydroponic agriculture interlocking fields 0:35:15 of fire across absolutely empty lava flows until the volcano inside goes off and kills you you'd be ***** you could survive any the Netherlands is nice too I have to say I'm very charming where is the best possibility for a leftist Marxist movement you know what I kind of think it's people I've talked to people who made this argument and I think they have something I think it's the Chinese working class because they are the people who hold the condition closest to traditional Marxist notions of class consciousness formation densely packed urban factory workers those that's 0:36:18 who built socialism in this in the Europe now of course because of cultural difference and time difference and Technology difference it doesn't mean it's gonna work this time along the same axis because Marx was figuring a certain cultural context now manufacturing of consent and alienating people from their class consciousness and from their very spirit being have elevated surveillance technology propaganda we've created an entire virtual virtual dimension where people can dump all of their energy and discontent into that something Marx literally couldn't have imagined so that means we're not in the same situation but those people are the closest we've got and so if there is anything to that notion of this is the friction that creates the fire they've got the best kindling and that's why I think the dream the dream scenario even in the catastrophe the rolling catastrophe that now is going to be the 21st century there's no way out of it it's going to be at the catastrophe century I mean we're already starting we're here it's if this is normals over this is the new normal 0:37:20 until the new normal shows up and it's all going to be bad but the one where there's recovery towards recovery away from this critical failure this critical over emphasis on capitalism criminal overconsumption towards some sort of stable a world system of sort of positive feedback loop of socialism where we're a consumption is distributed southward and transformed into efficiency and then that efficiency is just like a the same kind of concept of a flow that exists in our capitalism in a world system but positively towards I hate to use the word but healing way so that's if that's gonna happen I think it's gonna happen in some sort of union between China and in the United States on the terms laid out by the negotiators who would be in the good scenario the working class just in some way like working or in America in the United States like working class plus progressive booyah instead of being led by just this rump social liberal nothing else current bushwa that we have now against the Chinese like a renewed Chinese working class now the Chinese working class one of the things they have to fight against is that the government that there or would they would have to organize against calls itself communist so they're gonna have a harder time than previous generations of alienated workers putting a name to their alienation because parsh part of the descriptive architecture that would have got them to class consciousness is going to be tarnished and alienated from so that's one of the more there are many reasons that we're on a run of bad trajectory and and any good outcome is not in any way to be assumed but anything could happen still and of course the bad the bad version of that is a corporate merger carried out between the billionaire captured Chinese Communist Party and our bushwa dictatorship parties representing capital just handshaking across the Bering Strait and then that then we get then that then we get then we do get the net Matt Stoller nightmare where Chinese social control gets imported entirely to the United States that is what would happen so Stoller's stories nightmare is absolutely a possibility but his where he gets it wrong is because he's a ***** libertarian because he does not he hates the concept of dialectical reasoning he's like almost a pure liberal in his thinking he thinks the way to defeat to stop that is by having conflict with China meaning heightening conflict between our perspective working classes yeah that's a great idea dumbass how that work in World War one how did the problem of the Rhee the real threat to like democratic institutions in Western Europe to like Kaiser right so apps like monarchism like the central powers like the the don't you think they're I mean obviously a lot of it was propaganda but there was a genuine concern among like the leftists who ended up supporting the war credits in their respective countries and it broke open and you're gonna use use those same principles those same principles of xenophobia and nationalism that mystify and obfuscate the class conflict that we have to ***** instead create you're only going to lead to the worst outcome where they just blow each other up and then we have a new Dark Age where emerging from the rubble of our global capitalist Empire is a neo feudal technocratic archipelago of remaining stakeholders your bezos's your Zuckerberg your cokes your Oprah's all of them now using their technology the remnant technology that they have disproportionate access to to command a neo feudal economy of direct service and all those beautiful liberal institutions and even communist dreams of social equality fall into the dustbin of history for another millennium so good luck with that Stoller you dumb ***** the way to defeat that danger of the corporate takeover the merger happening that you pretend to think as a takeover because you don't understand that there it's this it's two hands and the same thing the way to defeat that is to establish working-class solidarity and functionality through the institutions hopefully rising labor militancy like I said big-box retail is a huge site of struggle there and and party some sort of Workers Party maybe I don't know I've been I've been thinking more and more about the need for that I wouldn't have said that before the burning thing but like and I don't think we were wrong to do it I think it was necessary it was like you needed to be disenchanted of that as option and there was no way to wish that away it had to happen but now I'm wondering if that's a necessity I don't know for sure because you know you know it's all about the response and we're gonna about see some massive shocks coming up to people in terms of the level of exploitation and alienation that they're gonna be asked to suffer they're gonna have to alienate themselves from their own their own life they're gonna be told that they're gonna have to voluntarily risk their life more than they already are consciously anyway in order to keep doing things that they don't even want to do I mean my god can you imagine the turbocharging of alienation where it's like hey you know that job you don't even like and you do technically risk every day you're gonna get by hit by a car or shot by somebody while you're there or whatever to add to that we're gonna add the conscious knowledge that there's a contagious ***** disease out there that could any moment get you and kill you or even worse and more likely may have you give it to an older family member and then they get sick and then you get to make that risk you have to take that risk of your own volition you have to internalize that that's what that's the wage slavery concept that's why wage slavery is in many ways more insidious psychologically even than chattel slavery because you internalize it even greater you are the one doing this you're the one who went to work you're the one who got your grandma sick you're the one who as they cut off your leg oh I deserve this in a way that it's unique and it's horrifying and that's gonna go somewhere that's all I'm saying that's alien nations going somewhere and there's very little organizational bottle there's a very little relational infrastructure to catch any of it like it so it's gonna be a raging torrent and we need to have like a couple of guys hats and like a bucket there's no there's no like conduit you know it's people just everybody bailing with their hand with their hats as this raging torrent there's like all the thought leaders and all of like the strategists and all the politicians are just trying to grab the bucket loads we could be building an actual conduit to catch it and direct it and I think like some of that is being done but we're too early in it to know what parts are gonna be durable and I think that honestly I think that this election is going to be a massively important not the results necessarily but how the parties respond to the crisis that's going to be perpetuating itself that's why I can't be very optimistic but I also cannot go black pill in any way because I don't have enough confidence in my ability to predict the future to say that I know what the ***** is gonna go on here and I don't trust anyone who claims that they do because I'm sorry we're all we all have that dunning-kruger effect somewhere in us because you cannot fully know your own biases and you can't know things you don't know you can't know you you can't always know that there are things you don't know as Donald Rumsfeld said and he was right like that the thing he said was very accurate 0:45:33 but it's just he was just but some of us it's too late I think you can say pretty definitively it's too late to prevent a century of catastrophes but there are degrees of catastrophe you know like the crisis of the third century is different than you know the Justinian plague is different than like the Mongol invasions of you know like there are periods of dislocation and and warfare you know but like all right what about compare like Ireland in the 70s the troubles like you could say that that was a period of prolonged social crisis was a lot of misery compare that to I don't know Persia 0:46:34 during the during the Mongol invasion you know the thing where they wiped out maybe 90% of the population there are degrees here and they could be they could be shaped only in the moment that they occur because the conditions obtained then and they don't obtain now and we can only prepare you can only Christopher Hill someone asked about Christopher Hill as the Marxist historian yeah he's really good he wrote a book about that I read about Oliver Cromwell as like a you know proto bushwa yes Ellen Ellen metal skins wood is also very good and of course Hobbs 0:47:37 Bob if you want to do European history 19th 20th century European history you gotta go with Hobbes Bob you're gonna come in here and you're gonna be quoting Hobbes Bob on me age of extremes yeah CLR James also very good come on Cedric Robinson excellent yeah these guys got it all covered everyone they're saying it's pretty good I wouldn't call Tony Judt a Marxist but he's he has a very good handle on the shifting political economy of Europe ooh somebody asks a very interesting counterfactual I was actually talking to Brendan about this the other day counter of fact I think one of the think it'd be fun to you could do kind of an experiment with counterfactuals where most of the big ones that people talk about you can reason out in your head how oh it wouldn't change things how much because at the end of the day events individual events cannot they have a spot they have a butterfly effect okay and they create a pattern of randomness but individual discrete events for the 0:48:38 most part can't shift things if there isn't the necessary conditions for them to take the cultural conditions if they're not there that it will be overwhelmed by the flow just the stultifying reality of the existing institutions but the ones that are really interesting then the counterfactuals are very interesting are the ones where you have more of a fluid situation and the henry wallace nomination is one of those things were that could have actually very easily happened and if it had in the fluid moment of post-world War two when you had like the I mean the Democratic Party had gone from being like a Twilight Struggle at the beginning of the of FDR's administration the the the Democratic Party started out in a war between East Coast progressive types neo progressives and southern reactionaries and that was and that battle was demonstrated by the ticket FDR eastern elite liberal whose New York governorship 0:49:41 had been a laboratory of New Deal stuff that would become a new policies and John Nance Garner of Texas a old-school southern Democrat and everything that presented pork ball pork barrel politics plus good old-fashioned white supremacy and also isolationist politics because of that narrow-minded focus of local conservatism I told you about and by the end of the administration it was sort of a civil war at least before a Truman got in there it was a civil war between the East Coast elites guys and ***** communists actual communists who were representing ended up being represented in the people who ran the Henry Wallace campaign for the third-party campaign in 1948 which wouldn't be necessary if by just a few quirks of history he'd ended up being vice president when FDR died which absolutely could have happened 0:50:44 and that's like yeah of course we don't have an institution we don't have we don't have anything like the institutions to accept communist rule in America and I would say no not out front not outwardly but I think you had enough genuine left-wing mobile internally mobilized organizational energy within the government and within the labor movement that you could have had the kind of a genuine entry ISM but Truman being president really helped slam the door on that and you imagine like he dies maybe he dies before FDR because before before the end of the third term 0:51:45 hard to imagine him losing re-election in 44 before there had been any chance for conservatism to pick up the pieces and start you know assembly assembling the the the cultural because at that point culture was still saying that the Soviets were the good guys and it had to because it was so the war was on and was only after the war was over that we were able to have that cultural that Mighty Wurlitzer of consent manufacturing turned against communism and against the Russians so there wouldn't have been cultural antibodies to fight it off it's hard to think I don't know it's such a big change that it's hard to really think how it could have actually played out I mean a lot of people say it would have prevented the Cold War and I think that I mean since since the Cold War was almost entirely imposed by the United States on a isolationist looking Soviet Union that had no real interest in brinkmanship which they proved in ***** Greece by letting the entire the whole Greek left out to dry to 0:52:46 get ***** rounded up and massacred by the monarchists in the British that was where the split from you Tito happen is because Tito was like what the ***** are you doing this is another this is a front of the global revolution and Stalin's like yeah I'm trying to secure my borders here I'm trying them this shit's chest and ***** it ain't checkers

CUSHVLOG 45. VIBES AT MIDNIGHT

that was basically this is a good question Matt Trump or Biden will leave less blood on your hands guess what it doesn't matter I don't think this has been emphasized enough we all people like to say what difference does it make when you vote in a swing state I would argue that from a metaphysical perspective no vote anywhere matters no individual vote anywhere matters it's the principle of the ***** Avalanche and the the snowflake it is a it is a moral the results of an election are a moral avalanche the crash on upon all of us an individual vote is an individual snowflake that lands on your finger morally it's like it's barely anything and so I think people really should 0:53:49 more embrace that idea not don't vote but don't put anything behind your vote not psychically important and the reason that's important is because that's where the whole argument against an electoral ism holds sway it's not necessarily that oh you know that there's some choice between elections and grassroots activism it's that elections if they are pursued with passion do divert because they take away your energy you commit yourself psychically to voting as a principle and then you do things like volunteer for a candidate or go online and argue about which candidate you support and that leaves you with less mana less anima less juice songs less orgone to direct towards a different campaign that doesn't mean don't vote it means know that you're just going in there and voting and the thing is is the more stuff you do in your real life about your politics the more organizing you do with your labor with 0:54:50 like trying to form a union or trying to help the Union you have or organizing for a union or organizing protests organizing tenants or associations organizing any kind of any kind of ***** connective tissue building any social repair and he's repairing of the social net you're gonna find that you're not going to not want to vote maybe you like voting I like voting but you're not going to think about it that much and you're gonna go in there and press the button you're gonna leave because you're connected people who sweat over their vote and turn it into a talisman turning in to the soul defining feature of their worth as a person Trump voter Obama I voted for Obama these things meaning anything that isn't because it's the only political action you carry out so it has to have all the meaning attached to it so it doesn't matter who you vote for anywhere I'll probably write it in Bernie but once I'm in there all bets are off because it's it's blowing away an eyelash if you feel like you're contributing 0:55:51 politically somewhere else because it will feel fake if you just if you just say I'm voting doesn't matter but you don't do anything else you're still posting online all the time about Biden guess what buddy you don't actually think that if you actually thought that you'd be doing something else see I got people in my in my freaking men she's making an argument for a person it doesn't matter its tears in the rain it doesn't ***** matter right in snuffleupagus I wrote didn't drill in 2016 maybe I'll do it again I'm just gonna vote for the Harper's letter that's gonna be who I'm gonna vote for just write it in right there yeah alright in Matthew Iglesias there you go a 0:57:0 guy I I mean I don't hate him anymore I just pity him I really pity him and I realize why it's because I realized why he's so loathsome in such a toad boy it's because he's miserable every moment of his life because everyone in his life is essentially his coworker his Coast stakeholder he does not have friends everyone he has all have all of everyone he knows in his life is essentially a co-worker they're all in this big ***** coffee room together and they're all coworkers and that's why a lot of these media people are liberal because they don't have friends they only have co-workers and we have colleagues the most bloodless reptilian word imaginable colleagues and what that means that you can never be really ever comfortable around them because you know that at the end of the day there's stranger and that means that they're gonna put their interests above yours with a friend you know that no matter what 0:58:1 you do there's gonna be self-interest you know with anyone but there's also gonna be concern for you and there's people gonna be willing to sacrifice for you and that's I think that's why I pity him is because I realized oh like I don't really have I don't have colleagues I mean I don't want to sound like Dom Toretto too much here but I don't got colleagues I don't got co-workers I got family and I think it's because the different models we live in like we are like I said we're pre-capitalist artisans podcasters who are directly paid for by their listeners our artisans as I've said so we have the relationship of artisans like not are not artisan apprentice guys to get like guild members together like in a set like one of those really solid guilds where they like get hammered every night and they you know lead a procession through the town and throw a feast and then dedicate a dedicate like tours at the Cathedral and like 0:59:3 run for Town Council and become burgers the dudes guild exactly so we are friends in our Lycan family in that way but because Iglesias has it race the pursuit like he ran towards establishment he ran towards establishment validation just like a lemming like just barreling across the tundra I spin pinpointed just pinned out dedicated and now he's here congratulations you won the media game and what is media in the 21st century it is going online and selling yourself and selling your takes and in a giant online office with everybody where everybody it all conversation is conducted over the ***** water cooler that's it and so all of those HR rules and all of that enforced 1:0:5 alienation from each other that caught the culture that makes office life amenable to socialism and amenable to socialist radicalism and radical and organizing because every ritual of it is alienating and one of the big ones is you can't really lever let your guard down because somebody will cut your ***** throat and I everyone I could I don't do that like I'm not online building myself up that way because I don't have to I don't have ***** shareholders to to answer to I don't have Vox shareholders to answer to I don't have Coast stakeholder Ezra Klein to answer to I don't have to go out see like a deliverables conference over this and so I I don't have to I don't have to feel anxious when I'm actually interacting with my friends who are my colleagues technically but like I said like guild member guild members so that's why I can't I used to hate iglesias absolutely oh god when I was like a takes I was an impotent 1:1:6 cloudless take Smith I hated him but now that I've like kind of become his peer in media anyway you know in terms of someone who's like on a certain platform in the discourse and taken like the other path I can look across the chasm and all I have to I can only pity him but I hated him when I was more frustrated when I wanted what he had I hated him but now that I know that that would have been a poisoned chalice I can't hate him anymore yeah I would love to get Guild's back but not like not it not as labour exploitation vehicles is what they became of course you know the way they exploited apprentices and and limited labor pool limited access I know 1:2:7 I'm sure I try to not hate anybody anymore I know I get I kind of like head up about people being willfully obtuse you know I'll still yell from time to time because it's instinctive but I can't hate the people anymore certainly the media people because none of them individually are even really doing anything bad enough to warrant a real moral reckoning you know it's the snowflakes in the ***** or avalanche thing again you can't it's more it's more morally weighty than voting but it's not that much you're still just grinding out takes in the take mill how bad could you be you know and that doesn't go for that and of course that that that level of of empathy is then not as much that you would extend to somebody in say Judith Miller's position you know or somebody who actively produced propaganda that had adverse effects in the real world and then you know political leaders get even less business leaders get even less but there has to be a baseline everything for everybody all right one 1:3:12 more question then I'm even lizards like Bezos I mean the whole lizard thesis is that you become less human as you become more powerful and I think that's true you armor yourself against your fellow people you arm you delude yourself further and further into believing that you are an isolated consciousness and that you're not part of any greater being and that's a delusion you're driving yourself insane you're turning yourself into a lizard and you're sandblasting your own ***** half of your brain's ability to perceive the world because these things are perceptible these things the connection is not isn't it doesn't it's not entirely built intellectually that comes after it becomes it comes after you are overwhelmed by the by the experience of oneness with others and he's never felt that and if he has he fights it off ferociously and that makes him miserable and that's where the empathy comes in because I 1:4:14 know that Bezos is ***** miserable I mean he might still be deluding himself into thinking that he's gonna inject his body to a robot but like one of these days the whole thing's gonna fall apart even if it's a hundred years from now and then he will die and go to hell not in terms of actually burning in her soul or anything but his last moments will stretch into an anyway spreading love guys spread love bye-bye

Grill Stream Two - Smmmmmmmmokin!

07.15.20

um hi guys uh today i have nothing i have no agenda i have no takes i don't have any bombs to throw i'm just very excited to show you guys my next level of grilling i've been grilling up a storm this uh early summer been doing mostly delicious blizzies 0:1:1 but also hamburgers steaks i had will over here to do a beer can chicken but you know oh that man's reach should exceed his grasp for what is the heaven for i decided even though i am a grilling neophyte that i'm gonna try to smoke pork shoulder that's right i've had this puppy on all afternoon uh i've got the gang coming over in a bit to eat it but in the interim i got it on there low and slow i have no idea if it's working i do have a meat thermometer so i'm not going to kill anybody and i have backup glizzies if it doesn't work and also we can go there's a store open still if i know but i think it might work and will has told me that if it's taking too long you can always put it in the oven at the end so for now though i want to try it i want to make a good 0:2:3 faith effort to try to smoke this bad boy and in a bit i'll show you what he looks like because i'm gonna have to spritz him with the uh with the apple cider uh soy sauce combo so you're gonna take a look and i gotta say uh even if this is a disaster it's gonna look good on the stream because it looks real good right now in my opinion the skin is getting it's got the crackle it's looking great uh but yeah no not making any promises i actually get it done but that's what i've been saying about this it's all about the experience i've had a lot of fun tinkering with this trying to get the the right amount of fire it's engaged me uh kept me grounded uh made me not feel that anxiety that ennui that restless torpor that is the dominant mindset of the idol late century nietzsche and last man or woman it casts it aside because i am i'm so 0:3:4 in a little bit here i'm trying to wait maybe another 15 minutes i'm going to try to i'm going to open her up i'm going to spritz her down you can take a look you can take a look i think it's gonna be good uh the marinade uh it's not a marinade it's a rub and it's uh will's blend actually uh and it's proprietary and it's delicious he's uh he's a great great great griller way better than me was final days the nixon movie i'm always ranting about oh no no the ***** the nixon movie i am always ranting about is secret honor it's a one-man show starring philip baker hall as a consumed 0:4:5

completely by shame it's great performance directed by robert altman as a student project at the university of michigan i think it's a tremendous movie and it gets at nixon's psyche i think better than anything because uh i was talking about like nixon's with somebody recently and about how like the rare really good ones philip aker hall is one of them but there's a couple more i'll try to think of it is that the thing that gets you from an impression to actual embodiment of nixon is is there's like an extra register of because he's very tight right he's very hunched he's very stressed he's armored in the reiki incense uh but he reaches a level of exasperation and anger where he kind of cuts through like the quaker waspy sort of social buffering is cut through with just this lightning bolt god love him but langella although i really like 0:5:7 that movie he doesn't do it he kind of he teases it but he never really hits the hits the note and i don't i don't know if uh if i could ever say that uh i'd have to watch it again but i don't really remember uh what's his name anthony hopkins doing it in nixon either and i'll tell you right now kevin spacey sure ***** didn't figure it out uh in that elvis versus elvis meets nixon movie he made with michael shannon did you know that there are two movies made about the one time that elvis met nixon how is that that interesting how is that worth one movie oh yeah this uh this insanely drugged out megalomaniacal uh we're a hillbilly millionaire recording artist has a weird idea that he's gonna become a drug enforcement agent probably so he can score the best uh downers in town wants to get like a federal firearm since it goes 0:6:8 to see the nixon and it's like it was a five minute photo up and there's a photograph of it and that's who gives a ***** who gives a ***** nothing interesting about it and yet they made a a movie with bob gunton uh as nixon in a showtime original in the 90s i forgot who played elvis in that one does anyone remember has anyone seen that and then a few years ago before it all fell apart for kevin spacey he did one for theatrical release with michael shannon as uh as elvis and of course i've seen both of these you know i'm complaining about this horse ***** and yet i have to watch it because screen nixon's are compulsive to me i have to see if there's one out there i'm eventually going to find it out because i find it fascinating like john cusack for god's sake blake nixon in the butler but spacey wasn't very good and shannon wasn't very good honestly and i love i was i said on twitter that i was bummed that 0:7:10 this uh john brown show on showtime is starring ethan hawk instead of willem dafoe i actually retract that i think the best guy who could have possibly played uh john brown was would be uh would be michael shannon but i gotta say i have a hunch about this movie i have a hunch about this movie uh or the the showtime series like from the voiceover and the c in the trailer it looks like it's trying to be funny which means that it's trying to be like uh a contemporary gloss on the historical moment right like oh john brown and those guys well what did what what was it really like

and then it's it's sort of like that whole genre of you know like what if oh what if jane austen had a twitter account it's trying to contemporize a historical moment and i think that that's sometimes very useful and can be uh invigorating and like reverse sort of state expectations uh i think in this case it's i mean this is the first cinematic john brown we've seen since what uh ***** van heflin in the santa fe trail 0:8:12 where he's an insane maniac and ronald reagan who plays george custer and then his best buddy jeb stewart have to go uh stop him from raiding harper's ferry and the fact that now we're getting a essentially soifed a a contemporized meaning civilized meaning desacralized meaning disenchanting john brown and i think that the only movie about john brown that could be interesting is one that took his religious faith seriously the same way that the only kind of movie that would make be interesting about nat turner would be one that took his religious faith seriously like with the way that the witch you know that movie the witch the whole what's great about the witch is the witch it tries to answer the question what was it like to be a puritan because and that's why the witch is real and it's never a question that the witch is real which is established as real as almost in the beginning of the movie because to them the riches were real satan was real you're going to go in there and be like 0:9:13 oh well look at these idiots this is you know oh they're clearly they've got scrafula and they think it's the touch of the devil what's the point of that we know how we feel about this ***** what's interesting artistically is imagining what they were feeling about it and so i would want to see a non-jokey john brown a john brown that took that that was for the point of view of a character who had genuine world-shattering faith in the righteousness of his cause and that implies like a supernatural uh uh a mysticism a spiritual dimension that contemporary culture lacks completely and anything made with temporary contemporary culture in mind is going to be uh fraudulent and of course that attempt would fail you know we're trying we would be making that movie there would be a degree of condescension but maybe with condescension and the passage of time there is a deepening of understanding and you're able to tease out layers of empathy that you wouldn't be able to get making 0:10:14 all right about five minutes guys i'm going to open her up and let you see what she's looking like and you can hear the sizzle as the as i hit that puppy with my well the horniest founding father is pretty well established to be benjamin franklin right there's no real competition there the man was a uh profligate hornball and in fact he was a member of the hellfire club which is a group of upper-class perverts uh in england who would do uh black masses basically that involved mass orgyastic desecration of of prostitutes dressed as nuns and he was uh it's a cornerstone of 0:11:15 like q lore that and and really like all that ***** franklin credit union that that whole like vein of conspiracy that uh the house that franklin lived in when he was on diplomatic mission and when he was inducted into the hellfire club was found a number of years ago to have a collection of human bones so yeah one way or another it was franklin to one degree some degree or another he was worshiping his own his own i'm going to read ulysses i think i need to read a couple more a couple more big novels right now i'm stuck i got caught by reagan land it's consumed me it's so good and it's when i'm done with that i think i might actually read russell banks's uh uh 0:12:17 uh cloud splitter which is a big fat book about john brown not the book that they based the uh the snow show on uh and maybe that'll give me some of that maybe that yes i have red vincent bevin's book it's great uh apparently it's sold really well uh which i hope to think we had something to do with but then it was sold too well they sold out the first run and it took them forever to do another printing so if you can't get it hold on it will be back in stock oh man i didn't know they did a dollop on sean brown oh that's that that's going to be fantastic i all right guys you guys ready to take a look all right all right gang gang gang here **Music playing** donna 0:13:27 see that hear that sizzle you hear that yeah let's get a quick okay it looks like it's on schedule skill gonna have a bit more like maybe maybe i think a couple hours uh but yeah i think she's got a couple yeah the heat's coming off so if it doesn't work 0:14:28 that's fine i've got hot dogs i've got hot dogs i've got hamburgers life will go on and i will have learned from my mistake what can i tell you folks i'm a grower not a shower uh i've got a hoisin sauce that i'm very excited about with some garlic in there a little hot little uh little pepper for heat um i like the i like the uh i just have some watermelon nobody ever wants sides when i come over here oh no someone 0:15:30 wants me to explain dialectics as though they were a child i guess i would simply they say this most systems of analysis in the west certainly capitalism certainly like the way uh rationalism as we understand it uh certainly like the every ideology that undergirds the providing ideology of the moment uh considers things in one or the other states but never at the same time they know they do not contextualize events in time which means the three-dimensionality of the thing the fact that something is 0:16:31 the way it is because of preceding precedence uh you can a lot of people will will sort of grant the truth of that statement but it does not inform their actual thinking uh and when you think that way what you end up doing is you end up grinding space against time in a process that is essentially uh the persistent conflict of opposites until you resolve a remainder that's the dialect that's the dialectic that's the engine of history like in the liberal conception of history we are all powered by little individual batteries of soul or spirit unmoved movers the things that make me do what we do societies ideas cultures systems are built by self-imposing will on the world dialectical 0:17:32 materialism says no people are humans are formed by the resolution of opposites and then they work in the world by resolving opposites there is no unmoved mover it's

just the flickering it's the kinetic flickering of of energy through history i hope that makes some sense and it's the resolving of those contradictions that the dialectical contradictions in the process of resolving them you leave a new thing that is part of both but different from either and it isn't so it's never a question of one proposition or another being correct every proposition basically certainly in sciences and certainly in social sciences is correct the question is is it correct in this context is it a tool that works on this machine not it's true or false it's always true but is it true now 0:18:36 and i'm sad like it's very hard for people to get this because we don't teach it that way we teach the idea that there's a right and a wrong answer to things and wrong things are like in a bucket of wrongness that they can never be rescued from and they get rejected and then you leave the that you leave the ***** that you need for your ***** to create the third thing you'd throw it away and that's why it's so hard for people to think about this stuff that's why so much political discord discussion ends up becoming a sterile moralistic argument like there's a moral there are moral claims and material claims in every situation and the presiding ones from the standpoint of wanting to change them are the are the practical ones the moral ones are secondary the moral ones are just a reflection of the conditions and they can only be changed by addressing the conditions you can't address them at the level of of uh of of of morality of at the at the spiritual level at the symbolic abstracted level and that's what we all do like uh like everyone's screaming about like if cops are good all cops are good 0:19:37 or bad or not it's like okay maybe they are they probably are you can make a moral argument that they inherently are does that matter though not necessarily not if you're in the position of trying to negotiate yourself towards a meaningful change in the situation a meaningful change in the material reality that is destroying the world and destroying all of us in it if that's your consideration then you have to ask well what usefulness is this truth as a motivator of action it's good but is it something to insist on to everybody in the face of the need to create a broad as pro brought a possible coalition of people to not just believe a certain thing but that's the primary issue and everything has to be folded into that and online makes it possible for people to say that they can have their cake for dinner and that they can have their purely moralistic argument that keeps them purified that sanctifies them because it keeps puts them on the right side of history where they you can fan that's the only place 0:20:38 that you can convince yourself that you're not actively hindering things and making things harder no actually i'm doing the good thing it's because you're not engaging both and the thing to remember is that when i say the the thesis and the antithesis are coming together remember those two are both synthesis themselves everything is a synthesis but then eventually it they the the motion of of time of space going through time and vice versa shapes things the stochastic eruption of butterfly-like events shape those systems and change them and it's the degree to which humans can get into that process and will things in one or another directions that ma that counts that's the only thing that counts that's why mark said before today philosophy uh 0:21:39 was about describing the world the point is to change it he said we want something different than the old idealistic argumentation that tries to create this category of how things should be without any consideration of turning it into reality but we because the internet allows us to fly to the abstracted levels as possible as quick as possible on on digital wings we've all forgotten that truth and are like no actually the point is to describe it as as just as detailedly as possible and make people feel a certain way about that by reading me the idea being that like there's going to be some spontaneous uh transcendent enlightenment because a bunch of people read the same argument at the same time that's that's liberal that assumes that these things are kindled in people's hearts that you have a change of opinion no you are pushed in one direction or another by the flow and ebb of time it's like the boat's floating and you and it's gonna go towards one or another port the good one or the bad one and 0:22:40 you're behind it blowing on the ***** trying to get it to go in the right direction and that's all we can do but instead we're describing the ***** boat and we're explaining where it's going on i'm not using this person's saying am i is it wrong to say that we need to get rid of the ego because uh it's a war against between ego and id i don't mean ego in the in the in the freudian sense i mean like the conception of oneself as having a separateness being separate from everything that's what an ego is and it is just part of that and it is an expression of that of the phenomenon of being 0:23:42 that kind of being it's the pure uh uh you know impulse the closest to the gangly impossible urges that satisfy that satiated us against the the nightmare horror and pain of being alive it's it's our opium it's the the it is scrambling for the nearest provision for some level of relief from the terrifying discomfort of being alive but if you don't have an ego or you are able to tame the ego there's nothing to defend there's nothing that needs to be soothed there's no fear or there's less fear and there's less fear of pain and there's less fear of death because there's less sensation of these those things as having value there's less there's less you put less emotion behind the idea of being in discomfort because and it and reduces your fear of being dead what is being dead being dead is just to be renewed to be returned to the flow my my 0:24:44 separate from is entirely illusory and if you have that then that id can't be used as a ***** uh as as the as the marionette strings by capital to what is my take on kanye's presidential bid i didn't say a word about it because i thought this isn't real and then people i saw for weeks took the stitch seriously enough that you had libs like doing songs about how pissed off they were at kanye and like chance the rapper is going off on a whole thing about whether kanye would be good for like how did none

are you people like lobotomizing yourselves so that you could be interested in the news that you care about like is it so boring and and predictable in reality that you have to hypnotize yourself and into removing a crucial like uh part of your brain no 0:25:46 he wasn't ready for president he if he was if you want to run for president without a ballot line from a party that already has access to a ballot you have to get uh signatures that vary a number from thousands to tens of thousands in all the states that you would need to cobble together the requisite electoral votes for it to even be a possibility for you to win but even to do it in one state would be an incredible lift this late in the ***** camp election this close to november in a ***** pandemic you guys got an album coming out his entire career him having the maga hat him doing this him marrying kim kardashian him becoming a cult leader they're all just branding because he is at the level where his his branding is his ideology like he he is so so fully absorbed the idea that he is a singular genius that the propagation of his genius and the awareness of genius is his evangelicalism that is he is evangel his evangel is himself because he's fully assimilated the notion that he is the the god of 0:26:47
the universe and the most and the most intelligent being in it and the thing is it's very easy to do that if you're spinning at a high enough frequency i mean i felt that too because the thing is if god is as i think it is all consciousnesses that ever will or have existed that means that every one of us contains with it you know if you know like in a fractal the same thing so we all technically because we you know have access to the collective unconscious that that is synoquinon with god means we technically are god too and we could you can convince yourself well everyone's god i understand but i'm better at being god than anyone else so i should be and that's i mean and when you have that and the thing is the thing that stops you from taking that too far is having limits bumping against the material reality and when you're a billionaire ***** celebrity that doesn't exist and it'll just drive you to the event horizon of so 0:27:53 yeah of course he wasn't ***** running for president i don't just i don't it's just i think people were they have to have been bored but how can you be bored right now my god everything on earth is happening and you need to care about ***** kanye west you need to care about the letter have the same conversations and the same arguments you've been having against the same people for five years now without any variance in any of it without any single word exchanging being any different without any argument changing without any minds being changed it's like you're caught in the in a net in a maze and and you have you've solved all the puzzles so you have to take the stickers uh it's someone's asked what i'm grilling we're smoking a pork 0:28:59 shoulder i'm not sure it's gonna work but i uh like i said it doesn't matter if one way or the other we'll all be here we'll have fun am i a dud or an ernie that's good that's a lot of 49 question oh man i think i'm like i'm benjamin buttoning because i feel like i was ernie for many years weird okay i would like to actually talk about this so 0:30:6 apparently some weirdo trad cath guy found a tape for me when i did like a ***** periscope from my apartment in cincinnati this has got to be four and it's like a clip of me saying how much i hate some group them because they're trying to make the world worse for people and the the guy the guy just said they he he wants us dead and i think people i it just shows like the the amazing way that that the speed of twitter is such that there are so many syntactic leaps that you make instantaneously like just analyzing a thing you immediately figure out like what the meme format is what the s what the what the surface uh meaning is what the underlying meaning is uh and uh based on who said it and what memes they used and of course the thing is 0:31:8 it's entirely wrong you're you're diluting yourself into thinking you're figuring it out but you need to have some episteme you need to have some way to filter everything so but that's why people end up making insanely bad idea of conclusions and just being baffling to me like so it's just that they and someone i guess just because that guy's catholic everyone thought that meant catholics or even more specifically trad cats i was talking specifically about ***** ross dalton and like if i broadened that to uh like his type of conservative i was talking about the people who were the influencers who were trying to delude people into thinking that there was some way to tame capitalism through christianity it's the idea that yeah i'm unlike previous generations of right-wing christians i will admit that capitalism is actually kind of incompatible with our values previous generation the guys who made the modern conservative movement and that made uh uh uh american religiosity now in the in 0:32:10 the latter in the in the early 21st century they uh absolutely 100 thought that uh capitalism was inextricably linked to uh the to christianity because in the market one could express only in the market could one be free to express oneself from the heart only in the market could one freely live as a christian because the market facilitates all transactions uh now we've had enough years to know that that doesn't work that that's that's the ***** wheels are off of that thing and some people are still doubling down and being delusional about it but there's a leading edge of conservatives who are like all right let's let's try to like tame this beast by acknowledging the capitalism is in fact destabilizing but convince them that the application of christianity at us at a at the level of policy uh i mean yeah they talk about reform but it's very very mild ***** it's it's all just like tamp down the worst of the inequality but do nothing to deal with the accelerating rate of it uh mostly though you want to create a civic 0:33:11 a civic uh architecture to support faith basically just it's it's it's neoliberalism for uh christianity like give them some tax credits give them some ***** uh health shirt and insurance savings accounts or something like it's means tested it's like let's get let's let's just do the nudge but for uh christian values and that's the flimflam that's

the ***** scam and that's not that's to be contemptible that is gross but i mean i would not say i hate people now like one thing i think i'm genuinely different i'm a different person now and we all are everyone changes it's just a question of how much how perceptively and whether good or bad change i think that i have changed significantly i think i've changed significantly for the better i would not say broadly i would hate anybody but even because i feel like everyone could be empathized to one degree or another because they're humans like us and they did not choose to live how or when they did they their their reactions are so limited by the happenstance 0:34:12 and the randomness of the universe that it's hard to blame them individually in fact you can't really blame them individually but you have to acknowledge friends and enemies in the public sphere to be able to fight and you need to put energy behind that and sometimes that translates into personal distaste and i think that needs to be acknowledged as necessary fuel but just remember remind yourself that it is just that that it doesn't reflect a greater truth a greater existential judgment of them they're just they're god's creatures just like you they are god just like you they're they're as helpless and tossed by time and space as the rest of us but even that i would say guys like douthit at the doubted level the puppet master these ***** cynical uh christianity pimps i do have distaste for them i don't want to wish them physical harm but i do distaste for them because they do bad they use the they they manipulate genuine human yearnings for freedom from the alienation of 0:35:13 of this materialist hell that we've created from capitalism and they just cynically fuse that to the ***** machine that's been creating it it's like those environmental it's like environmental activists who secretly take money from like ***** uh exxon or something to to endorse their like clean energy initiatives it's it's it's moral it's laundering immoral uh politics it's wandering in the immoral economic system that you're propping up boo see they're saying see it's just someone saying reimposing christianity if you could do it it might inhibit the flow but you can't what is the plan 0:36:16 to actually make people believe the ***** state enforcement doesn't do it the most hegemonically catholic countries in europe historically the ones where this religion was most thoroughly pushed on the people from above are the most atheistic because it's alienating you can't do it it's not that the goal is necessarily evil it's that it won't work and if you don't know that i guess like you're ignorant and i should give you some sympathy for being a dumbass but i think a lot of these ***** what i'm saying when i say that we need spirituality to infuse the new left and it absolutely has to happen it's going to be the sinews it's going to be the nervous system it's going to be the the electrical impulse system of whatever movement we create it's going to not be any of these old any of this old ***** it's not going to be cosplay catholicism it's not going to be evangelicalism uh it's not going to be some new age ***** it's 0:37:18 going to be i don't even know what it's going to be because it's so emergent yet it hasn't emerged but it's necessary and it's going to be syncretic so attempts to like demand that it fits some category it's like all you're going to do is justify you're going to you're going to endorse the state capital fusion to the degree gives you the gun of culture and then you can wave the gunner culture around and force people to do what you want but guess what you'll never win their hearts you'll never convince them and culture will continue to drift away from you and then you will blame them and then so right now let's focus on the reality of what's going on how about we focus on the the fact of the 30 million perhaps people being kicked out of their homes at the end of the ***** month how about that how about the fact that we've got 150 000 people dead and maybe another million coming all of them pulled from the most vulnerable parts of society because we got to keep the ***** bloody wheels of 0:38:19 this ***** disgusting machine slicked with blood how about we talk about that and honestly if you can't acknowledge the the the emergency right now if you can't emer the actual absolute uh vitality of this moment if you can't if that won't convince you that maybe your thing that you care about even if it matters might matter more to you morally than to the moment and that's why i can't say one way or the other whether i think we can really get our way out of this because i don't know how people are going to respond as the crisis deepens i don't know if they go inward or they turn outward and everything all our incentive structures to turn inward and that's what's that's what makes me less optimistic but i'm more optimistic because i recognize my own ***** failings that i am i don't know everything i don't know what's going on really i only have a little keyhole peak into the world at any given moment i'm piecing things together from ***** scraps and on my cons and my like 0:39:21 uh my my rasio nation is is larded with personal uh uh prejudices biases and uh and perversions that i don't even know are there that are layered in deeply at the subconscious level a level that i have no way of accessing at this point in my life right now of course i don't know what's going on and times change everything and so how can i say with any certainty that oh i'm black-pilled i am so black-filled really wow you're the one guy who knows what's going on is the one person who isn't piecing ***** together mostly from sugar packets you're the first one i've met then if no no you still someone's asking if getting rid of pain means getting rid of joy you can't 0:40:22 get rid of pain nor should you because joy is is life can be joy if that's what you give value to you won't not experience either but only one of them will will resonate you can like pick the frequency to make it so that pain is not painful because you can contextualize it away uh suffering can be soothed by your mind not by trying to soothe it in the way that your your your reptile brain wants you to by flitting about and and trying to seek uh unsustainable physical pleasure uh or soothing through

through consumption or anything or through emotional uh catharsis thanks to the internet that those things will eventually that's never going to get you where you need to go but you can soothe internally by contextualizing all your pain and then when good things happen you can just feel them you can just feel the thing you can feel the sunshine and not get the sunburn because you're transparent you can become transparent at a moment's notice that's mindfulness i'm certainly not there i'm not even close but i'm on the journey i'm reading the books i'm doing the the daily meditation i think that i am i feel remarkably uh even keeled and at peace considering how things have only gotten way way worse and more uh more volatile since the beginning of quarantine and i feel a million times better i was miserable at the beginning of quarantine in a way that i couldn't even articulate to myself and now when all the sort of worst case scenarios i imagined and kind of assumed would happen in in uh april are now all coming true i am less nervous about it than ever because i'm less i'm less uh tightly holding on to this architecture of self-soothing but it's certainly tenuous and i could definitely fall off the beam at any moment but what makes that not anxiety producing is knowing that i know what to keep doing at any point that i fall i can just recognize myself falling and and i'm not saying that whatever i'm talking about is the synthesis this like i am the prophet of the new thing absolutely not i'm far too limited i i my experience is far too uh individuated to ever have that kind of ability i'm really like talking out loud about what i think will happen and if i have any effect on it it will be it will be that whole snowflake and that's how i try to like remind myself that's how i can avoid becoming kanye you know it's just knowing how absolutely limited my perspective is even though it's touching on to the entire gossamer fabric of reality at any given moment i am just is there anywhere i'd like to travel outside the u.s i've never been uh **Music playing** i get yeah i think everywhere i haven't been i have some sort of i can't think of anything that really sticks out is something that i really really yearn to see though i would like to go to japan just to see like the future while it still exists before but of course the joke is as an american i will not be allowed out of the country for a good couple of years and i have to say i there is a a cheap but beautiful irony all right about um the fact that the trump administration began and i know every liv on earth has pointed this out but it is such a just perfect rod sterling level bit of ironic reversal that trump came into office and his first year was entirely consumed with questions of keeping people outside of the united states trying to get in mexicans illegal immigrants of any kind illegal aliens whatever they wanted to slander them with uh and muslims and now his term is ending with amer the american passport gaining you access to like 21 countries down from 180 or whatever we're actually we're not allowed on most of the countries in the world that's just the perfect karmic

boomerang it's too it's too uh tidy and neat which of course is what's so unnerving about this moment like at every moment that the the the uncanny feeling of this era is reality becoming uh the joke reality reality conforming to the exact structure of a joke that's that's like chilling it's like oh like reality is interceding it's going beyond it's breaking through the imaginative level it's it's actually breaching the containment 0:46:31 between like our collective like unconscious and reality actual physical reality and when that fusion completely happens then we have been assimilated that's that's the the **** singularity the bad one when capitalism literally turns us into uh nodes in its neural brain we become part of the robot brain of a of an absolutely desacralized capitalism that does no longer serves humanity because uh it is no longer composed of humans humans have been reduced to pure stimulus response units pure desire and satisfaction energy input energy output that's the human part of this neural net that'll be that that'll be where we end up if capitalism of course if capitalism is stopped and we are ever able to get to a point of technological synthesis it flips 0:47:34 and we we fuse with we we breach that barrier between the imaginative between the spiritual and reality on humanity's terms on the terms of a fully self-aware uh species being that is as unified as like a using technology to to achieve oneness to arrive at nirvana heaven or hell socialism or barbarism all of it meaning the same thing the end state of transcendence where all humans have been stripped of anything that makes them such and turned into cogs of pure desire all their least their least noble elements just squeezing out of them like a toothpaste tube or where all the best all the best remaining all the best synthetic goo remaining from squeezing all the flesh 0:48:35 out of the human race we'll be we'll be will be what we consecrate that would be heaven i hope that oh boy i hope that made sense that's i got pretty uh pretty the food is still going to take a while uh it's it's going to take a bit because it's boric i think it's got to get to 190. in fact uh give me a second i'm going to go uh i'm going to check i'm going to check so **Music playing** she's coming along nicely 0:50:24 oh wait a minute it's not 190 what's it supposed to be what what is what is the thing i thought someone tell me it's not anywhere near there yet so i'm fine it's not like i'm going over overcooked i just need to know so it is 169 oh you 165 if it's 165 i'm on perfect glide path to success if it's 1565 i think it's gonna happen gang what but people say 145. all right i'm going 165 because that's what i'm on a good path for i'm ignoring all other advice but thank you for giving me that i'm very excited besides will's coming and he'll know too i'm just trying to before he gets here i'm 0:51:26 trying to keep it on the good good tip to know that i'm on the good point i'm i'm on a good oh yeah it's going to be good guys we're going oh i'm not doing pulled pork i want to stipulate that i'm not doing that i don't like about pulled pork uh i want i want to yeah i want to just like get it off so i'm going 165. thank you guys

because yeah now i know the information all right oh boy okay all right what do you guys anybody have any questions i got a little bit of time left for uh for i guess to get 0:52:27 start ready for the grill the grill party what's going on doggies what's up cats and kittens anybody have any non i have not totally stopped drinking i because i used to go out a lot and i would drink a lot when i went out now even when i'm here i don't drink as much and now i'm drinking uh more color less calorically dense beverages 0:53:29 because now i'm a claw boy i love a good claw i'm so happy to have those little guys i get to feel like a real housewife's child i also chief of course i chief more yes i'm also smoking more uh of the gods of the gods chiba thank you for saying that was a good episode with uh david i thought that went really well uh i love having him on he's one of the best he gets trump culture he gets trump's mind better than anybody i think it's because of where he grew up honestly like he's a tri-state boy he's northern jersey and he grew up in in the exact in the exact shadow of trump's public persona so he's he got all that gamma radiation and uh i like the sativa of course most of the time because i don't like getting sleepy but i like to have a little bit of the old indica around if i want to make sure that i can fred trump was such a monster fred trump 0:54:30 is an evil man and that's one of those things that uh that makes you have to give compassion to everybody because you think about how awful donald had it growing up and how he had to compensate for that then you think that that means fred fred trump had the same thing nobody's the prime mover of their own evil people are passing through all the trauma of every generation before and and to touch them and we have to people have to be responsible for themselves because no one knows that no one can be aware of all the forces that shape them so they're they're still prisoners and that means they're still dangerous and they have to be corralled and they have to be stopped but judged is where we get wrong judged and then morally condemned 0:55:31 is where punishment becomes punitive when it becomes not a question of making things safer making a person less of a danger making fewer people less dangerous it becomes about punishing the person who did the thing and that creates a cycle of worsening social violence and and it's and it creates this vast pool of human misery that has to be submerged and taken off the streets like what happened with the the drop in crime in the 90s is we didn't really like eliminate crime what we did is we we legitimized crime we took a huge amount of social violence generated by our collat the collapse of our uh of our urban industrial economy we took all of that violence all that social trauma and we legalized it by turning it into mass incarceration with its attendant sadism and violence and exploitation and black markets and the creation 0:56:35 of ***** world-spanning criminal organizations like ms-13 and ***** black guerrilla family and at every level this attempt to sublimate the trauma instead of work it out creates only more horror and trauma and that's because we lost we lose sight of the social context of people's actions and that's where punitivism that's where punitive culture and that's why that's that's why you have to contextualize everyone and everyone's actions and know that you are that even though you have to act as though you have free will you know that everyone else doesn't and you don't either you just can't tell how you can't know what is making you do the thing you're doing 0:57:44 you think you're guessing and that is free will and that is also consciousness and the further you can strip down to that level that level of awareness of contextualized action and contextualized restraint the less you can feel the need to judge someone and get mad at them and want to and that's what robs the punit the the the exis the required existence at least as long as there's social trauma caused by capitalism which is going to be a while as long as you have the reality of social dysfunction coming from that you're going to have to have a system to deal with it and it's going to probably have to involve it to some level incarceration because people right now are very very messed up and traumatized and therefore violent that violence has to be contained because if it isn't you undermine the legitimacy of the project the state project you're trying to do and it won't last so you have to contain the excess trauma the the the the trauma that is reinforced by all previous generations and is 0:58:45 still being reinforced though lower levels as you're trying to reform the systems uh so you have to be able to have some a carceral state but it has to have but you know the scandinavian system is largely drained of punitive uh energy because they don't you don't you understand at a cultural level oh there's a social reason for this and of course one of the big reasons that we don't do it that way is racism because race is one of those things that mystifies our relationships to one another and we would extend a certain degree of social understanding to people that we love like the more you love someone it's really just the more you're aware of why they do what they do the closer you are to someone the more you know why they do what they do and the harder it is to get mad at them and like empathy is just extending that outward further and further and of course like the greatest transcendence would be to love everyone as you love the people closest to you because you extend that 0:59:46 understanding of their context and what made them do what they do as far out as possible if you could do that you would have transcended the emotional baggage of the desire to to punish and so in a racialized society people will extend more to their racial group and then they will not extend it to another racial group and so they blame them to for their crimes at a greater degree than they would blame their group for their crimes and so when prisons fill with them fill with these people prison conditions get worse and worse not only does that not bother you you think that's good they have it coming and a political issue becomes about how much you can punish them more take away their uh take away their gyms take away their weights

take away their museum their libraries they deserve punishment as though any of that's going to fix anything it's purely it's just more and more trauma that's going to have to be recuperated in the culture you're doing more and more damage to your own society wildly flailing but you don't recognize that because you don't recognize those people as part of the same communion the same social order and so it that's reinforced over time and that's why a multi-racial working-class movement is the only thing that can break this thing off of its moorings and the question always has to be not the morality of a discrete issue not who's right and who's wrong at the etheric plane on every discrete issue but in the moment right now what combination of truths could be arranged to put enough weight and around the effort to move the ***** wheel to to push to get momentum actually pushing things in the real world what is it i don't know where it is right now we're still floating we're like a floating kneecap just gliding on the goo but it's coming into being august is going to be a nut cutter 30 million people might be out on the does that cut through does that cut through the bias but does that cut through the ***** does that cut through the self-serving libidinal wanking i don't know i do have to wonder what would if it didn't what would it take but like i said i i accept my my spec-like ignorance of the the grander machinations of world history and accept that anything can happen and that means anything means good too we're still we're still riding the edge between that we have not foreclosed all hope and as long as that possibility exists you have to keep going there's no alternative you either go or you destroy yourself through guilt and loathing because you know you should be doing something and all right guys any other questions i'm how did i get so cute i'll never tell buh-bye

oh i love this there i am rock me like a hurricane hi guys i'm back it's cushy's world tour or i guess basement tour backyard tour rather but he never really left anywhere i'm pretty convinced that all those joey videos take place in the exact same ***** the the parking lot of the same awful giant mall and he just drives around and goes to the different places and gets a thing to eat it there he's never even left this whatever ***** county he lives in ***** joey what a fraud it was such a non-shock when i found out that he was a big trump supporter it's like really the guy whose job is to stuff himself for the cackling amusement of a bunch of rubes on youtube 0:1:3 likes donald trump i can't what would he have to see in trump what would a guy like joey's world tour have to see in common with trump that's absurd uh so the department of homeland security is just abducting people off the streets in portland huh that's happening now that's the next uh that's the next escalation that's pretty wild you gotta say that's that's and that is an escalation for sure and i'm seeing a lot of people were saying like all right this is the fascism you know the fascism we've been worrying about it's here and i mean while this is certainly an escalation in authoritarianism i think once again the word fascism kind of obscures the reality of what we're dealing with because i mean if you're just using fascism as a synoquinon for authoritarianism then fine whatever but if you're trying to describe you know the phenomenon of a christ of a terminally critical capitalism a dying capitalism trying 0:2:4 to protect itself by uh creating a a nationalist right populist movement this is an example of that this is an example of why we're actually in a scarier situation than that because i honestly think one of the reason people like to think that fascism is what we're dealing with is because it imagines that they'll get to fight it again they'll get to go in the streets like the red front fighters did they'll get to they'll get to b they'll get to put their stamp on history and say even if they win even if this is the fourth reich i i'm not gonna go down as one of those uh one of hitler's willing executioners or or one of the good germans who followed orders i'll go down there as like one of the one of the first communists to go into the ***** uh concentration camps after the night of the long knives but this is actually kind of scarier because

this isn't the cops this isn't the authorities this isn't capital sending out street thugs 0:3:6 to stop people from uh from uh protesting it's first using the existing police structure to beat down the initial excitement and enthusiasm of the the uh protesters and then as the protests kind of lost their coherence they didn't necessarily stop happening but they were no longer part of a coherent movement with coherent goals even if you know you can say oh there's there's a political track there is but at the level of like the individual i mean it doesn't seem to me there's a lot of coordination between when cities have protests or what they're demanding uh and i'm not blaming anyone for that that's the nature of protest that's the nature of politics in the late in 21st century america but what part of the reason part of the result of that is that we are then demobilized and it then what we're seeing now is they'll just grab people one by one they'll literally pull them away when they're not part of any greater group when they don't have to worry about any kind of uh consequences for doing so and then 0:4:9 have everybody individually suffer the trauma tactic i mean i'm sure a lot of these people are probably just they've probably already been let out after being questioned but the the psychological impact has already been felt they have experienced like what it would be like to be one of the disappeared in chile or argentina you know and if they're good leftists they sure shouldn't know about that uh it's like how they fake executed dostoyevsky in the gulag to scare him straight and it worked by the way which is the funny thing by turning him into an ecstatic christian but but by cutting us off from the herd one by one and traumatizing us individually in a way that won't afford us a chance to react in the moment that's how this is that's how they're gonna that's how they're going to establish whatever uh lifo capitalism is coming that's how they're gonna maintain the physical perimeter around remaining centers of capital 0:5:10 that's why we need that's why we need an organized counter movement as soon as possible and i saw this today i mean i know that we've talked about how like the question of abolishing the police and you know dealing with uh the fact that there is a genuine need for a police force to exist for monopoly to be violent for violence to be monopolized by the state for some enforcement of laws in order to maintain basic social stability under capitalism which we still live under but also the need to have a long-term vision to to end it you know those things are that's a real argument but something like dhs which is the people doing this it's not the local portland cops it's department of homeland security abolishing dhs is a ***** slam dunk that should just be an unambiguous demand because it's not necessary in any way it's just a coordinating it's just one of those ***** coordinating fusion centers for distribution 0:6:12 of authoritarian violence like they pioneered during the phoenix and that's why you know the degree to which the police have to be restr restrained and have their power reduced which is significantly disarming them is one of the big things because a lot

of these cops will quit if they don't have to get to have guns and then the ones who would join would be less insane uh and of course you know you have to worry about the whole uh you know deep affigation question but i think that could be managed uh in the context of radical uh redistribution of like securing the base of the economic structure of america removing the the winnowing horror the grinding ceaseless uh uh uh traverse on the ***** uh on the conveyor belt towards the the smashing machine from ***** temple of doom that we're actually on like diverting 0:7:13 from that will reduce a lot of that uh it'll reduce the need for policing it will reduce uh the the danger of the ex-cops left to their own devices and will make the jobs of the remaining but i mean if you're not going to abolish the policing role in society and you can't do that until capitalism is finished and i don't think anybody has a realistic plan to end capitalism in the near future you have to ask what is gonna work what's gonna what's a possible ask that can be pushed towards becoming that non-reform reform or even if you hate electoralism that thing that makes people say that's enough to fight over and join your cause which they are not enough of right now and to me that's the number one question and that's what infuriates me about 0:8:14 so much discourse is so little of it is about that so little discourse is about how to get more people it's a meta discourse on like what the perfect person to get is because it's all about embodying an ideal type and then measuring people against that but they're not there yet so they don't have the markers you're looking for but that doesn't mean that they're inherently on the wrong side that doesn't mean that they have bad faith that means that they have not imbibed whatever you're trying to sell and that means you have to make it in some way something they would want to try it can't just be tonic of of uh of of guilt and and taking responsibility and all that ***** because why would anyone sign up for that without an upside because they don't already accept the undergirding assumptions that and the ability the amount 0:9:20 of information i mean the nhs is a whole other deal or the nsa rather you know we kind of all forgot about it but the nightmare from the movie enemy of the state where the government can hack onto your computer phone at any moment is true they can get in they can watch this webcam of course they could do that anyway but they could watch it when i'm they can read every email it's just i mean really the argument against like why you shouldn't be freaked out about that is essentially well that's so much data that they can't really find anything and that's true they're not gonna just dip their hands in and find out that you uh you know bought black uh dark web dmt or something they're gonna they're gonna poke it at the specific people and then they're and so this thing of na of dhs probably going off of data they got from the nsa going in and plucking up people who two weeks earlier like 0:10:22 spray painted a cab on the side of a building all the stuff that they that dhs uh came up with as justifications the the lawlessness of uh of portland boiled down to ***** graffiti charges from weeks earlier someone asked if you should read reagan land or nixon land first you should read before the storm first there's four books you should read them in order because it's a it's a story that unfolds over time before the storm nixon land because you can't really understand uh nixon unless you understand uh water goldwater and the pressure that goldwater represented the new type of conservative i was talking about last week the sun belt which was dominated by 0:11:24 oil and natural gas money and aerospace and defense contracting from from orange county to texas basically that's where the new money in the republican party came from where the new ideology was born goldwater represented it and then later uh it came into fruition in orange county california aerospace and defense hotbed i mean and it was of course this wildly uh uh hypocritical movement of people in industries all of which completely depended on government largesse like orange county was built by the defense uh industry that's direct government money spent uh natural gas at oil depended on the oil depletion allowance i mean that's why they bought uh lbj and a million other politicians was to maintain the the delicate balances of tax rebates and incentives they got that made it worth it to risk pumping for oil 0:12:26 and then of course big ranchers who complained about having to pay grazing fees for land that was entire that was only accessible to them because of the deprivations of the us government that ***** dispossessed native peoples and created infrastructure for their behalf and it's it was essentially a movement of sore winners the ungrateful winners of america the people who did so well in that post-war media post-war period that they immediately decided that they weren't doing well enough and blamed everybody else who wasn't as smart they applied some of that calvinism that deep american calvinism to say why isn't everybody where i am why isn't everybody with their lovely uh house and my lovely pool and my lovely wife well it must be because they're insufficiently american they're too jewish they're too they have too much ethnicity to them uh they're they they don't have enough americans stick to it if god blah blah purely just self-flattering i mean ***** barry goldwater inherited a family 0:13:27 uh a family department store and his grandfather only went to arizona to sell and then and but they didn't feel that because that kind of provision is by the way that we structure things invisible because the people at the top are not being given right like we think of welfare as as this distribution downward to the poor people at the top paying taxes or uh uh and giving to the state to give to that person when in reality that's all money being pulled upward the state exists to rupert redistribute money away from the people who produce it the people who produce value to the people who parasitically squat over them like vampires and so so i talked the other day about ideology and how some disagreements within the republican party are not

ideologically their information ideological they're informational and somebody asked 0:14:28 what i meant by that and i want to say first that that's not quite true there's no such thing as informational that is not ideological but the difference is the arguments are along a different axis than the people so this new sun belt conservatism emerges right and what it's hostile to is the internationalism of the establishment republican party that was dominated by wall street finance capital banks the lenders who had uh and banks are who you borrow money from if you're these people if you're people from the the sun coast so you actually see them not even as your uh your friends but your enemies as your exploiters and the government exists to help the banks exploit you even though you're benefiting from the same arrangement you are also having income redistributed upward to you but it's being screened by ideology because 0:15:29 you're at the top you get to think of yourself as uh as a put upon whereas the poor person gets to gets to feel like a like a ***** mooch for even dani to get uh the dole they have to feel like there's so much shame among among poor people about getting handouts even though it's it's it's the scraps left over from after the ***** orgy of uh upward redistribution to the jackal-like parasitic upper class but that's not how they that's not how because ideology exists to make poor people okay with what's up with them with their lives makes it it's basically to to assuage the uh the misery of the poor by making them feel that they have it coming in some way or that they can make it if they just apply themselves they won't be that way anymore and then for rich people it uh tells them that they deserve what they have that's what ideology exists for for people for rich people to do is to make you feel like this state of 0:16:32 affairs which i have wildly more than other people into a disgusting degree is justified and uh and that's because everybody's alienated in capitalism but the alienation is different it's some degree of alienation of self the way that poor people and uh and the uh working-class people are exploited of their time their species being that like they're alienated from the time of their their actual existence rich people are alienated from everybody else rich people are alienated wildly from the human species they're they're they live essentially as separate and that is also an alienation and it's like a pebble in the brain and it has to be assuaged and ideology is there to associate both of those things both for the purpose of maintaining the system they're the they are the the ideology and culture and the culture that spawns it are like capitalism's uh uh um it's the uh immune system that's what i was thinking capitalism's immune 0:17:33 system social immune system is ideology through culture and both at the top and at the bottom it's supposed to keep people where they are and keep people not trying to change the arrangement so what that means though is that at the top ideology eventually becomes so overwhelming uh because of the difference between the world as it exists and the world as you think it should like for example i talk about how like

conservatives really think america is great america is great it's a land of opportunity it's the blessed country because i'm here and i'm doing well it's it's it's self-worship just like their version of god is them too it's all worshiping their ego they don't know that but that's what they're doing they're worshiping their ego by by equivalent by making it equivalent to god and to america but then america is filled with suffering and misery and social conflict and the culture oh my god we keep getting our values spit at us and we keep losing all this respect and we're not being validated by the very 0:18:35 thing that we think is the greatest thing that exists on earth how can that be and so ideology exists to make us answer that question without saying capitalism without saying you are being pulled away from all humanity and everything you thought you valued is being dissolved into ***** ether by the the rationalizing madness of capitalism defining all relationships between everything through transaction robbing everything of sacredness spirituality social meaning anything we are de-sacralizing the world but you believe in spirit at least you think you do but you can't admit that it's capitalism so what is it oh it's the cultural marxist blah blah and what that does is over time because reality doesn't fit with your ideology you start ignoring the parts of reality you don't like not even on purpose you are you you you just glide over them when you uh encounter them which means even though capitalism is rule of of the uh work ruling class of of the bourgeois of the of the ownership class 0:19:37 uh uh it's not rulership of the of the ruling class according to their interests it's to the um to their understanding of those interests they're they're they're operating in their best interest as they understand them and everyone's understanding is limited and the more out of touch you get with reality becoming by being rich the more you have to fill in the gaps of your understanding of the world with ideology that's what fills all the cracks and keeps the ship and that means that eventually you're not operating with a with a real understanding of the world and that means that you're no longer operating in your best interests and that is the war within the capitalist class that we're seeing played out at the political level right now like trump was the final victory and takeover of the party by those people who pearlstein documents their rise to power in the republican party in his books those people who were small 0:20:39 bourgeois local manufacturers and small business owners and and uh and uh the the more successful uh uh aerospace and and defense uh professionals and stuff uh them saying my country isn't what i want it to be anymore those damn wall street uh uh fat cats are are ruining uh are ruining capitalism instead of understanding the way that the people in wall street did they pulled all the first guys from oss from the wall street law firms because those things essentially already operated as espionage organizations they were all over the world with information gathering such systems in order to figure out what the what the business conditions were all over the world

so they understood in a way that the locally focused small bourgeois in america 0:21:42 couldn't that the only that the real game in town in the cold war was capitalism as a world system versus social socialism as a world system or communism as a world system and as such we had to do things like build up the capacity of our foreign uh erstwhile allies uh i mean partially that helps us like prevent a crisis of over production because that means someone is there to buy all of our stuff but it also means that they're less likely to fall to communism and they're stronger in their resistance to communism and we did everything we could to make that happen i mean the marshall plan operation gladio vietnam war these are all parts of that the uh the entire gamesmanship was maintaining uh maintaining access on on terms of the purchaser of third world uh raw materials in a post-colonial context essentially reimposing colonialism uh through the market through the through the new imf 0:22:43 world bank brenton woods system and then after that they understood that because they faced outward the small bourgeois represented by now trump did not but they eventually took over the political body of the republican party but they could had no control over the actual uh uh momentum of of of world capitalism independently of them like they they gave up uh any once they took over the political level once they took over the levels of political power they did they gave up demanding control over the economic questions because the early the early versions of this like like he said what are we doing giving all this money to the ***** germans we just blew up well and wall street represented by eisenhower basically cooed him to keep him from the office in 1952 because they're like hey ***** we don't want europe to go communist you ***** dullard you ohio ***** cheeseball you're too stupid to understand this but 0:23:46 by the 80s reagan carries out deregulation just like carter was just like ford was just like nixon was just accelerates the timeline of turning every american city into a ***** bombed out rack and then just filling it he didn't do anything about that not a god he didn't lift a finger he cut taxes he cut regulations and he got that money flowing up north you got he redistributed that ***** up but he didn't do a ***** thing about the larger questions of like the global economy in america's industrial because it's all really about jobs and industrial capacity that's what all this boils down to and and whether we're going to have a nationalist economy or not and the more advanced elements like progress as in understanding what they're actually fighting for conservatives understand that and now they're democrats and now we're seeing the final war it used to be within the republican party now that they've defeated the republican party because the democratic party can only respond by going to the right with the republicans as the republicans squeezed out the establishment 0:24:47 like multilateral conservatives they got absorbed by the democrats which of course is trying to also hold on to the left and we'll see how how well they do that in the fall they're probably going to do well because everyone hates trump but whether they're there for the midterms or something i have i have a feeling we're going to see just a accelerated version of obama all over again uh only he go he so that's why ideology has to be considered in every question and you cannot like i see a lot of people uh who you have a very like stiff definition of like capitalist interests and they'll say you know oh it's not in capital's interest to do x y or z and that neglects a couple of things it neglects one that even if you're talking about capital ed it's most self-aware like international finance capital they still have chinks in their armor they still have things they don't know they don't know they still operate under ideological assumptions that blind them to the world around them and then and 0:25:49 then at that level they don't even have anybody to really rub against to to to refine down these contradictions because they're supreme they're masters of the universe they touch nothing but everything falls before their hands so they'll never reform their contradictions so they have their own defects in perceiving their best interest which is a which is a vulnerability but then these people who are still captured by a lower level of ideological uh obfuscation stuff that used to be for the rubes but then you know everybody started watching the same tv shows the old guys were tired and died and they got replaced by new old people whose brains been cooked by online in the way that older generations of rich guys weren't and all of a sudden they all really believed this ***** and that's why you see trump do things that are like this is counterproductive what is this it's because he's not operating from uh correct premises he wants to defend capitalism but he doesn't know what it is he wants to defend capitalism but he thinks capitalism is the american economy and that means 0:26:50 he's going to make even though he's operating from the same assumptions as the global capitalists of the democratic party even though he's operating off the same assumptions he's going to come to different conclusions because he is at a lower level of awareness due to a greater level of ideological uh mystification at the very hap level uh you know like that's why i think that the the lizard person metaphor that uh david ick came up with is very very useful and evocative i hate that it's been so uh tainted by associations with anti-semitism because i don't think about jews as not human they're the they're like the jewish tradition is the humanist tradition like that's it's the threat of like self-awareness uh that runs through all the it marbles all western civilization and provides it with any kind of texture and contrast it's it's vital i mean it's it to try to antisemitism is just so stupid i've talked about this it's 0:27:52 one of the it's one of the absolute number one brain fails the way that you can just like quit taking the test and halfway through and just going out to jack off in the ***** bathroom just pathetic lack of rigor to just stop at that but uh but lizards aren't people they're reptiles which means that they don't have a human they don't have a human recognition of a recognition of one another as as anything the same they view us as different as a different species because if they didn't they wouldn't do what they do very simple to do what you do at a little at that level of power at that level of power because at lower levels every i mean everybody is exploiting to some degree i mean i when i order takeout i'm an exploiter you know when i when i buy a ***** computer program or a cell phone filled with ***** uh slave labor produced coltan i am exploiting everyone is exploiting to some degree or another uh 0:28:53 but these people are only exploiting and exploiting totally they they have to have the same abstraction towards us towards like primates maybe and not even and the thing i just i think the thing that i would add to the metaphor is that they're not like a race of reptilians that if you do enough of their ritualized uh violence to other people you will become a lizard like if i was going to do a movie or something with like illuminati ***** and i was going to have lizard people as the bad guy it would not be they changed faces because they're shape-shifters it would be to change faces because they and then at some point they they they hit an inflection point of a lack 0:29:54 of empathy which they needed to do to keep fueling their their behavior to keep convincing themselves that another ***** yacht or another ***** uh a mansion or a private island or even another hundred years of life in a ***** computer disc could be worth the wholesale suffering oh i'm going to play the stallot of david ick again still my favorite political song i think this is the best song about and it's a ***** uh and amazingly it's acapella and i don't **Music playing** i have stolen my girl 0:30:58 people keep saying the shunt what is that seen knew that her heart was the purest of pure through unbearable suffering she would endure when she told of the lies and the hatred they spread and our blood of blonde children was used in their bread so she opened their mouth to the cold lizard tongue that was speaking and code of the work to be done to make sure that the truthful are made to look mad and the starving fat ashes for which they are glad because their brain was a camera they just had to look and they said she was wise from the pictures she took which were 0:31:59 not unlike anything you'd ever seen to be drowning in honey awaken have stolen my girl so that's the one it's really good and uh it basically anticipates pizzagate completely and that was made in that was made for the 2004 john kerry campaign for a collection of a cd of songs by different artists to defeat bush wah murders row on that album david byrne okay go when they were the big hits and they had that 0:33:3 one on there but uh like he gets he gets an essential truth that the q people also get to and that the reptile thing gets to which is to do what these people are doing to us they have to be sick like that is the big refrain among uh pizzagate people right these people are sick and the thing is it's true but who they think is sick are like hollywood actors who make like 10 million dollars a year you know like they think

it they think it's people because that's how they view the wars through a cultural lens to their minds like the guys they see on tv are the ones doing the evil because they live at that level of symbolic abstraction politics is the tv the good guys are the good guys on tv the bad guys are the bad guys on tv so when they think of who is doing it it's robert de niro it's all the the fake news uh um anchors uh it's all the actors like you saw the thing today of all the all the friends people being uh secretly executed this month and turned and replaced with holograms it's just it's not being able to see the forest for the trees and so they recognize that in a world that's awful someone is responsible and that person is evil that person has renounced humanity in a significant way in a morally meaningful way but who that is it's the bad people in tv because that's where they live and that's because most of them are boomers and that generation was the first to become fully mediated and it broke their brains and i think you can argue i really do think that at some level i mean obviously there's a lot of when you talk about whether or not a project a state project a human project succeeds or not there are a lot of variables and some of them are contingent some of them are completely determined by by the the very structure of the situation that they find themselves in and i guess you could say that like the emergence of first television and then the internet is one of those things that was going to happen eventually but man it really ***** threw a wrench in the gears i got to say i mean you could argue that it it accelerated certain processes of like of empathy building across cultures but at the cost of our ability to function as social beings which means that any like ideological or or social shift is totally secondary to that basic reality that we've been scrambled we've been turned into the dreaded pringle but i don't like saying that stuff too much because you just sound like a **Music playing** tells you where i have been since like the cops have started really cracking down on people's last time i heard the helicopter that close i thought of goodfellas and this time i thought of ***** fly apocalypse now when they attack the village so yeah and i know the younger people are so computer adept that it's it's it's it's silly you're essentially demanding that people go back to wearing top hats and cravats in terms of talking demanding behavior or patterns that are that alien i mean it's a completely different thing it's a different life it's a different reality and uh we've never i don't think we've ever really had that at least not that we can remember like culturally yeah really infinite jest really did nail it because infinite just understood that that the uh solipsistic seduction of entertainment uh is incredibly powerful because it allows you to live a simulated version of the life that we are all thrust into unknowingly and unwittingly but on our terms and without negative emotional consequences and that is an insanely powerful seduction because life is suffering and it takes a lot of suffering to learn that that is all life is and then it takes a lot of maturity and insight

or luck to find yourself in a position to acknowledge oh that means that i have to deal with that i can't flee from it it will come and get me and people get to that realization through repeated exposure to the traumas and horrors of life by seeking things and not getting them and then seeking things and then getting them and then having that not be sufficient after a while the hedonic treadmill we spend enough 0:38:13 time on it and we get to realize oh this doesn't work hopefully not always but it's a hopeful it's a it's a possibility and it's it's to degree that humanity is redeemable it's the degree to which we go through that process nowadays nowadays dang it you can just opt instead for the internet and i did it for years that's how i know this is real you can instead oh i'm not going to worry about that stuff i'm not going to try to answer these questions of who i am what i can do in the world how i can apply myself how i can apply my mind and my soul to the world around me how i can reach out to other people and potentially be rejected and dealing with that rejection and building a strong enough self-image that i can withstand rejection and and uh being able to repeat come back after defeats and push myself that's how we gain talent that's how we gain wisdom that's how we but it's also very scary and the first time you fail especially if it's when you're young the pain is massive and overwhelming and feels like it's the entire world and if you have this possible alternative to that 0:39:16 where you get to build a life that has the same system of rewards and challenges and and satisfaction but on a symbolic intellectualized level a lot of people are going to take it i'm not saying you'll inevitably take it but if that option exists a lot of dangerous it's dangerous because it means that people get into their adult years like getting it by as little as they have to and then using the internet and video games specifically as a big like organizer to channel that unfulfilled human energy the remainder we have left it doesn't our our peace with ourselves is a degree that 0:40:18 we can we can challenge that in a way that makes us feel like we're doing something useful useful to ourselves first and foremost but then at a certain level we recognize that that is inextricably linked to what's those are one and the same that we have to move any way we can to pursue that and i think that realization comes and i but it also allows for things like i mean i wouldn't be where i was i i it's it's it's very interesting it's a possible counter factual because the internet made my life harder and worse for many years and then even after the show was successful i was also not very happy for a lot of time i was anxious and i was uh uns insecure in it and i but i also don't feel like i'd be where i am now if it wasn't for that i wouldn't be able to 0:41:19 go where i want to go from here if it wasn't for that so it's all necessary you know i think that's that's the power of of uh recognizing how important it is to drop guilt to not look backwards beyond recognizing our mistakes we recognize our mistakes so we don't repeat them but then we have to drop any kind of negative association

and guilt around anything we used to we did in the past because it will just make it harder for us to think because it'll make it harder for us to really consider what we did and why we did it because we're not going to want to think but if we rob it of that psychic uh pain if we rabbit if the ability to hurt us that we can really learn we can learn from everything and that means it was worth doing and that means there was a reason it happened it's it's it's if you can find a reason for it happening out of the mistake and that's easier to do if you don't wrap a lot of guilt we got some really nice uh dappling over here i got to tell you guys there's some shaftage going on here some light shaftage going on by some trees really nice really uh very very pleasant how could you describe what's happening more succinctly than amusing ourselves to death i mean if if hypothetically and this is not going to happen but if if this coronavirus does push this rickety house of cards over this gigantic ponzi scheme that is the american economy it'll be because americans got so stupefied by entertainment that they turned politics i mean it was not one thing or another while they were turning politics into entertainment politics was being robbed of its meaning by backroom deals between republicans and democrats to no longer talk about economic issues but it was easier to do that because people were looking at the goddamn entertainment and they turned politics into entertainment and they put an entertainer in charge and he ruled the way that a senile television addicted any one of the people who watches fox news would rule and isn't that democracy democracy is representative government the question is who does it represent and among those people the people who think that you know well you should really only be able to vote if you're a white landowner anyway and he helped rule up he helped he helped guide i mean obviously the thing is going to come apart one way or the other we are in terminal crisis have been since the 70s trump has nothing to do with that but he's the one who crashes the plane into the ***** house of cards it'd be very funny and i think a guy like postman like he got considered hysteric and over the top and kind of silly when the book came out and i think that's that's the mark uh that means that you were essentially just too early you were recognizing what it was gonna come out and look like you could see where the tendrils were going to lead but that led you to overstate the case to people who couldn't see that they would read you and they wouldn't think of what you were imagining which is where it's going to end up they were thinking of what it was in front of them and they're like i think you're overreacting neil and that's the problem with persuading people neil postman was like getting a bolt from the blue about where our uh where our culture of entertainment was going to lead us but that left him talking to people for whom the evidence he's going to point to doesn't have the same implications for them because they haven't thought it through that well i'm not crazy i'm just ahead of the curve the damn

joker you want to talk about a guy who but the other thing is in terms of the like the mechanisms he's going to be behind the times because he was writing in the ***** 70s or the 80s or whatever the techno like the internet is something that i think even people who were relatively pressing about it back then could not have conceived of like even foster wallace's description of the internet is and he was writing in the 90s when when darpa had already existed and there was a primitive email old-fashioned somebody's saying i don't understand the awesome power of the federal reserve i think i do but but that's what i'm talking about oh i should say there isn't just a perceived difference in uh there isn't always just a perceived difference in the aims of 0:46:30 like the small the small bourgeois republicans who now are in charge of the political arm of the party and the like the finance directed ones there is like i said a general like capitalism is what it is people who understand the neoliberal turn people who had the neil uh or had the ned baity speech given to them uh in in the in the 70s like that scene in network everybody in america got that in some way or another subliminally jimmy carter might have gotten it literally an understanding of like your understanding of these notions is limited by your age and by your expectations until now we are entering a new era and the democrats assimilated that the democrats are that party now and now there is a remainder of republicans who are turning that way now what they recognize is that there's only one capitalism so you can't create it while maintaining capitalism is exist you can't create the kind of authentic structure 0:47:31 that these guys want so they are more correct that the capitalism's broad long-term interests are served by globalism by globalization but for certain small bourgeois that ***** them over some of the but not all of them some of them end up getting bought out essentially and assimilated into the finance structure and then the ones who aren't are in a position to be actually just destroyed exploited and uh destroyed by finance capital but i mean that's the same sort of conflict within the bourgeois that happens in every bourgeois dictatorship and that necessitates the state that's why the state exists to play referee and two sometimes pick one over the other when they're in actual direct material conflict instead of just like i was talking about earlier kind of illusory ideological conflict so in this case there is a direct conflict between 0:48:34 small american bourgeois producers who still exist and the global market uh and and that's true in different segments of agriculture and other parts of the economy but there is no but the powers that be have decided ideologically that there's no way to maintain capitalism's vitality not internationally without sacrificing those industries and those people are either going to sell out and stay among the elite or lose out lose it all and become poor and if they're poor middle class then they're out of the club anyway and we so yeah no there is a genuine i i i want to correct myself because i was talking about ideology and in talking about it i forgot to talk about the fact that there is actually a material conflict between different segments of capital but that the fed and the government exist to adjudicate those disputes and the one that's always going to win is going to be the most powerful and influential and that's going to be the one closest to the actual spigot of capitalism i.e finance is something 0:49:36 happening in the chat people seem to be fussing into feuding i wasn't really looking i was talking what's going on here what's going on out here in this chat room now is there going to be a ruckus now now i i hear our heart told that there was a ruckus down in the comment section and someone oh they got out the federal reserve guy well i hope i answered this question because the thing is like i always find those fed people they're either like i don't get what the point is there's two points one point is yeah they're they're the embodied will of uh of established finance capitalism or at a certain point there's no difference in the way you're describing them you're not even describing jews you're just grabbing specific people in positions of super high power 0:50:37 and then you just want to abstract them to have the level of like supernatural beings because you are not materialist enough you're near analysis you haven't squeezed all of the spiritual due ***** because that's that's what you're trying to do when you're trying to make sense of the world is you're trying to squeeze the ideology the emotion the the bias uh that comes from living at the that the level of symbolic abstraction which we out the map the symbolic map that we use to navigate the real world uh but i don't know what kidnap capital means that's weird does that mean like kidnapping jerome powell or something i gotta say it's it's kind of amazing that since q is established and since there's been sort of a rise in lone wolf internet adult 0:51:39 right wing shooters how come no one has gone after like a real an actual place of power you know no one's shown up at the fed world bank anything like that even like the closest thing would be that dumbass who like tried to go to cnn in atlanta which makes perfect sense like you think it's the media because you've got a dog's brain but a lot of these conspiracies understand the role of finance and all this stuff and yet none of them have ever been afflicted by real psychos and even with the pizzagate stuff and the epstein stuff all anyone wants to really yell out are celebrities they want to yell at chrissy teigen and not bill gates for some reason i mean i mean the degree they want to yell no they do want to yell at bill gates but that's because he's a famous guy bill gates is just another celebrity i mean i'm trying to think of like the uh the finance people like lex wexner how often do you hear anybody talk about that ***** the guy who's not been charged the guy who ***** funded epstein 0:52:41 from the beginning staked him gave him power of attorney when his only criteria or his entire career at the point that higher was he was hired by wexner and given a yacht given a ***** mansion given power of attorney and billions of dollars to manage was he was a ***** high school math teacher and then he was a quantity bear stearns and then he was involved in a ***** pyramid scheme and that guy hired him and he's and he's in charge of this massive uh modeling and uh women's clothing empire he ***** in the 90s he bought air america he bought southern air southern air transport the the ***** cia front airline that moved heroin through the golden triangle and moved cocaine from nicaragua in the 80s he ***** bought it and had it moved its headquarters to to columbus where he lived and was like in charge 0:53:42 of the state of ohio he's out there how are you talking about les ***** webster not chrissy teigen even if she's involved in like the child eating she doesn't even know where those kids come from they just come down to shoot you're not even gonna get anything from her just shows how obfuscating all this oh man deutsche bank holy ***** deutsche bank is so does anybody know what bcci bcci is banco and braziano does that that ring a bell so bongo braziano was the vatican bank that was used as a piggy bank for the mafia and gladio during uh in the 60s and 70s uh roberto calvi blackfire bridge that whole deal i've talked about it uh and bcci was another bank that was uh discovered during the iran contra hearings to have basically just been a giant pass-through uh front for cia black money like cocaine for cash then 0:54:44 for guns for whatever whatever anybody needed and i would say that deutsche bank is that now when you look at their connections to epstein uh cartel's uh russian mafia big time i mean that was ***** that was donald trump's job not being on the apprentice his job before he became president was laundering russian drug money courtesy of deutsche bank so that's another reason that this the the conspiratorial term is inevitable and that's and inevitable given our love of narrative and and uh our atomization but it's so distressing because just leaves you to just who wants to talk about some boring banker when you talk talk about all the celebs on the tv that you hate all the time and that you yell at when they're doing all their gay rights ***** bcci was connected to robert maxwell yes maxwell was connected to iran contra and 0:55:46 the promise scandal which if anybody anybody read the 50 biggest conspiracies of all time a classic book uh also a graphic novel they talked that's where i learned about uh promise the promise software danny colisaro his investigation of octopus that led to his suicide in a hotel room in virginia uh now he was he was like a zelig of 80s spook ***** and then he just fell off his yacht the lady gazlane man i'm very interested to see what happens with the gizlane trial my gut is this is all limited hang out it's the only thing that really makes sense but we'll see i just imagine her like taking a a plea deal to go to a spa prison in exchange for just tidying up all the loose ends and maybe bearing one or two guys who like maybe trump has a grudge 0:56:49 against or something and then saying goodbye other i just don't understand i don't understand when they found her alive i was like well ***** i don't know that's a whole level of the simulation that i haven't cracked yet and the funny thing is you can't even say well they can't kill her because we all know in our hearts that they could because i remember saying they can't kill him on the first episode of true or not i said that they can't kill him and then they did because what are you going to do about it to kill her what are you going to do about it what you're going to lose faith in the government oh wow we're terrified of that what are you going to do uh complain about it on twitter go to a ***** q anon protest now i feel good i feel fine 0:58:1 i'm vibing i feel like a good a not a a not not a good version because i don't think i'm good i'm that good but like a non-evil anton sugar right now because i feel like anton kind of was self-actualizing in a perverse way and i feel like i'm getting closer to that he's a psychopathic killer but so what oh someone says they've been watching lodge 49 and loving it good that show rips i recommend it to everybody though all right i'm gonna go soon folks one oh just thank you for reminding me smoked pork was very good it wasn't as good as will's but i didn't expect that first time trying at all uh it didn't have like the crackling outer costs that he gets but that's i mean i was working with ***** coals and first time ever so uh but now it was it was juicy the it was there was it was i had some marbling on the flesh went very well with 1:0:3 the hoisin and a little potato bun it was good i was happy about it i talked about portland at the beginning of the episode worst transformers movie great way to end it's hard to say any call any of them bad you know it kind of misses the point of a michael bay movie they're they're not to be judged they're to be witnessed and let me think the second one is universally considered the most incoherent because it's it was interrupted by the writers strike and they essentially started because of how much it costs to keep that production moving they essentially just kept shooting without a script which you could definitely tell and so that's usually considered the worst one the third one's pretty good it's the most like all narratively coherent the the mark wahlberg ones are both pretty good the whole thing of mark wahlberg freedom from 1:1:4

texas is very funny i really like cogman in the fifth one and of course the thing where harriet tubman was a secret friend of the autobots during the antebellum period that was fantastic i guess that leaves the fourth one yeah the fourth one is also kind of annoying because it's a no but the fourth one has stanley tucci and he does a great job although two has its moments as well there's a thing where they have a giant uh evil transformer that's made out of other transformers that are all earth movers and construction devices and there's these two giant uh uh balls like iron balls they use to smash wrecking balls two wrecking balls hanging from from chains at the crotch and john turturro is trying to call in a an air strike and he goes i'm underneath the 1:2:5 alien scrotum and then what's even funnier is they use that as a moment to show off a rail gun which they use to blow up this transformer railgun technology which is one of those massive ***** pentagon boondoggles they spend billions of dollars

on this and then they make propaganda movies where it's like okay yeah this might seem like a big waste of money but what if there's a giant transformer trying to destroy one of the pyramids of giza so that he can create uh grab a telemetry tracker and create a giant space laser to destroy earth then you're gonna want a ***** rail gun they also put the f-22 in the first one what if we yeah sure there's no real fights anymore air superiority is beyond established but there's no possibility of dog fights but what if there's what if starscream is there and starscream remember he's he's a very fast jet we're gonna have to be even faster than railgun's also used uh in the film eraser where they have a handheld railgun that like shoots people through walls man schwarzenegger really knew how to pick them all right guys now i got you got me thinking about all my faves you know me thinking about my transformers movies so thank you i'm feeling good 1:3:19

hmm um there we go it's going we're going we're going we're live we're live guys i want to say r.i.p first and foremost to the moon which has been really obviously one of the great uh bodies in the sky you know things to look at one of the best we've ever had one of the biggest or the biggest other than the sun and it's hard to look at the sun because it's so bright so you could really look at the moon and have a good time control the tides made our day slightly longer due to its gravitation he's a good friend good companion to the human race and everybody on earth and earth in general but almost all things must end and apparently the moon is done for r.i.p bye-bye boy 2020 huh what a year what a frickin year someone should unplug it and plug it back in again someone should take the damn cartridge someone needs to get blown on the dang machine because the moon is now dead killed by if you'd asked me a few years ago where do you think i'll be in 2020 i didn't i don't think i would be quarantined from a pandemic while the moon is being murdered by that's the that's the joy of living at the end of history crazy shit's happening crazy shit's ah nice day again it's been a run of good days here i've been enjoying it and it hasn't been hot yet i guess i should knock on wood when i say that but it's probably going to be a terrible august and september if if past experiences are any indication but for now it's nice and i'll take it i'll definitely take it if more dead moon means a nice uh relatively mild and adorable summer in new york i'll take it i was thinking about something i said about ideology and how it changes over time and how certain parts of a given political coalition like the republican party is determined by it and and like held by ideology in a way that makes them not necessarily uh equipped to understand the world around them that they're supposed to be influencing but the example that popped up to me reading reagan land was that it and and i had known this like vaguely but reading it and having the details of the whole uh debate spelled out really underlined how big a deal it was when jimmy carter was negotiating a treaty 15-year long i mean he was just the president when it happened it's not like he started negotiating a treaty with panama to return the canal to panamanian control or hand it over to panama rather since we we created panama out of northern colombia in order to create the canal with uh like the connivance of the french it was no longer acceptable in the post-colonial world for america to control this giant stretch of the middle of this country this tiny country and there had been years and years of agitation to get u.s control off of the canal and it was finally coming to a head under carter and there was a huge popular backlash among conservatives led by ronald reagan who had just lost the presidential nomination to ford and was looking to run against carter and 80 and wanted an issue these people just went nuts about the ***** panama canal when was the last time anyone thought about the panama canal not being in american hands because 2000 was the year that it actually was was handed over officially i mean some people get freaked out that it's going to get bought by china 0:5:13 as part of belton road or something but you very rarely hear anybody ruining the national humiliation of turning over the canal to panama that's because it's a stupid thing to care about and there was like i was saying how there's these splits within parties there was a split within the republican party between the people who were more internationalist in understanding who understood that the panama that the canal was essentially militarily pointless it was too small to even move any of our really big uh like aircraft carriers and stuff so it couldn't even be strategically useful in the event of a war and there was the fact that it was becoming wildly unpopular in panama that we had that canal there and that after vietnam nobody really wanted the countenance the potential reality of sending in hundreds of thousands of troops to keep the canal secure as people got more and more mad at it there is no reason to keep the canal and guess what subsequent years have proven that no one gives a ***** none of the people who did it at the time care and that's the thing is that at the top levels the people who manipulated the panama canal issue didn't care about the canal ronald reagan became president just a couple years after this treaty was signed he didn't ***** rip it up he didn't say we need to get the canal back even though he had been honking his ***** head all over the country gnashing his teeth and he debated william f buckley about the canal uh he became president he didn't give a ***** newt gingrich when he was still a college professor in georgia got his start in politics organizing a keep the canal committee and then that's that's what was his springboard to run for congress he doesn't give a ***** about the panama canal he didn't do anything when he was a speaker of the house to get the canal back for guys like that they understand it's an issue it's an emotional issue that presses 0:7:16 buttons in like the the the lump and reactionary mind the the nationalistic uh that that's that whole the whole complex of nationalistic lizard emotions the idea that we have a canal and it's being taken and it's just after vietnam and the 60s and all the traumas and of course the material crisis of the 70s stagflation and energy crisis uh no no we need to keep the canal and so people voted on that ***** and people wrote

letters and they sent in money but the people at the top who manipulated the canal treaty ***** didn't care they understood it was supposed to be red meat for the rooms now 40 years later the people who care about who do the equivalent of caring about the canal and not like the actual important business of maintaining capitalist exploitation and its machinery in tip-top uh fashion those people are now in charge and they've squeezed out all the old old hands who were like it's just it's a pointless vestige it doesn't mean anything now the canal people are in charge and trump is 0:8:17 the head canal person like he had that interview with chris wallace today and his his understanding of issues is precisely as at the same level as all of the old people who watch fox news all day that's why they love him and will never not love him because he is them and modern politics is about becoming uh about being able to identify with the person in charge not that they do anything that you identify emotionally with them and trump is them whenever chris wallace would challenge him on one of his assertions like where are they teaching us to hate america he goes oh you go you see the professors you know the schools were doing it we see it every day couldn't put a gun to his head he wouldn't be able to tell you a specific instance even and that shows you how far things have changed and how fast things have gone off the rails because of the speed of transmission of information the way that everybody is just there's just this flow of information that nobody can check realistically and so you just develop a emotional response that you just channel everything through they're 0:9:20 just like yes this is this this validates this val this it's like running things over the the laser at the ***** uh grocery store it's like a thing either gets you mad or it makes you happy because it owns the limbs whether it's true whether it happened it means nothing uh and so trump like like reagan famously always had like this back pocket uh filled with just so anecdotes about the evils of the welfare state and about big government half of them were completely made up the other ones were decontextualized and half truths but he at least had them he had a narrative that he actually contained information even if it was fraudulent trump doesn't even bother keeping it none of these people even bother keeping it it's just all that's left all they're left with is the anger some story about some college where someone said the flag isn't good don't remember the context don't even remember the incident just remember the emotional response i had when i heard that and that's where they are they're 0:10:21 just pure ganglion response and they love trump because he's also pure gangly in response they love him we love him folks do we love him do we love the trump uh yeah he's pretty amazing no they don't talk about welfare anymore because it's gone that was what reagan used to say in the 80s and then clinton fulfilled his ***** uh his political prophecy it's just new stuff now but i'm saying is that there used to be two levels to this ***** among republicans and now there's only one level everyone believes the ***** rube bait and they take it seriously that's why all the all the all the more uh data driven still ideological are their ideologues but their ideologues for capitalism as closer to as it actually exists as opposed to a norman rockwell fantasy 0:11:22 version of it that they keep in their head so that they can still feel like there's a just re distribution of resources in the world that fantasy that they have to cling to so that their place on that totem pole is sacralized they're too focused on that busy box of like nationalism to see ***** like the actual force for the trees which is why now we finally turned it into a it's always been the case that like that capitalist political parties are arguing over who could be the best stewards you know of the of the capitalist system uh not who will overcome it or overthrow it that's absurd that's off the table uh but that but what that means has been different and has been contested over time as the coalitions that are dominant within the parties have changed and now we finally have the dream of the clinton era dlc a situation where the uh mystified small bourgeois white the mystified white small bourgeois are culturally alienated 0:12:24 enough by their the by the rent by the the the social signifiers that they to become a rump party whose inability to absorb the reality of neoliberalism their inability to hear what ned beatty is telling uh howard beal in the boardroom the the the wax of of uh of ideology of nationalist ideology is to stick thicken their ears to hear it they're off now they're isolated into one party and capital clear-eyed capital international capital has one has a party all to themselves and they get to use social liberalism as the unguint to keep the more exploited it's the perfect situation it's what it's what the whole uh democratic right turn on economics was supposed to it was supposed to do eventually by eliminating economics as a real field of political conflict because 0:13:26 we're at the end state we're at the point of permanent austerity where we can never turn it around because the profits aren't there to allow it you'd have to crack open the bones and get at the gooey uh hemoglobin producing centers of capitalism and that's not that's not on the table that's not an option because that's not the people if that's the case then eventually it will break down all politics will break down into culture war that's the only thing they'll be left to argue and that time is on the side of the echo of just looking at the arc of history the way that increased uh uh capitalism increased atomization of capitalism increases social liberalism because it reduces our commitment to traditional values because it reduces our contact with the social institutions that reinforce traditional values so over time you're going to 0:14:28 have a more diverse country thanks to shifts and demographics and you're going to have uh a more more echo more socially liberal country because people are going to refer to one another individually in a way that makes all the old claims to like social hierarchies seem dated and quaint and and reactionary and and on none uninclusive of a people who of of a of a uh of a pluralistic society and if that's the case you're gonna win eventually i mean there might be some shocks and some bumps along the way like trump winning in 2016 but now they they've turned that into i think they've turned that i mean that didn't help the clintons but it sure should help the party now they're in the perfect situation uh they're about to if this election goes away it looks like it would today you know if you had a at the poll today and we don't have some sort of breakdown of legitimacy due to coronavirus and right in ballots which is a huge huge if but if all that goes relatively smoothly you're going to 0:15:30 have a big democratic mandate without any kind of left-wing shape to uh the party itself it will have swallowed the suburban uh upper middle class small bourgeois who went to college because right now it has this the republican party now is just the small bourgeois who didn't go to college that's their main base every i mean they have other people who vote for them but that's the that's the core and the small bourgeois who went to college were split but the the increased neanderthalic presentation uh of uh of social reactionary views embodied by trump and his base uh in the current moment is no longer sustainable if you went through that etiquette that extended 0:16:32 etiquette lesson of college and so that's that's like they're taking nixon's idea of polarizing a long cultural lines he was the guy who invented it and pearlstein talks about that in nixon land because the whole idea was create break the country in two and then you have the bigger half and at that point he did but now the times have changed there's less of a base for social reaction outside of like white suburbs in white rural areas and so there's less the backlash is less powerful i mean trump won mainly because hillary clinton managed to completely demobilize and because trump was was a was a question mark and he was something new and now a lot of those people have changed their tune on it at least according to the current models who knows what will happen in the future so now we finally have the break the the the the final like in in the twilight of america the the the partisan battle is finally between the competent administrators of capitalism and the mystified overly 0:17:35 ideological uh uh snake oil drinking incompetent managers of capitalism that's it that's that's that's what we that is explicitly now what we're arguing about whereas it used to be that that whole question of competent administration of empire was sort of uh sublimated now it's the actual content of the two political parties as expressed by their leaders like biden has made it clear that he will not be governing under any kind of expectation of significant change even since even he's he's done the olive branch to bernie and he's talking about being more radical now because things are so terrible but uh i mean we know who runs that white house we know who is in charge of that party right now or who would be in charge of the white house there's simply no structural incentive to push them to do anything other than 2008 all over again re reconstituting the the uh the um economy on the back of the 0:18:38

most vulnerable people but they will have uh to their benefit an absolutely insane republican party like if biden wins and he's able to take office especially if like there's write-in ballots in a bunch of states that get authorized there's going to be a massive crisis of legitimacy from day one and that's going to keep all the sheep they're going to keep all the sheep in line with just the fear of the slathering hordes waiting to retake power and it'll be scary i mean brian kemp is probably gonna try to ***** secede or something but like if there's a silver lining there it'll just be that i think the uh that there will be absolutely among the left you know such as it is among people with leftist sentiments i think that there will be uh there will be much less of that obama era uh stardust in the air to to keep people from immediately denouncing the administration uh and he was basically able to string that out for almost eight years even while he was doing the worst ***** on earth and i don't think biden has that obviously i mean after this primary and considering who he is as a candidate and even the fact that obama himself you know a lot of people remember him as a now as a ***** snake oil salesman uh is anybody can name is anybody a lie around uh a is anybody watching in a uh time zone that's got uh where it's dark cause anybody check on i want to make sure that it's not yet falling out of the sky that's not dead yet apparently the scandinavian moon is still doing okay so maybe maybe it can shake off this uh i seem down i'm i guess i'm a little uh i'm mellow but i don't think i'm depressed or anything i feel pretty good i'm just less animated than sometimes i'm vibing as always though as always vibing forever vibing that could be a sequel to the vasily grossman book forever flowing oh dear oh look that's a large boy there's a large boy just showed up vibing towards bethlehem to be warned what is your favorite michael bay movie i'd say that his most interesting movie and uh is obviously pain and gain which i think is a really really interesting film i don't think it's good because he is uh i mean he's trying to do something that's beyond his abilities he's trying to evoke uh like artistic not i wouldn't say ability he's a very talented director but his skill set i'd say he can evoke certain things masterfully uh but but uh commentary intentional commentary uh not really his start for uh forte i think i always think of pain and gain as a cohen brothers movie that's directed by a coen brother's character if one of their own people could make a coen brothers movie it would be pain and gain which is a very interesting thing so i like i like it for that i should re-watch it i haven't seen it in a while one of the one wahlberg is not a very good actor but it's one of his good performances because he's perfectly cast as a meathead there's a scene where he finds out that in order to uh for a bank to honor by the document that he forced this guy who he kidnapped to sign that he needed to be notarized and he was completely he's completely baffled by the concept of a notary and he gets kind of mad he goes what the ***** is a notary it's very good uh but of his spectacles of his big big movies like the ones that are feasts of carnage and mayhem uh ah let me think bad voice two gets talked about because it is so just horrifyingly over the top and grotesque in a way that he often only hints at with the corpses bouncing out of the back of the morgue truck getting the rock's very good too armageddon it's the criterion collection for a reason you know it's just so i have to say even though i've seen every transformers movie multiple times and i think 0:25:8 that they're interesting in their own way uh it i always kind of felt like that's a waste of his talents because he's great at action mayhem but so much of transformers is cgi nonsense i mean the movies he made his bones with had a lot of practical effects that were really awesome like the char the car chase in san francisco when he uh connery takes a ***** tremendous in short it's uh it's hard to pick a favorite it depends on the mood i will say that i was very disheartened to see that his last movie went to netflix because michael bay more certainly than ***** christopher nolan in my 0:26:11 mind is is the director who embodies the theatrical experience big soda big drink big movie pound your brain into ***** paste and that that ***** was premiered on netflix it's like i get it when scorsese goes down netflix to do a three and a half hour movie with digitally aged mobsters and it's all about regret and sadness and and failure i that's not gonna that probably wouldn't have wowed him on the big screen in a you know in a huge release but my god if michael bay can't get a ***** movie with that kind of dumbass high concept what if a billionaire faked his own death and became an operator to to overthrow assad but just the fact that it wasn't fighting robots i guess kept it off the silver screen that's why i was really that's why i really do think that covet might be the end of the theatrical film experience because it seemed like it was already on its last legs and now over i didn't really like uh 6 0:27:12 underground it was too quippy because it was written by the deadpool guys and so that's not really his register bay humor is not whedon-esque soy banter it's people's getting hit directly in the dick or robot a tiny robot pretending to hump something or someone farting that that it's chi it's baby bright it's not yeah it's interesting like 0:28:23 what what i think you might end up seeing films exist on the margins i think like big movies coming out every week and everybody going to see them i think that might be over i think those movies are now going to go to streaming services but i think you will still have a a skeleton film industry i think you might see drive-ins make a comeback but you'll definitely see i think either like boutique movie experiences like a small small few people somebody said like running out of karaoke room something like that with like food service like an even more boutique alamo for uh old movies you know for revivals or something and then maybe once or twice a year there'd be something that would get on like imaxes maybe christopher nolan would just make but we'll see who knows i mean people get are stubborn and there might be 0:29:25

a desire to go back to the movies if it's possible just to assert our love of the before time and our refusal to accept that that uh there really might have been a cultural and economic bad moment here with this bucking virus and that things might be different in a way that's qualitatively significant enough to no longer be the same thing and i will be bummed by that because i fun but i would like somebody to ask newt gingrich what he thinks about the panama canal because these ***** are still around i would really love him to explain like when did you realize it wasn't a big deal that we lost the panama canal and when you found that out did it make you reflect on anything at all oh no because you're a cynical ***** kumwad nah now i remember now never mind i do wonder how many people cut their teeth getting mad about the panama canal now are 100 convinced that the cast of friends are all cannibal pedophiles you guys ever wonder how more much more advanced we'd be culturally and socially and civilizationally if we had embraced because crystal pepsi was mind blowing crystal pepsi told you hey you know that perception you had your whole life you know how you always thought the cola was brown that's the color of cola what have i told you it didn't have to be here it drink this i don't understand this looks like a sprite of some kind some sort of lemon-lime beverage if pepsi is if pepsi is not brown maybe we would have been more open-minded as as the end of history turned into the charnel house of the 21st century maybe we would have been able to think maybe after 9 11 we could have thought hey if pepsi isn't necessarily clear then this terrorist attack is not necessarily the beginning of some civilizational war unless we make it let's not do that i have no proof of although apparently the failure of crystal pepsi was partially due to rat ***** buy coca-cola coca-cola after crystal pepsi set the world on fire with its mind-blowing commercial debut after the super bowl using van halen's right now as its theme song immediately after that coke came out with their own crystal version of of coke only it was diet tab but they said crystal coke and so it tasted like crap it tasted bad it wasn't it was it was a diet beverage and one not even like their good diet beverage their crummy or diet beverage and so because coke is so hegemonic and because people don't really differentiate that finally somebody has a bad tasting crystal cola and now they don't like ***** coca-cola company kept our brains in the box kept us part of the mind control part of the mk ultra mind control making sure that consciousness expanding concepts like crystal pepsi aren't no i don't think that would have happened but it's funny to think about mean and that goes to show that there's i honestly think there's something to the old argument that coca-cola made new coke on purpose made it bad on purpose and made a backlash on purpose so that when they brought it back and said this is the old coke not only would people all want to drink it out of gratitude to have to be back they wouldn't notice that in the interim they switched out the ***** diabolic diabolical between all that and uh hiring death squads to kill union organizers have i read detroit i do mind dying yes i have drum baby the detroit revolutionary union move it there's a good documentary about that too finally got the news about the radical black anti-capitalist union movement in detroit late 60s early 70s very interesting stuff i mean who is it but who are you going to who who wins in the battle of evil uh soda companies you got coca-cola which of course has its record of bloodshed and then you've got pepsi which i think is does a lot of nefarious ***** especially exploiting and like privatizing water sources in the developing world but fanta literally is the nazi pepsi uh in the 50s pepsi made a deal with richard nixon went before he went to moscow to see the world exhibition there where he had the kitchen debate with khrushchev the pepsi corporation made a deal with him where they he was able to arrange a picture of khrushchev with a coat with a pepsi in his hand that uh if he needed it at any point nixon could would be able to get on the board and after he lost the uh either the presidency i think the california governor's race in 62 he became he went on the board uh of pepsi as payback for getting photographs of khrushchev drinking pepsi and i never got that because it's like he was the bad guy shouldn't he have been shouldn't they have wanted him to be drinking a coke you're like look this communist ***** drinks coke but i guess i guess pepsi is like the upstart and they think that that's irony or something and also pepsi bankrolled partially the production of the great william peter blatty film the ninth configuration because they had made a bunch of money in west germany but they couldn't have it leave the country without a heavy tax rate so they funded this movie as a tax dodge basically the same way that you ebola movies got made for a while there because of loopholes in the german tax law related there's one scene in the ninth configuration where they show somebody getting a pepsi out of a vending machine in the insane asylum that's the film set in the our army uh army mental hospital it's a very good movie and i don't think coke would have ever done that a coke wasn't dr strangelove and that's the one where they blew up the world that's not good you're gonna have to answer them in the coca-cola company more likely gop nominee in 22 2024 haley or hawley okay stipulation up front no idea what anything's going to look like by that i would argue there's a good chance that the front runner in 2024 will be whoever emerges is like the the john c calhoun of the neo uh nullification movement and that's more likely to be a governor of a large red state but not necessarily um but if it's not that it's gonna be some carnival barker or trump hanger on it's not gonna be some nerd like josh hawley it's not gonna be some ***** wet blanket like nikki haley they like the red meat the idea that what they're looking for is some sort of perfect ideological synthesis those are leftists who think that way because that's what they've been dreaming of the perfect secret sauce

that combines political power with ideology with party building uh with mobilization just the secret sauce of everything and so they imagine that that's what everybody's seeking republican voters want someone to ring the dinner bell so they can and the argument that oh like a guy like holly would be able to do some sort of you know heron volk democracy where he promises all this social democracy for the uh for for the in-group where's the money for that coming from we're at the terminal decline phase anybody who wants to promise that is going to have to do it from outside the system because a guy like holly is too dependent on the media and on the party to be even known by anybody and so he can't piss them off trump was able to be a free agent because he was rich but more importantly he was famous if anybody is going to challenge that heterodox economic pop create a heterodox economic populist model that'll actually be different enough to get people's attention and do the thing that a lot of people are kind of fearing or dreaming is going to happen and create some sort of new right populism with a economic baseline it would have to be from outside this the party it could not be some loser ***** senator who's got to go around the rubber chicken circuit to get enough money to get people to get his name recognition about five percent it's gonna be somebody who comes in on the outside that's why i'd say i'd put the my pillow i'd say donald trump jr but i have a feeling that his dad would like i think like a guy like dan crenshaw like the media cares about him he's ***** epic meme congressman but i don't think anybody on the ground gives a ***** about who that ***** dork is like these guys are all shadow boxing they're all trying to be something that the media wants them to be and they never they haven't reckoned with the fact that trump was able to win by directly inhere defying all of the dictates of the parties and the media in how you run for office and no elected official will be able to grab that magic so i don't that's why i discount anybody who is in office right now uh depending on how like uh how much this like kidnapping people pops off maybe chad wolfe one way or another it's gonna have to be somebody who gets trump's approval because one bad tweet about them and it's over which is another reason i don't buy carlson because carlson is on the record as saying trump is out to lunch and he's not smart and doesn't know what he's doing and can't deliver on any of the promises of his presidency he said that in an interview if any if trump ever finds out about i mean maybe they decide to go back to normal politics but that seems weird i mean the reason people have embraced this this tribal lunacy over any kind of principle or ideology is because things have gotten weirder and worse they're only going to be weirder and worse in four years i just don't see the mechanism that's supposed to maybe being out of power is supposed to snap them out of it i don't know didn't really work that's not really what happened with obama as i say i'll come back to this i have no idea because i could not predict what the conditions are going to look like four years from now i can't say what they're going to be four months from now for god's sake and i don't trust anyone who says they do elon musk has no political base his base is like mostly people are afraid of trump not leaving 0:44:1 but i i will say that if the courts if there is some sort of challenge to the constitution to the election challenge to the legitimacy of election which i'm sure there will be if it's decided in favor of biden trump will go because one of the beautiful generals will tell him it's time to go and at the end of the day do you know the kind of bravery it would take to say hey i'm just even just like delusional uh like musk like frenzy of of to say ***** it let's be legends let's tear up the constitution so i can stay be president even though he hates um he doesn't have the character for it that's the thing about trump is that he is only negative traits he has no positive traits and that means that he doesn't have the the basic uh um bravery disappointment that 0:45:2 plenty of evil people in history have possessed in spades he doesn't have it he's a coward and the idea of the beautiful generals and so he would make up some thing in his head to justify how he didn't actually leave and then he'd leave and then he would just recrea because that's the thing the reason trump's able to keep on trucking is that he instantly re-defines everything that happens to him to make it look like himself look good to make him look like a genius because of his insane mind-shattering insecurity he is literally incapable of of sitting with failure incompetence sadness uh any kind of negative feeling and certainly any negative feeling about 0:46:4 himself and so i just don't think that he's got the sand to what try to like call some other generals because i think the thing with the lafayette square shows that there isn't the commitment there to him personally to back him and biden isn't a threat in fact a lot of them have probably figured that biden is the solution that biden will calm things down and make things but there could be fraudulent challenging of democratic ballots that then are uh and those challenges could be affirmed by the trump court that got packed over the last four years and then if the final word of the court is like it was in 2000 oh yeah trump won even though maybe he lost by five million votes in the in the popular total and uh you know was losing in enough 0:47:5 states to lose the electoral college until they declared the like the votes fraudulent or something and like threw it to the house of representatives to have them vote by state which means that even though the house is now pretty heavily democratic the republicans would vote for trump if that happened then the military is not going to stop that from happening it has the official imperture of of the rule book which the absolute shouter-headed mediocrities of the u.s joint chiefs yeah yeah they're all right wingers but they're also at the end of the day unimaginative they take the stupid constitution sit seriously and i just don't think they see i mean these guys all 0:48:7 around these guys all were around under obama too you know there are a few michael flynn types but what happened to michael flynn he was like isolated and neutralized over the course of his career because he was a nut case he couldn't ***** function and there might be some like and if there are reptile lizard type right wingers at the top of the military they also know the way the wind is blowing and they know that it wouldn't be worth the domestic turmoil of suppressing of suspending uh constitutional government because as colin powell says you break it you bought it and now you're responsible for this thing that you have no training for no preparation for controlling and most importantly there's a perfectly good political party made up of people who are by the very mass majority totally uh totally beholden to the exact same power structure that you are and are a part of why would you ***** rock the boat on behalf of trump who they all know is an incompetent dumb ass i don't care how ***** uh mystified by ideology it you are if you spend like presents time in the presence of donald trump you're not going to have any ***** be able to sustain many illusions about his competence and that's one thing when he is the go he is the he is in power through you know the connivance of of re of uh the press and the people to to to deem him the legitimate president which takes a lot of pressure off of you as the military to uh you know maintain uh maintain authority because it's not popularly represented or it's not popularly recognized you go from that to having a government that has lost its popular legitimacy overnight to a huge percentage of the population that's a headache but as i said if the republicans are able to like maneuver through the courts that they have spent the last four years packing a spurious challenge to electoral votes for biden that'll be the ultimate calling of the bluff and i think that for the most part there will be protests for sure there will be confrontations and violence for sure but uh it will it will tuck her out that's the bet they're gonna make is that it'll tuck her out that the momentum will dissipate and then people will have accepted the new reality to some degree to some psychic degree they will now be operating in the under the assumption that this new order is in some way legitimate because they're sustaining it by their acquiescence i mean there might be an insurgency but uh and that's the other thing like as illegitimate as it would be you'd have to be having people go to the streets to risk death and dismemberment on behalf of joe biden you who anybody want to lose an eye for joe ***** biden anybody want to like get lose weeks of their life and get corona in a ***** dungeon to seat the man who doesn't even know what year it is who thinks he's running in 1988 and that he really needs to it would be funny though to see maybe like because obviously the democratic establishment like the other thing is is not only would you have nobody want to die for biden biden wouldn't be asking you to die for him he would accept the outcome like like gore did he'd say well i disagree strongly with the court's reasoning in this case i respect their constitutional role as arbiter of these disputes and hope that we can move forward and help make uh help make the american middle class strong again or whatever ***** so how the hell are you supposed to organize in the face of a party that it would be funny though if there were a few true believer diehards who just snapped like near a tandem leads a guerrilla foco in the hills of northern virginia niro tandon has ambushed another police here tandon spiked the water supply of the district of columbia i don't think 0:53:24 barack obama could be biden's vice president because i think i mean the point of a vp is to assume and i don't think that a two-term president can legally so yeah you can't he couldn't be vp he could be in the cabinet because they just skip him in the succession but he couldn't be vp because that's the whole so the old bungler could be like like madeleine albright wasn't eligible to be president because she wasn't born in 0:54:26 the united states but they just kissinger too of course when he was secretary of state and this is big new brzezinski or no he who was not michelle obama would be the slam dunk michelle obama is the vp and the thing is over uh which really must tell you at least it tells me that she does not want that she doesn't like politics like you that has always been the rumor that she kind of hated it and wanted to get out of there certainly the way he's behaved obama's behave since would suggest that's true only working behind the scenes limiting his public comments and exposure and of course there's the fact that if she'd run this time she probably would have gotten the nomination relatively easily and now here's a chance to get it without even running 0:55:28 to get i mean she would be the next president almost for sure because i mean at some point uh biden's gonna conk out very likely in his first term actuarially in his first term she must just not want it she just hates dc and i i think after we after uh trump tore up the vegetable garden she was like ***** this you ***** won't even let me and of course that's all you know that's a perfect her choice of that as her pet project is vp is so perfect such a perfect example of uh of just that neoliberal self-help mindset it's like yeah it's uh people kids aren't fat because of food deserts and and wildly anti unhealthy uh agricultural subsidies that that have a horrifyingly distorting effect on our diet and like what we consume and like the the the uh the 0:56:31 shrinking of people's free time uh and the almost impossible lure of fast food as to fill a gap and processed food if not fast food no no it's you know you're not you're not doing enough sit-ups with your kids and you don't have a ***** vegetable oh that's interesting trump couldn't run again if he was convicted of a felony and would biden allow that to happen oh i got to assume that there will i honestly because there won't be any like because he was acquitted in the the mis he was acquitted in the impeachment there is no i don't think there's any criminal prosecutions currently going into trump all of the crimina all of the things revolving around his tax returns 0:57:32 and uh like lawsuits and stuff and the attempt to get transparency about his business

dealings and stuff like the uh the scottish golf course where they kept sending the uh the air force so just the chintziest ***** i i think all those investigations are in the houses are in the are in the house and those are presumably all just going to end after he gets out of office so presuming he loses that's the end of the congressional investigations there's no current there would have to be an instant initiation of an investigation and i just don't think they'll allow that to happen i don't think the democrats the democrats would be so terrified of trump prosecution energizing his supporters and riling them up that i think that he won't have to give him a a pardon because there will be no prosecution to and i think that most democrats even the ones who hate him with a passion will gladly follow along because they're just going to be so damn happy to be in charge again and they're going to listen to whatever ***** the party tells them about the need to move on like we did with bush and then sure enough what happens is the ratchet only goes one way and the next one who gets in after biden ***** the dog and grover cleveland's the ***** out of this one it'll be some monster it'll be my pillow guy my pillow filled with goya beans oh thank you someone says they're enjoying hanging out i enjoy them as well uh just a few more minutes here if anybody oh i just want to also put this out here that we might be expanding the format for these in the near future uh we might turn this into like a daily like drive time chunk wondering if anyone would be interested in that if that sounds like something people and we would maybe involve more video some actual gaming too i would want to play some of those map based strategy games those always seem like fun but i can't handle all the little boxes and the clicks it's too complicated i can't it would not be mostly gaming though the gaming would be like limited because i did not want to become a streaming gamer that is uh that is i but i think i can i always wanted to see if you could ever if you could ever with with like the uh history ones i've always wanted to see if it's possible even in the game in a game to uh like do what charles v tried to do and have habsburg hegemony over europe in the early modern period or if the ottomans could have conquered all of the continent i don't think either one of them could have been technically possible but it would be fun to try to see if you no that is true the ottomans never really wanted europe they were much more interested in in the uh conquering uh as much of persia as they could from the assassins but and they were yeah europe was really the the water routes but i mean mehmed wanted italy back he wanted to take rome also i'd like to see if i could pull off and i know this is a later period but i always felt like napoleon really could have he could have pulled something off there i mean it wasn't going to last forever but he certainly had a game plan for trying to maintain like a powerful hegemony there and in western europe by planting like local uh monarchies that the bud off of his like his family line and his he was essentially reseeding the aristocracy

of western europe and that could have lasted i mean my god the uh the current uh royal house of sweden is descended from one of napoleon's marshals who was invited to take the throne you don't invade russia though dude why invading russia dog dog 1:4:12 i warned you bro don't invade russia but i do think that like the more sustained that the napoleonic you know era had been the more time that uh the s d surfing had been allowed to occur i think it could have been it would probably have hastened progressiveness you know it would have hastened progressive forces in europe but it also would have hastened the arrival of the contradictions that led to the 20th century being one of the bloodiest charnel houses in human history so everything is double-edged that's why it's so dangerous to open pandora's box and that's why anyone who seeks to change the world around them is taking a huge responsibility because there's a limited amount you can never know what you're going to do and there's going to be bad consequences of all change there's no such thing as a purely positive uh of a purely positive shift with any kind the thing about the british is is 1:5:21 that he i think there could have been some sort of viable at least medium-term uh stalemate with the british but i don't think he could ever let that go i mean he was a man of war and he and the idea of having an undefeated enemy i think was too much i mean it's a pretty uh it's a pretty wild thing for anybody to try to do conquer all of europe only a few have because it's institutions in geography don't let it take yes i do have napoleon on the brain though because i've been listening as i have for 1:6:23 years to uh age of napoleon one of the best history podcasts uh really really good you get a really good history first of the french revolution and the continental european diplomatic system and military tactics life of nelson he's he's got he understands the fractal nature of history and that things all like like you're talking about napoleon you're talking about a bunch of other things and he's always very uh good about contextualizing all the all the narrative but it's good should have allied with law of attorney attacked haiti i he said that was one of his biggest mistakes when he was in exile and yeah that was a huge blunder i've talked about it on here before he could have turned the caribbean into a ***** french lake there before the louisiana purchase i think the way to go is just if you haven't started it just listen from the 1:7:25 beginning they're all good and they all build on i'm gonna go bye-bye r.i.p the moon we love you we love you moon bye bye

sorry to take you away from those lovely little fluffy guys down there apparently uh those look like critter chat was was having a good time but i felt like i should stream today might not be able to do it this weekend so i want to try to do it today and tomorrow if anyone's watching which i assume they are although i'm not getting any comments yet i'll just start talking uh i wanted to start today by remembering michael brooks who was uh who's everything everyone is saying about him is true so i don't feel like there's any need to uh be redundant just know that the outpouring uh of affection for him was totally warranted and losing someone like that in that way is is really scary in its own way and and reminds you just how uh how lonely everything is but uh we're still here and uh for now and the best way to honor him is to do what he wanted people to do which was to god damn it be kind to each other i really appreciated that about him is that he understood that that the the uh reward the reward mindset and the value system inculcated by by online even among people who who really truly want what's best for everyone just reduces everyone to the cruelest version of themselves and the least generous and that there's no way to build a movement around that kind of uh mindset so so yeah rest in power as they say michael ah i've only was on a his show a few times but it was always really really fun and he clearly uh he did a lot more work for it than ***** i ever have ha and he was more prepared he certainly knew more about uh developments in other countries than i yeah oh and when someone like that's gone you can always then look back and wish you'd you know been closer but we only henry kissinger's still alive though that's kind of funny and uh bolsonaro has had has had coveted four times and been attacked by two or three large birds guy will never die because god i.e the demiurge i.e the the enforced social order and material realm which is why this is a world that's not fit for real human beings because it's not made it's made for lizards folks it's made for people who are able to make the choice to strip themselves of everything that makes them human uh it makes me think of how the neoclassical economic or the neoclassical economic resurgence and then uh takeover basically of the economic field after the 70s coincidentally around the same time that you know the uh post-war labor consensus broke and private money just started flushing into every propaganda valve known to man just so happens at that point everyone realizes actually penguins aren't social animals humans are self-interested economic agents uh that was that was the very idea of that really like to to to put that forward as not spiritual deformations caused by having to live under capitalism because that's the thing that the the economic the the the neo classical description of the individual uh that is what is incentivized by the market and people do better the better they treat themselves as one of those but that is not humanity flourishing 0:5:11 that's not humanity finding its its meaning and purpose that is to even suggest that is blasphemous at like a deep level like like just evil and uh uh demiurgical just like a a enchantment from the brimstone pit to suggest that the human that humanity is somehow uh more fully felt the more that it's isolated the more that it's delusionally fixated on satisfying its own ego terrifying and the recipe a world where people are like that is the world like the one we have now and economists like to look around and smugly look at that and say see this is what people are like and it's like no this is the system that you were disgusting intellectual handmaiden for this is what like how 0:6:13 the hell you've you're an individual self-motivated agent if that was the true why are anybody a lot why is anyone alive why do people raise children why do people impart why why does anything exist why is there any social fabric to be pulled apart by capitalism for in the first place how was it fixed how was it built into being cultural marxists in the babylonian times but even if you could be what they want you to be and of course there's a there's a zillion examples of why no one is rational and that no one can know their own self-interest well enough to operate from it successfully beyond any of that even if you could what the ***** is your self-interest what is your self-interest accumulating more than other people around you in a world where you're 0:7:14 connected and tethered to every other every other human being on earth by deep ties of of i mean sharing a mutual ecology and a world together each of you contributing in your smallest possible way to the full flower of like human civilization and culture that's all humans rubbing against each other that's all humans collaborating at every moment and to say i'm going to make my life and everyone should make my their life about accumulating as much material distinction from everyone else as possible what i mean that's a recipe for that's a recipe for human beings ending uh ending life on 0:8:16 this planet self-interest the self unbound by its social context is not a thing the thing that's you the thing that isn't culture the thing that isn't other people is a whisper it's a fragment it might not even really exist and trying to and teaching people that it's not that the opposite is true that that is in fact the entirety of your sense your ego the entirety of your self to have an interest psychotic psychotic genuinely i mean in that you you you are eventually forced to a point where the world as you understand it and the world is exists becomes so disparate that your brain breaks and we're clearly there now people's brains have been snapped like kindling like the q people 0:9:17 for example they thought they lived in the united states they really really have an idea in their head of what the united states is and and and and their place in it as self-actualized individual consumers and now they find themselves living in whatever the ***** this is uh how the hell go and create a fantasy narrative that connects the two things that's what everybody is doing to some extent or another creating a fantasy that's what ideology is fixing the two things together with like a bungee cord when you're trying to move a bike in the back of a car or something connecting your perception of the universe uh what what your what your baseline understanding of it is with the world because for one reason or another you refuse to examine those basic i mean there is a self-interest that is social like that's what that's the whole idea of 0:10:29 class coming into itself is in marx is it's not a person acting in their own under their own interests because that's absurd it's a class of people operating under their own interests because they understand their mutual their mutual uh shared condition of oppression and that's the real thing it is a condition of oppression being being defeated by coordinated action it's not it it it manifests itself sometimes as material deprivation but that's not the core of it the core of it is species being alienation caused by i wanted i was thinking about the masks and it seems like even the teacup 0:11:30 people even the conservatives are now starting to wear the mask because trump is now wearing the mask although apparently people were very unhappy with that tweet which by the way was clearly not him it was one of those ones where you can tell it was scovino which meant that they probably asked him to do a pro mask tweet because it's clearly one of the few things that we have right now that could potentially stop just insanely uh terrifying upward trajectory of covet infections uh and the the best they could do is just have him ghostwrite something and have him press press tweet under it uh so but i bet he still won't mostly be seen in public wearing one but the it's gonna be interesting seeing people come to terms with it because i i saw a lot of i've seen a lot of people baffled by the people who get psychotically angry about the mask and refusing not and refusing to wear it in public and like having spitting fits and freaking out i mean of course half of that at least you can just chalk up to 0:12:31 people trying to go viral and be epic i think people need to really really they are underestimating every time one of any kind of viral video comes over the transom the insane incentive structure of people going viral in one way or another it's not like there's any difference between good and bad publicity anymore so either side of any of these conflicts could literally just be someone being epic and getting uh and wanting to get some of that precious clout which as as i've said cloud chasing is just it's another form of being living in the gig economy it's just one more element of the gig economy uh is is trying to get the clout online to supplement income replace income have people be there for you when you need a medical bill paid so i understand that but the incentive structure is so overwhelming in one direction that half this ***** is probably people being epic and being viral but forget that when people and but there really are clearly true examples all across the country people just going and turning into frothing dogs with the prospect of having to wear a mask and a lot of people say they don't understand it and they want to say it's just because people are stupid but i think it's something much more understandable in a weird way it's that so obviously we all know that there's of the politicized americans which is once again less than like half of the american population even has like political instincts thinks politically draws political inferences from things that mean something i mean have invested themselves in politics as it's understood in america i.e the electoral system i'm not talking about people being alienated everybody's alienated but they have a vocabulary for it and they have a worldview that that uh that explains it and i'm saying that if you want to broadly draw 50 of the population people who vote as those who are most likely to frame their anger their disappointments in life their goals around political ideas they don't live in the same world right we live in different epistemic realities with different value systems and it's totally zero sum something is either either triggers the libs or triggers the cons and if it does the one thing uh if it triggers the ones you don't like then you it's good it just it's just a pure negative dialectic of of agitation uh and you could wonder like how do people live in a country with people that they are that violently opposed to without it getting more violent than it does and part of the big reason is it sublimate the hostility is sublimated by the the spec observing the spectacle of politics getting in getting excited when our guy owns the other guy getting excited when there's a successful troll done uh or someone wins an election of course that's the big game so they get that level of sublimation uh but part of the big reason is that they're able to carve out a world where they are not directly being they are not directly defeated because that's what everyone is terrified everywhere everybody hates the idea of being of losing to these people in some sort of meaningful like significant way like elections are just proxies elections are just entertainment and then you invest emotions and then when there's a good result you're happy if there's a bad result you're sad that's the main emotional level that's the main uh emotional uh trigger of elections that's what they're there for it's there to be the big game to get excited about and then to get really sad or really happy either way it's draining your political orgone into the into the spectacle which is what is but it's all it's all spectacle because life in america is largely the same no matter who's in charge i mean the economy gets worse and bad depending on how close we are to the popping of whatever bubble we're in uh and there's wars all the time and there's occasional school shootings and things and individual people 0:16:37 can get like horribly traumatized uh if they're not lucky but for the most part they're sort of a steady state american experience and the declines are gradual enough that they are not they are not processed as emergencies and so people sort of feel like those damn liberals or those damn conservatives they are doing things that are bad and i hate them and they're making the country bad and they're why the country is bad but they have not the day of defeat has not come you know like the on the right the gun people the guys are obsessed with the second american revolution and defending themselves obama was there for eight years they complained the whole time but at no point did any of them get there get to where they say this is it you know or very few of them anyway they were the whole eight years they were just like come and get it and it never really happened so they never they never rose up uh and same thing happens uh and i think if biden got in there you'd have similar 0:17:39 because the masks making someone wear a mask in public through social libranian and the legal code that is compelling behavior that is compelling actual behavior it's not choosing to throw your keurig out the window because they were mean to sean hannity or buying a trunk load of goya beans to give this is actual your life and because the masks are part of that epistemic tree of the enemies that propaganda fake news universe where liberals live you know the mainstream media is part of that the democratic party some republicans and and of course anything like the medical establishment just like the scientists who say global warming is real if they make you mayor a mask if you have to put a mask on your face in public that is a public it's 0:18:40 a might as well say cuck you've lost it's some fundamental way some real conflict happened the one you've been waiting for the one you've been girding your loins for and and especially one that you thought you were winning until five minutes ago you guys were winning up until ***** trump up until february it looked like trump was gonna get a second term it was gonna be more epic dabbing on the liberals until the end of time until your heart explodes and now like that the chinese and the media and the democrats can make up some ***** ***** virus make up a whole bunch of uh of stuff to make you to get you scared to make you vote for a democrat to destroy the economy so it hurts trump and then the worst of all to normalize this surrender this physical manifestation of your defeat at the hands of liberalism it no wonder 0:19:41 people lose their ***** it's like imagine if trump made you wear a mask for like an american flag mask for like america day that he declared everyone has to wear a mask or they go to jail how many people would get insanely pissed how many people would get up viral getting like tased or fighting someone over not wearing the mask and of course you say but there's a difference that would just be arbitrary uh flexing of his power whereas this is a response to a real uh uh viral phenomenon and and public health hazard to which i say not to them they don't see the difference it's all political it's all just a battle of domination there is no objective cri realm and if you have to wear if you wear a mask that means you sir have been cut so i see why they get so ***** pissed i really think they're pissed i think for that reason and that's why there's no real possibility that we're ever going to tackle by coming together the fantasy you know like that's the biden campaign is he's saying hey we're all going to come together that's why republicans listen to them they love me too and you know what given the situation economic collapse and a viral pandemic that a lot of people blame him for because he was the president and that's generally how it works the president gets the blame for ***** like unemployment and gas prices of course they're going to get the blame that's just the nature of the office it it ***** uh it it's the lightning rod for everything they get blamed and credited for things that they don't really have anything to do with now of course in his case he does have a lot to do with it because he did have a manifestly incompetent reaction but he wasn't the only one and plenty of democrat uh democrats in high office like andrew cuomo and gavin newsom stepped on their dick plenty enough for it's looking uh it's looking bad for the trumpy it's not looking good for him and you know if you're a conservative it's just because they press the ***** media press uh i'm gonna let you guys in on a secret uh people are gonna be asking me about the the last chapel episode uh i guess i just wanna get this out of the way so i don't have to deal with it um i mean i know some people are joking but uh with the cognitive test thing i was doing a bit where i was pretending to not be able to get the answers right because i thought it'd be funnier than everyone getting them easily correct because it was obviously a very easy test so just putting it out there i am not cognitively declining any more than anyone of my age which is significantly because after you hit 25 your neuroelasticity basically goes to ***** so it's not like i'm not cognitively declining it's just that it's more it's slower and it's earlier in the process i could definitely draw a clock i don't have any paper here but i could but biden is trying to do the thing that is impossible which is bring everyone together because duh there is no everyone and there is no together there is no unified value system with undergirding social foundations or even shared reality so i think that even though as i was saying trump looks like he's ***** and people think it's so his people think it's because of uh democratic shenanigans but it's just the absolute happenstance of of the the coronavirus thing more than anything uh which you know i don't think any president would have done a great job with including hillary would have done better than him probably but people wouldn't have known how bad he would do so they would blame them they would be mad as mad at whoever the president was as they are at trump because they wouldn't know that trump would have been worse or they couldn't know that you know what i mean they don't live in that reality they live in the reality where their person ***** things up but so he's going to get blamed for something that at that is relatively random uh and that's going to lead to he may be losing an actual like landslide although i don't think that that's inevitable at all and i think the democrats going crazy for it are just getting too hepped up they're getting too riled uh oh he's going to win georgia and he's going to win arizona he's going to texas slow down he'll be lucky to win florida but there's a chance that he wins significantly and handily and with republican support uh and that'll give people this this little notion i guarantee you if you win significantly you will see across the land the the media saying this is it we have broken the trump fever and we have unified the country now they won't be able to delude themselves into saying that the republican party is somehow purged of of its uh uh irrationality uh they will just say the republican party is now a rump uh composed of just like the most backward members of society and that now we will move forward in a spirit of true bipartisan unity to defeat corona and global warming and everything everyone else i'm just going to do the spoiler alert right now that will not happen there is no there's no common response to the crises of the moment there is only the struggle for power over the uh the institutions and the uh and of course what does this phrase socialism or barbarism mean it's uh it's the inevitable crisis point provoked by capitalist consumption of the natural world where there is a crisis of production and surplus and uh and output and all that stuff just gets all those gears and then there's two choices there's we socialize the means of production create an efficient distribution according to need rather than desires cooked up by capitalism itself which reduces the horrifying toll on the environment and allows for more of a homeostatic relationship with the natural world and that means value for all human life and all life to some extent much more so than now uh but if the other the other road in that crisis moment and we're looks like we're in i mean we're always in a crisis but this is getting this is getting extra crisisy uh although i must stipulate that you know late capitalism as we call it could could limp on for decades ***** maybe 100 years depending on how technology shakes out uh and of course not in you know there will be countries falling apart over that time and there will be massive violence but it will be assimilated and normalized into a system that might have to drop off parts you know that are no longer governed uh but will hold even tighter to those areas where it has control and that that's a realm where the the selfish pursuit of resources by all these damn rational actors leads to the biome being uh inevitably fatally uh unbalanced and leading every human being to only be able to violently compete with each other for what's left through slavery whatever whatever whatever tool is necessary to grasp the last the last bits grasp the last remaining arable land and mineral rare earth minerals and profit however it could be expressed so and there is no third way because capitalism drive is towards oblivion and towards uh towards critical over consumption which means any hybrid system that's still engine driven by capitalism especially in a fractured uh uh nation-state riddled world like the one we have will lead towards fatal competition and destruction so you got to have you have to have you got to pull that engine out of the machine you have to pull the profit motive out of the the machinery of of human uh economics it's the only way to prevent that that that decline into barbarism and of course it 0:30:2 won't even get called barbarism uh if if technology is able to be maintained it will be called humanity it will be called liberalism you know mass mass euthanasia and eugenics and engineered viruses you have to like pay a monthly who would be able to look at that and say oh this is the savagery of uh of tamerlane no this is this is humanity this is us this is us dealing forthrightly and adultly with the crises and problems that the world faces us faces i ran out of bloody skulls in me skills wallet 0:31:29 or i'll go talk to my member of parliament me skills wall it's bloody empty mate i'm skint i don't got any skills mate olaf i spent my last skill at the tesco i didn't watch the 30 rock special now i'm worried i won't be able to i don't know if it's going to be available it wasn't on hulu i mean i know it's depressing and terrible and a ***** ad for awful shows on a streaming set network a streaming series for a network which is now all of them they all have that what the heck who are the ad wizards who i've got a skills wallet i've got a skills wallet down i lib dem's proposed new skills wallet 0:32:32 scheme no i mean the the skills wallet is a terrible phrase and it's obviously perfect neoliberal uh you know uh social engineering oh yes we'll give people money but only if they spend it on education and only between the years of 30 and 39 just oh my god come on guys get it give it a give it up you weirdos you're sick you're sickos you love that ***** but it's also premised on the false idea that labor market shortfalls are caused by some sort of skills mismatch which was pretty definitively disproven by the recovery uh from i love i mean my favorite thing ever was the learn to code thing and kasich if people talk about kasich was one of those guys who got absolutely fixated on the coding thing like he'd drive through the appalachian parts of uh eastern ohio or 0:33:33 youngstown and just think if all these guys could code and now one of these people thinks well if everyone could code then how much would you get for being able to code how much can you get for knowing how to read there's no there's no income premium if it's universal they just can't conceive of that because otherwise there's no answer because these guys there's a reason that liberals fixate on education whatever that means because it's the only way out of the out of the maze that they've built for themselves the intellectual maze of like defending a patently indefensible institution that reinforces the grossest kind of social inequality and racial inequality and gender segregation and exploitation how the hell do you stand that legend and the answer is well if we could just get people smarter there there's no rest of that sentence when it comes to uh to the economy right because there can't be like i said it's it's incoherent but uh but it's the other end of it it's the social end that they really think that they really think there's something there they think if everyone went to college they'd be they would all be enlightened and that would make the world better like not if they i mean we're seeing it now how much is how much is college helping anybody be better people debt overproduction of elites yeah you're actually making the people you can't get into the uh the high status jobs more miserable than they would have been by raising their ***** expectations you raised a generation of people's expectations of what they were going to get out of life and what they could be settle and what most importantly what they would settle for that reminds me of uh of how it come it came up in the context of uh of after uh michael brooks's passing there was some awful person who i'm not even going to name who decided to use it as an opportunity to like try to yell at felix for some reason and it just and he kept calling him a grifter and that just struck me because that is the word of words to describe people on the left it's like every everyone is on the lookout for for a grifter if you're if you're not if you're not explicitly ideologically evil like a nazi or something you then you're then the second bad faith assumption is grifter and it's pretty clear at this point that the word has lost any kind of meaning because ostensibly it's supposed to be about somebody who who gets money from people under false pretenses right and kind of by definition something like a podcast where you pay for episodes or something cannot be a gift unless those episodes don't exist unless you download the episodes and then they aren't there if they're if you if you're paying for something somebody is offering you and that you get what they what their what they advertised then by no definition can a gift have occurred and yet it's all these people all of whom have podcasts accusing each other of being grifters when the term doesn't even obtain and i think it's because they're trying to get at a deeper accusation which is that you're not serious it's either that you're not serious about what you what you claim to believe and you're just doing it for clout and therefore money and therefore that's a gift or you're a fraud and you don't know what you're talking about and that they're there there and uh and that is what makes it a scam because even though you are giving people what they asked for and what they're paying for you're doing it under false pretenses of who you are and of course it should be pretty clear why that's an obscene absurd and incoherent way to try to argue and like make sense of the world around you because it requires you to know uh someone's like internal motivation for why they say things rather than what they're actually saying and i mean it's you just dug a hole for yourself if your interest is actually you know moving forward with knowledge which of course isn't the point it's just to exercise people and build lot barriers there's just one more but i think the real underlying part of it all is what i said a few episodes a few streams ago about how the lack of faith in the project is like the undergirding flaw in the left if it exists is that most people aren't really operating under any belief that anything they do will do any good and i think that that grifter accusation is an attempt to sniff out the people for whom that's true be like this person is just mouthing these things and that they're really just here for the scene and the verso loft and all that and i think once again the the tragedy there is that the reason that's so resonant and so frequently uh used as an epithet is because it applies to some degree about all to all of us and it's yeah it's like it's it's it's the fixation on that is just a neurotic inability of people to deal with it in themselves and so they have to uh condemn it strenuously in others and make sure everyone knows that they don't suffer from it that's because they're not secure in their own uh beliefs and they have not grounded them they haven't fixed them they haven't accepted that you know what it probably won't get better probably not going to see anything good come of any of my actions but it's still worth doing regardless it's still in fact morally required of me to do these things because it springs from my like my spiritual understanding of my place in the world rather than as a as a way to distract i would like to do lamb skewers someone is suggesting lamb skewers on the grill i will do that i think maybe i'll do that next time you got maybe make them homemade tziki sauce put some pitas on there yeah i'm thinking that sounds pretty good i think uh someone's asking about the federal troops i don't think he's gonna do it uh i think he's stoke he's he has found something that he thinks is gonna win for him because obviously trump only has one button to push it's the same one he pushed in 2016 and of course that's insane because he's been president now for four years so it's not nearly as effective but the one button he has is that cultural uh polarization button and we actually already have a a decent suggestion that it might not work if he's in power because people i mean obviously it feels like a million years ago but in 2018 during the midterm remember he put all those troops at the mexican border and whipped up a terror about the caravans those troops are still there by the way uh waiting for a caravan that never shows up and he's still lost pretty badly so nationalizing the election around those like galvanizing social issues didn't work at least once i mean the context of 2016 is really so much more about hillary clinton uh than about him and about what she represented and crucially what he represented which was an alternative he's not an alternative anymore and i think a lot of people kind of underestimate that he's no longer nobody could vote to him being like hey what's the worst could happen they now know what they get when they get him and a lot of them don't like it and there's nobody who's gonna do like the hey throw the dice thing because they know what they get with him that's why undecideds and less engaged people tend to in elections with an incumbent at the last they tend to uh at least that's not always true but it so this time i think he thinks oh great the statue ***** is my thing now this is the one thing that he can pull out of the muck that could be a polarizing issue because he tried it with the with the masks and with the go outside order which is now being totally underwhelmed 0:43:3 overwhelmed by the inevitable you know spread of the disease beyond containment or hope of containment and uh he's already backtracked like he's wearing masks now he can't really he can't really press that button uh and then like he can't really do the uh the the black lives matter thing that he was doing earlier like you know where he was saying black lives matter was hate slogan and stuff like that that's not polling well because you know broadly speaking the goals of the of the protests have been met with approval in uh in polling now what that means i have no idea i don't think it necessarily means anything but uh it certainly doesn't give him a sense that this is a fertile row to hoe uh but the idea of like untrammelled violence in this in the cities and him being the only one who can stop it because the local democrats are too feckless uh that's some ***** you know that's some old-fashioned uh bernie gets ass 0:44:4 80s new york ***** which is so he's going to keep trying to uh escalate this like this is all intentionally uh uh uh this is all intentionally provocative i mean it seemed as though the protests were sort of not petering out but losing their front page urgency because they had become less and less con violent because the cops for the most part in most places had stood down a little bit and therefore the marches went by largely unmolested they didn't escalate and so they became assimilated into the day-to-day reality and we're no longer news and then the ***** plane club or the uh unmarked cars start plucking people off the streets of portland which is of course you know one of the most fervent cities for uh protests and uh and one of the most like organized 0:45:6 and uh uh confrontational left's left uh protest scene in the country uh and what do you know it that sparks off a whole new round of conflict i mean people talk about how this is you know this is a dress rehearsal for fascism and i mean yeah as if the crisis persists and gets worse and we don't do any redistribution yeah pulling people off the street and unmarked cars is going to get much more common but in the more near-term and i think more on what trump is thinking it heightens the conflict that he thinks he can win on but the problem is i don't think he can because because he's the incumbent and because he is so intentionally inflammatory in his speech and in his actions he i think will get blamed more than certainly biden by people who are disturbed or people who aren't already committed and who are disturbed by you know because you know in 68 nixon ran as a as a peacemaker a guy who's going to 0:46:9 stop all the violence and all the mania in the streets but that's because you know he wasn't in office trump is in office how do you say vote for me and all this will stop

when it's happening under you i mean you aren't stopping it now why would i think you're going to stop it a year from now biden on the other hand he says he might so i think this is all part of his his one campaign strategy and i think that that's going to be the next four months is going to be him uh especially ver especially uh verbally and in tweets raising the stakes against the mob antifa and all that ***** and people are going to respond and there's going to be more protests there's going to be i mean the libs are going to lose their ***** because it's gonna look more and more like 0:47:10 he's he's threatening he's like gonna promise an actual civil war in america's streets but i think that he doesn't have the sand for the actual confrontation uh look what happened with the lafayette square uh clearing he went out there waved the bible around and then the next that day threatened to send the army to american cities at which point joint chiefs started leaking like a sieve that they wouldn't take those orders and the whole thing was shelved now right now now he's doing it through dhs because that's a compliant toady and those guys are his guys in a way that the army but they're dhs give me a ***** break they're a bunch of ***** they're the losers they're they're they're the they're the runoffs they're they're not those guys the bureau of prisons i think is is not the same department but uh the guys that we talked about a few weeks ago who just destroyed all of their uh co-workers with 0:48:12 paintballs and uh and flashbangs they brought from home during a so yeah i think there's gonna be more stuff in portland i think he might send some guys in to try to provoke in the big cities but i think whenever the the real moment of like down oh man jacob wall the man is simply a king there's no denying it he is one of the most brilliant post post post modern media figures of the moment he's one of the very few who i admire because he's free none of us are free none of these none of the people in this like whatever the hell you want to call it uh uh this morass of uh 0:49:13 of internet political personalities people who essentially monetize their identities as like vectors of political agitation uh all of us are bound by to some invisible audience some imagined viewer or reader who we want to respect us we imagine who they are they're basically us because we imagine like somebody if i was out there would i like me that kind of thing jacob wall has obliterated that he doesn't care what anyone thinks of it uh which is astounding and and what better example of that than him making up a fake llc to pay himself uh that is one letter off from the one that jason maxwell has and then claiming that he she paid him to do dirty tricks bragging about 0:50:16 it essentially bragging about a fake dirty tricks campaign that he was going that he carried out on behalf of a globe-trotting sex criminal a a groomer par excellence a a a genuinely evil person i mean it beggars imagination like in a world where we've all decided to like plug into a global panopticon where at every moment our psyches are totally vulnerable to being devastated by the just acquisitory unblinking eye of our perceived audience that even exists when we're not on line or posting this guy is gliding he's walking between the raindrops he's vibing at a frequency that yeah like he is the guy who more than anyone especially anybody who claims that's the case 0:51:17 he has embraced the idea that there is no such thing as bad publicity like a lot of those alt-right guys will kind of uh point to the fact that they do open racism which makes means that they can't monetize the way that uh left-wing or non-explicitly racist political people can as proof that they're authentic and genuine right and that is one of the big reasons that i think a lot of young white men go to the alt-right is because you know the simulated alienating hell of online makes us crave authenticity which of course is itself a fantasy and a chimera but it's still something that is a load star for many of us and when you see everything being sold to you and people selling themselves all throughout the internet if somebody could point to something and say like i mean this i'm not full of ***** if they can actually point to something some part of their belief system that that validates that argument it's very to some people it's very uh engaging and i think for a lot of those all right guys uh they 0:52:18 they say i'm the real ***** i'm the real danger because i'm literally not allowed on youtube and i think people see that and they think oh ***** yeah that's authentic that's authentic uh and of course it doesn't really mean anything you know it's it's just really a question of etiquette like where where what capitalist etiquette is and how it impacts uh its you know market structures essentially just the rules of the market of behavior of the market have changed uh and and now you're just you're as much like those guys are as much a threat to capitalism as somebody jacking off in a bank lobby you know it's like it's gross and at some point the cops are going to show up and and get him out of there but he's not going to ***** bring that bank to its knees by jacking off in the lobby and that's what those guys are they're jacking off in the lobby of like the the the marketized realm that we all live in the internet and they're calling the fact that they're asked to leave uh proof that they're dangerous and really subversive but it is a mark of authenticity it's a mark 0:53:20 at the very least that they're not after what they think those other people are after they're not after money they're not after fame they're not after getting their butt smooshed by hollywood pedophiles and that is persuasive but the thing is those guys still are just as terrified of their perceived audience i mean remember the thing with pinovich and his jewish wife where he like left his jewish wife because his mouth dreaming ***** fans found that is not a free man i don't care if he has to post under a pseudonym or whatever and he has to like go to the dark web to get paid for his ***** podcast that is a man who has been brutally cucked by his own audience jacob wall doesn't care jacob well does not care at all nice i could write a poem with that title uh and he expresses that by humiliating himself in a way that no one would do uh that no one could do unintentionally that's what's so brilliant about it like 0:54:21 the specific there are obviously a lot of clowns and pathetic losers out there who like you know uh uh guys who like pick their nose and eat it on a stream you know it's it's not hard to find a lot of self-administered l's out there but they're usually they speak to that person's incompetence or or just personal loathsomeness or um lack of social skills walls humiliations could only be intentionally self-inflicted and the thing is is that they also inflict damage at a very like low level but they inflict damage on his supposed world view too none you know not not only do none of his uh smears on democrats land the very fact that he's doing them and the fact that he's associated in some way with conservatism undermines conservatism to a little to a little extent but he doesn't give a ***** because he doesn't really care about politics 0:55:23 in my opinion i think he grew up in emilio of politics because of his insane father but i feel like he is totally detached probably because he saw the sausage getting made from a young age from any conceptions of political uh value system he had just assimilated the the self-dealing that's behind it all the the gimmick the the the the the fraud at the heart of modern politics and certainly modern consumer cons uh conservatism you know going back to richard vigory in the direct mail uh uh the direct mail uh lists that started the conservative movement in the 50s and 60s it's all been a ***** giant scam it's all mid-level marketing it's all handed in each other's pockets all to advance personally within the system effects of mutual exploitation cannibals all and wall got that at some point i think and just took it to the next level like okay this is this is this the name of the game is personal personal advancement 0:56:25 through political spectacle well any way i do that i'm going to be trapped in the maw of this machinery how could i possibly indulge this while still being in any way a free human being and he figured it out by just detaching completely from human conceptions now of course the question then becomes who's paying for it and that is why we have to always get back to the material basis for all analysis because obviously the fact that wall is so obviou manifestly incompetent limits the number of people who are reasonably likely to give him money you know i i can't imagine that he he has a lot of real clients i mean he does have a history of doing literal uh stock fraud allegedly which he's that's why he's banned from like trading stocks on uh and i think he's he's still awaiting trial on on securities fraud in california and that was when he was a teenager so he he is now so could this whole thing be a 0:57:27 money laundering operation for someone else which describes most of the economy at this point uh i mean the uh the liquidity in the global market is provided by the there's some persuasive evidence that the 2008 collapse was prevented from being a absolute uh dismantling of the global economy by the presence of a huge amount of liquid capital in the form of laundered uh drug money that basically helped fill the gap before the government was able to loosen the floodgates but it's all just it's all ***** bad money being turned into good money that's trump's job that's uh ***** that's silicon valley all that ***** uh that's the ***** real estate market that's all money laundering investment i'm sorry investment quantitative easing um so maybe 0:58:28 he's part of that i don't know but when he got an only fans that was amazing mind blowing he decided to go on he's like 24 years old and he got on steroids to get all weird and ropey i don't know he is a riddle he has a riddle wrapped in enigma and it's i would and i and if i knew where the money was coming from that would help solve the equation i think if he's got family money then he's basically just a hobbyist a very talented hobbyist but a hobbyist if he's somehow making money off of this 0:59:31 then he is one of the greatest geniuses if he is actually making money at what he says he's doing then he is the greatest genius of all time and honestly even if he has money laundering for somebody unemployment expansion mcconnell came out today and said they're gonna do it it's probably gonna be less than the last check but i never i honestly say i never really thought for a second uh that they weren't gonna do that because we are just so far away from not from allowing from not allowing a second or not requiring rather a second check dispersal that at a certain point politic ideology has to give way to political reality as much as these guys were apparently enamored of the idea that oh no we can't give people money then they won't go to work and then the unemployment rate will go up as if that matters compared to the like a third of the people in the country being evicted from their homes uh so yeah i figured they were gonna blink it's gonna be bad it's gonna be more you know more 1:0:34 money up of course always more money for the top so that when they can swoop in and just buy up all the old real estate of all the small businesses but uh i think they're going to do another check and i think they're going to do unemployment extension too also maybe a cap maybe a capital gains tax cut which would be hilarious and also a ***** what a payroll tax cut amazing they can't help it it really is built into the system like to do anything else like we could say well why wouldn't you just do x y or z to do those things they would have to be different people if they just did a 1:1:37 payroll tax cut that would be amazing but i don't think they'd do it at a certain point there has to be a i mean that's the thing you have to remember though is that you know when you're trying to figure out what capital is going to do you do it from the assumption of they're operating out of what they consider the best interest of capital broadly defined is you know if you're talking about government as sort of the as a stand-in for uh for a like a round table of large capitalists uh there can only operate from their best perception of their best sub their best interest and every government and despot that's ever been overthrown in a revolution at every point they thought what they were doing was in their best interest and at a certain point they were no because ideology starts gumming the works you reproduce the most mediocre minded ***** you get completely detached from the actual micro reality that uh that hayek claims is supposed to signal what's really happening at the grassroots to all right guys i'm gonna get off in a minute here a few more questions and i'm gonna how much longer will twitter be a website that's a good question it certainly lasted longer than i would have thought it would when it started it's weird how after early innovations it really just and things popping up and going down and friendstered in smack spaces it really just settled into facebook and twitter there's never been like a third heat unless you got instagram which is maybe tick tock is going to replace all of it i mean if you if the tweens are you know hegemonic and they keep marching through like the income brackets assuming there still are any associated with more you know spending income and more influence on the on markets and advertising maybe if they if they got rid of tic-tac wouldn't there be an american version of tick-tock immediately i don't understand the internet i should it's just a bunch of clicks and whistles i kind of assume all of it will be the notice yeah i was just thinking about vine what the hell happened to vine was it because it was seven seconds and tick tocks are longer or was it the because i remember when the tick tock started it was all because they had music it was just people lip syncing and then it turned into a bunch of other craziness at first it was people lip syncing was i don't understand it i don't understand it yeah let's go to web 1.0 guys i was there ate my balls i kiss you uh mr t through hell of afar seanbaby.com that was a hell of an internet just the forum era people could always ask me if i was ever on something awful and i never was i didn't even know what it was until many years later i didn't meet i met all those guys who were legends on something awful through twitter i never went on something awful i was on mr cranky it was a movie review website that was my ***** uh sadly i don't think any of those uh uh those those rooms survive which frankly good they would suck and i'm i would never want to read them but yeah uh that's how i'll end things with let's we need to we need to like recognize limits while still recognizing people's curiosity and need to explore new forms so my compromise is we don't ban the internet that's crazy we just go to web 1.0 and then you have to be happy with that and it builds character it builds all you get are angel fire sites with little clickers on the bottom saying how bye-bye there i am hello howdy joke folks howdy jokes hi jokers getting your loving on the run uh sure don't want to hurt no one one of the worst songwriters in american history the opposite of bob dylan steve ***** miller so today i wanted to start by 0:1:2 talking about special effects in movies because someone tweeted today that they that they had watched me recommend the blob remake the uh 80s blob remake with uh i believe kevin dillon jeffrey de mon uh uh written by frank darabont and they said that it was great and they were glad they hid and i got to have a little bit of a chat online about the wondrousness of the 80s sci-fi remakes all of which are great uh but which i think a blob is honestly the by far the most underrated one and i think in in argument really for the best it's that one or the the thing in my opinion and it's close it might be a toin flip in my opinion um and of course one of the things that make both those movies great is practical special effects and all the things special effects are pretty well known they're sort of the gold standard people always talk about the thing but i really feel like the blob might even have 0:2:3 more impressive special effects and it doesn't get talked about nearly as much the blob in that movie is this it doesn't eat people the way that the jello mold steve mcqueen blobbed people it dissolved people and you could see through it you could see people being eaten in by the acidic blob and they showed it they showed people having their faces melted off on scramble they saw the guy get pulled down entire body pulled down through a ***** uh uh and it's also very nasty it's like it's willing to kill children uh it has very funny uh reagan-era politics because the blob obviously the original 50s movie people took that at face value this is about communism big red blob coming to get everybody uh you know you could also say no it's actually anti-communism no it's actually 50s 50s conformity whatever any way you slice it it's pretty uh the surface was certainly supposed to be anti-communism it's red it's a big red blob come on but even the surface text of the blob remake is very like pissed 0:3:5 off 80s left in exile because instead of the blob being an alien creature the blob is actually the result of a us government experiment by carried out by the military to create a super weapon and when the government scientists come up come around they're willing to kill everybody spoiler alert although it's it's not really part of the it doesn't really matter kill everybody uh to preserve it and then another bad guy is like this holy rolling preacher played by del close who founded the chicago uh chicago second city i believe it's like it's the classic reagan era left-wing boogeyman of the military-industrial complex and uh evangelical protestantism but anyway very good movie uh and the practical effects are a big reason why and it led to the whole see the classic cgi uh practical effect argument you know practical effects are better and then 0:4:6 people say no cgi is more versatile and the thing is is that on the question of practical versus cgi i would actually say that that is you could that could be boiled down to a matter of taste um because as much as i might be a practical guy because i grew up with them i'm an analog guy at the end of the day i'm oregon trail generation i'm i remember getting computers so that means i'm not a digital native so that means that i have a certain expectation of presence on screen whereas kids who grew up on video games which are all cgi and then cartoons and stuff much more uh and then of course everything online that's all smoothed out it doesn't they're not missing what i'm missing and so you know okay fair we've heard of that and in addition to that there's a genuine trade-off because one of the problems with practical effects is movement fluidity it's very hard to make a practical effect look like it's moving across a room how do you create something that's like a robot most of those robots and 0:5:7 stuff they have you know limits to how far they can go because they're not full auto automatons that's the technology that's it's too much it's unnecessary uh you can you can cheat but it looks like it's cheating a little bit like that's where that's where stop motion comes in that's where green screens all of these things don't look perfect whereas the promise of cgi is pure fluidity of motion now you could say well i don't like fluidity of motion and i don't care about fluidity emotion compared to concrete sense pres uh sense of presence on screen i'd say amen but i will acknowledge that there are people especially younger people for whom that distinction doesn't matter and they like the fluidity of cgi so i'm willing to write that off as just generational and aesthetic but there is one thing that i will not and that is cgi gunshots and blood splat the cgi bullet holes going into people and there's blood coming out of people 0:6:8 from shot from being shot uh in my opinion that is not a question of generation it's not a question of aesthetic preferences cgi blood and gunshots look bad they are inferior in a meaningful objective or close to objective sense and what i mean by that is this for now cgi blood and uh blood and gunshots and this is not objection this is not something that's arguable i don't think don't look real they don't look real that's not i don't think that's the thing you have to like argue with somebody with even even a damn zoomer i think the argument would be what difference does it make just like it is with that cgi creature uh doesn't look real well it can move on screen

which like a puppet couldn't uh to which i say no in a horror all bets are off but in action it is paramount like the point of showing blood coming out of somebody when they get shot in an action scene is to see what is as close as possible to the image of a human being being shot with a gun that's what establishes the stakes in action films that's what we're there to see we're there to see damage being done to characters to enjoy the visceral as in gut-based satisfaction of seeing violence done to somebody who isn't me which is a deep lizard thing in people um and also to establish stakes for what will happen to our characters who we love hopefully if the good if the good is the movie is good and i would say that cgi blood and bullet wounds do not look that way and therefore they cannot fulfill the role that gunshots in an action movie are supposed to do they can't do it they can't do the job and that means that they are inferior inherently and that's my take on that and i say i can't argue you can argue but you're wrong that's one of those red lines like i'm all about you know it's all about there's no binaries until you get to 51 you know and i'm way past 51 on this one i'm near 100 on this one um but yet fewer and fewer films feature squibs and blood even big budget hollywood movies that's crucial here it's not technically a question of cost big movies could technically afford squibs and that is why for a long time i yelled at movies that didn't use squibs because it felt like they were cheaping out on purpose and i've had a creeping realization lately especially i saw after i saw the five bloods the new spike lee movie on netflix and they used all not only cgi bullet wounds but cgi gun flashes they didn't uh the punisher series on netflix did that too they didn't even put blanks through the ***** mag they just went afterwards and put in flashy lights at the end of the ***** guns uh and it was awful like and they had to pretend to have recoil like all the actors the gun wasn't firing so they didn't they didn't have like actual recoil at all they had to pretend it was like bang bang bang bang bang it was like kids playing dress-up and i was like how could spike leave let this happen but i think what i've done what's dawned on me especially seeing like a movie by a real movie maker not some ***** hack that was like that is that i don't think that that i think we've reached the point on squibs that we reached with cgi a while ago where these are not questions that are being raised anymore you know it's like when when spike lee signs on to direct a movie at no point is there a discussion about whether it's going to be in color or other than unless he's got a hair up his ass or like whether it's going to be shot on digital unless you have a specific hair up your ass those things are all assumed yeah we're going to use digital cameras because those are cheaper uh you know we'll use cgi we'll use where we can we'll use green screens that's built in there's and i'm feared i'm afraid now that we have reached the point where bullsh gunshots which are objectively inferior uh cgi gunshots have been baked into the new understanding of where the budget goes um

and that to me is awful and depressing and sucks because i don't know if i'm going to see any good action movies anymore every time i see an action movie now i'm just holding my breath for the first gunshot and then i either turn it off or if it's got anything else going for it i watch it and just at the every gun every gun play scene i just get a little more deflated uh so many movies i think are really good and get undermined on that one way i can't distract myself from like the purge films for example and then but then if i see it oh my god and there are so many dog ***** action films that i find myself overrating and watching longer than i should because at least there's some ***** squibs i mean and that's what i mean is what i mean is that it's not technically about money because like there are squibs in in movies that guys made in their backyards in the 80s like staphon if anyone's ever watched best of the worst redliner media you know stuff like uh get even and these weird uh vanity 0:11:17 movies that like uh uh local real estate magnates and ***** uh uh uh karate uh what do you call it uh karate studio owners would like self-fund they had ***** they have they have squibs you couldn't afford squibs but they i think it's been phased out of even even on the on the on the budgets at this point it's not an object it's not a uh unless you insist on it like i don't think tarantino's ever going to make a movie with whibs no matter what but of course he can make that argument because he is a big money these movies uh they sell so he gets to stake the terms for even directors a lot of directors don't have the ability to make those demands and i think the reason for that is that this is this thing where this is literally and fully the fault of capitalism this is an example where you can see objectively the way that the artistic integrity of films like any other artwork are undermined by the degree to which they 0:12:18 have to adhere to market logic it's a genuine case it's like darwin's finches if you want to argue about capitalism destroys culture and argue that culture cannot be uh progressive in the way that liberals want it to be and think that they can make it and make that make everything good no it dissolves like acid all qualities and i know i mean obviously that means ideological but it also just means aesthetic it literally just means a commitment to art as an expression of human beauty a all artists is trying to is trying to present a perfect image from the mind somehow a crystalline connection to the unconscious and put that in the world in some form and filmmakers try to do it with movies and if they have had it written if it's been written out of the logic of filmmaking that you have you can't that you uh can have to show ***** cgi looking blood coming out of people you have undermined the artistic integrity 0:13:20 of film and the reason they do this is because it's for one reason cgi is compatible with the new gig economy uh prolific neoprolatinarianization that we're seeing our deprolitarization we're seeing where uh people where the problem is that like the the the type of film economy that produced squibs doesn't exist anymore where you had

union crews doing union jobs to to keep them happy because they were making all this money and they had to keep the ***** workers happy and so if you want to have shoot a bunch of people with squibs and have them go off so satisfying you've got to have somebody rig up the clothing you got to wait around while you're getting to set up that and then set up the shot and then if anything goes wrong wrong uh 0:14:22 you gotta get a whole new wardrobe because you've ruined that one and then set up another rig and do it again that is the compounding costs of that are tremendous whereas you're shooting people with cgi bullets one shot everybody falls down you're happy with it good you want two for safety go for it but then the real work is done by ***** outsourcing it to fiverr a bunch of ***** uh code jockeys working tiny trances of the job for micro payments and no ***** uh overtime certainly no union benefits the costs are just so over time uh uh accumulative that the logic of filmmaking has now squeezed out a genuinely meaningful craft that undergirds a certain type of it's very very very sad but it also shows like we've got to do this we've got to get rid of this and of course you know a libertarian will try to jiu jitsu this and say 0:15:24 well that's the fault of fat union contracts these guys these guys care more about making their union rate than making art to which i say uh ***** you uh this is all because of profit they're squeezing out the profit out of the tooth tube toothpaste tube and they're all responding to the declining rate of said this all ***** should be all funded by the government this should all be ***** either publicly through like crowdfunding or direct block grants from uh you know artistic institutions this should all be ***** publicly funded there shouldn't be any profit in it at all so your that objection is stupid but even if you accept that logic that well they should do it they should do it for the love of it and they're ruining everything with their fat union contracts it's very hot that's why i'm sweaty it's it's no longer pleasant new york it's it's oppressively uh human but even if those guys are even if those guys are working fiverr rates instead of uh union rates they still have to set up the shot probably going to not do as good a job as the guys used to pay more to do it by the way because why would they uh and they gotta supervise the work and it takes 0:16:26 more time and time is the most precious commodity on a film set because the time that you're setting up a shot or dealing with a logistical issue is a time when a lot of people are not doing anything and that is just so the capitalist the dagger to the heart people standing around you got time enough to lean you got time enough to clean and cgi gun play especially in action movies that are heavy with it streamlines the the uh uh streamlines the uh amount of time it takes you to make the movie just cuts i don't know what it would be but it's significant which means compounding significant amount of money is saved by not having everybody sitting around for days on end while you set up shots and the thing is is like that's that's not a problem that can be solved by doing away with cultural marxism and sjws it's it's not it's not a problem that can be solved by anything other than removing the the the decrepit uh 0:17:30 code the the the um the monster in the machine the capitalist profit motive it's the only way to redeem this ***** and yeah of course people can point to good movies that still get made a lot of the time it boils down to either luck uh happenstance or it's just a few people it's it's the same thing as the american economy there's a there's a remaining hangover of people who are still holding on to those last bags of money those last chunks of ice of of the ice of the sink of the melting uh the melting ice cap of post-war prosperity and that applies for directors too there are guys who are still walking around with big ***** histories of making money for people that can make that can give them the leverage to ensure that they don't ***** around with a thing like squibs but those people are shrinking and shrinking in number and they're even their leverage is is so even if there's a few i'm just saying treasure the the 0:18:31 really treasure the the gifts when they come aesthetically because they're going to be fewer and fewer farther farther between uh somebody pointed out the john wick movies one of the things that makes the john wick movie is just i think i've come around to feel finding them very i rewatched john wick 3 the other night i'd only seen it after once in the theaters and i was like this is not i don't like this actually i don't like this i officially don't like it anymore and part of it is the fact that the plot is structured so that none of it has to happen it's it's one of those things that is well you could have just started here at the end of the lap you could have left off where the last movie did in basically the same situation give or take so the whole plot is pointless and you know it's obviously it's running out of maneuvers with the the choreography they added some dogs but the monotony of the ***** cgi blood splatter is so deadening and they do it better than most because they don't overdo 0:19:33 it and they keep it dark that helps it hides the clash they don't get the color right they've never gotten the color right and of course we're not talking about real blood we're talking about movie blood which is all you need them to look like and you know how you do that make some ***** movie blood it's amazing they can't with all their ones and zeros they cannot make something look like movie blood and meanwhile movie blood you just put some carrot syrup in a ***** so i'm not looking forward to the next one but i'll see it out of completism probably and you know people like to say oh what's tough with uh it's tough with john wick to use square squibs because there's so many head shots one don't have as many headshots why does everything have to be a headshot if you have to compromise so deeply as in using cgi maybe don't do that uh but also you can it's not impossible to do head shots just some 0:20:35 ***** corn syrup sprashed on the back of the wall uh if you've gotta do cgi gun muzzle flash because you can't fire blank that close to someone's head okay that's a

concession to just logistics but you can still you can still do and they don't they don't do it yeah early squibs weren't great either the thing is even a bad squib is still uh still on screen and i feel like that is still going away from the need for as i said realism is the point of bullet wounds in in action films that's what makes it artistically fun 0:21:37 and interesting uh so that's still not at the ideal but it's already by virtue of really being on a screen and and actually having like fluidity that is not obviously uncanny valley-like you're already up you're already up meanwhile after what 10 years now of hegemonic squibs blood cgi squibs as bad as it ever has been i saw i saw arms or guns akimbo i saw guns kimbo wretched film absolutely wretched film one of the things was wretched about it was the cgi blood which undermined the entire thing but i will say this because the whole movie is supposed to be like this one of those dumb ass critiques of like the culture of spectacle and violence but you're not looking at real anything that even comes remotely close to real violence you're looking at cgi graphics you've already it's like i'm already playing a video game you've lost it you've lost your your connection to some sort of critique this only works if i feel 0:22:38 like these are real stakes but what scares me is if that movie had used cgi if that movie had used squibs especially considering how much violence was in it i probably would have raved about it even though it's objectively terrible in every other way feel like i'm really appreciating something or just happy to see something that's not so distractingly terrible but those are the burdens we pair in heavy is the head that eats the crayons oh god something happened to birth movie's death did they find out that uh all of those people are still devin ferracci under a screen name i wouldn't 0:23:41 be surprised i've never seen any of them in person who knows if those man that is an underrated terrible sight i mean the the the business model of that is hey what if we did sponsored promotion but didn't tell anybody we were doing sponsored promotion yeah that's great because then you're making money no matter what you can you can you're pursuing the traditional click-based ad uh strategy of regular news or a regular entertainment news uh and opinion sites but you're also getting paid under the table by the very studios you're reviewing the films of it's pretty impressive it's a hell of a racket and then the fact that it was founded by a just awful unpleasant uh creep who who hilariously tried to come back as a born-again buddhist which is very funny for me to talk but i wasn't being canceled when i decided to have some sort of spiritual experience he essentially did the same thing that uh televangelists 0:24:44 who get caught diddling the receptionist and pilfering from the poor box do which but because he's in california and he's amongst the libs he can't be christianity so it's a nice eastern religion uh that feels worldly and uh and vaguely left-wing how do i feel like harmony corrin's movies i'm up and down on corinne uh gummo is really disturbing and memorable uh i never saw julian donkey boy i'll admit i don't really like kids um i just thought beach bum and was kind of underwhelmed although i really really like jonah hill uh but i and i never but i have to say uh i do really like spring breakers i think that he really kind of he hit that one out of the park he kind of grooved it it was one of those perfect situations where he got the the perfect marrying of subject matter and cast especially my god franco specifically is brilliant in that uh and vanessa vanessa hudgins is very good too and for in my money there's fewer scenes that better define pre-covered late or early 20th cent 21st century america than the look at my ***** scene look at my ***** look at all my ***** look at my apparently you cannot just have the full clip anywhere on that ***** i got shirts all colors no uh that's my favorite of his i think that's pretty i'll admit i'm not a huge malek guy i'm not a malakian i don't really vibe i've liked some of his movies but it's just not my i don't know i need more of a i think i'm more of a lock i don't know i try to i like i kind of lyrical filmmaking has never really spoken to me i feel like maybe it's cheating a little bit because like mood and ***** is what film is and what like the challenge of commercial filmmaking anyway is to shape it into something is to give it a spine and like the conflict between that like the conflict between the art and like the expressiveness of film and its narrative structure the artificial imposition i think that's what's interesting and i and for mount with malik i don't feel enough of that i don't feel the gear is more turning enough i appreciate why people like it it's i like von trier i have to say uh i thought that antichrist the first half of nymphomaniac is really interesting the second half is very bad uh and then the serial killer movie that apparently like everyone hated except for the people who love his ***** uh is now on hulu but it's only like the hour the two and a half hour version i kind of want to see the whole thing because netflix had the whole uncut uh nymphomaniac which is what i saw and i'd oh um dogville's also very good i never got around to seeing mandalay maybe because i wasn't buying bryce were you ever a big fan of john carpenter uh yeah i'm thinking i am considering i think that he might be the best film i think he's the best filmmaker of the 80s pound for pound i mean it's that's a tough that's a tough decade too because that was commercial filmmaking at its height because the studio system broke down just like every other uh uh like fortis modernist uh post-war concept in the 70s right and then an initial explosion of the uh of the financialized film industry you know uh you had that at that glorious moment when money was going to everybody and all these fantastic auteurs got to make whatever they wanted almost uh and it was dizzying and and and awe-inspiring because you had this huge flow of money in an industry that was expected that was that was used to a certain degree of return a certain relatively modest return on investment the explosion of credit and what do you know uh all of a sudden and then artistically the reply the result of that the birth of the blockbuster and a new paradigm these movies can actually make a ton of money which means they're worth investing more money in so the movies become more larger spectacle more impressive visually but they also have to make more money which means they have to be narratively more constrained in their ambition to be maximally uh uh acceptable to the audience and interesting to the audience uh so the 70s is like the big bang explosion and then the stabilized new system the 80s the mature moment that's where you've got all the best blockbusters that's where you've got spielberg in his height that's where you've got semecus back to the future films that's where you've got the best action films schwarzenegger's uh phenomenal work uh ***** predator die hard uh um like even ***** that nobody even remembers now i mean maybe if i look back i would uh it would be rose tinted glasses but i'm willing to bet that like if i went back and watched like romancing the stone that uh michael douglas kathleen turner like uh bogey and because throwback adventure movie i bet that ***** holds up better than anything similarly uh so you had blockbuster filmmaking the formula's greatest the biggest investment and and the biggest return but then over time what happens the aperture slows the money gush comes to a it it loses its its uh hydraulic power competition right rises up shrinks shrinks the aperture even further and that means uh what happens is it gets the money flow gets diverted and now there's a small amount of money for people who want to make very small films that can be released at this point now digitally entirely and not even go to cinemas and then films that require these massive massive massive budgets because all profits in the in the era of quantitative easing and financialization all profits have to be massive messy massive there's no more reasonable expectation of return there's only a maximum return because of maximal investment and that means everything has to be as safe and bland and dog ***** as possible and now and now the fact that cgi is so much comprehensively cheaper than practical effects in every respect means it's going to get smoother and blander visually and uh artistically for the same reason it's a bummer man it's a real bummer so that's why we have to cherish whatever little gems we get the remaining few directors who can who can get something made we should cherish it i mean my god scorsese got to make a uh ***** oh my god he got to make a three and a half hour long meditation on regret and aging and death and materialism and and uh in america with i mean you want to talk about cgi the cgi there is awful but on purpose in a very purposeful way in a way that it's it's brechtian that film is brechtian and that's the kind of ***** that doesn't fly in studios anymore because of the um the risk of alienating the audience and netflix only did it because they're still trying to now compete with cinemas and they and so the brand name of scorsese is worth the investment which it isn't to traditional filmmaker film studios because he's already out there they don't need to prove to anyone anything they're already the movies there's nowhere else for him to go up above the movies well if you go to tv it's not the same thing we all understand it at some basic level no matter how good ***** 0:35:13 tv got the prestige era in my opinion it's the inferior model it always will be because it came later because it's more commercialized by inherently but sometimes you'll get a thing like netflix willing to pay 200 billion dollars for the scorsese brand to bring eyes and uh and uh authenticity to the to their brand that it's it's marketing it was a marketing expense it was a lost leader so we'll still get that sometimes but it's gonna be fewer and farther between everything else is gonna get shipped there's no other way for it to go and the only way you can reverse engineer this to make sure where it went wrong there's no cultural explanation has nothing to do with sjws it's not devin faracci and his hollywood pedophiles making everyone want to want to watch representation rather than art movies are cheaper to make now but the cheaper ones aren't going to get return so they're not going to waste money on 0:36:14 them which means that that more than anything honestly even more than uh than budget although we're at a point now where at the micro level you can't even do squibs because you're cutting out of central stuff because of how low the budgets now are uh but also where's it gonna end up this ***** that just gets thrown onto ***** netflix with in a big pile to me some violence has been done to the artifact i know that's stupid but i feel like like these things the the symbolic order of meaning around art is not purely the thing itself walter benjamin talks about this there's that the the presence there's the aura and that aura isn't just physical proximity in like reality it's it's presentation it's it's ritualized consecration seeing something on a big screen means something and it abuses the thing you're seeing with meaning beyond what's on screen seeing it on a little ***** tv is different and it's like well yeah but you see movies on tv too later afterwards after they have been de-sacralized but they 0:37:18 were once sacred once again here we have no ritual of sacralization just dump it out like as they said on redliner media like ***** uh cafeteria fried chicken and uh and uh sweet potatoes and it's there to fill out the ***** steam tray it's a it's the pile of uh of like wilted spinach in the corner just so that someone can say their spinach on the ***** buffet and then at the end of the night nobody wants it they just throw it out once again desacralization we come back to de-sacralization we come back to the sacrilege of ritual the the destruction of civic meaning that's what i'm talking about in favor of pure lucr pure economic uh uh maximization of of profit and efficiency it's bad stuff and that is why i'm against it that's why we got to get over it and get done with it before it's the last culture we had was this dog ***** this is the 0:38:20 ***** the the cephalopods the ***** octopuses or whatever the ***** they they've come they evolve their way out of the boiling seas 500 000 years from now and like a on a planet that's had it's been completely re-terraformed by global warming and

humans like slowly slowly died out over the course of a few millennia uh and now we got the cephalopod overlords we got the the tentacle people and like another hundred thousand years of tentacle people we get tentacle people in their own cycle of capital accumulation and they find our and and uh our moss-covered civilization and we have we have floor is lava on netflix and i know you're saying oh it's it's that's it's digital one of the good things about digital is that it'll be completely gone it'll be completely wiped from the planet unlike the the the you know our our ancient history will have more reality to any future generation excavating than our digital one because all of its efficiency goes off but let's just say like one server survives you know hypothetically and the cephalopods of the future devise a way to reproduce that technology and translate it not impossible i mean they ***** 3d they 3d printed the the larynx of a neanderthal so that they could hear what it sounded like and it's it's flores lava has anyone seen flores lava i don't want to sound like andy rooney i watched a couple episodes with a friend of mine the other night just because we were like flipping through netflix and making fun of how bad everything looked and we were just like this looks like in the deer and we watched it and i mean i get the appeal of that kind of thing like american ninja warrior the japanese game shows they're all based on and i see the appeal and i've enjoyed them i was a kid i liked american gladiators but flores lava is like pitched so stupidly like it's the level of intelligence assumed of its audiences and and it's competitive and the people competing is so low that it can't be enjoyed by anybody who has more than a room temperature iq because even if you're trying to turn your brain off it won't let you because it's still too slow like it's not fast-paced the way that a show that's supposed to just be turn your brain off fun is it's too slow for that it leaves you contemplating it and that's not the point you're not supposed to be contemplating these shows it's supposed to be all my nars and you're like oh that's funny uh love to turn my brain off and watch some guys getting hit in the nards this is too slow to to accommodate that you end up contemplating the object and it's grotesque and that's because it's pitched to people who are so stupid that it's not too slow for them that it's at the right speed for them and the most telling uh uh uh symbol of that is that the the the announcer who's like some nascar analyst i guess uh his voice over an explanation of the people as they go through the lava room his voice is pitched like a especially stupid person condescending to someone who they think is even stupider than they are like he already sounds just like a dumb guy and then he exaggerates his voice the way people do around kids to get points across and he he condescends and you're like and it's like you can say oh yeah people are always that stupid but like most of the for most of the history of even mass popular art they were expected to have to deal with like the pace of the median iq the median ability to like decode symbols

and now it's slowed it's actually slowed because the aperture of of alienation has 0:42:24 to widen and widen exactly the audience is children because eventually you have to widen the aperture to everybody and you can't alienate any part of that audience if you expect to lose any of it or if you expect to keep them all and people are saying it's for kids but i'm sorry i watched hiddens of seekers of the hiddens temple and i watched double dare and those things are fast as ***** those shows were fast they were running around they were zipping around they're expecting less of our children it's a soft visionary of low expectations of our little rugrats you're going to tell me that you can you watch an old clip of double dare or secrets of the hidden temple and tell me that it's moving at the same speed and with the same degree of 0:43:33 condescension as flores lava and the thing is is that like this is not just one direction it's not just pure decline i'm not being oswald spengler here even though i've sounded like it it's not pure to blind like as as there is that infiltration of art into commerce you remember the technology changes technology becomes more intensified and then leads to new art forms new ways of expression that are their own reward i mean film itself is one of those i mean phil you could argue that film and television are deformed deformations of uh of the theatrical experience i mean you could make the exact same argument using similar similar lines of argumentation that i've been making to say no no real drama it has to have a sense of presence physical presence my assumption that no the presence is in the frame that's because that's what i grew up with so i you could already argue that yeah no this is this is actually not objective this is just as enmeshed as anything else uh but they that they but who 0:44:34 wouldn't give up who would give up cinema who would even give up television even though most of it's dog ***** there's there's real real gems there there's real art in every every ***** facet of it so i guess what i despair of is and i think maybe this is a kunian thing this is kunin and commensurability where like because i am so wedded to certain notions of you know physical of a presence of presentation of ritual in in artistic consumption which is very you know you could argue that's all very 19th century and not younger people don't aren't beholden the same way to that kind of stuff they they then you could say yeah there are new technological uh art forms emerging that are that are if they might be less artistically acute than stuff that doesn't require a lot of capital or isn't as technologically advan uh accelerated they have their own dimension especially and most importantly are more relevant to people living now because that they're operating in a frequency of reality in a 0:45:35 way that older art forms are honestly not they are antiquated they are obsolete so maybe i'm just like i'm you know this is this is why generations must rise and fall this is why the the the the uh that's why the wheel of car has to keep turning because uh otherwise it sultifies because people there's all those the grinding of like

expectations of like birth and and and and setting and and like the ritualized space that we inhabit that is uh that changes as time passes and so people have different senses of it but i would just say that the thing that concerns me is that you know even though technology allows that for the infiltration of money into art to diversify art in a productive way i would say that the de-sacralization process is unidirectional and that is a genuine decline that has to be interrupted and that's why capitalism 0:46:37 has to be overthrown because there is a embedded in all of the embedded in all of the productive conflict between emerging forms of art emerging generations with different contexts uh they're being driven to a state of radical alienation radical individual alienation that is antithetical art and human consciousness and human the human soul i've read a little bit of burrows i read naked lunch and i was okay it wasn't really my thing i did see dr sleep i even watched the extra long version although i really couldn't tell what was expanded uh i don't get why people like that i really don't 0:47:38 understand though i mean i guess i like i guess people like that director but i've never i don't get that either he seems like a uh he seems like a journeyman scott flanagan he seems like it was just a you know he seems like a george p costamos type guy like just a me a ham and egger i i don't get this thing where he's supposed to be a ***** auteur it doesn't help that the book is terrible and i do think it's funny though that the book dr sleep is a sequel to the shining and then but the movie is a sequel to uh the shining the movie because they have different endings partially because at the end of the book spoiler alert the overlook blows up and it doesn't in the movie the shining and so both of them end at the site of the overlook and so that but no i mean rose the hat is not scary at all i mean the jokes right themselves looking like 0:48:40 a little affair trying to ***** suck people's steam out uh i mean uh rebecca ferguson is wildly attractive but uh she's not at all scary in that movie and not even that's not just because she has the stupid hat on it's because she gets owned the entire film every single time she encounters uh danny torrance and the little girl she gets her ass kicked it's always established from day one from moment one that they're way more powerful psychically than her and so at no point is there any sense that she's gonna win there's no danger at all and then you have the fact that it's it's the lady from four non-blondes not being threatening you don't even have visual scares oh terrible rose the hat paul paul have you heard of rose the hat king does have a hard time ending books and it's because he doesn't plan him ahead of time and you can't blame him for it and i'd say i would argue that it's one of those deals where you have to accept the good of the bad and that like the the all almost all artistic 0:49:42 abilities and talents within a art form have deficits at the other side of them so like a lot of directors or a lot of writers who can like really strictly plot out work uh they lack a certain like looseness and they lack and then that their plots get schematic

uh with stephen king like i mean his process is sloppy his process is just explosive compulsive narrative there's no time to stop down and structure it but that means once you've gotten to like 600 pages it's like what do i do now and you've got to start you have to start halfway through knitting it back together and you got to take it that's why his short fiction is his best stuff as early short fishing especially skeleton crew i enjoy i still read new stephen king though uh there's always value i find i i 0:50:57 kind of like the institute but i have noticed that there's a weird thing now where he ends a lot of his movies now with his books now with shootouts just people shooting each other even movies with even books with supernatural ***** he ends them with people shooting each other it kind of feels like he's like because he's getting older he's losing patience with the process of knitting things back together and so he's just like and then everyone shoots each other and then boom like a third of the pair oh we get to pair a third of these characters we get to close a third of this i like the institute although you know it's basically greatest hits of his 80s stuff with all the kids being experimented on by the evil government although i've always loved that i always love that stuff fire starter everything's eventual short story which is kind of he ripped off um favorite on-screen depiction of the devil i think the witch is really good just the 0:52:16 moment when the voice hits thus thou wished to live deliciously with thou lice to taste butter and then the man coming up from behind al pacino the devil's advocate why not just go for the rafters you're the devil why would you have any subtlety at that point did i like blue ruin absolutely blue norton's great i think uh blue ruins 0:53:19 like wonderful amazing uh not his debut second film but his first film is very low budget it's called murder party and it's actually pretty good especially when you consider it's his first movie and then blue ruin is fantastic amazingly assured and then of course green zone is practically perfect was not much of a fan of the netflix one there's it's it seems like most of the netflix movies and part of it maybe is that de-sacralization i don't even know what's happening like i feel like i don't watch him as closely i feel like i don't watch these these netflix movies by like even guys i really respect i don't i don't respect them like a certain there's a certain patina off their names that and the film that robs me of of uh of investment in the story and i noticed that that was true of like gareth edwards movie that he did for netflix the one about the cult i thought was really bad and it's like i love gareth or no gareth evans and i was like i love gareth evans what's going on here and i think i don't think it's a 0:54:20 great movie but i think part of the reason i didn't like it is because it just didn't feel right uh the first the first big name director to do a uh netflix movie that won me over fully even though i didn't felt it was sacrilegious to not see in the theater was a ballad of buster scruggs which i thought was brilliant stem to stern enrapturing even though i watched it on a little relatively small tv compared to a ***** uh big screen but i was like oh god top five ***** koen brothers movie in some ways i would argue i would argue that that's one of the most uh accomplished things i've ever done because it's the greatest hits package right every one of those every one of it really is like they're it's like one of their uh like the the um the clips episodes of a tv show only the clips are new and original uh and it's like hey you know hey you guys like uh oh brother or art thou and they're like wacky antic uh old-timey uh 0:55:23 cartoon style like that hudsucker proxy how about some buster scruggs for you do you like their bleak nihilistic uh existential horror here's some like no country for old men here's uh meal ticket oh you like uh the philosophical and uh and uh and uh self-referential naval gazing ***** like a serious man and barton fink here's uh the last one with the with the the stagecoach i can't remember the name uh but and then in the mid cause and like i'm not i'm not mad because i'm getting all the good stuff it's it's a good book it's a good cohen brothers buffet and then in the girl gal got rattled they have a earnestly depicted bromance that is almost unique in their ***** uh film canon they pulled they like they developed a new pitch at like age 60. they're great and that movie was so great that it kind of overcame uh netflix thing i'm still digesting uh uh the irishman i really really appreciate what it did and i i 0:56:25 do think i understand what he's going for with it and i think he succeeded a lot i don't love it as much as some people do i have to say uh people who say what's like a better than casino or goodfellas or even wolf of wall street i would disagree but i think it's it's it's maybe his most ambitious work artistically and and then that respect considering how much he lands it's a dude's rock masterpiece and deserves to be and i honestly wonder though like will will will loves it i think a little more than me and guess what he was one of those guys we got to see in the theater i was unable to see in the theater and i wonder if that participated the fact that it to me really was a full netflix movie might have robbed it a little bit i like the lighthouse i didn't love it as much as a lot of people but i was on a very potent edible when i saw it i should re-watch and i will who do i think is the most grill-pilled fictional 0:57:26 character that's very good uh i mean obviously jeffrey lebowski the dude is often bandied about as a dude's rock um dud from lodge49 of course protagonist kurt russell's son wyatt russell doing a wonderful job although he does often kind of feel more like jeff bridges as kid channing tatum's character in the magic mike films of course of course rick dalton of course rick dalton i'd say i would say cliff booth with an asterix because i think cliff booth is a more complicated character and on purpose like i think people who say that movie is bad because oh he killed his wife it's like first of all that is not established and second of all he didn't have to put that in there he put that in there to thread the thing with complication and to complicate the audience's relationship to him as a wish fulfillment as a masculine ideal and 0:58:28

honestly that's prove that is in its own way dialectically dudes rock so i'll throw him on there too hell yeah peter from office space are you kidding also peter venkman from fact yeah today has been movie talk and i'm glad i haven't done it in a while and i really like movies and it's hard for me to talk about them because so few of them are good anymore you know i don't want to be a broken record but i think i've established why i think that's true even if other people can disagree so i'm hoping to see something good in the near future someone send me send me an angel i haven't hit anything above like a soft four stars in a long time if anyone has any suggestions even old movies that i might not have seen maybe it will take this last couple of minutes to see if i can palm springs was fine it was very cute it was sweet i think its approach to the the subject the old tired groundhog day subject was good and clever i think like all those stories a good one is buddhist and that one was buddhist 0:59:30 ***** which i appreciate it uh i especially love the idea that it acknowledges the the like the dual reality of having of accepting to yourself that nothing matters that nothing is accumulated that nothing is accumulated over time that there is just the present and the acknowledgement that everyone else is not necessarily has that same understanding and that that creates compassion or it should and that's where love comes from and then eventual subsumption between the fantasy of separateness and the eternal but still netflix hulu i like jk simmons in it he was good but once again like three and a half three and a half stars i'm topping out at a soft four is what i'm saying i see all right maybe i'll watch the host the jack belt even though it's only two and a half hours and not the full friends of eddie coyle is a great movie oh i think 1:0:34
i've recommended before how good and underrated uh andrew nix killing them softly from 2010 i think is but that's like literally the spiritual successor because i think they're both based on george v higgins books about boston scumbags in the 70s and it's got robert mitchum it's dirt bags oh it's good straight time i've always wanted to see that i had that on my list like grown-up movies to watch when i was a teenager but i never got around to it strange days is pretty good killing him a sacred deer i saw and didn't really like very much i think i'm not big on that lord ghost guy i think he's to me he's not to me i worry that he's a medium talent at least so far ravenous is good but i've seen it bob roberts is a great movie blue collar is also a great movie 1:1:35 gamer is really good neville dean and i saw a good time i didn't really like it the first time i saw it but then i saw object gems and i got what they were going for because at first the reason i didn't like good time is because the characters are so dumb they were difficult for me to want to be around long enough to even watch the movie but then i saw uh uncle james where it was that wasn't a problem and and i got like their whole aesthetic and like the ratchet thing i was able to fixate really on like the rube goldberg plot stuff over the annoying characters i have to say i know everyone

likes robert pattinson now but i'm not a fan of his like really sub brando like tryhard physical uh uh method ***** it just feels it just feels forced like i know a lot of people liked him in that movie uh what the hell is that out the outback movie was with uh guy pierce i know a lot of people liked him in that i hated him in that honestly it felt like good time would have been better with a different lead actor too in my opinion that's right that's right i don't i don't credit him i don't i don't credit uh patents and i'll say it right now the rover that's it and even in like lighthouse i was all about defoe i didn't really care for pattinson in the lighthouse either i'm spilling the tea right here that's right matt christman not a terribly fond of the robert i'm trying to think of who would be better for people to focus on than robert pattinson but i kind of don't like any of those yeah the foe is my other choice beside michael shannon to play john brown in a real movie that took the religiosity of john brown seriously that like centered the prophetic tradition and and was subjectively in good all right guys i'm gonna split oh just one more thing have you noticed that now every movie is about operators like all the plots that were probably used to be about cops are now about ***** operators i think i think netflix is releasing like three straight big budget movies about ***** operators they got uh they've got operators versus street gangs in uh that movie extraction they've got immortal lady operators in the old guard and then they've got now megan fox is a lady operator fighting a that's funny blood meridian is kind of about operators what if somebody did not a direct not a direct adaptation with the same title but basically just take the plot structure and some of the like the visual and metaphoric motifs and use it to inspire a tale in afghanistan i think that might be good much to consider uh hey there we go says we're streaming in the right area so hopefully we're going here this hey sorry i'm a little early but my schedule's such that uh i wanted to get one in today since i didn't do yesterday and this was the time i had so hopefully if you if you're waiting for six you can watch this puppy tomorrow or the next day on the you did the youtube or on twitter if you'd like you can still see the questions if you oh so another so louis gohmert having coven is very funny louis gomer going to his staff in person to tell them that he had it in a building is even funnier but he'll be fine he'll be fine he's not going to give it to anybody like there's a picture of him or there's a video of him coming out of a very small unventilated room with bob barr he's not going to get it if he does he'll be fine he will be fine they'll all be fine the more evil you do the more you are uh protected from covet it's like a it's like the the disease itself is acting out the will of all the most uh demonic uh demiurgical forces in culture because even as this uh thing has you know thrown a huge monkey wrench into the social fabric and might very well have doomed the trump administration to electoral defeat it has only strengthened the power yeah like if the more evil you do the more antibodies you form against coronavirus but we can't tell people that because then they're all going to go to law school boom zing that was a good 90s joke people hated lawyers in the 90s and you could make an argument that the whole anti-lawyer thing in the 90s lionel hudson down that was part of the propaganda operation against torts that was going on because by that point corporations had won most of the big battles about that left the courts as the way to for consumers to get recompense for recklessness and uh dangerous behavior by corporations was but to sue them uh and so lo and behold we spent a decade talking about how awful lawyers are all because some woman pours hot coffee on herself it sues mcdonald's i mean i'm sure everybody knows at this point that that whole thing was a scam and that the top coffee that the famous coffee lady got from mcdonald's was scalding hot to the point that she had significant burns and required skin grafts which meant that they were incredibly negligent to hand that to her in a ***** drive-through and her justified but has anybody has anybody heard of any like knowingly actively evil people who died of covid apparently some guys on death row died of covid but like those aren't the ones you want because they've already been punished you know like if they're evil first of all they're evil even if they've killed people is very much smaller than the evil that is being perpetrated by people at the top of our cannibalistic hierarchy i think the prescript the subscription model i mean as long as there's going to be media on the internet it looks like the subscription model is going to be what wins it out uh the pro the reason that a lot of people dismissed that for years and said no no who's going to the question the answer to that is they will pay if they feel that they have some sort of buy-in or connection with the project like it there has to be something social that transcends a pure transaction to have that happen because it is just a pure transaction if the media is as alienated from us as like movie studios are we're gonna pirate we're gonna go around pay walls always the thing that's gonna stop us from doing that is if we have an investment if we feel like we're literally having an investment in the thing and i think our show is part of that i think dead spin the new dead spin thing is going to be part of that and uh it boils down to sadly to say clout in a way it boils down to the ability to have an online profile that has buy-in and it's going to have to fill it's going to fill the void of traditional media which is completely collapsing because there's no money in it but they're all for-profit companies and that doesn't but yeah i and they're all going to go away because as long as it's just some you know conglomerate some faceless entity no one is going to want to pay for it if they can get it for free people will pay for something they can hypothetically get for free if they feel and that's gonna that's gonna fill the gap and you could argue that that's a good sign because it indicates the that people are finding the limits of a totally marketized media space when there's no public interest in media it actually is terrible it sucks and all the good stuff is removed because because the market stuff was always about efficiency of transmission and you know things like that it was never about the uh the quality if any it only inhibited the wall somebody says that conglomerate should stop paying for punditry and pay for journalism there's two reasons they won't one journalism is much much more expensive than punditry and the margins in media won't allow for that even if they wanted to but i think one of the one of the realities of post-70s uh crisis capitalism is that a lot of these choices are made not uh out of any a lot of these choices to streamline and and uh you know pivot all this stuff it's not just to **** with people and it's not just to suppress good work it's to and that's true of a lot of industries so they're not going to pay for reporting i mean obviously there's you know like there's the hey man they're going to **** they don't want to find out stuff that they they don't want to they don't want us to know this stuff they're not going to pay to find it out and there's truth to that it's going to have to be ad like the future of journalism like actual investigative journalism is going to be advocacy based around the crowdfunding model like hey someone should and then money's people are gonna people who want to see that reported on are gonna spend money to see it reported on and that's and that's what's gonna be and and i think people have been advocating that for a long time and a lot of uh a lot of early adopters to that model failed because we hadn't reached the point we're at now of total and complete alienation from the like now we realize that they're like 0:9:25 oh you can you cannot get media for free and expect it to have any quality in a capitalist system uh somebody's asking about the next unemployment site i mean we have the bids right the democrats the republicans bid two and their democrats said whatever we're not married to six so that implies that they'll just end up at two but i don't know things are really bad and i think a few people in washington seem to get at least some level of how bad things are like mnuchin which might go against the ideological sort of head in the ass uh detachedness of the rest of these idiots so we'll see i will say though i don't want to get smug about it but just uh when people were saying everything's going to run out at the end of sun of july and everything and then every ice no way they're going to let it on enough july they're going to wait until the last minute so that it doesn't look like uh it's so that you don't get used to it so that it's always emergency funding and so that they can have an excuse to pare it down in negotiations but uh no it was always gonna happen uh this is an interesting question this is an interesting point out that if did spin 2.0 is good enough it's going to get bought by a vc thing well see that's where that's where like the question of trust comes in you know like the the the subscriptions are pouring in for this because people know these writers and they think they know what their values are and that they think that that militates against them selling out uh and there the question is like not just their beliefs but also their ability to thrive if they're successful enough i don't know if there would be pressure especially i don't know i think overhead comes up to a lot of it because i think reading the stories of digital media companies that have gone under uh the question of overhead seems like a huge one there's all these places in order to maintain in order to impress their vc uh donor their vc funders would have big multi-level manhattan real estate offices with ***** sushi and all that and then like even if you get rid of the perks you still have the real that you still have the the fixed overhead of the if there's a potential for for some something like the dead spin relaunch to be viable it's if they realize the the the lack of necessity for that we're not trying to impress vcs so we don't have to have a ***** 0:11:28 office if they buy an office that'll be very annoying i will say that don't buy offices for the love of god at least not ones that aren't like anything more than uh than a fraction of a fraction of of of the amount of money you can't get but sure ***** 0:12:29

cannot be any kind of like a podcast thing in terms of consolidation the podcast thing is going to be interesting because it looks like uh ***** spotify is making a play to try to own the podcasting genre they got everything they got rogan they got last house podcast on the left um i bet that when the ukulele playing dumbass who owns patreon ***** it up they're probably going to buy his uh his uh database and his you know uh subscription but then spotify will get bought by somebody it'll all end up being owned by disney serious odds stitcher and the so stitcher's the other one spotify are going to be it and then one of them is going to they're all going to get bought by i i don't obviously laptop's cast on the left isn't equal to rogan i was just shocked to see it go to uh spotify because like rogan is essentially a commercial radio show in a lot of ways he sits there and he talks for four hours it's like imus he has sponsors you know and he reads this up it just feels like imus whereas last podcast like that was a patreon model for a while i mean eventually they got ads and stuff but it just feels more uh indie and the fact that it got bought out like that that's what really made me feel like damn spotify is making but yeah we're uh it's all going to get consolidated unless people can like create durable low overhead models force for for subscription and the problem with that is you have to get by like i'm saying first because you can't because if nobody knows you are to begin with they're not gonna they're not gonna risk giving you money you have to have a like a built-in audience and that's where clout comes in it really does come down to the clout war and the clout chase the clout grind because if you're not on there getting clout no one's gonna ***** risk no one's going to know enough about you to first of all even know that you're you're doing your own thing or certainly to give you so more incentive more incentives for people to uh develop that takes the big public croc and i'm iris i'm responsible for this this model existing as anybody but the thing i console myself in is just knowing that this is not the this is not the doing of any discrete section of peop of society this is this is part and parcel of the intensification of uh exploitation not necessarily intensity of like labor but but uh like if there's no without the imperial core or without the industrial core and with a insufficient economic base uh service industry and stuff to to facilitate like productive work for large portions of the population uh the option is to auto exploit your your personality to make living your job in some way by by by attracting people to your orbit tick-tock podcasts uh twitter whatever you know what i'm talking about and it's uh because it's an alternative wildly bleak uh economic uh system outside of of those oh boy the honk pill man i won't say her name but the person who compared the grill pill to the honk pill today on twitter was very funny to me uh for those who don't know uh honk pill is some painful 4chan nerd ***** uh about like it's like ironic nazism that's not ironic whatever it's all the kind of really cool stuff that i don't know when when you start talking about the honk pill and then your next words are this is extremely dangerous that really is to me a sign you need to log the off it's the honk pill and i know i know i know fascism is often uh intentionally clownish and and uh and theatrical and bufoonish and that's part of what cloaks it but in this case you're talking about a all of whom have spent their entire adult lives to the extent that they're adults and most of them are kids on the internet and it's not even like they're the scary hacker guys going on like the dark web to assassinate their middle school principal it's they're just posting cringe all day every day but anyway these are like ironic nazis or something and one and this person says that uh the reason that they're the same is that and the thing that that indicates to me more than anyone anything is just how how built into people to the point where they don't even i don't even think they realize it uh in their minds the connection between like the number it's it's amazing like it's been very clear the explicit argument has always been log off you will get captured by a false anti-dialectical uh uh okay it's you're walking into plato's cave on purpose don't do that but what he will hear is stop log off means stop posting that means stop sharing content that means stop arguing with people and that means stop caring because and i understand i i really understand why people think that because there's so few alvern avenues for most people to effectively act but that's why you got to log off because then you have to find one and yeah some of these guys by the way some of these honk dudes they're probably going to do school shooting or like a they're going to kill people probably but i mean it's weird i think they have there was a common understanding among like educated people for a while that yes discreet political but also uh pop culture objects can be triggers for people to commit violence but that it's never the thing itself that leads to the violence i think we had that like kind of assumed for a long time except for you know the crazy christian right but then because everyone started huddling in the cave they stop thinking that way and i can kind of understand the reasoning of like well if everyone's online more and putting more energy into online then that means that the the acts that they carry out are gonna be more uh they're more likely or uh they can be more influenced by like violent content and by violent politics to do an act and the thing is that might be true but if it is it's not the discrete memes or politics that's the problem it is the internetification of life like at every level the proximate triggers for for violence for for the proximate triggers for unorganized lone wolf political violence uh is the same as for school shooters uh and and general social misfits uh it's and those those those urges are are generated by i i'm sorry by a material economic base hate to and it's our inability to face that that makes us flee to social fixes because if we can ban x y or z then we can remove the the proximate triggers and it's like yes you can but you've done nothing to stop the alienation and then once again she's like yeah but what can you do and it's like i don't know either but i know for ***** you can't i know as sure as ***** you can't do it by engaging at the symbolic level all i know is it won't be found there what it is i don't know but it won't be found there that means everyone is required to do something else and a lot of people they don't want to not just they can't think of one they wouldn't want to do something else if they could and to them i say tough but it's not nihilism jesus christ it's just absurd nihilism isn't even real there aren't any nihilists everybody has some sort of ***** uh motivating like like personal hedonism is not nihilism oh boy i gotta say 0:22:52 when i saw the uh when i saw that the washington post was capitalizing white to acknowledge like the cultural the unified cultural like experiences of whiteness and oh boy chill gotta chill running down the spine not good stuff i mean i think it's probably an overstatement to say that that's going to contribute in any real way to intensifying racism and white nationalism but i think that it's it's a troubling current of response to the black lives matter movement i would say that and it's one that white frailty also echoes which is and white frailty says specifically white people need to be racially aware of themselves as white and that is what the uh 0:23:54 washington post wants they want white people to be aware of themselves as white now how much damage that does when the washington post says it to their bunch of ***** coffee table uh you know ***** liberal uh professional class readers all sitting in front of their uh their breakfasts or or clicking on it at their office jobs uh or you know white frailty to her pod of uh you know nervous warren voting uh suburbanites uh who like have maybe a black neighbor that makes them nervous and they don't know what to do about it it probably doesn't matter what any of them think but in general as a response to to the acknowledgment of racial discrimination in society telling white people in a period of unprecedented for the modern era economic uh and social dislocation and dissolution that that's a recipe for oh that's the race war you got going on there you got that race wall going oh yeah no more than me oh 0:24:56 cher you want that ghoul race ball you want that good race what will first first you go put in that that collapsing economy oh you won't put that in there you want everybody to be precarious oh you want everybody terrified they either lost their job they know somebody lost a job or they job no good yeah you want that oh you want something else how about that social network how about that social network falling apart how about all bonds of community just dissolving like acid how about that of that you put that in there oh that's some good why about pandemic disease how about social dislocation how about urban how about some urban conflict how about total uh dissolution of faith in political systems how about the destruction of a shared reality how about we do that and then i'll talk about that oh that's good

but that's not gonna get you that deep goal race war you won't get that deep good race while you put in some of that white racial awareness on top of that you tell why people in that environment in that environment that they should think more about being white and what that means because the assumption of the ***** washington 0:25:58 post people and of robin d'angelo is that everybody's like them everybody is a good college-educated etiquette acculturated liberal and that when you tell them hey you know you're white it's going to make them consider their privilege you're right i am white let me think about what it means to be white in terms of what a burden it is to be white of guilt of of generational trauma inflicted and how i have to rectify that and how i'd every day am contributing to this that's what they would do if they got reminded they were white so that's what everybody should do well not everybody did you had a little ***** paw to do nobody have no not everybody went to the crumpet and t circuit and learned that racism is impolite not that it's really bad that's not really what you learn you learn that's impolite and so when they hear as their jobs are ***** going away and as everyone in their neighborhood is dying of ***** either covet or open opium addiction uh you know what uh what does it mean 0:27:0 to be a discreet a unified culture within a polyglot uh social institution that is falling the ***** apart completely collapsing who are we to what's the new order as this dissolves as everyone loses faith that there is a a stable future in something called the united states of america what will we pick up the pieces with what heuristics will we use to choose friend from foe as reorganizing in the rubble here's robin deangelo on the ***** washington post with a nice ready-made one for you race who can you trust hubba hubba hubba who the answer for most people is going to be somebody who have a cultural affinity and uh and continuity with which you can't really afford all that multicultural stuff in the context of crisis and collapse at least that's what people are going to be thinking that's why right now the the the the like the social 0:28:2 affirmative happening right now the collapse happening right now could be very good in fact it could save this planet if if it's if it happened early enough to to establish like new foundations that can push us away from capitalism and its destruction of the environment but man do we not have the left institutions for it right now that's the horrible thing that's the thing that's so terrifying and things like this fill the void and that's why i fear if there is a if there is like a significant buckling and and the unified infrastructure and unified control and unified order and a monopoly on state violence are compromised that people are going to do anything other than clan up along the most obvious lines and a lot of what's considered to be on the left when we're talking about uh race is aiding that i don't think for a lot of people and on purpose not everybody's a cia co-intel pro agent i think because they they feel guilt they they feel personally as a white person a beneficiary of racial uh uh of of 0:29:3

racial inequality and perpetuated racial violence and the thing is they are they do of course they do but it's a question what do you do about it and the answer for people especially people who have had the pinky extending lessons in college is to say i will renounce my privilege and i will i will i will basically uh uh put myself prostrate before uh that instinct is very bound by by i would say social social at the level of social honestly it's a lot of it is college i've said it before people don't go to college not to feel guilty or to get brainwashed they go to college to get a job but one of the things they learn is if you want to boost wildlife you need a bourgeois job and this is what bourgeois values are that's what college has always been for doing 0:30:4 and and so people who have had that experience have are more likely to have that response to the horror but what they end up doing is they end up unintentionally reifying racial difference as foundational saying like there's no way to really have like even relationships between the races because of the because of the buried uh trauma and mutual distrust i mean maybe you could use that to work on something in a context where everybody has to get along because they're i don't know they work at the same company and it's a ***** uh diversity training which is the model for a lot of this stuff or a college classroom but if it's a bunch of people who don't who have you have no like persuasive authority over i'm not talking about state authority there's no state authority really there's not really there's only only the echo of state authority at the work on the uh in most workplaces most office workplaces and in college campuses what is there in the person of the boss and the person of co-workers 0:31:6 classmates and teachers is social authority that you are invested in you wouldn't be there if you weren't you wouldn't be at that job you wouldn't be at that college if you weren't investing we're just americans we just all dropped in here without any uh any agreement any and we never and most of us have not been acculturated through processes whereby we instinctively uh uh adhere to a social authority in fact uh the way capitalism is hyper-accelerating uh all forms of social authority have been completely destroyed and and turned into discreet like clannish uh self-affirmation societies uh built along the the market model uh of the of the subgroup of the and in that context they there's no there's no especially somebody who who is suffering somebody whose life is bad and getting worse especially somebody who 0:32:7 is seeing the infrastructure that maintains social life collapse it's hard to tell them no no you have to feel bad for them it's like well yeah in a theoretical way but i'm not bought into your i am not bought into the basic premises that you have you've not brought me along through the process and it's impossible to because there's no self motivation to begin with like somebody applying to go to the college somebody applying to go work at the job even if it's attenuated by hey i have to go to college to get a good job i have to go here to work and keep a roof over my head but like the discrete choice of in the the the illusion of choice within those things gives us a sense that we are picking something even if you can say we're not we're picking a specific college we're picking a specific employer and and that act of choosing within a small range of choices that have already been made for us gives us the illusion of autonomy but it's a real sense of illusion to us and that means that we have bought in at a psychological level to the social pressures and mores of those areas there 0:33:9 is no similar pressure getting people that you don't know to get along with your ideas on race there's no way to do it and as social order collapses the only thing that's going to be left the residue of all this is going to be the one undeniable fact that because of the racial uh the way that race has shaped the literal geography of this country like the ***** dan ryan expressway in chicago cutting black and white chicago and half like a ***** katana on the order of uh uh richard daly uh is it so social life as a result is wildly segregated and that means social trust is segregated and the only hope we have to either challenging the existing system or to philly or to successfully fill the gap created by a more generalized crisis and collapse is if we 0:34:10 can overcome that oh my god yeah in the after afterscape can you imagine the clans like q anon will be the form foundation of a new religion it will be and in fact i would argue that if you play this out like a fall of the roman empire post europe right where like you you up they effloresced all these like microstates uh there was the period of of uh conflict between like uh temporal and spiritual authority uh and then finally the solidification uh in early the early modern era of like relatively large uh uh centralized states state centralized monarchies or empires uh if you had that in the united states like and you had like in the roof like like there was after the fall 0:35:11 of the roman empire a bunch of different types of religion mostly different varieties of christianity you know you got your aryan arianists nuts gnostics all those guys monophysis if we have a similar thing like in a post cops america q anon i bet would be the one to win out it would be it would be the it would be like a and if if they ended up having a you know social revival a couple thousand years from now or not not even that couple hundred uh christianity would be like had been finally finally fully americanized like like mormonism hyper like hyper normalized mormonism so that's it's like uh yeah i know not only did jesus come to america he fought a war in america against the forces of darkness personified by george soros and hillary clinton 0:36:12 who who ritually ate babies to give them strength uh in the name of satan and there was like a a battle and uh and jesus was like temporarily routed jesus and donald trump were temporarily routed from the field but they'll return like the occlude like trump will be the occluded mahdi in the future q anon pro so you can everyone can have fun with that imagine that that'll be fun that's one of those things it's like god give me a time machine i just want to see it i want to see what but somebody

says yeah this would be the final americanization of christianity which reminds me about something about mormonism that i wanted to say we talked about me and felix talked about mormonism uh on the show on monday and i wanted to elaborate a little bit because i've been thinking just about how ingenious the mormons are because they basically solved protestant american protest the saud they've solved the problem of american protestantism and then because they had solved that later after it fully matured they were able to solve the problem of american capitalism and in so doing they have resisted a lot of the worst social decay of of the rest of us like like dropping life expectancies fertility rates uh drug addiction all this stuff uh and that's why i would felix always saying like mormons are who evangelicals think they are and that's so perfect that's so perfect because they both have a religion where they have a fused prosperity material prosperity with spirituality and personified it in the country they live in uh but the difference is is that the mormons maintain a social cohesion that allows capitalism to work for them whereas the the evangelical has been fully dissolved and atomized by the market and is a complete like yeah he's like yes i'm i'm i'm a business man it's like yeah a mormon guy he has like three uh card car uh washers that he owns he's got a nice family five 16 kids his every weekend his wife and all the other wives go in the bake in the basement the finished basement and they all sell each other multi-level marketing uh products to keep the economy moving uh but yeah evangelical thinks that sam but no he's on his fourth divorce porn addicted guy with he's like gonna like burn down his skidoo dealership for the insurance money and it's because mormon solved both of the big problems how do you how do you how do you be christian in america uh the social like the social aspect of religion with the depersonalizing experience of living in the material absurdity of america from the point of view of european settlers and their descendants uh and and even before that and how do you uh reconcile the inevitable like national uh uh fetishization that will occur which is what we have done this is what american protestantism is working worshipping america how do you reconcile that to a religious tradition protestant christianity that imagines its origins in a completely different place and time pre-capitalist pre-european how how can you be an american and worship americanly with that religion uh and even more deeply even more deep than that how do you solve the problem of the ego centered materialism of the of what american protestantism will have to become to accommodate uh the pursuit the ability to always pursue material access a material gain to offset spiritual loss the crank the one-way crank that will inevitably lead to the total de-sacralization of the public space and the profanement of all it's a one-way ratchet um and the thing that causes that is uh is is a ego based an ego fixated social order you because america is so prosperous it twists uh it gets the wires to cross within the mind where material

pursuit where ego gratification and ego gratification at a material level because that's what's that's what's to be had is the same as the good and therefore is god but that means your god right kinda you have to unless you can't be absorbed right you can't be absorbed into an eternal thing and also be the sum total of of uh the universe the sum total of the of the moral requirement of the universe to you is your advancement how the hell do you handle that the mormons solve that theological problem by saying oh when you go to heaven you become god you get your own planet and you get to do sims for eternity that's how you that's how you solve that problem the other problem of course you saw by saying oh yeah no jesus came to america he ministered to the natives then they had a big war it's true uh there's these golden plates the the uh the garden of eden is in missouri you've you've replaced it you've re-territorialized it and then by staying together by staying together by going to utah together being persecuted really the persecution probably helped they were able to create a social order where rather than allowing capitalism to define the social space and dissolve them all away into particles they use capitalism as like a capillary network to circulate money in their economy like i'm not kidding multi-level marketing works in in utah because the reason all those things fail the rest of the place is because eventually and for most cases very quickly you run out of people to sell to because who the hell does anyone know how many friends do people have how many relatives do people have how many close relatives people have breeders out it's like in a perpetual motion machine in utah and not only that like that's that's the housewives they even like both it's there's they've solved all this stuff they've got two parents working because the husband has the business that towers everybody's roof or whatever and then he gets his you know pool cleaned by the other guy and it circulates the circulation of economy as they say and that's always sunny and the wives are giving each other lulu or like stretch pants and tupperware parties and so you got both both partners working but the the the wife's work is one that allows her to also be a domestic partner the way that traditional patriarchal capitalist society uh and so as a result the corrosive acid uh of of capitalism unbound by by any kind of social cohesion which will be all capitalism in an opened social order that does not have like boundaries to it uh will lead to total total atomization anatomy and so you got all these guys all these all these evangelicals whose lives are miserable who are filled with genuine hate in a way that would make jesus's blood curl uh and and whose religion has been oriented subconsciously around sadism it's because all the ***** that they think they believe is is directly wired to the opposite of that and that's why uh that's why the mormons won by being early adopters because they they were like the bleeding edge people they were they were the most sent because you know uh cults and future religions are filled with both the same type of people the raw nerve you know the the squeaky wheel the the the the the ex the more the sensitive the socially fragile the person whose ability to absorb the reality is attenuated to a degree that makes their personality hypersensitive to certain inputs and therefore seeking of alternatives seeking of a different way to be some of them end up you know going to go into uh guyana and being killed with uh poisoned flavor aid some of them go to utah and found a flourishing religious tradition that almost got a but it's the same type of people uh mormonism is of course associated most most closely with utah but it was founded in upstate new york uh by joseph smith that's where the 0:45:27 upstate new york is where he claims he found the tablets the gold the golden tablets and upstate new york is also an area that at the time was called the burned over district because of its propensity to spark massive conflictory religious revivals of different types mostly protestants charismatic religious traditions and and uh joseph smith was one of those guys and there's actually i always like i've wondered about that like why why upstate new york why was that the burned over district that was also by the way they had the hotbed of anti-masonic uh uh politics that's where the animatic party was born thurlow weed who became the uh political major domo for william seward got his start with the animasonic party and that was obscene new york i think it might have something to do with the erie canal hear me out might 0:46:30 have something to do with the area there's a passage in moby dick uh because to me it really evoked what it must have been like to live in upstate new york and it makes me feel like oh i get why this is a place where religious passions were so deeply felt uh so here it is uh this is melville describing uh the lives of people who are who live in the canal zone where uh where they put in the area canal um canalers they call them freely depicted in his own vocation gentlemen the canaler would make a fine 0:47:32 dramatic hero so abundantly and picturesquely wicked is he like mark anthony for days and days along his green turfed flowery Nile he indolently floats openly towing with his red-cheeked cleopatra ripening his apricot thigh upon the sunny deck but ashore all this effeminacy is dashed the bring dish guys the canal are so proudly sports his slouched and gaily ribboned hat but toking the token his grand features a terror to the smiling innocence of the villages through which he floats his sword visage and bold swagger are not unshunned in cities once a vagabond on his own canal i have received good turns from one of these canalers i thank him hardly would feign not be ungrateful but it is often one of the redeeming qualities of your man of violence that at times he has a stiffened arm to back a poor stranger in a straight as to plunder a wealthy one in some gentlemen what the wildness to this canal life is is emphatically convinced by this that our wild whale fishery contains so many of its most finished graduates and that scarce any race of mankind except sydney men are 0:48:34 so much distrusted by our wailing captains nor does it all diminish the curiousness

of this matter that to many thousands of our rural boys and young men born along its line the probationary life of the grand canal furnishes the sole transition between quietly reaping in a christian cornfield and recklessly plowing the waters of the so that's part of it is that is that the canal zone was a was a um it was a liminal zone and liminal zones are where social orders dissolve and are uh if turned ephemeral and that creates social anxiety it creates a need to find dry land again because some people are going to say ***** it and go off to the water but others of less adventurous temperaments are going to try to find another explanation and uh and and blood and thunder religion is one it's a way out of the thicket it's a way out of the of the 0:49:36 uh of the of the terrifying uh cutthroat dog eat dog savagery of an unrestrained uh market milieu which is what the the erie canal represented because remember this is 1840s this is before we're talking about any like the industry is still very much in its infancy the industrial revolution has barely begun in the united states this is the closest thing we've got really anywhere near a uh i mean other than of course cities and cities of others i've always been godless dens but they're very they're so godless that the the disorder they produce is very rarely cloaked in religious garb that's for the countryside that's where that's where the the uh the doe-eyed and the and the earnest first confront uh challenges to their world and the need to need to deal with those challenges there's another bit about the um there's another bit 0:50:48 in that definition or in that chapter which also has this great description of how people from the great lakes area are basically uh coastal and have like see water in their veins and i agree with that but he has one more like paragraph i think about about the religious beliefs in the in that area let's see if here it is here it is this is a description of the canal for 360 miles gentlemen through the entire breadth of 0:51:50 the state of new york through numerous populist cities and most thriving villages through long dismal uninhabited swamps and affluent cultivated fields unrivaled far fertility on unrivaled for fertility by billiard room and bar room through the holy of holies of great forests on roman arches over indian rivers through sun and shade by happy hearts are broken through all the wide contrasting scenery of those noble mohawk counties especially by rose snoke white chapels whose spires stand almost like milestones flows one continual stream of venetianly corrupt and often lawless life there's a true ashanti gentleman there howl your pagans where you ever find them next door to you under the long long flung shadow and the snug patronizing lee of churches for by some curious fatality as it is often noted of your metropolitan free booters that they ever encamp around the halls of justice so sinners gentlemen most 0:52:51 abound in holiest vicinities that was the that was the quote i was looking for that's even better why did supple chairs exactly the the the the the inherent um daily hypocrisy that must be absorbed by all people who both live according to what they imagine to be a religiously prescribed life and the necessity of commerce it creates instability and anxiety and it makes people do if they are sensitive enough if their antenna are pinged at the right frequency it makes them do ***** like follow a dude to uh illinois who claims that he's read secret god messages on golden tablets that you can't see he they the angel came and took him away i would love to show it to you but he came he i was like this is amazing that's the like it's amazing it really 0:54:1 does tell you that religion is really fully a it had because it has to be an act of faith at the center of it right like you have to be able to like i talked just i talked the other day about the lacuna in your eye where the stalk is you don't have the hole there because you literally hallucinate something in there because you know enough you see enough about what's around it that your brain just like fills in oh okay this is what's there which is essentially what your brain does during any hallucination only at a more like a more intense level it's like you're filling in the next step like your brain is imagining something and then it just puts it there because your uh perception is that intensified by the drug uh but so you're you always have to fill in you you're very even believing your eyes requires a leap and as such all attempts to 0:55:4 make a metaphysical understanding of the universe require that and so attempting to like defeat religion on those kind of grounds seems you gotta you gotta challenge on the grounds of does this religion actually adhere to the values the universal values i'm i'm sorry i'll say it there's a universal value unregarding all religious traditions of but of course that's not how they're lived because those are idealist concepts and idealism idealist concepts are to be molded by material reality are to be shattered upon the rocks of reality that we then have to pick up we pick up the pieces and put it back together and we ***** up when we do it we miss pieces we we leave something 0:56:6 under the under a couch and it's a little ***** up and messed up and then we hand it off to the next generation they drop it they got to do it again every time something gets lost something gets moved but every time the the the shape is caused by the collision between this idea and this reality and that's why like american even though christianity i think has at its heart like as as perfectly stated uh uh uh real like it's it work christianity could is is as true as buddhism is i could or close enough for government work at a certain like root base just in terms of understanding of like the good god uh our place in the universe in but then we have a thing where people think that there's a disney guy with a beard and you get to go to splash that's not and what comes from that is this psychotic materialism and the only way 0:57:7 to accommodate a real materialist my world is through competition ego gratification through competition and resource grabbing cooperation is antithetical even though cooperation is the sum total let's see somebody says why is buddhism pretty good i mean tell that to the rohingya you know it's like it's not like there are buddhist like with the countries where there's like a buddhist super majority that have that are not part of the global exploitation machinery that do not have misery in the same proportion because all of these things have been shaped by the material i think there's a perception food isn't better because in the united states if you're buddhist 0:58:8

kind of by definition you have not accepted the the uh the ideological uh issued kit you know you're you've inherently said ah nah this isn't for me because you probably grew up at least nominally christian that requires like an introspection to do that you didn't just pull it off the rack and so those people tend not to be reactionary or less reactionary i should say and so there's association there with uh with with the left but that's just because just because of the selection bias of becoming a one evening as the sun went down and the jungle buyers were burning down the track 0:59:11 came a hobo hiker he said boys i'm not yearning headed for a land that's far away sign the crystal fountain so come with me go and see the big rock handy mountain how did feudalism uh last so long in japan uh i mean i be i don't know that much about japan so i'm talking out of my ass people could correct me my my instinctive thought is lack of competition lack of it was a unified state for so long because what broke the feudal what broke the feudal stalemate in europe was the black death and then the emergence of capitalism out of the trade network that came along with the increased economic activity uh afterwards because of the increase of circulating surplus the surplus wasn't being hoarded it was being circulated because laborers 1:0:12 could demand more for their money for their labor because there were fewer of them and that created that that broke the uh the relationship it broke the leverage point between between uh the uh and the serfs and it started to just fatal it destabilized uh uh feudalism and also created much more circulating surplus which was then absorbed into a network of trade and of course trade brings a competition or trade is funneled through competition between those medium-sized states i was talking about the europa had which competed with each other and in competing did things like try to find new trade routes after the ottomans plugged up the old ones and uh and investing in new uh machinery and uh and and intensifying economic activity and the levels of abstraction within economic activity whereas japan was a unified state for the entire period there was nothing to uh there was nothing to this just to just 1:1:13 disrupt the the essential uh dynamic between the two classes and then what was it that eventually broke it open the uh commodore perry but that's just off the top of my ass i mean the stuff about europe i'm more cl i'm more uh i'm pretty confident i would defend that but i just i would assume that that would all right i'm gonna wrap up in a minute here if anyone's got commodore matthew perry can you ima could i uh somebody asked how long until baseball quits i gotta say the fact that they 1:2:32 didn't stop after the marlins thing happened makes me think they're just gonna say

***** it and go forward and i think that the players are too ***** domesticated to push against it because who we got in the nba or the uh or the major league baseball now you've gotta like all the white guys basically are cu dumb asses who don't think the ***** virus is real in the first place so they have no incentive they don't really care so boom you've got like that whole that's what a third of the players basically ideologically captured you don't even have to work on their material interest because they don't even know they have any in that context younger players really have no say so that's another huge chunk you know there's very and then everybody else is like if i'm going to be the only one who says no then i'm just going to lose out on money and maybe oh god this is actually fun i can't answer it i just want to think 1:3:39 about it as i talk because it's so good what if trump loses what does his lame duck period look like part of me thinks he just pushed the button you know think about it he loses really bad too bad to effectively pull the lever on a coup or whatever and all of his and all the top republicans realize he's expendable and all the military guys realize biden's not enough of a threat to bother uh going in with trump in since he's so unreliable and then it's like oh my god i'm gonna lose i'm going to spend the rest of my life as a failed president who lost an election and there's nothing more pathetic that's why winning the presidency is so like so so destroying and why you have to be a sicko to want it because winning the presidency makes you one of the most one 1:4:40 of the most consequential figures in congratulations your ego has been put to a size that mortal men can't usually even dream of on the flip side of that though is that there is no particularly disdained historical figure than the one term president you are setting yourself up for a humiliation the the the intensity of which only a handful of people have ever experienced that's how i mean imagine how bad that must feel to know that you're always going to be remembered as the loser president like it's not nearly as bad for guys who run for president don't get it they usually get it's like uh it's like chips right so chips had two guys it had erica eric estrada and it had larry wilcox now in the years since then eric estrada kind of stayed famous but as a punchline like oh eric estrada the loser old guy can you imagine him he's trying to 1:5:42 be sexy oh that's funny oh look he's on ***** the surreal life flashing vern troyer in a hot tub oh this is very dignified oh look he's in a he's ironically in a uh ***** punk rock bands video in the 90s oh this is hilarious larry wilcox off the radar just not even known i think most people in in terms of show business unless the real sickos would rather be larry wilcox like that's what being a failed presidential candidate is but being a failed president that's being eric estrada and who want no one gets famous trying to be eric estrada so and and of course we know that trump has no moral imagination beyond himself he's a fully isolate that's why he's miserable because he is a fully embodied american he is the most american american he embodies america

blah blah we know this he is he he is the manifestation of one so of of all phenomenon condensed into one person as you will occasionally have he's the doctor manhattan of america so it's not like he's gonna feel oh no i can't kill anybody he doesn't think people are real he thinks in a real way that when he dies the world will end so why not just and there's really nothing to stop him you could argue that because it's a uh it's lame duck period maybe there'll be military people there like maybe they give a special instructions to the football guy to hey you know if there's nothing going on and he just tries to grab the football in the next two months i gotta figure those conversations have happened because it's not it's not being a lib to point out that he is he is fundamentally erratic in a way that no president has been really since nixon and nixon was like doing doing kind of a bit for a lot of it as a psyop even though he was totally bug ***** nixon was like man nixon wins he was out he was out there and so is lbj it's kind of astounding to think that we survived the ***** height of the cold war with two of the most paranoid miserable freaks both nixon and uh lbj have recordings uh after their landslide victories because they both won back to back which is astounding to think or no uh eight years apart which is astounding to imagine that kind of shift from one party to the other but those are almost back to back two of the biggest blowouts in american history uh but in both cases uh uh in nixon's case more really they were disappointed in the congressional turnout and the the coattails and they just the day after the election they're just kind of complaining about how it wasn't a big enough win and that's just it's evidence that these people are sick and they cannot be satisfied they are hungry ghosts you have to stop them from being able to feed that's our only hope as a species

it up doing podcast broadcasting broadcasting time to broadcast broadcasting on the internet can you believe it the modern age we live in allowing people to broadcast from their own telephones these things used to just be calling for calling people call up your aunt gertie and ask how she's doing call up the pizza man and see what's shaking this is the first time we've never been able to talk to people on the internet i'm sorry telephone this is the first time telephones have been used to broadcast on the internet welcome to the future you've always dreamed of there i am i'm on the computer and the phone at the same time you know what it kind of makes up for everything else the whole dizzying collapse situation the uh the epochal climate disasters and such 0:1:2 i am on my computer and my phone at the same time if i could put this ***** on a chromecast onto a television i will have completed the trifecta i will have hit for the cycle as it were i'm not getting any comments yet am i actually broadcasting there you are there are the comments ah yes now i know i am being viewed it's very muggy here it's gonna rain it's gonna rain tonight and i think cool things off which will be nice and then it's just going to rain like crazy because of whatever tropical so today the president did the thing that everyone was freaking out about he suggested hey maybe we delay the election what do you think until we can figure it out everyone freaked out people first you had the wave of of institutionally invested liberals saying don't worry that's unconstitutional then you had the traumatized populist screaming 0:2:3 back when does that stopped him before but i've got to say right now i'm putting my money and as i said as i must always stipulate i don't know what the hell is happening yeah none of us do we're only guessing we're blindly flailing in the dark so we can only project forward our understanding very very close to the front of us so anything beyond a few feet is is missed shadows had missed but my guess there is he's setting up an alibi for losing way to whine about it because as people pointed out yeah if he wants to not have an election he could do that i guess he could say that he could order that to be done and maybe barbara and the justice department say like pompeo suggested yeah okay that's fine but the election isn't um carried out by the um elections aren't carried out by the united states government

it should be but it's not they're carried out by the states so unless he's going to 0:3:4 send the national like military units to occupy democratic states to force them not to vote that doesn't work if they have an election and he's like claiming uh uh he's throwing a flag on it and saying none of this counts because uh you're doing mail order ballots and we need to delay it that would could be affirmed in court and it could be affirmed by as people have pointed out you know the states that biden wins that have republican legislatures could hypothetically give those electoral votes to trump even if he didn't win them and none of that is technically impossible i guess but i don't see him having the buy in with any of these institutions necessary to have them help him do that i mean a good example i would say is matt bevitt 0:4:5 matt bevin is the recently ousted governor of kentucky had one term he basically promised to undo obamacare in kentucky a state that has more poor people in it per capita than almost any state we have uh and he did that he ***** he canceled a program that was working well to provide uh low-cost health care to people in a state that desperately needed it a real piece of ***** uh but he also governed as just a a trump-like contradiction heightener he governed he covered his corporate agenda with constant antagonistic culture war uh and the thing is and so then he ran against the sun of the last governor uh stephen brashear uh and brashear won but bevin tried to challenge the results bevin tried to say that he wasn't going to recognize the votes and he could have and he was gonna make a demand for a recount even though he was outside the margin of error for one at which point all bets are kind of off and this is a situation where technically this could have worked even if 0:5:6 it was destroying norms it could have happened because kentucky has a democratic or a kentucky kentucky has a republican-controlled legislature or did at that time i don't know what it is now and so they could have voted to yes endorse bevin's call for a recount against even the roles and they didn't do it because they didn't like him either he had no investment with the state gop because he had governed like a one-man wrecking crew bent on his own self-aggrandizement and so when he lost that was a gift for the republicans in the house and senate there and i am saying that if the chips actually fall for a for a trump-esque coup attempt where he has to press the button that says all of this this hypothetical loyalty that is now trickled out through the entirety of the republican party apparatus must now all be brought into action on my behalf right now i don't think that that was what would happen 0:6:8 i think he might press the button but then it would not activate anybody because they would want to get rid of him too they want to get rid of him ***** and even if they don't i don't think the true believers are in enough sufficient positions of of of um leverageable influence in the requisite array of institutions state federal judicial legislative military law enforcement that would have to come together behind that

just don't see it now on the other hand he thinks he's going to lose he wants to have a way to lose in his mind without having lost and that is to call the whole thing rigged and then walk away now that's going to get people killed i think i think you're going to see more than a few q people get pushed off the edge by that uh and yeah there'll be some some mass shootings maybe or temps i mean the key the the q score so far is very low the lethality of q is very low even the most damaged q people seem to be too damaged to successfully kill many people you got that guy who uh who just posted up in a van across the uh across the hoover dam holding up a sign demanding that like some inter attorney general's report be uh declassified like trump trump's got this whole master plan for q and he's going to drop the thing on his say-so but no he's going to listen to this idiot who ***** waved a sign in the front of the hoover dam instead that undermines like that that act means you don't even understand your own theory it's trust the plan they know best and you're going to push their ***** it's like they're committing heresy they're at it's like job they're asking things of god where were you when i i hung the heavens how dare you ***** tell me when i'm supposed to release the attorney general's plan or arrest the pedophiles no man and there was that guy who went to comet ping pong and just like shot one hole apparently there was a cue guy in sweden who chopped his girlfriend's head off and there been there was like a cute guy who killed his father with a katana that's gonna happen but that's because since when to anybody but trump and his supporters not people in power not not military leaders not people in congress most people in congress except for the real shiny eye true believers even in the judiciary none of these people they don't view the the the ascension of a regular democratic uh administration as apocalyptic because for the most part they have not entirely ingested the kool-aid now when they do then all this is over once that happens once the republican party is completely on the same page and has fully metabolized the notion of the democrats as existential threats in themselves on par with like the communist party in the 40s then all bets are off i don't think we're there yet but of course let me stipulate i didn't think we were i thought that trump made sense and that trump trump-ass figure was inevitable but i thought we weren't there yet but once again i think the difference is we're talking about an electorate one hand which basically went to trump not because of of overwhelming you know uh being taken with his message mostly by disaffection and people checking out and uh this would be the decisions of people at the highest of all the sinews of our of our state uh and they i don't think they yet see it that way i think they still are like we can do business with them joe Biden i know that guy we made money during obama everybody made out everybody got to do whatever they want to do the army guys got to kick up sand and and the cia guys got to have fun adventures in ukraine and

uh and syria and libya and ***** uh the cocaine flow continued the uh the child the the the child wrangling and uh and trafficking networks hummed along the the the symphony of commerce was uninterrupted and biden is explicitly telling them more the same their ***** uh party met explicitly to to denounce in in no uncertain terms the insurgent left on that is part of their broad electoral coalition and they have every ability to do that because that insurgent left has no institutional ability to provide leverage against the democratic party in any way not yet anyway this is not a situation where people are going to risk it all for a man who most people who know him know is not in any way stable or more or competent or any of the things you 0:11:22 would want and somebody that you're gonna go ***** i think the reason people are are more credulous of this and they probably should be is because they are imbibing all of these cultural products and all of this output social media output by his voters and although the process of the voters views slowly assimilating through capillary action up into the upper reaches of the party which has definitely happened it's not a complete process i don't but again that's in that's in august all right that's in late june in november who the ***** knows what the brown conditions will be who knows how the economy in covid uh and the protest movements and the escalation with between police and uh protesters and good old-fashioned uh good old-fashioned race conflict i mean there's there's a number of groups out there who are angling to 0:12:23 to provo provoke a shooting war uh a a helter-skelter-esque conflagration and uh you know i don't think that's likely but there's there's tinder and as a result that's why i can't say with any kind of certainty what i think is going to happen but i'd say right now right now trump is tweeting that not as a not as a uh i don't even understand what the idea is if he wants to do that he should just do it yeah pesting the water he's testing the water for this maybe but when is he ever i mean does that really describe his communication style gently testing the water for certain ideas or does he reflexively just tweet about what he sees he watched a guy on stuart varney show on fox news a fox business some ***** uh some guido ass ***** uh republican pizzeria owner in long island he sees him going like trump's doing a great job and he goes uh 0:13:24 go get the pizza it's wonderful that's as much thought as he puts into and so why is he saying that because he wants an excuse maybe in a few months he'll look around and be like holy crap maybe i can hold on to this thing but right now i think he looks around and he sees not good and the thing is he might be wrong maybe trump wins you know polling obviously 2016 and really put the stake in the heart of any kind of confidence you can have in poland but for me it boils down to this it's often been said that every election involving an incumbent president ends up boiling down to one question that every voter subconsciously consciously asks themselves and that is are you better off now than you were four years ago and that traditionally has been what

reelects or defeats an incumbent now take obama for example things were pretty bad in 2012. the unemployment rate was like nine percent i think uh it was still the 0:14:25 recovery was early and rocky but he was elected during a literal economic meltdown he was elected in in the middle of a slow-motion economic collapse and so people were better off even if things got worse like even if things solidified into something worse they were solid that's an improvement george w h bush just one of the great his just tragic stories beautif the beauty i think i've talked about this the beautiful poetry of this guy who mastered the sinews of the american state and party system and and uh its connection to to petroleum uh and the world markets the guy it's like he's basically christopher plummer in syriana this maestro cia agent republican uh gray eminence the man who basically forged the alliance between eastern capital and 0:15:26 the emerging sun belt west uh ran more coke through central america than pablo escobar and the colleague cartel combined uh no literally knew where the bodies were and he got and he's a loser one termer because of a tiny little recession that hit in early to uh 1992. just it was barely a big it wasn't even a big one and it immediately the recovery from it was was galloping you had the whole clinton boom after that he even engineered a war to keep his numbers up if anybody's listened to blowback the iraq war was a ***** was a trap laid by the bush administration to give a pretext for a war that they could then prosecute that would boost his poll numbers create a new american-led military order to fill the gap created by the collapse of the soviet union and to justify cold war or higher levels of military spending in the face of uh 0:16:28 calls for their cut they told kofi they told hussein in so many words we don't care if you invade kuwait just like we didn't care and in fact encouraged you to invade iran so he does it so that we can smash it so that we can squash them like a bug and it worked 80 percent approval rating god emperor ***** push no more wimp comments ever but he did it ended too early we won two good and then the economy just had a loser clinton gets the dot com early.com ***** bubble money gets to just whoop get him through there in 1996 bridge to the 20th century 21st century and in my memory i cannot think of a president who has gone into reelection where people's answer to that question will be universal more universally no now of course for a lot of people a disturbingly large number that's not going to matter because they have an internal ideological buffer that turns the awfulness of what around them 0:17:29 into more proof of how good he is but that is not enough people to reelect him i hope people get that i hope people haven't like convinced themselves through just the ubiquity of trump and and his his the solidity of his base that it is a majority in any way even among the half of people who vote and i would say the vast majority of everyone else is going to answer ***** hell no i'm not unless you're jeff bezos ***** no i'm not better off than i was and elections are still one at those margins and so

you know assuming that we actually get an election that is able that assuming the coven situation in november is sufficient to allow for an election that goes off with any kind of legitimacy that's a big if i think he's going to lose and probably by too big of a margin for to even realistically claim fraud in a way that would get others 0:18:33 to rally but like i said that's right now but i mean how the hell do you beat that how do you answer that question unless the person is like i've talked about the the liberal anti-racist idea involves talking to people who have essentially already agreed with your premise it's the same way with this the only way to spin the question of how are you better than off now than you were four years ago is to have someone already invested in the idea that well you know trump is trying to change everything for the veteran uh the media and the chinese and and all of the democrats and even the republicans they're trying to stop him unless you already believe that there's no way that you can look at his performance and find it oh we'll see we'll see we'll see the fact that he's running against a senile mummy who does not appear to know 0:19:37 where he is uh that's a concern but i kind of think that i kind of think trump is counter-mobilizing enough to outweigh that i don't think because i think a lot of people there's always this there's the theory of like mobilization that you're you're that um there's something called counter mobilization where you by activating your core supporters also activate the court for supporters of your opponent and there was a thinking i think for democrats that assumed that hillary was going to win in 2016 they believed well yeah okay we know hillary isn't terribly popular she stands in for a lot of things people don't like and that means the republicans even if they don't like trump are going to come out to vote against her but trump is just as counter-mobilizing for our side people hate him and don't want him to be president and i think one of the big shocks of 2016 is that there was an asymmetrical counter 0:20:38 mobilization that hillary got people to the polls to vote against her way more than trump got people to the polls to vote against him because he was a hypothetical he was a hypothetical thing to vote against you were voting you didn't want him to be in because he seemed like a bad guy and erratic and racist and all that but you weren't really tacking a agenda to that other than just amorphous badness if you're a liberal for conservatives hillary clinton stood in for a very specific legacy that they abhorred and i think that the thing that's going to work for the democrats advantage this time is that i think biden is much less counter mobilizing than hillary was and trump now that he's been president for four years and it has gone as badly as the most dire prediction of someone who didn't like him on the day he won how it that's going to fill in the gap of biden enthusiasm that's the theory i don't know 0:21:39 if it's true i suspect it might be because people don't hate bite in the way that they hated clinton like his entire his entire hit on biden is now about competence

and brain power and the thing is people don't actually care that much about that because they kind of know at a certain level the president doesn't really run anything it's a whole ***** squad it's a team and then there's the vice president it's like it doesn't really and it's not like trump is setting the world on fire the guy spent two months bragging about passing a basic cognitive faculty test essentially bro past he bragged about like uh passing a concussion protocol that doesn't make the contrast and that was hillary's problem is that she could never make the contrast with trump work because everything you could say about uh trump had a symmetrical thing you could say about hillary from corruption to sexual assault and harassment uh crooked 0:22:42 charities uh no account no talent kids uh getting jobs they don't deserve uncanny not the same thing here what does biden represent mine represents the obama years which where during which nothing like this happened and trump represents this i think that's i think i think people need to kind of get over this trauma from trump winning where by now they're going to credit him with a power over like the psyche of the american voter that i think is not really accurate but caveat always a caveat we'll see because i always get this ***** wrong anyway just laying out more than anything i'm just laying out my thought process you can agree or disagree with that more god if we don't if we don't get we're not going to get a debate i'm positive 0:23:47 there's going to be no debate certainly not in person which is the only way it really would have been fun like if it's a zoom debate it's already ruined that's the best we can hope for like dueling town halls and dueling like enclosed bunkers it's really depressing there's no way that dnc allows there to be a hunter yeah it's the same way like urban cane is like the high that's about as where we're going to top out in terms of evil people biting it from kovad which is still very very very low just and we're not we're not going to get any kind of good debate it's a bummer real bummer man unemployment is not going to be allowed to expire i mean they might ***** it up but that's that's like that's how there's a lot of malevolence in the cove at bungling but there's also a lot of just sheer incompetence and lack of institutional capability there's a chance that congress is too dysfunctional to pass something that everyone knows has to pass that could happen but i mean they make the rules you 0:24:48 know deadline shmedline they can they can fix that in post that's kind of the whole deal they're right the laws so i think that that's this this thing isn't going to collapse because somebody pressed a button that said make it fall apart you know that's not going to happen no one's going to hit their ass on the self-destruct button it's gonna be people making decisions that they think are in the best interest of the moment that are cumulatively catastrophic and that was not cumulatively catastrophic that is self-destructive that's detonating a suicide fest in the heart of the american economy why would they do it and the answer oh they're they're they're sick and the cruelty

is the point that's the kind of emotionalist ***** honestly that obscures so yesterday 0:25:49 somebody was really hollering at me for some reagan land a reagan land update i hope they're listening or watching or will at some point because i kind of i spent the weekend i was off doing stuff i didn't uh i didn't really read any but i got back into it 1979 and there's some stuff in here about uh about the neoliberal turn of carter uh i mean the material is obviously very relevant but pearlstein frames it in a very by 1979 carter's completely convinced that that that inflation which was the number one domestic issue it's hard to imagine but yes inflation because it was very high it was it was almost double digits which was just wiping out savings uh and freaking 0:26:50 people out because at that point people weren't all all debt riddled at that point that was was rare that was to be avoided it was not just the condition of life not uh the way it is now uh so people it just drained away people's savings uh and he points out actually that one of the big things that leads to the credit the shift to credit is people start wanting to buy expensive things right away rather than save for them because it's impossible to save with inflation too high so charge it and pay a rate of interest that will still be cheaper than waiting too long uh but carter's answer to this was oh inflation is caused by government spending specifically deficits and he pursued that 0:27:51 to his his party's essential uh immolation like destroying his own party and then it had the carcass rotted on the street until it got filled in by uh the dlc and uh the same corporate interests who had taken over the who owned the republican party uh and he did that out of miss a a delusional belief in in the the causes of government uh the causes of inflation and then what's really most notable even more than that is that so carter says oh look we gotta we have to live within our means we have to stop the amer we i i have to be a politician who for the first time since the world war ii has to tell people to tighten their belts to say that they can't they have to do more with less which is not that goes against 40 years of democratic but uh politics how am i i mean that's that's undermines our entire electoral uh raise on debt there's no other reason what's the point of the democratic party if they're not there to hand out goodies from an ever expanding economy uh and so like his uh his liberal uh 0:28:53 policy director in 1979 who said that carter must face the new reality he inherits he must govern based on facts and situations handed to him he cannot recreate the 60s when he must conf govern when he must govern with the far different problems of the 70s an era of constraints they're saying we need to constrain and in that and he never asked the question well what do you do how does that mean politically and i think that's because he had an assumption buried in his assumptions which was okay this fact this new america must live within its means reality well because this is objectively true the republicans know this too and that means we're both parties are going to have to govern now and campaign with the understanding but as a republican if i'm ronald reagan and i'm looking to take over the reins of government 0:29:54 and recreate it and all that's standing between me and that is this ***** pencil neck telling people that they need to wear sweaters indoors and they can't go out for eat anymore or get a ***** car what is my incentive to go along with his horseshit about austerity especially when some ***** uh some voodoo priests have brought up this beautiful thing this beautiful uh enchantment called supply-side economics where i can just say no no we cut taxes and that takes care of it we can still you can still have indulgence at every level you might have to uh borrow some money but it's fine it'll all work out he's under no requirement to listen to to do what's best for the country as though that's some sort of objective thing he can tell people whatever they want to hear which is what he did he sold him a line that's why this book about the rise of reagan is the invisible bridge he sold him a ***** fake bridge built on built on a fantasy that was entirely funded by but that's not what he told 0:30:55 people he didn't say that that's where they were making the he did there was no informed decision that that was the trade-off people were making because he wanted to win there's a story about carter getting leaked reagan's debate prep book in 1980 and then giving it back without looking at it part and parcel there's no re there is nothing making the republicans have the democrats buried assumptions about like the guard rails on responsible behavior i also wanted to point to one other thing that's very funny he had a in late 1978 there was a state state visit by deng xiaoping who was just consolidating his rule in china and starting the process of marketization and i just want to read this quickly uh the state visit proved a tonic for the battered 0:31:58 president's soul quote he's small tough intelligent frank courageous personable self-assured friendly and it's a pleasure to negotiate with him carter wrote in his diary something he'd never say of the congressional leadership of his own party and i think that's very fitting because jimmy carter is basically the deng xiaoping of the republic of the democratic party so no no wonder i do like though that he lists all this great stuff about how great deng xiaoping is but the first thing he like he's a like he's a tumblr guy oh my god dang you're so small you're such a small being ah you're tiny oh look at you decollectivizing agriculture ah small boy uh somebody's asking if i've 0:33:0 read behold a pale horse uh the hold of pale horse is the book by milton william cooper that is a conspiracy favorite it's essentially a unified field theory for all all ufo conspiracies secret societies it's it's it's got everything you need uh the soviets and the americans meeting in a submarine under the antarctic but i haven't read the whole thing because it's not the pros isn't scintillating but i know i know the main the main arcs of it there's a conspiracy as a deeply uh stewed conspiracy uh fan i i'm aware of the arcs i haven't i'll admit i generally don't read a lot of the a lot of the classic texts themselves because most of those guys don't really know

how to write uh and they love repeating themselves and larding things with purple prose just give me the bullet points that's why i want to throw this out there for anybody who likes conspiracies one of my favorite documents in conspiracy lore is the skeleton key to the gemstone file it's i this is a thing that i found on web 1.0 when i was in high school i printed it off and read it in like during lunch and it's this amazing layout of of uh like 20th century history through the lens it's like a james ellroy history of the 20th century where aristotle onassis is like the kingpin of all world crime he's like ***** fu manchu uh and he of course assassinates the president kennedy but assassinates a million other people uh in pursuit of uh global uh organized crime racketeering profits and also kidnaps and replaces with a double howard hughes but the thing i like about it is it's it's bullet points it's this date this thing happened like a telex very elroy also uh i read it right around the time i read american tabloid and man that was peanut butter and jelly uh so love the skeleton key that's a gemstone file but just one more thing about cooper uh so yeah the hell depart horse is conspiracy look very a classic seminal conspiracy text a lot of people have read it uh not terribly rigorous but i thing i think is funny about him most of all though is that less than a week after 9 11 he was confronted by like u.s marshals or something over over like his refusal to pay taxes uh and he got in a huge shootout with him on his front porch and he shot one of them in the face i think and he got lit up and killed that happened less than a week after 9 11. i just imagine somebody who was a big fan of his finding that out and just being like what and then of course hanging with refers to the mark curry sitcom from the 90s hanging with mr cooper i thought i put how put the guy's full name in there as a classic uh bit of pun pun based synergy which i like to do with the titles for some of these like a little make them up we like to have fun here at the twitch at the fym apparently the chinese have bought 60 000 tons of gold to try to put this to put the yawn on the i don't know about it i mean my guess is it's a hedge i think everything's just hedges i think all these moves i don't think anybody's plan i really it feels more and more to me like everyone is just hedging their bets until the jenga tower collapses rather than pursuing any meaningful long-term strategy i just don't think that there's the stability the resource stability climate stability uh geopolitical stability to to lend itself to significant long-scale long long-term planning by anybody so my guess is that they're just covering their asses but uh if they make a move that's going to be that's a hell of an escalation right there katie might have to bar the door on that i think there's one more thing in here i wanted to talk about let me see if i can find it oh this this is it i remember now so it's talking about how carter in the second half of his term is trying to figure out a way to package this austerity message first time ever for a democrat to tell people that they're not going to get more more

in your paycheck was the democratic message for 40 years it worked how are they supposed to do this the responsible thing we're doing the responsible thing and surely the republicans will follow our lead it's like not it's amazing the levels of the self-deception and just downright uh failure to recognize reality are stunning first just buying the horseshit about about deficits being the cause of inflation without a thought and then assuming furthermore that the republicans were going to have any good faith incentive to follow through on your responsibility but anyway so he's got to figure out a way to make austerity compatible with democratic values and so 0:39:11 let me just read this thing about uh the it's when they're getting ready to they're they're preparing the state of the union address for 1979. uh preparing for it sorely rattle the speechwriters worried about complaints that carter failed to inspire and had no clear idea of where he is leading the country they decided it was past time to devise a catchy two-word slogan kennedy's new frontier johnson's great society roosevelt's new deal their dilemma however was simultaneously inspiring clarity and credibly acknowledging the intractably complex interlocking problems the nation faced it was compounded by the fact that the problems conceivable solutions all lay in the distant future with no political dividends in the to be harvested for the work required to get there they decided to try to convince the public that the essence of carter's accomplishments was initiating a process they tried out phrases like new groundwork and new building blocks someone suggested new foundation can't we do 0:40:14 better one speechwriter carp apparently not some form of new foundation appeared in the speech 13 times sounds like a ladies undergarment said one commentator daniel patrick moynihan pointed out that the phrase appeared in the first stanza of the communist anthem the international there's your boy daniel patrick boynihan being a ***** epic troll as always but that really does grab grasp a fundamental hinge point in democratic politics and that is the moment when the democratic party went from pitching voters on a outcome and started pitching them on a process we are not promising anything we don't give anything the market provides what we do is provide a process that allows the market to provide and that is not what the democrats used to say these they used to say you got social security because president president ***** roosevelt there was a uh there's a billboard and i think the 1936 in west virginia that said the president knows that your boss is the son of 0:41:16 a ***** your pay packet's gonna go up every year that was the promise more you more jobs higher wages at those jobs not just jobs jobs got detached from wages right around this time and talk about jobs completely detached from wages too and carter is when they can't the democrats cannot responsibly make promises and because the party is inherently they're responsible that's what a democrat is they cannot not be responsible then all you can do is offer a process all you can do is offer to be a

fair guardian of interests to be a to be a umpire or a a linesman and then you got the republicans they're not necessarily offering anything material but they offering something something spiritual something visceral which is defending a culture which is defending a a hazily conceived way of life and concept of hierarchy that's gonna be ***** that's gonna be persuasive in the absence of any carter is a ***** absolute dog ***** president and i think that like the fact that liberals love him a while i used to think liberals are are wrong to like uh carter no no liberals should love carter carter is the ideal democratic president because he did the right thing against his political interests and it cost him the white house but not his integrity there is no more perfect democrat than jimmy carter of course liberals carter won that pro that nomination because he was a cipher he he was also uh he was obama-like in that way he was promising to redeem a nation traumatized by vietnam and watergate because he was a ostentatious born again christian yes they used there used to be democrats actual democrats who were like that not just dixiecrats like new south democrats were also evangelical bapti uh uh christians he was an evangelical christian he had a sterling reputation he was a son of the soil for god's sake and a nuclear engineer and he also had a top rate pr shop that was as cynical and as manipulative as nixon's advantage 68 the guys from joe mcginnis's uh making of a president and then when he got in there after promising to be all things to all people and for democrats his tale is the perfect that's the way all them all democratic uh like in in in the the process-minded democratic uh uh morality play that is always in the back of the mind of like the fully conditioned post watergate liberals should end in being voted out of office for casting a vote that your so carter's holding the line on the budget holding the line on deficits refusing to try to create a new a new arrangement that maybe i don't know constrain corporate power and profit instead of making uh instead of ending inflation on the backs of a labor share of of the surplus no he accepted the parameters laid down by the narrow uh bourgeoisie experts the narrow range of opinions of the bourgeois experts who he surrounded himself with because by that point uh the power of the labor movement was waning over the democratic party and they couldn't get they weren't there they weren't in those rooms they weren't there for long enough they weren't persuading they weren't persuading and then they also were not offering enough of a danger to make someone act they couldn't coerce or persuade whereas so that meant that the hegemonic uh neoclassical understanding was accepted as gospel so he accepts this brainwashing without a thought and then sacrifices his presidency holding to it and that is that's that's that is the passion play that's that's the great example of a christ-like figure so yeah love carter but uh if you're liberal because he is the ideal one of you and think about that think about that like do you want to be able to smugly think that you you uh you ran

the country with a sense of honor or is that okay is that enough to make up for the fact that you're a ***** historical laughingstock yeah no carter was the first neo-liberal president in that he had internalized neo-liberalism at an ideological level which i don't think any of the other ones had i mean partially because it wasn't yet fully formed he had he had internalized it he believed it like his his his diaries we gotta get that budget deficit under control like they believe that's the thing there 0:47:27 might have been a cat there was a a budding capital revolt happening under carter's feet but that's one of those things where these are mutually reinforcing phenomena and like looking at the degree to which capital was able to reassert control over the political process in the 70s absent analysis of the carter administration's breakneck run towards neoliberalism is incomplete i think you can assume that if they had actually fought on firmer terrain and attempted i don't know to yoke the strength of the still much more powerful than it is now and much more organized american labor movement maybe they could have fought back he didn't want to though like it was it was not even a question of him uh like bending the knee like the starks when avon targaryen showed up to avoid the north being burned up by dragon fire they don't they didn't want to fight it he went in there with we're gonna take i'm gonna discipline this party there are a bunch of kids running around or they're a bunch of babies big old babies looting the treasury for all their pork barrel and i'm gonna spank their bottoms so yeah like capital would have won probably in the end carter probably would have lost but maybe the terrain is different maybe it maybe the party does not become the absolute husk it is maybe maybe points of resistance change the the shape of our descent and leave us now in a period of critical crisis with a higher capacity than we have to resist it that's all you can ever say about any historical counterfactual greater or lesser degrees of coping with the overwhelming and shaping forces of now the real counterfactuals what if reagan wins in 76 because 0:49:36 very could reagan could have beaten uh ford i mean it came down to the mississippi delegation at the at the uh convention they were essentially tied at delegates going into uh last time that's happened uh going into kansas city in 76 reagan i think won more votes in primaries than ford did or if he didn't it was close ford if reagan had been the nominee he could have beaten he might have beaten carter uh and then he would have presided over he would have had to have given a republican gloss to austerity unless he decided to just ignore it and spend like crazy anyway because he didn't really believe any of that ***** see there you go that's why these things are difficult i don't know and really you really need the perfect storm of of of these self uh self policing process dorks taking over at that exact moment but reagan absolutely 0:50:37 still would have broken labor uh no question about that but the thing is he did that in the 80s and yeah you know what that's it somebody was we were somebody was asking me about the difference between the analog and the digital high and i was trying to talk about how you know digital high is sort of a simulacrum it's it's it's a ones and zeros version of getting high and somebody says it's shorter lived and that is it yeah it's uh it just doesn't resonate i the thing is i like leo i thought he was fantastic and once upon a time in hollywood uh and his performance in wolf of wall street is an all-timer he got ***** ripped off i didn't like the revenant and he wasn't good in it but i consider that compensation for getting ripped off for not winning wolf of wall street his just just just him winding up the the floor the boiler room floor those scenes are phenomenal but i don't know if i buy the thing about grant is that grant was and this is the problem with making the grant the focus of a movie is that grant was a guy who faded into the background he was not a prominent personality he was and especially contrasting in an era of just peacock ***** like george mccllellan with his little napoleon with his fuss old fussing feathers is what they called uh winfield scott or because of the ornateness of his uniform and his penchant for pageantry uh grant no just blood spattered boots in a private uniform very soft-spoken rare rare to get angry uh his whole like anything that's charismatic and interesting about him is about like just being a a cool and calm presence and i think that could work in battle scenes especially like shiloh's a great example yep uh he gets he gets buffaloed and uh absolutely absolutely just shocked by a surprise confederate attack that almost drives him into the ***** river uh and that night he's at the camp where everybody's frantically trying to you know dig in and worried about it something worried about the next day nobody knows what's going on and sherman comes up to grant and goes well we've had the devil's own day and grant goes yeah looking tomorrow though and then they did they kicked their ass uh so that could be work but like i just don't see leo as that guy leo is the cauldron leo's the simmering pot the vein he's like when i think of some actors have like a some physical feature that is where they're acting sort of concentrates and for me uh with leo it's that line in the middle it's just this like center it's like a seam it's like a tectonic plate contact point where all this lava comes out and also grant didn't really have a have a lot of like dramatic moments i mean uh chattanooga is very very dramatic but he just watched that i mean he was a general i don't know i think grant would be more interesting in in a movie about the presidency than about uh about the war brolin could maybe work brolin has that i actually thought jared harris kind of got it some people don't like him in lincoln but i thought i mean you know because he's not a guy who does a great american accent but quiet uh centeredness but i mean i'll watch it there's no question about that if we still got tv if we still got movies and we still have uh programming my favorite movie about the civil war will always be glory because i saw it when i was a kid and the ending hit me so profoundly and emotionally that it basically made me single-handedly into a civil war nerd sherman would make a better movie the march to the sea is genuinely apocalyptic and that that really depicted on screen would be would be amazing and sherman is much because uh because grant you know he was like a melancholy alcoholic and a quiet one at that whereas uh i would say that i think they've like remotely got diagnosed sherman with like manic depression or bipolarity or something he famously said of grant i stood by uh he stood me up he stood by me when i was crazy and i stood by him when he was drunk he's got the red hair too oh yeah yeah sherman was a big neurotic and that's another classic sherman quote is he says like i'm smarter than grant i'm more tactically and strategically uh adept than him i've more read more on on military theory but there's one thing that he has me beat on every day and that is that i cannot he said he does not care what the enemy is doing he fully focuses on his disposition whereas i cannot think of anything else than where the enemy is and it undoes me and that's what undid a lot of uh union generals uh uh ***** mccllellan more than anybody and the contrast between mccllellan and grant is so poignant because mccllellan was the boy genius he was already called they were calling him the little napoleon before the war started he thought of himself as like one of the great american military officers before he lost his first battle which is one of the big things that contributed to him as well as his sympathies for the south and slavery uh because he was a ***** copperhead basically my god terrible terrible terrible disastrous choice but um but anyway had to happen you know losses into lessons one of the big reasons he wouldn't fight is because he didn't want to lose he won't want to destroy his impression of himself and the world's impression of him so he just drilled and drilled and drilled and organized the army everybody talks about what a great organizer logistics guy he was like yeah that's all he did no i hope he would be ***** good at it and then when he fought he fought poorly he won every battle in the seven days but he retreated after each one because he thought he was about to be overwhelmed he of course he got lee's orders to his ***** divisions they fell into his hands because some ***** courier dropped him and rolled up in some cigars and he still nearly he still thought he still was only able to get a draw at antietam god imagine if grant had gotten these ***** orders like a wrecking ball and one of the big reasons he lost it he didn't was unable to overwhelm an antietam it's because he wouldn't commit his whole force at once because he didn't want to get beat grant was a ***** loser drummed out of the army for alcoholism only when the army in the first place is because he didn't really have anything else to do failed businessman uh kind of in-laws ashamed of him wishing that their daughter had made a better choice uh so he didn't give a ***** he was he was he was able to concentrate on what was actually in front of him instead of fighting castles fighting armies in the sky like mclellan and so he loses the first light shiloh and he's like okay we'll win tomorrow i mean my god i i if shiloh had happened to mclellan i just imagined him like falling on his sword like a roman consul yeah grant couldn't even 0:59:59 farm for in the rich soils of the midwest which is literally that's why people live there is because you can farm there grant is the problem is that wig is that wig jeffersonian to wig like yeoman farmer like citizens just the idea of like a whole citizen you know created in the frontier experience but of course there is no such thing as a whole citizen and he had his uh he had his problems and his lacks and his lacunae as we all do and it helped undermine him although i don't really blame him for like it's not his fault that reconstruction ended uh he he he pursued it with real vigor um it's just that if if we were gonna if we were going to hyper exploit the south after 1:1:1 the war which is what everyone wanted to do everyone was waiting to just carve up that land uh then there was no way to build the sort of multi-racial democratic society that would have well basically the way we could have made reconstruction work is if we had made the agricultural south into the agricultural north as in people by this kind of small holding farmers like the grant family create more grants out of the out of the ex slaves and the and the ex uh confederate small holders by breaking up the but the thing is is that that cotton man that was the engine of the america one of the engines of the american economy replace replacing that with small holding tenant small holding land uh uh yeoman producing like surpluses that 1:2:4 they sell on the market for like goods like the you've just pulled the engine out of so the question is was there was there a hypothetical combination of elements existing in america after the civil war to do that to do a smallholders yeoman reconstruction wipe out the panda clanter planter class i'll be i'll be nice and say you don't even have to execute all of them although i wouldn't shed a tier if they had but dispossess them entirely no land anybody all plantations not sold to ***** speculators all of them broken into lots and distributed to all races 40 acres and a mule you would 1:3:5 have had to add some sort of economic alternative to uh uh the the um so it's an economic question it's an economic question and the problem is is that the same war that ended slavery fittingly the fighting of it created a capital concentration in the north that became overweening and soon enough essentially captured the entire uh infrastructure of government which led of course to the monstrosity of the of the gilded age and and that's why there is a like a revisionist left take on the civil war that says the north was the bad guys because they ended up doing the dirty work of finance capital to fully proletarianize like the south and like that's true in that it's describing what happened but it's the normative argument is absurd because nobody knew that that's what was happening and it didn't have to happen just that's how 1:4:7 the intersection of material reality and hampton stance the arising stochastic chaos of the human natural order shaped us towards that and the counterfactual question is like would lincoln's surviving have been enough uh i don't think by itself but my god it would have helped oh jesus that's i am i'm fairly agnostic on the question of jfk living making things much better because honestly his assassination i'm agnostic on whether he would have really ended vietnam but it's pretty clear that he was completely ***** on civil rights he was in a log jam and his death cleared so what happens with civil rights if there's no like sacrifice of kennedy to break break up the the senate log jam there like how much does that exacerbate domestic uh racial conflict there's all these questions you gotta ask so i'm like jf jet with everything with jfk who killed him whether he was good or bad almost we would have been slightly to perhaps butterfly effects working in the right way vastly better off if lincoln had lived but i don't think it would have been enough by itself but it could have been a precondition for other things i don't know i also like to imagine garibaldi getting that commission to be the commander of the union army because of course garibaldi's condition of uh to take off power was you got to make freeing the slaves the point of the war and uh because he would have commit he would have waged a guerrilla war is that he was a guerrilla fighter uh and that meant he would have when he captured uh territory in the south he not only would have freed slaves the way that fremont did and uh and benjamin butler contraband uh without and that was controversial because it was not without with it was without the orders of the uh of washington but he would have armed immediately created a created a literal insurgent rolling insurgent army uh which would have changed the the players uh in the post-war political discussion changed the terms of the debate and the and the and the conditions of the parties going through the uh the political process immensely but one of those tragedies of history is that even though i think that that would have been acceptable at the end of the war among most northerners i mean we are the the union finally did arm black soldiers uh glory is about that uh and that they they fitted up some you know contraband units but that was after years of bloodshed and after slavery had risen in centrality to war aims in the early war when everyone really wanted us like keep it narrow and about a slavery at least at the top i mean partially to ally racial anxiety but also to keep the border states from seceding i don't know i've thought about this stuff a lot as you can imagine when i wasn't going on dates in high school yeah that's so annoying about all the with these ***** italiano guys has no one offered to just do like switch it with garibaldi i mean for one thing columbus is not italian he was genoese italy was not in any sense a unified country or concept garibaldi literally made italy into a thing garibaldi is the reason you can even call yourself italian and not calabrese or something or i'm trying not to use any anti-italian slurs here but it's just very frustrating it's apparently in connecticut and it was paid for by some local italians and it says the first italian american christopher columbus and i thought that was pretty funny because for one thing he's dead i don't think he's he's welcoming me anywhere secondly we can argue about whether he's italian because you could say oh yes there might not have been an italian state but there was an italian language even though italian is notoriously dialec like uh dialect 1:9:17 heavy and and uh relatively uh unintelligible across relatively small but even if you want to call him italian he 100 was not american by the way these people talk about america because when people say like i'm italian american they don't mean in that like you know uh globalists like well the united states is not the only country in the americas anyone in north and south america is technically an american i'm going to call them a uscn because they're not american now of course these guys don't go for that ***** american is usa number one and columbus never set foot in the united states he went to hispaniola and at one point i think he went to the south american continent i'll ***** guarantee you the guys who put up that sign do not think that anybody from hispaniola or south america is an american i'm guaran goddamn to you they do not all right this has been fun it was a good one i've had good time i 1:10:19 hope you have too keep tuning in

*Music playing** baby i was born this way i'll never thought you got that brother are we live we're live i better post there's me look at me hello hello how's it going guys i 0:1:10 don't have anything playing today i thought i'd just do a chill stream talk you guys but whatever you want to talk about don't tell me there's no sound tell me i have sound right oh they hear the milk that's good it looks like they've had unemployment expire that's pretty crazy i mean the thing is the reason i just assume that that's going to be corrected at some point is just because i don't see the percentage in continuing to do it from the perspective of people in power forgetting the political 0:2:11 parties of actual power holders so unless this is the end and they're like getting ready to uh i don't know just put people in fema somebody said i was being smug about it and if i was i apologize i understand people's livelihoods they're at stake here and they're terrified and they have every reason to be worried about this ***** i'm sorry if i appeared uh to not really have enough empathy for that position because obviously i think what they're going to have to learn is just that their premise that like you can't have people on unemployment because it's going to prevent them from seeking work i think they just don't get that the jobs don't exist i think that they are 0:3:13 trapped in a illusion about how bad things are and how badly they've injured how badly the economy has been structurally undermined by this that they think that they're still are they that disconnected and ignorant yeah i mean i was talking about this they have we have the most unconnected ruling class since before democracy which is pretty impressive when you consider that this is supposed to be the like the the archetypal democratic state or at least we like to think it is they're absolutely unaware uh it's pretty horrifying uh so i don't know what's going to happen like i said my assumption is at some point reality will sink in and they will decide to put more money out there but uh they're going to make it as as punitive and as humiliating and as difficult to collect as possible that will definitely happen there's no somebody wants me to talk about quantum mechanics and i really don't know 0:4:26 anything about it i don't know anything about hard sciences so i don't want to turn into joe rogan i don't know it's it's uh yeah i want to steer clear that thank you for the question but i don't want to more than anything i don't want to just lose myself in trying to like guess around things that i frankly don't have enough of a grounding in i'm not a math guy or or a science guy i'm not bill m bill nye the science guy i do i do i do sense though like my my like uh more instinctive than an informed sense there's a lot of ***** going on down there if you know what i mean huh uh in that quantum realm where uh more most interestingly the idea that causation breaks down at a quantum level it's really interesting and i think it has some very significant implications that once again i don't want to get into right now because i'm trying to not alienate by uh somebody recommended william vollman's book about the nez persport yesterday and the only moment i've ever really tried to read is i tried to actually read in high school i think his gigantic book about like the ethics of violence i think it only got halfway through all right this guy has got me tempted with the quantum saying i don't i really didn't want to say anything i'm just putting this out there as a theory i don't want anyone thinking that i'm saying that i that that i think this is true because i don't have enough of a basing in the science to suspect that to to have any idea uh but i kind of think that like the way to resolve the free will determinism question essentially ports you through the quantum space from one planet to another one version of earth to another where you make the choice i am not on weed right now actually that's one of the reasons i'm being more hesitant is because uh i i when i'm not when i'm not chiefting that lounge it more residence to go off i feel more confident to just kind of pull things i did watch the last season of rick and morty it was fine rick and morty is is now just a comforting a comforting fun program for all the watch i feel like the the fever has broken around rick and morty the cultural fever and now you can just watch it and have fun have i ever read two books at once do you mean simultaneously no that seems like it'd be very complicated but i have read multiple books like switching off between spanish civil war i should i have teased the spanish civil war neighborhood had passed before and now i kind of want to do it just to get everybody mad at me i would kind of want to like sketch it out in such a way to make sure maximum anger from both the anarchists uh and and the uh the the soviet apologists out there because there's plenty there's plenty in that material to uh to troll both sides somebody yesterday this reminds me something yesterday was talking about zapata the mexican revolution and people in the comments were uh praising zapata like how he was you know the true revolutionary heart of the french of the mexican revolution i think that's certainly true but uh i've always wondered with zapata though if zapata had been in a country that had a soviet-style revolution in it he would have wouldn't he have ended up being like a like a a green insurgent like a peasant rebel against the modernizing urban uh communist party that would be trying to take power why

wouldn't he be more likely to be a nestor monko type person and if that's the case who as a you know uh as a historical arper v uh vicariously getting your enjoyment 0:10:48 from the heroics of previous generations of revolutionaries who do so many people are talking about pol pot i mean i think i i don't understand why isn't pol pot canceled if not for uh the killing fields for taking cia support after the best snl deep cut that's a 0:12:13 good question talking to adam mckay definitely brought back a lot of them and man i mean i kissed his ass on that show for that but i it's unapologetic because having as i have a historic knowledge of snl uh his his sketches his like five to one sketches to my mind are still the best ones they're like if i'm listing my favorite snl sketches almost all of them are going to be mckay's high c and turkey uh and orange julius of course but old glory robot insurance for god's sake uh i don't know how deep of a cut it is but i think mr belvedere fan club might be my favorite snl sketch of all time to tear the flesh to wear the flesh to be born into new worlds where his flesh becomes my key i watched the zoom snl's and they are by far the worst thing the 0:13:28 show's ever done because it's not the show it's not saturday night live the fact like the fact that saturday night live the premise of which was a live broadcast before a studio audience on a saturday night tried to do shows where they recorded ***** in people's apartments really does show the maddening psychotic compulsion towards normalizing everything that undergirds the social order and what makes it so hard for us to confront real crises because we normalize crises instantly and that's what i've said that's what i said yesterday i'm scared about global warming man because this is just a preview of how you know if like in florida sinks people are going to be like uh you know it was florida what did you expect not for it to be covered in water come on okay i mean as soon as you're doing a show saturday night live and it's 0:14:33 keenan thompson in his kitchen talking into a ***** camera for like obviously they had the show must go on and mindset but that's not the show the show can't go on and instead of acknowledging that things are such that the sh that the normal order cannot obtain we're gonna take some mutant uh uh distorted homuncular version of it and say no this is it and then you're gonna go yeah i guess this is it and then now you've you've accommodated another level of of unacceptable horror in your life i know that's not a very uh dramatic example but i think that it is uh indicative yeah 0:15:39 i'm talking into a camera but i'm i'm really bummed that hi-c in turkey is not on apparently it's not on internet anywhere i looked for it i couldn't find it orange julius i think you can find i think it's on like uh dailymotion or something but uh i see a turkey for my to my knowledge is not available to watch it's such a good sketch if anyone's ever seen it it's about uh danny aiello plays a door-to-door salesman who comes into a family's house and he keeps insisting that they give him high c in turkey uh and then he's incredibly confrontational with the family and then it

ends with him taking them hostage and demanding high sea and turkey from the police uh classic stuff one of my favorite snl quotes ever is daniel hello saying to the to the parents of a child snl mostly only puts uh recent sketches uh on youtube and i think that's because at some level they understand that if you put them next to even sketches from the mid 90s you would notice the decline in quality and i know that that seems like oh yeah grumpy stuff and i am generally resistant to that idea that like saturday night live oh this is terrible it's always bad relative to the time like it's never great uh it's not like being a fan of another of a regular television show or movie or anything it's it's being a fan of it's like being a fan of a baseball team you know they're gonna they're not gonna be good all the time in fact they're usually gonna lose i mean yeah i guess i should say it's like being a fan of like the mets it's not just being a fan of any baseball team it's being a fan of a chronic loser but it's your team and there's you follow certain players and you root for them and uh they have a good game you're excited but i've noticed that like recent snl and i think this is part of the just the flattening of of of everything uh they just every sketch is just a premise it's like hey what if this happened and then it just does that thing over and over again and that's uh that's kind of boring there should be some sort of you should i mean if you have a absurd premise the comedy you ring out of it is by escalating the premise and introducing new levels to the premise that shift things and are surprising because comedy is the point you know surprise is the point of comedy whereas now snl sketches are almost entirely a setting of a wacky premise and then just doing it uh complication and part of that you know it's they're grinding it out and they don't really have time to to to fine-tune things but it means that it's pretty crummy and if you're putting it on there on youtube next to hi-c and turkey i think a lot of people would be like what am i watching this for and the other thing they do on snl which i think is really really insidious is that instead of having uh instead of having recurring characters which was that's classically snl's bread and butter they have recurring premises where the characters have no notable uh quirks that stand out it's just it's the premise and then they do the premise again so instead of having one sketch where they beat the same horse for 20 for five minutes it's two or three sketches beating the exact same horse without even having like a charismatic wacky point character a recurring character to put any kind of uh like emotional arc behind or uh or character development because like i remember watching snl when they were when like there was there was a pat sketch every week but at least every pat sketch it was like pat on a desert island pat with a robot you know whatever it was it had some sort of uh elaboration on the on the premise even if it repeated the jokes whereas now it's just the premise being repeated so if they if they don't get back on stage i think they should just stop the whole thing and they can just chalk it down as another thing killed by kovid oh boy gilly oh you're giving me flashbacks that was terrible man kristen wiig was pretty talented but she had no good recurring characters every one of her recurring character i don't watch them all so many people ask me like how do you watch every snl i don't watch them live every every time but they're on like they're they're they're like on the next oh man ge smith was the king of the guitar face that dude constantly was just steven seagal style face just riffing off he loved it he was also a big right winger and he played the rnc last year last in 2016 i think like ge smith's band played the rnc when they oh god i'm not talking anymore about a i'm not talking about honk pill i will say this last night i was explaining the honk bill to someone and they were having a very fun time because they had no idea what it was they were just dying laughing at the prospect of this thing uh and i actually read the the honk pill thread you really get how you get what the internet does to people's brains because no matter how eye-rolling or absurd most things you see on the internet are uh in that context they're sort of given a i don't know like a a surface plausibility or something because they're embedded it's embedded but if you read it out loud to someone else as though you're just like saying you you you can really just be like oh oh dear this internet is just like this this website is just churning people into into paranoid maniacs and and they're walking around with the stuff of their head thinking it's real and you're like oh my god that's yikes it's a yikes fan that's what it is i kind of want to find it and read it again read it on here kind of because it reading it out loud was so funny i'm just going to read two tweets that and like there doesn't even need to be a pipeline travel from chapo to true and onto red scare to stupid paul to fash at that point the dirtbags are welcoming in cells into their fan bases now those guys don't need terragram to lead them to violence and that 8chan terragram clown world and honk pill nihilism is already deeply laundered into the dirt bag left the honkler his catchphrase honk honk is explicitly code for hh short for heil hitler is all over jerkbag twitter you would not believe the number of dirtbag leftists using clown world and other variants of this meme like clown emojis in my mentions don't most don't even realize how the clown emoji got popularized as code for the explicitly nazi honkler clown world meme it's beyond irresponsible the podcasters are seating the left ironically with terror-friendly discourse and institutions like dem socialists and jacket and mag are enabling them because they care more about recruitment than they do about consequences i don't believe they're deliberately trying to get people killed with this ***** i don't think the irony dead honkler creator chanters were either i just think they're all recklessly indifferent to the potentially deadly consequences of their actions i mean once you find yourself earnestly uh the 8chan terragram and not only are you talking about these things like they have meaning you're talking about them explicitly like they are life and death concerns like the hunklers if they're gonna listen to the podcast and then they're gonna kill everybody the honkler terragram clown world it really only hit me when i read it out loud how it's saying that stuff wasn't that kind of scared me a little bit because i'm like i knew it was funny and i thought it was like silly like oh gwen's had it again but then reading it out loud to someone who wasn't online as much and hadn't read that stuff really hit me like oh this is an entire like uh uh like self-created universe that somebody has fashioned out of the brickletage of the internet and turned into a turned into like a a existential damn man if that doesn't tell you people you need to like step back from the internet i don't know what the hell it would just and the thing is is that like if it's all a scam to get people to like pay attention to her that implies that she thinks that kind of stuff is gonna resonate with people that someone's gonna read that be like clown world ponchler yes uh-huh teragram yes and if that's the case then yikes if there are people for whom that is meaningful words it's like ***** we are in pontypool we're in the ponte pool universe where words have turned into a virus and are just burrowing into our heads and dissolving our cognitive function and replacing it with uh with a paranoid alternative i bet the nfl will def i think the nfl will return because they've got the like the most united owners they've got the most cow uh labor labor uh or uh most cow players union of any of the major sports and football is sort of the most like ritualistically encoded uh sport we've got in terms of like validating america's hegemony and power and all that ***** and the idea of like not having football is a fundamental uh undermining of uh of the american project and i don't think that they would allow it to happen it's because the people who need football the people who want football back at all levels including the ownership are the people least likely to accept that anything has really changed so i would if they're if if football doesn't happen then then uh that means that covert really when am i going to push back on my celebrity guests probably not why would i i invite somebody on your show i don't know i i'm not a fan of that i don't i don't see the point of it i mean i don't want to i don't want to like counter sign something i think is like wildly wrong but at the same time i'm not going to like try to like body check somebody who i otherwise respect because they're older and like they they their political uh imagination is different than mine it seems like that just seems uh churlish i think it's just that instinct of wanting to own everybody that people get from online and it's you know i get it for being the show cause like we own people but we generally don't own our guests like they're on the show you know we're trying to make it a vibe the show's trying to be a vibe so people who want like and the funny thing is the few times we've ever had conflict with a guest people freak out i remember when i remember when we had david cross on and he got into like a five minute argument with felix about louis farrakhan and back when the subreddit still existed 0:31:14 they there was a gigantic freak out it's like so we didn't have fun like i certainly didn't enjoy that argument when it happened and it didn't seem like people enjoyed it listening to it they all like breathing into paper bags like that's the example of that happening and it wasn't fun for listeners or us so why would we want to somebody keeps asking if i've read rush limbaugh's books why in the world would i read the rush limbaugh's books yes i read rush revere and the tiny patriots or whatever the ***** weird actually we did edit that uh yeah the actual argument between felix 0:32:23 and david cross was a little longer we oh there's a big long one uh how do i read all this and not go insane it's tough that's why i like to generally come with something prepared so i don't have to look at the chat so much but uh that's why i i i said this earlier but we're hoping in the near future in august probably uh to to set up a thing in our studio uh with the gaming uh console and with chris there and like do a uh like a q a thing so that i don't have to talk and look at the chat at the same time 0:33:24 and i think uh i gotta say that amon somebody asked about the amon bundy thing i mean kudos to him for at least uh maintaining any some kind of uh just maintaining some sort of coherent world view which is more than can you saved for most of his conservative uh counterparts well actually no i shouldn't say that uh they they have a conservative worldview that could they have a uh coherent worldview too it's just that there are uh there are parts of it that they don't acknowledge like they think they don't like authoritarianism but they just don't like the idea of having it used on them they in fact depend on the idea they depend on authoritarianism and in fact fetishize authoritarianism against who the the people that they consider the enemy the schmidty and other uh and uh give bundy that i'd love to go on stop show that 0:34:26 sounds great i've been i went on a hassan show i went yeah sorry about this i usually 0:36:11 don't do it this way but i just i'm out of ideas right now i'm feeling like i spent a spent for us but i just wanted to say ever read robert anton wilson of course luminous trilogy baby that's a college classic i highly doubt it holds up but i really enjoyed it at the time i own a copy i haven't cracked it in a decade and like i carried around moving around but i i guess i just like having it around but yeah no i've heard that there's a subreddit for the streams and uh that's very flattering and i'm glad that people are getting stuff out of them so i i i i will admit that i have gone i've heard 0:37:16 people pointed it to me and so i looked at it uh kind of just to be like oh god you know is this more of the same chapo trap house reddit stuff and i have to say that i mean it's not a lot of people and it's not like terribly active like chappa was but uh it definitely seems to be a better how do i stop it from becoming nihilistic people would talk i mean thanks to the honkler thing people have been talking about how nihilistic the grill pill is lately and as i said that's not a thing there's no such thing

as nihilism even if you say ***** it i'm going to pursue my own pleasure that's not 0:38:18 nihilism that's capitalism that's what we're all doing like you can call it nihilistic in like a long term because it leads to social and ecological uh collapse and is predicated on horrific uh exploitation but you sure as hell can't say that it's not some sort of a value system it is it's just you've enthroned hedonism you've enthroned and i think the way to push back on that and the way that it has to be pushed back on is to point out that our desires are not our own the the idea that anyone can operate that any the people who are that if you're operating from like what you see as your your self-interest the way that like libertarians talk about it that that is somehow intrinsic to you that that's something that is generated by your like spirit and that's not entirely uh socially constructed is is a fantasy that undergirds a lot of the most 0:39:21 uh pernicious and so i would say anybody's like yeah ***** it i'm a nihilist like no you're not you're you're letting you're letting uh you're either letting you know the the the branded uh like lake capitalist machinery tell you what you want or even or if you're self-consciously like if you're being self-consciously trad or something in opposition to that you're still letting it control you operating in a reactionary framework to a what needs to be done is is i think what people need to do more 0:40:22 than anything is interrogate their desires interrogate what it is they think they want why they want it uh and i think a lot you'll find that a lot of the stuff that that feels like it's it's at the center of your being is really compensatory it's it's compensating it's cope as kids say today and and i think that's where i think that's what the grill pill which by this point i'm already sick of and i wish i hadn't even ***** coined the term like everything on the internet it just gets turned into a stupid phrase and and a collection of uh of symbols and to be like either embraced or denied or and 0:41:24 then turned into a whole weird thing um that is like eventually loses all control that loses all relationship to whatever it was originally trying to talk about uh it's just like the logging off is the first step of a process that hopefully reintegrates you into a social value system that replaces that libidinal personal uh indulgence urge that that frees you or or leads you in a to a process that could lead you to be freed enchained unencumbered by a by that nihilistic self-centeredness because the only way that you can really like defeat ego orientation and and self-indulgence as as your driver is by 0:42:26 having something else that has value to it uh and that comes from sort of offloading your ego onto the people around you offloading that sense of value away from your illusory sense of personal identity towards a larger and larger social organ that you are that you are part of and that your actions support you know creates reinforcing cycles of of uh ritualized and and and unstructured social life intrinsically like the the meaning arrives uh i have not watched the new perry mason show because the idea 0:43:52 of a dark perry mason reboot is the kind of thing that bums me out about television

and makes me not want to ever watch another show i know people have said it's good but i don't think it's going to happen how many how many ***** shows are there and one of them how many shows are gonna be especially on like one of the few few formats that has any kind of remaining patina of prestige around it hbo how many there's only a few on air at a given time and one of them's got to be dark perry mason was less have anybody even thought of perry ***** mason somebody pointed this out to me uh the other day and it's 100 true that i still think and it's because i'm a you know a uh it's because i'm an oregon trail kid you know hbo was a big deal 0:44:53 when it came out uh uh or after it came out and for a long time you know like that whole thing if it's not tv that was some real ***** because you could see nudity and there were swears and it was mind-blowing if you could ever get access to hbo like a neighbor's house or something or a friend's house you really felt like oh uh i'm really experiencing something and one of the big reasons is was this i bet most of you will have no idea what this is and will not recognize the sound but this was this was the thing that uh this is the sound this was the thing they played before every movie on hbo and it was this there's a camera going through a a suburban neighborhood and 0:45:57 then there it is **Music playing** that's what you get when you log on to netflix comparatively you go you gotta let that's what you get that's it go on netflix that's 0:47:0 it shameful where's the pageantry i guess that's what i want because and i don't think that that's just being a grumpy old man i think there's something to that there's something maybe you wait for something it's just it makes you have to think about what it is you're uh what it is you're looking for and and then it makes when you finally but yes i know i know 90 of the ***** i say on here is just okay boomer whatever yeah i know i'm grandpa simpson that's fine world needs grandpa simpson 0:48:16 to tell you i think we did steal cable at one point if i remember correctly i remember some shady ***** happening with with like a big black box yeah we had cable at one point but uh i think we also stole it at one point too someone wants to uh have an explanation for the tsarnaev fbi thing that felix mentioned so joe carr had his death sentence and felix pointed out that we'll probably never find out the truth 0:49:18 about the boston bombing which most likely at some point involved the fact that that tamerlane the older brother who died during the shootout got run over by his brother was in all likelihood some sort of cia asset either a informant or or someone who was like uh being being run in some way or another by the agency and the evidence for that is obviously circumstantial but significant one of the main pieces of evidence is that a year before the boston bombing three people were found dead including dzhokhar's best friend in a gym where he had worked out covered in like drugs the local police their investigation was almost immediately counter taken over by the fbi who according to their own statements never interviewed tamerlane even though he was the best friend of one of the victims uh and no one was ever charged for a triple murder that the fbi was supposed to investigate for a year uh and then of course there's the fact that after there's a bunch of weird ***** with uh tamerlane uh and the the uh timeline uh there's the fact that he went to dagestan uh went to the caucuses uh and met with like jihad leaders and uh the fsb actually informed the us government and said hey this guy's been in areas with terrorist activity meeting with people that are suspicious and it was never followed upon officially also you have the fact that the that the fbi does not even claim that the tsarnaev's made the bombs they stipulate that someone else made the bombs but they have never said who it is uh and there's never been anyone charged with having built a bombs uh and then there's the fact that a tamerlane associate a tsarnaev associate was being interrogated by the fbi in florida uh and out of nowhere grabbed a broom or something according to the agent who then shot him in the back uh and then that guy's wife was immediately very very very eye-raising ***** uh and of course you know that's there's the alex jones thing and a lot of people who think that that means that the boston bombing was a false flag uh i'm always very skeptical of the whole false flag thing just because i don't think it's necessary but the fbi does one thing we know the fbi does is set up people for fake entrapment terror attacks so that they can pad their stats basically every domestic terrorism plot that's been thwarted by the fbi since 9 11 has been a case of pretty blatant entrapment there's almost no instances of the fbi like the way you would imagine in a movie finding out about some cell and then catching them before they can like bomb a buy a bomb or something it's almost always some sleaze bag the fbi pays going to find unstable people and say hey wouldn't it be cool to do terrorism until they say yes and then they bust them the most infamous examples of some miami haitians who got entrapped into trying to buy uh like a missile to blow up the sears tower and all of it was orchestrated by an fbi informant none of it would have come any wouldn't it wouldn't have ever come to anything because it wasn't anything without the fbi explicitly building it up and that's true of almost every every terror uh prosecution since 9 11 which means it's pretty easy to imagine tamerlane being one of those guys they got on the line and then at some point he got off the line and then they had to cover that up i don't think i don't know that's what happened but that to me seems like it's the most likely scenario uh sure ***** wasn't anything like in ***** patriots day what is the point of the stat padding it's so that the fbi can appear to be doing something like i mean we've reoriented our entire domestic uh uh uh security around stopping terrorism after 9 11. and there was no terrorism to stop and if there's no terrorism to stop then why are we doing what we're doing but if there's a plot if there's some guy who's going to blow up the sears tower and there's some guys who are going to attack

fort dix or something then there's a reason that we have to be so one thing you have 0:54:26 to remem realize is that the fbi before 9 11 they did a lot of stuff they had a wide remit to to investigate federal crimes of all types financial uh political corruption and after 9 11 what's the message if they don't find any what's the message yeah we put our we put our uh our our our most we put our our biggest the most effective federal police investigative agency on the case of terrorism and that's like yeah no there's no real nobody's doing anything what the ***** are we doing in iraq what are we doing in afghanistan why are we droning people i'm going to wrap it up here but i want to 0:55:29 say i just want re-watched i watched it when i was i watched it in the theater this when it came out as a kid uh ninth gate with johnny depp roman polanski movie i remember hating it as a kid because it was boring watching it again uh it's still pretty slow i'm not really a fan of polanski's later work i watched ghost writer 2 and i didn't really enjoy that either but it's definitely funnier than i remember and what really struck me more than anything is that it came out the same year as eyes wide shut and it's sort of about the same thing it's about the idea of the rich as a satanic occult force that seeks dominion through ritualized sadism and and and like debauchery uh but whereas kubrick is looking at that through like a a sterile but still deeply judgmental and scouring eye uh polanski's kind of like lol this is hilarious 0:56:30 and it's probably because like kubrick knew about all the horrible ***** rich people did from afar but being you know a uh a spectrum germophobe weirdo goldbug he probably didn't do anything about it whereas polanski as we know is one of the evil demon rich people he's one of the epstein level uh perverts and so even though they came out the same year and i can't imagine like i kind of imagined like he heard about it i don't know because eyes might shut was being made for like five years right took him forever to make it and i just imagined polanski being like oh stanley what are you what are you doing it's great come on some rare books some tokens we'll do some horrible sexual assaults it'll be fun deadwood was the best hbo show someone there's uh yeah there's a lot of fun little deadpan bits in uh the ninth gate 0:57:39 the ninth gate there's one scene when uh johnny depp is pouring over this satanic tome to find the these engravings made by satan and he's there he's in the office of this uh this rich french scholar woman in a wheelchair whose book he's borrowing and he gets knocked out and he wakes up she's strangled in her wheelchair and it's like on and he turns it around and she just shoots out of the room through the doors and the doors fly open and the other room is on fire and it's a very good uh very funny deadpan moment i gave it like an extra half star for that it's certainly no eyes wide shut and it's certainly creepier than that because you know who made it you know it's actually it's like sort of the uh it's the uh it's the cabal it's like the cabal being self-aware and just like yeah this is what we do it's kind of fun oh you really 0:58:41

this is freaking you out uh someone's asking jonestown be included in the mk ultra category i i remember growing up the big book of conspiracies that was my intro to parapolitics as a teenager and that's where i uh first encountered the theory of james jonestown as an mkl giant mk ultra experiment um i don't know if there's a terribly large preponderance of evidence on that um so i'm not that's another one i'm kind of agnostic on uh like i don't know if there's anything comparable in the in the jonestown uh in the jonestown chronology to you know manson spending an entire summer uh at an mk ultra essentially living a block away from an mk ultra 0:59:43 a francisco the bay i mean the the weird eye thing about uh jonestown related to politics is how deeply connected jones was to the to the san francisco democratic party and its um but to me there seems to be a relatively banal explanation to that 1:0:44 which was that jim jones was capable of on a moment's notice getting hundreds of people to volunteer for any campaign that he decided he would to support he was an instant campaign staff and like canvassing teams for any any issue or any candidate who wanted him and that kind of manpower is very very hard to come by especially in local politics and so he he leveraged it uh they made they put him they made him like uh they put him on that the the i think like the civil rights enforcement council in in san francisco and in the housing authority like the planning committee or the housing committee and then as they were getting ready to go to guyana is when feinstein really tried to like get hooked up with him to try to try to get some help from him for her for her uh campaign thoughts on transhumanism i always 1:2:19 assume that all that ***** all the all the singularity transhumanists ai stuff all i put that all in one basket and it just seems to me to be a big old pile of cope just seems like people wanting a way out uh that does just it feels like technological uh it's like a techno mileridism you know it's like it's like a it's techno millenary uh uh apocalyptic fantasy and and what is most pernicious about it is it's generated by an inability to reconcile with finitude with the idea that your life ends uh the idea 1:3:21 that you are part of something and that your specific part of it has to have a fixed beginning and end as all things must uh and that only only the the monstrous only the monstrous inequality that this system creates could give anybody for a minute the fantasy that they could conquer that uh and i think the ninth gate is actually uh it's got a funny scene with that with the with where frank langella thinks that he has basically become like satan's uh like vice president or something and he gets to live forever as in like as like a lord of hell uh and to prove it he dumps gasoline all over himself and then starts burning and he's all happy for a second because he can't feel it and then all of a sudden he's like oh no oh ***** and then he just starts burning it literally burning in hell uh and that's what all these guys are going to end up all these ***** transhumanist diluted wild wackos even if any of this stuff was real if it 1:4:22

wasn't just fantasy in my opinion it's like the ***** mercury tonics that that ancient chinese emperor used who thought he was gonna be a mortal drank uh it's the same thing it's i have attained a separation from all humans i have i have worshipped my own ego and my own consciousness as the end all be all of the universe i i am i am i have assimilated full solipsism with the help of the uh financial and economic resources that i find at my disposal and i'm going to use those resources to further a a fantasy or a quasi-religious fantasy of eternal life rather than acknowledged about the limits orientation all right guys i'm sorry this one wasn't too good i don't feel like i was terribly good i'll get some stuff for next one i'll take a couple days off i think you 1:5:34

welcome to the chat room we got take some games we got everything you want and where you find any meme you need if you've got the tokens baby we are your machine ah what's up guys i'm back not joey's world tour though not yet one one of these 0:1:3 days i'm just going to start housing snacks and explaining how they taste pretty good it was very rainy earlier today and then it was windy apparently this part of some tropical storm and now it's beautiful humidity's gone i don't know how long it'll last but i'm someone wants a whoop whoop whoop i can bra ah so i wanted to uh start by closing my end of a uh hilarious online i guess back and forth back in diagonal maybe back in perpendicular would be more accurate uh between me and uh someone on 0:2:4 twitter who has been talking about me being a gateway to uh to nazism uh i talked about it a little bit i read a tweet thread last time and couldn't stop laughing because of how funny it was and of course that led to fodder and another round of tweeting and i just wanted to say okay this has been fun i think it's been funny but now it's time to stop on my end anyway because if you can't know if you can't see how sterile and doomed any kind of engagement like that is i don't know what to tell you it can only provide the like the joy of owning and uh and doing mind combat it cannot resolve anything so seeking it seeking to have it do that which a lot of people do online uh is a fantasy and i don't want to i want to stop uh i know it's a work in progress like trying to totally disengage from online and it's going to take a very long while but one way for me anyway is to recognize a bad pattern and just end it but 0:3:5 i did want to say something publicly though because i just wanted to point out how perfect an example this thing is of the way that nobody online actually is trying to persuade anyone of anything all they are doing is building heat around their persona like their professional wrestler and it's about pitching to a already established specific fan base of people who respect them maybe give them money for some sort of media endeavor or activism uh and and that involves conflict uh and that involves picking fights and that involves getting responses so when i started responding that was heroin into the veins i mean as much as the tweets might have been hysteric and oh my god look what he's doing doesn't he realize that he's he's normalizing the honk

CUSHVLOG 55. AND THE WIND CRIED MARIO

pill and is going to lead to bash mass shootings all over america doesn't he care but 0:4:7 in reality she's thrilled to get a response that she can further uh used to further the the the illusion of a meaningful contest there uh but at no point is any of this stuff geared towards a as i mean i read the i read the stuff and i talked about how just hearing it out loud was startling considering how obscure and weird it was uh and that just goes to show that the unengaged the undecided are not considered in this dialogue like there's no question about getting people who aren't on the team uh it's about people who already agree and that means that if they get if you get attacked back that's just more grist for the mill and that's and that's why you know i don't mind doing it for a little bit because i don't think it's bad for me it's not like i'm 0:5:8 scared of oh no i'm get cancelled by her uh and it's not like i even think what she's doing is like terribly terrible it's honestly a fun diversion it's like a nice little place to rift for most people or to get their like anti-fascist hysteric anxiety out either way they're having a good time like a person tweeting about a person sweating over their tweets about who they're gonna like expose what what fash they're gonna dox in their war against fash uh every time they see a honk pill meme or they see me uh triggering their like the rube goldberg uh contraption that connects me to like a ***** uh the walmart uh texas school uh the walmart texas shooter or whatever uh you know the the lines of uh of uh dominoes uh of course like it's horror it's horror and fear but that ***** and fear is tinged it's tinged with with pleasure and everyone who's making fun of these goofballs they're having a good time right out there in the open but they're both having fun and that's fine everyone's got to do something on 0:6:10 the internet um might as well have some fun and i think this is honestly relatively harmless because the people who are wrapped up in this stuff give them a busy box i would rather them have them be online trying to stop the fascists on twitter than doing something helpful which would undoubtedly be a massive disaster because if you if your ability to like sift signal from noise if your ability to things by like meaning by like a with like gradients of meaning if you if you're if you have any sort of uh faculty for observing reality and giving it some sort of uh i don't like a a emotional and uh and uh epistemic triage i guess where you you i guess i'm just trying to say where you understand there's a reality there's a difference between the internet 0:7:12 and reality when you understand there's a difference between subculture online and politics then uh if you have that understanding none of this stuff is is makes sense to you and if you don't have that understanding you sure ***** should not be trying to deal with people who can in the real world it will be a disaster uh and uh so good stay there keep fighting the good fight and even you know hey patrons for fighting the fash go for it it's a nice little busy box for people whose basic ability to understand the world activism because uh i just want to say one of the accusations

that was thrown at me is that like i was playing dumb about the reality of the clown pill or honking or whatever like acting like it wasn't a real like wasn't a real thing 0:8:13 it wasn't a real subculture that was really out there uh and it's like no i know it's real i've heard about it before this of course i was extremely online for god's sakes i know about the stupid clown world ***** uh but not only is she asking an audience to take seriously the idea that that clown pill is a genuine gateway towards uh real violence in the world and not just in the proximate trigger of like well this alienated psycho who hated uh everyone uh also enjoyed this meme i'm sorry i'm not buying that but that proximate trigger thing that's that that's how you got the the moral hysteria around uh video games and uh and films and i know that's now it's now it's actually hip on the left to talk like that but i i'm still holding out the good fight that no that's not the thing that's meaningless to the real questions of the structural causes of any kind of violence including uh isolated lone wolf murder by the way uh it is interesting to me that these people are fixated on the concept of fascism right 0:9:15 which is a which is in large part defined as a mass political movement that uses organized legal and extra-legal violence to uh assert power in a political arena what what they have decided is the thing that they could actually like pull out of this as a as a general as an actual justification for why care about this stupid ***** online is will some of these guys end up shooting up a walmart or or killing a neighbor or something and that's true but by fixating on that you've basically undermined any meaningful definition of fascism because if fascism cannot be isolated people doing uncoordinated acts of violence do you think the brown shirts were just reading the deutsche beerbacker and then one deciding to go do you think they would have taken over like your definition of fascism is just late capitalist anime it's just it's it's that 0:10:16 means columbine is uh is fascism and the thing is is that kind of violence is a sign of a social dis uh of a society in decay at the level of its social fabric which militates against the idea that there's enough of a social fabric to to generate a mass political movement that would be fascism so they're already even at the beginning they've ***** in their own foundation by going with a mechanism for what fascism it is and where it comes from that is idealist fantasy that uh genuinely misunderstands not only the difference between uh media and reality but the difference uh between uh like fascism and just anti-social behavior uh and so that that's our they're off to a bad start there uh but not only do you have to buy that end idea you then have to 0:11:17 say that this honkler ***** is similar enough to the grill pill to mean that if you listen to the my streams or you will be more likely to then **Music playing** switch over to honking on the hog pill and then maybe eventually because of the honk pill people going on to shoot somebody like that's how you allied the idea like the absurdity of saying i'm going to cause fascist school shootings uh by saying no no matt won't but he will get people to take more seriously the idea of the clown or the honk pill uh and that that's the moral contagion fantasy that is the the confusion of symbols for reality that happens when you have completely detached from a material understanding of the world once that happens you are in cloud cuckoo land you are untethered and 0:12:18 your analysis will only become more arcane and self-referential and self-justifying it will get denser it'll require a greater greater degree of weird conspiratorial logic and and leaps of logic and symbolic confusion like this whole thing basically starts because two things have the word pill in them that's the essential thing this is that they're able to take superficial symbolic similarities and extrapolate from that layers of meaning and that are fully fabricated in their heads and that is why when when gwen said matt's not antifa i said thank you i'm not i don't the the entire framing of that the entire framing of this movement the entire framing of this moment as a battle of ideas online between fascists and and and socialists is wrong and it's a misapplication of energy and i'm glad yes i'm not involved good and of course the 0:13:20 double absurdity of that is that you're literally not even talking about any kind of group i mean the only people who want to argue that antifa is coherent are its supporters and the trump administration so that they can claim it as a boogeyman equal to ms-13 or isis uh but the reality is that there's no or there's no coherence to it either just as there is there the anti-fascist are unorganized just like the fascist are because you are operating at a symbolic level removed from reality because the reality is is that people involved in politics to the point of caring enough to go rumble in the streets about it form a very distinct minority of americans that are that are uh generally classified along a certain age specifically specifically age and demographic groupings uh and geographic groupings and and that their influence on the political system is secondary at most the real action is happening uh or at least the the the 0:14:21 only way that the ship this ship can be steered away from its uh course towards towards apocalypse involves activating a number of people that simply will never be brought around by this sort of politics by this understanding of politics numbers are the name of the game and the only thing that matters right now anybody wants to talk about fewer but better it's like ***** we're starting from zero almost uh and we're i mean the bernie sanders campaign was an attempt to build capacity and i think it did leave some capacity like all these all these waves leave some you know they they lap on the shore and they bring with them some sediment that like builds some foundational elements and they you know there's like there's some stuff that was left over after 2016 that wasn't there before 2000 uh uh and then 2020 but it's still totally insufficient and what happened to bernie in those in those later primary 0:15:23 states those less politicized primary states uh that had less like that have a more i guess a less engaged i guess i would use the word uh uh voting group i guess like

less politically wrapped up beyond beyond the way the people who watch fox news which is other millions of people still not a huge amount amount but more certainly more uh economically influential because of their advanced age and therefore uh their larger control of capital uh but still a minority but those people um those people weren't paying attention to any of this ***** they weren't paying attention to any of this ***** the whole time like anything about what we were doing on our show like scared people away because we were too mean or whatever the hell to the poor warren supporters or anything else or the idea that like bernie wasn't wasn't uh he 0:16:25 was too woke bernie was too woke he talked too much about trans bathrooms or something and that scared away the normals no no one was paying attention to any of it at all does that mean when it came to come time to to vote they just went clunk now some people were paying attention in that older white suburbanites were paying attention to bernie and freaking out about it and and voted and mass for biden like uh that was a a genuine mobilizing factor but there was no the thing is that was built in that was going to happen bernie was a credible challenge to the democratic party he was going to arouse conflict not only with the party hierarchy but with sectors the richer sectors of its party base uh and so that was inevitable but it was the only way it was going to be defeated was by engaging the vast number of people who were not involved in politics at all uh or were at a very superficial level and that didn't happen and if that didn't happen it is my opinion that stuff that's even more esoteric and even more fine-grained and even more nestled with assumptions 0:17:27 and value like assumptions about reality assumptions about uh morality assumptions about politics and economics built into it that are not shared like that's why so many people like to assume bad faith one of the big reasons people assume bad faith is because like i've said about uh people worrying like well what do you what about murderers if it's if if you abolish police uh or abolish prison and people will say you know you act like no one's read about this plenty of people have written about this don't act like this isn't uh this is new you're just you're just pretending not to know about that so that you can uh be a a sea lion like i'm sorry no no there's plenty of people who have not done the reading who are not have not assimilated the entire concept either to reject it or embrace it they're hearing it for the first time but ever 0:18:28 but then not just that like on all sides of the of the online left and right there is an assumption that there that you start talking to somebody about politics and at some point you're going to connect there's going to be like a little latching on between your understanding and the symbolic language and metaphors that you use to describe it and their understanding of the world something's going to click and then like the theory of one of the big theories of uh behind uh socialism and marxism is that if you're trying to get that connection between people material interests are the best way to do it uh because it's the most uh because it's the least individualized uh and that it can be it's it's it's common among uh uh a wide swath of people that could hypothetically organize around that but at this point even the way people are understanding and thinking about uh material concerns are now so abstracted or and 0:19:29 and on the other side among people who aren't engaged with politics those ideas are so buried that now there isn't even a place to click them together there's nowhere to get the latch latching but all this stuff just perpetuates just it's people winding each other up within a within a subculture it's a poli subculture you know it's like people think about political subcultures and they say well what are political subcultures and they're like well you got your tankies and your anarchists and your sock dems and your honklers and your no i'd say no no no no no that is i'd say that politics is the subculture i would say that having investment in political ideology specif especially beyond a party preference which a lot of people have who are otherwise normal is a subculture and all that other stuff that people fight to the death about is essentially just shading it's uniform like it is the the nfl and then the tankies and the suck dems 0:20:30 and the clown honklers and uh and the proud boys or whatever they're the teams in the league who play and we're in the stands watching and i think the reason people make that mistake like obviously a lot of his comp is computer insanity and i think that's a real phenomenon that we are not talking enough about like i've talked about mk ultra as or i've talked about like the internet is both like a continuation of mk ultra and also the lead in the pipes of the of the ***** you know our version of the roman empire uh but that's not just it i think there's other significant contributors and i think a big one has been the uh and of course this is all facilitated by the internet but it's not only a product of the internet and that is the the the fixation on 0:21:33 gramscian wars of cultural position standing in for uh material politics and i know a lot of people do that not out of malice but because that is what can be fought like what do you do about material conditions how do you engage that realistically in a de-politicized uh cis country with basically zero class consciousness and no unified working class to speak of either geographically uh ethnically anything uh so of course the cultural firmament becomes the only place to play and i feel like one of the big misunderstandings of these uh critiques of of uh like the new of uh the critiques of the critical theory tradition from the frankfurt school to the post-modernists and all that and there's this there is a current of blaming them for the that cultural turn in in on the left and i don't really think that's the case i think that the cultural turn on the left was inevitable as soon as as soon as the the the material war ended uh especially after that wall fell what was left but the cultural uh so that's i think 0:22:34 the main contributor once again the material driver of the cultural turn not not because people were reading stuff but uh i think the reason that those thinkers get

so uh it became totemic and their concepts became used to build this this tower of babel about um about culture is because they were describing how culture operates in capitalism like that was that was the the the the project this is what cap this is how capitalism especially like 20th century 20th century techno capitalism this is how it operates as a governing ideology in culture that's what they were tracing and over time especially after that pesky material uh collapse of the left that over 0:23:37 time turned into a um in people's minds i think even not even consciously uh that went from a description of this is what culture is under capitalism to a normative argument that like this is what society is always that that this is not contingent and more importantly that it's not just culture that it's not it's not the way that the material relations form a culture it's the way that culture takes over and becomes the entire terrain and that that's where the errors came in i think that's where the snake swallowed its own tail but that doesn't mean that the insights are inherently uh wrong it's just that you're talking about you're talking about the like the uh the shadow you know you're talking about the shadows on the wall uh and describing the shadows on the wall accurately that has use but it should not be mistaken for the totality of reality which is how it has become thought of which is what allowed people to turn all this analysis on its head and say oh you know the way that uh material 0:24:38 culture creates all these uh racial and and uh you know gender uh oppressions and stuff well if we stop those that'll end up uh filtering down into the material reality somehow when in reality that's not what happens but then you get people but that but that leads to confusion on both sides because anytime i see anybody arguing about yelling about feminism and saying that saying the making first they make a point that i think is totally accurate they say look at what modern feminism as it has been culturally metabolized tells women about what their life should be it should be a pursuit of career that that is and everything else should be subsidiary to that career fam family first or career first and family and everything else and that that's that's that's how that's how you actualize if you if you do it the wrong way you'll be you'll find yourself at some point thwarted uh and they'll say but everyone's 0:25:39 miserable all these women who do that all these women who pursue their careers are miserable uh so what the ***** and that's that's a very good point i mean it's it's a it's a observation of reality anyway uh but uh then they blame feminism for it the idea being that oh the feminism convinced all these women that they needed to go get a job no the american economy stopped being able to support one family house uh one uh income households that's what happened you used to be able to raise a family in fact for most of human history you could raise a family on one income and for the first time in human history anywhere really that was no longer possible and then feminism becomes of course the communism emerging from that copes gives

you the the cope like that's what culture does it it metabolizes alien the specific alienation uh and trauma that the soci that the material order creates and then it creates a mirror cultural version that attempts that is designed i mean not designed 0:26:40 but emerges sort of like as a what as a immune system for capitalism to transfer that alienation into some uh carrot on the end of a stick that you can go off it's like yeah this sucks but have you considered this and that's what feminism is it's like yeah this sucks but if it wasn't for uh those that sexism that job would be better it's not that work is alienating it's not that no one should try to raise a family on two with both uh people working that's not ideal and it's it's it's not necessary uh i mean it's it's uh it's it's it's inherently corrosive to to the like the the structure of a family it is it just is it's pressured pressure makes it human interactions difficult of all kinds uh and and that's why it should be relieved uh but instead of focusing on the fact that the one fat the one income household is impossible now for most people people 0:27:41 want to argue about whether it's feminism's fault that women are miserable in jobs and delaying marriage and delaying kids or having kids and then not being able to make it work if you take away if feminism loses tomorrow if the the red pill uh takes over uh then people still aren't gonna be able to ***** live uh as a family with one income and women are gonna have to keep be in the ***** workplace and all the horrible ***** that they talk about about uh about the destabilized uh home life of late capitalist america is recreated and you could argue well yes but if we got rid of the feminism then you could get people on board with some sort of redistributed program uh that would have like a family uh friendly policy well if you haven't gotten 0:28:42 rid of capitalism then and in the moment we live in which is a a terminal crisis of capitalism and a a crisis of profitability that is irreversible uh there's no there is no room in the in at the end for any kind of radical redistribution so any politics that inc that incorporates like the the conventional order is not going to be able to demand to make any demands other than superficial ones and then what do you end up having is oh you know divorce was banned or some ***** and it won't have any real effect or it'll sublimate all the ***** uh alienation that you claim to have been curing but and the other thing is is okay you've made your appeal to these people who don't like feminism and now you've got them on board what's this you lost the people who are who do think that women should have that there should be a like a 0:29:43 role for women in the workplace and that and that you shouldn't have to stay uh to have two jobs but if a woman wants to work they should hell men should be able to stay home and that if women are in the workplace they sure as hell deserve to not have uh to face sexism in the workplace uh and that those are not that's a totally reasonable argument too and you could point and they could point to the misery of the the pre-liberated housewife which was significant uh and they're they're they're

right too and you're not gonna convince them otherwise is the important thing and so oh you got them and now you've lost them and that means you have a new political configuration you have a new constituency and once again it's too little it's too small you it's like uh the ***** esops fable where the the mouse the the fox has the grape in his mouth and he walks by the water and he and he sees it and he tries to get it he drops it opens his mouth and drops it in the water he loses both of them that's what will happen either one of those like we need to set serious about like setting 0:30:44 the terms for the left of it being like radically hostile to religion and the family okay great this is america what do you think you're doing you are you're guaranteeing minority status but if you say on the other side no we need like an aggressively trad uh socialism well then you've lost the other the only way to uh to overcome that is to ***** recognize that feminism isn't and that if you want to have it be a woman who works in the workplace or if you want to be a woman and stay home you should be able to do either because people should be able to live with uh without it being tied to a a ***** compelled because both are true the idea of all women should have a job is insane the idea that all women should stay home is but we went 0:31:48 from uh tacitly uh endorsing one although it was never true for working class women working class women always worked to mandating it through the market so the so the coercion is invisible we don't see the coercion so we just say ah it's feminism that made all those of course i'm talking about liberal feminism i'm talking about hegemonic cultural feminism the kind people are always arguing about if you want to know true scotsman mean you can but you could do that about literally everything because the thing is people could say well like even liberal feminism recognizes you know choice and recognizing but that's not what the terrain of argument ever is it's always on difference and the difference is always the most ephemeral and least 0:32:50 connected to reality thing because it's because you're trying to find an argument i'm not broken i'm totally normal and so that's just to say long way of saying half an hour long way of saying that uh that honk pill ***** i'm done with it that honkfield ***** i'm done with it still uh still marginalizing uh uh beirut i mean they say there was a bunch of ammonium nitrate stored at the dock and a bunch people have said it looks like a fertilizer explosion so i don't know it seems to me to be maybe it's an 0:33:51 occam's razor situation things like that happen all the time they're gonna happen more and more decaying infrastructure leads to uh disasters and catastrophes and there's a desire to see everything as geopolitical uh uh chess match but one of the one of the fact one of the conditions of the great game is a steadily increasing amount of mayhem created by our decaying and destroyed institutions how the hell could have been a nuke that's my favorite one it's like hasn't everyone seen every like ocean's eleven it's thought in it's like a nuclear bomb so hiroshima you're getting the ninth

century they have nuclear bombs have electromagnetic pulses that go with them and what they do is they knock out all electronic equipment in a given area so if you're close enough to ***** have recorded it like that and have your windows blow out thank you halifax halifax munitions dump blew up in halifax world i think a lot of 0:34:53 it is people just want people want people want everything to be the most it could be at any moment now because we've seen everything or we think we have and so if something's going to happen it has to and part of that is because how are we going to have a take if it's not the most if it's just another thing uh i don't know where this came from but i don't know why it abused me so much but someone in chat 0:35:54 just demanded that we uh that we that what america needs is a former uh ghanaian junta leader rawlings is an interesting cat i gotta say rawlings is not does not fit the mold for most uh like post-colonial um african strong men uh because uh he was sort of a cincinnatus type guy and that he would take a coup take over and then he would leave and that he would come back after everything got ***** up again uh yeah like yeah like a reluctant dictator yeah now i always have a soft spot for jerry rawlings also just because that's a really cool name he sounds like a like a 70s uh baseball player i got a jerry rawlings-rooking car uh if the universe is infinite well the universe 0:36:55 isn't infinite i mean it's it's expanding so i mean it's infinite in that's everything it is everything but there's space dude there's a lot of space and it takes a long time for light to travel through it a long long time nothing is outside the universe come on there's nothing outside the universe if you have to think of it three-dimensionally the universe is uh it's like a ball it's an expanding ball it's like say well what's outside 0:37:57 the ball it's like well no it's there's nothing outside the ball bests no no the universe the multiverse is not outside the universe i think that the multiverse is simultaneous to the universe they're all on top of each other they're all happening in the same in the i don't think moby dick is about in the in the great european pantheous but i do think that uh like black holes people say where do black holes lead i think it's all internal it's all and it's like there are areas of uh of super density where there's 0:38:58 if there is if there is possible travel between dimensions uh big yeah i am actually fully on board with the eternal recurrence theory big bang big crunch like a squeeze box but within that squeeze box are all of the squeeze boxes all the universes all the earth's all the everything's squeezing but not at the same rate and the thing that and like all that and they say how i don't know 90 of the universe is literally a question mark it's probably somewhere in there it's like yeah you know that dark matter stuff that's just a big hole and they're like well there's something there so we got to call 0:39:59 it something maybe something's there huh i don't know uh somebody posted a good line from uh moby dick that i would like to read after pip the uh the cabin boy is thrown overboard during a whaling mission and he's on the water for hours before

they pick him up and afterwards he's mad uh and and it's pip saw the multitudinous god omnipresent coral insects that out of the firmament of waters heave the colossal orbs he saw god's foot upon the treadle of the loom and spoke it and therefore his shipmates called him mad i know that feeling you know what's really fun about funny about that chapter though uh or about the about the book in general and then that chapter kind of uh presages it is that so it talks about yeah pip went crazy uh he was out there in the water and you know when you go out on there in the water it's just you and god and and your brain can't handle it you know when you come back and you're not you're not the same uh and and then at the end of that chapter he kind of says yeah you know that that came that's that insight uh keep that in mind basically he tells the audience and then of course spoiler alert uh at the end of the book ahab or i'm sorry uh after uh ahab and the crew of the the peak water all killed by moby dick uh ahab floats alone on uh queequeg's coffin for i think a day before uh before he's taken and that's like sort of the punch line of the book is that the book has been written by somebody i got to say it was really good i know it's stupid to say nobody dick's good but i feel like for a long time i didn't want to read it because most of those good books aren't really fun you know and i know fun isn't the only thing but fun's part of it i think that's the big thing i didn't realize like i thought it'd be great and i thought it would be profound but i didn't realize how fun it would be oh it's so fun it is one of the most fun books you can read stonewall jackson was an absolute uh mutant stonewall wow stonewall jackson so i don't know how many people know about this particular weirdness of stonewall jackson uh but among other things he was convinced that one of his arms was thicker in diameter than the other and that as a result when he had his arms to his side one of them accumulated blood and it would get heavy and so occasionally during the day he would hold up his arm over his head uh he also sucked on lemons all day uh and was generally a word i think he was probably on the spectrum i would say he seems like a good candidate among civil war generals and i was going to say who's the most likely spectrum uh world war or i'm sorry civil war general i gotta go jackson number one with a bullet i think and i don't think it's close honestly uh he was also he was a prick ***** him he got killed by his own guys which is hilarious i really i hope that it got out who shot him and then over the whole course of the war they just got like bullied by the rest of the army of like hey try to yeah hey when you want to shoot the yankees just think of stonewall jackson you ***** traitors idiots i did see gods and generals in the theater i have not seen the five hour extended edition and i do not hate myself enough to ever it is genuinely terrible and it's not just because of the politics although the politics are genuinely wretched uh and honestly as someone who loved gettysburg as a kid and loved joshua rush chamberlain and loved jeff daniels as joshua lawrence

chamberlain his turn in gods and generals is a betrayal like he's not barely in it and his one big scene is he he does a a shakespeare quote about caesar crossing the rubicon implicating the union army as the the military that is uh going to overthrow democracy and overthrow the republic why would chamberlain say that it's like yep the guy who said the guy who had the ***** speech in gettysburg about we are nami set to send ottoman free all of a sudden like a year earlier he's like yeah we're here to subjugate the ***** uh the senate and the republican bury democracy ***** him but anyway uh terrible performances awful beards uh but i think the worst thing 0:45:7 about it is just how boring it is there's only one fun scene and it's the scene where a bunch of confederate generals sit around the campfire and watch some fancy theater man sing uh the bonnie blue flag one of the senators by the way was sitting a virginia senator one of one of the generals was virginia senator george allen who was on a fast track to uh being the successor to george bush and then he was uh totally destroyed by a political scandal that looking back on it it's insane to imagine that it happened only what it was 2000 i think it was 2006. yeah it's 2006. only 14 years ago it feels like something that happened in the ***** like the era of good feeling it seems like it should have ended with a duel like oh yeah he was on he was on he was recorded on tape saying a a obscure north african slur for like a dark skinned person or like a 0:46:10 native people had to ***** bust out a dictionary even to make sense of the uh of the accusation and it still took this guy from the line to be president and he lost his seat to jim webb by the way to bourne fighting scott's irish jim webb but the worst part about gobs and generals by far is that like most civil war movies it saves on money and uh budget or i mean it saves on the budget and it saves on just ease of making the film uh by high bringing in real civil warrior actors to play the soldiers because they already have the equipment they know how to march and do all the lines the military formations uh and so it's way easier than hiring actors and having to drill them and equip them but the problem is is that american civil war reenactors are ***** fat 0:47:11 suburbanites they're fat middle-aged guys and you'll watch these battles and there's a line of confederate soldiers confederate soldiers going up and some guy gets shot and he's like a 300 pound ***** butterball turkey he's got like a red face it's like is he actually does he have a does he have a uh is he wearing a larry the cable guy hat instead of a keppy the average civil war soldier was a ***** they're just big and they just stand there and they go bang and then they fall over and of course there's no blood and i mean i'm sorry but the civil war was noted for its savagery it was it was the first one of the first large-scale conflicts that took napoleonic tactics and married it to you know indus post-industrial revolution military technology which did not account for it oh no the guns aren't supposed to be that good when you stand in a big line and you shoot at each other the guns can only be so good and it's like no no 0:48:13

we got rifling in the barrels now and you can shoot them way faster oh ***** no this is bad but they had nothing to do so i mean they'd improvised like they they were doing ***** like world war one trench ***** by petersburg by the end of the war but it took a while and that was one of the big reasons that robert e lee is such a ***** ***** uh uh overrated ***** is that he was a fully invested napoleonic ***** and and i mean he it's like people remember uh pickett's charge but that wasn't even his only dumb frontal assault uh malvern hill during the seven days was his first that was another ass kicking and he'd seen the union army get just its ass kicked doing uh full frontal assaults on entrenched positions he'd done it at fredericksburg what the it is good that war is so terrible lest we grow fond of it what a little what a 0:49:14 sanctimonious prick nothing redeeming about that guy if anybody if somebody likes him you can put them on the pay no mind list because there's nothing to like wildly overrated uh he got his ass kicked by mcelellan most of the times they fought and mcelellan was a ***** ***** and then the other wins he racked up it's like he's like uh uh robert e lee is the general equivalent of a college football team that just racks up uh um racks up wins and point differentials by playing a bunch of like scrubs like barely barely uh trip uh you know barely uh and then as soon as grant showed up oh ***** oh no what's this oh he's not able to do his tactically it's like yeah sure 0:50:15 he's lost a lot of his army but one of the big reasons he lost so much by then is that he invaded the north which was the stupidest and most pointless thing what are you doing invading the north your entire advantage is that you have mastery of your area time is on your side uh if you were able to maintain like an internal interior like lines of uh control you can bleed them out especially that early in the war before uh sherman had broken through in this in the west what are you doing yeah play for time you're you had they had guys trying to persuade the british and the french and the russians to uh to recognize the confederacy for uh and they'd been getting places it was a close run thing honestly the working class of england is maybe one of the most had more influence on the the victory of the the union than almost any other uh uh force outside the united states certainly is that because the leadership of of 0:51:19 uk and napoleon iii and the ***** tsar we're all in favor of uh i think the czar was uh uh was not as but i know the france and england but they were on board to recognize uh the confederacy they wanted it yeah give us give us the ***** uh carve up carve up the american continent break up that superpower you want that um and the other thing that you're not considering is even if it's looking bad one it still took them two years so whatever reckoning you're like we have to do it now you didn't have to do it they didn't have to do it look how long they were able to hold out even after spending their shot in uh going north if they fought a defensive war they probably could have lasted longer because they still lasted pretty long the idea that he had to go north or they would have like it would have collapsed yeah no and then 0:52:20 of course there's the smugness just like that was so terrible that we sicko willitcher 0:53:21 siegel willach come on come on uh theories on bohemian grove it's it's a weird uh fancy dress party for pretentious rich ***** and maybe they sacrifice people to malik i don't know i kind of feel like it's too on the nose to do it there i feel like they do it elsewhere i will i will say that uh just as the last word here before i wrap up that i will recommit that i will never kill i would not kill baby honkler and now that gives me an idea for something which if i had photoshop abilities i would do i would get if i could 0:54:23 get the footage at the very end if anyone has seen come and see the soviet movie about the the nazi uh counter guerilla war in belarus pretty intense film and it ends with this kid shooting uh this this vengeful child sort of confronted with a picture of baby hitler and he can't he finds that he can't kill the baby you know it's a classic kind of you know pre for plea for understanding and all that uh and i just imagine you cut that in and you just have it you have the kid looking and it's just baby honkler instead like honkler with like a funny well you don't even have to kill hitler if you can go back in time presumably going back uh i mean just take hillary and like 0:55:28 take him to uh take him to the united states give like uh go to their house take the kid take a take a boat to uh the u.s and like drop him on an orphanage door what's he gonna do what's hitler gonna do if he's like grows up a like a catholic orthopedic something i actually have read mr lonely hearts nathaniel uh nathaniel west the guy 0:57:18 who uh the guy who first had a character named what's wrong with christian yelich that's a good question maybe it's just a sign that no one should be doing this and that's stupid and that they should i don't know i so i don't have any hope for the 0:58:23 brewers to win this year but i don't know what if you're if you are a fan of a team that has never had a championship in your life right like i'm a brewer fan they went to the they went to the uh world series once when i was a wee baby and they uh lost in seven games to the ***** cardinals curse them eternally uh and you know that's really the only sport thing i have any kind of investment in i don't really care about basketball if bucks are good go for it all right maybe that's a good example uh or you're you know the indians or something or the mariners my god if you won this year would you would it count would it feel would it feel like anything i kind of feels like it would be just such a massive asterisk that i wouldn't be able to invest myself does that make sense no asterisks on championships i don't know man when it's a 0:59:25 60 game season with a bunch of weird uh gim crackery in the in the playoffs come on come on it would be a very mariners thing for them to do to finally win a world series you know in the coven season yeah no i think there's if you want to watch it for it's for soothing aesthetic uh attributes which i certainly favor all absolutely but one i don't think this is very good baseball and two it just feels drained of meaning it feels like the meaning of it is to deny reality it feels like every game is just a thumb in the eye of of our consciousness of what's happening around us it's an attempt to just drown us in a ***** pail of honey rather than look around and see what the ***** is going on and that this is not normal uh i thought sean sean doolittle said something really cool in a in his press conference when they were starting this up and they were already botching it and he said and this was before the season started and they said sports are like a reward for a society you know like like something something as frivolous as a fundamentally frivolous as a professional baseball league that should be a reward for for a society creating a certain degree of functionality hey now we can watch baseball we do not we have not reached that we don't deserve it i don't mean that in a moral sense i just mean that we do not we cannot afford it basically we cannot afford the attention we cannot afford the mystification of thinking that we live in in normal times because it's killing and it's making it almost it's making sure that it'll be longer and harder to deal with this than anywhere else god i know it's cheap to say this and i know it's it's it's cringe and i know that it's blue pill uh it's blue pill hillary uh resistance coffee ***** but you have to admire i just admire the breathtaking irony of the trump administration spending its first year or so first first two years focused fully on heightening the social contradictions around the issue of immigration specifically who gets to come into america do muslims get to come into the america not on our watch they're dangerous do mexicans and other south south uh latin american immigrants get to come in absolutely not they're they're they're they're killers they're killers and now his term is ending and the american passport gets you into as many countries as like north korea's you literally we can't leave we can't ***** leave i mean come on rod serling wouldn't have ***** put so we have to watch as other places figure it out better although seeing all those knobs in germany running around was kind of nice honestly it felt good to know that they're out there maybe not as many numbers as here but they're out there yeah america america loved the carcerial state so much that they made the entire i'm not starting cocaine thank you not much i'm taking legal germans are the largest ethnicity in america it's true everett rummage the host of american of age of napoleon has a theory about the uh the essential german soul being like warped and i know you know that's that's that doesn't sound very materialist but if you if you organize around the language if your organizers around german and you think about how weird german is and how rich with untranslatable mass uh multi-syllabic concepts and the way that being able to think that way impacts the way that you uh view the world i don't know there's a reason that you know german idealism is a thing and the pursuit of idealism in a material world drives people and societies mad in different ways depending on the uh adam mckay was cool adam mckay you know people can say he's a lib and

it's like yeah people are fixed in time and place and but he's made i think that he has adjusted to reality better than pretty much anybody in his social situation i can think of i mean because the incentives run so far the other direction that uh seeing anybody resist them is really uh awesome and knowing he's a fan of the show honestly is childhood dream come true because i was not bullshitting when i said that that i knew him as a kid watching snl like i recognized his stuff uh and you know was a big fan of obviously loved all the bull feral movies but you know his ***** is is still in my opinion the best the best stuff snl did in like the post maybe like pat since mike uh but yeah so uh yeah that was cool i'd like to have mine again and yes 1:5:41 shout out again to sylvester sloan who if you haven't seen in his performance in the orange julius sketch it's heartbreaking it makes copland uh look like uh it makes cop land look like over the top boom boom oh no sorry sorry uh it's it's cop land it's uh if the orange julius sketch makes cop land look like stopper my mom will shoot there we go that's better that's the funniest stallone name i thought jim downey was pretty much well uh well established to be a conservative i thought jim downey was like a republican i thought that was pretty well i thought i thought that was pretty well documented i mean i don't know enough i think my favorite for laughs 1:6:43 per minute i think someone's asking my this is my last question my favorite i think you could should leave sketch uh and that's very tough because i think they're the vast majority are really really good uh i think just like laughs per minute the vanessa bear uh hog pig dick girl uh lunch scene is just so good but i think for longer more baroque ones uh it might be honk if you're horny it's really hard hot dog sketch is also very good i'll keep naming them if i keep thinking it's really good i can't wait for a second season friday night and i'm thinking that we just might live together 1:7:46 when are now **Music playing** 1:9:11

hmm are we on are we going this is happening it's happening yay we're here we're on we're beautiful day a little bit of nice low humidity for the day uh we'll see how long that lasts probably not too long but i'll take it while i can get it just went for a walk at the park it was very nice for an old stroll appreciate the work of good old calvert vox and his buddy i generally prefer uh uh black cherry i think that's the goat seltzer flavor that's number one but a lot of the time it's not in my bodenga or my kitchen i'm my my grocery store so i get what's available uh yes i would say top three are black cherry watermelon and berry polar is very good that's usually what i get but they didn't have any parcharian so i wanted to start today talking about something that popped up in the old discourse once again i apologize for referencing the internet it's it's it's tough but at the same time trying to talk about things and given my limited little space there's very little i could report on in my life that's very relevant so i kind of have to stay at that level for now i don't think forever but right now i'm feeling still kind of you know we're still you know loose quarantine but in one that sees me not really interacting that much with the world certainly in a political sense but damn it there's always something to talk i like to think that for the most part i just use it as a entryway to talk about something that's more uh abstract and applicable so there was an article in jackman about how the us has incredibly uh draconian open container laws and it's stupid and people should be able to drink in public like adults like we do in most other countries and to me that seems like very very obvious very self-evident thing i mean and if you wanted to be super woke about it if you wanted to be 16 19 project about it you could talk about how wow why is america have such more stringent uh open container laws than say europe it's because they're another way to police minority communities and there's something to that and yet there was a backlash to that article about people getting mad and saying look at these uh bourgeois gentrifiers uh uh just complaining because they want to be pretend like they're in berlin and be able to drink outside ooh ***** uh font leroy's why should i care ***** that have the cops tase them so that i don't have to see their frat antics now part of that now that's a baffling that's a baffling

response and once again i hate to talk about the internet but i think that the the 0:4:5 nature of that response which seems on its face to be so shocking reveals a lot of things not just about the dynamic online but about the dynamic of the american left in general and first of all you've got the fact that for some people it is they hate jacobin because they have an esoteric problem with it as a project and they're going to hate everything and they just pull something out of a hat so that's one group you don't really have to consider them too much another group are people on the left for whom being on the left means it's if i'm on the left and i'm have a stride enough voice and certainly if i press the identity politics buttons in the right direction people have to talk to me people have to acknowledge me people have to be my friend and that's a big thing on the left is a lot of a lot of the discourse especially about interpersonal stuff within organizations dsa for example boils down to it's problematic or it's reactionary to not be my friend and for those people especially 0:5:6 the ones who have been so successful at having friends seeing people talk about things like public drinking gets them furious because it reminds them all the fun they don't have and there and they want to remind people no this is the left this is where you listen to me because it's the only social situation where anyone would listen to me by their own volition because they've convinced themselves that i have something to say but in reality i am just a wildly unpleasant person to be around and has decided that that's actually the world's fault and exert that by getting angry at anyone who would raise an issue that would only apply to people who are you know aren't neurodegenerative you know problematic uh you know having enough spoons having the spoons to drink like some people have the spoons to drink and you're ignoring all of us spoonless people which that's just personal invective this is just personality disorder described this dis masters politics and then there's this last group which i think is kind of the most interesting and that is people who they read that and they 0:6:7 don't think about the obvious person that this is uh this is referring to in terms of you know talking about real um talking about real social oppression to talk about this as something that makes society less free less just something that makes it harder to be a minority harder to be poor in this country but that's not who they think of when they read that they immediately think of the people who write it wrote it and the people who are reading it and the people who wrote it and the people who are reading it are all members of that same downwardly mobile urban pmc that is that is generally in my opinion the constitutive body of the self-conscious left in america not necessarily everyone who has leftist beliefs but i'm talking about the self-identified and so they read that and think oh you ***** you jack have been ***** brocialists uh you just want to be able to have a beer beer kegger in front of your uh gentrifying 0:7:9 ass brownstone that you your and the thing is is that seems insane hey who are you talking we're talking about the real people who are suffer from this are mostly working-class urban minorities but since that's not who that's not who wrote it and that's not who's reading it including the people who are bad the people who hated the article none of them are they're all the same group they're all the same group and they're end up fighting a battle i mean it's not it's trivial but like it creates battle lines that are generated by just this stew of uh personal personality-based uh resentments and that's why politics is a dead letter because you have a perfectly good policy that could be something that could unite people in across urban neighborhoods from the gentrified areas to the to the yet not yet to be against police authority in their lives but people got to get self-conscious about the cultural implications of it because 0:8:10 only one group is being talked about and that creates anxiety everyone knows that there's no like diversity in this movement that it doesn't include basically any poor people of any kind very few poor minorities almost no poor white people and once again when i talk about the self-consciously identified left which as i'm saying is also mostly a and so this thing just spins off on its own with no connection that would ground it and make this question irrelevant to anybody who even thought about it for a second because all that personal ***** would just dissolve in the reality but there is no reality because this is not a i understand actually why people want to fight on the cultural ground not just because it's something they can do but you know gramsci had a real real meaningful contribution to marxism when he noted the the function of hegemony in the culture because there's a certain sterility to the 0:9:12 base superstructure dynamic because if it's just that right if it's just you've got an economic base that determines the the presiding cultural values and and ideas of a society that then filters through all institutions how can anything ever change like even if things get worse that worstness is going to be diffused and transformed by culture into its opposite and then society will maintain its structures and the answer is well gramsci identified as counter hegemony whereby working class people create their own dense social network that is essentially resistant to the overall hegemony and over time can uh can defeat it in in the battle for the majority of people's mind space the war positions he called it and that's real that's a real thing and that's a real phenomenon and certainly in like the post-capitalist west that's the reality of the terrain of social struggle considering how few people uh but the problem 0:10:13 there is that in that analysis you to look at the culture as is and specifically the culture of something like i don't know the online left and you see that as a p as an emanation of counter hegemony uh but it's not it's not part of a counter hegemony it is part of the ruling hegemony because it is not a working-class movement it's not a working-class cultural movement the way that the uh social democrats in germany built species especially the way that the communist party of italy did after world war ii like that was genuine those were genuine counter-hegemonic uh movements because what the what marx theorized to happen what you saw happen in the in 0:11:15 the satanic mill towns of of uh post industrial revolution europe is that the density and the in the social and the similarity of social conditions and the geographic uh uh the geographic closeness of working-class communities meant that there was like as as society emanated trickled as as hegemonic concepts trickled down through social institutions to the working class counter-hegemonic notions were rising up from the connection between people on the work in the workplace which over which be because they were closer to the ground have more power and over time can create institutions and enduring cultural structures that are counter-hegemonic and that is not what we have right now what we have right now is a left that is specific segment of the broader you couldn't even call it working class it's not it's it's partial because 0:12:17 the thing is the job is is less significant than the cultural uh framework because it's self-limiting what it means is that this is not an phenomenon that expresses a counter-hegemonic working-class american culture it represents a very specific uh subcultural emanation within a broader social media uh working-class culture on the other hand is basic a broad one is essentially a dead letter because of the uh because of the way that geography and uh and the workplace and and labor in america has broken up relations turned us from potatoes in the sack to pringles in a tube and the challenge is to actually build genuine working-class cultural institutions and that's 0:13:20 very difficult because everyone who is self-consciously in the matrix of opinions and actions that form you know the left are almost inherently broken away from it and i mean this is another one where i don't really know the answer but i just know that that the holes we've been we've been dry i've actually been watching not old snl episodes but i've got youtube on my tv and sometimes i'll just for a little bit put on random old sketches not that old recent ones because you know i only see them once the older sketches i sort of have emblazoned in my head from watching him on comedy central as a kid a bunch of times but the more recent ones i watch because they just go in one eye or not the other and i've just kind of reappraised them and 0:14:21 go wow yeah i know it's bad it's bad it's as bad as it's ever been it's the same thing as ever and yet somehow worse than it's ever been isn't that what felix says about america and isn't it the most true thing that's ever been said about everything you could say this is basically what it's always been quality wise and yet do i identify as based uh carbon based nice i should get that for a t-shirt i i'm gonna get i gotta get a she shirt that says yes i based carbon-based and just do the biggest soy face in human history put it all over the internet ah i think i've given my opinions on 0:15:24 anarchism in here before that it's essentially like hyperliberalism it's liberalism taken to its most socially radical or like it's most it's it's liberalism taken to its most radical

conclusions but that the end of those conclusions and there that's still just that's still just the end of liberalism whereas what you need is something other than liberalism yeah there must be a deeper meaning behind organ ironic soy facing i think that's interesting because i have seen i remember after the right wing guys after the alt-right guys invented soy face and people started doing it ironically they get really mad they'd be like just because you're doing it ironically doesn't mean you're not really one and you're actually doing it ironically because you know deep down that you're soy and the thing is it's like i mean it's a it's a tautology it's like they've just said everything i don't like is soy what's like well i don't care if you don't like me you suck sure i'm sorry whatever i don't care like you i don't your values are bad i i'm glad that i don't but it's just fun i gotta say i give i gotta give them that why aren't i vegan give me a break give me a time i'm on a ***** process here okay i've been i've been a i've been a hedonic uh slug my entire life it's not gonna be a 180. i'm not gonna i'm not going to turn on a dime if i tried it would break i'd snap in half like a twig but i think i'm on a good path i think i why is the k hive so psycho that's a good question i was thinking about that so friends and i were talking about the vp switch veeps the veep stakes and about how you know oh fiden's really he painted herself into the corner with this black woman thing and you know it's probably bad that he doesn't feel like he has more variety and then somebody said it would be hilarious if he picked mitt romney and the thing is is that he's not really restrained to pick a black woman because according to the vast majority of these people uh who will really care like obviously for most people vp picks are meaningless this is really just about like shaping narrative and keeping your uh motive most motivated volunteer type people and like leading-edge uh voters uh excited uh it's not gonna matter to the general public but all these people who say who who are now like he's gotta pick a black woman and all that if he doesn't they are on record without any thing to do because they have said explicitly that they will not abandon him because of the importance of beating trump which means that they he could pick anybody he could pick chris dodd guy who's basically a clone of him he could pick hunter he could pick mitt romney and what are they going to do about it get out of here get your ***** shine box and i think that's true of most of these people but it is not true of the k-hive i think the k-hive would actually not only not vote for biden but some of them might try to take a shot at him because they are the people who have essentially become identity politics wahhabists where they have they have gathered all of their political meaning like the the good and evil and their personal investment in politics their identity as a political agent as someone trying to shape their lives and destinies and the future of their fam their families and their species around a very specific ideological matrix around which with with with brittle to non-existent

ideology under underlying it uh and as such they're not going to take that's that's the 0:19:29 one thing that will make them the thing they i mean they might have told everyone else hey suck it up you know this but beating trump is too important but i think for a small group of them they would actually do some puma ***** if she didn't get it but from the point of view if i'm biden uh these are an insignificant number of people uh and harris i think honestly would be a bad pick i mean not only i think it'd be funny if he didn't pick her but i also think he could do better like that karen bass or something i honestly now i'm kind of now the opinion that like a relatively unknown uh black female congresswoman would be the best pick because it would be something people could talk about that wasn't trump or biden because they're stuck in a thing where you know you want to be able to define yourself you need to have some sort of positive you know shape to your campaign you can't completely rely on your opponent ***** the bed i mean you can mostly do it but and you can try to do it but there are i think people assume there are limits and i think people 0:20:30 are going to act with the assumption that there are limits to that and so you want to have something positive to talk about your campaign and like if they roll out hey meet this person and it's somebody who basically nobody heard about a week ago becoming bait an overnight celebrity that's the kind of thing that could actually hold a news cycle or two you know i mean i don't think it will given how the cuisinart of of sensory overload we live in but it could certainly more than him picking kamala harris old news she ran boo it's all immediately they go to oh what about the time of the debate they they fought and all that tedious ***** and what about her making a cop blah blah you don't gain anything it's just another it's this somebody's already out has been in the deck brought back out oh yeah we know that boo you got to bring in someone new someone flashy somebody get people going get the people moving and like with trump being the nominee with biden being the avatar of of wall street uh experience if not competence since sure people know that his brain's melting but 0:21:31 at least they don't think that he's not you know that that he doesn't know how the where the ***** bathroom is and that kind of thing just unless he's forgotten so i don't think there's any real danger of people being like oh she's she's not very qualified i mean who's president for christ's sake i think it immediately becomes here's a new person and so many people can form beliefs around people they can make memes over a way to sort of launder this dog ***** dead carcass of a campaign into something animated so yeah ***** it karen bass go for it val denning somebody like that whoever you think is like going to get whoever's get them in front of a focus group and whoever lights up the dials most pick just something to talk about that isn't biden that isn't biden's man i mean my god you guys saw i hope everyone saw him today the best one of his best moments yet of the campaign where he had

everything in him everything in it that is bad everything that is that is evidence 0:22:33 of his manifest mental incompetence in one minute long uh segment let me play it right now if anybody hasn't heard it this is genuinely amazing vice president your opponent in this election president trump has made your mental state a campaign topic and when asked in june if you've been tested um for cognitive decline you've responded that you're constantly tested and constantly he's got guys are coming at him he's got to do judo chops he's got to evade attackers we've got to do mine with combat here we go why the hell would i take a test come on come on man that's like saying you before you got in this program if you take a test where you're taking ah 0:23:36 hell god damn it oh if he can't figure out the difference between an elephant and a lion i don't know what the hell he's talking about did you watch that look come on man i i know you're trying to goad me but i mean i'm so forward-looking to have i'm so forward to looking to sit with the president sit down or stand with the either one why would i want to do it by the way here it is this is my favorite part you know i i shouldn't say it i'm going to say nah never mind i probably should have said ***** here we are i am uh i am very willing to let the american public judge my physical mental filter my physical as well as my mental fitness he botches physical and mental fitness twice in a row like he's a ***** studebaker you tried to start you couldn't write it better he is funnier than trump at this point because trump would kind of get it get him in there get get the new funniest possible thing but felix is once again 0:24:37 correct he truly is a shaman he just feels the vibrations i'm out here trying to piece this ***** together with like these stupid specific concepts and and symbolic orders and he's just like he's reading the wind he's like his his kneecap starts twitching and he understands the the direction of the cosmic winds but yeah funniest outcome because we're in a period of disruption and comedy comes from surprise from the unexpected and we are living in an era of extrapolating and compounding uh uh shocks to the system so of course it's gonna be funny now this is who we get to be as president for anywhere from uh i'm gonna say uh 18 to uh i think he might make it i think the over under on should be although maybe he'll keep living maybe he is going to be one of those old guys whose br lights go out but he stays alive for 0:25:44 for years god that'd be a nightmare but also come on man if physical mental god damn beyond everything that tom god damn beyond everything well i mean they worship senility because they're senile the electorate is old people they want to see themselves represented like trump is them so is biden just different versions the ones who are accepting their decline and the ones who are raging against the dying of the light but it's still the same group same old people watch tv and they're picking which type of which more someone asked if nixon in 60 if he'd won if it would have 0:26:52 changed the uh it would have prevented the the southern realignment uh the racial

realignment uh on civil rights and i gotta say i don't think so uh nixon wasn't like a ter well certainly wasn't a civil rights uh like fire brand in any way uh the real interesting thing is that the interesting question about civil rights is how to what to what's such a mat to what a massive degree the assassination of jfk broke a log jam there that might otherwise have not been defeated and it raises a question of like absent that how do you because the kennedys had no idea how to deal with those old crackers in congress who were bottling it up using all the procedural tricks they learned from generations at the cracker barrel you're you're howard smith's and your richard russell's they were eating their ***** lunch and johnson had an idea but they didn't want to hear that ***** ***** they hated him they they had all the harvard 0:27:53 degrees so they they knew it was better and they were just absolutely buffaloed and it was the assassination of kennedy that kind of broke the log jam on civil rights of course you wouldn't i mean if nixon's president you still have the southerners resisting i don't know i don't know how you get out of the log jam i i had a fun idea for a counter factual history there where kennedy nixon wins right when the human miss when uh the bay of pigs happens see the thing with kennedy was kennedy was essentially in the dark about about the bay of pigs when he came in they said we've got an operation to defeat uh to go in and knock over castro easy peasy with a with an army like we did in guatemala it'll be no sweat and kennedy basically said all right go the planners created a a plan that really could only have any chance of working 0:28:54 with us military air intervention it was not going to be feasible for them to actually i mean in in in the delusion halls of power some of these guys some of these guys maybe even wisener i'm not sure believe oh as soon as they show up the masses will rise up and overthrow castro but the more hard-headed realists knew that that the cuban uh you know the response was robust enough that without air support to stop the moving in of heavy weapons to repel the invasion they were not going to make it uh and but they didn't tell kennedy that because they didn't want him to say no they were operating off the better to ask for forgiveness than permission model thinking that well if we start this thing and it goes south he's going to be pot committed and he's which of course that's a bad way to go about planning a thing and sure enough when it came time for the invasion it was getting repelled and they say hey uh so we could really could use some air support and kennedy said ***** no what was air 0:29:56 support i thought this was going to be easy and deniable uh and then he made the the laudable choice to just cut bait then and there of course some could say that's where his death warrant was signed depending on your view on it as i said i have at this point after reading about it a lot i am agnostic uh it just feels good i feel i like floating in that that liminal jfk space just like in a jacuzzi of what-ifs possibilities and conjectures without any kind of solidified consensus i like just knowing all that stuff and just letting it flow around me instead of hardening into press prepositions and suppositions but nixon on the other hand was the person at the white house who was the point man for the planning for the bay of pigs invasion which had started under eisenhower bay pigs were already under uh was already being planned before the election and nixon it's easy to imagine a counterfactual where nixon's president 0:30:59 and is more invested in bay of pigs at an operational level and more committed to the concept of it so that if he was in charge when the invasion happens not only does he authorize airstrikes they're already baked into the plan because he's he's signed off on the concept or even if not that when they ask him he gives the green light because he's just he believes he has ownership more of it he feels like it's his thing i mean a big part of it with kennedy is they just stuff that in his face and he said what i'm on the hook for something that i didn't even authorize and that's one of the big reasons he didn't want to uh commit too much this was nixon's baby and so what if there's a successful incursion that you know gets past the beach head at the bahati cochino and it stalls out and now the next step is an investment of u.s uh 0:32:1 boots on the ground and instead of vietnam and late 60s you have cuba in the early 60s and with a hardening of social of a social conflict accelerating uh in the absence of a civil rights resolution you have a more violent and more uh chaotic and dis and and polarizing even than in reality civil rights movement just messing around with a little bit i have no idea but the other thing is is that nixon was also you know a triangulator and he was a pragmatist so there's a question of you know he would he have been the guy who tamped down cold war tensions after all he was the guy who i mean kennedy ran to his right on china and on missiles but the thing is i think 0:33:2 guys like kent nixon kind of view the great power ***** like the stuff between the big guys on a different level than things like knocking over some tin pot dictator and at that point remember castro had just taken power he was not this fixture in his human society he was a revised knocking that guy off i don't think he necessarily would have considered it like terribly especially in our own backyard i don't think he necessarily would have considered it a a huge provocation to the soviets just but yeah i always imagine then like so nixon's term is just like this reactionary turn and then he has george wallace as his running mate in 1966 64. why somebody keeps 0:34:3 asking about the social network and i gotta say that's a movie that i have very few opinions on i never really got it i watched it in the theater at the time it came out and i thought okay and it's never it's never been a favorite of mine but it's got stuff that's okay in it i don't know the fixation on it either is either really good or really bad i someone says oliver stone's w is good i i have to disagree on that one that isn't 0:35:9 that is a terrible film in my opinion it's essentially a bunch of a bunch of filmed daily cost articles i have i guess i have one question i guess people are asking if someone asked me about the about the uyghur deal and i know a lot of people say like the whole thing is an op it's all like a cia operation to provoke a new cold war i certainly buy the logic like the political logic anyway of a new cold war but as i understand you know as i said i i think that the real conflict between the united states and china is is due to short-sightedness and uh just a a in a uh an inability to to kind of smooth out some of the uh some of the inherent bumps in transitioning to like a globalized supply chain uh and and are kind of from a market perspective not terribly rational but in the short term there's in both countries there's i think significant political capital being garnered from an escalating cold war the thing i don't get is at this late date i mean who the ***** cares about i mean i get uh yeah iraq war right yeah like that was the big liberal intervention right uh that was the big uh that that was saving iraq and the poor kurds from the from the from poison and stuff i mean trump ran on ***** the rest of the built like everyone's been freaking out about cages of the border for four years nothing's been done about them why the who's who what vanishingly small percentage of people gives a ***** in this country about any anybody's human rights including their own ***** uh fellow citizens and i get oh it's for the it's for the ngo crowd it's for the ngo crowd it's for the journalists i'm sorry if you still think those people are shaping opinions i mean if it is an op it's a it's it's one of the lowest uh return ops i can imagine that's all i i mean trump's on the record when when she explained to him what they were doing with the uyghurs he said that's a great somebody asked an interesting question somebody said what about film under communism obviously this is an absurd question because i mean talk about uh missing the force for the trees you know we're pretty far away from anything other than galloping disaster in every direction silly to talk about something as pie in the sky as that but i think it's an interesting idea just because i talk a lot about you know how art is warped over time by capitalism and what would that look like in its part of me thinks i mean so you've got the simple fact that technology is the ability to like make something a film specifically will be democratized presumably because the technology to the the actual capacity the actual material uh necessary to to make a movie is distributed but the thing is if anybody can make a movie then which one should i see and like that's where the market comes in as like these the creator of a gatekeeping effect which people hate gatekeepers but i'm sorry certain things especially certainly aesthetics require gatekeeping or else people are never going to be able to engage with any kind of art form uh productively because they're not going to be able to seek things out because how are they supposed to know what even starts being good you know and that's where the market used to stand in like what people could get money for is what was good and of course that's bad that's a bad rubric and it's distorting but it also does create the capacity to make large scale entertainments that are genuinely engaging and it's hard to imagine the app something in the absence of that and i i kind of think there would be sort of a two-tiered filmmaking the way there is now but instead of around high and low budget it would be like local like i could honestly imagine like movie making becoming a regional production like a collaborative thing from like communities or or or areas you know where people come together to do something and then they all watch it together uh and then like that's where and and then the the selection process becomes who you actually made the movie with you know and it's not just seeing the thing 0:41:16 it's making the thing like see it like local theater exactly uh but you know there's still a limit there to scale and grand grandiosity that who would want to lose that you know and uh then i would imagine it would have to be some you'd need some sort of gatekeeping operation to accumulate and coordinate action really and and accumulate the material the the capital to make it not capital but whatever maybe it'd be democratic maybe people would like pitch their ideas once upon a time in 0:42:17 hollywood was the last great movie someone says i will say this i'd say once upon a time in hollywood was the last movie it was a great movie uh and i think it's it but i think you could even say it might be like the last movie we'll see but it might mark the end of an entire type of filmmaking which considering its subject matter is just so perfect that i kind of want it to be true even if someone's asking for sound 0:43:40 drops i think we might be able to get that in the future if we move to the studio like i'm hoping we can do soon i would like to get some sound drops and maybe a sound board of some kind oh uh someone says people will put sound drops in nothing that anyone and none of you people can do no no no no i will control them no no no no no no surely you can't be serious allowing allowing the groundlings no just the sound board for me where i noises um so ah geoguesser that's a good idea i would do it to 0:44:48 your guest or stream i'm not very good at that game i'm usually not that good at 0:45:52 it because my computer was kind of slow and it was take too long to like get to the identifying stuff when i would lose patience but children men's great one of the best morats or clerics i actually say morats moderates is a solid movie all around it's an actual kind of movie movie i like clerks a lot honestly i mean it was formational as a kid but uh i think my rats was wow you know i'm noticing a lot of you people ask 0:46:53 me for my takes on things but you're you you put the you put it in a very leading way where you clearly want me to confirm your take on something that's very clever i see you doing it though don't think i don't see it cheeky monkeys i don't smoke someone's asking if i've smoked cigarettes i've never smoked come from a family of smokers hardcore sir all right the sarah cooper thing so there was an article today in 0:48:24 mick about or mike i don't know about how boomers love the sarah cooper lipstick videos but millennials and zoomers think that it's it's it's i i didn't read it but just the fact that it was phrased that way it just it was disheartening because it reminded me of how how because culture because politics is so fully fused with popular culture and entertainment that you can't not like anything now for non-political reasons like if the thing is bad it has to be politically bad it can't just suck and this lips the ***** lip sync lady sucks it's it's very very bad maybe one video is kind of funny but doing it again and again it's absolutely baffling and not since eric garland had the ***** uh game theory tweet get retweeted by a bunch of people fawning over it have i 0:49:26 been more baffled by seeing people including some people that i have somewhat some kind of respect for going this is so funny i was just like what what where does that come from and the thing is it's not it's not because it launders oh it's like it makes it makes trump's fascism clownish like i'm sorry if you can't see the clownishness of this situation or the degree to which clownishness is inherent in fascism and you can't really be teased out and also like what's the best what's the bad part about this like you see her do the lip syncing and you're like oh i was going to overthrow capitalism or whatever but now i'm what is the thought here it's a lady doing a lip sync of trump what why i don't know anything about hassan being called by the nsa what do you want me to say please don't until i have someone reading these i'm i have 0:50:30 to like do it myself but it just it's it's enervating to be assaulted with in news and demands for takes obviously all the ***** with antifa and the government like calling it a terrorist organization and uh investigating people out is ***** up but god damn it it would be easier to fight it if fewer people acted like that was a real thing too and act like antifa is real like that it's an actual group of people and it has leadership and that any of that ***** is true i mean when you see this ***** what happened with antifa it really clarifies the whole like power of nightmare's thesis about al qaeda that it was essentially made up by the bush administration that it never really existed in any form that people popularly understood it to according to what they saw in the media and and you know it took while for people to realize that because they 0:51:32 didn't have the context of you know middle eastern politics and terrorism and stuff to realize oh this guy was basically just giving out grants like there was no real uh internal organization here it wasn't like spectre or something and like with anapha that's the thing that i you know is hap is something people have understanding of and has happens like they've seen it they've seen the the phenomenon their lives and they know it's not real and yet some people like al qaeda like being called real like al qaeda they they got off uh when when when bush turned them into this this evil organization and i think there's a similar impulse to be like yeah we are this thing like because that's going to raise you up but then what look what it's used to do it's used to justify spurious ***** federal jake paul having his mansion rated uh that was that 0:52:36 was a whole squad is he is he starting a militia i think that would really be cool if he someone wants me to tell them if bismarck or metternich were worse that's a bad word to use when you're that that axis of moral judgment applies to them internally but is relatively uh irrelevant to my analysis of them from history from the from the from decades away i mean bismarck did help unify germany more directly and but at the same time nobody really knew what it was gonna lead to nobody knew what all those compound words were doing to their heads i mean i guess it's just i 0:53:42 what what uh trait are you trying to examine like personal morality or immorality i think that's kind of irrelevant like what effects are you trying to determine and and then like the question should be built around that because i just don't know how to answer like good or bad for bad like evil people honestly even when they talk about like an evilest dictator or whatever it's like oh he killed 20 million people he killed 30 million people it's like well yeah but if you'd switch them it probably would have been different numbers this is one of the big reasons i've never been down on the idea that james buchanan is the worst president because if you had switched him in franklin pierce they would have had the exact same presidencies basically because they came from the exact same do-faced conciliatory northern democratic tradition they were upholding the same at that point no longer sustainable but still delusionally held by people at the highest levels of government democratic northern bargain of giving the south whatever they want to keep keep the peace and that's what buchanan was doing i mean we look back on it and people call him a traitor for just giving up all those armories and forts uh to to the insurgents but pierce would 0:54:43 have done it too that was giving ***** to the ***** southerners to keep them quiet was what northern democrats did to keep power so to me they're interchangeable same thing with all the evil dictators like it's the the resources and the populations that they control yeah and if you want to talk about like competent i mean mernick got driven out of uh give driven out of vienna by by a mob why did i say that my fans betrayed me i don't i don't think i did if i did that might have been a joke i don't think i ever said that seriously it'd be a weird thing to say if i said that that would disturb me because it means i'm in some sort of a megalomaniacal fugue i think omar 0:55:46 will win i i honestly i don't know i think people are just kind of flinching so much like i think people thought that uh rashida was in more trouble than she probably ever was because they're just uh they're used to getting their asses kicked but the thing about like high-profile congressmen is they tend to be popular unless they get unless they're popular for unless they get in trouble for like specific stuff that is uh antithetical to the base the party base that they have like having name recognition is a huge percentage of the battle for any congressman as soon as you have a certain amount of of like uh real estate and people know you in a in a district you don't really 0:56:47 lose ever and uh getting a high profile early is a good way to have that get have that process accelerate and the stuff that people think is like awful for omar or whatever i don't think actual people i think that uh for a long time like the the whole zionist apparatus had the ability to sort of sneak in their agenda as like a parcel of other ideas and their ***** kind of just got put in without being considered and now the people are actually directly challenging it they have to defend it on the merits and try to provoke conflict on the issues themselves which basically bail down to allowing israel to do whatever it wants in its nightmare apartheid state and americans don't care enough to like do anything to stop us from contributing to that but they also don't care enough to vote for somebody who's opposed to it and i think that's what the um that's what's being slowly and horrifyingly understood in the halls of power 0:57:49 said oh ***** like if if this is if this is no longer just a situation where there's an exercise minority who love israel and everyone else kind of doesn't care uh if there's even you know a residual confronting israel it's going to be hard to dislodge because how the hell do you argue that as its own discrete issue yeah exactly apathy works both ways like apathy is why we're not going to get a change to u.s policy in israel but albania is also why if you have a few brave congress people who are willing to not toe the line on israel it's harder for israel to if they don't have anything else uh that's controversial pin that on them as a reason for them to be voted out by their own uh constituents who they other who otherwise might wow all right i'm gonna ask uh 0:59:16 i'm gonna log off in a second here one more question guys i'm gonna i'm gonna all right this is a good question best snl weekend uh update anchor the obvious hipster answer is norm mcdonald so i'm not even gonna say that because it's too odd on the nose uh i'm just gonna go with my uh my childhood gut with a guy i used to really really like and not because he was funny because he used to make me feel 1:0:18 smart because if i got the reference i felt like a little good boy because i was a ***** insufferable nerd dennis ***** miller respect respect to the god colin quinn pro got to be worst him and charles rocket probably but oh my god colin quinn was terrible just the worst person they could have picked for that job they clearly like panicked after uh norm got fired and just it's almost like they grabbed him from like drinking like a short dog with fingerless gloves in front of the 30 rock and put him on put him on the set it was kind of amazing just muttering his way stumbling through every joke it was amazing all right guys i'm peacing out see you actually are we on are we on are we on watch a weird ad about ***** oh yeah you should you tweet about this i gotta get my it's not on my phone anymore alright we'll just hang out hello what up just holding the space i'm holding the space until um matt returns okay excellent oh yeah you can monitor a chat on the thing are we online i can't quite tell you gotta wait yeah you know if streaming just chatting i didn't even like to turn on a stream caption for this that's okay whatever let's see hey guys sorry that there we are we got a new setup here yes uh matt and i i came 0:1:3 over to talk some business with matt and i figured that i would just bring some of my ***** and do a little duo's stream we we are preparing we are we're doing some some uh some testing out because as i've said on the street before i'm hoping to transition to sort of a multi-hour you know maybe three times a week stream at the office with me and chris yes where we can like trade things off and it's not me just staring at the at the chat and trying to like juggle everything i will be i will be the raz to max frasier exactly and gaming and gaming and gaming will be a big part of it that i'm very excited about because i do ever so much enjoy and i'm intrigued by all of the map-based games that chris and virgil both love but i the thought of trying to play one and certainly trying to play one while talking to a stream gives 0:2:4 me an actual headache so uh the idea of being able to like just watch somebody play and talk about it it's very appealing to me and we're uh in the backyard here doing a little beta testing yes i'm um uh i'm going to make matt watch me play civ 6 extremely badly i've been playing civ for about uh two years now and i'd say i understand about uh 40 of the mechanics in that game so i generally just uh uh throw ***** around and see what works but um i don't know look forward to um to matt yelling about the governing policies of eleanor of aquitaine i will be i will be hooting and hollering about the ottoman empire the ottomans not a playable civ institute can't even play the ottomans if there's anybody in the chat who can make a ottoman's mod for civ six please let me know all right because it's it's it's it's by your country right i can barely hear let's see if i can turn ***** up it's my country right yeah yeah oh it's by civilization well how it all right is civilization so all right 0:3:6

so is there like an arab uh yes civilization is that it yes uh what do they what is that is that saladin yeah salad okay yes wow that must piss off the turks it's like their guy because yeah saladin was kurdish if anyone was uh not aware of that uh how's the uh how's the audio i just i have my mobile audio setup going uh yeah see someone wants us to play europa universalis which intrigues me because it seems incredibly complicated and is like like an early modern era thing and it's got all those those empires i love you got your ottomans your safavids i actually kind of wanted to just do a game where i try to see if the safavids could roll over the ottomans and take over all of europe because i kind of have a weird theory that they could have done it because they were so damn uh they they like had a fire in their belly by the time they started like rising and confronting the ottomans that the ottomans just didn't 0:4:7 have and uh you know if they could have rolled over anatolia maybe they could have well that's putting through the about the bulk and cap islamic expansion into uh into europe well that's the thing that i think will uh enrage you the most about these things is how the mechanics of it being an actual game make it difficult to emulate actual history well that's fun i guess you can do your own thing um but yeah i i um i personally ordered a gaming pc recently and i'm gonna set it up at home and i think that's gonna give me a better handle on uh streaming the mechanics of pc uh craft and being able to use the office one better because felix just ordered all the parts for the office pc and then i tried to put together and had no idea what the ***** i was doing right uh i was i didn't even know how much i didn't know so i'm going to do it for myself no not knowns they ***** you the lacuna we've talked about this uh i i do find it amusing i don't know a little bit about and that like canada is a soup oh 0:5:8 yes canada is a sale canada let me get this straight canada is a civilization but the ottomans are not canada is not a civilization canada is an appendix of the english of the english of the british empire wait is canada more an appendix of the british or the u.s at this point well i mean we what do you say after world war ii we took over and so they became our appendix either way they are an extrusion they are not in a civilization of their own right all right then let's do this because i was just asking you this we were talking about the american presidency as a general concept uh and how stupid it is and how funny it is that joe biden might probably be the next one or perhaps the last one what point do you think the american president became as an institution the most powerful person in the world uh i think what you said uh when we dropped a nuclear bomb i think that's that's a very good adbc moment 0:6:10 right there it gave us a a world destroying capability that no other country possessed at a various years at the moment that we were in the process of taking over the supervision of the global uh empire that the the battered were in the process of not being able to afford any more yes okay one second i think the audio is accidentally the laptop mic this is not drawing power hi hey better is that better i figured it out oh we were doing it from the laptop yeah that was stupid i have my i have my little bear with us folks i have my little audio boy he brought this over in a backpack and you just threw it on there it's this is not there we go okay good it just went it wasn't lighting up at all i was ***** up i was seeing green lights trust the other thing when you got when you got the red you got the green light going it's very hard to talk and figure out what's happening which is why having someone here is very nice there we go much better thank you for complaining in the chat because 0:7:11 when they complain to me i just freaked out i remember one time i just quit a trap because they kept telling me i didn't sound good and i didn't know what to do that was before i bought my mic i love i love doing av yeah but now that i have my mic i'm unstoppable if they say i can't hear you i'm like you're lying i know i know you can hear me because i bought a it's cool laptop um all right i'm still going people said it was better now some people are saying it's lighting this happens to me all the ***** time save let's see is that better am i doing this right is that better i should have these mics going there there yes yes now okay yes there we go okay great i just didn't have the driver turned on in the program okay they're all very exciting okay there we go fine i was gonna grab again a tiny megaphone and holler into the 0:8:12 microphone again i threw all this ***** in my backpack and just walked over here exactly yeah give us a break okay great uh this is incredible thank you okay cool fine uh so now the real stream begins after our first like 15 minutes of jacking off oh my god this is giving me flat as i'm saying let's give me flashbacks to before i got my lap mic yeah um i'm glad that we were able to uh to get ***** rolling um so what were we talking about canada not we're talking about how canada is not a civilization this is an absurd concept to say that canada is a civilization give me a ***** break i'm trying to think of like what would count as a civilization in the western hemisphere given me you know that it's like it's all settler colonialism sure it's basically at this point it's basically all the same things it's not like it's not part of an american hegemony there's like three civilizations in the western world yes and yeah yeah that's okay who's who are the civilizations in the western hemisphere it's like anglo america is like one canada canada in the us and like all that's that's angles here australia as well the five eyes yes yeah yes us australia new zealand canada and 0:9:15 the uk that's one civilization one big thing uh ireland kind of although you can't tell them that because they'll get pissed because they don't want to think they're part of the anglosphere i'm sorry it worked none of you speak irish i'm sorry they teach did you know that they teach it in school good keep going but none of them learn it no one speaks it uh any irish people can attest to this none of them speak irish even though they learn it all the way through elementary school and probably into into later school too i wish i had taken irish as a second language in uh like college or something that's an obnoxious pick that's such an obnoxious i took german in college just because i did too i took like i took like six years of spanish in middle to high school and then when i took the placement test in college i got spanish one because i sucked ***** at it so i was like yeah ***** it i took german my entire high school career and college didn't learn any of it have no retention of it at all does tragic tragus leaked projector the overhead light projector and i'm kind of glad because i i 0:10:16 have a weird theory that people have told me is crazy but that doesn't stop me from believing it that like if i was a native german speaker or even a fluent one i would be an insane person because i really do think that there that that language there's a reason that like heigl and marx and ***** like all spoke german is because it lends itself to a certain insanity it well it's it's a it it allows you to live in a symbolic realm yeah whereas english with the most words of any language is inherently earthy and bound because you're describing things you know in very discreet detail as opposed to like seeing the world and then turning it into like six twelve uh syllable concepts well that yeah i like that description of english because it's like all of english language is just like going to a place being like what do they call that thing around here okay we called that yeah the best the funniest example of that is kangaroo you know the story of kangaroo i don't know the story kangaroo uh uh this might be a hocker pull i'm not a linguist but the the the apocryphal story about people can confirm 0:11:17 this is a kangaroo essentially in in a in one of the aboriginal dialects uh means i i don't know what you're saying because the story is that some brits asked someone what are the originals what are those things they say kangaroo and they're like oh yeah okay that's what they're called but they were really just saying i don't know i don't know what are you talking and yeah like i don't think it's a coincidence that hitler was german you know what i mean i mean there there's like the daniel hold up the daniel goldhagen thesis does not hold you know who the kings of anti-semitism were in in modern europe it was not germany it was france france invented modern anti-semitism yes but germany is the one who ended up doing the holocaust and part of it is because they lost world war ii in france quote-unquote won it that's a big part but that language man there we go apparently it's not real but the kangaroo 0:12:21 thing is real i knew it wasn't real it's too good it's too good of a story there are a few good stories that are actually true though like this like the invention of the sandwich so that the earl sandwich could hold his meal while playing cards that's right true that is not made up i just the only thing that makes no sense about that is that it would take until like we had recorded history to discover the sandwich it seems so obvious you would think yeah you would think there's a lot of things though that were obvious that don't ever a birth like they never figured out the wheel in uh like

pre-columbian america you know they didn't have the wheel what i don't i just it doesn't matter exactly because you look at the wheel you're like duh but there are specific things that have to happen to get you to a wheel that they didn't have the wheel one of the early technologies that you research uh in civilization mm-hmm you have to research it which i guess is fairly accurate you have to think of this guy sit down and you got to think of the wheel does it just pop outside because now we are all like you need wheels but if there aren't wheels you have to have someone be like all right i'm sitting down and figuring out this until i actually get it and you know what helps that is uh is you know something like uh having uh i don't know uh horses yes that helps which western civilizations uh the western hemisphere does not have yes no horses no matter what the book of mormon might tell you there are no horses in pre-columbian america which is very funny because like when the when the horses did show up the sioux used them to basically take over the entire like uh planes almost overnight they like turned into the mongols they're like oh this is great and they just were they took over everything yeah as soon as the horses showed up they didn't have any before that so they couldn't do it horses great technology incredible incredibly important s-tier technology for uh human civilization so like you got no horses in west in the western hemisphere and then in poor africa they have zebras instead which are untameable which are untapable psychopaths more zookeepers die yep from zebra any other animal zoo zebras are uh that's really funny there's a thing in gun germans they look they look so sweet i want to go up and just feed one in the little apple there's a little bit and gunshots to seal when jared diamond imagines like what if africa had been able to turn the rhinoceros into like a war animal like in black panther yeah like exactly like in real life they would have they would have wrecked everybody but you can't do it you you have to go to war you have to go to with the resin of rhinoceroses and the water buffalo and the horses and the zebras that you have uh is guns germs and steel good where are we on that guy everyone hates it because like any of those histories it's very facile and it skips a lot of things but i think it's useful for people just to get an idea in their head that civilizations and ***** happen not because of people's desires you know not because people had an idea and wanted to carry it out but because they are dealing with a given physical reality material conditions in terms of animals fluoride fauna that they have to confront and that is what shapes things the specifics of it can be argued all day but i think that approach is more useful than anything because seeing ***** like ben shapiro talking about the two cities yes makes me just want to blow my goddamn brains out because it's like the idea that it's just ah forget forget forget the conditions you know forget the constraints of the material world i live in i've got an idea where the ***** did the idea come from and his idea is god gave it to me it's like okay this is just schizophrenia you're just you're just trying to turn schizophrenia into a description like an ex description for huma uh historical process every uh every uh historical figure in ben shapiro's world is like henry darger he's just given like an idea and scribbling individual people just sitting there like looking at a ***** like uh a sunset until they have an idea ah democracy and then they go and carry it out they convince other people to do it yeah it's it's the liberal 0:16:27

i was saying this yesterday it is the liberal conception of the self that we have some sort of inherent thing that is responding to the world and then that response creates a new idea that we then use to like wrangle with the world yeah no we're empty we are empty we are hollow uh speaking of that i was reading about the voyages of christopher columbus the other day uh because i needed something to put me to sleep while from wikipedia uh and that that is all those things it's like why did he do that not because he was a genius but because they needed the spices to sell them we need a better route to the spices because the ottomans shut it off the ottomans shut off the land route to to the spices and the funny thing the two funny things that i i pulled out of reading the entire wikipedia page of the voyages of christopher columbus were uh one that he did it wasn't that people thought the world was flat that was obviously a myth but that he massively miscalculated the circumference of the earth if america was not there he would absolutely die he would have been they 0:17:28 would have just ate each other on the boat and then yeah yeah like there'd be there would be some undiscovered island in the middle of the ocean where like a bunch of bleached bones and and shipwrecked chunks of the nina are just like floating just sitting on the on a beach somewhere the other thing that i thought was very funny is that like first that first round of explorers who got to america columbus were like extremely disappointed because they were like they're no spices here yeah and then they're like oh there's gold okay we'll get the gold yeah but they want it but yeah he literally like ran a uh ran like a protection racket on the local natives to try to get squeeze gold out of them and they were like there's not gold here dude i don't know what you're talk that was one of the big like red pill like left wing red pill moments for me as a kid is when i found out no they didn't reject columbus because he thought the world was rounded they thought it was flat it's because they accurately thought how they had an accurate uh understanding of how big it was and he had an insane 0:18:29 crank idea that it was way smaller than everyone else thought it was like it was a catholic church they weren't saying it's flat they're like dude it's way too big but no one knew there was a continent in between us and the ***** india so they they he was right classic american he kind of missed the first american yeah because he's the he was like he was an idiot who officially was miscalculated huge riches absolutely accidentally hit into something that he had no idea was there and then actually i'm a genius it's so funny that columbus has become like a lightning rod for um for for like italians claiming like you could not pick a worst attack seriously to claim is your duties as i have said not italian anyway there is no idea not italy italy does not and somebody was trying to tell me what was an ethno-linguistic connection it's like uh even to this day italian is more like uh a like regional and dial like dialect different than like most european countries like there is an almost a mutual inc in 0:19:30 comprehensibility between italian dialects to this day you want to talk about ***** as it was in like the early modern and medieval periods and like genoa went to war with venice for a hundred ***** years like how are they supposed to imagine that they're part of the same polity yeah uh italy is imaginary uh don't let anybody try to convince you that italy italy's not a real country yeah germany isn't a real country either because the thing is like if you're not a country by like 1850 you're not a real government i only recognize the holy roman empire like anybody who's trying to make a a country in europe after that in europe specifically i would say because of how long there had been polities in europe if you don't get like a thing together by the industrial revolution you're forcing it and you're getting a tryhard you're doing you're posting cringe and as we've seen in literally every example of it if you don't get your ***** together by 1850 and then try to do it every anyway it makes everybody in your country insane yep what a coincidence the two places that 0:20:31 founded fascism as a response to the crisis of world war ii of the depression where italy and germany the countries that just got onto the scene were just discovered or just became together i mean in that way america just got it in under the wire but honestly jury's still out on that well we were a thing before the industrial revolution is the thing it's but like 60 years yes but still under the wires under the wire no garibaldi is the obvious choice for the for the day garibaldi day who would say no to the garibaldi day uh i mean a lot of people the pope maybe pope wasn't a fan i mean you know i bet francis would probably be okay with it honestly because he seems kind of chill about it but did gare beldi ever come to america he uh no but he was invited to uh be a general in the union army by some enthusiastic uh uh republicans in 1860 that's cool i think the thing about columbus is that you have to be an italian guy who came to america but he didn't come to america the way these people imagine america like their native america is the continental united states yes and he did never set foot on the continental united states he made it to the mainland 0:21:32 of central america but not yes the continent and if either if you were born there now would most of these goombas who talk about it uh columbus consider you uh an american no no if you're from the dominican republic or haiti do they consider you an american absolutely not no give me a break fall out of here garibaldi come on the yeah not only attack he made italy the march on road for god's sakes the red

shirts he made the country into a thing like he's the first italian of any kind he is the first italian god uh garibaldi didn't go to the united states somebody reminds me of this he did go to south america he was actually a bank robber in argentina oh that's cool yeah no he was like a brigand and like a like a like a gorilla guy he no garibaldi is one of those like world historical figures who are just you read about him and you're like how is this a real guy like john brown yeah yeah you read it as how is this a real guy just in terms of not only having a pretty naturally like modern moral sense that's transcendent moment but also the will and ability to use that moral sense and turn it into something meaningful kind of an unbelievable as opposed to columbus who is basically just a ***** dumbass scam artist trying to like wheel some money out of the bankers and uh the queen and the queen of spain yeah and you're doing everything with his like six sons yeah his yeah his six large adults six large adult sons rolling across the place uh giuseppe garibaldi folks people more and more they're recognizing that he's great he's wonderful because yeah like give the give the day goes a day give him a day everybody can find have a day uh we'll celebrate uh as i partially italian myself i would nominate celebrating the mutual day of uh garibaldi and gaga yeah yeah the two visions of italian excellence that's that's yeah though that is it the masculine the feminine the historical in the present people politics and and art yeah absolutely all right if who would you want you're also irish also irish well they have st patrick's day i am patrick by the way not irish welsh i am the synthesis of the the two most hated white ethnicities of us well because they're the try hard white ethnicities they're the ones that showed up late and tried to like assert it more as opposed to the wasps of the crowds who are a little bit more laid back about the whole thing about the whiteness deal but if they were going to get rid of st patrick and they should because as i've said he was welsh he's not irish who would you want as like the guy for the irish not bomb the edge i like the way he plays guitar i like his little like uh twinkly effects it's good uh yeah uh or uh what's his name phil phil in it from uh uh phil leonard from uh from thin lizzy yeah something lizzie yeah uh him phil lynette and uh i don't know one of the guys from the uh irish uh revolution just uh doing a bro grabs as a statue yeah uh you can't really do there's this guy john m this guy uh john not john mitchell david mitchell i remember his name he was a hero of 48 he was the hero of the the young young ireland movement and he came to america and like a big speaking tour and there were tons of guys who came from europe after their revolutions in 48 failed like uh koschuth from hungary there's there's a street in brooklyn named after him uh the names of the brooklyn streets are wild everybody is either like a northern slave owner or a like uh yeah like a revolutionary from hungary yes so kosuth guys like that uh but mitchell uh john mitchell yeah uh i always wonder if it's non-mitchell because that was also the name of nixon's attorney general but it's uh one ellen center too but he came to america after you know fleeing the brits after the young ireland rebellion and he was like a lot of these guys he had a a you know nationwide tour where he was fed it everywhere uh and they asked him about slavery and whereas a lot of guys like uh like uh o'connell daniel o'connell the the the the sort of the godfather of the modern irish uh uh independence movement who was vehemently anti-slavery met frederick douglass when he toured ireland uh mitchell came to america and they asked him a 0:25:39 slave he's like oh slavery's good you guys need to keep it it's great actually when we get enslaved by the brits that's terrible when you guys do slavery it's actually pretty cool cool yeah and that was like the tradition for so many irish americans getting on the good side of our brutish uh race-based social order we did a bunch of riots about that right yes yes it was like what you were doing to us garbage awful people you're the most oppressed people on earth doing it to other people that's actually cool yes yes uh if i was a 19th century guy i would love to be on that speaking tour circuit that seems like one of the best gigs you can get in the 19th century oh god it was so fun especially because you could do it about anything you just like if you were charismatic enough you could go around and be like you know what uh snorting barley will cure uh your respiratory uh ailments there is a guy named colonel robert ingersoll in the post-war uh post-civil war america whose deal was he would go from town to town and he would give speeches about how god didn't exist and everyone 0:26:40 would get mad at him but it would all be a big deal he was an early new year he was a like an early new atheist yes and he would do the thing he would do the classic thing where he'd say god doesn't exist and if he did and if he did he has he has five minutes five minutes to kill me exactly he would do that yes he was the first professional atheist yes uh i'm amazed that no um enterprising god lover didn't just bring a gun to one of those performances and shoot him and be like i'm act god made me do it yeah you asked for it yeah but the thing is like it really goes to show you know even in a much more god-bothered era he didn't get killed because at the end of the day it's a fun show people like getting mad people love getting mad you kill him you can't get mad at him anymore i'm so mad at this guy and i can't wait for him to come back in six months so i can get mad at him yeah it's like the early version of like andrew dice clay coming to your town until and telling you how uh how you guys are all ***** yeah it's like oh you believe in god i ***** him oh 0:27:41 yeah the rich history of americans loving of stand up comedy of people uh loving guys random losers coming to their town and telling you how you suck yep but in a humorous way i mean those are the two strains of uh stand-up comedy either saying how i the performer suck or how you the audience suck yeah yeah they called him the great agnostic that was his nickname he couldn't even go into atheism well like i said 19th century you don't want seduce and bone god i like that phrase is that what is all this thing about uh like how biden is going to kill god's gun trump was talking and it's a very indication of his inability to like he knows what he knows vaguely 0:28:43 what the people he's pandering to like but he has no personal understanding or like imaginative understanding of it because he doesn't share it yeah so he said this is a quote i believe he said he's gonna hurt the bible he's gonna hurt god it's gonna hurt the bible yeah he said he's going to hurt the bible and hurt god he said and he also said no with trump with with biden no religion no anything no religion abide in god yeah he goes no religion know anything but yeah i mean i would love for biden to get in there and do a complete nihilism oh wait i can't say nihilism on the stream no oh god oh god no no you're gonna hawk kill everyone indoor silence you cannot no you can't be hog pill but my favorite thing would just be very funny for biden to get up there or do his inauguration be like um uh everything's meaningless they're uh look look here i was uh thinking about my good friend uh uh from back in the life guarding days and he was telling me uh good story we got on our big corvette and said look joe nothing means anything i would like him to give a speech that is 0:29:45 an exact replica of his speech when he voted to invade iraq replacing saddam hussein with god we're going to we're going to do targeted strikes to drive the tyrant god yeah uh no but like him saying hurt he's gonna hurt god that really does tell you all you need to know about trump's understanding of like the supernatural con like god is just like another real estate developer who might like have to deal with higher taxes or bad pr or something god his underlying it's very down right now he's not making much money yeah it's not very it's like biden's in there and you know what he's not talking about god god his cue numbers are going down he's very hurt uh this is the biggest we you get you vote for trump you've ever you vote for me we're going to have the biggest god we've ever seen a huge god folks god's going to be gigantic he's going to be huge but now that's that's and that really does tell you all 0:30:47 you need to know about everyone who all the evangelicals love him they've they've lost any any the fig leaf that they really believe in anything yeah they only believe in owning the libs and and uh protecting what they imagine to be their understanding of america what is that mr show phrase the name of the episode god and religion in the bible it's uh life is precious and god and the bible from uh that's literally uh like trump trying to to wing it for uh the evangelicals on the uh the talk show on the lifeboat sketch oh the talk shows life is precious and god and the bible yep very good mr show really did have everything you need to know by the way we now have mustard annies yes we do they they actually invented that product uh and now it exists the dueling political ads yes yes yes greely the third um yeah there's a lot of 0:31:48 stuff in there that feels very of a uh a future moment someone is reminding me that

that line was a quote a direct quote from a jerry springer episode that one of the writers had watched uh where one of the audience members was like talking about something and said but life is precious and god and the bible and now you just do it in the trump voice in front of a bunch of evangelicals folks life is precious god the bible he's gonna hurt the bible he said he's going to hurt the bible joe Biden with a hammer going at it on the king James version how how are you going to hurt like i mean it just shows like what a a total fixation on the material reality and the self especially as you get older and your ability to like ratio sensitivity gets lower it means that you lose object permanence you lose object permanence and so concepts like god in the bible no longer transcend space and time and they become totally fixed and mutable like he's going to hurt the bible like that's the thing you could do he's going to hurt god like that's the thing he's going to do like a heavy a wrestler promo video where he rips the bible in half like it's a phone book somebody uh chatted the phrase uh curb stomp the bible which i think is a funny phrase i like that i gotta tell you he gets up there on January 20th in front of Roberts right and you know you gotta do you gotta put your hand in the bible instead of putting us out of the bubble he just slaps it just slaps it just slaps it pulls out a chainsaw like it's a Sam Raimi movie yeah just chops it yep yep and just pulls a paperback copy of the the god delusion and gives it to ***** uh Robert i'll be sworn in i'll be swirling um but uh uh it's been very funny that uh i i saw that trump was also on the um the the water pressure tip today again yes so he's there's a high i would say 60 000 dead people there's five issues going into this campaign oh the water pressure is there Joe Biden is an is an atheist anarchist and water in two ways because he loves the boaters and he hates the bad water pressure he loves yeah the water needs to be you need water to float your boat and you need to just ***** lay your skin off you when it comes out of the you need to be the Kramer in that episode of you gotta flush 15 times and the thing is he's kind of right about that in that with the flushing like the low flow toilet go off king this is a classic example of liberal good do-gooderism it's like yes let's let's conserve water with our toilet flushes you forget this is the United States of America every one of this eats three meals of like 90 protein a day yes those dumps are like ***** photon torpedoes they're not going to go down with one low flow flush to uh actually see a real analysis of the the volume of American shits versus i don't know like a Norwegian or a French yeah like we're eating we're eating beef for three meals a day it's just i know i've already had two servings of beef there you go it's like it's a supernova of dump this thing can't be handled by a little a light oh one and a half gallons that's not gonna do it you need three to four gallons minimum in America for the dumps that we put out unless we stopped eating as much meat which we're not going to do the the water twice a week and it's the size of the uh CSS Hundley every time somebody pointed out in the the chat with just imagining trump's turds that that seems among the things that is most maybe a you problem that he talks about yeah yeah yeah but well the thing is is that yeah he has no real relation to normal things so like literally i don't think he's ever exchanged money for services in person in his life here's a real question i know it's like you know he's the cheeto he's the the orange man is bad he's the goddamn cheetos but i am fascinated with his makeup as just a physical ritual because does he do it himself go to the bathroom no the makeup oh the makeup does he have a person like i'm thinking about because 0:35:53 always trying to think about trump's relationship to the physical right mundane world is always so much very surreal yeah does he have a person is there a white house makeup artist who does it every day because i've noticed that i think since the pandemic started it's gotten worse it really looks really bad right now and yeah the makeup is looking really really bad a little orange circle around his face it cuts off cleanly you can like right lines in a way you didn't used to be able to see yeah and there's that the picture from him coming back from oklahoma yeah yeah where he's got just ring around the collar bright red on the collar of his shack so my question is does he does he wake up every morning and spend an hour applying a like a full face of bronzer yeah and then go out and then at the end of each night does he like take cold cream and wipe all the ***** off his face that's these are all very important questions and i don't know it's really my i would like to know because every since his be the beginning of his presidency one of the things that's always been most 0:36:54 mind-boggling to me has been imagining him in the lincoln bedroom at a vanity with like like the scene in zoolander where he's taking off the coal and just wiping off everything yeah uh he's playing goodbye horses yes uh yeah because there's two conflicting instincts in me when i think about does he do it himself one is well he has to do it he can't do it himself he can't do anything himself no he's baby but at the same time every day his entire adult life there's someone like there at what like he gets uh he sleeps three hours a night or whatever he's up in the morning watching foxy friends somebody's there at 6 a.m to ***** put the stuff on his face every day yeah that also seems hard to believe but i also have and also seen him doing it and also if that person exists why don't we know their name that would be one of the the president's literally most intimate advisors that's true they'd be they'd be with him longer than most people people in a day in an incredibly intimate way yeah that's true this is why this question really like get gets to me yeah and over i mean i like to 0:37:55 ima i i really do enjoy imagining him doing actual like mundane tasks i love making a sandwich i love imagining him trying to make food shopping is very amusing to imagine imagine him doing the what was it driving a car uh i when you so you guys were talking about trump driving a car on the um on the episode and i tried to look up to see if i could find any evidence of him driving a car and i could not do it i don't think he's ever done it i don't think he's ever been behind the wheel of a vehicle under power in his life like he got he got in the truck in a golf cart he can get he can do a golf of course it does but there's a thing where he's driving the truck you know in the front house which is but it was not under power yeah and firing a gun to me is the most funny he his arm would rip off just him trying to manage if you just gave him not like a nine not a 22 or something you give him like a 45 or something like a cop's gun yeah and you make him like just fire without a warning i'm just imagining the ripples that would happen through his body and then like the absolute like shock and horror and how he would try to recover of it in public yeah imagine him shooting a gun in public is very funny yeah like going to like trying to butch it up for a uh like a like a bunch of nra guys and like going to a rifle range and shooting a rifle in public yeah and and i mean it's not like they would not abandon him obviously they would still think he was an alpha but i would be very interested in the specific way that they processed his girlish failure to not look like a a a little girl the cartoon thing where you like shoot the thing and immediately fall over in a 90 degree arc yeah yeah or like you you don't wreck you get the recoil and you hit yourself in the face yeah exactly a shiner something like that yeah uh should we do like questions yeah let's do some questions if anybody has any we've just been ripping i'm sorry to maybe uh to bomb to bomb these chats i mean i i am the only person maybe the only person maybe some people uh listen to them all but i listen to every single one of these since i put them on youtube so i figured uh i'd come over or set one of these up if i was coming over here today and this is uh this is like gonna be hopefully what we do more of if we can set up the uh yeah now that i think we're a little more comfortable just like you know being the two uh two of us in an office setting i think that that is probably fine yeah is there any more of that tequila or is it all gone i think i got rid of it i brought over a little a little thing of um the rocks tequila tiramana tequila which i found a supplier of near here uh so in our own in our own small way matt and i because we have been consuming terramondo tequila are now both investors in the uh xfl oh right he bought the xfl what's he gonna do with it i i have a rock the rockology group chat and we've been very much speculating first of all he got it for 60 million dollars which i assume means he just bought the brand it's not like the xfl has like offices or employees or i mean i think he did buy its assets but there are not that many yeah it's mostly the brand but then there are assets minimal assets so at that point you're not you're getting a brand and you're not getting much risk i doubt he's gonna launch a full ***** league of games yeah but if you can like generate a few expo games in like the spring like networks are always going to want to run football it might he might just do like a reality series a reality he loves reality series he's hosted like five reality shows since he became famous yeah which honestly i find that a little uh low rent yeah and i think that's because he's from the carnival wrestling circuit he doesn't understand the idea that there should be a brand that needs to be like protected he kind of says yes to everything yes and you got you got to get it while it's hot well you're hot i get that but like i uh it's i mean maybe it's maybe that is more in turn with the moment and more understanding of the nature of like our you know terminal end state here where you can't be assuming that you're going to have any broad brand to build on in the future so just strike while the iron spot say yes to everything but it it does rebel against my my sensibility of a guy who's that big of a ***** movie star yeah doing reality shows but tom cruise doesn't do reality shows it's true um but that's because he didn't come from ***** wrestling he doesn't have that the grinding uh tom cruise doesn't own a tequila company either he does not he has no brands yeah he's never done a commercial has he he probably has at least once folks it's tom cruise tom cruise ever done an ad in the united states or internationally yes i'm thinking about it he might have done one internationally but like maybe a japanese ad everybody does like a japanese yeah like schwarzenegger does japanese man um but yeah the xfl thing is a little baffling just because he the rock is such like a success win mindset and literally everyone who has ever taught like the xfl has just been like a boondoggle who has only caused humiliation for every everyone who has touched it no i mean it failed once already it's a field twice already they tried to bring it back like a year ago yeah well i mean it failed once and then they brought it back and they failed again so i don't know people don't get that like sports are huge in this country but one of the things that makes them huge is that they are monopolies and that they have that anti-trust exemption uh that that the thing that makes them special the thing that makes them things people care about is that they are prescribed yes like you only get them for x number of months a year you only get them with x amount of talent like a certain amount of talent that you attract with the amount from a single source from a single source and that a thing like that is not uh it's not there is no there's not a huge hunger for off-brand versions of it yes which is what the xfl is it's off-brand it's low rent and people don't want low-rent versions of sports and the only thing it's literally extreme like if you really want low rent versions of sports watch college sports which is for and college sports to me is for sickos who get off on the idea that they're not getting paid of punishment yeah they're like ah yes cass perform for free yes you're not getting paid at all for this you're being ordered around by a little tin pot martinet psychopath coach who has the power of life and death he could cut you at any moment he's also the most well paid the most well-paid employee of the state yes yeah oh yes you could be catch with any moment and you'll be you'll be cast at the poor house unlike unlike the professional sports where they get the mouth off and where they get paid a lot of money and they can't be bossed around it's for the real sickos it's for the real perverts but like there's no third thing yeah hey they're still getting paid but less but that's because they're less talented but they can maybe hurt each other more i mean you'd have to make that explicit yeah like you would have to make the xfl genuinely dangerous my idea for if if this if this could be done safely uh just put like uh randomly like six concussion minds in the ground of the the football so just like once again or like six times a game somebody just uh not killed but just like you know blown into the air a few feet yeah well or killed oh hey a little uh squirrel buddy just ran across yeah we got squirrels back here it's delightful little guys uh all right any uh any any questions in the chat so we can take a few before we do i grill no i do not grill because we live in new york and one of the biggest premiums here is outdoor outdoor space and i have longed for outdoor space but my last i've never been able to find one in an apartment i've literally considered renting an apartment that was about literally like 200 or 300 square feet of apartment space but with a like 600 square foot balcony attached to it yeah and that was a pretty compelling offer to me because i was like i don't know like six months out of the year i could just live outside but no i've never had outdoor space so i've never had a grill uh i'm not i'm okay grilling i would say i'm competent manning a grill but i'm not a master griller yeah i have by far the smallest department of any but on the show but that's because i get some outdoor space and i have to say i mean i didn't know this was gonna happen when he got the place but now with uh corona and quarantine i'm incredibly happy that i had some yeah it's nice to just my next my next grilling project is that after i smoked that pork and you had some it was good right it was good it was good i i want to do an all-day brisket with the snake method i was watching a kenji lopez alt video about this i'm gonna do it method i'm gonna do it i'm gonna pick a day maybe this month have everybody over and i'm gonna try to get that ***** i'm gonna wake up i'm gonna get my ***** alarm set and like start cooking that thing at like six in the morning and i'm gonna try to do all day yeah like 10 hours of a brisket with with the uh with the snake technique i'll have backup if it doesn't work i'll have like burgers and stuff but that's that's the that's the next project grill wise uh i like this one uh abrahamic prophets ranked oh wow who who who are your gods of the abrahamic i don't really like any of them honestly the whole abrahamic tradition i think it was a swing and a miss they just really i understood they're going for like like creating an imaginative architecture to compel behavior but yeah yeah uh in the modern era society needs a daddy yeah and the thing is it does but it's it's definitely led to uh i think that i mean i don't know i can't i can't really uh come say this confidently

but uh there's there's some deep deep psychos there's a lot of psychology there's a 0:48:9 ton of psychology well i mean it's it's an attempt to it's an attempt to uh i mean it's an attempt to create a unified like uh moral social order out of the terror and and and uh uncertainty and uncertainty of like you know scarce tribal conflict and and in that respect it's it's it's you know it it's as inevitable as any other uh outgrowth of culture but in the modern era over time the the it drags a lot it's like you know uh fast five when they're robbed they have the safe it's kind of the safe that's on the that's smashing around destroying everything as they're driving that's a good way to describe it because certainly at this point and we were just talking about the trump stuff at trump and faith it seems like this weird especially on the political culture this weird appendage that just kind of hangs out out off the back yeah and just smashes the ***** out of everything yeah someone says buddhism is a coherent philosophy 0:49:11 for cope to which i say yes because coping is what life is yes coping is the challenge of existence life is cope life is cope what do you think you think you can transcend that you think you don't have to cope are you ***** kidding me then you're literally the buddha you got a brain you got a you got a brain made out of electrified cholesterol that is that has a ***** that has a hard deadline at which point it turns into goo and that is also your consciousness and your understanding and the entire universe and it's gonna go away it's going away even if you work even if you're peter thiel and you think oh no i'll just i'll just dope myself with teenage blood until i can go into the singularity congratulations how long are you gonna be in the computer even if that works before the ***** silicon breaks down even if it's a hundred thousand years what happens at the end of a hundred thousand years you have to cope coping is like learning that you actually have to cope and and accepting it that you can and 0:50:14 breaking through the delusion that there's any way to transcend the the the trap the the the inherent uh uh tragic trap of existence is is is the first step towards real maturity as a person that's uh that's a good way to spend your twenties from the endless possibility of being a teenager to the uh constrained reality of being a uh a ***** a finite being like being and it's like that's there's nothing wrong with that but you have to accept it i.e cope with it uh i like the person who the two that come to mind wendy's is good i don't know the thing about the nugget is not one of my favorite fast food items but the mcdonald's nugget has the thing of being a nugget and also being a mcdonald's food which means it has that mcdonald's the patina of 0:51:15 mcdonald's got that mcdonald's flavor which is unique which you can't get anywhere else and which is something that if you've had it kind of becomes a recurring craving which is literally what they designed it yes so i gotta go with mcdonald's because it it it satisfies that uh that like basal desire for mcdonald's chemical flavor profile mm-hmm the the grimace aura that's somebody in the chat exactly yes you can you

CUSHVLOG 58. PARKLIFE!

it's not that you can just taste it you can feel the grimace you can feel the grimace you eat it and you see the grimace on the just floating hovering over the horizon nodding at you like uh like saint dominic or or the madonna during a holy vision yes just have just imagining somebody stricken with uh stricken with malaria in a in a litter having their forehead dabbed by one of their retainers and on the verizon they 0:52:16 they're seeing like ignatius loyola uh uh mary mother of god and and the grimace i think uh con uh constantine uh bridge looking up and there's the grimace by this sign you shall conquer uh what else is in here uh do you guys like arby's yes arby's is good barbie's is i'm i'm really happy that uh bill oakley has made one of his missions to rehabilitate arby's barbies is good because arby's is not only is the classic roast beef sandwich with horsey sauce just really good and something you can't really get anywhere else no no it's a unique fast food thing which isn't which is unique yeah like there's a unique intelligence there's something unique at wendy's there's nothing unique in mcdonald's there's nothing you can get a burger at all this weekend only 0:53:17 place you can get a pile of thin gray uh roast beef with the horsey sauce horseradish the most underrated condiment oh horseradish can't find it at any other ***** uh uh fast food place but they've got it out of a tap at ***** arby's but in addition to that arby's actually has an insanely ver uh uh deeply uh varied menu they've got stuff that you got brisket uh yes they've got like italian sandwiches they've got like uh uh they've got a ton of different you know what they can't get anywhere they got mozzarella sticks they got mac and cheese you know what uh so subway is uh on doughboys by the way because a real one i would love to i would love to finally go on there i don't it seems like i don't know what i would talk about they've talked about everything at this point but i have a few friends who've been on dual boys maybe i'll try to get i i feel like i've dm'd with weiger at some point maybe we were trying to do a crossover at some thing i do have very strong opinions on faster the the the doughboys chapo connection has been has been needed to happen for a while but we 0:54:18 just really haven't uh i do i do have very passionate views on uh on fast casual and fast uh fast food restaurants uh somebody in the chat uh i think this maybe this is a good combo to be our last one uh somebody said chris get matt to talk about music which i feel like is is one of our traditional intersections so uh uh what have you been listening to uh oh boy i just watched a movie actually last night i watched the film arkansas i don't know what that is based on a novel uh and it was uh it stars vince vaughn liam hemsworth love vince vaughn uh and it's about it's low level drug dealers one of the most flattering things that multiple people have said is that i look like vince vaughn you do kind of look i never thought about that but you do you also you've got the you got the tall tallness yeah i got like the kind of brown the same kind of yeah the hair yes midwestern mick just like him so that's i wouldn't

CUSHVLOG 58. PARKLIFE!

bring that up unless two different people from two different sources that said that so 0:55:19 i found it very flattering but it's a good movie and one of the things that's best about it is the soundtrack and it's got a lot of great modern country on it and uh it has uh uh it's got a great gatlin brothers song in it that i've been thinking about ever since i saw the movie uh oh you let's talk about all the gold in california here's a good uh tangent oh there's the squirrel buddy here's a good tangent to um and on something i think about a lot as like one of the last good days uh in the world the day we drove from la to sacramento oh god that was so one of the most it was very fun but also one of the most psychedelic days i've ever had because that road through california this would have been like late february when we were traveling on our california tour we were talking about like whether we wanted to like take longer to follow the coast or just go up that highway straight to sacramento and we ended up wherever is good i like the i-10 is that is it the 10 yeah yeah and we decided ***** it we just gotta get there and so we went through the central valley which is like the the it's the 0:56:21 bread basket of america it's like the industrial heartland of california really seeing what that means going through the central valley and once you hit the main part of the tent and just go up the middle of california that is just uh at the very edge of the horizon on either side you see maybe the faintest glimpse five they're saying the five the five uh of a mountain range but until then is just endless perfectly straight industrial farms for six or seven hours and the road is perfectly straight the highway is perfectly straight uh going up the the center of california and you're just like oh this is where all the food comes from and it's utterly inhumane yeah it is so divorced from reality it's like being on a food colony on mars yeah no it it is a good if you need the reminder that the ease and convenience of american life is entirely predicated on massive human and animal exploitation yeah and the real headline uh the real high 0:57:22 point was when we drove past a a five mile wide couch auschwitz uh uh and it was we had to hold our breath for the stink and then the car smelled like it for but the reason i brought that up is a music discussion because that was maybe my last in addition to being one of the last notable days before uh everything collapsed and we entered quarantine was we spent the entire ride listening to bakersfield country outlaw country yes uh just all the classic mural type stuff from uh really good uh george jones yeah uh which i was aware of but had never given like a real deep listen to and that was will was spending on the ones and twos because he's a big fan of that um amber too amber amber was big into that yeah no uh i must the the great the favorite my favorite song we listened to was the the george jones merle haggard collaboration i must have been drunk when i said i'd quit drinking which is just a perfect perfect country perfect country title another i remember driving i don't even 0:58:24 know who does this but uh uh i remember hearing a song while i was driving to do something in college like early in the morning feeling bleary-eyed weary and hearing some countries on the radio called the more i drink the more i drink it wasn't that trip but it was when we were in california on another drive from uh city to city that we realized that the the the cars are the west coast talking heads yeah well then yeah that was that was a real like uh uh galaxy brain moment for all of us when we figured that one out because we were like i was like should we listen to the cars or uh talking heads like ah that's a little too jittery that's a little bit too anxious for california and they're like what about the cars like yeah that's basically yeah it's the same it's the same era it's it's the same like quality of like you know songwriting and stuff it's the same general genre but it's got the california feel to it and of course there's the cars the cars you gotta drive your cars it's california this is a little spoiler for next 0:59:26 week's in and introducing but we're talking about guided by voices and they have one album where they're like ***** it let's let's try to be a mainstream rock band and get ricko kasich to produce it and they have like synth sounds on it and it's that same ***** synth sound like and it's like i just was joking on that that being like no rick i we want to have synth on this on the on the album i think that that's great but like can we maybe can we change the cutoff just a little so it doesn't sound exactly like the cars cynthia's like no absolutely not ***** you it's i've got my settings we're all right i think i actually have to get out of here soon so i think that that may be a good place to stop so much fun yeah this is so good well we'll just do this again having having having someone to talk to during this and having somebody focus we love cake and have it that's my favorite page sacramento zone uh no but having somebody to like field the the chat and to talk with this is fantastic and if we could 1:0:28 game two this is gonna be good so stay tuned we're gonna yeah we're gonna we're gonna try to take near future take the level up uh but until then good vibes bye-bye we'll see you guys in a bit thanks for uh dealing with the audio at the very beginning

there i am rock me like a hurricane ah the song that ended the cold war hello i'm uh speaking from the back area i've got a halo right now looking quite orthodox looking like a uh like a vision from heaven to send it onto earth to judge the wicked and the righteous but no it's just it's off the bat just want to clarify something for some people uh after the last stream i did with chris where we were back here batman it back and i've talked about how we want to do that on uh in the office with maybe some games thrown in i won't be doing that and not doing solo streams i will maybe i will do a few i won't do necessarily as many but i will still try to do at least one or two a week even if we do stuff with uh the office and the video game rig so don't worry if you still like me staring puzzledly into the chat with and not saying anything and kind of just staring and hearing some birds chirp and somebody hooting and hollering and a siren and then i say something about the noid don't worry uh that'll still be available uh uh i mean i'm obviously imagining it being wet ass party you know and the reference being the the popular song of the moment and the grand old party someone asked if there's a dialectical resolution of the problem and sadly i don't not in the way that you're imagining not in the way that i would that we would want uh i think the way it get it gets solved is people just don't that's all they expect and the context becomes one where everything is like that and so good and bad are contained within the concept of digital so it'll be beside to the point so that's the way it's going to resolve like the way of keeping them both vital impossible because of the money like even having real guns somebody told me after i was talking about squibs that it's almost impossible to have actual firearms on movie sets anymore like the reason that they just have them pretend to have uh recoil and then put in the flashes and the sounds later is that those aren't real guns the rubber guns because the insurance and the price of having a guy on set who can secure the firearm are are prohibitive prohibited from the point of view of making the movie profitable which is of course the only consideration and with that being the case it'll never make economic sense to have real guns on the set there's no aesthetic argument you can make that can over turn the basic math so i'm afraid it shan't be happening as much

CUSHVLOG 59. WET ASS PARTY

as we'd i mean what do you mean you mean like oh you know after a while they just started cging the guns entirely and now i really want those movies where they have the rubber gun oh those are the really good ones yeah when they're having the rubber gun and pretending to to uh to have recoil that's so much better than the cgi guns that fake recoil themselves you can tell and that becomes the the remnant of the apparently there was a shooting at the white house i'm honestly stunned that's the first time this has happened just because of how high the temperature is politically in the last four years people took a shot at bill clinton like every two weeks there was a guy i remember a video of it there was this guy who showed up with a **** trench coat and a **** or maybe i'm imagining the trench coat but it was definitely a semi-auto and he just raked the side of the white house while running back and forth before he got tackled uh and that was only one of like two or three and then there was a guy who landed an airplane on the white house lawn during that during his presidency it's weird now that everything is so much more intense and political politics is so much more polarized and and uh you know has an edge of conflict to it and so much more dominant in people's day-to-day lives and self-conceptions than it was in the 90s very few people have tried to take a maybe it's because extreme like paranoid mindsets that get activated by politics would not almost by definition be activated against trump but i can't believe that's true there's got to be some people who have uh who have oriented their psyche to an unhealthy degree and yet nobody until whoever this is and we don't even know what the deal is who knows what country has the best shape i always thought chili was sort of adorable it's like how the hell is that a country uh uh somebody asked how how do you understand uh how do you explain the idea that i've said a while ago and i don't even know if i would necessarily even agree with this now that i've like refined my thinking on things that consciousness your conscience is the degree that you perceive time and i would say just as a quick example of what i mean by that i can't really elaborate because like i said i'm not sure i'm still working on all this stuff but so they're like the the the matrix of reality the universe whatever you want of it is composed of energy right it's it's just energy it's one substance moving at different uh speeds i.e it's matter and time those are the two things it's a matter of time it's energy transferring through states and there are objects in space there are inanimate objects in space lower orders of animals experience the present and a bit of the past and humans because of their ability to take a bunch of information in turn it into memories and associations and patterns eventually can perceive or at least imagine the future which allows them to move in what they imagine to be free will because they are moving towards a future that they have pictured in their head so they can perceive future as a axis of time in a way that less evolved animals can't and it is a continuum of course from human

down it's not and or so it's degree two but of course they're all the same thing it's just objects perceive them in different ways i just watched the hidden a month or so ago it was awesome uh i still don't think carl mclaughlin is a good actor but that movie rules and is just a smorgasbord of of practical effects and real car chases in a movie that couldn't have been more than a a couple million dollar i did see cube 0:10:34 and i gotta say that movie's reputation rests it seems to me almost entirely on the scene where the guy gets chopped up by the wires because the rest of the movie has barely any cube ownage at all it's just a bunch of people with canadian accents yelling at each other and then narrowly avoiding getting chopped into cubes did not enjoy under underrate uh uh over over delivered by the people who had previously uh praised it so it's know the blob which i just rewatched last night blob i will watch the new dune movie i'll watch the new dune movie on like a ***** uh on an apple watch or whatever that uh kamala just unfollowed biden i saw that girl i need a 0:11:40 tea someone spill it i gotta say if they don't pick her i will be surprised because that seems like the smart move and they're really just playing prevent defense here which is kind of surprising so i kind of still think it will be them it will be heard just because it's the it's the what they would perceive as the lowest uh per like the highest percentage play in that it has the lowest uh per chance of having a spectacular or unintended negative consequence whereas kamala harris doesn't change anything or make anything interesting but that's in their mind enough yeah i don't think it's going to be mayor pete it would be hilarious because all the people who have been saying you know biden's intersectional uh biden is listening to women and he has to 0:12:42 listen to women and all that or or he has to recognize blm and get and they have a black or a female or both vp they will i don't even know if they'll even be able to have one second of expressed public anger because the immediate question will be what are you going to do about it and the answer is nothing i'm going to do a ***** thing they can't do ***** they've already said that i do hope it's somebody from left field because kamala is such a boring pick i'm already snoozing thinking yeah i think 0:13:44 uh pete i mean i'm assuming that pete got offered a relatively high cabinet pot spot for his uh what do you call it endorsement and dropping out when he was in second when he was in second place i mean there is logic to it it wasn't just a strong army because i think anybody with eyes could see that even though mayor pete was doing well in some sort of in in just the sense of his performance to that point that he pretty clearly had no path forward he just did not have any support outside of upper like middle and upper class white people and that never changed the hope was maybe a surprise i would win could like win people over but it didn't happen people were still stuck in with biden so it was a you could argue that it was a rational response but he certainly wouldn't have done it for anything less than a significant offer i mean 0:14:48

he'd have to want he'd want something in the cabinet because he knows he can't get in he will not win another office in indiana he cannot win a statewide race in indiana and at his congress is sort of a step down he's not just the descendant of a grammar scholar gramsci scholar was his dad apparently not a very good gramsci scholar but i have no first-hand knowledge just passing along a tea that i heard and then slit and then spilled i slipped it then i spilled it what would it take for a glue indiana indiana is gone folks it's ahead it's gone in ohio is going to turn in indiana it's a demographic 0:15:50 thing uh like young people move out of the state leaving only a a shrinking core of older and older empty nest uh uh white rural and suburban people and over time they're gonna get more and more republican i i mean even if they if we're able to pull off an election with any kind of any kind of legitimacy to it in november and i think that is a significant if and i have no idea what that would mean and and biden wins big wins back florida hell wins arizona he could win arizona i ohio i mean there is a real thing there is a real consequence to all the young college-educated white people 0:16:53 who make up uh that like young cadre who is supposed to save the uh save us from our older reactionary uh citizens that they all move to the same cluster of blue state big cities is that states like ohio slowly get uh drained of everybody but the most the ones who don't move to arizona anyway indiana was always a republican state but i think i'm just saying ohio is in the in the direction of turning towards there because ohio used to have ohio had that rust belt upper area cleveland and such with its uh democrats glasses versus contacts that's not a hard one i will never wear i've never 0:17:58 worn contacts a day i never got them i never i never got a subscription a prescription for contacts never worn contacts never had any desire you've got to imagine if biden does wins that people are going to take shots at him all the time there's going to be a cue guy with a ***** uh like a bunch of fire extinguishers strapped to his chest i do think if trump does pull something of the election around around mail-ins or something you could see an actual recessionist movement start i don't think it would 0:18:59 be anything like what you'd see if biden wins in terms of military brinksmanship but i think you would see like an attempt by big state blue governors to sort of create a state within a state to establish as they call it real dual power and become co-equal to the government to the federal government if not exceeding it in authority which would then raise a specter of conflict i would never do lasik my god laser ball laser laser my eyeballs no thank you party party of zero for that spicy ketchup you're talking about ***** uh you're talking about barbecue i do think it would 0:20:8 be funny though and this is a real possibility trump just steals the thing the way everyone sees him setting out to do and people just go no and like the entire media freaks out right because it's mostly anti-trump and pro norms the entire media goes nuts half the country freaks out and then everyone is waiting for someone else to do something and he just does it and nothing and it's like well i mean no one actually everyone said it was awful but nobody made any kind of coherent movement to stop it someone's asking about the taiping rebellion a fascinating event something like 30 million people die in the 1860s in china basically because a guy failed the sats and freaked out a guy who wanted to who was going to be who wanted to be a a 0:21:12 mandarin to be to be a bureaucrat in the in the manchu state which was basically the only way that you could get out of the peasant class one of the very few anyway was to take this series of rigorous exams which basically involved memorizing he failed it he failed it a bunch of times and then he failed it one more one too many times and he had a complete breakdown and he was in a bed for months of the fever and hallucinations and at the end of it he announced that he was jesus christ's younger chinese brother and that it was his duty to unify china under his rule to create a heavenly kingdom on earth and he set about organizing the landless hakka peasantry of southern china which are people who had historically lived in the northern part of china but been driven south over the years by mostly the conflict with the step tribes over the successive centuries and become a sort of a permanent a rural a rural 0:22:15 proletariat the closest thing you could call one anyway uh in southern china and he was able to organize him around his weird syncretic christianity but also along the axis of expelling of of redistributing land to the peasants and expelling the the the manchu uh king rulers because the king dynasty was not ethnically han the king dynasty had been one of those step uh tribes in manchuria that had actually been invited into china uh to help uh keep the uh i think the ming empire from falling and then over the course of their intervention they just took over because they were the stronger party uh and they were the ones who instilled the the long the cue the hair is mandatory for men and you know and and discriminated against especially in government against uh against tan to some degree and those those motivations 0:23:17 worked and they ended up creating this gigantic peasant army that established a multi-year uh imperium uh in central china and this is the around the same time that the the chinese that the empire was getting torn apart it's it's it's uh was being opened up at the barrel of a cannon to foreign trade by the opium wars uh and they were also simultaneous outbreaks uh and revolts among uh western uh muslims uh the yellow uh yeah no that's definitely uh red turbine it went on for years and they conquered huge swaths of central uh central china and they uh put to flight hundreds of thousands man armies established to defeat them uh and but eventually they were able to this was something that probably in in chinese history had traditionally been 0:24:18 a the the pattern the traditional chinese history horrible patterns you have a empire established itself uh over some part of china and and have a relatively stable uh social relationship for hundreds of years then through a lot of times it's just good

old-fashioned weather change climate shifts but uh war with or war with the step people or whatever legitimacy is or the mandate of heaven is lost and there is a popular uprising that installs a new imperial uh line uh and this was very much in line with that and and the king was about as discredited as any regime to be but uh i recently read a book that makes the argument that the in the thing that allowed the king to un to persist beyond its prey natural life cycle was western intervention because there was a period where the west was watching uh the rebellion where they were kind of sympathetic to the taiping because like hey the guy's a christian hey 0:25:22 and they they and the typing uh government had support in in halls of government by people who like saw it as a way to open up china to foreign trade and he was very and then the heavenly king was very solicitous of western uh hell because he was he thought of himself as a christian but it turns out he was a little bit too loopy of a christian and what the western powers really wanted more than anything was continuity and uh and stability and they figured the easiest way to get that was by backing the manchu and that helped beat back a rebellion which probably honestly by normal circumstances should have been successful in overthrowing the regime or would have in the past anyway but now china was part of a global system that allowed this exogenous force to come in and helps determine things but of course they didn't last too much longer because first they were overthrown by sun yet zen and then the whole thing got overturned by mao and if you want to get too facile about 0:26:24 it you could say that that the chinese communist revolution is sort of a replaying of the taiping in that it was an attempt to organize the landless southern peasantry because the hakka peasants also formed the backbone of mao's red army that did the long march and eventually won the war uh organizing them along along economic along axis of land uh disputes and land resentment of of the fame of the landlords who who dictated the life terms of this rural proletariat uh but organized along a synthetic ideology that incorporates a a western ideological intervention innovation christianity with the taiping uh communism marxism rather uh was china right to 0:28:13 wall off the internet i would say that that restrictions on the internet should not be considered some sort of horrifying imposition uh they they should be considered a necessary element of just public policy to maintain public well-being although i don't necessarily think that content should be the axis of of repression it should be time accessing i would say that needs to be choked significantly that is that's that that presents a social confronted and needs to be uh understood to be part and parcel to the and it would be f and it's felt definitely like think about that like the chinese style 0:29:14 thing where there's a ton of stuff you can't access that feels like a actual repression that feels like i'm being denied something but if you do not wall off content but you do limit time you have functionally limited the amount of stuff you can access the amount of the internet you can access because you're going to have less time to do so but it doesn't feel like a as much in my opinion or it shouldn't feel as much like a uh a repressive in infliction on you imposition on you because there's still hypothetically all that out there to be accessed but again i don't know that's just off uh wouldn't 0:30:21 that allow rich people to purchase time from people and live there i mean sure i mean presumably once again none of these are proposed to be in lieu of actual socialism so presumably we would not have like the same class of billionaire draculas that we have now but even if you still had income inequality if somebody wants to pay to spend more time on the internet you are still creating a uh you're still creating a rationing system for most people they're not going to want to spend the time but the ones who do are going to be limited by how much money they have to yeah people don't ask to see my feet anymore i remember that used to be a big thing and i will say again that you are all lucky that i resisted your importations because it would 0:31:22 have been wow will there be another election live stream that's a good question it will probably have to be in a bunker but yeah we'll probably do something i will not 0:32:26 be drinking uh rum that much i know i'll be i'll be white claws only i have found in practice that it's essentially impossible for me to really get to turnt off white claws if i'm drinking them at a normal pace they metabolize almost instantly and i just get kind of a little bit of a just a little bit of a frission and nothing much beyond that so it's like it's self-regulating so i'll be i'll be i'll be balls deep in claws on election night to prevent yes people are spamming that photograph or the the meme of me looking looking quite despondent my thoughts on belarus good luck and good game 0:33:27 i'm gonna do the face i'm gonna do the thoughts on leftist getting their shits together fitness skills mental fitness yes of course that's all stuff you can pursue if you're not on the internet but that's why i never tell anybody to log off completely because it's impossible it's all about reclaiming time reclaiming percentage of your day and then having to answer the question of what to do now there's usually something just too much time it's too easy to just not have to ask the question we should do we have no 0:34:35 plans to do an avatar uh episode but you know what i think the next time we want to do a movie i will suggest it because i think it would be really good because i think i'm kind of halfway i'm halfway to felix because i really do think jim cameron is a once in a a lifetime movie genius just because he is singular there is no other director of his stature who produces the uh who is as involved in the production is as much of an auteur i guess that's the thing about cameron is that when it comes to big budget directors he is the single most comprehensive author among them and of course the card auteur theory is very problematic and even in his case it's not true but there is still something interesting and creatively in my opinion creatively uh admirable about somebody who takes on that many tasks and performs them with that level of

kind of stunning facility you know you can make fun of his movies all you want but 0:35:36 there's a basic craftsmanship and skill to even his most eye rolling endeavors that is lacking in directors who have far fewer responsibilities because like the guys you would name to go along with cameron uh nolan uh spielberg lucas maybe maybe maybe guillermo del toro or no not del toro peter jackson for sure uh not del toro uh maybe if he had done that maybe if he'd actually done the hobbit movie instead of running away from the project because there wasn't any room for tentacle monsters to jack anyone off you must you must allow me to have the delicious tentacle creature jackoff wrote frodo baggins and also uh no it's not frodo it's uh it's bilbo whatever all of the hobbits and all of the orcs and all of the beautiful dwarves must be jacked off by the tentacle creature michael bay is actually michael bay is in the list none of those guys write the raw material none of those guys write their own stuff maybe 0:36:37 they contribute ideas and like some dialogue i'm sure that they're all hands on to some degree but it's not to the degree that they get writing credits and these guys are voracious credit seekers so clearly they would not have he ***** writes his own movies almost by himself he creates cameras in order to get shots that he wants uh it's a sing no one else does it and so therefore you can't even compare him to anybody else he's beyond good or evil in terms of filmmaking because he has transcended the categories by embodying like an entire mode of creativity that almost no one else could be said man that kubrick movie would have been something especially because apparently it is not uh as it shouldn't be wasn't a biopic it was like i think the it was either i think i think it was set during i haven't read it but i've heard it i think it was if someone could correct me if i'm wrong it's set during the retreat from moscow i think which perfect that's the time that's the time to get the guy in a moment that 0:37:40 reflects an entire life and with nicholson is napoleon come on that's crazy it's good to know that he wasn't thinking of making ryan o'neal napoleon because while ryan o'neil can get away with being a vapid playboy with no substance because that's what he napoleon what it is his whole life ***** well never mind then i'm trying to think of what if i was going to make a napoleon movie what i would want to make it about because like retreat from moscow makes sense but i don't think it's what i would want it to be if i was making it i wouldn't i wouldn't do retrieve from moscow i think i would want him in ascent i would want him in a scent or at like a moment 0:38:41 of of of greatest power to like prefigure the the decline rather than reflect on egypt would be interesting i think i want something after the coup or maybe the coup itself the coup is actually a really interesting story you could do it as like a as like a uh um there's a movie about uh napoleon at saint helena i think it's called uh mr n or 0:39:44 something with ian holm if i'm not mistaken so there's already a the whiff of grave shot would be really interesting the way he negotiated his spot you could do that as

like a mini tableau of his whole his like ambition uh ability a strategic acumen uh charisma ability to spot the main chance the ability to like triangulate but him like negotiating the best deal out of uh uh out of like leading the the repulsion of the of the of the re of the uh of the riot or whatever you want to call it the royalist rebellion ending with him just smoking the ***** out of a bunch of them yeah maybe you 0:40:45 start with him in egypt like where he's yeah okay this is i think this is what i would want to do you start in egypt with him selling this failure of the siege of acre as a giant triumph as he like marches back into cairo in defeat but like yeah no this was awesome we're doing great and then he negotiates his way out at like hey guys we're coming back it's going to be great and so you've got like the knowledge that he's not going to come back and the absurdity of it but then also just how no one doubts it because of his magnetic charisma and then he gets back and then the ghost in the middle middle of the movie could be him negotiating with like abba says and bara bara would be an amazing character in a film uh uh and then yeah ends with like 0:41:47 the third act is is the coup uh with his like the part with his brother saving his ass the whole thing i think but i think if i was going to do a movie about if i was going to do a movie about amer about like 16 1700s like early modern period 1676 and one of the most interest one of the top reasons i would like that somebody reminded me of a field in england and this would kind of be like a the idea would be like a uh i think maybe a more politically pointed american field in england because the soldiers who went to suppress bacon's rebellion which was a early cross-racial like 0:42:48 proto-proletarian revolt among uh uh indentured servants and and like the early the early social flotsam that would turn into the american proletariat rebelling against colonial authority uh before the racial caste system had really been established where you saw like you know actual cross-racial cooperation suppress it they literally got whacked out on a hallucigen a hallucinogenic poisonous weed called gym some weed or devil's weed and i wanted to read this quote about one of the commanders about the troops he says it was a very pleasant comedy for they turned natural fools upon it for several days one would blow up a feather in the air another would dart straws at it with much fury and another stark naked would sit up in a corner them but of 0:43:52 course the other part of it is that bacon's rebellion was also motivated by a desire to be more in conflict with the native tribes so class is funny in america so you'd have that you'd have that part i think you can make a very good comedy about prince rupert of the rhine because he was a classic uh kind of a opera buffet uh just rich 0:44:53 uh fauntleroy he fought he was brave but it was a classic thing where these guys the chivalry had the concept of chivalry had so lobotomized them that they couldn't distinguish behaviors by anything other than their uh personal uh whiff of grandeur he blew at least one battle uh in the english civil war because he just wouldn't stop

his guys he just kept i have to why uh someone's asking about von trier i on general like uh i haven't really loved any of his movies though i don't think i respect the man certainly i haven't seen the serial killer movie yet though best movie streaming platform they're all dog ***** it's tremendously awful perfect perfect proof that we live in as consumer for oriented society where all of the indignities we're supposed to endure are justified by the fact that they provide us with this limitless man i haven't seen repo man since i was in high school i don't think it i didn't it wasn't one of those movies that stuck with me i should because i remember watching it out of do i went through the phase like i'm gonna get culture i read the books the people said were very good and i went and saw the good movies that i could get a hold of and that was one of the like oh this is a cult classic and i was like okay that's fine but it never really hit me i gotta re-watch it i i mean i've watched walker more recently man i will admit now another deficiency someone's asking about the trailer park boys i watched one episode and i was like okay i didn't really watch any more of it i get that you gotta stick with him for a while but i just didn't feel the need i didn't have an aching hole i i i've seen all the memes and in no point have i felt i need this in my life are you know in the uh in the 20s during prohibition people who were in favor of prohibition were called dries people were opposed to what were called wets so you could say that after after 19 after 32 the democrats were officially a wet ass party for a while they were a dry-ass party they became a wet ass party eventually in fact that was one of the uh the battle over being a wet ass party or a dry ass party was one of the things that led to uh one of the most contentious us uh presidential party conventions in history in new york in 1924. it was a battle between the forces of irish catholic new york governor al smith uh who led the wet ass party uh and william mcadoo who was former treasury secretary under wilson from california who led the dry ass party and the wet ass party was made up of the urban ethnic uh whites who made up the northern base of the democrats and the dryas party represented the rural protestant native whites who uh were the other half of their uh coalition and they went to pick a candidate in 24 and they were essentially evenly matched and it led to 109 ballots i believe which is the most in in history and there were multiple kind of small scale riots and fist fights over the course of i think it was over a week i think it was like 12 days uh it was a big disaster it was like and uh meanwhile the republicans had a very orderly first ballot nomination of good old calvin coolidge in cleveland and just won in one of the biggest ass kickings of the modern era but then four years later smith got the nomination because over time the uh the dry ass party lost its its organization and its commitment and people realized nobody actually is liking this prohibition ***** anyway and they became no i would say scandinavians scandinavians and germans for the most part i would not call ethnic whites ethnic white usually refers to the last white people to show up and so you could have called germans ethnic whites in the early 1900s benjamin franklin famously complained a ton about germans and how there were too many swarthy germans running around and where that was this even america where the hell is this place uh but by the time the irish and then the italians and the like central europeans and stuff showed up in the midwest though like german catholics kind of voted like ethnic whites and they were all vehemently opposed to prohibition but yeah al smith was a contentious choice to say the least when he was the first catholic nominated by a major party there was famously a row of burning crosses that he that were set up for his campaign train to pass and that yeah the whistle stop tour was fun they don't do that anymore you'd think it would be good for biden he loves trains and it would be a way that they could keep them away from crowds safe distance just have him come into a town have the train just stop goes to the caboose gives a little speech in front of assembled group of uh reporters who are all socially distanced and then takes off again it'd be fun but no he's i mean thanks to covet and the fact that he's a million years old he's he's taking the he is taking the william mckinley approach where you just stay at your house mckinley famously did not leave his front porch uh to run for president in 1886 instead he had his uh minion mark hannah running around the guy who was his fixer bribing everybody from here to timbuktu in order to make sure that the bi-medalist populist in the 19th century it was considered bad form to want to run for president and you can chalk that up to victoria silly victorian manners but i think there was something to it i think there was even then a real recognition that if someone would want that job a job of that much uh pressure and that much scrutiny uh and more important most importantly that much power relative to the average citizen there's got to be something wrong with them they should only want that job because they're the only one who can do it and that was that was all through the 19th century that was the case uh the people if there was a contested convention or even if there wasn't the candidates did not appear at their conventions that was considered gauche they sent emissaries to work the floor on their behalf and they gave the speech for they if they got if they won they accepted the and now we have a thing where the presidency is more high pressure more uh powerful in terms of its power over life and death uh more under more scrutiny than it's ever been and now we've decided that wanting to be president is not a disqualifying trait in a human being even though to me it would seem like the most disqualifying trait you could imagine a person to have i mean that was like bernie one of the one of the semiotic like like the loaded things about bernie that maybe was not really true but his life story suggested it was true is that he never wanted to be president i remember uh ***** that piece of ***** what's his name uh

eric alterman he wrote an article about bernie in 2016 when they were first running the stupid sandinista thing about how oh my god he uh he was at a rally where they were saying death to america just because america was illegally mining their harbor and conducting economic warfare and having drug addicted rapists attack their territory on a ***** daily basis they're saying death to america and alterman was not yet at the point where he can say they that he was wrong to be there you know official uh liberal doctrine is still that the the the contra war was bad mostly because it was carried out by a republican so they can't say he was wrong to do it what he said was he should it shows bad uh it showed bad instincts on bernie's part that he allowed that to happen but then you think well he was the mayor of ***** he was the mayor of burlington vermont you know he spent the first 40 years of his life as like a partially employed bad carpenter slash political activist and then he was the mayor of burlington do you think he was imagining being president that kind of thing proves he wasn't and anyone who is the other way anyone whose life choices are entirely conditioned upon what will lead them up the ladder has a life that is a horrifying thing that we should all unjustly be revolted by and yet we act like the desire to be president is not absolutely it's because i guess you're supposed to take their uh their word for it that they really believe that they're the only one who can do it and i mean with bernie you've got an argument because he's you know the only me the only like uncorrupted social democrat to try to run for the presidency in 40 years but if it's if you're like a standard issue democrat what the hell personal thing could you possibly have that no one else does that would make you uniquely suited for this monstrosity this moral crime of a job stick-to-itiveness you understand that the strength of america is is the strength of americans or whatever foe out of here kindly poor donald trump like donald trump is one of those people who wanted to be president and matt proves him as evil but of course he only wanted to be and then he had to do it and it proved not fun like everything else he's ever done oops well the thing about napoleon is he actually was as talented as he thought he was or near to it obviously he was not quite as talented as he thought he was or he would not have done what he did there at the end and along the way too he had a number of fuck-ups but he was much closer in his estimation of himself than anybody any of these people could possibly be now and partially is because what did napoleon do at every step he assumed his own ability to do something and then it did it he assumed yeah i can lead an army into italy and just route the ***** austrians and then he ***** did it yeah i could take over i could go i mean egypt was not a success but uh he was not personally defeated at any point beyond being able to stop the uh to he's still got a hell of a lot closer than anybody else and you know eventually he reached the level of his incompetence when he got started to get owned and it was to his detriment that he didn't recognize that in time but uh the average career path of a politician with 1:1:25 a napoleonic fixation on their own ambition what you got elected a dog catcher on a the alps kindly foe kindly foe because none of these guys have anything none of these guys have ever done anything but worm their way through the political bureaucracy exactly if the level of if the peter principle gets you to be lord paramount of all of 1:2:35 europe you uh you you're up there so yeah i would not in mind i would not have my mind the ambitions of someone who had their ambitions tested because if you fail well we don't have to hear from you ever again yeah everyone thinks they're all california is a bank in the middle of beverly hills and somebody else's name so if you're going to california yeah don't matter at all what you're planning for there we go we're all here it's kamala folks who cares boring as possible choice that was why it was the most likely no the one good thing about it is now you don't have to talk about it because what's to talk about z z z zzzz zzzz snooze don't care don't care to 0:1:3

quote jay cutler once again this is a yp not an mp like i said there'd be something they wanted to make it interesting they would have picked somebody who was not already turned over and slapped around and spit out by the by the primary process which found her to be so thunderingly uninteresting that she didn't make it to a ***** iowa because she didn't want to get shelled in uh in california where she was in fourth place amazing well don't have to talk about that anymore thank god in fact instead i'd like to talk a little about something called the iraq war some of you 0:2:6

probably don't even remember it or at least the beginning of it but us old heads remember and uh i've of course been listening to blowback by the traitor brendan and noah colin uh the podcast about the iraq war and it's been great going back and remembering all our old favorites from the bush white house all the lovable oafs who failed to stand up against them they actually reminded me of something that i had forgotten or i guess my brain had rearranged i had always remembered the incredibly douche chill moment of the 2004 democratic national convention when john kerry came out and saluted the audience and said john kerry reporting for duty and i by listening to the show where they played that clip again i realized i'd remember that wrong and that he actually says my name's john kerry and i'm reporting for duty 0:3:8

and that's so much worse like more words just he sounds like a ***** nerd or like he's at a a or something anyway watching uh listening to blowback has made me thinking about the iraq war and how even after all these years i don't think that there's a coherent fully agreed upon theory on any part of the mainstream uh or even on the left really like what what was because it was such a clear case of of of a choice a war of choice right like talk about how the presidency is much more constrained than we think of it as and that the choices presidents get to make are for a very

or through a very narrow aperture because so many choices have been taken off the table by the reality that they're merely managing a global uh empire essentially uh and that the the inputs of that system are what determine most of the things that are theoretically and in our minds imagined to be part of the remit of a president but in reality are out of their hands so they end up doing kind of what the consensus is best interest for monopoly capital or would-be monopoly capital but there is so much that seemed dicey and unnecessary about the war in iraq that it really makes you scratch your head because obviously it wasn't for any of the reasons they claimed i mean duh but also even the vulgar leftist material critique that it was about oil doesn't really make sense if we really wanted the oil if it was the oil we wanted are we gonna made a deal with saddam i mean my god the one thing we knew about saddam is that he was somebody we could make a deal with and honestly i had wished during the war it wouldn't have made a difference but if i wish during the run-up to the war more people had pointed out you know how i know that none of this is a big deal and that you guys are making something up and that i don't even have to argue about whether or not there were aluminum tubes or if there's uh whatever the ***** whatever ***** colin powell is talking about col uh the reason i know that i don't have to worry about saddam hussein trying to destroy my way of life with chemical or nuclear weapons is because he lives in a big gold mansion and he has a bunch and he has kids who drive around in ferraris he likes being alive and there's no way he could realistically wield any of the powers that we were we were claiming he was seeking in a way that wouldn't have destroyed him and we know he was a guy we could make deals with because we've made deals with him for most of his career we handed him a list of communists to execute in the 70s and we uh we helped him fight iraq we basically gave him the idea to in that if he invaded kuwait we wouldn't do anything about it we set him up so we could have a good pr victory and then we just decided to keep him as this punching bag but he could have been brought back into and the oil is fungable anyway oil is something that that is sold on an open market you can't really claim it the way that people like trump for example think you can where we go and we get the oil why didn't we get the oil we bomb the oil and then we get the oil like you could take it out of the country or something and then even then who is selling it to whom it's all that's like that's what baby brains think the oil oil politics work so if you just if you want to get oil in like if you want to get access to iraqi oil even profit if not you know the profits of uh private companies because they did not end up taking over the iraqi oil iraqi oil is still controlled by the iraqi government i mean there's concessions to be had there but they did not it was not a bonanza for private oil companies the way they claimed it was but there's still money to be made as being as moving it across the country and and facilitating the the trade so there was deals to be made with saddam even if you wanted the oil and i think the real only way to answer that question about uh about why we went into iraq and why that specific group of people the neocons who got in there 0:7:12 around bush pushed that agenda so specifically in the face of the majority of like the the institutional uh bureaucratic knowledge base inside government and the military and and the state department and stuff they were doing they weren't doing a radical break and you can wonder well why the hell did they go to iraq of all the things they could have done why did they go to iraq and i think it boils down to the fact that the us was seeking subconsciously and consciously at the level of policy and the aftermath of the iraq of the uh end of the cold war a new uh a new ideological structure to justify the maintenance of the military keynesian economy uh the the the one of the big generators of capital accumulation in the united states after world war 0:8:15 ii was a massive uh investment in defense uh the military industrial complexes like there's ways that you can uh you know operate a keynesian economy uh the british as they offloaded their empire to us and no longer had this justification of wielding military power throughout the world their keynesian post-war era was building the things like the nhs and public housing like public housing is vastly vastly more common in the uk than it is here because there was much much more direct state housing built in that post-war period we made bombs we made tanks and the thing about those things is they got to get used and the and the uh and obviously there was a strategic and tactical reason during the cold war to maintain that kind of uh thing and that's was accepted within the public like that was a 0:9:16 reason that held ideological sway after the cold war the us is not going to abandon military keynesianism it's not going to abandon its military posture it's first in the world position because that would mean ending reducing america's power from being the unipolar power in this new arrangement to being part of a multi-polar world a mutual drawdown among everybody and a redistribution of power and part of that would be a significant reduction in american military and that is something that is theoretically possible that could have been done in my opinion uh but would have required political will to do so that was antithetical to the powers that be the powers that were rather and continue to be in the united states in terms of its uh its ruling class structure and the bureaucratic uh uh conventional wisdom uh that this became 0:10:17 like sedimentary layered within institutions like the media and so the 90s were this frantic uh search for modis vivendi here a reason how can we re re-establish america's hegemonic military position in the absence of a enemy and with people clamoring for more spending at home on hey you know how we like never really got a welfare state because instead we built this world spanning military power now we don't need the will of spanning military power maybe we can go ahead and build that social democracy now but of course as it was understood at the top levels of power to to give up the military position would be to give up amer america's dominant posture in the world uh economic order which would in their mind inevitably lead to america becoming weaker less powerful and and economically bereft uh now of course the economical breadth of this thing is a joke because our position in the world economy 0:11:18 has intentionally left our economy ***** entirely hollowed out and replaced with this uh this hodgepodge of gig economy service industry jobs uh and and everything predicated on so it's not like that is working out too great for the average american now but of course at the top level of planning it is considered uh better than a a multipolar world where maybe we have to give up creature country comforts but also maybe we take all that social democratic stuff seriously in the absence of this fake conflict uh and and that like redirection of of resources and uh control of of society and the workplace downward maybe that reinvigorates the civic culture that uh that can accommodate not being the prominent dog the number one dog in the pack being part of a molar multipolar world that sees that that sees a mutual draw 0:12:20 down but none of these things are possible because they would eliminate this ruling class so of course that's not going to happen that's not on the agenda and nobody who would want it is anywhere near the lovers of power instead you have a bunch of guys who need a new justification for a military uh economy and also at the same time a need to establish a new military order in the world where the us military maintains its position as the as the primary as uh the primary force of global uh law enforcement essentially i mean world police is exactly what we are that's where the world police of the global economic market place that's where the mall cops that's and without the soviets and with you know uh competition from china and stuff uh there and russia turning away from our orbit after yeltsin uh reestablish 0:13:21 america's military dominance and if that's the question it's just a question waiting for it's an answer it's a question that now is is waiting for an answer in the form of how is what's that going to take and then 9 11 happened and i think one of the most one of the reasons i think a lot of people instinctively believe that there's a intuitive truth to birth or to uh um to trutherism is just how much 911 was able to reorder the american political scheme in such a way to essentially give them carte blanche to create this so i don't know agnostic on i'm agnostic i i don't really think it was it was bush but i don't know i mean it's certainly in my opinion wildly uh 0:14:23 intelligence about 911 and the planning of 911 was intentionally ignored because hey if this happens it's not like it's going to be bad for us that's possible but once again i don't really try to look too much into that madness rune because i know that that way lies insanity but anyway one way or another they get this thing fall into their lap or they bring it to their lap either way it creates a new structure where america now instinctively has re re-embraced its martial virtues because now there's a new global war to be fought and of course you've talked about if we really wanted to prevent another 911 and reduce the threat of terrorism we would have treated it like a law enforcement activity it would have negotiated with the taliban for the overthrow of bin laden which they were willing to do they were absolutely willing to do it we we essentially told we essentially turned down uh any any serious offer from the taliban because we needed to make something go boom because when something that 0:15:25 horrifying happens and that and that destructive to the social fabric and people's understanding of what could happen in the country they lived in because americans were the most costed baby country on earth were where that kind of thing essentially never happened on the mainland and so it was literally inconceivable for people and they needed a way to understand that and so if that anger and that confusion and that pressure if it didn't go out it was going to go up and so they had to do a military response anyone would have gone would have also turned down the taliban and gone to war in afghanistan even though that was not going to be the thing that reduced terrorism getting them handed over safely and then prosecuted and then just bump up like maybe you put some locks on the air the cockpit doors and stuff you're ***** basically gonna be fine uh instead we did what we did and it was because because a war a global war with no end time is essentially the ideal state to to govern your 0:16:28 military and economic i think it's interesting that uh that the gop voters who for whom the iraq war was the signal issue like i remember the 2004 election and the 2006 primaries were almost impossibly unique end of 2002 of course midterms those three elections were amazing because they're almost unique in modern american history other than maybe like at the height of vietnam and that they were elections about foreign policy where domestic policy really was not anything that was in anyone's top agenda the economy was still kind of puttering along with its uh housing bubble the early housing bubble happening and so it was actually it was all about 911 and then iraq and so the war in iraq was like that was the sum total of one's righteousness 0:17:30 in the political arena it was the thing people cared about the most and got angry about it i remember and they turned on a goddamn dime and now all of them are like yeah ***** the war in iraq ***** bush uh we shouldn't go to war anymore this is uh we need to be isolationist like how the hell did that happen and it really is as greg grandin puts it in his book the end of the myth the failure of our big uh retributive military strikes to actually satisfy the itch that they were meant to scratch culturally and politically meant that all that uh meant that even that made everybody at some level come to terms with the fact that oh the expansive project is over the u.s can no longer project itself it is it cannot express social tensions through pushing outward by either taking territory or extending its influence into the world beyond its borders 0:18:32

even that power has now left it and with that gone then there is nothing left but to retrench and turn inward and build a wall and pretend like you can uh you can triage that up the remaining char shards the remaining uh the remaining boxes of the of the dwindling amount of cargo left that you're that our cargo cult economy worships gay marriage was was the one it was amazing it was gay marriage and the war in iraq those are like the two biggest issues for a couple of elections there so there was yeah 0:19:36 it was all social issues because people saying abortion too yeah no it was all social issues and the war in iraq that was it there was basically no economic agenda man what if trump just does ***** with the mail enough that that uh like there's tons and tons of ballots that don't get counted and he wins a a prime uh he is able to claim a electoral vote victory even though he loses by like six or seven million votes in the in the uh popular vote and it's only because like he's able to get a court that 0:20:39 filled with his appointees to not acknowledge like some states with enough electoral votes for biden to go over the top because they didn't because of the elect fraud and stuff and ballots not being collected it would be amazing if he pulled that because i kind of see what would happen if it happened like that where it like fought it followed regular procedure even if it was all being gamed along the way i think it would be a real surreal sight you would have an entire culture an entire mainstream culture to the extent that they still exist united in horror and and condemnation of this and like oh my god this is this is it and this is the bright red line this is what we were all terrified of and a good fifty percent of the population feeling that same horror uh the only people really happy about it is a honestly a dwindling 30 percent maybe of the population like these hardened little turds wedged into the small large intestine of the 0:21:40 different suburbs of this nation's uh hell states and everybody else just horrified by it but everyone's just like being horrified and saying i can't believe this is happening and then just days go by and it just it happens because everybody is just so horrified and so in denial that they're just waiting for someone else to do something and then nobody does just paralysis pure paralysis produced by our our hyper awareness of being in a panopticon because i'll tell you one thing if that happened i guarantee you this the democrats they would not do anything like uh i mean because i think that they have the power technically to just stop all business from being conducted if they if they if they didn't show up they would not have a quorum right they could 0:22:41 actually stop congress from happening and there's other things they could do too but they wouldn't do any of them they would complain a lot but they would show up for work and they would show up for the inauguration to watch the swearing-in they would just it would be they would but uh i don't know i think a lot of that depends on the election being more of a disaster than i think it is going to be because we've seen elections carried out over the course of the pandemic for the most part they have been relatively smooth i mean obviously that isn't true in areas with minorities 0:23:43 and low income but that's always the case those things are always happening they're just buried or underreported but for the most part they carried on in a way that like votes for being tallied and turnout which is something scares people because they think because of covid and because democrats believe in kovid whereas republicans all think it's a hoax they are going to not come and come out to vote but the turnout of these uh covet elections has not been lower in a lot number of cases it's been higher so that's another thing where you have what you kind of think is going to happen and then we have this counter trend but there's no real way of knowing what it's going to look like that far in the future and how it's going to intersect with that those trends so once again i have no idea it's going to be nuts i've never this is that never this is new this is all new territory i mean this is they're ***** doing zoom 0:24:45 uh uh conventions for christ's sake like this is this is a 150-year oh i actually think i forgot to put a bow on the thing about iraq i'll do that now they chose iraq in the in the matrix of their set belief system and decision tree that necessitated a military uh a military expression that was concominated with the need to establish a new military dominance in the 21st century and to placate the bang hounds of americans who felt personally aggrieved because they'd lived in a candy-coated bubble their entire lives and then the question of answering the answer of why iraq is because it's the perfect country to do that because it is oil rich but not an ally like saudi arabia 0:25:47 because saudi arabia obviously is the place that was actually putting out all that terrifying political islam in in uh in their madrasas that they were uh funding all over the place and of course i don't know the fact that almost all the hijackers were saudi that the government at the time was aware of this even if the public wasn't allowed to know that the saudi government officials were connected to funding and providing homes and documents for the hijackers but they're a stable ally they're on our side like why you wouldn't want you don't want to smack around an ally because that gives a bad idea to the other allies that that your uh your your that their uh loyalty isn't going to buy anything so you can't do them egypt is of course another place hotbed of fundamentalist islam the ***** uh muslim brotherhood and whatnot but egypt doesn't really have any oil and also you've got that arrangement with the israel with them it's like a cornerstone of like the like that the post-79 ditant thing 0:26:48 that eventually now has led to israel being stealth uh stealth allies with both egypt and saudi arabia like they're essentially behind the door behind closed doors they are uh on taunt and that's all that all stemmed from the the first for the camp david accords that's where that started but that's not that you want to knock that up why would you do that iraq been on your bad list for a while ton of oil right next door to iran which is a real big bad with a big bull's-eye around it because they had the also in 79 had the impudence to overthrow our shah and then take our guys hostage and and have and have because they have oil and because they have a large population are able to do things like exert regional influence how dare you how dare you exert regional influence in in that region even though it is the region you live in no we exert region uh uh influence in and so iraq is the one it's the place to put the pin there's nowhere else that fits all the criterion and in their minds the most important part was that he it was only going to be the first move iraq was going to be the lily pad the first lily pad while the hop across the middle east taking all of the powers that were outside of the american influence sphere and bringing them in so that you've now got a a full american hegemony military partnerships diplomatic partnerships with every government in the most oil rich region of the world and in the strategy and the strategic hub of oil transportation infrastructure good luck china good luck russia we are setting the terms of the 21st century but of course it didn't turn out like that because you have the ruling class in any portion of it can only operate from what they assume to be their best best interest and that those assumptions are not always accurate because of those darn lacuna and those neocons had a ***** ton of lacuna and the just the mere size of the american military gives people delusions as to its its powers because it theoretically is the most powerful military in world history but and it could win it could win a conventional war with any country on earth but that that is not that's a blunt little tool as hannibal lecter said that it's not necessarily useful for intricate close quarter uh work you know uh fine fine muscle fast twitch uh that kind of stuff and boom they ended up blowing the whole thing but if it had gone the way they really had thought about it it's sort of the way that trots i mean these a lot of these guys are trotskyists it's the same way that trotsky and lenin he eventually convinced lenin went into the october revolution on the unstated but crucial assumption that it would spark world revolution that would then alleviate the pressure and the impossible situation they would find themselves in inheriting a medieval society in the midst of capitalist reaction how are they supposed to operate from how are they supposed if that wasn't what they thought was going to happen though same way the uh the neocons thought this is the first step of a domino that brings the whole thing down but the beauty part for them is that and just like as as the soviets had to adapt when that revolution didn't happen when iraq didn't go the way they wanted to they had to adapt and one of the ways was just keep fingering the pie keep stirring the pie if you can't have it no one can keep your dirty fingers and everything so funding the rebels in syria doing our weird like alliance and a war love-hate thing with isis where we stoke them intentionally and unintentionally and then suppress them to maintain uh our position there in iraq to countervail iran or at least in the game which we wouldn't have been if we didn't have guys there and we didn't have uh even though you know you could say was strategically a ***** up because it brought iraq closer to iran's orbit yeah but we're still there we got the green zone milo is a fed that's hilarious that's hilarious i kind of assume all those guys are feds like all although all right when you consider the degree to which the alt-right is infiltrated uh and uh in fact a product of uh like intelligence it makes sense that all those guys are because it's been amazing how many people have been found out in the highest ranks of like the real extreme nazi ***** uh to have either been uh actual like cia operatives like the guy one of the guys who founded one of the like terror groups the really scary one uh was the and then how many of them are guys who are in military intel in the military in intelligence who are also just vibing the way that like uh hitler went to his first nazi meeting on the payroll of the german army as an informant to yeah there's not going to be another shutdown we're not shutting down and i'm not necessarily i don't necessarily think we're going to have to because people are actually wearing masks now it seems and i think that that's going to prevent the worst case because those early spikes were when not only did people not have mass because of social pressure and uh and like enforcement of edicts and viral videos you were supposed not supposed to wear a mask people yelled at you for wearing a mask because you were taking away precious mask precious ppe from our nation's heroic first responders which is one of the most monstrous ***** ups of this entire thing and i believe is fouchy's fault which makes the worship of him by liberals all the more hilarious all the guys that the liberals have been like oh at least there's still some people who know what they're doing uh in response to this crisis like cuomo and newsom and ***** fauci are all oafs who got and of course they didn't just do that to be jerks they did that because we didn't have enough ***** masks because what's this our ***** uh our chain supply chains are completely attenuated and if they can be undermined at any moment by anything like i don't know a world fight worldwide virus attacking the very place where all our ***** gets made including our ppe oh no and instead of dealing with that and saying hey uh you know watch out stay inside uh for masks are important if you can get one do it if you can't though we're gonna try to get some fast and like turn it into a like a we can do it type thing i'm not saying this would work with everyone this is an insane country full of maniacs and idiots whose brains have been turned into absolute sludge by facebook and their television sets and just pure pleasure just the monkeys pressing their pleasure centers until their brains just go out of their ears but it could have my god it could have helped instead we just switched the thing and said oh no actually you need to wear a mask and you don't you're killing people oh wow and now you're mad at all these ***** hicks for not believing you why the hell should they why shouldn't they think that you're ***** scamming people and this whole thing is just an excuse to get rid of trump because he's trying oh someone 0:34:59 says i got the russian vaccine which i believe is an old tb vaccine someone told me that um there's a theory that was being studied i don't know what the progress is that people who had received this heavy-duty tb vaccine in the soviet era that was common throughout the west eastern bloc countries had resistance to covid uh but i don't know if they ever so if anyone's taken the uh if anyone's taken the russian vaccine go out and cough on some get coughed on and see what happens let me know i'm i'm interested i gotta say as i have said i don't care about the epstein sperm i will get i'll get a vaccine and people are freaking out about oh no you're not going to have enough uh you're not going to have enough participation and no you're not going 0:36:2 to have enough participation to actually to to bring down deaths and infections to the way that they should be in a rational country that has any kind of agreed upon reality that we can operate but i got to think that if you offered the vaccine a lot of people would get it and then the people who get it who got it would be willing to go outside again and because even if they're in public with yokels who won't get the vaccine they know they're not going to get it or at least they feel confident they're not going to get it so they won't care and so then you'd still be able to like get back to something called normal even as the people who don't get the vaccine see themselves getting infected more and more but over time that's two ways that's going to be a smaller and smaller group some people are going to get the hint and get the vaccine the same way that a lot of these yokels are now grudgingly wearing masks and some people are just going to go bye-bye and you don't have to worry about 0:37:3 it anymore but once again i have no idea i'm not an i'm not a uh epidemiologist i've never fashioned a vaccine or even an anti people keep saying that that russian guy that michaela peterson is with is a you guys a lot of russian people love stalin and it has nothing to do with epic uh soviet uh memes it has nothing to do with collectivized agriculture and and going to the moon it's it's or sputnik it's it's ***** it's nationalism stalin when stalin was around russia was big and put and kicked the ***** out of other countries ask some of these russian tankies what they think about uh about the jews and then we can add we can wonder we can we can break this 0:38:4 down to whether he's a tanki it's just that he's got a actual like national historical context for stalin whereas she is a canadian has the same sort of parlor room uh like trading card remove from all historical figures who aren't directly related to their cultural i mean maybe this guy's a tanky but he's isn't he also an alleged like uh sex trafficker do you really want him on your side just to own the petersons i think i would rather him be like just a a good old-fashioned but that shows that the word tanky doesn't mean anything which is fine it's it's a relic die so just you just you 0:39:12 can you can know you don't have to use it if you find yourself using it ask yourself is there a better word more accurate word for what i'm trying to say or am i just going to perpetuate a fantasy you know that's actually funny sherman i mean that's a nice that's a good pun sherman was a tank he's sherman tank but i mean if you want to like talk in the terms of of applying that that sort of conception of power to the give the actual dynamic of the moment sherman's willingness to uh push the rules of war speaks to a a a consequentialist ethics that uh that i think most most 0:40:13 people who stuck with the communist party after the hungarian uh uprising was put down uh it would be so funny if biden gets in and he actually starts prosecuting states for having weed legal and everyone has to all the democrats have to contort themselves into explaining why that's actually woke because actually uh you know states rights that's some sus that's some so confederate stuff that's cause that's that that's oh you know states will the culture improve under biden i think there's i think 0:41:31 there's a there's a line of reasoning i think that you could argue might lead to it uh it would be it would go like this the moral hysteria of the trump world of the trump of the trump presidency of the need for people to constantly be renouncing mostly a a sense of white guilt being associated with trump and his project has made culture much more self-conscious and try hard than it otherwise would be because everyone feels like they have to participate in this project of self-absolution from the association with trump's white nationalist project as they understand it and if trump's not president and all the stuff that was horrifying them every day is now normalized because biden's doing it maybe they'll feel less the need to try so ***** 0:42:32 hard and they can relax a little bit and be less hysterical all the time i don't know if that's going to happen because it assumes that you know things getting radically worse economically don't have their own knock-on effects that we can't predict but it's it's it's our only hope really i saw someone fall guys is this game i've seen people play where you're like a little hot dog running down a slight incline is it like a donald trump simulator it doesn't seem like it should be that hard to go down an incline with a little hot dog man is it because the controls are really because people are saying it's very very hard but i watch it and it's just a little guy walking running down a running down a little incline so why is it so hard all right well i might play 0:43:44 it like i said we're going to do some streams from the office we're going to be doing sieve hopefully i want to do europa universalis because i want to try to see if i can get the safavid empire to take over all of europe uh or i want to charles the fifth it and try to just or prevent the reformation in england i think that'd be fun i would like to prevent that from happening uh but also i would like to do the goofy games like i want to do katamari damacy or whatever it is where you roll up a big ball that sounds fun uh and then the little hot dog running down the little donald trump simulator sounds fun too no i would not do i went out and i do a martin luther uh uh

escort mission i would want to do martin luther merck mission i would want to see if 0:44:45 i could just prevent the someone actually makes a good point that if i played up my disability more i would be able to be more problematic without people getting mad at me but the cost of that would be that i would have to fake believing in that entire ableism framework for uh for identity which i don't and it's just too much it's it's a bridge too far for a minimal game i do like whipping out the card though sometimes just to own someone i remember like two years ago we were getting yelled at by someone for being ableist and someone said it would have killed you guys to have a disabled person on one time and i just had to ***** reply i said they have one on every ***** episode it's me and the fact that you can't know that i don't know man it makes me think that that maybe this concept that you're imagining exists is not 0:45:46 quite as encompassing as you imagine it to be if it's if that much of it if that much of the public like of public politics and public presentation of self can be sublimated in someone that doesn't have to be that doesn't have to be at the center doesn't have to be the center of their politics doesn't have to be the only thing they and it's very hard not to see people who fixate on something especially when it's self-diagnosed that's always very funny or i think there was one guy who was like a some sort of disability caucus chair something who had diabetes very funny as someone who is way more disabled than any of these people and who's had his life actually shaped by it uh just having like somebody who took a ***** test and decided that they need to like have a special uh non-clapping zone is just amazing to me uh but but the very sheer variety of the experience of being disabled is what makes the idea that it is a unified experience that it is a that that there is any kind of inherent unif 0:46:47 unity between people who are with disabilities is fantasy and people only believe it so that they can get in they can get further up in line in the progressive stack it's a way to cut in line in the progressive stack so people pay attention to them and take their ***** seriously and that always felt to me like cheating and and also that trying to keep up a pretense that i thought any of that ***** meant anything would uh would eventually have just destroyed my soul so no thanks so i shan't be talking about someone asked directly so i thought i'd address it because i've seen some other people talking about it not quite krauthammer thankfully but uh but 0:47:50 i'm definitely more disabled than i'd say nine of the ten people i see carping about ableism online and starting every tweet with as a disabled person or whatever the ***** it's weird how they have this thing where they want disability to both be a category of of identifiable experience that is common among a group of people noted and that it's like a trauma and that it is something that impacts one's ability to function but if you suggest that it actually impacts their ability to function that that's being the equivalent of racist oh i'm sorry this disability disables you what

how dare you no no no you have to listen to me because i have it but how dare you say that it might limit my ability to do that there's no i'm sorry but i don't think there's any disability platform that supersedes the need for a ***** social of socialism and a socialist and a broad socialist movement there's no specific ableist issue that necessitates sacrificing uh broad appeals to uh to reassure people within an imagined group that they're not going to be left so yeah if anybody ever wants to get mad at me about anything refer to this chunk of my show somebody cut this out and say why matt can why do i hate steve miller have you ever heard any of his music favorite napoleonic general i think i might have a different opinion about this as i listen to more and more uh more of age of napoleon which i plugged before on here and i think is really one of the best history podcasts going uh but i'm a big fan of uh of ogero because he was uh he was a crude horny street kid from paris he was the son culotte general and he was just like a spin on the floor charming what do you mean ignoring someone says ignoring marginalized groups that like how does how does something like medicare for all ignore disabled people it it it brings them up in a huge way from where they were massively and and has the altered effect of helping literally everybody else in the country who is being left behind there the idea is that i don't feel personally engaged with and i don't feel personally soothed and told that i'm special it it that's people have confused that with with like meaningful politics because it's all they have it's they're doing all their politics in yes universal programs help marginalize people disproportionately and that's good that's one of the things that's great but they have the it's the beauty of it is it disproportionately helps the most marginalized without inherently creating a politics that requires a enthroning of virtue and sacrifice which is counterproductive to organizing all right i'm gonna go soon so i got about uh i got one more one more question from the from the whoever whoever can um did losing hair that's funny losing hair hurt my self-esteem not really i guess i just didn't see it coming i didn't realize i was balding until one day i was walking into a grocery store and there was a security camera above the door and i could see myself and there was like a white circle on the top and i was just like what because i don't really look in the mirror that often so it was more just shock since then i've been uh it's been it's been it's been a process of uh of coming to terms but it hasn't been that traumatic i'm i'm basically fine with it now the one thing i will not do that i've uh that i've debated in the past but have now decided now as the cowards move is i'm not going to shave it not happening whatever this turns into we're going to find out whatever if it i don't think it's going to turn into sides i don't think i'm going to get the full costanza and if that did i would probably have to consider maybe shaving because i do not want the costanza but i think i'm going to keep enough of this in the middle to kind of just nicholson

i think i'm going to nicholson it and i think nicholson hairline to me is goals and if i can stay around there great i'm not going to use any of that hair there's no uh 0:56:0
there would be no it wouldn't be work it would literally not be worth it like it would not increase my self-esteem enough to be worth the expense and time to do it yeah just got done meditating before uh before the stream today ironic toupee is kind of funny i will not grow anti i could not get anton sugar i don't know if i wanted to 0:57:22 yeah no chiklis chiklis is not quite as good uh an outcome as nicholson would be and chiklis ended up shaving it as we know i hope they nominate i hope george clooney is the new senator from california i hope someone at the dnc gets the idea that the reason trump won is because he's a damn celebrity and we need to get more of our guys in there and and they make clooney the ***** senator they're not going to 0:58:29 make ruffalo a senator why would they do that it gets appointed by the governor i think is is california is it appointed by a governor or do they have an immediate special election it oh man jerry brown dragged his 900 year old ass out there i guess it depends on how well the succession line up like the power structure is and then if newsom has that party all settled away then i think he would pick somebody who would be there for a while but if he picks brown then clearly that they need time to create i am governor jerry brown my aura smiles and never frowns so i will be present carter power will soon go away i will be california uberallas california oh alice 0:59:34 yeah let's get jello and we offer on there let's make a let's get a viral hashtag going to get uh jello biafra appointed how about dave navarro and his signature issue is tattoo acceptance in the workplace jello like warren that's hilarious that's so perfect god damn don't get old people don't let yelled a bullet yelled at both 2012 he fired it's a french revolution it's the podcast i was referring to age of napoleon it's more 1:0:40 about napoleon but it spends a lot of time on the revolution itself it spends a lot of time on everything he's incredibly uh detailed you get if you're not even interested in napoleon you get so much stuff about the era like the power structure the diplomatic structure of uh onshore regime europe and the you get a good like multi-episode uh capsule history of the french revolution and then you get napoleon all the way i did not see a press conference from trump today he did it again because yesterday he was in front of the cameras when that guy took a shot did that even happen by the way i never even found out what happened there did that actually happen did somebody take a shot at the white house because after i heard the story it never turned into 1:1:42 anything do none of us know what's happening at all anymore does every event just like fall over come over the transom and they just fall over the waterfall never to be ***** connected to anything else again and we have no idea whether it actually happened or not but it still builds this tower of of delusion in our minds that's not good if it is that's not a but no i didn't know he had one today what did he talk about what would the big wet boy say did he talk about uh did he talk about how biden is gonna run god through with a hattori did he really claim that did he did 1:2:46 trump really try to go after kamala harris for supporting medicare for all he yeah so the thing with biden the idea of biden being like the radical leftist wasn't really sticking apparently he was having a hard time getting voters who weren't already on board with the whole cue delusional mindset to accept that genial old joe biden was some sort of radical so now he's going to try to be like oh no it's going to be harris as a radical but i honestly don't think that i mean she's less well-known i guess so 1:3:47 maybe he can have more luck at defining her in the media but i just don't know if anyone's paying who knows who will win no one knows bye

i want to get the the punters too riled up twitch.com reach out to me reach out gotta go boost this on the bird website for maximum eyeballs gotta move this merchandise of the we gotta move these refrigerators today we are having a craz cranberry lacroix 0:1:1 not my preferred i prefer it as the heart as the black cherry polar number one goat uh sadly it's rarely available at my grocery store so i end up getting i say cherry over anything else then berry over anything else then watermelon and then any other but yes i believe that the goat the goat of the flavors is the black chariot it's cuts through it's efficient in its delivery of a of a sump of of uh juiciness in an otherwise calorically deprived beverage all right so today we speak not of fizzy beverages today we speak 0:2:5 of karen's sing to me o muse of karen's i know that the the meme is well dead by now but i just thought it was useful to make a point about the whole karen phenomenon in reference specifically to the recent blatant attempt by the president and his minions to ensure that there is not an accurate count of absentee and mail-in ballots in the november election so obviously karen is now quite a worn topic of conversation no one uses it anymore as a term other than people who are five who are always behind the times not the not the internet literati no one would be no one watching this stream would be so gauche and so behind the times is to non-ironically a letter karen loose but for a while there my god everyone grabbed it they loved it oh god they were so happy it was just a perfect explanatory concept a way to take all criticism 0:3:7 a way to take other things you don't like categorize them very very efficient and therefore very useful and so people loved it and you can talk about how it's a lot of sublimated uh hostility towards women you know like misogyny on the left translated towards women that are acceptable to not to not be to hate because they're uh doing like class-based oppression or something when really you're dealing with misogyny i think that's part of it but i honestly think that the bigger thing that drove the karen phenomenon much bigger than even the the suppressed misogyny that it did express in my opinion uh was the fact that a lot of things like that a lot of those terms of abuse that could turn into categories of people that can be immediately dismissed and and given you know two minutes hate about and stereotyped and all that uh are 0:4:10

CUSHVLOG 61. TOO MANY KARENS!

that are expressions of the thing that the person themselves is afraid they are and people are terrified and you see on the left side of the internet the number one epithet uh is liberal because everyone is terrified that deep down they're a liberal because they don't really know why they believe what they believe most people don't most of us are only tenuously uh uh confident about any of the propositions that we carry around in our head we mostly keep to them because the social formations that we prefer uh express them and then we want to be part of that and we're expressing something we're not really believing it in any kind of depth and so that makes us all worry oh god like where am i wrong where's my liberalism and and the fact that you have to engage with things like mass media and uh and electoral politics and the fact that real like guerrilla-style conflict with the state is not something anybody feels 0:5:11 would be worth doing that creates this anxiety around am i really a liberal and so you have to call everyone else liberal same thing with karen everyone is afraid deep down that they're karen and so they have to get someone else to call to karen and to yell at and that's because we are a nation of karen's in the specific respect that our only recourse on all issues especially politics is to ask to speak to a manager to have to it is to make a request of some other power to fix our current predicament to resolve the contradiction that we are currently being enmeshed with and that we are battling whatever that contradiction is whatever that social political reality that that loggerhead is we are instead of embracing our own uh uh will political will and trying to change it ourselves we are asking to speak to a manager to have someone 0:6:12 else fix it and you see that i i can't and i i've been guilty of this my whole life too of course i think i'm not saying this as a point of finger at anyone i'm saying that this is how we are conditioned to respond to all things especially politics to be customers we are customers the state is the service government is a service we are customers uh just like everything else and every other relationship we are customers first that's how we've been able to subsume class so far by redefining americans away from being workers to being customers if you're the one getting the the the uh actual if you're the one being served in any situation even if you work for a wage even if you are exploited at your job even if your wages have been stagnant for 40 years you still are a customer and that is it defeats and it leaves us bereft of anything to do during any conflict in any political question but ask someone else to fix it because we don't know how to fix anything because we're not workers we're not in a relationship to a means of production that we could collectively interfere with withdraw our labor from cease 0:7:15 to allow to function we are customers and all a customer ever has is their voice all a customer ever has is their willingness to make a scene and that's i mean you could say that that's the whole of politics right now even on the left even among people who would rather die than think of themselves as a liberal or a karen what they're essentially doing is asking to speak to a manager we're all doing that every tweet that says reminder uh this is all messed up it's like who are you talking to you're asking someone else to do it today swear to god as if to prove my ***** thesis there was a trending topic around the liberal freakout the liberal dawning of recognition that he could steal the election just by not counting bail in votes about the post office they're just they're literally taking out machines that count ballots i mean they're just doing it in front of everyone and then trump says that they're going to do it because we don't want them to vote we don't want their votes to count it's it's there's no hiding it it's out there and yet this is the thing that you would reveal in a movie and that just the the fact of revealing it is would stop it and yet we're at the end of that movie and then no one's doing anything and the trending talk it was do something who the ***** are we asking to do something congress each other we have no idea where the levels of power are because we don't recognize that they're actually the only ones that matter are within us acting in concert using our power our labor collective labor power and our organization along those lines to refuse to allow the system to continue to to function anything less is an appeal to the manager and so i have this vision where trump loses by like 15 million votes but in in a handful of swaits that would have given him that would have given biden the electoral college win uh the ballots just don't go anywhere they're just they're thrown out in court or something some 19 year old judge uh that just got appointed a ***** zygote in a little a a a fetus in a black robe with a tiny little gavel comes out and goes ah yeah these ballots what are people going to do they're going to wait for somebody else to do something and we're going to watch the whole thing happen and there's going to be no ones and that's going to be if that doesn't happen that process is a a eruption of this of the subliminal action that's been going on over the past 40 years as the safety net has been destroyed as crisis capitalism has ripped out the foundations of society and replaced it with nothing with ***** opiates and uh and tick-tock and vapes and uh and uh constant soul death is that people been waiting for someone to do something and it never arose and one of the big reasons nobody ever did anything is because there was always the appeal to the electoral process this sucks but the only real way the only realistic way we can organize against it is at the ballot box we don't have enough social cohesion to do something like have a general strike we don't have a so we do not have the social networks that could sustain that or coordinate it but we do have enough of a social network to coordinate enough to vote for someone to represent us get into power and prevent the bad things are happening and maybe do good things and the thing is is that that's not an entirely uh insincere or a false argument like in the absence of a real organized left electoral politics has to be a scene of struggle because it's the only one we have it's the only place where there's a level of participation and social coordination that can be in any way influenced everything else is too is too flousy it's it's just water flowing out and so there's always oh things are getting bad but we can vote and this time even more than two thousand i mean 2000 was a theft but it was it was a slow motion theft and all the forms were observed here months before the election you have them saying explicitly we are going to make it so that these votes don't count we are going to make it so that we can swing this election on our front why would we want to let them sort them sort the ballots that means that people will be able to count the ballots he said that so the last layer the last layer of justification and the highest level of uh of like political uh spectacle has now lost its ability to serve as a shield to serve as a screen for what's really going on is what's what it's there for it's super structural the super structures exist to obscure the reality of the social relationship to mystify it and now the last bastion of it will have been made there translucent with no response why because the social uh cohesion the social fabric necessary the class uh culture the organic working-class culture necessary to resist it has been destroyed never really built up enough in this country anyway in the first place but even brought down from that level to a point where it cannot respond to even even the last illusory notions of participatory democracy being replaced by the full acknowledged but again i have no idea what's going to happen i always have to end all of these rants and and uh and cosmic visits visions visions with an uh with a stipulation that hey i didn't know ***** trump was gonna win the first time i don't know anything and i sure ***** don't know uh i don't know one of the million of things that could happen in terms of the intersection of trump's uh ham fa candid attempts to rig the election and like the real like nature of his declining uh political constituency and the reality of of a incumbent president presiding over depression it's such it there's so many variables dude it's a ***** i mean as always the worst outcome is the most predictable as it has been so far the worst outcome has been what's come true basically at every level we even got the boringest vice presidential candidate with the less you can with the fewest i mean obviously the easy thing to say because it's the most likely to be true and it's easiest to predict is that instead of having some sort of collapse epic collapses and institutions and and then break up of of governance and and the world market you'll have a steady and slow subsumption of all into that market uh and then it will not be without disruptions that could be called apocalyptic but the thing is is that they will be because of our harper normalized reality instantly metabolized into this the substance of of uh existence so they are not perceived by those who survive them anyway they are not perceived perceived as apocalyptic because they are turned into their turn to do oh that's what it's like now oh this is how things are now oh this is the thing and so at no point will there be that break that we're all praying for secretly that since the 90s we've been ritually trying to bring about like evo shandor on the ***** ghostbusters building trying to bring in the evil energies to crack open the ***** veil between us and reality because we cannot bear this this tawdry and empty spectacle any longer this disgusting dance macabre across across a dead landscape of ***** mini malls and concrete and and a reified market system that destroys all human autonomy and and here spiritual meaning and everything that happens that makes it worse will just be another thing that now is part of it 0:15:29 like if you talked if you like the the american workplace like the gig economy reality of working in america would look like some sort of post-apocalyptic neo-feudal impr imposition on people in the high modernist uh i mean look at what's going to happen with climate change not an apocalypse slow and steady a consumption like florida florida is going to go away bit by bit miami's going to go away and it's just going to be yeah well miami i mean come on what was it doing there really not realist not very realistic dummies uh and then the rest of it will go and that's just the way things are and this is going to cause mass despoilation of life mass death billions of deaths baby depending on how it shakes up but those those who die will not be part of the narrative of civilization they will be those un people so society will not 0:16:31 have broken down even as huge chunks of it no longer function they will just be gangrenous limbs cut off from the world market and within the cocoon within the remaining cocoon things will be kind of the same only worse every day until we have been subsumed into this massive neural network this this hive mind of capitalism where we are all uh individual um transistors and the thing is is that the search for uh for like communism the the pursuit of pursuit of socialized production at this point of capitalist like productive capacity that is the challenge to turn the human race into one collective consciousness that is itself that is all of it that is additive that is all human minds together as opposed to what capitalism seeks which is to subsume all of uh what makes us human out of humanity and turn us into pure 0:17:33

non-conscious stimulus response so we're gonna be part of one big network brain the ***** nationalists who talk about how you know what uh uh we need to they should say yes yes you have to deal with nationalism and the reality in the in the here and now but i'm talking about at a pure at a purely theoretical level nationalism is absurdity uh and it will not sustain human life it will have to be done away with now that doesn't mean you can walk around in 2020 telling americans that america sucks because they're not going to have it because they haven't gone to the same class as you have but i do think that that's different than saying that it's inherently good but i'm saying it's going to go away one way or the other all these all these categories we think are discrete about humans are going to go away and the question is are they going to come together is it the final transcendent moment or are they going to wink out and be replaced by by just dead circuitry ah but along that way 0:18:35 there'll be no apocalypse when you're in that when you're in the slurry vat pushing the buttons to keep the slurry coming into your mouth that will not be they will not feel like it's a post-apocalypse you will feel a continuum because the the because this the cultural uh firmament and and the probably even like the political uh uh architecture are gonna be not if not the same over time only changing slowly ship of theseus style until there's something else that's the most likely outcome and it's not that hard to say it because duh but we're also here we have free will to the degree we're unaware of our roundings and that's totally we have free will and we have the responsibility to ourselves and each other to prevent that from happening if if we can and even if we can't because a life spent in the pursuit of the virtuous end will be a more rewarding life and a more meaningful life than one uh that acknowledges reality 0:19:36 and accommodates itself to it it says rich people are happy this is a great transition thank you so much someone says i don't know man rich people are happy someone pointed this out uh to me uh on the internet today it is a it is uh a little delightful little article uh about sumner redstone the immediate mom uh the media giant one of the one of the guys who created the modern media landscape uh specifically um specifically like the cable television concept he was the ceo of viacom uh and he died 0:20:37 like they all do at 97 years old they live forever because god delights in human evil and their ability to suck vampire-like the life essence of the working people that they exploit it really does give them a natural long life i mean that's it's a metaphor you know and it's not literal but like the adrenochrome notion that is just a a a mythic reinterpretation of the of the real flow of life energy down to up in capitalism uh but he died at 97 r.i.p to a real one but there was an article about his death about his last days that i wanted to find here because yes i'm sure that sumner redstone had a great life i'm sure cumulatively he had a great time more good days than bad 0:21:40 a lot of delicious steaks a lot of a lot of hot dames uh hot air ballooning uh eating children's brains if he wanted to all the fun you can have in his life he had it summer uh so this was oh no never mind never mind uh this is yes it's about his last days but it actually came out two years ago i thought this was like his just came out but apparently this has been his life for at least like four years so this was his life the last four years of his life this was him uh media mogul sumner redstone who maintains vocal voting control over cbs and viacom has resorted to communicating through an ipad reloaded with audio clips of his voice saying yes no and ***** you uh the ailing 0:22:43 94 year old is currently caught in the middle of merger talks between two companies cbs close to making all stock offer for viacom uh this is not the one there's another article does anyone know well i can't find the goddamn thing but anyway the story is is that apparently in his last days he was reduced in his mental capacity to just his most base urges uh and he was just based like frantically trying to ***** like trying to get his dick hard and i know that that's a common thing with dementia patients is that they get like sexually compulsive as they age but i don't think that there's any reason to think that redstone uh was not i mean just think about it for someone who devotes their life to sensual pleasure and exploiting others for their own stockpiling of sensual pleasure your ability to enjoy it is attenuated over time so even if as you live longer because you have all the life extension powers of the vampire that you are your ability to enjoy that life drains out of you not only do things just get less novel over time and if you have money you can do everything which means everything gets less novel but your ability to enjoy them your actual sensory ability to enjoy them goes down because i mean if you like ***** your dick stops working uh if you like eating you get your taste buds your things are shutting down no matter until they invent some sort of machinery to stop it your brain entropy baby those telomeres are ***** and so you get whittle so you can't even have the sensory pleasures you once were and they're at their least so at a time when you would need them to be the most centrally overwhelming as possible to make up for the fact that they're bold you can have them like it's it's the ***** guy with the with the ***** apples who's the one the greek guy the guy with the apples and so the only thing in your life that had meaning is now something you can't indulge with and you're left with only a growing recognition of your body's uh impermanence and your impending end and how and the world ending with your consciousness or the world ending and going beyond and the world continuing beyond your consciousness is unconceivable because your consciousness is the only thing that you credit is existing and you live that way even if you don't think that's how you think that's how you behave and so your last years are torture our torture and you might say well hey i'd take that deal yeah a lot of people would that's why there's so many ***** ***** in the world tantalus i thought it was tantalus but then uh i thought he couldn't get i thought the thing was he couldn't get the the apples i'm talking but he can eat and of course like that's why they're all trying to extend their lives unnaturally that's why they're all trying to go to the moon that's why they're all trying to live forever that's why they want the singularity because they think oh i'll do it on the computer and my circuits will never die and i'll be able to get infinite amounts of pleasure an infinite amount of experience but of course that's fantasy that's a delusion these people are deluded that's one of the big reasons i do not credit ai as a threat the way these people ever do ai these people is freaking out about ai is it's just backhanded congratulations of themselves they think god i'm so smart i've created a thing that's going to destroy civilization take a ***** break pal i mean like oppenheimer could say that but this is the ***** roomba **Music playing** and also it's because they uh like at this point

CUSHVLOG 61. TOO MANY KARENS!

they have their entire uh metaphysical all their metaphysical chips on the board are pushed towards uh artificial intelligence becoming sufficiently uh similar to human intelligence to allow transference of consciousness from one format to the other their entire worlds depend on that that's why they're doing what they're doing that's why they're destroying people that's why they're drinking blood so that they can get a a they can make some sort of pact with the devil to get out of the deal of being a human being but it's not going to work our assumption that it'll work it's like it does does any of this look like it's working and i know people will say oh yeah no it's working for the people at the top who are hyper exploiting yes but there's a frenzy behind all of this that indicates a sickness at the center of and of course it's better to be rich than poor that's why people shouldn't be poor we should get rid of that ***** the the the tragedy of human existence is something that cannot be transcended regardless of where you end up in the rawlsian state of nature where else you get thrown out of the out of the butthole of the of the random humans uh uh circulator from the va and then pushed through the veil of ignorance like jim carrey going out of a rubber hmm i mean ai is not the same as capitalism the algorithm taking over because the algorithm already exists like you don't have to invent a i for the algorithm all it is a question of his efficiency of transmission of the algorithm through physical space it already exists something separate like a like a machine consciousness that is not uh-uh someone uh is thanking me for the uh for hosting uh a screening of gremlins 2 with joe dante that we did a few years ago in l.a i want and and thank you for saying thank you i just that that was a great night and i wanted to just i thank you for reminding me that was a lot of fun uh it's getting to see gremlins too which is a movie that i've worshipped since i was a kid so on a vhs uh was actually tricked at the beginning by the vhs specific uh fake out in the middle uh think it's a seminal film joe dante one of the great american directors uh getting able to see it in the theater with him every laugh hit every joke hitting like a ***** neutron bomb everyone having a great time uh and then joe getting to take questions and get to talk about a movie that did not do well at the time and was one of the things that sort of contributed to joe dante losing his ability to get whatever he wanted made that he had there for a minute which is tragic because it's such a brilliant ***** film uh but i think he said something about enjoying getting to see it and just getting to see people like it and noticing that no this was a good idea you were not wrong but also if you haven't seen gremlins 2 that's another big recommend from me **Music playing** and the burbs is amazing too i would if covet ever ends i would like to go back to la and do a screening of the burbs too because i think that's it's a one-two punch man uh in terms of and also if you want to get like political which i don't you think you have to with those movies but they are both really perceptive uh uh artistic expressions of real phenomenon happening like suburban 0:31:3 on we in alienation and and like the the emergence of like uh yeah the death of the mid-budget movie it's a real bummer man and the thing is that's the kind of stuff that would be perfect for like that is exactly the kind of art that public funding like public arts is best for because like low budget movies i'm you don't really need the government you know like you should have foundations and stuff for people who are like uh i'm talking though about like a relatively even playing field here where we've eliminated massive amounts of poverty in that situation low budget movies should be like a hobby thing uh and big budget movies i mean if they were to still exist if 0:32:7 you had enough money circulating for that to be worthwhile doing which is i think a big if uh but if that were to happen they're for everybody you know they're gonna the market's gonna make them no matter what those mid-budget movies they need there to be a dimension beyond profit in the calculation of whether to make it or not and there used to be and now there aren't and that's a real thing where you can say the system is not really different but over time it accumulates uh pathologies because as that profit it's really so much of this ***** comes down to the fact that that things other than profit that used to be built into the architecture of american capitalism and and art uh were there because they could be in the minds of the bean counters in the minds of the bondholders and the minds of of the in the mind that is in the mind of the global market economy they could be afforded profit rates were such that they could be indulged and people could because people don't want to be a mere instrument of an algorithm no one wants that they fight against it 0:33:8 even if they're part of it even if they do well out of it and cultural superstructure is created in part by people trying to alleviate that sense of being instrumentalized by capitalism and that's it's a double-edged sword because like that acclimatizes people to capitalism like all superstructural culture does but at the same time it means the stuff is better it means the actual art even though it's compromised by capitalism is better and more and more it has more qualities and and has a richness to those qualities and that gets squeezed out like a toothpaste as the profit falls and the need for return increases the ability to lose money on things that aren't sure things that are part of the algorithm is get squeezed out of the system too and it's it's and that's where the government could stand in and be like cool uh someone's asking about 0:34:25 digital art i think it's one of those things where i'm of two minds part of me is like there's some elements of it like squibs where i think no this is objectively wrong don't do this but other things like cgi wear i kind of acknowledge i'm just i have a different frame of reference like i think that here's an example i find and i've always found matte paintings and rear projection in films charming fun and even if you can see it even if you can notice it it does not really disrupt my uh my suspension of disbelief i'm willing to give it to the benefit of the doubt whereas i think somebody who grows up with digital art they see a a flat screen or they see a rear projection or a matte painting and they think wait a minute that's fake and the thing is from certain perspectives like fluidity of motion and like seamlessness it is faker but they 0:35:26 to them that fakeness is is throbbing it it pops out because of their their seamlessness of their of their cultural context i didn't come from that i can grow older so i still value it so that's the thing where i could say it's uh it's but man i was just i had a chill today i think i was thinking about squibs again which i'm always doing never 10 minutes away from thinking about squibs they say they say the average man thinks about sex every eight minutes uh that's me with squibs every eight minutes thinking about squibs getting mad about now there's no squibs anymore and it occurred to me in horror that because of the whole because of the new uh uh economic dynamic around firearms and movies it's just it's cost prohibitive on on the basic slat to do indulgent ***** like use incredibly expensive cameras or use rare film you have to 0:36:28 fight for that it's it's not it's not included in the suite it's been seamlessly removed which means that in the future real guns firing blanks and real squibs are going to only be featured in films that are doing it as a self-conscious artistic choice that are doing it as part of a broader thing like movies that are in black and white now that are that are that are conceptual that means that everything else all the genre movies that i would love to enjoy and are at the level of we're not trying to deconstruct anything we're not making an artistic point we're just doing an action movie it's gonna be off the table as much as it would be to film one in ***** uh uh in like the academy ratio and black and white like the lighthouse that's a bummer man and i think it's true i i can't really think i can't really imagine that that's not the case now especially with everybody streaming every movie now on those dog ***** ***** 0:37:29 streaming links where like though you can't even get really black or anything and it's just less saturated and everyone's on their dang phone now i sound like andy rooney i was trying to be even-handed there and then i ended up turning into annie rooney the squibs will do that to me oh danny boy the squibs the squibs are calling from plan to plan and down the mountain's eyes falling what's my favorite nugget sauce szechuan baby no i had the szechuan sauce it was dog ***** like not even disappointing compared to the ridiculous height because nothing could have been that good considering the cultural the amount of cultural ink and energy spent on a dipping sauce at mcdonald's how good it would have had to have been to make 0:38:31 that in any way proportional it would have had to have been the best tasting food on earth it's like the ***** squeezed like uh like they took the uh like a ibis and like wrung out its it would have to be made of ground unicorn horn or something but even for a mcdonald's sauce it was dog ***** very very sweet it was basically just a

sweet and sour sauce i was thinking the reason i actually did kind of i'll admit get a little excited about it when i brought it back is because when they said szechuan sauce that made me think of szechuan pepper sauce like with the red like with the peppercorns you know in szechuan cuisine and i thought oh oh ***** ***** that'd be good uh but no it was just another sweet and sour sauce it was dog ***** and the funny thing is is they introduced it after the big ***** up they introduced it 0:39:33 and they said hey we have it now hey guys we have it we have such one sauce and it lasted like two weeks because nobody gave a ***** and it wasn't good enough to stick around i would say of the mass market ones you can get i like ranch i suspect that my favorite sauce if it could be found if someone could make this if if a if like a chick-fil-a or a wendy's or mcdonald's made this they would have my my business for life a a nugget dipping sauce based on uh korean red pepper paste the stuff they use on uh on the korean fried chicken it's it's it's i don't know how to uh that is the bomb that stuff is awesome and if i could dip those mo go go chujang gochujang that's it a gochujang pepper paste because the thing about is i wanted to have i 0:40:36 wanted to have a velvety texture but i also want like a ketchupy umami residence and i don't want that spice it's perfect so yes that stuff oh i'm really hungry i haven't had dinner yet i can't wait what am i going to get what am i going to get maybe i'll get nuggets but maybe i wouldn't get nuggets because i don't have any of that paste and it would feel like actually i might have that paste hey guys feeling good feel like this has been a good stream good mixture of the high and the low dionysian and such and the the apollonian that's it dinosaur and uh you guys i gotta admit 0:41:40 someone's asking about how much i go outside and if i feel panicked i gotta say i kind of i it's not that i don't care about getting it it looks terrifying and i really don't want to get it uh but uh i kind of am not really that afraid of getting it i i think that we've reached at least where i live a a mass saturation point that when i go out i don't feel that scared i don't get i'm not uh willy-nilly about it of course i keep my distance and i keep my mask on but i feel like enough people are doing that and everything is distanced enough that i'm not really feeling like i'm anymore 0:42:42 but i mean i could get it but you know oh that's funny idea someone said there should be an official chapel mask where it's the soy face god the nazis would get so mad because they thought that up and we stole it from them tough ***** ***** that's what happens maybe if you value jacking off in the bank lobby do i feel that the left is due for a spiritual awakening i have to say i mean i've said on the show explicitly yes i mean i've been saying that for a while now i have been saying that spirituality needs to be enmeshed with practice now and with analysis to overcome the sort of this liberal hedonic treadmill loggerheads we're at uh and i think it's going 0:43:45 to happen i just don't know if it's good what form it's going to take or whether it's going to be effective that's that's the big those are the big questions as always but i also think it's gonna happen because i've been as i've been talking about it people have talked to me about what they're thinking and a lot of people i know including people who do not even listen to this ***** and have no idea what i'm yelling about on the goddamn internet have come to the same conclusion and are trying to move like graspingly towards that direction and i feel like that's very good i don't know what direction it'll take but so far i have faith that that will that i think people get it i think enough people get it that you could build a kernel of something and that's all we can ask for right now because for the love of god you can't get ahead of yourself numbers are so small getting the people on your side real real challenge and i think people say well we're totally atomized how that's ever you know we're totally pleasure seeking but like the pleasure is getting attenuated very quickly and 0:44:46 that's that's one of the situations that can lead people towards change and i hate i know it's awful to have to depend on individual like awakenings as i have said that's not how change happens in the mass but the traditional methods are kind of i guess it's less a question of like who to appeal to and more a question of what can dialectics defeat the demiurge uh i mean yeah they better they better because that's that's the only thing that could can we get that spiritual awakening by normalizing 0:45:47 psychedelics i hate to do any of that normalizing stuff because one i think it's sort of a trap to say that you can normalize something because then it gives more weight to your individual indulgence and then is warranted by the actual weight of the act and then conversely it provides you with a cudgel like if you hate somebody and they're not doing anything outwardly terrible they're not they're not doing it they're not saying any of the uh the prescribed curse slurs and they're not they're not doing any of the the dog whistles you can say that they're normalizing something bad you need to say like and then you're already halfway there to to righteousness but uh the problem with the psychedelic thing is it's the same problem as like getting it's the same problem in heron and people who think that you can do something like have robin d'angelo struggle session stand racism they both they both assume a subject 0:46:48 who is already halfway to your position they assume a subject who is voluntarily in a room having accepted your certain opening premise that you could then build a psychedelic experience on top of or build a uh a note a recognition of my own racial privilege on top of but you're you're assuming when you're talking about an unbounded population a lot of the assumptions built in our assumptions are based around self-selected groups and when it comes to psychedelics you have to be taking it on purpose and you have to have some sort of purpose to it now not necessarily but it sure as hell makes it a more uh taiping rebellion but instead of jesus we do it with marx you're basically describing the chinese revolution that was that was 0:47:49

the uh that was the chinese communist revolution was the taiping rebellion have i ever fired myself uh someone asked if i have ever fired a gun myself yes i fired a number of guns i mean uh i have fired an elephant gun like i fired a sks which is uh sort of like a knockoff ak-47 banana clip i fired a 454 sewell which is one of the largest handguns or most powerful handguns ***** kicks like a mule almost put my arms over my head shotgun glock bra i'm strapped what shane would i review for doughboys good question i assume they've covered most of them if they haven't done culver's obviously i would do culverts that's a no-brainer but i got to assume they've done covers already if not culvers i would if they have not had somebody on that show to defend arby's i would defend arby's for sure i would do that too ah of course they did culver's in the live show yeah i'm trying to think of another one then another has anyone talked about that dickies place i've never been there it seems weird fast food barbecue restaurant that seems like a we do have a w in america not that many but i remember going to one as a kid oh god rocky rococo garbage oh barf oh god i could do mission barbecue that'd be funny and go to mission bbq i guarantee you that you could go in there without a mask they don't give a ***** fazzoli's there is a fazzoli's in indiana i think it's got to be one of the last ones in america i would love to go to one of the last fazoli's because i went to the zoli's all of the time when i was a kid fazzoli's was a top tier choice that was that was a i remember i have a distinct memory of skipping school with some guys and gals uh senior year getting a car and going to vizzoli's that's how ***** hot that's how i partied in high school ***** this ***** going to eat these thin ass ravioli with like the ketchup sauce on them but they had the ***** they had unlimited breadsticks baby you go up there and they bring them around they had like they had like half-assed table service they'd bring it around and they'd bring you they'd have a basket they'd bring in the the breadsticks oh hell yeah if i could find it for zollies i would absolutely go um yes yes yes yes yes oh man i'm getting prusie and reveries thinking about fazoli's now i guarantee you if i ate it it would be like this is not fit for hogs this is pig slop but uh also another one that was a favorite is this a kid that has gone away now and i think there are still a few are left schlotzky's i remember enjoying their weird bread they had their sandwiches had a very very weird bread the almost unique sort of the way that uh in and out fries are unique among fast food fries and just like with in-n-out fries i like it because it's weird and different and i i remember liking the weird schlatsky's bread and so if there's a schlotzkis i would oh man people are saying shilatsuki's is still good damn it i had a chance to go to schlotzki's a while ago and i talked i said nah i just remember it i remember it as being good and now people are telling me it rips damn it next time i just gotta go yolo i would love to go to publix i've never been never been never spent enough time but i've heard the chicken is very good and i would like to try it god damn i'm i'm gonna oh i'm gonna nug up i think after this 0:53:14 a chicken tender sub see i don't know if i like that idea that just seems like it's too much starch it's like i don't eat the fries and the chicken tenders at the same time i don't like wrap the chicken tender in french fries and eat it why would i want to put a big carb around the fries to me they're sex they're secret zaxby's is another one i would like to yeah i don't think i like it it's like i why am i biting through bread to get to breading nope you have not sold me on the concept of a chicken tender sub i'm afraid i'm sorry i'm just gonna get regular chicken and besides i always take bone in over tendees dandies are fine once in a while 10 days and nuggets are fine if you're in the mood like i've kind of talked because of the dipping sauces but it's because of the dipping sauces that's all beef let's all let's stop ***** ourselves okay all non-bone in fried chicken is about the sauce and it's about what's the easiest way 0:54:17 oh boneless oh great i could stuff this in my mouth fast without having to get around bones if you want to taste the chicken if you're about the flavor you gotta have the bone gotta have bone-in and i'll i so i usually want bone in but once in a while if it's really because i want to dip something in something that's when i'm gonna get a boneless fried chicken item like canes uh not raisin canes or no it is raisin canes but it is not the guy that trump talked to who he loves uh who he thought it was raisin he thought it was raisin like he thought it was raisin like the fruit he thought it was raisin like the fruit because raisin cane i think that's like an old-timey saying from the bible i don't think he had any as a little lord fought leroy and crushed velvet pantaloons in his little gated community in queens i don't think he knew anything about now yeah like uh i think the canes is pretty good it's juicy which is usually the 0:55:20 hard part with wings are worth uh strip tenders especially when they're that thick because those they're relatively thick and it stays juicy and the breading's fine but you stay you come for that sauce and i do think the sauce is good but if the sauce wasn't good i would not raisin herman cain i don't think i mean i know people say wow things move so fast we just normalize things but i really don't think i don't think enough people emphasized the sheer hallucinatory mad fellini-esque uh dark humor of a former presidential candidate a guy who pulled at the top of the heap in the crowded 2012 field for a while and if he hadn't stumbled under the pressure when he was the front runner if he'd been able to hold up a little stronger i think 0:56:21 he had a very good chance at that nomination because he was wildly and uniquely popular in the south people loved him in the south because he was the dr he was a dream for all the white southern reactionaries who vote in republican primaries he was a black guy who said which meant they weren't racist and he really loved god and he hated muslims and he had like that kind of dumb guy thing that they think is charming because they're all and they loved him if they had gotten to the south he might have won this guy goes to a rally to the for the president not even it's not even close to the election it's just as a way for him to get his spirits up because everyone's been saying mean things to him during the covid quarantine and he wanted to have people say nice things to him and people talk about his endless campaigning and his rallies and how oh he's going to oklahoma uh he's going to tulsa uh uh for juneteenth he's he's signaling the alt-right and oh he's going to he's 0:57:23 going look at the days going here and he's trying to what happens with trump is he watches tv all day and yes he watches the people being nice to him on fox but he also watches everyone else be mean to him and it gets him his power his health power levels go down his power bar depletes and the only thing that can really top it off like watching fox does it a little bit is getting a rally and having people say he's good and so for ***** kermit came for no reason and just to own the libs who think that there's really a virus going around he goes masculine to this rally where the highlight was watching the president of the united states during a world defining crisis brag about how he was able to drink a glass of water with one hand and walk successfully down a ***** very na a very slight incline while hooting barbarian slap jaws bang their hooves together and then he ***** died for that he died his ass is dead because he did that because he wanted to give the president a little pick-me-up 0:58:27 because he was was so shattered he did drink that water you did a good job and that corona that's not real corona just puking my just bit right in my face that's not real stuff oh i don't feel so good dead and his ***** twitter account is still up and is posting banal mega ***** about like kamala harris is trying to say that she's a centrist girlfriend you're tripping the that's all of our fates just to be this echoing digital signature created by an algorithm meant to like represent our entire time on earth in a little little pithy little epic uh sayings that just flatten us into ourselves 0:59:30 jobs i had before i was podcaster the longest gig i had was for the number of years i worked at barnes noble i was a cashier i was very frustrated with being a cashier and thankfully i was able to get moved over to the information desk where i helped people find books and that was and then did stocking and stuff and that was good that was probably the best job i had and the longest i held a grad student where i was a ta during my abortive uh my abortive m.a pursuit i worked as i've said it before for regis the company that goes in and inventories retail retail inventory and when i was a kid i was a dishwasher i worked at a grocery store unloading the truck before my back obviously i got to say that somebody asked the most subversive book 1:0:40 i read and i did get it at a barnes noble i saw the title and it just struck me and i ended up buying it when i was in college i think uh so a little older but you know it took me a while to really even think politically it was it's a it's a by a guy who i don't actually agree with very much anymore uh derek jensen the culture of make-believe

CUSHVLOG 61. TOO MANY KARENS!

which is because the thing about him is he's essentially an and prim and i i discount that entire tradition but just in terms of reading something that was so radically at odds with everything i thought i had kind of come to terms with as understanding the world even through like a jaded a relatively jaded like left lens like i wasn't a chut or anything i was like you know i i was a uh i was not a bush fan but it was still relatively uh it's you know it was it was a narrow conception of like why i believe what i believe and it was such a shock reading it and it was such a challenge that i ended up having to like break down and reconfigure a number of things that i'd held his assumptions and even though i don't think that he's right in any kind of like you know uh removed uh objective sense i feel like for me anyway his contribution to my but i would certainly not endorse even i can't even remember what a lot of the stuff in the book was and i probably wouldn't endorse any of it because at this point i don't think i need i need that same thing you know and like that's why it's so hard to recommend books and talk about books objectively is because especially when you're talking about things that contribute to intellectual progression there's times you need something and then you don't need it anymore and then like if somebody else is asking about it and trying to evaluate it well where where are they what do they need you don't know and it's it's subsumed into the into the debate and it and it makes it harder to kind of clarify what you're talking about all right i'm going to uh i'm going to sign off here the fred hampton movie it's probably not going to be good i will say this though uh there's this funny thing of people saying ***** this hollywood movie about uh about fred hampton ***** off but then they'll be like and you know what they did this wrong and it's like hold on a minute what's the problem here you know is this thing categorically to be condemned or is it to be engaged with artistically if it's one or the other you don't have to you don't have to say both you know uh nobody's gonna think you're a sellout if you just engage with the thing as a work of art under capitalism attenuated at every level by that fact but if you want to condemn it condemn it and then just don't talk about its aesthetic qualities what's the point it's beyond it's beside the point you're implying that there is a version of this movie that would have been better and then you're denying the material under pertinent undergirdings of the endeavor of making a ***** film i will say that one thing that so people who are engaging with it artistically i've seen a number of people annoy that it appears to be through the uh point of view of uh the guy who ratted him out that's the fbi informant and not fred hampton uh and i mean the title is kind of a of a clue there it's called judas and the black messiah and people get mad at that and i have to say from a dramatic point of view if if you're just like looking to make a movie i ge there are ways that you can make a movie about fred hampton where he's the protagonist but i think it's a lot harder but there are more there are more artistically the character who stands out as the character who you would follow is him because he's conflicted because he has a dynamic within his character of being torn between uh his self interest and his growing devotion you might say well that's you know giving him that credit is bad because he's a piece of ***** and ***** him if you make any of the characters like that it'll be a bad movie if you make any of the characters as one-dimensional as people on twitter want to make every historical character it's going to suck because fred hampton's going to be boringly perfect and that guy's going to be boringly evil and i have to say that these guys people who say they want a movie were fred hampton's the protagonist you'd have to show flaws and are you ready for that are you gonna how far can they go in conflict in in depicting a con a complex character before you start freaking out that they're doing propaganda and undermining his his legacy like if you if you're sort of stuck with hampton as saint which the title implies yeah we are and i think we are i think given like anxiety of influence and and the public space and people knowing what's expected of them they plan to first stuck with hampton as the saint so then where's the interesting story judas judas much more interesting than jesus and i guess you could try to make like a sainted hampton interesting but it's a what are hot dogs made out of ***** alright guys one more question and then i'm i'm piecing out nugs oh i'll just end with this the uae israel thing i'm wondering i guess it's just evidence of like the lack the fact that the uae essentially doesn't have a public it's got a royal family and a bunch of slaves if they don't have to worry about public opinion the way the saudis do and there and so it's easier for them to just take the the fact that everybody at the diplomatic level knows and everyone who pays attention really to anything knows is that there is a that israel and the gcc countries bahrain uae and uh saudi arabia are uh our allies they might as well be in a defense pact they've got their own nato for the middle east essentially uh and they're doing their own gladio in syria and they have been for the last decade and they're doing conventional like kosovo-style warfare in uh in yemen only much more intensely horrifying uh like they have they have an agreement they're together uh but that's not a thing that like the public in saudi arabia would be able to accept but since there's no public in in the uae i guess the thought was i guess they wanted to do trump a favor like hey trump's looking like he's getting his ass kicked doesn't know what he's doing he needs a win what if he brokers midi's piece i mean remember he sent jared to do that and his came back with something that no one could agree with it was absolutely out of the question and it just died on the table complete disaster another humiliation after building it up so much these guys keep doing that because they keep not realizing how little they actually can do dunning-kruger all-stars a lot of them but here it's like hey millie's piece just like jimmy carter got got uh got got him on the table got him to it's like they're just taking something that was understood uh and making it formal they're just taking the conversations that had to be had like on the non-uh government line can now be done on the on the landline that's it um and it's funny i think it's i more than anything i think it's proof that trump wanted a win and asked them as a favor hey could you guys pretend to like apparently israel's big concession is they're going to stop expanding their illegal west bank settlements they're going to stop doing something that they are already enjoined from doing under international law wow and not even forever slow down yeah no the orb picture tells you all you need to know about those freaks and they're all allied with israel it's all one it's all one block it's a block opposed to the iranian bloc with turkey in the middle sort of the trying to have it both ways the great game baby you got the ant you got the american gcc israel block jordan and whatnot egypt then you've got the the uh you've got iran iraq is a contested point and syria hanging on there and then turkey for a while was pretty much firmly in the u.s saudi camp but they have been over the past half decade after uh they didn't get the results they wanted in syria they had to start intervening more are now sort of playing both sides although they're still going hard to the paint against egypt in uh in libya but that's i mean that's that's about border security libya is right there they want to have make sure that they have uh complete control of whatever government is in that area next to uh next to the egyptian border especially considering that they've been in a low-grade insurgency ever since cece overthrew morsii and killed everybody in the square whoo man this is a long one but i had fun i might might do one more question but i am really craving those 10 d's it's just i have nothing else to do tonight so it's like but i am i'm basically fighting my own hunger oh the guy who wrote the bush the guy who wrote the uh bear about uh the guy the bush guy who wrote about who wrote the novel where a bear is used to have sex with women and like a brothel in japan i believe it was scooter libby let me confirm that i'm not i didn't check that first i didn't cheat i'm pretty sure using my my bush era blog memory i think yeah it was booyah now i remember all that ***** man scooter libby that was the guy there was a time one of the reasons i was immunized i mean one of the many reasons just time and experience being most of them but one of the big reasons i was immunized against russiagate from the beginning immunized against anything having to do with comey or ***** mueller was that that has already happened before in the form of patrick fitzgerald and the ***** plane investigation and that little twerp scooter ***** libby the amount of amount of attention that i gave that guy the amount of psychic energy i put into his fate because i thought it was going to break the whole thing open and they were going to frog march just like joe wilson said they were going to frog march uh karl rove out of the white house and then he was going to flip

oh no i said bugs back here now not that many how many we got got a few shouldn't be around to the virgin chapel fym twitch stream and i've got to stream free to the good people of twitch.com mosquitoes are here took a while but they're here now not that bad certainly not wisconsin level but i'm being reminded of their their needling little noses their demonic uh although i am relatively lucky when it comes to mosquitoes because they bite me and you know it stings when they bite me the way it does anybody but i guess i'm not allergic to whatever this the goo is that they put into the wound that makes people get the little uh red bumps that itch like i can watch it i can watch a mosquito land on me take a little pouch full of blood off and it's nothing ever comes up i never get a rash does anybody else have that i explain that to people they're all baffled saliva uh i know that there's it's it's a common place it's one of those things that people uh think they know is like a fun fact that you could kill all the mosquitos in the world if you could figure out a way to kill them it wouldn't really undermine any ecologies it would be a pure win for everyone because not only do they kill more humans than any other animal thanks to malaria spread and of course now with west nile expanding into the us and marching up the globe it's going to be even more vectors of disease and they also do not provide like the primary food stuff for any other animals because that's usually the argument is ah see you can't get rid of this animal because it's part of a chain there's no animal or key key insect species whose diet is primarily mosquitoes they're they're a uh they're ancillary so if we can get rid of them we could that would be cool uh and that's the kind of thing where you know we're not going to fix climate change but someone will figure out a way to kill all the mosquitoes as they become more of more of a problem after supply chains accelerates that's that's how we're going to manage climate change there will be no huge break that destroys civilization all of all of the like the meta problems emanating are going to be rationalized away and marketized away through some combination of technology and but the main thing making everything worse will just continue to go because there's no alternative to that there's no profitable alternative to that uh someone asked me what blood type

i am and that's an interesting question vis-a-vis the mosquitoes but i'll admit it i don't think i know my blood type i don't think i've ever actually i got one of them bleeding and i'll watch i'll see if anything comes up uh does anyone know if there's a correlation there that'd be interesting to know but yeah i don't know and yeah 0:4:10 that's probably not the kind of thing you're supposed to say publicly anyway but i wouldn't be able to if i if i knew it now i never gave blood because i was terrified of needles for a long time thanks to uh the fact that i went for being a kid who is terrified of needles the way normal people are to a teenager who had every nightmare of needles that ever scared me happen all at once uh i actually had a spinal tap like it's like an exorcist which you are awake for you're fully conscious of that and there's not really an anesthetic uh it's pretty horrifying and just having that happen i was just like kind of i was in shock just because i was so unbelie i was unable to assimilate that this thing i was terrified happening was actually happening to me and so that after that i was just and ever since i've had this i've been got the main like traumatic 0:5:11 elements is i have this fear of medicine and fear of medical implements and also uh hypochondria i spent years vacillating between different conditions that i was certain i had like i was a lot i have uh i have some issues related to the spinal injury that caused cascading you know uh discomforts in the body and over the years i've convinced myself that i'm i've have cancer a bunch of times uh and then when that's no longer viable i have been very sure i was about to have a heart attack and you know the you can always rationalize it like sure you know you're probably not going to die of one of those but odds are in america you're gonna die of one of them right at some point uh so i was in this thing where i was a hypochondriac but i could never really have my fear dispelled because the hospital was just as scary as thinking i was dying the thing i was thinking i was dying of i've gotten over that recently though 0:6:12 like this spirituality to sound hokey has helped has genuinely done what i've i saw it do with other people for most of my life jealousy which has soothed those kind of fears yeah like i don't worry anymore even though i'm older than i've ever been and it got worse with time because i got more aware of you know bodies breaking down uh and just like the longer you're alive the more likely you are to die right just that's the actuarial table at but now i don't feel that way anymore i i mean i when i say about spirituality it's like it's everything i've been talking about like the satori moment the recognition i have now what i what sort of what i've intuited 0:7:13 from reading about people's descriptions of like feeling the divine or something like the idea that there is a presence and that was the big thing that was why i always rejoined a religion for my entire life was my brain doesn't work that way i don't feel anything i don't feel presence and i don't feel that there's anything there but my own voice clanging around in my brain and now i feel a presence it's not of a person

though it's not of an i it's not of a consciousness it's of all consciousnesses the the the veil of maya between me and everyone else and everything else and every time else i'm aware that that is a membrane i'm aware that there's something like vibrating at a different frequency beyond it and that makes a lot of the uh existential nightmare stuff that used to make it hard for me to someone is across across the sink here that's what they call the interior parts of uh of uh like townhouse blocks in in cities like this 0:8:15 you know with apartments and stuff like apartment buildings and townhouses well it's a whole thing and it's all facing outward and the inside is everyone's backyard and that's called the sink i can see a big puff of light smoke like they just elected the ***** pope over there and that means grilling is happening i'm also going to be growing tonight uh having to have an uh having a little fun gonna do some grilling and do some steaks the low end low effort tonight i do have the long term before the summer ends or maybe i think september maybe realistically like like a sort of goodbye to the grill thing i'm going to try to do the yeah less humid too and i'm going to try to do i'm going to try to do the brisket the all-day brisket that's the big project we got to find a butcher and do that but that'll be later i think for the rest of summer for the rest of august or anything anyway i'm but it's a good example of like 0:9:18 the uh the hollowness of capitalism the hollow the hollow value the hollow rewards of this system so the thing behind the thing in the middle of a block an apartment block in new york it's called the sink right and it's divided up by the lot by the areas so this one for example it's a little narrow thing the length of the house and then because i'm in the service quarters i'm in the basement i get a little area here that you've seen and then there's a wall at the other side you've seen at the other side of the uh there's a wall on the other that's right next to the grill that is a much bigger portion for the upstairs neighbors like it's it's got it's almost a lawn and they also have the deck up there but that's because they got more money and so the advantage there is both of us now have this like secluded area where we can sort of have privacy and that's true you know and that has its uses but at the same time for everyone 0:10:20 this entire area is completely broken up and blocked off and i just like to sometimes i imagine because there's a lot of trees not in our backyard but in neighboring yards that are really nice and i'm just imagining if this was like an internal park you know and i just feel like that would be uh that that would be worth that would i think be an addition i think you could have enough privacy like in the area around your home to like do what you would do otherwise like have a cookout or something but then there would also be you could like take a walk there could be like a path in the middle here with the trees and everything as opposed to feeling like i am in a and bunker and that's that it's that thing of like the value the the the because there is a 0:11:22 genuine you know the promises of capitalism are not entirely hollow like like privacy is a uh is an actual thing that has use value in something that people need to be able to negotiate the pressures of dealing with other people but as a totalizing value it is it destroys so much that is vital to the very functioning of the human mind and replaces it with only further indulgence along the axis of isolation i mean that's why infinite jest is the book of the moment because he was he figured out he saw where everything was going like not only just uh not just in terms of how like loneliness was going to take over uh the social order and just strip every one of their souls because they don't know how to relate across the chasm of experienced other people where there see them as equals and not instruments and the terrifying isolation caused by 0:12:23 viewing all people like that but he also predicted uh skype and uh i believe instacart and a bunch of ***** and his president johnny gentle famous crooner is closer than any 90s dystopian vision of the president ever written there is one exception there's only one other thing was there's one other president idea like for a future 90 sci-fi thing that is in my opinion the most perfect for future casting imaginable so there is so robocop has a sequel a robocab has two sequels less said about the third one the better it's not even r-rated directed i believe by frank miller or he wrote the second one i don't know if he directed the third one anyway dog ***** uh it doesn't even have peter weller it's got that canadian guy it literally had a canadian non-union 0:13:24 canadian equivalent of robocop fobo cop more like it zing that's right i said it i called him phobocop okay irvine kirschner the same guy who did uh an empire of strikes back and you know what it's another it's not quite as well the thing is it's not as good as empire strikes back but it's definitely better than its reputation and it's that and a lot of it's the the fun of it is it's actually about like the making of a sequel and my the best sequence in that movie is when they show all of the attempts to make another robocop and they fail because like the guy shows up and he just starts shooting the the doctors and then blows his brains out and one guy pulls this helmet off revealing his screaming skull and then dies just the way that like the the artist the human revolts against the idea of a cash-based sequel but even with all that uh but with that kind of mindset it's it's a good movie uh pressing it in its way it talks about uh detroit being declared bankrupt and then sold to a company which is essentially 0:14:25 what has happened to detroit but there was another there was another screenplay uh for robocop 2 not by uh frank miller but by the writer of the first robocop ed neumeyer and they never ended up using it and i've read it it's online you can find it it's not good uh i will say that it is a it is i mean it's always hard with scripts especially scripts that didn't get made to imagine them in your head but it's there's a lot in it that does not work but there's one thing that's actually kind of just a throwaway that is so perfect that it almost redeems the entire project is that is that so the premise is that robocop gets like ambushed and essentially disconnected like

he gets he gets his plug pulled and he ends up in a warehouse for like 20 years before some scavengers grab him and try to reconnect him for reasons and then he goes to 0:15:26 war and it's and it's it's much it's pit it's pit it's pitched at a much higher dramatic level than either the real robocop two or the first robocop the stakes are much higher it's like the fate of the planet and everything uh which is often thing that happens with sequels and but they mention in in passing the president in this future world and it's bixby snyder and bixby snyder is the name of the i'll buy that for a dollar guy from robocop the guy who's on tv every moment that they're watching television except when it's johnny laser uh and that's essentially what we got we got we have president bixby schneider we have president the star wars sequels aren't good either and edney meyer wrote those too i think the budget has a lot to do with things and 0:16:28 collaboration and yeah you got to give cr verhoeven a lot of credit because newmeier basically his entire career has been writing robocops and starship troopers movies and none of them are as good as the first one and you got to think that verhoeven someone asks an interesting question uh is romance inherently reactionary capital r romance and i would say like anything it's something that needs to be resolved it needs it needs to be stripped of its reaction and it because it emanates from a genuine 0:17:30 desire when that is the desire to transcend and and renounce the rationalization of human life which is the de-sacralization of human life it's not just that but that's one thing that it is and that process well it's necessary if you want to overcome you know the bounds of incredibly limited tribal societies with no understanding of the natural world or ability to harness its resources which you do if you want to create a human a self-aware species if you want to if you want to immunize the world spirits which you do i mean it's not even a question of wanting to it's inevitable so de-saccharization has to happen because you have to be able to move in a world of objects not in a world of gods and and you know powerful powerfully enchanted symbols you have to be able to to strip them to their nes to their uh utility but the process has to be managed by a a intensifying heart elsewhere and romance is 0:18:32 that heart and in the wrong hands in the wrong moment it turns into fascism if it attempts to suborn rational to to the uh attempt to enforce a a purely emotive uh a non-structured libido that's not good that's where you get the fashion but like there needs to be a sacral there needs to be a recognition of the insufficiency of the material world and that's and the i got ***** i got one second here i might have to i might have to log off but i'll log right back on i got a message i gotta respond to sorry about the ads yes i've been replaced by q anon clone the proofs so by the 0:19:50 way i got bit by i got i got stung by a mosquito or bitten sucked off by a mosquito about uh what i'd say about 10 minutes ago i got nothing i got nothing i got no know does that mean that i'm the messiah probably not but until i meet somebody else who has that same condition i'm gonna have to assume it means that in some way i have been chosen by the cosmos to complete a great destiny no i'm kidding i'm normal how long does it take i kind of assumed oh man i'm wondering if there's something i could spray out here to get these guys away from us i don't want to make the grilling i'm still rocking the lacroix gotta finish these before i get a new one fingers crossed hard by the way guys i got uh i got chicken nuggets last night as i promised i would and i used my uh gochujang the the pepper paste as a dipping sauce i uh mixed in a little ketchup which is uh a that and garlic is is the recipe for the sauce they put on the uh uh the spread of q anon it's inevitable man i mean everyone has to resolve these contradictions everyone has to resolve the reality of bourgeois democracy losing its legitimacy in real time uh and and the flight to like a a narrative a a compensatory narrative that allows you to believe that someone's in charge someone's in control and that you don't have to do anything it's it's going to be incredibly powerful especially among the petty bourgeois the the most the most alienated portion of the ***** economy in terms of of the society in terms of uh like being alienated from each other and alienated from the social basis for fascism and q is is a is a is a it's a uh it's a backstage mission legend or whatever the hell they call it in german it's it's the november criminals all over again uh only the thing is is that the the nazi pitch and this is why fascism is not a useful term in my opinion to describe what we're going through so compare q anon to the nazi doshas legend backstab myth right uh the the nazi uh history history of world war one was brave powerful german empire was in a position to win defeat the horrible uh the the dirty anglos and the and the uh jacques uh when these uh politicians these sdp politicians spd politicians these triple parentheses politicians rose up and stabbed them in the back uh but that was just the first part of the narrative the second part of the narrative and we have to punish them join the nazis come out into the streets march uh vote beat up a communist maybe shoot one uh and what does q anon say q anon says we live in this decaying ***** realm that's supposed to be the greatest country in the world because our the institutions of governance and and social control uh are ruled by a cabal of of child worshipping monsters uh not they have the same otherness of the of the jewish of november criminals but because anti-semitism has become less of a cohesive social expression and now more of like a fringe alienating thing it gets turned into essentially stuff that was taken from uh culture the same way that anti-semitism is drawn from like folk european culture vocal european culture was suffused with anti-semitism because the jews were not part of the community that's the that's the flip side of community and why community is such a ***** fraught concept is because it's unity but it's also

unity against and that is why the fight that's why there's a teleology to marxism is because a global self-conscious human species has transcended between self and other between group and out group uh and but if in the absence of that you have tribalism and you have fear of other and so the jews were always an excuse for why things went wrong because it's easier to take it out on someone else than it is to deal with an internal problem if you're on the top of the pyramid or the bottom it's still there so anti-semitism is a folk european uh folk european concept that could then be channeled to explain away the the incongruity of the mighty german army losing a war to a bunch of frogs and we don't have that that's not really i mean it's part of the firmament and like the more gut evocative or as widespread as european anti-semitism was it's now been transferred by culture by by our uh by our hollywood uh dreamweavers ironically enough into these archetypes which these guys have decided this is the bad guys and they're why we don't have a good country and but the difference is the next step for them is not and now we have to stop them we have to punish them it's enjoy the show watch what happens next it's yeah there's bad guys in charge of everything this is but the institutions are not bad the institutions are not that it produced this outcome are not irredeemable because those institutions are institutions i have a lot of emotional and financial in a lot of cases commitment to no there are still there is still uh there's an immune system that has been activated by us and by donald trump and if we let him do his job buy gum we're going to ***** uh we're going to take care of him but not by us doing anything we get to watch we and we get to interact we get it's basically a giant game of goo blues clues you get to follow the clues but it's up to steve to ***** like actually grab the thing and that's why fascism is not what we have because you need a society you have to have a social dimension to politics to be activated for fascism to be an operative concept and and that's the thing that abs the fascism concept obscures when we're trying to figure out what the ***** is going on because it assumes a public and we don't have one and if you assume a public it leads you to incorrect conclusions about what to do next because you're making assumptions about organizational capacity that are not true we don't we don't have the social fabric necessary to sustain or require that all we need is the ***** technology of authoritarianism which is what we have oh like you need this much you need ex this is the amount of authoritarian control you need in a society where bourgeois democratic norms have been stripped away by crisis and can no longer sustain the social uh friction caused by our uh by exploitation of capitalism because there's no more money to lubricate the exchange we're grinding gears here it's pure extraction we're being proletar we're being we're going from being proletarianized to being reinsurfent under techno feudalism and it's like the mach the chassis is buckling under that reality what do you do well you've got to have a certain amount of repression you have to have a repressive apparatus to maintain enough of a social bond to keep these people in the positions as consumers and workers that we need them to be so this is it and it's a mixture of human inputs and political legitimacy and technology and in the 1930s like the ratio is mostly human political input because the political spirit is engaged everyone's political they just got democracy in in germany for christ's sake at that point uh everyone was the vast majority of people imagine themselves as political vectors and specifically the working class all communists or uh or social democrats considered themselves part of a political project and lived politically and had a political uh and that meant that the government required a political legitimacy and fascism was a mechanism to to put to procure political legitimacy for capital in in the realm by adopting a lot of the language that's why they call themselves socialists that's why there's a red in the banner they actually said why do you want it red the communist flags are red and i think it was hitler said or it might have been anton drexler said we want to out herod herod like they're red we're redder because beginning at the end of the day fascism stripped of all of the confusing ***** and the and the loaded emotional stuff and the argument about like is it is it the theory or the practice before it was anything it was a sales pitch that's what distinguishes fascism every other political uh ideology that dominated european democracy at that point from from socialism to liberalism to arch reaction embodied a class perspective a specific class or in the case of the center party religious perspective some acts an axis of identity that cut against capital because very few people saw themselves as capitalists not the way people sell themselves as farmers and workers and so where's the mass constituency for for capital fascism emerged the guys who created it guys like hitler and mussolini were con artists first and foremost they had no real beliefs they saw a need in the marketplace and they filled it post-facto with the first post-modern political the self-consciously post-modern political movement designed as a sales pitch to an electorate in order to capture enough people in the in the in the space of the public sphere to confer confirm political legitimacy on capitalism in crisis which is what it did the current model now where we're living in this same amount you need the same amount relative size right of repression almost all of it is technology now there's barely any public space the public sphere has been completely deracinated and depoliticized and destroyed by suburbanization by the long labor piece uh weakening class bonds to racial conflict everything you could name to television to the internet all of these things together uh have stripped us of a social fabric and therefore stripped our institutions of the need for a certain degree of public political legitimacy that they used to have the legitimacy is now just stark power in the form of our police power and our military so that means that nothing there is no need for that pitch you don't need to pitch anything the extent the the the mask will slowly fall but at every level it will be legitimized by process and then reinforced by our techno authoritarian systems of control at no point will it intersect with uh someone asked for a good book on buddhism uh there's a couple actually my friend shout out to my friend john uh who's who can he had a very similar experience to me before i did and has been a buddhism for longer than me uh when i first had my moment he helped me hook me up he got me a couple of great books uh uh tick the hans the heart of the buddhist teachings and mindfulness in plain english which is apparently a textbook for school kids in thailand and is a very good entryway to the practice of like meditation and uh and essentially trying in any way just shut your ***** mind off which is the hardest thing in the world for me anyway it's insanely difficult and i need help i mean at this point chomsky has ran out of things to say for 30 years because he does not have in fact a dialectical understanding of history so all he can do is keep ringing the same dinner belt keep saying you got to vote for a democrat because the republicans are nihilistic well the over time the democrats by embodying the the values they do and partially the reason they do that continually is because there's no pressure at the bottom for them to change because their votes the votes of voters uh are being held hostage by the party because of the very moral rubric that chomsky endorses like chomsky tells them you have to vote for democrats because of the moral question because as distinct objects the democrats are better than the republicans on some scale that that is idealism and it is garbage the reality is because the democrats fear nothing from their base and fear no rebellion fear losing no real votes from their base as long then can continue to be the party that drifts rightward with the republicans and in fact accelerates the republican push right because if the democrats push right like as a triangulation strategy that means that the republicans have to go further right even independent of like the natural uh flow that pushes them right they get accelerated even farther right by the democrats accommodating them they're connected all these things are in connection with another they're not discreet things and that's why i don't really have any use for chomsky anymore but that doesn't mean he's bad or that like his classic works aren't worth reading or anything because everything isn't all or nothing it's all on a gradient because everything's connected to everything else so you cannot cut something off from its connection and determine it all to be all of one thing now you can make 51 judgment which is what we all do and need to do for everything because things do boil down to yes no questions and binaries but that answer is not complete this is all of this and this is all of that of course if the democrats lose of course they'll go to the right i mean look how far right they are now look at look at how the democrats went from humoring people on medicare for all to essentially curb stopping anybody who even mentions the concept like remember when uh when obama pushed uh the aca as a first step towards socialized medicine as something that they could be built on now half of these ***** people think that socialized medicine is racist or something but of course that means they're going to get push they're going to get pushed further and further and further to the left on social issues that will of course happen but only at the realm of rhetoric and symbol that's the thing that's important to remember is that everybody talking about this ***** forgets that when you're referring to corporate and major party uh co-optation of social issues they're doing it at the level of symbol and costume and if they aren't that doesn't help either because none of these problems can be resolved at the level of symbol or at the level of social issue because you have to make material changes to generate new social relationships that are more equal see somebody somebody points out well fascism if fascism is as you have said colonial efforts being brought inward bologna methods of control being brought into it isn't that fascism no yes but that is a ***** that's a element of a greater project and to me you have to strip like capitalism and crisis from fascism as a response to capitalism in crisis i think capitalism and crisis necessitates as i've said increased authoritarianism resolving contradictions through force by by abolishing the play act the kabuki of the political process that is no longer affordable like it's like i was talking about how you don't see squibs or real guns in movies it's because the the the line item the amount of money they need on return on this stuff means it's not affordable bourgeois democratic niceties at a certain point become unaffordable and then you have to resolve that because you still have a public to deal with who are used to a certain degree of niceties they you know die buy a girl dinner first and with them being gone they have to be replaced with something and colonial methods of control are going to be part of it because that's where the state learns how to coerce in the absence of any kind of uh local political legitimacy that's where that's where the st a state that is bound by in its uh core like the like uh i would say even early in like uh early colonial england was to a degree like they had the purging democracy that was post-post uh english civil war uh certainly post-revolutionary france and definitely the united states they have at their center like a a a basic political culture because there is a basic political legitimacy being distributed through a social order even if it's exploitative as they all are there's still a hegemony a buy-in at every level colonies especially colonies of like invasion and and occupation are zones where the authority is exercised but there is no corresponding political identity and political legitimacy just given to that authority by the people it's just naked force and so when political when the political facade of the core uh capitalism is no longer affordable is dissolved away in the acid of crisis then you got to bring back these instruments and they've obviously been flowing there over time as as the facade has gone away but it accelerates with time fascism in my opinion the thing that's useful as a as a historical and political concept is that political project and i would say that focusing on the term focuses on us on an understanding of the i think that made sense right that i've 0:40:29 been trying to get at something with that and i feel like i finally got it out of there i felt like i pulled a sliver out of my thumb or something i the thing is is somebody's asking like is it historically contingent or is it ideological it's both everything is both the question is what's what elements are operative in the current moment you're looking at through it through the lens of i would say the ideology of not of fascism is relatively uh second order of importance more important is its political efficacy as a concept to the current moment i believe it is linen it's very nice this is one 0:41:35 of my favorite summer shirts yeah it has an ideology but the thing is because it was a sales pitch before it was an ideology it's inherently incoherent it's it's just a death drive turned into a party platform and that is why it's so hard it's so shifting because that makes it culturally contingent that means the ideology is culturally shaped in a way that isn't true necessarily with other ideologies because it is first and foremost a channeling of native cultural emanations of alienation specifically from like the dominant middle class strata as it encounters economic conflict and ah the downshine with the linen is that it always feels like it always kind of looks 0:42:36 uh really recently laundered and you get like the curled up the bacon but it's it's a it's a chill out outfit people are telling me that you could be the ottomans and sieve i absolutely want to see what i can do with that because i don't really think they could walter scheible is pretty persuasive that they couldn't have taken europe but in a video game if i'm good enough i bet i could do it also i i i'm a big fan of just the whole like battle for the mediterranean so also i would imagine i'd like to be the the serene republic itself and see if i could create like i could write could i could i from venice start capitalism in 1400 instead of 1800 like just get that puppy going let me maybe we literally would have flying cars or the earth would be a completely okay 0:43:44 someone said yeah that seems more of a universal universalist thing but that's a good one i was thinking of like different things to shoot for and i like get create capitalism in europe and that's it's it's the ottomans are a big reason that venice declined and ended up being sort of a prefigurative model and not the beginnings of capitalism because it was the reef it was trade it was the reflow of the redirection of trade to the northern tier that helped jump started in the low countries and and the uk but also legitimately the the the culture wasn't ready for it because the the technology didn't exist to to yeah i know i mean i mean there's no there was no other way for venice 0:44:46 to go i mean that's that's why these things are all kind of you know bad history because they they make you assume conditions that didn't obtain and undermine like the fixedness of things how like you really don't have a lot of options you really

don't have a lot of choice uh in any moment uh but in a video game hey maybe i can people are also telling me to play victoria someone told me that victoria is the most realistic because it's got the it's in the most material is because it's got the most uh fixation on creating an economy and sustaining like an industrial production honestly that kind of sounds boring come on i'm playing a video game just give me a country to click on and so i can click on another guy and like i also would like to see if i could prevent the uh reformation from happening for sure get a habsburg universal hegemony going i played kaiser rock i actually went on left trigger and played kaiser like a while ago and it was i was terrible but the thing is i don't think anybody really knew how to play it i would need experienced players with thing is though if you end the reformation but it doesn't change the fact that there's this trade trade thing in the northern tier of europe even if it doesn't get called the but maybe it's a different version maybe it's restrained maybe it's in a horse maybe it's in teasers in a way that protestantism wasn't and maybe it goes in a more humane direction i i mean obviously towards armageddon towards annihilation towards barbarism but maybe at a chant or maybe at a saunter instead of a jaunt i mean i think that's really all you can ever talk about with counterfactuals is are you like are you lessening over time the impact of a process not changing it completely because the flow is just not you can't pick out the thing that does it because it's all bounded together it's all it's all it's all it's all rhizomatic as i hate as a term that is always fun to say to get shittiest founding father okay i like shittiest because it doesn't imply the historical judgment that i don't like making like good or bad shitty is a personal trait and that you can talk about you could you could talk about his historical figure like is he an ***** is this guy a piece of ***** that you could talk about all day whether they were good or bad especially if they were very consequential now you're you're mixing your categories up like you're trying that's what 90 of conflict comes down to is that you've got like the meta spiritual dimension of something that is personal and then you have the uh the material fully determined uh uh relationship of items to one another and one emanates for the other but they that but the judgment you use for one is not the one you use for the other one uh but i'd say the shitty is just like personally i don't like him is jefferson he just seems like the biggest like just smug posing prick just i mean obviously there's the cheap uh there's the cheap irony of him writing the declaration of independence while owning slaves but not only that the way he wrote about slavery the way he tried to like self exercise like exert exercise himself from the moral uh question of it just the um and the way he was a slave owner too like he was uh given money i believe in lafayette it was either lafayette or kosciuszko might have i think it was kosciuszko uh kozushko's uh was of course you know a polish noble who'd fought with the americans during revolution it was no new

jefferson and he died and he he left a substantial portion of his uh state to jefferson uh who was always broke but the condition of the will was that he freed the slaves and he didn't do it he took the money and he didn't do it and it's like this guy and it's not like he was hard scrabble he just had extravagant tastes he loved wine and he loved collecting books and he it wasn't it was it was the there was no other conditions to it it was just pure a sacrifice of any moral consideration on an altar of just purely personal sensual indulgence it's about as bad a moral also the yeoman farmer ***** 0:50:1 jacked me off forever just a complete fantasy no relationship to the to reality no relationship to the wheel of history and its inevitable turning uh just just this pure moralistic idealistic notion of like well cities are bad and have bad things in them and and and farms are good and have good things in them as though these things are not interconnected and and and require one another and therefore moral and is of course this brilliant idea like oh what about a yeoman republic where everybody is a small farmer entirely predicated on the fantasy of continual expansion which you can't tell and the thing about that is that you could say hey they didn't know any better first of all jefferson knew better because he knew how big the country was he literally was one of the only guys who actually knew because he sent lewis and clark out there after he bought half the ***** thing and the other is that other people knew what this was going to do to us john quincy adams in his uh diaries talks very 0:51:2 much about how like the the westward expansion is going to destroy the fabric of this country the soul is going to be eaten out of it from within by this westward expansion by this ceaseless demand for and supply of export exportable land takeable land uh conquerable land uh whereas the rest of these virginia dynasty ***** are just like what no everybody gets a farm it's fine no social issues will ever emerge we'll all be great conflict schmonflicked even though schmuck it's like hamil i'm not snorting uh how can you guys not understand the difference in sound come on or that i'm not like moving my head up you got to do the head thing right if i was going if i was doing coke on stream which i would not i think i'm done i'm not i don't do coke uh i would every time i did it i would put on a manish boy by when he waters and go 0:52:3 into the camera you can climb a mountain you can see in the sea coke is a bad drug very very no use at all for anything garbage the junk food of drugs and i mean when you consider its uh ecological footprint and the amount of violence that it engenders just all around thumbs down on i think cocaine must be popular i mean i wonder 0:53:7

why people like it really i think some people just aren't like confident enough in their opinions to state them until they're suited like they have to have their they have to be like have a button press that says you know tell your ideas some of us just have the confidence to just say our ideas to anyone oh this is an interesting one who is the most cringe president that's a good question i gotta i gotta think back through here

i would say from the modern perspective and maybe even at the time it's got to be nixon due to his uh his raw need right because that's what cringe is you're cringing with embarrassment you're cringing because you're imagining how bad it would feel 0:54:8 if you had said that right that's why you're cringing and nixon his entire prospect presentation was this hang dog uh very kind of self-consciously uh self-pitying style and then of course he he he debates with nick with kennedy and just gets trounced because he looks like a sallow loser and then he does things like after he lost the 1962 gubernatorial race to pat brown he just vents to the media and he goes you guys won't have dick nixon to kick her out anymore i mean and then he had to resign the only guy ever to do it embarrassing oh god can you imagine just giving it up every instinct in my body rebels against the notion but i must step down of course the guy had wanted to be pre all these guys they've only ever wanted to be president he gave it up because of how badly he ***** up and the whole time sweating five o'clock shadow talking about his mother my mother is a saint george w bush george 0:55:13 h.w bush also very cringe because one turner and one termers are all cringe carter's cringe poor martin van buren as much as he was a political genius is kind of cringe the guy built the democracy around the the figure of andrew jackson and then he gets turfed out after one term because the ***** uh because of a depression that started under jackson and then spends the whole time getting derided as a little fancy lad with silk cufflinks and fine wines sitting in the white house even though he was the guy who invented the democracy the democratic party originally founded around yeoman masculinity and some ***** wig the party of the party of church boys and and financiers the the citified party gets this guy to come in from a war uh guy come from the from the from the uh war with the natives which is exactly the kind of thing that democrats waged unceasingly to keep the the mob at bay with land and he ***** says hi we're up in a hard i grew up in a log cabin and drank hard 0:56:15 cider what did you do you little fancy lad and it worked like the mush like the rush of mighty water all the country through it is the ball i'm rolling on for tippecanoe and tyler too and with it will beat little van van van is a used up man damn it nobody remembers anything about martin van buren but maybe they heard that song van is a used up man i mean that's a ***** diss the guy was a ***** political genius the guy invented the modern political party basically from scratch from the ruins of the of the of the of the the arrow of good feeling and under the nose of poor john quincy adams who thought he was living in a post-sectional america can you believe 0:57:16 it van buren saw no no no this system this conflicts they're going to be resolved through political dreams they're going to be resolved along party lines they're going to be resolved factually the dream of a non-function non-factional democracy in a capitalist system where all uh relationships produce uh conflicts and contradictions

that have to be resolved will not involve party conflict foolish yes trump is not cringe not yet anyway although he's getting there i gotta say if he loses he'll be cringe the whole thing will be cringe retroactively but he's like the more it looks like he's losing the more cringe he is it's honest like he's not only uh i don't know how he would wanna it's interesting this is like a good psychological experiment here like a good or a good it's like psychological thought experiment like this is a heisenberg thing so i really feel like as biden has sit there sat there at the high poles certainly before the whole like now with the post office thing everyone's convinced trump's going to win and they've already basically admitted to themselves it's going to happen which 0:58:17 means when it happens no one's going to do anything because we've all essentially reconciled ourselves now to oh he's going to steal the election by by closing all the uh post offices that means when he does it we're all going to be okay with it because we're already okay with it because we're letting it happen in front of us i'm not blaming anyone for that i'm just saying that's what's happening so before that though when it looked like biden was going to win trump's posts appeared lamer they didn't have the fire they didn't have the home it seemed he seemed more desperate he seemed less sure of himself but was that him responding to the reality of the of the of the the presidency maybe slipping away from him or more importantly him losing something and making him a loser which is all he really cares about or do i only perceive it that way because i think that he is how could i this is why we all need to get together this is why we need to overlap our lacuna because i can't answer that question definitively about myself no one can it is only through the the the stacking of experience that 0:59:19 we can find a commonality and then like pierce a put a needle through it and find core out something close to the truth or closer to the truth that any one of us is going to get to by themselves obama obama the thing is he it worked i don't know if you can ever call it president cringe when he cruises through two terms i mean he got his ass kicked but did he care like all the stuff that he got his ass kicked on it's not stuff that he cares about what he cares about is god two terms is cool hangs out with hollywood celebrities gets to eat the baby brains with all the other guys hard to imagine truman can't be cringed because there's no more epic moment than the 1948 election holding up holding up the truman you will not beat that for ownage that lyndon johnson also very cringe that's a hell of a cringe spell there and 1:0:25 of course of course it comes after i would also say that mckinley and garfield are cringe because they're the presidents who got assassinated but nobody remembers which is brutal that's that's like absolutely they're not here to cringe but we get to cringe at the thought of being that even though we wouldn't know because like you think about assassinated presidents it's lincoln and ***** jfk and they have all those things in common right oh lincoln's secretary was named kennedy kennedy secretary

was named lincoln kennedy got shot in a lincoln ford lincoln lincoln got shot in a ford's theater uh losers i would say john quincy adams is was cringe in his lifetime but is now uh andrew johnson was was cringe in that he would do things like go on 1:1:29 drunken rants i mean he was shit-faced at his inauguration which was you know ad hoc in front of a judge because the president just been shot but he was hammered he gave a speech he gave an impromptu speech it was filled with retributive bitterness and resentment because he was super self-conscious of the fact that he was a but he also pissed off he like he was able to single-handedly like derailed reconstruction to the horror of basically the entire political class of the the the winning country like we won that ***** and the party that won it was in charge of the entire legislature and couldn't do anything or couldn't do a lot of the stuff i wanted to do because this ***** cornpone ***** was hooting a jug in the white house uh so that made him base 1:2:30 the fact that he was able to exert that kind of power in the face of unified opposition almost jimmy carter was incredibly cringe hey everybody there's a terminal crisis of capitalism happening we cannot consume at the rate we used to uh you guys just need to all wear sweaters and feel bad about yourself for being so materialistic and and everyone's gonna see the importance of that and they're gonna give me they're gonna pat me on the back for being straight with them that was for like five minutes people did he got a big bump after that speech people forget that but then at the end of the and then the hostage crisis happened and it was like oh yeah you're just a big yeah uh carter was a complete uh psycho did you guys know this he did not have a chief of staff for his first two years in office he was essentially his own chief of staff chief of staff is one of the most uh intense jobs in washington very few people 1:3:31 do it for more than uh two years unless they have like no family like andy card i think was uh uh secretary or secretary of state uh chief of staff he was bush's chief of staff for the full second term but he had he was like an incel he had no wife he had no kids it's usually two years and he was president and chief of staff for the first two years of his term uh wow nutcase uh yeah i know carter sold everyone a good bill of goods carter was obama and the reason he's cringing obama isn't is because obama got that second turn baby can't ***** no phase can't see him got that second term carter got the boot because the forces allied against him in the wrong order booyah out of here he sucked and he he got people in because he convinced people that he 1:4:32 was a good person that he was a good human being and that that's what mattered because everyone had been horrified by nixon and because we cannot systematize anything because we have to personalize everything that's what this culture does nixon's evil had to be described in personal terms his personal personality and his personal wickedness and that meant that the problem of the lack of trust we now had in our political institutions it's not because gas has you know gone up 100 it's not

because every uh factory in the company country is already starting to shut down uh that that you know things cost more and and people are making less uh no no no that has nothing to do with it it's because we have evil people in charge and if we get a good guy in there he'll be good and the thing is is that that was also a carter thought carter thought he was a good person he wasn't lying and that's why people believed him he was not selling people some fraud about how he was a great guy he really thought he was a great guy and tending his moral garden was the only thing he really cared about and that meant that when he was confronted with the crisis of uh you know of stagflation his answer was well uh we need to be virtuous and that starts with me and one of the most virtuous things i could do is start imposing limits on uh what's politically possible in terms of spending and tell people that hey you know we're the democratic party and our job is to provide you with the goods of capitalism you don't get any of that they still get to keep all the gooker the corporations are still in charge of everything they still run your life and they demand your money and they get all the profit but you're going to get less money and you should you should you should just fill that hole with spirit i'm not going to give you even an idea where to get any of that read some for christopher lash or go to church i don't ***** know uh and it's virtuous of me to level with you and you know what if i lose power if i get out of office it's virtuous too and carter losing was obviously kind of like maybe not at the time but in retrospect it's probably one of that sicko's favorite moments of his life is losing because he feels like he now can in his mind believe that he uh did what all christians are called to do and that is imitate christ in his life he was he was crucified all right guys i'm outta here that should do it right hello hey guys how you doing we're back quite overcast day but not humid it's a miracle it's a miraculous occurrence it's all cloudy and and gray 0:1:5 but the air is not thick like a swollen sponge not bad oh no i got a cord i got a cord flip here oh dear i got a situation there we go measure twice cut once oh somebody says their entire state is burning is that colorado yeah that good if you've got trees uh in your state you're in trouble but that's also where where the air gets made so it's kind of a where are you going to run center man where are you going to run 0:2:6

i don't think there's anywhere to go so i talked last time a little bit about uh q anon and i was thinking some more about q anon and how q anon really is they call they say they call themselves a great awakening right they say that explicitly they genuinely are if you think about it you could you if you wanted to squint through the right aperture you could call them the third great awakening of american protestant christianity because you had a first great awakening in the colonial era when uh people were coming to grips with the fact that they were entering into totally new social relationships uh in in in ways that they'd never expected uh or had come to you know uh had been acculturated to uh and and that needed to be reconciled and so you saw this huge intense uh efflorescence of of religious piety to sort of deal with the 0:3:7
dislocations of creating a new structure for social living the second great awakening happened uh at the dawn of the industrial age uh centered as i talked about before on the stream and the erie canal area the spots in the in the yeoman farming heartland of new york that were being infiltrated with this this commercial culture that was antithetical to everyone's understanding of the social formations that they sort of come to terms with and so another explosion of religious piety came up to kind of re to uh to reassess and restructure the relationship between uh the conditions of of a industrializing america and religion mormons who joseph smith being part of that uh burned over district movement being the ones who perfected it the most the ones who took it to the farthest and i think if you think of the way that the 0:4:9 way q anon is structuring itself specifically and now apparently they're kidnapping people's children because they're free now they're now they've taken family court which has been an incredibly fraught area and a huge uh nexus of alienation and uh and conspiracy theory and and and hostility towards conventional post-60s cultural norms father's rights movement well not only is your ***** wife and the ***** judge you know they're not just taking your kids because they're uh because they're damn feminazis it's because they're going to have them be molested by the evil lizard people in charge it adds an extra level to that to that narrative so they're getting more intense they're getting more popular we've got them in congress now there's going to be at least two q people in congress with the start of the next district next uh the next congress so that's awesome and they call themselves a great awakening and you could really look at it as a third great awakening because if the second great 0:5:10 awakening helped create the protestantism that led to prosperity gospel which is sort of the closest thing you could come to an american theology if you want to say like what's the american theology regardless of any specific you know doctrinal issues it's prosperity gospel but now we're in the era of lack of prosperity gospel like there's no more prosperity so how do you square that and their answer is with this hugely you know baroque narrative that that rescues the the holy parts of what they think of as america from the corrupt parts and and and joins them to try to purify themselves through observation that's why it's the third one that's why it's that's why it's the pringle one it's the one where we're already de-rascinated too much to turn it into a social movement partially because christianity has gone from sort of the text of social uh relationships to the subtext because we've secularized the culture and of course 0:6:13 these guys aren't going to do anything they're not they mostly just go to rallies but i mean if you think of those as like and what's my favorite thing about it is that i've talked about how cue is gnostic you know like we all are in terms of seeing the world as a as a fallen and deformed thing built by evil that keep us from the real thing as a way to make sense of the contradictions of life and they are the cue starts with the premise right there's the real america and then there's this deep state that just deforms it but then trump will come and stop them trump will save us trump will bring about the end times but like with any millennia uh uh uh religious tradition which christianity always was early christians thought that the world was gonna end in their lifetime uh the revelation of saint john is something that was supposed to happen in the lifetime of the people who were gonna read it and so christianity 0:7:15 has from the beginning been able to constantly adapt to the non-appearance of the messiah and the way that and narcissism is one mechanism and with the the q anon people they have now created they're now in the process of creating like a two-layered uh simulation like a matrix within a matrix because trump's in power but things aren't changing how do you explain that one way you explain it and something i don't think that q has ever said about said but this is of course you know we're talking about we're well beyond the actual uh text these are the people arguing it like the council of nicaea or something long afterwards uh there is a theory that oh yeah all the bad people a lot of them have been arrested and in fact executed but they've been replaced by holograms or clones or robots so that no one knows because the moment isn't right to reveal it well if that goes on long enough and if trump gets reelected especially and things don't change eventually the entire deep state and the entire apparatus of sicko pedophiles who run our lives will have been replaced by synthetic doubles they will still be in charge they will still be eating children but they'll just be a simulated version of it because that's the only way that you can reconcile the persistent failure of the apocalypse to arrive and that's why yeah there's going to be a lot of uh there's going to be a lot of violence i don't i think q is uh q's going to get violent for sure but not in an organized way not black shirts in the streets uh it's gonna be just a bunch of uh a bunch of psychos just who are already loose in the shoes for a number of reasons and who get a final push by this narrative this this all-encompassing but it can never be the source of like an actual movement because it's it's very existence in the form of it are determined by the lack of movement and the lack of even people conceiving of creating a movement that's why they create q anon that's why they grasp to it because of a fundamental understanding of their own powerlessness are there any good john wilkes booth conspiracies i mean well technically that was a conspiracy i mean there was there were conspirators they were hanging out in mary's uh sarat's boarding house they had a whole plan one of them was going to kill lincoln one of them was going to kill andrew johnson i wish that ***** had succeeded one of them was going to kill grant uh and hilariously i think it was george azeroth tries to kill uh henry william seward in his in his bed but he had a neck he had a neck injury in a in a carriage crash and he was wearing a neck brace and when he went to stab him in the neck he couldn't he couldn't get through and he ended up just running away and the guy was supposed to shoot grant uh just chickened out but if you want to talk about something that uh you know behind that that hasn't been revealed i'd say the most mainstream is that booth was working as an as an agent of the confederate government and there is some proof there is some evidence that he had contact with the confederate government and they were aware of his operation when he was planning to kidnap lincoln and that they might have provided him with with material support to do it there's no proof though that they were aware of his decision to just go with the decapitation strategy but it's not outside the realm of possibility if you want to get wackier there's a theory that uh edwin stanton the um lincoln's combative secretary of war was actually behind the whole thing and it was because he wanted to become president uh and there's not much evidence for that except for the fact that the telegram lines out of telegraph

lines out of dc mysteriously uh failed right after the assassination uh which people say oh that's like that's pretty coincidental and then there's the fact that uh there's a number of pages removed from uh booth's diary when it was recovered and no one knows what was on them uh and people build out of that the i actually the idea of lincoln getting kidnapped is kind of fascinating because he is one of like those great souls you know like lincoln's one of those characters you read about him in history you read his words and you read what people say who knew him one of those guys and and i gotta say as bad as it is politically and and historically uh the the spielberg lincoln movie really got that better than anything that his just like his uh his ability to disarm uh and you know it's interesting to imagine him interacting with a uh with with kidnappers who hated him and then maybe like trying to talk them into maybe seeing how that would be sort of like a it would be like a reversal of the ransom of red chief only this guy's too cool for us to kidnap he's too awesome but they were uh i mean they were foaming uh secessionist scumbags so it probably wouldn't matter but it might have been it's a funny thing to think about another thing that actually happened that i like to think about with lincoln is that after martin van buren the little magician the old fox of kinderhook uh or the red fox of kinderhook was defeated he went on a western swing uh to see the western states and and uh meet local political leaders and he went to springfield and he met a young whig state senator uh or state legislator named abraham lincoln and they ended up spending the night together getting drunk uh i like to imagine that that seems like it'd be a fun convo and the thing is is that they were on the other side like at that point uh lincoln was a wig who were def like their entire party existed to oppose the democracy that van buren had yeah they just went they scissored like nuts ooh the oh this is a good one the most demonic city in america this might take the rest of the stream ***** ooh all right well dc is the obvious number one that's number one with a bullet that's number one that's the obvious pick so we have to mention it but we have to also go beyond it because we want to be interesting with this dc literally laid out by freemasons using a cult a sacred geometry in architecture like ***** hawks more in london to like inscribe ritualized power onto the land on a cleared stretch of ***** uh of of of swamplands built by ***** compelled labor of slaves the home to uh which is like the the the the brain stem of of a all-world-consuming uh and world-destroying monstrosity of a and also it is incredibly unpleasant to be in they call it the city of magnificent distances but that what that means in practice is that in the summer you have just giant fields of dust that just fill the air as you walk trying to get from one thing to the other uh and of course all you know the entire federal area is is all in this honestly pretentious and and embarrassing and kind of cringe neoclassical architecture come on dude oh wow it's like ancient rome

yeah do you guys have any ideas of yourselves anything at all you're just gonna do rome again really i don't know man i think he could do better than rome oh wait a minute no uh if i can slave aristocracy with like a fake culture of honor to mask this brutality never mind i get why you went wrong so dc definitely very very satanic very demonic uh obviously los angeles the city of dreams the city of of seduction the 0:16:28 city where where all of the pain and horror and exploitation of the life in america are abstracted and turned into a dream version of itself where all the pleasure pain turns into pleasure that's pretty that's pretty demonic that's like ***** right that's some hellraiser ***** but it's it's so nice though you got the wet and they got the water right there san francisco of course san francisco and la have both have a very sinister occult histories so uh either one of them is very evocative that way like san francisco i mean my god bohemian groves right right there out of town of town founded by uh san francisco theater people uh you've got uh oh in southern california you've got uh jack parsons and the and l ron hubbard and the ***** and trying to uh summon the the ***** of babylon for god's sakes uh you've got manson in both cities connected 0:17:29 to mk ultra you've got uh anton levay anton ***** lava in in san francisco and the church of satan which by the way the fact that it's las vegas is of course like a pu it's pure id it's it's on it's unpretensed it's uh unpretentious it it's it's the peeled banana uh but honestly that makes it kind of less demonic in that it's less of a uh it's it's less dishonest it it involves less seduc less trickery it's a pure appeal to the 0:18:30 to to one's base instinct which at least makes you have to confront those when you give in to them rather than wrapping a doom in some sort of damask cloth of of of imagined virtue and then allowing yourself to plunge uh yes didn't very much like glasgow i like edinburgh and glasgow but i honestly i feel like after having been there glasgow gets a bad rap as being like the ugly one it's actually very very pretty and it's got a lot of uh intact you know 19th century uh bones to its downtown uh 0:19:31 i like them both i like scotland scotland's pro scotland i think is the prettiest part of the united kingdom and i didn't go to edinburgh on the tour but i've been there previously by myself i actually uh i got i almost bla i blacked out and had a very bad uh could have been very bad but some very friendly uh scottish people i just met were able to get me home because that was when i just started learning how to drink and i did not know how to do it yet that was a bad place to try to uh to try to practice wales is very pretty too but it's just there's something about the hills the highlands and there's the heathered ***** in scotland it's very uh i don't know it's uh it's romantic with a new orleans has a claim i mean there's a reason all those 0:20:32 iron that's the reason all those vampire people love new orleans right like anne rice and that ***** like there's a certain uh ritualized but i gotta say it's like there's a there is a there is a continental resistance to efficiency in new orleans that i find in the current moment other generations of like you know protestants sort of said that's the devil itself but i'd say in the current concept context uh anything that resists anything that resists efficiency at least the way that we conceive of it what do you think the chances are that trump gets kicked out of the white house by the feds if he loses uh i mean if he loses in a sense like i was saying if if he win if he loses if he is certified loser of the states if they aren't able to you know get a court to determine that x number of ballots aren't valid or something or that like x impartial result is true which could happen um if if the mechanisms of state come to the conclusion that biden won yeah he'll in fact i don't think they'll even have to i think at that point he would give up because he's a coward he would not try to make a phone call and get one of those guys to like put tanks on the street and i think even a guy like barr who's clearly fully committed to using trump as an excuse to like extend state prerogatives in any direction he wants them to at the benefit of the republican party would recognize that that would not be a useful field of conflict if you had a unified you know consensus in the public that he lost which is different than if you muddy the results that's different and now then all i kind of think all bets are off but i also kind of don't think that's going to happen because it seems like the kind of thing everybody worries about because it's it provides some sort of vision and more than anything it provides a fantasy of an escape it does it it uh brings up to mind the notion that okay this will be the final this will be an actual rupture this will be the one unlike all these other ruptures that ended up not being as dramatic as would have required to break loose the moorings of these systems of reproducing themselves this is going to be it this is going to be a free a real frisian point and as always with any kind of big incident like this especially one where you've got ***** corona being in the the x factor and the institutions crumbling before our eyes uh hyper reality just obliterating any need to have like a consensus a a a a k fabe of political legitimacy that's all real but it also it lies on like i think more likely is biden wins outright trump mumbles and goes away or trump wins narrowly in a way that most a lot that liberals are mad at and that probably will involve what would it will be less legitimate than elections that we have sponsored coups over you know it would be less legitimate by far than any venezuelan election that has been won in by chavez or maduro vastly less legitimate than any election uh that uh uh evo morales won just it'll make a mockery of all of our ***** about about election integrity being you know the cornerstone of democratic legitimacy but mostly liberals will just whine about it they'll just mutter about it and so will the left because they're not gonna fight on the streets on behalf of joe biden and even if they wanted to they wouldn't somebody asked if kamala is the worst vp pick since lieberman i think kamala is an absolute uh she is the kane she's basically she is as much of a a safety pick as tim kaine was just

with a different slightly different political valence because he's because the because biden's different i don't think it's a good i don't think it's good or bad it just is and i honestly think probably there is they're all going to be terrible and they weren't going to pick somebody they wouldn't be able to control because biden could die at any moment and they yeah the union endorsing trump the new york nypd union endorsing the trump yep like that's why that's why if if if there is that moment that people are fret dreading and also kind of edging towards that i mean make no bones 0:25:59 about it it would be enforced by the people who right now are operating under you know a thin social consensus but will but again uh if that happened i think it would compromise a lot of uh cultural like super structural load-bearing members of like uh of if not legitimacy efficacy of of of market transmission that i don't think is anything that anyone who is really in charge wants because there is no threat like that's the big reason because it is really it would just be kind of like trump and and like the lumpin uh cult around him versus a versus like the broader ruling class because biden is not a threat bind's not worth throwing away the the uh throwing away the last shreds of 0:27:1 you know manufactured social legitimacy over uh suddenly asked if somebody says the cops seem to be even more reactionary than soldiers and that's true one of the big reasons is just demographics uh police officers are self that's a career right like that's a that's a career choice that is made by overwhelmingly white dudes whereas uh the military is sort of a broad last-ditch uh social welfare program basically so it's more uh demographically diverse so there's just there's less like concentrated white reaction to even exist part of it is the pro is is that is the uh internal culture even even all these christian psychos i mean except for the real like you know uh what 0:28:2 was that guy's name the one who uh got fired under obama it was always freaking out about like dipping blood and dipping bullets in pig's blood to kill the muslims or something he said he was a holy warrior anyone remember this dude jerry something uh anyway there's those guys but like most of these dudes are just you know they're college graduates especially at the top boykin jerry boykin that's it uh they need some sort of like architecture to understand their purpose and it's about protecting america or an idea of america from a foreign threat and that means that they have to have a certain sense of america as virtuous as something worth defending in order to defend it cops they patrol the actual streets with an attitude of hardening hostility and eventual contempt for the people that they actually are supposed to be among 0:29:4 who are americans which means that they are not operating off of a idealized america that they are justifying their actions by referencing they are um they are immersed in a america that they see as violently split between the sheep and the wolves or whatever the ***** uh because like army guys do that too but for them the wolves are outside the wolves are not americans for the cops half of america basically is a wolf

or a ***** sheepdog whatever the hell dumb thing they like to talk about one way or another that like they have they've they cannot be their proximity to suppression of their fellow citizens doesn't allow them the same degree of ideological fantasy that sees america as a like single project to be protected as opposed to it just terrain of the funny thing about the uh about the usps thing is like i i mean it seems like they're 0:30:54 trying to make it harder to vote by mail but i don't know to what extent but like the way people the way people immediately clatched onto it i think it's it's fear but it's also tinged with like this oh god this is going to be the thing this is going to be the thing that breaks it this is going to be the break the break that we've all wanted that we've all secretly feared but also craved in equal measure that the social death wish and uh so that's why it's hard to untangle you know when when when you're when your interaction with an event or a series of events is much less data related to the event than a echoing series of reactions from people around you it's very hard to extract any real coherent idea of what's going on you're really more than anything taking in the emotional temperature of a group of people i do say the people who 0:31:57 are like going to buying stamps to support the post office that's pretty perfect isn't it i mean you couldn't get a better example of the of the consumer self-conception and how it's our only frame of reference for kind everyone's saying they like my shirt 0:33:21 thank you i didn't this shouldn't used to fit when i ever got their shirt i wasn't able to wear it it was too uh it was too snug but now i gotta say it's it's actually kind of a it is very funny that the people now whining about the u.s post office on the democratic side are the people who killed it like the the post office is already dead uh it's it's just it's a question of when it's gonna finally collapse and it was killed by that this bill in 2006 it's a postal service uh uh accountability act or something like that uh that required them to fully fund their pension for like 50 years in advance which no other no private organization does and no other public uh no other public 0:34:24 sector employer does it it was just done to give them an unsustainable budget load that would eventually necessitate uh privatization and when the when obama and biden and those guys got in there those ***** they didn't repeal that ***** and it was bipartisan because privatizing state industry is a bipartisan consensus it's part of that unspoken consensus that forms the real terrain of politics while we fight over the ***** uh uh puppet show and so the democrats might in the moment be crying crocodile tears because they think we all we might lose some jobs in the white house which is what we actually care about uh but and you know liberal elite liberals who have never been to the post office uh wouldn't dane to go uh uh they support it with you know purchasing stamps and by hashtagging it uh but they have no concern 0:35:26 when about the the actual trend towards privatization and undermining of the of the service that is that's just something that happens directing it in such a way to pro to create one or another political outcome that is the bridge too far that is the crime and it and it shows like there's a there's the stuff that is there's the parts of our awfulness that are unique to party politics and part of the narrow set of interests dominating political parties as separate institutions competing for power for the people in them versus the broader agenda that that bickering essentially helps cover for and uh and helps drive through through the political process and you get a good example here between the two you've got the broader agenda of overtime turning the post office into uh into i mean into i guess what would it even be there'd 0:36:27 be no post offices i guess it would just be taken over like we would just get rid of it or like because if they privatized it i guess it would just get bought right wouldn't it get bought immediately by like uh by by like ups or something like it would be like russia it would be like any anytime they sold off a big asset and post soviet union you'd just get bought up by an oligarch so it would just be it would no longer and then boom you know uh tons of people out of work obviously and uh and another vector for like any kind of resistance to uh privatization gone and that's fine that's not a problem uh the problem is for people who only care about the political zone and the and who they who they're rooting for uh in the political theater what matters is that they're interfering in their minds with uh some sort of neutral arbitration of the electoral process as 20 minutes lottery instead of elections i've long thought that was 0:37:44 the solution honestly i mean not to this system you can't just replace elections with lottery now saying as an administrative uh as just purely as a as a representative a structure i prefer the lottery to elections but that would have to be under a i might have more guests when i do the thing from the office with chris i bet we'll have guests because that's the thing that's easy it's easy i can't really i mean you've seen me try to grill while doing this it's very hard for me to divide my attention so uh but 0:38:46 if he's there we can definitely like get somebody in because i'm just using my phone here i don't even i don't even know how to like pour it in another uh video but once we're in the office i think we could get guests that'd be fun maybe we could play some sieve together did i read david frostwall's last book if you're talking about the pale king the one that didn't finish yes a lot of good stuff in there it's stuff pale king pretty brutally boring well that was literally the point it was a novel about boredom as like a spiritual concept and i know that's uh dumb but i i found the boring stuff uh interesting best sequel i'd i mean in my instinct is uh gremlins 2 because it's not 0:39:56 only a great movie in its own right is specifically a sequel and like its sequelness is the text like the idea of making a sequel is part of the concept of it so it's like it's more of a sequel see people say terminator 2 and terminator 2 is very good but 0:40:58 i'm sorry terminator is better it just is the original terminator is basically perfect terminator 2 very good but it's just it's getting a little it's getting a little of that a little lacrimos it's getting it's it's it's that it's the first hint of that of cameron kind of getting a little uh a little uh corny that's a good word for it t2 is a little corny i don't know how you could look at that compared to just the perfect instrument of term the terminator and say that it's better why because like he fight he drove a truck off of a overpass that's an awesome scene but you know and there's a and the effects are obviously great but and it's a great movie but that just makes us that should just make us appreciate the original terminator see i disagree about aliens i think aliens is better than alien but that's partially because really scott is a garbage creature and uh james cameron's a five-star pimp i don't actually like godfather 2 that much i i haven't seen it in a long time but i kind of thought it was uh i'm everyone wants to say alien is better i'm sorry i will not bow i will not give ridley scott credit for anything aliens good which is more than i can say yeah that's right i said it but both of them to me are just so absurdly valued beyond uh i do love dan o'bannon of course i'll respect dan o'bannon he's a king and i and i choose to believe everything scott did i read crack i had a subscription to correct i don't know why i had it and not mad but i i just i guess mad felt too uh matt felt old-fashioned because mad was so old and i i'm not i'm sure crack wasn't even much less old but it felt more i don't know dynamic even though it's most zooted president is very easy jfk john fitzgerald kennedy like hitler was absolutely flying on amphetamines at all times he had a guy a doctor feel good uh who just boosted his ass up with amphetamine injections on the regular because partially because he was riddled with uh pain uh he had the image of you know this this this vigorous young jock the the new front of the new generation of americans born in this century but he was acting you know him playing touch football on the lawn with the with the boys but he was actually wildly ill his whole life he had addison's disease which creates your eyeballs bug out and i think it's a thyroid condition and he also had uh courtesy i think of the pt 109 or something else just awfully bad back uh like and he was in he was in a lot of pain basically all the time because of his back injuries graves disease that's it uh lincoln had addison's disease graves disease correct sorry um and he was just in pain all the time and so he was on medication all the time and he would get he would get boosted and then he would go score with two secretaries in the pool under the white house have uh affairs with the uh the oh lincoln had marfan syndrome that's right i always forget which they are no great you're right and it wasn't graves disease it was addison's disease who the ***** is trying to gaslight me no he had addison's disease lincoln had marfan syndrome none of them i always thought a funny counterfactual would be you know like uh jfk is uh jfk's dr feelgood comes in a little bit too feeling good himself and like overdoses kennedy and his heart explodes like on day three of the cuban missile crisis that's a funny counterfactual because uh uh lbj was not

taken seriously during the cuban missile crisis or ever by the white by the by the kennedys which was bad in some cases because he actually he kind of knew what they needed to do to get civil rights passed but they they thought they knew better than him on that but when it came to the cuban missile crisis he was like the one pushing the maximal conflict line he was saying we gotta like escalate this and they kind of just ignored it but uh it's interesting to imagine that if he right like in the middle of the crisis if that doesn't uh change the outcome in a significant way uh rfk's assassination is very interesting i've said that i am a a agnostic on jfk and a lot of that is just because i i i got so much information about it at some point that it just it stopped having meaning really and i just kind of wondered if it's just one of those things where if you take any event of significant size and an effect on 0:48:29 lives and you trace it out you'll find like this pattern of stuff that appears to be like incontrovertible evidence of of a conspiracy when in reality you're dealing with something that is so multifaceted and multi-fractal that any any preconceived notion can be reaffirmed by tracing things that come off of it but the rfk assassination is also very interesting in its own right uh he was shot right in the back of the head even though everyone in the kitchen was in agreement that saran saron was a good seven to ten feet in front of him uh they were cut there's conflicting our uh accounts of how many uh bullet holes and bullet wounds were accounted for relative to the number of bullets that were fired by the pistol or the capable of being fired by the pistol that he had he asked the speckling and he had he had a powder stippling behind his ear and so he was shot directly behind his ear even though sirhan was right in front was in front of him you have all the wacky mk ultra stuff uh you have 0:49:30 the sirhan's own claim about being blacked out uh automatic writing which is very odd not very much like most assassins diaries because it's not like it's not like it's gibberish or uh or like convoluted conspiracy thinking or like arthur bremer just sort of banal narcissism it's just the same thing over and over again very odd and he actually was i believe he was treated for a head injury uh after uh fall from a horse he was a jockey at a at a medical institution in california that had mk ultra funding but who knows and then there's the fact that the guy who is standing directly behind rfk the private security guard who was thane eugene caesar was in possession of a of the exact caliber pistol was also and was employed by hughes as i said and the guy 0:50:34 in charge of hugh's tool was uh the guy this guy bob mayhew and bob mayhew is one of the most ***** uh jerry uh james elroy asked characters in american history he he is like a guy when elroy writes about guys in like uh american tabloid the government fixers and ***** he's thinking of bob mayhew he was an fbi agent uh he was also a cia asset he uh coordinated uh uh the fbi or the cia and the mafia's attempts to kill castro and then he went to work for howard hughes so it's very uh very eyebrow-raising but okay is the soul real someone asked that's a good question 0:52:42 is the soul real i think it is i mean the soul i would say is defined as just our uh it's the human operating off of our understanding our awareness or lack of awareness really of what is motivating us it's it's it's stepping through it's stepping across the the necessary leap from a partial conception of the world around us to acting on that world even though we know we don't know everything that's what continually doing that is what accumulates so i mean like it's not a ghost or anything it's just a if you you need a word for for the accumulated action the accumulated choice made 0:53:46 in ignorance of every human you can call that the soul but you probably can't bust it with a no it's not the unconscious the unconscious is all souls the unconscious is all experiencing consciousness is all matter and humanity this the individual soul is is is that that like revolves around the the partial perception of separateness that we all have by virtue of our individual perception of apparatus that creates an idea of a self and then we act according to that self reduced by our specific ignorance relative to the reality we're trying to perceive and that that and that there's a gap there between the reality we're trying to perceive and the reality that exists and we still 0:54:47 have to act we still have to be and making that choice it's basically about perceiving time right because like i've said humans conscious beings can perceive time three-dimensionally because we understand time in terms of we have a memory of past we have a consciousness of present and we can project into the future but our projections of the future are limited by our data we can only guess another thing is our guesses are better or worse depending on how much sensory data and ability to process it and compare it to other people's we have so there is so this is not fixed the gap right and it's impossible to fully bridge because if someone could fully understand what is leading them to the moment that they fully understand every influence on their on their moment every every every different thread pushing them well then they would be able to perceive time completely they would be able to project forward perfectly 0:55:48 all things they would be able to see literally the future but we can't do that because we're we're our individuals and our our machinery uh and our circumstances are all randomized essentially and uh and have their own distinct formation effects on us that prevent us from getting the full consciousness of time and so we can only approximate we can imagine a future and then move towards one we want but it's just a guess and we have to have some sort of uh belief we have to convince ourselves that this is the thing to do and the thing that drives us to do that is our collection of desires conscious and mostly unconscious and that is what pushes us forward and 0:56:54 then like the the the task of life is to return be able to try to consciously return that soul because it's separateness that drives our fear of death and all the trauma that i've never done dmt to my knowledge somebody might have given me some without

my consent i mean i took it i thought it was weed but i didn't even have i confirmed it was dmt either it felt weird but it certainly wasn't enough to do whatever that people tell me it does i would be interested in seeing one though is i would love to go 0:58:20 to cpac again i would specifically like to go after uh biden wins presuming he does because i think cpac i suspect it's much more interesting when uh the right is uh uh broken up and is competing for like a new competing between uh sects for for uh for prominence like in the wilderness because cpac was a trip but it was just a trump love fest and that was obviously it was grotesque to watch and seeing his speech is still one of the most surreal experiences of my life but there's a fundamental stop uh like uh stagnants whereas i would think it would be fun to go there with biden in 0:59:22 there and just see the different the different prophets coming out to try to uh you know whip up support for their particular sect you know and and anoint a new all right i'm going to ask one more question and then i gotta get out of here surgery um i guess there's no good questions i'll just close on this somebody said somebody 1:0:54 would announce they were q on cpac i would bet more than one person would have tried to announce they were queue on cpac i could i could see some like junior uh some like uh hack congressman or something be like hey if i want to be president i'll just convince them on cue that would be really funny he had ya

08.18.20

ugh okay there's me hey i'm on tv oh yeah baby's lovecraft country no good no good 0:1:6 very bad obviously first minute of it there's cgi blood thumbs down it's all cgi so that's already you have to get over a very large bar to just deal with it because you're a ***** genre show i don't care if you have prestige trappings you're a ***** genre show that means your effects have to be good they have to be immersive they're not but bye but maybe they could have salvaged that if there was something on top of it that was like textually dense and interesting enough to to make it worthwhile but in my mind any chance of that happening went out the window when a montage of uh of racial ins abuse in the 40s of of white people being racist to black people as they travel across the country was scored to a james baldwin speech i believe his debate with buckley maybe it might have been i mean for one thing that's anachronistic 0:2:7 obviously that happened much later than the events of the film secondly i mean who are they imagining is watching this how small how what kind of guppy-brained children are they pitching this to where they have to it's like even though the text of every scene is racism like the text of every scene is a racial disparity in racial abuse and i'm not saying that's necessarily bad but you have to with that with being that limited a palette you have to like keep it interesting and innovative and just saying like oh you know i usually use music to you know sort of evoke a subtextual thing we're just going to add more text on top of the text i mean what the ***** it's just to me i'm just going to assume that you don't think that i have a brain at that point as a viewer and so why the you you you don't think i'm very bright and that probably means you're not too smart either uh yeah like being kinda because that's the thing 0:3:11 it's not like the level of art on the show is really great being condescended to by a dummy is one of the most infuriating things in so thumbs down to that but it also so it what but i'll give a credit that show helped spark a real uh a real revelation to me and that was i was i did a tweet about oh the show's got cgi squibs ***** this and of course a lot of people were like well yes but the show itself is great no wrong incorrect not great uh or they'll say well it's a dream sequence it's it's it's kitschy it's stuff they're all it's all cgi so nope that's clearly just the style that's the

aesthetic so out with that uh and then but someone god bless them linked a uh a montage of squib uh a squib hits from movies that's on youtube and i watched it it was like eight minutes long and i'd seen a bunch of those movies and i was it was 0:4:12 kind of fun like picking them out like oh no i know that one i know that one but just watching this this the the drama of an actual explosion happening on screen and the unpredictable and viscous uh physicality of fake blood coming out of a wound and i was like god damn that really is like why else have someone to get shot in the movie as an aesthetic experience which is of course what 99 of the time is you're not really moving the plot along you're showing that because you want to see it and so that's what shooting is for and i realized my god like the the gun fight the gun fight in movies is doomed like who'll ever want to watch people get shot if that's gone because that's what makes it interesting that's what makes it visceral as i've said and the movies that don't have that they just lose it's like oh okay this is fake these are kids playing with fake guns i don't care anymore uh and the and that was a real challenge i think to hollywood in general how are we going to make gun based action 0:5:14 which is one of our bread and butter events still exciting and visually interesting and aesthetically pleasing when one of the main elements of the aesthetics of gunfights on movies is gone and the answer was we're going to replace it with physical uh dexterity smoothness of motion elegance grace basically human grace uh to replace the missing visceral impact of of real squibs and that's what the john wick movies were did and the first john wick movie one of the reasons everyone loved it i think is because it appeared to solve the problem it said here we're going to give you gun fights that aren't going to have the visceral impact of squibs but are still going to be amazing because of how fast and elegant they are how how how quickly they happen you won't even notice that there's no real blood you won't even notice that they're not really shooting the guns because it's going to move so fast and you know what it worked i liked the first john wick a lot i think everybody did holy crap look at this thing it was like now we have a solution but the thing was like with any kind of 0:6:15 any answer like this any sort of attempt to patch over a key artistic uh uh you know deficit of of accelerated capitalist cinema uh it ends up becoming a cure-all and then it no longer works and i realize this is that now every one of these movies every one of these gun-based action movies has decided oh that's how we're going to trick people into thinking this doesn't look bad by having them do kickflips and grab guys by the head and flip them around and then shoot them real close and then have it be very like uh very kinetic and it's now that that's every movie the horror of it comes into realization like oh god this sucks like by the time i watch jada with three it's like not only is it just repetitive you and having now seen john wick three and like when you see john wick that was just that movie you know yes people say oh well what about equilibrium it's like equilibrium was like 20 years ago and it was an isolated 0:7:17 movie that a lot of people made fun of at the time gunkata it was sort of a joke and it became a cult classic later but it did not it was not the beginner of a totalizing trend and now since every movie is john wick you see john wick 3 and you're like oh god more of this and now there's going to be two more at least every one is going to be oh ***** more of this well everything else just turns into john wick to hype it's like putting sawdust in the ***** uh in the in the flour because you want to make more bread than you than you have flour for that's what they're doing it's it's ***** it's sawdust in the flour it's uh it's anti-freeze in the wine it's another way to obscure the just the the the the spiring reality of having every everything that we thought of as like the compensatory cultural superstructure that we can enjoy even as our lives are sort of drilled drained of any kind of power over our destinies no you don't 0:8:18 that's not even good that's bad we can't afford those real bullets we can't oh what a gun that actually fires you mean real blanks what okay you gonna pay for that who's gonna pay for it it's like universal and so now it's like oh yeah another but at every level you can't just take something away you can't just take something away you have to offer something that's shittier but still better than without having the thing that's being taken away and all the flip john wick ***** is the is the lesser thing now so i gotta say that uh i'm now anti-john wake gotta be a thumbs down for me for the entire franchise and you know what hey that's the way the cookie crumbles you gotta accept no action movies are done as a genre ***** is next ***** next horror 0:9:19 is doing a little bit better but i mean part of it is the a24 ***** where there's like they're not really horror movies in my opinion but like they they kind of ride around with horror movies and like maintain sort of an artistic credibility around them that allows them people to do things like insist on real effects because horror film hasn't been totally like uh uh has totally lost any kind of artistic credibility as a genre the way action has so that means there's still a few good horror movies and they'll still like you know invest the extra for for real effects but now that's going to be gone too and the only thing the only good horror movies will be the a24 things where it's like you watch it you go was that really or was it just sort of a just sort of a very uh like a a a dark drama or a thriller it seems almost like a thriller would be more accurate 0:10:21 a term blumhouse is totally like first of all they make the purge movies and they use cgi bullets in them so they already are on my ***** list because the purge in my opinion is a great idea for especially a a exploitation style series of films and they really they really undercut the enjoyability of their of of the trashiness of everything when some guy goes down in a ***** bunch of pixels yeah no hereditary for example that's a horror movie but mid-summer i don't light see lighthouse is another one i i 0:11:25 don't really think the lighthouse is a yeah the the the lighthouse is as it's a dude's

rock yeah there's a real horror movie it's called the ***** news uh speaking of horror movies we're going to be streaming the uh the dnc second night tonight at 9 00 or 8 30 i think we're going on but we're gonna be there for the opening gavel the opening zoom gavel for the opening monster uh ***** garbage ***** that we're gonna get to see does clinton go tonight i hope clinton gets tonight at the day after the picture or the day yes the day the picture of him getting massaged by an epstein victim on the flight to africa gets revealed good that'll be fun oh we're going to have some riffing to do on that one oh boy god damn we might have to empty the notebooks for that one they're putting him on stage just the insanity of this a guy who is a close personal ***** friend to a serial pedophile a world a world-spanning human trafficker with connections to the highest levels of power including by the way the evil president that we all hate donald trump and this ***** hangs around with him there's pictures of them yucking it up on the private planes been to the the island and zorro by the way let's not forget uh zorro ranch where apparently they went for christmas or something every ***** year and brought chelsea one time sickos and this guy still the big dog that these guys panther over and are just enraptured to because he happened he managed to win two elections wow well amazing he was able to basically show up at the right moment to ride the credit the ***** uh nascent tech bubble and just watch watch the tide of history turn towards reaction and just go hey what if we did that too that's his brilliant innovation to politics that means we have to worship him for the rest of our lives hey what if we just did what the republicans do because that's what people seem to like that's the easiest solution you could possibly give to an answer in any kind of uh uh like brainstorming session it's like these guys are kicking our ass what to do well why don't we just do what they do and usually that's the wrong answer because doing that kind of undermines everything else but he didn't give a ***** about that he wanted to be in the ***** power and he did it and i think that's something that gets under looked when we talk about the way these guys like reckon politics when they're talking about what's pragmatic to get things done what they what the the unstated assumption is not uh is that they are the ones getting the things done the the the assumption is that no matter what they will be in power they assume the position of centrality to the process because for them politics is an expression of their their ego that's why they're in that position that's what motivated them to get into politics someone has to take that job it gets taken by people who self-select towards that uh that psychological structure that need and what that means is that if they get into a situation where oh the the uh the you know the democrats before me made this pact with the devil to uh balance to end inflation on the backs of the american working class and not no longer be able to offer them any kind of meaningful economic uh intervention

we've essentially seeded the economic ground of politics completely and we're going to have to completely depend on culture war uh and like identity based uh influences and and corporate money uh to maintain relevance oh boy uh that's shitty what do i do well most people when they're asking that question are trying to do it from the perspective of a country like what could we do together to like move this ship away from the iceberg uh and a person who is psychologically fixated on assuming power does not think that they think what do i have to do to use the level of power in front of me the democratic party in this case in order to gain power in this situation and so for the people who were in charge of the democratic party in the early 90s they when they tell you this is what we had to do they're not lying this is what they had to do if they were going to wield power it was going to be under those conditions but the thing is that's not there's there's a greater interest that they're not considering which is what most people who don't imagine themselves in those 0:16:34 positions are imagining when they imagine the we or who like making decisions that's the problem with a representative structure is that is that you're concentrating the the will of whatever organized political coalition that can exert power in the ballot on one individual or or a bunch of individuals but concentrated into individuals like the president specifically and you know members of the specifically the federal and those people are going to be uh motivated by an underlying assumption that they have to be in the room and that means compromise is always going to be what they say because anything else might involve them losing king hobo dnc what's that 0:17:45 who's king hobo i didn't see that i saw i saw the ***** uh the steven stills billy porter thing about where they did some weird like rem funk remix of for what it's worth with him voguing oh king hobo is kasich okay i didn't watch it i just saw he looked like he was at a baseball field oh my god that was amazing because it really reminds you is that politics now it's just like the lev at the level of the spectacle of our little rock'em socket robot puppet show that we love so much the people actually in charge of the controls the literal channel changers for what we get to fight over are just a bunch of old people a bunch of senior citizens uh who lived through the 60s litigating whether or not they were groovy that's it it's all just re-arguing the 60s cultural split because they they because all else has been foreclosed first by 0:18:47 you know the the changing of the the party structures relationship to the market in the 70s the introduction of what they call neoliberalism and then of course they're just aging and reactive brains like no longer being able to to process reality as it happens being much happier to live in their past like joe biden all of these people they're thinking back joe biden's that's how you know joe biden's brain is really gone because he's in the 50s these people are in the 60s because you know that's how progressed the the the collective senility is but biden is of course because he is

their tribune he is their concentrated will he is the most senile and so he's already back in the 50s he's already back banging the the razors to get them rusty so uh once again we get steven steel's 900-year ass ***** noodling on a guitar and this guy 0:19:48 singing the song that's just from ***** vietnam war movies just get to get the blood stirring in these people who just want to have one more chance to go to the polls and say in the in the face of a ***** society falling apart around them through through through there could i direct connivance and absolute uh blithe indifference for the most part uh that actually no man uh the 60s it was about peace dude it was about peace and love i'm gonna go out there and vote for joe biden who thinks that it's actually about hep cats being able to take their main squeeze to the soda shop no neoliberalism is is is tina i in my opinion neoliberalism is the full is the full logic of the market unleashed on all society which is only possible in a context where there is no alternative to it where its energies can are no longer constrained by having to 0:20:49 battle like an a a different system to compete it no longer has to compete and so like in the in the in in the economy that leads to monopoly and they're they're in the monopoly stage now it's it's and they're uh and as such they can move inward and and take that like market and that's and and carter carter carter was the guy who in terms of if you want to talk about like one figure who embodies the whole process he was the guy who on behalf of a democratic party that had lost its connection to the working class in any meaningful way and the working class had lost their ability to influence and direct uh the the first the democratic party and then a large enough section of the american people willing to vote for that party uh we're no longer able to exercise enough power and the big economic questions that used to dominate 0:21:51 politics universal health like direct government provision of resources the extension of government provision of resources into other areas of life nationalization is a real priority of the state the creeping the creeping uh socialism that really does happen or or can happen anyway uh is or is is theorized to happen uh in social democracies to keep making these you know non-reformist reforms to keep pressing things until a point of crisis at which point if you've assembled sufficient uh state capacity expressed through sufficient organizational capacity as the class project you can then push it over the coke machine uh like sweden looked like they were getting to that point when the meidner plan was introduced as a possible uh road map towards the state consolidation of of the economy in sweden uh through the the direct what the miner plan basically said is that instead of paying cash taxes corporations are going to have 0:22:53 to have give a percentage of their stock to the state every year and it's and that's not going to be like you give it once and it's ever every year so that means the state gains stock over time and eventually contrarians has complete control that's the kind of thing that was potential and the us of course was not in any position to uh to do

anything that dramatic because of how relatively ***** our social democratic path was relative to europe but especially relative to the scandinavians but there was still stuff like like nixon was talking nixon proposed a universal health care plan that is to the left of anything we have now or proposed by democrats shy of bernie uh and teddy kennedy rejected it because they thought they could get the real thing that's how close they felt they were universal free college was a real thing on the possibility and in every country the crisis moment came and because the because of 0:23:56 the arrangement of forces because the insufficientness of the working class to exercise political authority through the closest instrument it had whatever that might be led to capital taking over now you could argue that that was inevitable that you can never get uh get there through the electoral process and that's proof of it uh i'm not i don't know i'm kind of agnostic on that point uh but i do know that a crisis moment the crisis point came emerged which was theorized uh the the the victory of capital uh being inevitable the victory of capital being inevitable that is what i'm not sure of i don't know if it necessarily had to go that way uh but of course then you get into counterfactuals i do i would say plainly that obviously given the conditions we had it couldn't go any other way but the question is to what degree were there 0:24:57 people and forces that could have changed the direction at what point could the river have been flowed like changed its its course uh and i'm not sure i that's why i feel uh uh i do i do enjoy that's why i feel basically agnostic and i feel like that's kind of like that's where like history even if you have a dialectical understanding of the you know materialism it none of it is is uh that doesn't make everything self-evident it still has to be investigated i would say like whether anybody could have punched through in the west anyway through the electoral process i don't know but i would say that the 70s were the moment when the contest was definitively won by capital which has means that the neoliberal area is the era of hegemonic capitalist victory over the political process like if you wanna that's i think that's as good a definition 0:25:59 of any it is when it is when it is when uh like the the libertarian conception of the state the the the uh yeah becomes the undergirding political principle the governing ideology as it were of both parties meaning that there is no longer a meaningful political vector for alternatives to libertarian state notion emerging oh uh this brings me to something that i wanted to talk about i hope it doesn't get too goopy and abstract so bear with me and tell me if i'm sounding a little uh too out to lunch but i wanted to talk there more about the concept that we know and love and no no call it ideology yes of course what do we speak of when we speak of ideology and there's 0:27:0 a bunch of different definitions because there's ideology in different contexts and there's ideology as like the undergirding uh system that generates that's generated by a material relationship and that structures the politics and the culture uh then

there's self-conscious ideology is in what we think of as our politics that's different too uh but i want to start at the basic level with what what ideology uh what purpose ideology ideology serves in this in the mind what what what bridge does it what uh what function does it carry out in the establishment of the self out of just the the the data that our bodies perceive because that's all we are it was just a big thing absorbing at least as far as we know our brains are just the thing that absorbs what is given what it what's what is what its sensor organs pick up in the thing around it and then that is then turned into an understanding of the world that includes 0:28:3 an understanding of the self and relationship to the world and ideology is i would say the way that we bridge the gap between two different uh but but distinct but linked and and and completely codependent so there's two types of self-interest in in in social species uh like humans specific more humans more than anyone and that is one you have the perceived interest the narrow interests physical and then you know like basal id related interests like first there's you know pure self-preservation in terms of preventing death and injury and then the satisfaction of urges that arise from uh the task of staying alive like that that's like that's the id but even though our 0:29:6 understanding of humans is that is the sum total of human of the human uh self is that id and then the stuff that we wrap around it and that's us and it's independent and we're all independent uh that's not true uh you can talk all you want about survival of the fittest but once uh once an animal in a species gains a certain degree of complexity of its its its social arrangement and its ability to communicate communicate to itself and then communicate outward to other members of the species it creates a new vec a complementary vector of evolution which is social evolution and it it there there is an equilibrium point at which even though everyone has an individual id with an individual self-interest that all interests are mutually advanced by cooperation and 0:30:9 ideology is negotiating the gap how do we square having an individualized desire which could be you know that guy's got a chicken i want that chicken you know that guy's uh got a wife i want that wife the hobbsian state of nature how do we how do we uh assimilate this abstract notion of self-interest which we can recognize through trial and error we will recognize that there is a necessary social component to life uh and then we have to pursue it but how do we convince ourselves how do we put the i into the we in such a way that we can and ideology is is the is the structure of that relationship and i would say that the dominant western ideology the the ideology 0:31:10 the undergirding of the capitalism or our response to living in capitalism rather uh and steadily taking over the world is one where the relationship is is that there is only the the i there's only the id and then there is this social stream of otherness which we contract to engage with strictly to our advancement and then any kind of social question like how does that how does that allow everyone else to advance

because remember there has to be a social component to existence they would say no if everybody is self-interested the collection of that self-interest by negotiating it through a frictionless market without with no latency of transmission of information will rise all boats at once of course that's absurd because we are not one uh even though we perceive the social dimension of our persistence more abstractly than our id it is in reality as important it's it's co-equal and it and what that means is that society is co-constitutive of what we think of as ourselves like think about language think about how much our thoughts and our minds and our conceptions are our deep deep dreams are structured by the language we we are born with we don't have any choice in that that literally structures our entire mind and it comes from outside and it comes from the collective decisions of people we've never met before and it is co-constitutive of our perceptions our individualized perceptions which are filtered through these structures that are socially ***** formed it's co-equal and ideol and and uh that is why i think like socialism properly understood the ideology of socialism you know as i'm saying is an abstract concept not as as something that is generated something you act to create with the create in the world but whatever you create it's not going to be quite what you wanted but it might move you in that direction and it will create a new ideology i'm saying the abstract ideology that you operate from uh of should in my opinion be one that acknowledges the self as socially constructed like and not just constructed constitutive like society is me at a fundamental level and i think if you actually absorb that reality as opposed to just as something you mouth it it reduces a lot of the inherent conflict in in our notions of what socialism could be the things that say like well you know people are always going to want to get ahead people are always going to want to you know have more money than their neighbor and stuff it's like yeah but that is because we operate from an ideology that assumes we are individuated that that is the fundamental capitalist ideology and it is it is essentially psychosis if you want to get like specific if you want to get dramatic again i don't know i mean i don't i think you could argue that in the in the sense that it is radically fractured away from the reality that they're living it like and a real reality a fundamental reality that under like that's why we're here obvious the only reason human existence exists is because of that and capitalism is us trying to chop our arms off that's what we're doing it's insane uh social suicide caused by a deluded psychotic sense of self that's the ideology of capitalism that's the ideology that is generated by turning every relationship into a transaction between strangers eventually you lose all social forms as you lose uh investment in social forms as having meaning and pile all meaning into personal indulgence it turns you into a little psychopath it turns you into an instrument of pure desire which means pure competition with those around you which means eventually destruction of all common ruin of the contending classes that's and that is the social animal that is man gnawing at itself because it's basically got a ***** uh it's got a it's got a rabies it's got a ***** infection that's overheating its brain and the thing is is the capitalism serves a role 0:35:18 you know capitalism is a healthy bacteria at one point in that it facilitated the the uh the concentration of capital that was necessary to allow humankind to come into awareness of itself the problem with humankind is that over time it spreads and stretches and the possibility of tr of transcending the abstraction of space and time to imagine that we are all part of one species a true species with a species being and a spirit a collective spirit that necessitates a degree of technological transmission and ease of life most of all of social exchange where labor uh and ex labor and uh subsistence uh the the linkage has been severed allowing for like the full flowering and 0:36:19 development of human consciousness uh and that's only that's only possible because over time the need for those distinguishing indulgences goes away because you can there's there's actual worth there's value that is not to be found literally there's not there's there's non-market value without if there's if the only value should be found on the market that the only the only worth of self the only in the only pleasures of the life the only pleasures of a spiritless world life in a world where god is dead and we replaced him with nothing except fear of the devil like nobody believes in god but we're all afraid of dying which means we're afraid of hell essentially so we killed god and left the devil and so in that world what is to be done but piling up lucker for yourself distracting pleasures of self and then see everyone else is competing for 0:37:21 those you know in a world of dwindling resources if you believe that there's a value to social to social life you create structures that allow social life to thrive that get that don't require people to to flee to self-indulgence as a sucker because there's no lack there's no hole to be filled the way and i think there has to be some place for religion to help in the in terms of if you're going to create like an ideological bridge like a self-conscious ideology that could that could break this this suicidal log jam it's going to have to involves the language of religion and spirituality because that's what people organize their minds and and you can define it depends on how you 0:38:24 define ideology there's one way you can divide ideology where yeah like what i'm describing that's not ideology because that's just that's a social life as it should exist you know it's it's act the actual harmonious existence of humans the problem is you have to burrow through you know the the millennium of human development to get there and maybe you won't uh because of the intervening reality of ideology emerging and reifying pathological uh mistakes pathological accruing errors created by a a rapidly uh expanding uh just a de-sacralization of of life i the processes are contained 0:39:25 i mean in the sense that they don't kill everybody but they're clearly regulated and that's why as much as like the trad nazi types think oh no i've solved it i've solved this i've recognized the problems of capitalism but i've just replaced uh the self with uh the people the volk i've replaced the self as the locus of all you know meaning with uh my fantasy idea of a people but what a coincidence i'm picking the people who are most like me because i am using the concept of a social life to just recreate the individual self on a larger scale like hitler was not trying to subsume himself into the social reality of german existence he was trying to suborn german existence to him to become an expression of him and that's that's the that's that's what fascism angles towards because even if you create your your beautiful corporate uh corporate state it's going to have to define itself against others internal and external who have to be destroyed and that process continues over time regardless of whatever happens you win the war you have to start another one you will destroy yourself because you are at the end of the day not engaging in a in a move towards the sort of degradation of ego away from individual market expression of self towards a social uh relationship with others a contextualized self uh if you're not doing that you are steering it towards none couldn't you know you're somewhat doing the same thing what's same thing as what same thing as who i would like to know because i'm trying to figure out like the way i the thing that really made me reminded me about the reality of that like how ethnonationalism can never stabilize it will always destroy itself and it's not because you could argue because like the libertarian the fantasy the the fantasy the ideological fantasy that undergirds the libertarian sense of self is if everybody works towards their own advantage over time and you remove uh you remove barriers to to to exchange everyone will advance now that's not true but that's what they think it's ideological it's deeper than thought you know it's just it's it's a motivator that they don't even know is there um but we know that that's destructive and like the fascist notion is that you recognize that but then you say oh no we can all get together if we are operating out of uh you know the self-interest is ourselves conceived as part of some volk well in that case the only competition at that level has to be war which is what they saw it uh and even if you win all the wars you have to define yourself against another so another emerges from within depending on whatever crisis are being created by your uh unstable economic model which is capitalism which is going to drill through the world's resources eventually and uh leave you in a position of unsustainable crisis of distribution uh and the one thing that made me think of that most recently is john cornyn the senator from texas early on in uh the coven was asked about you know hey what about this covet thing seems pretty serious because he was talking about ***** it you know open up we got to save the economy and he was saying well you know the people who are dying are people who are older people with heart disease and stuff and he's not necessarily talking at that point about oh you know they're poor black people or they're poor

mexicans he's just talking about like his constituents and in a state like texas where everybody has heart disease i think it's like the state flowers and he's talking about people who are unlucky enough to get the thing because at a certain level you have to like break off from a group and determine it other in order to redefine the self it's the only it's the only way thing that keeps you in a vacuum conscious of yourself is by recognizing distinction that's why the idea of like essentially deprivation is so terrifying to people because it's you alone but eventually you lose the sense of self because you're not comparing it to anything and that means that the the the ethno state will eventually destroy itself either by over exertion or by turning inward that's the death drive that undergirds uh undergirds fascism and because they both and there's a death drive that undergirds capitalism more broadly and both of them are embedded in this notion that you can be an individual person on this planet that you that there's something called an individual human being that there is a meaningful that's a meaningful category like to distinguish a person at a level beyond just to note that this is a distinguishing feature of that's what i thought was uh good about the book man in the high castle which it has the nazis and the japanese as world spanning empires with no enemies to see in the 60s and they're still going to have a nuclear war it's inevitable they will destroy each uh i uh on the on the fashion thing i remember i saw a map some nazi it made of europe and it showed it where all the countries were under the rule of whatever like weird you know uh crypto nazi party is in that country you know like the true finns or whatever well what if they ran every country and it was supposed to be like oh this if that happened every one of those countries will go to war with every other one over like irredentist territorial claims sure yes of course they would cleanse all the muslims but what do you think they would do you don't think that al sas lorraine comes back into play if like the ***** national front and it wouldn't even be the uh afd and probably be farther left right than that in germany take over uh someone wants to know about the death drive i would say that the death drive is the brain's way of uh just coping with the irreconcilable phenomena of being an individual consciousness that is both the sum total of existence and also find uh aware of its own finitude mortal self-consciously moral is that and that is that the closer you clean to your individuated being the more uh the more fraught and horrific life becomes the more the more the more the the the experience of life is undermined like pleasure is is is literally sapped out of the world by due to the overweening anxiety of you the consciousness of of time progressing and your awareness coming toward an end a thing that a mind cannot conceive of because you cannot conceive of anything that is it's it's the opposite of everything it's ever experienced it can't handle that and so life becomes misery and so but because what makes us miserable is that we can't hold on to life we don't want to kill ourselves but deeper where we can't even get at we we want to end this but we don't want to know it's coming we want it we want to end it and so we act in ways reasonable interp oh is that something else man somebody's really mad at gnosticism in terms of people who are doing the oh somebody asked me this 0:51:2 on twitter and now they're repeating it the most cringe vp vice president that's an interesting question because all vice presidents the ones who didn't become president anyway are inherently cringe because what look at you look how close you came you schmuck you freaking drool losers you got so close couldn't get it so they're all cringed like ooh and then especially the ones who ran and lost so guys like gore mega cringe mega cringe al gore is so i'd say anybody who ran and lost any vp who ran and lost his cringe which is why one of the things that makes nixon cringe even though he was president is that he was also somehow one of those losers even though he 0:52:3 eventually won uh john nance garner is pretty cringe the guy was two terms under uh vp under fdr hated it every minute he's the guy who famously said the president the vice president ain't worth a bucket of war piss and worst of all it was because he represented the southern reactionary segment of the democratic party and he was just watched in horror as those east coast fancy lad new dealers ran roughshod over the place and he was going to go in there and clean house because he was assuming like everybody that you only do two terms uh but franklin uh ef good old fdr got in that the end of that convention he didn't trust any of those other horses to carry carry you know the the ferry across the river so he he did it and uh after telling garner he wouldn't and he was pretty pissed there was a guy named richard mentor johnson who was van buren's vp mainly because he i mean this isn't cringe in the 0:53:5 present moment of course but it certainly would have been cringe at the time he like many slave owners of the day he had a relationship of one kind or another with a slave and children by her but unlike those guys who kept it on the down low you know taking the candle to the back room or whatever he uh had he i don't think he married her but he had her like as a public consort and it was scandalous i would say that henry wallace is pretty cringe definitely uh one because god he got so close if they if if fdr died a little earlier or the right wingers hadn't uh foisted truman onto fdr at the convention he could have been president but the thing is he was kind of a goofus i mean it's known now that the entire progressive party that he ran on 0:54:6 that they kind of like spun up out of nowhere for him to run on the the platform of was just entirely shot through with communists uh and you know a lot of course you go that's epic that's cool that's epically cool uh but the thing is the one guy on earth who didn't know that was henry wallace he was he was a genuine like good government progressive type from the midwest like he was a farm expert just the ***** he was a he was a nerd he didn't even know that he was sort of being moved around uh by by moscow which again hey if he got into the presidency have you gone into the presidency uh and like set the course the cold war differently you know that's a real counterfactual that might have genuine valence in terms of changing the larger cheney is based as hell janey's not cringe come on the guy ran the entire show by himself he ***** took his house off of google satellite views he had a man's size safe at his office he suggested himself for his job and then took over the other guy's job nothing cringe about cheney evil yes but but not cringe william rufus devane king died two months he never even got sworn in he died in uh an uh in cuba of yellow fever malaria or something uh the other thing about william rufus devayne king is that he was noted in washington for his flamboyant appearance dress and affect and when you read the way people talk about him uh it's pretty clear if you read between the lines that he was a he was kind of a he was he was fabulous i guess you you'd pau you'd call it uh his nic his uh his nickname in washington was uh andrew jackson called him miss nancy uh and james buchanan who was a good friend of his uh aunt fancy so they were uh they were boying they were boyfriends william rufus devane king and james and cannon were probably boyfriend a girl boyfriend and boyfriend so that's not cringe in 20th century standards by by night 21st century standards but it was probably pretty cringe at the time uh and then he died cringe hubert humphrey is pretty cringe oh yeah yeah ooh that's gotta be high on the list so hubert humphrey was a guy who super ambitious sort of a northern northern uh lbj at least in like his his his clear craving for high office he was the boy mayor of minneapolis he famously got the uh dixiecrats to walk out of the dnc in 1948 uh for giving a speech about putting a civil rights plank into the into the party platform uh then he became a senator from minnesota he was a favorite of the afl-cio and he ran for president in 60 against uh kennedy and he just got blown off the stage by the glamour there's a great uh documentary called primary about the wisconsin primary 1960 which a lot of people thought was going to definitely be humphreys because he was considered like the third senator from wisconsin because he was always a guaranteed vote on all of the dairy price support legislation that wisconsinites cared about very very much back then they still do but not as much as they used to we had a guy herb cole who was ***** senator for life basically because he was a guy in washington who made sure that the ***** that the milk stayed above a certain price so uh and then lb and then kennedy is this you know jet-setting uh east coast catholic guy in a state that even though you've got catholics obviously in milwaukee uh has a large you know rural protestant population uh and there's this footage of poor hubert humphrey and like a vfw hall in rural wisconsin going i'll tell you about this kennedy he doesn't know an era corn from a ukulele but then you see kennedy in was in milwaukee you know surrounded by a bunch of bavarians and then and polox just like losing their

***** uh and and he won he won even and they went in west virginia which was huge of course the teamsters helped him out there but so he was an ambitious guy got to be lbj's vp got bullied by lbj the whole four years basically forced by lbj to take his and run for president with his vietnam policy like that was the condition of johnson's support to humphrey for the nomination which of course he had to rest from the dead grip of of rfk at the ***** convention in the face of a giant police riot uh and screaming and and a tumult within um the condition for lbj supporting him was you better ***** take my my position even though he didn't really believe in it and so he had to ***** flog uh he had to flog that dead dog of lbj's vietnam policy until the fall when he finally last month ago he stopped supporting it and called for a moratorium on bombing and like you know a peace pursuit like being being prioritized and he's he actually had been way in the in the back in the polls and he kind of climbed and then the election itself was very very close uh if you look at it nixon won the the electoral college pretty convincingly but the actual vote total was was it was almost a tie i mean it was not it was in 1960 but it was very very close uh and it could have gone the other way very easily especially if humphrey had gotten autom out of lbj's pocket a little earlier so by virtue of just being a cringing toady who ended up going down a guy who really was a very principled dude his early career was like a civil rights stalwart and also a labor uh like a labor first guy who's like for providing his presiding um political obsession was to create full employment in america through like a guaranteed federal jobs program which was something that the right fought tooth and nail until it was finally passed uh in during the carter administration but by that point had its entire actual enforceability and meaning drained from it so loser big old loser uh and nixon it's funny nixon actually uh lbj actually played ftse with nixon during the campaign because he worried about humphrey stabbing in the back on vietnam because at that point he was like psychopathically obsessed with protecting his legacy in vietnam and his position so he was willing to ***** that's how far he got he went to make sure that humphrey stayed on team so he just he whipped his ass down the ***** campaign trail until he finally was able to get out from under but it was too late absolute uh cringe pence is incredibly cringe i mean come on to just be such a colorless cipher known mostly for being an absolute supre repressed christian freak pathetic dan quayle is very cringe he ran for president too just not after that he ran in 2000 and got no votes so dan quayle he was an actual just punchline he was only known ashley for being just a dumb goofus and for spelling potato wrong so he's definitely very high on the list the first guy i man what a dire presidential state so they've got two of the most cringed vice presidents ever and their one president william william henry harrison a wasn't from indiana and b ***** died his ass because he drank poo poo water a month after being he ***** out his doodoo ass can you believe it there's only one answer to the question most cringe presidential candidate there are many contenders george romney mitt's dad 1:3:24 very high on that list adley stevenson of course anybody who ran more than once they get the stink of loser on them like the buffalo bills of the or the vikings so adley stevenson henry clay william jennings brian losers bob dole guy ran his whole life but i don't think any of them compared to number one on with a bullet oh hillary's on the list of course hillary's highly cringe hillary may be number two number one with a bullet and an exclamation point jeb george john ellis bush just please clap you can't can't beat it can't beat it and when you consider how much money he spent per delegate in that which is i think by far the largest amount ever he spent like uh he spent like he got like two delegates i think and he spent over a hundred million dollars i believe that's like the quick math there so it's something like 15 million dollars a delegate after coming from the pole position after and being like not being 1:4:26 like some crank millionaire who spends his own money being the inside track guy and he was the young he was the loved brother son he was the good guy he was the one who followed the rules well george was out gallivanting and snorting coke in the ***** cockpit of a ***** a-10 war dog this guy was studying the blade he learned spanish uh he went to camp he went to puerto rico with his with his with his uh mexican wife to like campaign for uh his dad when he was running against reagan in 1980 well george did nothing and who got to be president for ***** four eight years who got to be president goofus not gallot eight years later after his ***** family's name is ***** because of how badly his dumb ass brother ***** everything up and all because he lost his first race lawton childs is who we have to thank for that lawton childs beat him uh er for governor in his first run which threw off the timetable and 1:5:29 he was in his first term but uh in florida it took him that long to get back in which was not enough time whereas george had already had two terms in texas because he went like two years later if he'd gotten it then if he got in the florida presidency then or the florida uh the florida governorship then he would have been the candidate in 2000 now maybe he doesn't win in 2000 there's an interesting counterfactual because there is something to george bush's just frat boy ***** charisma like i always hated him and never thought he was charming because he is just like a bully he's like a rich bully ***** but that's an archetype that a lot of people like jeb is sort of absolutely without character he's he's drained he doesn't even have sort of the towering no blessed bleach of his dad like his dad is obviously was obviously a weenie you know they call him a wimp and everything this is this blue blood but he also just had this imperious authority that meant that it didn't matter that you thought he was a nerd he was still judging you and that made you kind of feel some sort of respect 1:6:31 for him jeb had nothing jeb is just this cringing and all right so you guys got one more question oh all right i found it most cringe civil war general well obviously you got basically everybody in the army of potomac before grant joe hooker cringe uh mcelellan huge cringe might be number one right there just this pompous little turd scared scared of his own shadow burnside obviously hugely cringe uh on the confederate side braxton bragg wildly cringe john bell hood amazingly cringe i do 1:7:33 think it's funny that everyone got mad the the two of these huge military bases are named after confederates and it is kind of ***** up but it almost feels like they were trolling when they did that because they're two of the biggest fuck-ups of the confederate army bel hood i mean hood himself personally destroyed his own army by just heedlessly smashing it against uh against the army of the cumberland like at franklin they just had to post up and just watch these ***** march across the field without even doing an artillery cover the way lee did before picks charge and just oh jeb jeb stewart was amazingly cringed just this ridiculous fauntleroy who thought he was thinking fight he thought he was fighting in the english civil war he thought he was prince rupert of the rhine goes on a galavant around gettysburg while they're while they're fighting and has no idea isn't able to provide any uh reconnaissance and then gets uh gets scattered when attempting to attack the reader by custer of 1:8:34 all people and then gets owned at yellow tavern so jeb's are uh crid cringe generally how would i win with the war for the confederates i wouldn't why would i do that that's absurd you're crazy no the only way they had a chance of winning was with uh uh european recognition that's that's the only way so you start from that premise and then work outward i don't really know i'd so dappled back here it's always causing so there i am i'm on the cv i'm on the television whatever you want to call it i'm streaming 21st century streaming who would have thunk it that's funny you think about oh we never got flying cars you know we never got moon cities or underwater bubble cities like epcot but what do we got instead we've got twitch streams and i'm not saying that to disparage them really none of that shit's in there if you think about like all that high modernist sci-fi how much time do they spend on entertainment you know uh things like image transmission and the internet there's nothing even close to the internet in any of that mid-century sci-fi ***** but that's because they didn't realize the deal was gonna break down and people are gonna have to replace any kind of uh meaningful existence with a speculation an interaction with entertainment so what is shock that's where all the actual sci-fi ***** happen instead of having a moon city i get to sit back here and talk to my phone my telephone and have thousands of people watch me over the course of of the broadcast and its afterlife on youtube an entirely different uh place to watch videos and that's because if we had moon cities if we'd actually been able to muster that sort of social resource to do that we probably wouldn't have twitch realistically we probably wouldn't have gaming as we know it as a culture because it wouldn't be necessary it wouldn't be compensatory we wouldn't be needing to compensate for lack of purpose and meaning in the rest of our lives which were either underemployed hyper-exploited i mean presumably if you're on the moon it wouldn't be just to be on the moon it would be in the moon to do something to be part of a project i'm actually kind of uh i don't know i'm over i'm over space travel realistically it seems like it's cope it seems like it's delusional cope by cultures and specifically super rich people to try to imagine that there's some there's somewhere we can start over a new america like oh no the american concept of of endless resource uh consumption to offset all social conflict that's no longer viable in a closed circuit it's no longer viable on a world market it's no longer viable with uh with way too many uh way too much demand put of a biome for for items for pleasures for gigas for szechuan sauces and they're like for little uh minions eraser tip things so what if we do it find another one what if we go find some other new land to conquer a new city on a hill where we get to offload all of our social conflict once again by just grabbing what we want it's not realistic and more importantly even if it was it doesn't solve anything it just puts it off a little longer puts off the final conflict a little longer but that might be worth it if it was even close but it's so far get out of there come on not for the moon enough with mars let's uh let's try to figure out this i mean i don't know how we're going to terraform another planet if we can't keep keep earth terraformed the planet that was already terraformed when we got here it was literally terra and we have managed to un-terraform it that's how ***** bad we are at this ***** you really think we can re-terraform an entire ***** planet how about you try re-terraforming before you start so yeah like uh put chips in the heads of all the rich people where they if they if they leave earth's atmosphere their heads explode i want to ask you guys a question this is relative to god help me it's a tweet but i thought this one was one of the rare ones that you can use to to reveal a larger point and it was something that jonathan shaite said today that got a lot of people upset he was talking about aoc speech from last night when she uses a lot of intersectional language the language of like the contemporary left as we understand it online certainly uh and someone calls that an outreach to millennial language it's millennial language stuff like decolonization and xenophobia and fight in anti-racism like these concepts and chad says i don't think it's millennials i think it's elite institutions now that made everyone lose their ***** because they saw the word elite and i mean shaytan dumbass who likes causing people to get mad at him so you can't take his word for what he's trying to say like elite is there to infuriate people because god damn it people love bristling over the concept of being elite uh and they hate it and they want to thrust it away like a hot potato because that's the fantasy that allowed america to shred its class consciousness over time is that we is that uh we've made that we've made being common a fetish of even our richest citizens which makes it much harder to see class as it actually functions in society but anyway so you know the number of people i saw tweeting today who said well i've just got a degree from a state school and i understand this i just went to a small liberal arts school you never have and you know if you i'll give people the benefit of the doubt that if you read there's a perfectly reasonable argument that if you you read him from what he's trying to say elite means like ivy league institutions like very selective schools and that's not the useful way to talk about it so ***** that ***** jonathan shade he's an idiot this is just a chance to talk about something that's real even though the actual conversation is being had by dullards well ignore what they actually said and pull out what is useful that they could have said so you can actually make something interesting out of it that you could talk about because if you stay in the playpen fighting over the words of the actual ***** and the meaning of the actual moron's words then you will just be as dumb as they are so it's the way trump has made everybody stupider by having to live in the world where his utterances are your entire daily emotional reactive life anyway if we strip the connotation from elite and we talk about like what realistically we're talking about when when because what's what's what does what does it mean when what is cheat trying to say jade is trying to say it's not millennial as in this this whole group of people it is a subset of that group of people now if he means elite by like ivy league people that's wrong 0:8:11 but there is another way of thinking of elite shorn from class and shorn from the the prestigiousness of the institutions and the ties that relate to them that is potentially realistic like do you guys know what the percentage of adults who have a four-year degree minimum have at least detained a four-year degree is in the united states what do you think it is what do you think the percentage of adults with a four-year college degree is off the off the top of your head don't someone says 30 someone says 15 someone says 35 25 it's 27 percent yeah uh as as in 20 in 2020 20 20 27 percent that's not how you would imagine if you lived online and talked about politics online because the people conversating on all points on all of these questions whenever they come up almost universally are among that 27 percent so chait is idiotically and and provocatively and stupidly bumbling into a real observation which is that aoc comes 0:9:12 from a milieu of a subset of millennials meaning millennials who went to a four-year college and absorbed the the social vocabulary and etiquette of college and i think that's a meaningful distinction now it doesn't make them a different class that's that's these people want to like because they want to spend all that time online and the only way they convince themselves it means anything is if the discourse is the only thing that matters in the world and that means that the fact that these people are now like at a separate class position relative to culture to people who didn't go to college then therefore they are the new ruling class that's absurd but it does mean that there is a cultural distinction that has to be just talked about when you're talking about all these other questions because uh there is this distinct belief among a lot of people that the that the college-based vocabulary of american leftism all the stuff all the intersectional ***** we talk about all the stuff about all the language of 0:10:13 of oppression and the language of white fragility and like racial centeredness and all this stuff that you learn in college that it's bad that racism exists and is bad those are the two things you learn in college uh uh misogyny is exists and is bad like that's the one two punch that's what college teachers not everybody who goes to college has that feeling a lot of people get alienated by that because it's so hegemonic they get no annoyed by it and they become like the the elite the culturally elite of the right or uh or of like some third position trying to aggravate both because they're

so alienated from either uh and that they say that that language alienates potential allies among that vast swath that potential those those non-college educated people those non-educ if they're seeing you do this stuff and they're getting mad at you and just even though they would love to sign on to socialism you are making them either turn off completely or turn to conservatism and reaction as a response and the truth or falseness of that theory can never be tested because no one involved in the theorizing it is a member of the group they're talking about because all these conversations around like how to talk about subjects and what subjects to focus on imagine they're creating an imagined non-college educated person because all the people in the inside this bubble are whatever their opinions are members of that subgroup they're not being observed or if they are they can't no they're in a black box because if they were on the other side they would be there like the reasoning seems to be these poor non-college-educated but good-hearted people see you awful people with your awful bitter sectarian wokeness and absurd blaming of whiteness and whatever and making it and then they turn away because that's what i would do if i was in their position but they're not in their position none of us are we are in the bubble and what's going on outside the bubble we can guess at it but we certainly can't have any kind of confidence enough to act from a premise and act like no no i need to fight the battles of the internet i need to joust online with these people because there's this audience of trolls that i'm imagining are there that's in your head dude it's it's just a different version of the same phenomenon in concert in among liberals like the reason biden's the nominee right now more than anything and the reason that there's all those republicans uh at the convention i mean yes obviously it shifts it signals the general shift to the right of the democrats over time but in the in the in the near now like at that level of like decision making by voters it's because they don't vote from a position of um what they want to see they vote for what they imagine someone else generally a more conservative person than them because they believe america is a conservative country because of their cultural surroundings because we segregate by income and by by cultural attainment and so they say yeah i don't care about colin powell i don't care about john mccain but some guy some disaffected republican watching mike now he probably doesn't give a ***** but one way or another it doesn't matter because you can never know you're not him you're just putting yourself in that position but the whole point of them being in a different position does that make sense it's all wish casting what it is is it's people laundering their own anxiety that they are in a bubble by projecting out a fantasy of another woke people do it too their their counter their counter rejoinder is always no like working-class people are basically they're all good-hearted they're all waiting they're yearning to be connected to this network of beliefs that i all learned in college and that take a long time to get to for a lot of people because it's counter-intuitive premises especially from stuff you learn growing up especially if you tend to be white or male and it takes a while to work through the process you have to be committed to it you have to be committed enough to ***** spend four years in a goddamn college and go into debt for the you don't know what they're thinking about any of this you don't know that they're just waiting for some uh some real like son of the soil to arise some richard jojeta guy to lead them to some unwoke socialist paradise you have no idea and what it does is it allows you to deal with ignore the real problem the real functional problem that is far beyond any questions of what people are talking about or any issue that is on the agenda or or any controversy or any podcast or anything it is that there is no connection between these two groups culturally they are separate and the majority we certainly know of the non-college educated in this country do not process the alienation and horror of their lives through a political or class lens which is the only way the class consciousness emerges and traditionally what made that happen was the close quarters and this and the and the the uh social context of living as a working-class person which doesn't exist now and never really existed in the united states and that is really the difference when you talk about american exceptionalism it boils down to the fact that our vastness of land and resources excorporated from natives who are not part of our political calculus could be exterminated meant that we never created the the the uh the pressured situations or very rarely anyway like in pockets certainly at immigrant pockets for example of of the east coast yes but generally did not generalize a a single working class experience and and the class and the class got sort of bleached out of america as distance allowed people to live separately enough that the accumulated experience of living near fellow working-class people dissipated and that's the real challenge and instead people would much rather because it's more fun and you can do it online you can do it in your house you can do it in your underwear you can do it while jacking off you can't do it you know it's easy there's no uh there's no there's nothing stopping you and it's and it's and it's a nice place to dump anxiety and this and sense of purposelessness in life uh but it's not gonna nothing that is attained on that level regardless of how it boils down to the like people say this stuff starts online and then it goes in the real world right but it can never be stopped online not all gremlins are nude that's absurd greta gremlin is never nude she's um somebody asked if huey long could have ended the great new deal by by splitting the vote in 1936 i honestly considering fdr's margin in 36 i suspect and the reality of like the already existing like uh uh mechanism for red baiting that was being twirled up uh by by the powers that be the upton sinclair campaign in california being like the the practice run i don't think he would have hoover and biden are very similar because they're both going to be in a position where they're going to be dealing with the precedent crisis that cannot be handled with any of the available tools but with no willingness ability 0:18:35 or willingness or ability to change them so something's going to have to break off and oh boy so the u.s so so it does look like china and russia are trying to wean us off of the dollar globally they're they're apparently cutting their uh their percentage of transactions that they're doing from 90 to 50. and i know china just bought literally tons of gold uh i mean i still would assume this is hedging uh because nothing in the current situation makes me think that china is in a position to make that change right now uh but they're very i mean they're very wise to have an alternative like 0:19:36 if the if the greeks had really like it really taken the concept of of leaving the euro seriously they could have won but the thing is that the the the germans knew that they didn't the the germans knew that they were bluffing and since the germans knew they were bluffing they were never going to get pushed off their position even after they won that uh referendum it didn't change the calculus and the thing is is that the way to beat that was not to have bluffed or at least to a bluff at a higher level of commitment as in really making moves towards getting their own goddamn currency going again instead of just saying we might do it in the future if we can't get a deal because they'll be like yeah no you late it would be nice if they came back to the drachma because that's a great name one of the best named currencies i would say the drachma is great drachma wonderful the zloty in uh poland also delightful the dong of vietnam how can you not love that uh let me think i'm gonna i i was like 0:20:38 colonists the costa rican currency uh ruble is just kind of fun to say rupee also shekel kind of seems anti-semitic honestly maybe it's just the k in there it's like a comedy sound that you would use to make fun of somebody who really loved money lira is very nice and i'm glad turkey still uses the lira so that it's still around frank is one sounds like you're sneezing too typically self-absorbed oh yes we're french and it's the franc kroner is fun kroner is like all of the currencies in europe like that aren't euro or all by like the relatively you know high hdi countries that figured rightly that the euro wasn't in their interests like in scandinavia and it's all cronus oh yes the quetzal in guatemala that's nice scudo that's a good one dinars are fun i wish this i 0:21:43 wish somebody had the cistercy the old roman cistercy i always liked that it was very very dramatic name for a currency ducats of course i have a ton of dinars somebody sent me a bunch of dinars so i have if they do the revalue uh one thing i don't like about the chinese currency right is that it's the yuan right but also it's the renminbi pick one what's wrong with the ruwan just make it do you want get out of here get out of here people should need to get over the idea of aoc running for president the 0:22:44

bernie was different in a qualitative way and worth supporting for specific reasons everything else is just trying to imagine you can you can have lightning strike twice and i don't think you can and when we saw the results with bernie and the failure to activate that group i was talking about like bernie didn't do it your ***** like argument over a jacobin article isn't gonna do it one way or the other either uh like some 30 caller account saying like that it's uh that it's actually ableism not to follow back it's not going to ***** have any kind of impact if the ***** presidential if the presidential campaign that had hundreds of like what tens of millions of dollars behind it wasn't able to do the ***** job it's gonna have to start from the st scratch ground up that does not mean not electoral it means electoral at the local level 0:23:45 the only place you've seen any movement anywhere and that's good that's where it always starts oh new rights started there the new rights didn't start with president barry goldwater got his ass shellacked in 1964 but then they won started winning town councils school boards incredibly importantly school boards local elections uh and then congress then they could start getting senators they did not start with the president the presidency started moving things it was a momentum thing and that was what bernie was always supposed to be so the better he did the better it would work that strategy of of activating the movement like in the core where they get the core of the earth to start spinning again with the nukes that was what bernie was supposed to be and i don't think i don't think he absolutely failed he certainly six 2016 definitely started something and 2020 continues it it's just that it wasn't sufficient to do what anyone imagined they were going to do in their head which 0:24:46 for most of the part was delusional anybody who thought bernie was going to get her universal health care passed i'm sorry was if they needed to think that to keep going good but it was not realistic the fight was supposed to build a social base for socialism that was the best we could hope for and so we got less than with that but we got more than nothing but it's still that's the process the idea that you could just put another figurehead on top of this process even though it has failed to get into its own you know circulation it's failed to start the process it's failed to kick start the the so if you want to care about elections and i don't think people shouldn't i think that's silly and childish then care about ones that can be won at the local level and i know it's horrible to think of that considering how late it feels but we have no idea how things are going to break we don't how things are going to break loose we don't know what those conditions are going to be you need all you can control 0:25:47 is what position you are in when those things happen and that means finding this the smartest application the most effective and efficient application of your energies and then applying it so that whenever things change whenever the the the fault lines crack and things start rolling downhill that rolling up then you're somewhere that can meet that moment and that is the thing that i can't tell you and that no one can tell anyone that has to come from in them side they have to clear all the ***** gunk off of their windshield sit quietly look at the wife around them for really instead of just reacting to shadows in their mind really look at the conditions of their life and move forward and you say how will i know you'll know but we don't operate at that level that level of clarity we operate at this the fog level where we're always constantly entertaining and exercising uh a distraction on our own minds in order not to have to make look through that clear pain at what's within and what's without we 0:26:48 would rather filter it through this layer of irony or distraction or or mythic heroic uh self-conception or or to carry off social media conflicts with one another that we charge with epic emotional and immoral weight for no reason that's why uh the pale king someone says pale king hours yeah the pale king was about like the spiritual the magical implications of the concept of boredom because boredom is sat with if boredom is is actually engaged instead of annihilated you can get to some pretty profound realizations without anything getting not without needing any intervention without needing to to have the right moment appear to you where you get like aha 0:27:49 that happens sometimes but you can't guarantee it's ever going to happen what you can do is actually try to be bored for a minute and listen and you might get a little yourself someone wants me to rate amy klobuchar's feet posts i will not i will say is let's dispense with the fiction that amy klobuchar doesn't know what she's doing she knows exactly what she's doing this is the second foot post she's ever done this one is clearly intentional she is like all these people an attention monster who whose ego is unsuspectingly huge she ran for president for god's sakes so you know that she is aware of every meme related her she knows everything about throat about she knows everything about throwing the staplers and eating with the comb she even tried to do a horrible disgusting joke about eating with the comb she's fully aware of everything that's ever said about hers which means she knows about that her army of simps and she wants to throw a little gasoline on that feet sip fire and uh i say more power to her 0:28:50 not hurting anybody which she certainly would have done much and whatever she's doing in the senate which i'm sure is monstrous wallerstein world systems theory very important very good stuff i think it's the only real way you can understand how capitalism actually spreads and interacts first with like different systems of local uh social order and then eventually spreads throughout them the capillary action of trade like building veins that bring blood in and actually change the the act the structure of societies just through prolonged interaction someone asked what's the deal with feet i have a theory about the feed thing uh i have no idea if it's true like most of the things i say it's just something that kind of makes sense to me and 0:29:51 that is that the foot fetish the rise of the foot fetish because like foot fetishes have already always existed but they've gone from being marginal things like a creep in a james arrow novel with a bunch of shoes in his arms or something to something that is now the most common fetish and one that is just sort of offhandedly is like if you want to suggest some sort of vanilla kink for a uh for especially a white male character or a male character a straight male character specifically foot is the perfect it's the first one and it's like it's mildly kinky or creepy but it's not full it's like the way that geekiness used to be this actual thing for actual social outcasts and then ***** marvel made it just everybody same thing with the foot fetish what fetish is the marvel movies of uh of of kinks and the reason for that and my theory is is that the modern a guy who grows up now and has grown up like in the last 30 years has for the first time in history been able to access from the age of uh puberty the age of horny all of the pornography they've ever wanted which in my opinion is a terrible 0:30:53 thing and very bad and i feel like uh i'm of the last generation where nudity was a scarce resource like i have distinct memories around like videotapes that i owned uh and uh like taping things off cinemax like that kind of thing uh because it was it was scarce you know it was an incredibly precious resource back in my day but of course what that means is you know if your contact with something that you desire is less then your enthrallment of it is not removed and i think that if you can see like boobs put it into a computer from 13 and just see every boob on earth you're going to eventually boobs are eventually going to be boring you have to find another thing and it has to still be like part of the body that is in general and in public hidden and nowadays that basically means like ass and then so your brain basically rewires 0:31:56 its desire circuit around the dead area where boobs used to be and uh connects it to feet and that's like the process of like being desensitized to pornography that makes guys you know addicted and make it hard for them to have sex for real is because of that process so that's my i have not someone asked if i've read christopher lash i've only read excerpts posted on twitter but i will say that uh i wanted to mention him because in lash makes an appearance because when rake when carter was really ***** like carter was over a barrel with with uh gas lines and inflation had no idea what to do uh and his numbers were tanking and he could not get anything passed in congress pat cattle his like uh his wunderkind pollster uh who would help propel him 0:32:59 to the presidency and who later on became like uh he was like the favorite democrat at fox news during like i think during the trump bush years he would just come out and talk about how the democrats sucked their losers uh and trust him he was the carter guy you know but anyway pat cattle had this like revelation because he read lash and you know oh my god the real problem with this the real problem we have here is not the fact that you know gas is incredibly expensive and people waiting in lines for it or that savings are being destroyed by uh by inflation and the jobs are going away de-industrialized and and all that it's there's a spiritual void at the heart of america and he wrote this huge memo to carter saying we need a letter we need to address america about its soul not about its material conditions and then carter was blown away by the thing and he read lash and then he had lash be read by all of his like top guys hamilton jordan and all those the the georgia mafia guys then and i had no idea this happened like a month bef i think or so before he did the crisis a confident speech that it came to be known as he went to camp david and went off the grid for over a week and had meetings with different groups of of like spiritual and governmental leaders like he had a bunch of governors to ask them like what's going on in your state he had a bunch of religious leaders and he had lash he invited lash to david and asked him like what should i say what should i do and lash told him you know all the stuff about the heart and he's like well what about like you know what about energy prices and what about credit and stuff he's like i don't know eventually jimmy has like this satori moment like i know what i need to say and he he get they get together and they write the thing and when they present it to the press before they're going to do the big thing like they present the idea before they they uh they had the actual speech they handed out lash to the reporters at the at the conference they handed the books out uh to like give him an idea of like what they were actually gonna be going for and then he gave the speech which was very well received at the time it's remembered as him kind of eating ***** but uh and like it's it's an emblem of his impotence as president uh and his lameness and the way he presided over a domestic limp failure but at the time it boosted his approval rating uh but of course you know then things happened ***** gas didn't get any cheaper inflation went up and the ***** hostages got taken that didn't help um and i just think it's really funny that now you got people like oh people need to read lash people need to relash it's like maybe some of the stuff i've seen is good i certainly get like the vibe of what he's going for you know like the and i do think that narcissism is the condition of of the self in neoliberalism it's like hegemonic everyone's a narcissist to calling people narcissists is almost banal because it's the only way that you are rewarded for operating or that the the ideology of the world around you makes sense narcissism is the only lens through looking at human a contemporary life that comports with what you're told it's supposed to be so yes of course we're ***** narcissists and that means that we we uh we tunnel blindly towards what we think is a greater good that is actually just our own worship of self and even when we become political we end up importing that narcissism with us and that undermines our attempts to build solidarity uh yeah that's true absolutely uh but i think it's funny though that at one point in this country at a crucial hinge point in american history in fact the the one of the most important the one that set this the one that broke the back of american labor and led us towards hegemonic neoliberalism the president the president united states and his top advisors had all redlash and and we ended up ***** and i'm not saying it's because they read lash um tom country man rules that guy looks like he has seen some ***** you know what he kind of looked like he kind of looked like uh the guy saul star from deadwood what the john hawks that's it uh he looks like the john he looks like a real-life version of the john hawks character terrifying teardrop yeah that's it it looks like teardrop from ***** tom country man sounds like a like an alien trying to come to earth through customs and just making ***** up on their on their head i am tom country man hello i am tom countryman i'd like to be introduced to your country i love it here is he really the undersecretary of state for international security oh he's one of the deep state guys even like when they got a guy who looks kind of rough and tumble he's still a ***** deep state ***** langley ghoul amazing democrats man laura loomer in congress would be great i mean the funny thing is is that even if she doesn't win and i don't think she will it's apparently a relatively safe democratic district uh but hey it doesn't mean she won't is that she even if she didn't get in like even if she got in she would not be the ***** craziest person elected because i think loomer i don't think she actually goes full cue and on which is not true of the rifle lady the rifle car uh restaurant lady from colorado or the one from georgia both of whom are likely to ***** win and they're both nuttier than laura loomer which think about that is is q and on this generation's fry core what they're all geriatric senior citizens who are on the computer all day yes actually they are this generation's fry core because the guys who would have done that then are doing fry core yeah f r e i core it sounds like fry but that is the correct pronunciation i'm not going to roll my oh someone's wanting someone wants to to monday morning quarterback the soviet the the the the polish soviet war it's one of those that's like the polish soviet war is kind of like uh like uh post-soviet war is pickett's charge for tankies or uh or whatever you want to call them because i think they like that name now i'm not trying to to uh criticize anybody ussr fans ussr the version of the ussr people the version of like lost causers for the conf for the ussr they just think oh if they hadn't if they'd just driven to warsaw and the funny thing is is if that if anybody ***** that up it was stalin which if you're also loving stalin then you've got to figure out a different reason that that war didn't go so good let me guess it was trotsky well the funny thing about people being called revisionists is that i mean if your stance is this ussr was was good until gorbachev showed up well then you're abreznavid and brezhnev had revised a bunch of ***** from even stalin if it's like hungary and chuckle and ***** then it's like all right khrushchev he did a lot of ***** revisionism too and stalin i'm sorry revised ***** it's all of it has to be revised it's a question of what you're revising it to the idea that anything can be fixed in time and not applied to the circumstances of the moment i don't know man it's not very what's the word what's trotsky's whole deal i would define trotsky's 0:43:3 whole deal as a guy who couldn't make the tough call a guy who wanted to have ice cream for dinner a guy who did not want to accept the moral responsibility of being at the and that's what the world revolution was for trotsky it was the thing that was going to come cut through the impossible choice the gordian knot and just slice it for him and since it never happened he and the thing is is that at a certain point if you can't answer the question before you you have to re-examine your premises and like say take take uh take the whole question of like industrialization or uh uh like creating a modus vivendi with peasantry using the market system bucharan versus 0:44:4 zenovia broadly conceived trotsky of course wanted to rapidly industrialize but at the same time he recoiled what he knew it would take to get that ***** grain out of those ***** pet from those ***** peasants and he didn't want to make the choice because that choice was never supposed to have to have been made that choice was supposed to have been obviated by the world revolution following shortly after the martian revolution both lenin and trotsky were operating in october of 1918 from the premise that it would be the beginning of a world revolution and for a minute it looked like they would they were it looked like it might have happened then it didn't happen and they had to improvise from that point but they could not look back and that was the problem like you either have to say like stalin eventually did all right full steam ahead there's no going back the history runs runaway and this is the moral horror if this is horrible it might that doesn't mean it's not necessary or you go like bukhara and you're like you know what maybe martov had kind of a point maybe russia really wasn't ready in the absence of a world revolution maybe 0:45:5 russia really wasn't ready for this and you know this kind of the consolidation stuff like the capital accumulation that's not really supposed to happen under us that's supposed to happen that's that's the dirty hands of capitalism like our system is not built on blood the way capitalism will be that's the whole that's the whole brilliance of the teleology the way we met what we're acting on the morals we're acting from is that we don't have to start a world and the blood we shed will be righteous blood the blood of revolution the blood of punishment of criminals it will not be wholesale exploitation and and and in human instrument human instrumentation human instrumentality uh because that work will have been done by capitalism and but that would have required taking a step back and going maybe capitalism has to come back which is essentially what pokharan was arguing for even though he wouldn't say it that way he was like look this ***** up make a deal with the peasants and this will eventually like dissolve back into something like the bourgeois democracy that technically we all used to think you needed to have before you could get communism drop all our ***** we all used to think that until we decided we didn't 0:46:6 think it anymore because the germans didn't successfully revolt and then after that we could we couldn't take warsaw and it's you got to make a decision so now if you haven't stalling and those guys made theirs bucharan made his but he couldn't make the choice i think that was trotsky's deal and that's why trotsky is a choice of very educated people because even the thought of making a morally monstrous decision is repellent because they they enshrine their own sense of being the good ones the the bet the ones who have absorbed the theory the most successfully and therefore have comported personal morality with sync i i'm talking about discrete choices and 0:47:8 decisions obviously they're all they're all predetermined to a degree but people don't operate from that assumption they operate from a illusion of free will that actually ends up being the stochastic stamping of space-time that propels history forward you have the shape determined by materiality that is unbending and then you have the random application of actions caused by the diluted human brains operating without full it does not somebody ask does it make considering counterfactuals pointless it 0:48:16 doesn't because what you end up i think you can't really distinguish when you're talking about counterfactuals you should it should always be in reference to one another what are more and less likely or possible or realistic counterfactuals and that can be determined by saying what major change could have been caused what's the biggest change that could have come from the smallest number of people either changing their minds or like randomly dying before they are involved and somebody else replacing them you know like and and and from that you can kind of uh get the the aperture of genuine like choice that any given moment uh jill biden man that's 0:49:28 a hell of a speech i didn't really watch it i just watched her looking like looking like she was uh a merry widow honestly like my husband of 27 years is dead and now i'm dr joe biden i think she is a lady macbeth figure because i don't think someone who really loved their husband would put him through this because there's no way she couldn't put her foot down until and made him not not become president i mean the guy is is clearly at sea and aware of it and as such probably very grateful for the few friendly and familiar faces that he sees every day and that ground him and keep him anchored if she said i'm not gonna ***** go with you on this he would be terrified so she's doing it on purpose because she wants to be first lady or more maybe she wants to be edith wilson but that doesn't mean that she is not a uh done did bill 0:50:30 clinton look real or like a deep freight fake man he sure looked uh he looked bad that's for sure and man all that charisma because i mean i've seen the old speeches and maybe it's just because there's no crowd but i think i think it's honestly his life force is finally draining the agreed chrome has run out i guess after epstein's death uh is that he was just sallow and gravely and not he couldn't inflect anything that thing really was like a just a ***** it was a funeral where it was a funeral where the bodies were also uh the guests like the people doing the eulogy were also the uh corpses and the people attending were also the corpses it was just like some sick undertaker just stacks up all the bodies in the morgue and has them all sit in the at the pulp at the at the pews and then have one of them stand next to the cam the uh the casket and then guess who's in the casket us we're in the casket people are loving this new game fall guys i've watched it it looks very easy i think i do very very well very quickly you just run you have a little guy run down a hill that seems incredibly easy why would that be difficult seems like it'd be incredibly easy i might pay five guys i'll definitely play here's the games we know we're gonna play in the very near future uh fall guys sure katamari damasi the rolling up game that looks fun uh and universal europa universalis i'm gonna play that i'll say it right now me and uh trill byrne aka everett aka age of napoleon are going to try to create a uh a unified italy under under venice uh maybe even a continent spanning uh empire so that's going to be fun i want to be a universal doge even if they have to call me a king in oh oh yes napoleon total war we should play that too for sure also i want to try to see if i can like max out the ottomans is there a game where you can try to have the mongols take over europe because that's the thing they actually could have tried i don't think they necessarily could have succeeded because they would have been too far all right looks like crusader kings 2 you can try to have a mongol conquest of no no i know that they didn't uh they were not stopped in europe they could have stayed but it wasn't profitable that it wasn't it wasn't the most useful place to go they had other ideas they had other but there's a way where like they could have stayed but i think it would have all right dudes i'm going to sign off a little early today bye a little bit too much there ugh all right i'm i'm on tv on the computer computer tv way of the future wave of the future wave of the future hey guys so in about 0:1:1 half an hour apparently trump's going to have a speech i'm going to do a react how's that sound that sounds like fun he's probably going to announce there's some experimental vaccine that they're going to like fast track which genius it's it is exactly what a really dumb guy would do in this situation what would a really stupid person do tell everybody that there's going to be a vaccine it doesn't matter if it's going to work or if there is one just tell them and then they'll vote for you goes well with the hydrochloroquine thing and all the ***** patent medicines and snake oil they've been selling his whole career uh that's the thing about the republican party most of all is that they because they fully embrace the notion of the marketized self the the individuated market actors the only moral node they have no compunctions about ripping each other off all the time i mean we saw it with the gofundme kris 0:2:3 kobach is a good example uh ben carson and and and trump and all these guys selling old people medicine that will kill them even though they're also their voters that's one of the things that undermines rule uh capitalist rule is is that is that at a certain level competition is mutually destructive for favor within a structure like the republican party uh is also similarly self-defeating in the long run but in the short run it can be ah but that's because as i was saying yes the other day i was talking about democrats are like they're not just consume they're not just enthralled to this overpowering superego i would actually say that democrats function as the superego 0:3:4 of the american political system and the republicans are the id and the ego is capital and it has to be kept in check or else the whole thing will destroy itself and the fact that the uh the very s the things within that suka superego model both as a party and this is the psychology of people who choose to become democrats eventually undermines the superego's ability to actually check the id in any significant way leading to a death spiral towards oblivion but this is interesting because the vaccine is like the third rail of all the queue stuff because people have noticed that one of the things that has made q expand faster than it might otherwise have is that a lot of relatively apolitical anti-vax people have grabbed onto it which makes perfect sense uh i mean anti-vaccination ideology is perfect expression of alienated uh of 0:4:7 isolated atomized alienation in capitalism right we have people totally disconnected from any kind of uh any kind of like mental conception that can get around the idea of a vaccine because in a in a society that is increasingly technologically uh complicated and necessitates increasing levels of technological sophistication there becomes a bigger and bigger uh psychic gap between specialists and the public i mean we genuinely actually think that you can ***** uh that people should just why don't you believe in science like i'm sorry what are most people's interactions with science in their life they got a combined 100 hours of instruction from a ***** bored uh 0:5:8 gym teacher about about mitochondria that they do not remember because anyone who actually went to school will can tell you that the sh if you don't get continued exposure to something you will not retain it so even if it ever stuck it was gone by the time you're an adult and then you're just told by this technological priesthood to do this thing why you haven't you haven't ascended the ladder of of of empirical and rational thoughts that get from regular joe to someone who knows why you should have vaccines because we assume that science is apolitical oops oh sh turns out nothing is damn owned again owned again by the political reality than the fact that that's what reality is ***** ***** and so there's so and because the democratic party is you know the party of uh the party of freaking science and facts they're hostile to the anti-vaxxers but the thing is is a lot of these people because it's a cross section of people and it's sort of a natural outcropping of different uh social 0:6:9 phenomena it's a reaction to different social contexts a lot of antibiotics people do not have reactionary social views and so they don't really want to be a republican either until and then q comes along to solve the puzzle to to provide what no one really other had no one else was even trying to do which was a broader uh uh uh context for their specific alienation and what that means is that once and so now q has a bunch of people who aren't really along for the ride on trump specifically that came later vaccines were first a lot most cute the q people the original cue and like this is how this is how religions and political uh movements always splinter because you have one group of people who emerge uh to begin something or sign on in an early stage because they have fixation around the certain thing that that at that moment is represented by that movement but over time the movement changes as 0:7:10 conditions and events occur and as people respond to it and join it bringing in new concerns and so you end up with over time sort of these these fissures along lines of who showed up when basically because that's going to influence what your what is what you cared about like q got all the they sopped up all the trump psychos very quickly because they needed an explanation for why things weren't changing why they didn't feel like they were winning even though and even though all but that's something that a relatively apolitical anti-vaxx person doesn't care about they don't need to square the circle of why epic uh mean trump is not uh pwning the libs they don't think of things that way but they do care about vaccines and here's a movement that says hey here are the people who want you to be vaccinated and here's the people who are trying to stop them okay that's donald trump great but if 0:8:12 uh if he's really going out there going vaccine folks you gotta love it you're good bong bong and then you're better it's like magic i said it would just go away and it did it's going away bye-bye by christmas there's gonna be no more comment by christmas and we're going to be saying merry christmas by the way we're going to do it we're going to say merry christmas and we're all going to be alive everyone i'm talking to everyone who hears this will be alive i promise because we got it that's going to ***** rattle the cages of the people who actually care about vaccines and that could cause a little fracture now if vaccine doesn't really show up until biden oh that will only solidify the connection between the gop on one end the the heuristic sort of the social heuristic uh of q in the middle and then anti-vaxx alienated sentiment on the other end just a perfect uh uh or the other way around i guess it's the perfect conveyor belt from from anti-vax sentiment to the republican party because now you will have uh the entire democratic party aligned around ending covert as quickly 0:9:13 as possible so that biden can be as much of a contrast with trump as possible like people were dying like flies and now we got biden and so there's going to be this huge huge democratic pressure to get epically uh down with the ***** owning vaccine and that's going to only compact the snowball even tighter and since there's a lot of native anavax sentiment because there's a lot of native alienated anti-technology sentiment basically neolithism because people have no investment in these technologies they don't know why they exist they don't know how they work and they okay so now that people are saying it's a blood plasma treatment so we're talking about like a serum like at the end of outbreak like a synthesized thing of blood uh that might make a difference for some people but i gotta say that most of your vaccine people might not like that but that's enough of a distinction that it might be able to just 0:10:14 like keep the keep the oh my man and especially if it's all ***** and it never appears which it probably won't realistically then when we do get a vaccine under biden you will have the perfect morality play of epic trump was going to epically save us with a real epic science and then the lizard people using biden as their puppet stole the election and then instituted the vaccine you will see upwards of a 40 refusal to vaccinate i would say you will almost have you would have something like that 35 to 40. higher an income of course higher among the republicans the higher the income the more likely you would be to just take the vaccine because the less you need q the less you need to reconcile because the better things are going for you and so if it's 0:11:17 a choice between keeping the charade up and doing the ***** uh proofs and being able to go to uh to but as i have said and someone can explain to me why i'm wrong about this if we get a vaccine say in a year and a half or let's say let's be optimistic biden gets in we get a vaccine within three months which is not wildly unrealistic i mean it depends on who you talk to because there's people who insist anything less than anything younger earlier than five years isn't gonna happen but i've heard other people say that it could in this case you have so many ***** people out working on it that if you're sharing information at least you could expedite it much more fast whatever let's just say early early biden term right after the 100 uh that will be 0:12:18 telling them they intervened to stop us from getting cured from the disease they gave us in a way that would have stopped us oh no i'm sorry i got off my train of thought so there's a vaccine that comes out like three months after biden that means people start getting it and i know people are worried well what if you got 40 percent who won't take it and like i'm saying it's gonna be 25 to 30 percent maybe 20 let's say 25. we're talking like the hardcore oh my god maybe 30. uh what's is that a big deal other than to them you know like yeah they're gonna keep getting covered and they're gonna they're gonna be thinned out but for everyone else can't you just go back out because everybody you see will either have also been vaccinated or even if they have it it doesn't matter because you're vaccinated am i wrong wouldn't you just be like oh i'm vaccinated now i can go outside like you wouldn't even need to have little bracelets to ensure that people were vaccinated because if everybody is 0:13:19 vaccinated or they ha or they have it then what's and i guess the question is well what if you have it but to that i say there are only there are certain things you can do in certain things you can't do and force back forcibly vaccinating that many people is a thing you can't do and still have a democracy so i'm sorry you're just gonna have to you're just going to have to work it out yourself you know you'll either catch it and be cured or catch it and then get over it in which case hey you got anybody it's great come through the party you'll catch it and die in which case that's too bad but what do you want people to do about it uh or you'll eventually get the vaccine like what is the i'm not talking about if it works or anything like that i'm saying hypothetically if it did if it was an effective vaccine would not what 0:14:20 would the difference be about whether or not we could actually like reopen and try to reestablish normality big big lol on that concept but what would what would an effect how would it affect how would the question i'm guessing what i'm asking is and someone answered me now after i've clarified it what would what is the actual consequence like in terms of what is the consequence of a mass refusal to take the vaccine on the project of reopening uh the public spaces and allowing people to go

CUSHVLOG 67. THE CHIVING WILL CONTINUE UNTIL MORALE IMPROVES

inside places and go to baseball games and all that stuff what is what what is the what is them not getting it how does that stop you from doing the other thing see people are saying well some people can't get vaccines sure but that's not everybody if you're saying people are gonna die okay so everyone is basically saying it comes down to the poor unfortunates who can't get vaccinated and can't depend on herd immunity to which i say that sucks but what do you do about it realistically if the because the only alternative i'm reminding you is some sort of coercive vaccination program on millions of people are you willing to do that and more importantly do you think that the political capacity exists for anyone to do that in this country someone says vaccine is not effective if everyone doesn't have it if i'm it's effective in that way what i'm saying is every person who's vaccinated now has a simplified risk calculus of going outside you're saying no getting vaccinated doesn't mean you won't get it okay but it significantly increases the likelihood you won't get it right what is the percentage like if it's zero you have zero protection what is the what is the uh amount that you would uh be protected someone give me a uh percentage like if i'm gonna get if i'm gonna get a hundred exposures to covid what percentage of those would be prevented from turning into infection so it's not it's not a guaranteed cure but it is a significant prophylactic is what you're telling me this isn't it's like you're saying you're acting like there's no like a distinction doesn't matter like you either no no you could get it therefore it's as good as not getting one and you should act like you didn't get one and i don't think that's true i don't think you guys you guys are talking about herd immunity i'm talking about individual person getting it i need someone to distinguish you're all throwing numbers around here i need what are you talking about in terms of i get it how many times out of a hundred will i not get corona if i'm exposed to it that's not i'm not asking about herd you can't know in advance is what right it's more than zero what i'm all i am saying is that you if you could get a thing that millions of people could use and would i think millions of people would get vaccinated immediately wouldn't you just go outside wouldn't at that point aren't you tamping it down enough that everybody except the most freaked out people are gonna be fine with going out this is all i'm asking i'm not asking i don't know the science is beyond me i'm not that guy i'm asking about the social psychology of reopening with a vaccine even if people don't take it you guys are all like getting well no no people some people yeah i'm talking that's an individual calculus of someone who's incredibly online and focused on this and filtering i'm talking about regular people hey there's a vaccine now will they not just go out and could they not probably just go out until it's a sure uh until it sorted itself out i'm only asking because are you guys who are fixating on these numbers and worried about all these people are you saying that we should forcibly

vaccinate millions of people so that's what i'm asking i'm hearing yes okay i mean if you think that that's the right thing to do a feasible thing to do or the smart thing to do i don't know what to tell you i'm saying realistically what happens is hey everyone's freaking like i'm just saying is that there's this like oh no we're gonna get a vaccine and it won't matter because people won't take it and i am saying no we will get a vaccine people won't take it but everyone else will just kind of go along with it and it'll eventually sort itself out that's what i'm saying and yeah you can have like an incentive structure you can say like hey you get like a tax refund if you get the vaccine or something although that's a bad idea because then people who would get it otherwise just say we'll say they won't so they can get the money he says no somebody says eventually after another 50 000 dead no biggie you people it's amazing how this happens all of these moral questions get cut off from each other and and examined individually and and say and through a lens of of total isolation like a butterfly in a ***** under under glass i'm not talking about 50 000 people dying because we just kind of let people get vaccinated and deal with it i'm talking about that versus what the ***** 82nd airborne at those things have to be held at the same time in your hands i mean yeah you could do i mean obviously you do the thing of uh you can't go to kids can't go to school if they don't get the vaccine yeah duh that's easy that's not that's a no-brainer but there's you think it's just gonna be kids of course there's one app the other option and this is i guess you would argue the most moral option and that is you get the vaccine people won't take it but then you don't reopen the economy and you don't let people go back out again and you keep things closed down because of that hurt immunity and those vulnerable people and that is another one where i think that is more morally defensible and in fact morally superior and abstract to either the other two options inconceivable both as politics so i just want to know like when people are arguing these things in isolation i like to bring them back together and then ask people like you you you want to make like these very strident demands of the moment but that means that you have to be willing to embrace the implications of those and this specific instance i'm referring to it's mass forced vaccination and now the virtues and advices of that as a policy uh i'm not that interested in talking about because it's never going to happen but i would just like to say that i think that they're pretty ***** complicated and it's not a no-brainer and it needs to be considered when you're considering other things but uh if there's a blood serum i don't think it will actually ever be released which is too bad uh because it makes way more sense to promise that uh he actually it's a kind of amazing the brazenness of it right before the uh right before the midterms he said we're going to pass a bill a huge middle-class tax cut we're going to pass it middle class tax cut midterms happened it never he never mentioned it again he gets elected it's like blood serums out the windows he could just say all you'd have to say is we looked into it and it looks like the vaccine is gonna be better it's gonna be better we're gonna wait for the next seat okay we're gonna wait we're gonna wait for the back seat uh and if that happens then you will definitely see some stress within the but if it was real and they did actually put it out there wow i would not take that that's i would say that just right now but i would be very interested in seeing who did and what happened as a result and you know what it might be good it might work but i would certainly want to wait and see i would not want to be in the first wave so now i want to speak uh wait a minute somebody said i won't take the trump vaccine and that that's like the the trump people not thinking this is not a vaccine people are saying that's the whole point is that they're saying it's some sort of blood serum and that they're like pushing it through experimental trials or whatever considering what these guys like to put out as public i would not take that and like i said it doesn't even exist i mean in terms of it being a real uh uh product that will actually be available certainly before the election i mean the hydrochloroquine thing was just an earlier version of that find a thing that exists to throw it at so that people will stop freaking out about it and now my pillow guy has got another one which is apparently even more deadly to the to people who take it more poisonous than hydrochloroquine uh oleander right that's it yeah that's why mike lindell is my pick for the guy everyone says who's going to emerge from after trump and a lot of it depends on does trumpism survive intact or does it break up if it breaks up i think all bets are off and a bunch of options come up tucker carlson gets brought up a lot i think that's potentially true i have less i'm less sanguine about any of the politicians the actual political figures because they're such stiff uh but they could grab they could like pick back up a chunk like the people who used to be ted cruz people before they decided trump was the king maybe they could be weaned back towards regular politics the the the people who are trump from the jump are not are beyond help so that chunk is going to have to be suborned somehow uh because they will only take the reddest meat but i think the my pillow guy you know i think he's got it he's got the story he's got the just dumb guy voice and attitude he's more authentically himself i think than any of these other people including tucker ***** carlson who is as phony as a three dollar bill i trump lies more than any american president ever he lies compulsively but he is also the most authentic president we've ever had and i don't know and i think that's what they're addicted to i think that the real trump heads are addicted to that and that's a lot of people now in the trump in the democrat and it's not everybody in the republican party people say the party is trump now it's like that's because of the array of forces like they like trump because libs hate him and and like it's a context if he's gone then their calculus changes if

there's another option their calculus changes but that chunk man they're not going anywhere and they want authenticity more than anything and that's why they're never gonna ***** cleave to a guy like cotton or ***** holly uh they're gonna need they're gonna need the real the real thing just a person who even if he's lying to them is lying them from a place of sincerity if you know what i mean uh and that to me the only figure on the national stage right now who fits that what i mean by trump is authentic is that he is transparent trump does not have an artifice he is naked raw need he is naked raw agreement as are his fans he reflects their experience in in a magnified fantasy version he is them someone who has spent their entire life getting basically what they want and so that connection is more authentic than the connection between any paul any president and any chunk of the my pillow guy putting money on him uh so i wanted to say something about the snyder cut which is apparently coming and i'm very excited i'm glad they got it and someone had a very good tweet the other day where they said because now there's the teaser toilet teaser a teaser trailer for it out and they said that people hate the snyder cut people because they're the only ones on twitter who actually ever got anything done by tweeting and i thought that was very very correct and astute but and that's why i can't wait to see the movie though because snyder really does represent culturally a very similar figure uh to trump in that he is such a a figure that has been fixated on at like a psychic uh libidinal level like at the level of fantasy at the level of identification there's been a psychic infusion with the concept of zack snyder that is similar to the way people feel about trump and it's from a subset of people uh who are essentially the same sort of stunted manch child as most people of their age right they grew up in the same culturally desertified the the cultural output was such that they never had any pressure to move towards anything challenging artistically they stuck at the level of adolescent art but they're and that happened to a lot of people it happened to me you know i'm trying to break through that i'm reading i'm reading again and i'm enjoying it but for a while there i was just like turn my brain off just at the level of junk and i'm gonna critique it through a lens and that makes it smart i'll fully cop to that and that's that's an endemic phenomenon but there are some guys among that who are cursed with a specific alienation a specific uh uh discomfort within the culture usually around some sort of grievance uh that makes them aware that they are enmeshed in a in network of kitty ***** and at a deep level dissatisfied with it but unable to break out of it they cannot transcend the thing because they aren't aware of the conflict they don't know what why they're actually dissatisfied with this cultural context they don't know what their soul is really crying for which is something transcendent they can't even see it they're they're like dogs as they said and dogs can't look up as they say in sean of the dead uh they're unaware of this

of the thing that's actually the engine of their dissatisfaction and so the way that they uh that they manage that the the the gap between the art that they kind of are 0:31:49 aware dimly that they should be consuming and what they do is to take the garbage crap that we all consume and divide it into kitty ***** they don't realize though that they are already working in the limited horizons of the culture that they live within and that the real problem is that they aren't pushing through them they aren't resolving the contradiction they're trying to to sublimate it and so that's why they hate marvel i was like marvel is kitty ***** this is for little children and then they have to and because they know at their heart of hearts that that's not a convincing argument because they're not convinced because they're so miserable they're still unhappy with it it doesn't work for them it doesn't provide the sucker that they think it can't they have to put off that extra energy onto resentment towards people who would deny the reality that they are the adults that this is serious art and so 0:32:52 they they fixate on fighting on behalf of uh of snyder within the cultural realm if any of this sounds familiar by the way please let me know if any of this rings any bells in terms of the way the culture well conversations and political conversations are conducted and who's conducting them and so that's why they demanded the snyder cut because the snyder cut is prestor john the snyder cut is the resolution of the contradiction the snyder cut is the movie that will finally validate their point of view it's the movie that will finally give them the transcendent experience that they cannot receive from the limited stunted art that they consume but still believe is possible because it could be produced by sac schneider if the feminist ***** ***** sjws didn't stop him because they were too triggered by how awesome he was he's he's going to he's going to redeem them he that that's that movie will redeem them 0:33:54 and that's why they fixated on so much but within these kind of questions the worst thing in the world is getting what you want it is absolutely the curse because and the reason they're not happy now like they won they actually did it they succeeded and they're still out there screaming at everyone who is even mildly disrespectful to zack snyder or to his the ***** trailer or whatever like why are you mad dude why are you so pissed you won why are you so pissed it's because they know deep down that it's not going to do it it's not now that they have it they're not going to be satisfied with it and of course when they see it they're going to be blown away it's going to result it's going to sit there for a while they're going to have triumph in their hearts but it's never going to do what they want they're imagining it when they're defending it the movie in their head that they're defending now is not the movie that they will see it can't be the movie they will see it will be less than it will not complete the circuit that they think will because no movie like that can complete the circuit that they're demanding of it they will then be left to start the circle again 0:34:56

and and turn it and and you know what it'll be the argument will be i don't feel the way i should about seeing this because those ***** those marvel scumbags those sjw pink hairs they didn't like it they didn't recognize how good it was they didn't recognize that it was great because the wicked flea would not pursue it they know it's not great they know deep down it's not great so the person reminding of them them that of people who are reminding them with every utterance that it wasn't that great will drive them insane and it will turn them towards the same cycle of resentment and there will be an and because as long as zack snyder makes movies the next one can be the one the next one can be the promised land and on earth they're just going to stay they're going to be mole people digging through the cultural dirt 0:35:57 looking for a nugget of ***** and screaming at everybody else because they can't reckon with the reality of the insufficiency of what they've been uh consuming and it goes the other way too the marvel soy people who hate uh zack snyder uh they i don't think they would argue that it's that i think they would they would be like you think i i don't understand uh that uh marv that comic book movies aren't great art uh buddy i know they're not great art that's not their point of delusion they aren't deluded that this is great art this is adult uh entertainment which it does not it is for kids and that's fine kids can watch it and adults can watch kids movies and enjoy them you just can't make it your entire ***** cultural diet and that's all these people eat their teeth are ***** rotted from the ***** sugar they're just eating uh they're eating the frog the lucky charms all marshmallows every day for ***** breakfast lunch and dinner and their teeth are rotting out of their head and they have no idea why they think some ***** somebody's poisoning them or something they think the sjw's or something somebody or whatever poison but the marvel 0:36:58 soy people who like gesture towards higher higher uh higher intellectual expressions because they watch prestige tv they don't really read i mean and maybe they read a few books they read more books than the snyder guys do but not that many more and they watch better tv shows so they would say yeah no i understand but this is mass culture and we have to deal with it and it has its own values and i'm fully but they fight the same war but it's along a political axis not an aesthetic one the snyder movies are problematic the snyder movies are dude bro the snyder movies are toxic masculinity and fascist and make people go on school shootings and make the world a worse place marvel movies are about inclusion marvel movies are about acceptance they're about everyone uh recognizing uh the epic witness of diverse multicultural uh america and so watching them and enjoying them makes me a good 0:37:59 person the snyder guy doesn't care about being a good person he's just ***** he's epically uh twisted he cares though about being a smart person he cares about being intellectually advanced in a way incommensurate with his actions which are watching

***** the marvel person the soy man of the marvel world he sees himself first and foremost is good smart too of course but he has more pretensions there because he has in his mind has something other than marvel that he can point to even though it's not much better even though it's it's like oh wow you have the lucky charms with the uh the the grain part for dinner every day much better but it's enough for him to see a distinction and distinctions all that matter the only thing that matters is that you notice a distinction what they care about is being a good person and watching this ***** makes them feel good that they're good people and they're advancing good and they're making the world a better place but they are and so the question 0:39:0 of like well how come things are still shitty how come the world sucks dicks through a straw maybe your actions aren't enough maybe what you have decided is your activism is hollow masturbatory ***** and self-delusion because wow nothing seems to be getting any better uh their answer is what's the ***** cider people they keep putting bad culture out there if we just had soy epic marvel stuff if that was all that was out there oh man we would have pie in the sky when we die we would have a just society and we would be the vanguard of creating one it's these ***** and so they have to epically own the but it's the same process it's it's a laundry it's it's a cultural laundering of alienation and in this case alienation from the self alienation from one's deeper aspirations because of the suffocating blanket of cultural uh hegemony produced by a mass market capitalist and i hope and i want to re re 0:40:15 reinforce the fact uh the re-emphasize that that phenomenon that that the structure of that dynamic that's universally universalizable along every axis of politics when people are unaware of the source of their dissatisfaction around a part of their life a spectral cause that they can engage with uh at the at a removed level from the reality of their of their alienation and and then they are met by people who have a similarly uh allied uh alienation but find them to be this the the symbol or the their ideas or the phenomenon to be the symbol of their so oh ***** the thing started all right i'm 0:41:19 going to go on twitter here and see if anything's hashtagging oh they want to who's hashtagging who's trending who's trending in hashtagging i just started the august book shout out to david dixon who sent me a copy of his book the book that i wanted to write back in 2014 but lacked the uh scholarly rigor or training uh language skills uh attention general brain power to do and uh when i abandoned it i felt kind of reassured knowing that this story was so good someone was gonna ***** do it and i did an inebriated past about willach just so that something was out there uh and now there's a freaking uh a book by david dixon called radical warrior that's the life of my boy uh david dixon and i would like to shout out to him for acknowledging in the very second sentence of his acknowledgments how much of a ***** it is to 0:42:20 translate froctor uh on old documents that's actually the thing more than anything else i have very bad german skills i took it all through college i never got it in my brain it's like math there are certain symbolic orders that my brain cannot really process at least not in a way that i know how to like push forward without just giving up out of laziness and that is languages and uh are foreign languages and numbers they don't work for me and uh so that really hurt but i figured i could like ***** it i could like you know kind of squint at it and get maybe help but it was trying to get from the fractured german but i'm looking forward to it i'm i'm just glad somebody wrote it and it's like i'm i didn't write it but now the good thing is is i get to read it which is more fun definitely than writing oh my god that sucks all right uh let's see nothing's trending yet is this thing happening none of the trending topics are relating to uh to eliminating to trump does it have did they did they delay it i'm gonna go to cnn here i'm gonna go to the fake news media i'm gonna go to cnn oh yeah i gotta turn that off jumps coronavirus announcement convalescent plasma is this a way to treat it once you have it or is it a yeah see they're saying it's been used to treat patients but that's people who have it that's different like what people want because nobody wants to get it it's like hey this is this will make you less likely to die if you get the thing that like permanently scars your ***** blood vessels yeah they're not saying if it's treating maybe he'll say today it doesn't look like he's out yet um yeah it's not good i mean he's just they're expedite they're gonna expedite it come on come on you really think it's gonna if anybody thinks this expedition uh is is consummated by november 5th there's a couple of bridges in the near vicinity that i live in that i could ***** sell you there's zero percent chance that's going to happen but it'll be a big thing that his supporters can wrap in their head as a reason that he needs to get reelected and it might work on a few saps but at this point if you're that big of a sap i think you just already like biden you know or i mean sorry if you're a big enough zap to do that i think you're already like on board with trump uh i have no idea yeah he's going to say we're going to expedite it and that's really interesting is that i was reading the article is that they're saying that like this is stuff that's been tried in europe and fda or the fda is is holding off because they need more confirmation and of course trump just gets to say no they're doing it to stop me from winning they don't want they don't want a big win they're doing it and it's like once you've exposed the meta that way in politics you are have ascended to god mode because you can neutralize anything it's a question of getting 51 of people to accept that line of reasoning that's the problem if you just if that just satisfies his base that's not enough like we're really in a question like this election really does come down to the planet middle right so you've got the two we're talking about the three balls of people right you got the republicans and the democrats and you got that third floaty ball in the middle of people who do not feel not necessarily that they might vote more one way or the other it's the more important thing is that they do not consciously filter outside events through a partisan lens the way that republicans and democrats do and these are the guys that are for the jump ball and they're essentially being asked to respond to one of two fantasies and i think this is probably true in every election two projected fantasies of reality uh one from trump that 170 000 people is a totally acceptable number of people to die during a thing like this uh it's all the chinese fault anyway and you know those state governors uh and what about fauci that guy's uh guys he's very very very bad he's very bad for me and the other who says joe biden writes his own speeches uh and actually joe biden uh can fix all of this and that this isn't just a systemic problem that's going to continue until uh it like runs into either technology or calamity which is basically all of our problems now like there's either going to be a point where technology intervenes to to uh inhibit collapse or uh it just keeps sliding off the uh but no no biden's going to fix it being's going to make any of this work those are two fantasies and i'd say the one thing that gives trump a edge there and i think that is the thing that you know i'm not one of these people who say oh trump's definitely going to win or watch this horrible convention and say look at how terrible that is biden's doomed i don't think that's true at all i'd say biden's still the favorite uh but he could absolutely lose even in this situation because that jump ball is being attested by these two fantasies one is biden's gonna fix all the boo-boos and he writes his own speeches and he loves you and he loves ice cream and he loves america and he loves his family and he loves his dead family and he loves cars and did i mention he loves you and your family that's the other one trump loves you trump's stopping the bad guys not even trump loves you they hate you and i'm the one standing between them them and you and they're the reason all these people are dead and they're the reason everything's bad and i gotta say that one has a lot more going for it as a narrative because think about how q spices that up like what is biden biden is trump bad naughty man uh cheeto russia good guy loves america jesus loves you trump is cannibals i mean how do you beat that as just like a brain stem narrative and of course the thing that prevents that from being the way the politics goes because if that worked everyone would do that but they don't because there's credulity it has to be a credible thing it has to align with the perceptions of a large enough group of people and that has generally been the thing that has prevented demagoguery from going too out of hand within the democratic system as we have it but the problem is is that that's eroding credulity is eroding as the internet dissolves her ability to distinguish reality from fantasy completely and at a certain point people because of the stream of information how fast it moves throw up their hands and grab for some epistemic life preserver to make sense of it and since it's all it's all flow none of it is material none of it connects to the world it's just a spectacle then credulity isn't a question and cannibals want to eat your children connects it does not have to go through because everything is everything else everything is just the flow it's just a giant river of ***** and you're just looking for a hand and this hand is telling you 0:50:36 that it's uh democrats want to eat your children what do democrats tell you trump is russian what the ***** why would or he's bad and he's bad for people most folks aren't thinking that way that sanctimony is not something a lot of people center in their politics the way that liberals do the way that liberals do they do in their own ways but there's a specific sort of public sanctimony that goes along with the liberalism that liberals generalize so which of the things am i going to believe if i if it's all the same if it's all just if it's all just a way out of the maze it doesn't matter am i going to pick cannibals are going to be your children or joe Biden writes his own speeches at that point aesthetics enter into it and like pleasure enters into it and and 0:51:39 what's more pleasurable than the idea of playing in a giant cosmic i mean it's almost like scientology it's like scientology was i want to take like the vastness of the jets age this this world where god is dying and out of his rotting corpse brings this metal marvel of technological innovation that can end and and bring life anywhere at a moment and allows the idea of a god to be embodied in a man that's tempting feels like anything's possible in that moment and hubbard was there to say it is and q is uh q is similar in that it's similarly totalizing out of the moment because of course now it's a moment of catastrophe that was a moment of triumph that was america transcendent resplendent this is american decline q is scientology for an american 0:52:41 decline but has the potential to because the client is much more accelerated uh and the social order is much more frayed so that ***** like crackpot world views have fewer uh resistance points to have to go through they'll turn into gamma rays and just pierce your ass it becomes more widespread but that was mormonism too 19th century the amer the reality of the american frontier had an implication and it was of godhood for man and the mormons they were the they were the most sensitive antenna to connect to that just like the scientologists were to that moment in the 50s and now q is in the current moment of crisis and reversal that's gone but the need for the narrative the need for uh transcendence uh is that is everywhere and 0:53:43 there's an alternative to it there's an alternative transcendence to seek of course to the cue fantasy of annihilation and uh and the ragnarok it's that good old thing socialism it's kind it's world communism baby it's expanding the human spirit until it encompasses all into one self-aware being a world spirit if you will it's the only psychic alternative it's the only way to tac the only other way to attack your boat everything else will drift you eventually towards annihilation everything even if you think you're creating a third way well congratulations it might look good for a while

your path might look good for a while but eventually the current is going to pull you over to obliterate obliteration and annihilation eventually you will resolve all those contradictions towards suicidal destruction or you orientate torch yourself towards the awakening of the world spirit that you might not get there you might have a life of reversal because you can't control events you can't control the tide but god damn it you can grow your muscles as you ***** paddle and you can maybe get there and along the way you gain abilities to maneuver righteousness if anybody is cute in the chat please so there's a number of people claiming to be cue in the chat darn how am i going to tell one from the other ***** oh well talk about belarus what would i what do i know about belarus how would i have an informed opinion oh i want to say one thing about that uh the i don't even remember the tweet about oh not voting in the elections like going to going to a restaurant there's a bunch of things wrong with all those tweets like there's also the david sedaris one about if you're on the airplane and they give you two choices for a meal and one of them is chicken and the other is ***** you know uh of course raising the question of why are you on an airplane that has ***** in their kitchen maybe you should get out of there uh it does the specific idiocy of those metaphors is beside the point although it is manifest and manifold uh the react the thing that's hilarious and basic is that it's all viewing they're telling on themselves they're subconsciously revealing that the reality that they see i mean that they see voting as a consumer choice it is p i mean the like add buster ***** is like oh democrats and republicans that's like coke and pepsi but then you have actual liberals who ***** ma when when when trying to create a metaphor to describe the voting process invariably settle on the metaphor of a consumer choice when you're pick when you get to things and the thing is they're not wrong about that it is they think that that is that means that that is a sufficient expression of like some sort of civic democracy no no no it is insufficient as insufficient as consumer choices are to stand in for real freedom because if consumer choices can stand in for real freedom what is your problem with any what is your problem with libertarianism at all because the libertarian idea is freedom is the freedom to choose as as friedman put it and specifically the choosing the market that's freedom that is libertarian notion that's what undergirds neoliberalism if you think that's bad then you don't think that our voting system should because if it is real freedom just be a no i'm saying voting would not be a consumer choice voter voting would be it would be a culmination of one's political life not necessarily that you'd have to like be you know posting not that you'd be posting all the time but that you would have political investment in life you'd be in a union you know you would be managing say some sector of your employment like i'm talking about should here i'm talking about hypothetical say we had a real existing socialism like you would be directing

your work life from a position of authority of of co cooperative authority with the fellow workers rather than subordination to management voting is just an expression a bureaucratic expression of of of those democratic structures it's just a signal point within a corpus a social corpus that contains the economic and the political and want that is that is that is what voting should be and more importantly voting that isn't that cannot truly direct the democracy in a way that can that can that can lead that can create sufficient change for the moment let's just say that it can move things it will it will absolutely move the flow in one or another direction but it cannot do it on on the timetable let's just say that the current moment requires in terms of urgency around certain questions of and i think you could say well what about what next what next is the challenging part but a lot of the reason that people don't go to what next is one they don't really want things to change because they're smug right which rich liberals or they kind of know there's nothing to do and so they freak they don't know what else to do so they clutch that thing that they think they can control that's why they fetishize the vote so psychotically because it stands in for a bunch of freedom they know they don't have and the first step towards breaking from this mind control is to recognize that this consumer model for democracy is is not operative is insufficient to the moment not that you can't participate in it not that you can't run for office the people shouldn't run for office and voting should happen but that it is insufficient as a sole basis for politics which is what it is now everything is a spook but the thing that sterner didn't get is that the ego is the biggest spook of all the ego is phonier than the rest of it the phoniness and the fakeness and the and the delusion of the ego is what generates all the ***** social spooks in the first place it's the it's the uh the containment grid that gets shut down at the end of ghostbusters that's why the only way that uh we could have a social order that allows for real freedom and to banish some of these most harmful spooks is to diminish the ego not to reify it as the soul uh aperture of meaning good lord it's it is a it's a it's it is a genuinely counterproductive delusion we need it in order to navigate physical space but over time it pulls us out of a social fabric and makes us able it makes us create structures that are ghosts real maybe i'm now fully on maybe am i agnostic now on all para paranormal uh stuff i if aliens exist i would i would bet that they were probably uh extra dimensional rather than uh extraterrestrial well the extraterrestrial technically yes but not not distant in the current moment in the current universe that's what i mean but maybe i got the shrugs on all that i just think of all that dark matter just sitting there you know i think of all that dark matter everywhere all over the place and how the hell do i know what's in there i do love uh that marx wrote more words denouncing sterner than sterner wrote himself which i find very very marks of him he would have been he would have loved the posting wars that's the thing but but but the difference is is that he existed in a cultural context when posting was praxis due to the emergent nature of uh of media and the still tight uh social bonds in emerging he has subscriptions to those magazines he never waves when he goes by he's hiding 1:5:14 something from the rest of us what's in there what's in that there about dark matter he took down the from the pepper tree he has no children of his own you see if biden wins and things keep getting really terrible and q-related political violence uh starts spiking this is gonna be the song of uh 2021 this is going to be every every other every 1:6:15 third crack-headed or just crack-skulled suburban q guy whose mortgages do maybe grandma died of kovid getting closer to sawing the end off of a shotgun and going to the local democratic party headquarters or papa john's well no not papa john's the pizza of course there's also enough formaldehyde to choke a horse second civil war they say antifa versus on i don't think so guys i think that's portland i think that's portland you can see it as a prefiguration and i think it is pre-figurative in certain ways certainly a way around the way that uh what law enforcement is responding i think that is pre-figurative but the social element i think might be specific to that 1:7:17 context the specific social dynamic in portland between antifa and the proud boys and a prayer circle or whatever the ***** to me it feels sort of sweet generous or relative or more like like a concentration of elements that exist in other places but that in portland are so specifically uh condensed that they lead to the cycle that i don't know is generally generalizable i don't know i am saying once again from a position of ignorance i'm doing the shruggie as always doing the shruggie chiving keeping calm and chiving on uh okay i think and now we've established everything is inherently worthless and there's nothing in the universe with any kind of objective purpose and i scream a hundred years split the sky with a thousand curses a grammatical that can do and you wouldn't match the surface too many implications not enough time to make 0:1:2 them specific too many generalizations not enough time to make them sit back hello it's overcast it might rain i'm warning because if it gets really bad i'll probably have to go inside the night is overcast there is a foreboding about about there's this feeling of tension but uh i'll keep an eye on it oh god i wish i looked when i wear this is a terrible shirt and it looks like crap and it has this big round terrible collar and i still remember that i ***** went on television wearing this ***** thing once god i like to think that i have a little a modicum more uh social awareness to do that 0:2:5 now but i'm now on twitch which is i guess the modern television and i'm wearing it but it's i'm cycled through my clothing and i don't want to wear anything again too recently i get neurotic about it so now i got to take go to i got to do a little laundry but man this shirt is really terrible i should just throw it out so i don't even i don't even like get tempted to wear it ah i am flexing with the drip that's right folks i'm flexing with the drip we are streaming the rnc uh last week we just did tuesday wednesday thursday this week though because the republicans are always more fun and have more juicy ***** uh i mean the first night we're gonna have the gun couple from st louis and dj tj who are both the can't misses in my opinion so 0:3:6 me and law and option are gonna be streaming tonight too uh i don't know who else will be on uh virgil said he might do it but it'll be at least us but then we're gonna have more amber or felix and other special guests will be all through the week oh and on third and on wednesday i should put this out here uh before that and after uh the fym team the streaming guys tom and those gentlemen uh will be doing a fundraiser for the milwaukee freedom fund related to providing i think jail support and other help to protesters after the horrifying police shooting that just happened in kenosha uh and that's going to be happening before that's gonna happen from seven to nine and then we're gonna hop on at nine we're gonna do the convention and

then we're gonna do some more uh spoofs and goofs with the fym crew afterwards and that'll be donating raising money for the milwaukee am i jfk junior well that's just ridiculous oh come on uh what did trump say about bernie today is he trying to do the triangulation thing where he reminds people that bernie's a good guy and wonderful and we love him uh and that the dnc stole the nomination from him which is very very clever but very disingenuous because if bernie had gotten the nomination i think honestly bernie got the nomination trump might have fully embraced cue by now he might be going he wants to eat your children this brit cause he's terry he was terrified of bernie sanders socialist appeal because he has an understanding because he's more connected to to popular trends than bloodless vampire republicans he sensed that there was something stirring in the masses that could have potentially been connected to things like medicare for all i mean the guy wanted to run for president in 2000 on the reform party platform with medicare for all basically as the principle of domestic reform he has that animal instinct and so he was scared of bernie and he would have nothing else so he would probably be fulfilling on because that would be the handiest tool the whole convention would be pictures of bernie like photoshop next to anton levay and a folks eats babies this guy is bernie sanders he seems like a great guy he's a bad guy anyway what did trump say about bernie they say he would have been unbeatable that's pretty funny because it's true and he can admit it now that it's no i don't think he called him a triflin hoe that sounds ridiculous he said he was the greatest loser of all time that's i actually just rewatched the stuff somebody asked me i saw the blob i rewatched the stuff the stuff has good stuff in it but it's not very good it's a great performance by michael moriarty more than anything that's the thing about a lot of those larry cohen movies is that the movies aren't that great but ***** moriarty is fantastic he's doing like this method goofy counter-intuitive ***** in all of his movies with them like that and q that makes it interesting even if the direction's flat and it's very choppy apparently it was much longer and the version i don't know if there's ever been a director's cut but the original cut of the stuff was much longer and you could tell it's very very uh herky-jerky and uh and missing a lot of stuff and it doesn't have a lot of energy as a result of that but michael moriarty is fantastic having paul sorvino in there basically playing a fictionalized lightly fictionalized version of bogue rights fantastic uh garrett morris is delightful as chocolate chip charlie but the whole thing with the stuff none uh somebody says the next carter was the first guy who told people to uh to do more with less and he says no that there was like there was meat there was a whole thing about meat uh with nixon but the thing about that is that was an emergency that was an emergency um that was an emergency situation and it was nixon specifically it was mixed with it was part of a broader policy of kicking the can down the road

because remember uh so carter faced with the ch with the uh with the reality of stagflation decides to to start do austerity nixon was faced with that same option in his first term but he was fully fixated on winning because as i said the democrats are super ego the republicans are id nixon wanted power first and foremost everything flowed from that carter wanted to think he was a good boy carter wanted to be a sanctimonious good man he was going to be the good man who redeemed america 0:8:28 america that had fallen it was going to be redeemed by him a person who embodied righteousness that is not what dixon was nixon thought he knew of the future and the funny thing is nixon is a guy who anticipates a lot of our current crisis because nixon saw coming because he presided over the the end of bretton woods in the beginning of the uh of the current uh floating fiat system with the us dollars this global reserve currency he saw the future he knew this means that america will no longer be the productive powerhouse of the world america will not be able to be a net exporter you can't be a reserve currency without connection to gold or some species you cannot be a reserve currency and be a net exporter it doesn't work the money's got to circulate it's got to be out of the country that means people have to be you have to be buying things from the rest of the world that is unbreakable that that had a lot of implications for the future of the american military project 0:9:30 and at that point the still hot cold the still existing cold war because nixon didn't know that the soviet union was going to be gone soon he thought they'd have to be reckoned with while america declined and he was going to manage the decline and that meant that whatever it took to get uh through to these dumb asses to get him elected what he would do and so when he was faced with that crisis he did not sit america down and tell them i need you to suffer as i need to suffer he told people we're doing waging price controls he did the thing that no republican was supposed to do the thing that made the thing that made milton friedman ***** rivets because he wanted to get reelected because he didn't want to cause a recession carter basic carter's policy in uh this is not a joke and this is not a theory of mine this is pretty well documented carter's economic project in his first term was to induce a recession and then he had to run for reelection you wouldn't do that if winning was what 0:10:32 you cared about carter didn't care about winning because it wasn't about his what he was going to do to make america like manage manage its actual government it was what it was he was going to do for its soul he was what he was going to do for its spirit but that's not that job and that's that's one of the the horrors of the american presidency is because it is this civic uh god it's this it's this god king like there's so much energy around the presidency and they have so much actual power and they have so much psychic power and so much of it is put into the demands of one individual that that that the mechanics of power that they preside over and

the spiritual like metaphorical internal uh spiritual processing of that mater reality get inter intermingled and so carter did not start from the principle of i know what i could do to make america's mil government function he was gonna fix the spirit but that wasn't what was the problem there was no problem with that it emanated 0:11:34 from the structure nixon understood that i mean he didn't really give a ***** about if america was moral or not he wanted to be in charge he was a ***** sick little pervert who got off on power because it filled the gaping hole in his in his stomach and so nixon says uh no we'll do wage and price controls even though that was that's the keynesian answer that's like that's the that that was the hegemonic new dealer answer and that is why when carter got in there the only option anyone saw was austerity because the only alternative the left-wing alternative the one that teddy kennedy ran on in 1980 was waging price controls and the thing is when they said that was a bad idea they were not wrong we literally had just had wage and price controls under nixon and they didn't work but that's all that was in the keynesian cupboard that was all that was in the new deal the great society covered because it was trapped in the logic of the ***** capitalist system that demanded profit that 0:12:35 demanded the uh that that demanded continued purchasing in a consumer matrix to offset the amount of alienation being being carried out through the process of of the wage relationship in that context there's two roads one of them you know doesn't work but it could maybe work in the short term to make keep your party in power and the other deals with the the actual uh like econo political political economic malfunction within the system transfers from the political to the economic uh and and change it and actually addresses the problem and that's what they po chose they chose austerity and the thing is by addressing the problem in capitalist terms what's this oh it increases exploitation ***** it increases exploitation of third world people by turning them from peasants into uh wage laborers which means yes 0:13:37 standard of living goes up but so does exploitation and alienation it does and you can say it's a trade-off worth making but it's not one that those people are making by choice it's not a democratic choice it's being thrust upon them they're getting more a higher standard of living and in a lot of cases barely that in exchange for giving up control over their uh environment but but the j but that's their decision or hypothetically you would think by people who claim otherwise to believe the idea that we are independent beings who deserve to make a choice in our destiny but no that just happens because it's invisible because the market doesn't the market draws people through capillary action for the country to the city and turns them into a proletariat no one's hands are on the trigger there's no law there's no uh there's no emptying you're not empty like pol pot emptied the cities by gunpoint and that's a horrible thing and it was but filling those cities was a horrible thing too but there was no you didn't need to put a gun on anybody and so and in the country in the 0:14:42 us which had been the arsenal democracy and then then the winner of world war ii and then the sole industrial behemoth of a world coming back into a demand for a civic ***** consumer infrastructure which we provided but in so doing we also had to stand up our former enemies to keep them from being subsumed by the soviets which depleted our ability to dominate the uh the export markets decreasing profits for american industry putting pressure on the bretton woods uh dollar system which resulted in nixon taking us off gold which meant that if we were going to still be the reserve currency we had to run a massive trade deficit which we have basically ever since that is why anybody who talks about how like there's some right populism that's going to come up and it's going to from the like the economic left outflank the democrats like tucker carlson's going to lead some heron folk democracy that's going 0:15:43 to really bring the jobs back instead of just say they're going to do like trump that's wishful thinking in certain degree like i mean even if you say it would be horrible you at least would love to see some sort of acknowledgement that we are masters of our economic destiny but they would in order to do that they would have to be willing to get rid of the world reserve currency being the american dollar and go towards something that kane suggested at bretton woods which is to have a global exchange currency that was not tied to do you think tucker carlson is going to sign up for that globalism but that's the thing that is how you can that's you got nixon and carter who basically the same problem in front of them and what determines their action 0:16:45 is which psychological like what what what role that they think they're doing and republicans because they're the id of the system think that they're operating out of uh just dr blind drive that's then cloaked in righteousness however they decide to tell themselves the democrat thinks of themselves first and foremost as someone who exists to be a virtuous to be outward focusing even though it's in this context of capitalism where that is rendered a joke by the reality of the brutal oppression and alienation of capitalism and the desacralization of all exchanges and then replace them with them replacement of them by market relationships which are inherently sterile and which accumulate towards exploitation you don't you're not going to record with that but so but you're going to try to be a good person and so you either put a cynical lid on inflation so you can get to that second term and negotiate that trilateral uh deal with the other world powers that puts us on a position to step down from dollar hegemony in a way that doesn't destroy our us our economic system so 0:17:46 we can like have a handoff to a more globalized system of world capitalism where we're no longer the headquarters but we keep most of the uh the the lucr because we're like senior partners the way that this uh the way that the uk i gotta do it i'm nixon i'm the smart guy i can do that carter on the other hand is like oh people need to work look people need to learn to live with less and be less consumers be more citizens put more investment into their lives around them and not in what they buy really are you going to do anything to change the thing that makes america consumer society any of the brutal alienating factors that replace all of our meaning with dollar worth like we replace any kind of of abstract spiritual social worth with concretized dollar worth and all and you're going to tell people you need to live on less but we're not going to let you live in any different way you still need to pay the rent every 0:18:49

by breaking labor power and the demand of the labor share of profit which is one of the things that did drive inflation it's not like it didn't drive inflation but it's the one driver of inflation that they essentially decided to get rid of they neutered labor flat line on the chart for the last 40 years but they did it behind our backs they did it slowly they did it under morning in america they did it with the reagan finery around it and people didn't even know it was happening carter because he was honest wanted to tell people up front what he was going to do to them and as long as there's another party that's not bound by your weird kink your weird subconscious need to be uh to be uh seen by others as virtuous this this uh part of this this party that exists to suppress the urges for the greater good without confronting any of the underlying psychosis that generates that desire which is the actual reality of 0:20:52 capitalism the unexamined ego you want people to like be wide awake when they get uh their medicine you're gonna lose and then the other party's gonna win since the cicadas are out there they're clacking away people are telling me that that was a squirrel the other day by the way that was just hollering that's terrifying they just look so cute and fluffy i did not know they could make noises like that you know i'm 0:21:53 starting to think that the conspiracy mindset that's now emerging on the left it's not obvious it's not the same thing as the q anon thing in fact the q anon thing is like a flight from reality and i think that the uh conspiracy mongering on the left

about stuff about what's psyops also counts as a sort of step for uh it counts as a step forward for some people which is why i think it's to be encouraged whereas the the uh the q one is to be lamented not like anything you can do about it but just to look down with horror and be like oh god oh god now i'm not talking about chewing on i'm not talking about true and on i feel like those guys do their homework and and their ***** is real and that like there are ops obviously ops are everywhere what i'm saying is the instinct people have that is generated by this new awareness that epstein helped create of the reality of parapolitics to say everything that you encounter is a is an op that's what i'm talking about and i think what that is is people are essentially trying to psychically red pill themselves towards an awareness of cap 0:22:55 of like capitalism like trying to get the no live glasses on you know trying to forge the no sorry that they live glasses of of socialism but you know it's it's it's not going to be fast and easy for everybody because a lot none of this stuff is intuitive if you grew up in america like it runs counter to everything you've been taught the deep ideology and pushing against that is difficult and i feel like understanding on one level that all social uh phenomenon are generated not by rna like uh uh our individual sins our individual deficiencies like bad things in culture bad things in society don't just come from us being bad people like choosing to do bad that that moralistic calvinist framework that's not true that's that's that's a fanta that's a spook that's meant to mystify you uh it's generated by the social relationship the the actual relationship of production that shapes the world everyone lives in making people's uh making life 0:23:58 making daily life is what makes bad things happen because it's generated by those those interactions by by that that fundamental the fundamental quest for sustenance of all kinds that makes up human existence but it's hard to hold on to that because it's abstract and it's hard to connect it to the world around you because it's so far removed from your experience of events and i feel like it is an intermediate step for people trying to get deeper to the idea of these things being generated by by the social order to a like they can't get there they can't stay there but where they can stay create like imaginatively is to some some expression of that order in the form of intelligence in the form of the deep state in the form of the the the men in black and 0:24:59 then say aha i understand that school shootings or stepmom porn i understand that these aren't because we're not doing this because we're naughty people we're sinful people we don't deserve nice things these aren't these aren't the expressions of a sick society as in six citizens it's an expression of a social relationship that is untenable and producing more and more horrifying alienating lives for the people who live in it that is generating more and more profanity of spirit uh but it is an agent of our structure that does it the cia the deep state that's that's connects you it's the it's the it's the linkage between just events as they occur and as they coalesce into trends

that we recognize and the the the superstructure and then the base it connects the two connects bass and superstructure as a mental architecture as i like to use that 0:26:0 term i know i say it too much but in this case i'm literally meaning like a like a piece of ***** connective tissue or so um so i i say i so that's why i don't get mad at people when they want to ask what they want think everything's an op i just say there are ops but they're not everything because if they're everything then we have no agency at all right if everything but that's there's a paradox there if everything is an op then they wouldn't need to do ops if you know what i mean you've reached the point where you're not really uh you're you're you've stepped back too far you're you're not describing discrete you're not just that you're turning the ter the map into the territory basically because like every like there are events within a a there's like a sheet of events rippling out you know and they form into events that have and 0:27:1 some of them are cause of some things and some other cause are other things at a certain point you've lost descriptive ability if the thing that you're describing is what is responsible for everything so that that leaves you with a situation of well some things are real and some things aren't how do i find out you actually have to like look into it you actually have to start you have to assume that they aren't and then and then change your opinion based on discovering more evidence that they are you have to start from an assumption that they aren't all because at this point there's so much amorphous ***** in the internet and it's so easy to get curated versions of events even if you don't even realize that's what you're searching for the way that people might not even know that they're the ones moving the uh planchette in a game of ouija you're you're tunneling into a reinforcing uh epistemic circle without even being aware of it so you got to start from the assumption that they aren't and then have 0:28:2 to be convinced like it's it's it's it's a mod like there's a reason that it became that that's the basis of like the english common law because it is a uh it's a epistemic tool to array things into like into yes or no propositions where's your starting position and it needs to be no or else everything would just piles up like stepmother porn my i see it absent any evidence if everybody is literally if huge if a bigger bigger percentage of people stay at home and a bigger and bigger percentage of people uh get divorced or at least you know at this point a solid 50 percent of marriage is divorced but more and more people live at home the amount of interactions between step parents and step children is going to increase exponentially over time clarice i mean part of it is 0:29:10 for me it's like for a lot of these needs especially like porn addicted neats who are like consuming a lot of the porn which is a lot of people because there's a lot of people who just just watch porn or mostly watch porn in terms of their sexual life they don't have jobs you know they're they what what are they gonna do with a fantasy of like having sex with somebody at the water cooler they don't have a ***** job

they live in their parents house they don't go anywhere they're on the internet all day the only woman they engage in in any way with in any given moment or maybe their stepmom or whoever lives in their house so giving them a fantasy of having sex with their stepmom is a fantasy that's achievable in their mind is like a possible thing as a gateway it's something to intensify the pleasure because you can imagine actually having sex with somebody in your house you're going to interact with a strange woman so and same thing with like mass shootings i think america's messed up enough to produce people who snap and shoot each other considering how many guns and how much just unregulated social dysfunction we've got uh and if you have but if you have specific evidence i'll listen to it i just think that like you need to just start from a position that these things aren't and then you have to be convinced and like i think the thing like true and on is good because i think they're actually a model for doing it but the problem is is that like it takes rigor to do it the way they do and it's much easier to just sort of have a hip off the hip cake but that's because people that's that's because like the stakes are lower your take you know you're not you're not a professional podcaster that take doesn't matter it's just going to accrue some likes or whatever but if that's the case just like well then why have an opinion at all like why do you have to have a take at all why not if there's nothing in it for you like my thing with a lot of the issues people demand i have an argument about and like have a real strong opinion about it's like well what does it benefit me to have this opinion what does it benefit anyone else to have an opinion about something that has by definition to be largely cut off from any deeper understanding of it that i could even but the thing is everything gets flattened so q anon doing like rigorous stuff gets turned into takes for everything and then that turns into your world view now you know obviously as i've said a million times if it's happening online it doesn't matter but if enough people have like the wrong world overview in their head it's hard for them to uh to act effectively but can't convince them of that and that's why you can't change it at the level of the discourse because they have to they have to have a real experience in life that leads them in one or another direction you cannot convince them out of it you might convince that a few people but the pers the uh efficacy is so low that it and i might point out that the backlash is so much more like i would say that i think you could definitely argue successfully that the discourse has changed the minds of people but i would make another argument that is just as you know unbound by facts like this isn't the thing we could decide for us empirically this is purely a rational exercise because we're not going to be able to ever get this information and everything that will be called information is going to be anecdote so i would say on the question of whether it's like the discourse is an effective place to fight i would say this there's two propositions one is that more people have their

minds changed by encountering arguments online than our reinforced in bad opinions that lead to bad outcomes by the very act of observing and engaging in the and you 0:33:41 cannot prove either of these you have to just say what into yourself which one you think is more realistic which one is fits with your vision of like your rational mind your reason which one seems more reasonable to you that more people discreetly as individuals read an opinion that is diet that is uh right interact with their wrong opinion and have a change and this is important not just switch from one wrong opinion to the other because that happens but that's different and you'd have to be able to say no no no not when anybody not like when ian miles chong goes from sjw to red pill like that doesn't count he changed his mind even if you you know you can say it was cynical but say it wasn't that happens sometimes that doesn't that's not good uh you have to say that that happens enough to be worth spending that time there barring how much time people spend there how much energy is put 0:34:44 there there's another proposition that says that whatever that number is that people change their mind towards something better it is by far overwhelmed by people who are reinforced in wrong opinions by engaging in this stupid ***** in and i would say a good example of that is the thing in kansas which became this battle of like absolute propositions human like dignity the ability to like be a human being without without your attempts to live your life in good faith being destroyed by some monstrous uh uh mechanism of of punishment this foucaulian nightmare uh or or the proposition that uh that there's like this monstrous misogynist left that essentially just wants to uh you know create a heron folk democracy around uh around socialized labor uh 0:35:45 but subjugated socialized public labor but subjugated private female house house labor and it's like holy ***** that's a big argument damn i see the point on both sides what's this about it's about a 19 year old running why is a 19 year old running for that seat because and this is where this is where the ***** mystification of the discourse comes in although the only way people filter this stuff like who's a good candidate in the political sphere who's a good guy who's a bad guy it's do they have the right opinions right because it's just i'm running for congress on a platform of these opinions and so this is the shibboleths i talk about when i talk about how online argumentation just creates lines where everything is just a formal shibboleth 0:36:47 so that means that when you're evaluating a campaign or a candidacy or an event the only thing that matters is what they say about anything but there's a reality that you're trying to elect somebody to a job and presumably that is supposed to be an advance for forces of good they're supposed to do something in that office that is positive i would suggest and submit that a 19 year old by definition cannot do that they do not have the life skills mental uh competence knowledge base uh maturity to do it and more importantly the social ability to negotiate the halls of power no

identify good faith from bad faith actors among the current legislatures picking your moment with pieces of legislation to make to actually push something forward find out who you can deal with in good faith and who would require you to get rid of your morals if you have them if you're not just saying it and how would we ever know if you weren't just saying it the devil can quote scripture if he wants to so i say a 19 year old can't do that job and you could say well then no one else there was nobody in that district who stood up would you rather have no one stand up honestly yes i would i would rather have no one do it than a 19 year old and the fact that a 19 year old did it tells me that whatever the situation is uh that legislature was never gonna do anything he wasn't gonna serve as a beacon he wasn't gonna like lead some sort of realignment because there is no groundwork there is no social base to generate anything other than a 19 year old no one else stepped forward that is fallow ground now you can run in fallow ground if you have uh some sort of connection to a project but being 19 tells me there was no project it's just people doing what they want to do it's people going from hey one vote is just one vote this isn't really doing politics to me running for office is doing politics but really it's not that much more because these things have to multiply upon access of coordination we have to do these things in concert the org the activism has to be the kids bouncing the basketball in the goddamn chinese video everyone's talking about and if it's a 19 year old then the structure did not exist to generate and all the other arguments that became world-ending questions of morality are built on a edifice of delusion if people look through that lens of that event realistically they would say do i have to say anything about this at all and they would say no that's not cowardice that is triage and the only way that that doesn't make sense to you is if the only access is the is the is the axis of ideology and getting the right opinions and dividing the good from the bad you could say this guy's a good guy and the evidence is look at the things he says and look at the things he believes in that's one thing you have to judge somebody by and it certainly beats judging them by whatever the hell democrats talk about like he said he's a nice person he said he likes ice cream and he said he thinks i'm cool it's much better for it to be cold political points of view but those are still just things you can say because nobody is acting from a it's all air words are wind and they're not just wind and you have to use them as a first step but then guess what happens you organize first by what people say and then what by they do and i'm sorry there's nothing you've done by 19 that necessitates especially at state senate in kansas that necessitates that level of investment you have to be deluded you have to be stuck on this narrow strip of ideological combat between other people all of whom are caught in the epistemic chamber totally disconnected from the and even if you're right in a narrow sense you are wasting your time and everyone wastes some time you your life

i mean wasting time is one of the things that makes uh life bearable in under current conditions but you might be wasting time that we don't have to waste see this person says what if he's a 19 year old with a unusually savvy political might and a movement behind him a movement that produces a 19 year old candidate is not a movement that i respect how about that because ideas aren't the only thing ideas aren't the only thing there's a you're you live in three dimensions and one and there's a social dimension to life like you're trying to turn these things into just like you're trying to turn them into this abstracted battle of ideas instead of a real attempt to gain power through human existing political structures there was nobody older than that in your movement you aren't there yet and that's not that doesn't mean don't try for it it does mean that whether you win or not it's epiphenomenal because there is they're too track and this is what gets a lot of people confused about the efficacy of electoral politics is that there are two tracks of electoral politics that are going to emerge from the left moment that we're living in to the extent that it exists one is going to be coordinated action involving uh you know organizations of different levels of of uh volunteer and cadre intensity coming together through coalitions to coalesce around candidates that agreed to an existing platform and work in concert with others and then there are going to be adventurous people who inspired by that movement decide on their own to do it there is nothing that they're not ops some of them might be there's no you shouldn't assume any of them are ops until you're presented with evidence to the contrary uh they are totally totally in 100 percent um earnest and they want what's best for everyone but because they're americans they don't know what that means they're guessing like we all are they're struggling blindly through the dark that's why that's what the class project is it's people hollering in the dark until they can hear each other and then they can hold hands and then they can lead each other out of the ***** darkness people doing it outside of the context it's not they're not hurting anything necessarily unless their battle becomes a huge sink for resources and attention that it doesn't deserve but it is just going to be somebody hollering out into the darkness voices and it's like yeah it sucks to be able to figure out which one's which but you've got to do it you got to try fred hampton didn't run for anything it's levels of accountability within an organization you can trust people because you have a level of accountability that involves personal relationships elected officials are abstracted from that so you have less of a social dimension to your control over their actions and that has to be filled by their own virtues and you can only know that through the accumulation of their actions to that point all these categories are getting confused in people's minds i'm not going to say a 19 year old can't lead a ***** political grassroots political organization that involves like committees of people who are in in absolute uh like uh relationship to one another and accountable

to each other elected officials are accountable and the thing is this is going to be a problem because we've talked a lot about how the middle section of america political class the people who might realistically run for office has been completely gutted uh and that it's created a political class that is reinforcing and part of a broader managerial class and that it's gonna have to emerge from the working class that's true but it has to at some point these things have to come into contact with other spokes with other nodes in order to be reinforced into a meaningful action see this is the thing people say you're saying a kid can't do something running for office is qualitatively different and this is the thing everybody wants to do everything the idea that there's anything constraining anyone's relationship to any action is horrifying and why is that because we're operating out of a libido understanding of politics where as much as we think we want what's best for everybody at the end of the day what we really want is what's best for what we think we want and we have confused those to an extent or they're overlapping to an extent that we can delude ourselves further into thinking that our personal selfish uh pursuits are for the greater good but at some point that turns into an unsustainable delusion and you know when that point is when you connect to other people and then they check you and you realize oh i can't do this as long as you're online as long as you're fighting these battles in the virtual space then you can do i mean the sunrise movement i mean i i definitely think that's a step in the right direction compared to one off's runs for congress and ***** by people who have no experience or understanding of what they're doing and are not connected to anything broader than like a friend network or a bunch of people on a facebook page or a subreddit uh but it's they're also showing that they are their kids they're figuring it out like the way they got rolled on the on the uh it was very predictable the way they got rolled on the morse thing you could have seen that coming a mile away and one of the things that would have aided that was maturity was a little more experience to know what what principles like how principles should be applied in reality instead of just like squirting squid ink out of virtue because that's all you've learned because your politics is until very recently because you're young by i mean i just think if somebody had that on their record they would say oh i'm a bad candidate for this i shouldn't do this because as much as you can say that the uh the mob was wrong and awful and disgusting to see it was how do you not assume that's going to happen because the number of people i see who complain every day about the awful bang woke mobs are now outraged that the anti-will the mo the woke mobs are out again but what did you expect to happen and essentially what they i assume happened what hoped to happen was well no one will find out you can't operate off that assumption in a political battle these people are ***** monsters look what look what the ***** richard angle or what the

***** his name the guy and uh the guy who who put the honey the weird honey trap for morse look ***** franklin roosevelt's grandson was involved in that ***** badger game this is this is capital you're dealing with these are the cosmic forces of nature these are the warlocks who have seized control who actually wield power in this structure you're not going to exploit every ***** thing they can and then have 0:49:8 armies of of useful idiot woke people who are going to grasp on to a chance to show their virtue again and a chance to show how they're they're the good people and to find heretics to burn you don't think they're going to do that of course they're going to ***** do that that's what they do and what you're going to tell them not to like you do every ***** day how's that going going how has been telling them not to do it it's an irresponsible thing to do in the first place and as bad as horrible as it is to drag a kid for that it is irresponsible to do in the first place and it's not his fault it doesn't make him a bad person it means he didn't have anybody to tell him not to do it and why didn't he have anybody to tell him what to do why didn't he tell anybody to why didn't he have anybody to tell him not to do it because he didn't have anybody who had any ***** perspective on this outside of we should be we should be running for office we need to be the ones in power and the thing is is 0:50:9 like the horrible thing is i could say all that and people and then say well then what and that's the horror that's the nauseas that i don't know because by definition it can't be any of this stuff but where else are we able to feel that we're acting it's a nightmare and that is where that is where changing material conditions come in as just a thing to cling to a thing to get you through the day but also a reality not just coping but part of it is coping i don't know it's going to work but i do think it requires people to take a good hard look at their relationship to politics in terms of what they think is effective action and to challenge themselves to ask themselves deeply do i 0:51:10 want this because i think it'll do any good in the world or do i want this because it satisfies some need some social need to be reaffirmed in a social platform and the hope the only hope we have is that if enough people will ask themselves that and by asking themselves that able to they are able to clear the foggy windshield of their perception of the world around them the leap of faith and i know that sucks because people want to ***** blueprint but it has to be felt you have to be driven by by a self an engine of self-interest of some kind and it's either our our libido self-interest 0:52:11 or it is a deeper understanding is a deeper understanding of the greater good that emotionally encompasses everyone and not just us and that is very hard to come by and it's not something even that once you feel you just keep feeling you have to work for it and it goes away because the the world in front of you is arrayed before you as this buffet of pleasures in this litany of horrors that you have to negotiate and that drives you towards self-satisfaction to self-comfort it it drives all of us but we have to find a practice in our lives to allow a clarity to see the distinction between us and the world around us recognize the delusion that delusion for what it is and genuinely feel a social obligation that's spirituality broadly understood the specific definition of it that's personal that's why anybody who wants some sort of trad return to enforced state religion is deluding themselves you cannot un ***** the dog you cannot take the toothpaste and put it back in the tube we are different we have been transformed through the dialectical process we have been pulverized against the rocks of capitalism and ***** uh protestantism and materialism and every ism uh in science and under and and technology more than anything in capitalism most of all we are different things and we have to recommit we have to re we have to recycle eyes the world on a new uh a new foundation and it's going to include you know the language and vocabulary and mental worlds of existing religions because that's what people have in their head that's what has meaning to them already and they're going to have to accrue they will accrue meaning along those axis but that meaning will not be you know the the sectarian horrible religion practiced by most you know religious people in the world sadly but a broader a rhizomatic understanding of of interest is co-mingling and emotional that's the thing a lot of people understand uh as a matter of intellectual exercise that we are all in this together the way bernie says that we genuinely are social beings who need to act from a social basis we understand that intellectually but we don't really feel it we and this was true for me for many years i understand that a lot intellectually but at the end of the day i'm still me and they're them i perceive myself as outside of them and so therefore i have to get mine first a spiritual understanding of the world that i'm talking about understands oh no no there is no distinction meaningfully to be made between me and them and by them i mean everybody on earth there's no meaning there are gradients of like uh of familiarity that array along like symbolic orders that we've encountered in our lives but they are just gradients they're gradients of of that add up to the demiurgical shadow reality we find ourselves in but in reality everyone is me and what that means is that you are operating libidially from a position of altruism not managing to go through not ideologically transitioning from self-interest to uh altruism genuine like your self-expression is towards an understanding of a social obligation and i'm not saying people are bad if they don't have that i don't think i was a bad person when i didn't have that and by the way i don't have that all the time it's it's a it's a light bulb that is flickering at all times it gutters out and it flies up and i have to work to tend that ***** uh that that is not something that is blaring and it's like i'm not a better person i'm not some sort of a better person than people who don't think that way because you can operate from personal or from a personal uh perspective and do good things and be a good person absolutely and someone i respect what i'm saying is that if that's the only way people operate people in aggregate not individually people in aggregate will move towards pathological behavior will move towards undermining their own uh efforts and undermining their own uh uh movements but that's not an individual judgment of individual people it is a no it is a recognition of the law of large numbers if everyone's operating out of self-interest eventually especially in a culture like ours those are going to in aggregate lead people to misaligning and not misaligning as like good and bad but as a gradient like these things are in everyone these instincts are in everyone and have to be battled and uh are part of life and part of the struggle of life and getting towards a position where we all feel that is what we're talking about when we're talking about the world spirit coming into recognition of itself this is what we're talking about when we mean the teleology of marxism is a moment when everybody is operating from a felt position of interconnection not a reasoned position of interconnection that's when you get rid of the idea of coercion that's when the state literally doesn't need to exist and markets don't need to exist because no one is operating from a position of self-interest at all but it isn't but the thing is is that it cannot be con enforced you can't do it through re-education camps or gulags you can't do it through rude propaganda people have to feel it they have to feel it because they have to live in conditions that allow them to feel it that is why we have to all make leaps of faith every day to make the world more like that in our interactions with each other so that people can sustain it in their hearts and give it to others until that we can stave off disaster and i am not on acid no not on acid i hope some of that made sense some people are mad at me but i'm good if people have honestly i i do think if people i get i i have open dms i talk i read i read the reddit about me if people got problems i about my stuff i definitely encounter it and i and i try to reason it out i just don't want to do it in a public forum because that contributes to the debate ***** i hate uh in the preening and it makes me less likely to act the way that i know i should it'll make makes me more likely to disassemble and be dishonest and to use uh solipsistic trickery in order to get my way because of my awareness that i'm competing you know in front of an audience if it brings out the worst in me i think it brings out the worst in a lot of people not everybody some people thrive in it in terms of it making them better able to you know engage with the truth for me it gets me farther from the truth and farther from the best version of myself but i encount i engage with feedback so all right maybe i'll take a couple questions that went pretty wow holy crap that was an hour wow so yeah maybe a couple of cool down questions and yes uh nine uh 8 30 tonight me and uh loan option will be starting our rnc stream it's there's a lot of lamos tonight but we've got the ***** gun couple which i'm very excited for and dj tj who is i really hope that he like kills it because i really want him to run for a president someday he's the copy of the

copy of the copy he's like if if the uh if the fourth copy of michael keaton in if that sounded too abstract and like not grounded that's because i'm describing the actions of people a people and i'd say like a people like a sub-grouping of americans who are essentially frictionless in their mental realm like even when they interact with other people they're they're they're beveling the world and i'm a part of it i'm not saying i'm not who they bevel the world around their psychic world like the fixation on like seven seven warning signs on a guy's bed or uh seven books that it's a warning sign if a guy has on his shelf i mean it boils down to editing people to be reflections perfect reflections of your opinions it's it's it's literally shed shaving the world down to the to the shape of your opinions that you totally that are totally detached from reality and totally generated from entirely hypothetical conversations online so i feel like yes this is all like flighty but i mean i hope when i talk about something that's more grounded i like to think that i'm i can i can summon it but right now there isn't this is this is the the pseudo-reality that people are spinning their wheels within there is no way to ground it it is purely generated and does not reconnect except through the discrete actions of individuals whose actions dissipate because they're not cumulative and i will admit that i'm good at thinking frictionlessly because i'm one of these people i know how the bastards think i am one of i've been staring at this machine for 20 ***** years it just rewired my brain in ways that i are maybe irreparable and i'm trying to make some sort of uh understanding of it like some sort of retrospective understanding of what it did to me and how i can move forward from it things okay you know i would actually say that uh somebody asked who the stars the the chapel if they were on the enterprise uh i would say will's obviously captain kirk felix is uh amber is scotty oh all right guys uh i'm outta here

Tubalcain in the Membrane

so ah i heard why people invented existential angst well they were out of other problems because the thing about those problems was typically hello i'm back like joey's world tour i'm a little sweaty right now so the hair is looking uh positively uh 0:1:3
all right i didn't want to talk about this but now i feel like since it's the very first thing i got in the chat i have to the goddamn thing in dc you can point out the fact the obvious fact that such a trivial encounter should not be something that anybody knows about and that only the reality of our fast twitch muscle social media diet would even make it possible for something that insignificant to become something you would know know about let alone something that you would form very strong opinions around related to your larger like political goals and ideologies that's kind of absurd and of course other stuff's happening ***** kenosha's on fire there's a 0:2:4
guy who was walking from milwaukee to dc got shot by some psycho but it's all over there and the thing about it that makes me want to talk about it is the same thing is related to what i said yesterday about ops someone says was it libs or an op i thought that's great that's a perfect this is as insignificant an episode of it as it is we can use it to try to suss out some broader questions and i talked yesterday about how the compulsion to turn everything into an op eventually leaves the point where you can no longer distinguish the mechanisms of propaganda and you know state control and uh intelligence from just the mechanisms of capitalism creating a cultural uh superstructure out of material relationships but there's another big part that i actually forgot to mention that direct ties directly to this and that is that 0:3:6 another big driver another another big problem with uh the the instinctive desire the instinctive belief to see something like that and think up for those of you who don't know what i'm talking about there was a video today of some people who attacked some brunchers or i didn't attack them but they a bunch of mostly white uh black lives matter protesters just getting in the faces of people who were not giving them the power fist in response and just screaming at this woman for not doing the fist and a lot of people are going ooh ah that's is that really helpful and a lot of people are saying like we heard from the first person is this enough and i understand that desire because who wants to take credit for that even like as just at the abstract level of i agree broadly with the sentiment that they're trying to protest on behalf of uh but the instinct to call it an op is the instinct to soothe your cognitive dissonance it's to say oh this thing this movement that i i support that sometimes i even feel that i may be a part of if i participate in protests or something is doing something i don't agree with ah ***** the it's the authorities they're doing this no one who is really true of heart like me would yell at some random person uh that's crazy that must be the work of of the dastardly deep state and absent any evidence and all of this happens immediately when nobody has any context at all let alone evidence i think that comes more than anything not from like a recognition of the role of intelligence and propaganda or reality it comes from a desire to soothe cognitive dissonance and soothing cognitive dissonance through the creation of narratives of conspiracy is literally how we got q anon and i don't think that's necessarily going to happen on the left because you know the the centers are different the social structure of the people involved is different or the social like context of the people involved is different uh but what is not different uh is that it is a soothing balm that leads you away from confronting reality and if you're on the left confronting reality is very very important because you don't have the luxury of capital to be buff to buffer your your failures of analysis and your failures of of strategy you are out there we're all out here on our on our own we don't we aren't we aren't able to uh to be like q anon might come true because eventually the reactionary forces in this country might just come to believe it to justify the actions they were going to do anyway that's not because they organized that's not because uh their delusions were correct it's because that was the flow of history and they're going with the flow they're salmon or no they're not sam and they're the other ones the left is salmon you're swimming upstream you don't have the benefit of being able to just soothe yourself with this notion that oh you know we're an incredibly collapsed timeline here and everyone who is politically active really has to be thinking in terms of what they could do in the here and now to push things in a positive direction to go oh everything that's bad that happens is part of any left project is the is the is the police is an op one that's just you soothing yourself and making you fail and allowing you to ignore the real problems that this thing creates which i'll talk about a second but secondly uh even if it's true so what oh it's an op all right so what can you prove it's an opera you're gonna go bust the guy who did it and have him confess no it's just a way what when you tell others someone else it's an op you just want them to read it and then not worry anymore so your strategy for defeating the deep state is just telling people there's a i mean once again not effective soothing coping and i understand why people want to cope i don't blaming anybody

for this because my god why wouldn't people want to ***** cope when they're so 0:7:14 little on the horizon that looks like there's any hope but but compensating for that by indulging in in personally uh personal personally soothing and pleasing and uh exciting exercises at the expense of efficacy is actually counterproductive it's a waste of time and resources that can't and when something like this pops up you can say it's ***** that everyone's talking about this yeah does that change anything okay it's ***** it's ***** people are talking about this correct are they still talking about it oh no they are it's an op okay it's an op now what the same people who believed it was the exact people who thought it was an app at the beginning still think that no one else does because they don't have your epistemic window that makes it look 0:8:16 like an op before anything else now what the fact is even if it wasn't up there would be no way to isolate it because there's no movement there's no organized movement that can either like endorse or ratify the actions of any particular outcropping of this this uh leaderless kind of passionate outbursting that we're seeing which is totally predictable and understandable given the horrible conditions and be given things like monstrous horrifying police executions that everybody gets to watch on television but that desire to cleanse oneself of the feeling of guilt and the feeling of rage cannot overcome our greater commitment and duty to and seeing something like that and not making you making it use and not having it make you stop and say okay what are we doing here instead to just have an ex an excuse a complaint and then to move 0:9:18 on you're not going to get anywhere you're not wrong in some sort of ideal sense but that's not the ***** point the point as someone once said is not to describe the world but to and if your big piece of evidence that it's an op is i don't think people would do that people i believe in no it has to be like dastardly libs or police officers people i agree with would never do that you're telling me that in a country of 300 million adult infants who have been indulged their entire lives along uh the the notion that that the sum total of human freedom is their personal happiness whatever that means oh here's what it means we're going to tell you what happiness is you're telling me that even that if people in that context find themselves horrified 0:10:19 by a genuine outrage this genuine social wrong that in the absence of the mechanisms of a organized movement that can take everyone's passions and organize them along effective tranches of behavior absent that that we're going to go to what feels good and what could feel better than screaming in someone's ***** face and making them hold up their hand for you that that isn't a power trip yeah i i just i find that a plausible motivation i think that's something people could do absent the government telling them to or absent it being a uh a total false flag the people i encounter in this world in this country they're the kind of people who would do that oh i get to scream in someone's uh and so you have that and then there's the greater and

then there's the other problem that it's not like everybody is saying that this is a terrible thing some people are saying that this is a good this is good or that ***** them it's like what's the big you know it's like oh crap boo hoo yeah of course it's nothing who cares in terms of like broad but as a as a strategy like if these things are supposed to be examples of actions to create difference there are people who see this and they think that it's a good thing to do and i got a i got a tweet here from someone i know yeah blah blah you shouldn't go on twitter but this is a person with not no followers and somebody who seems to be somewhere in here and i just i'm going to read this because it seems to be to be exemplary of the mindset of someone who would see that and think it was a good idea the thing about protesting that's not supposed to cause a crisis of leaders is that it's supposed to cause a crisis of leadership if someone doesn't want to be screamed at by blm protesters while eating they should call their local pauls and demand they reign in the ***** cops now i would agree with that the reason i quoted that is not because like look at all these people who think that but because i think that's actually the thought process i think that is the correct thought process if you were to like split open the brains of the people doing this in good faith i think you would find this is the basic idea that you you get everybody on your side through either persuasion and if that fails through coercion of social pressure uh in medieval germany they used to call it cat music uh if somebody in the in like a village or a hamlet was a real prick uh because there was no real law enforcement people would gather in front of their house and they'd bang pots and pans and they wouldn't let them sleep and it would tell them to shape up and a lot of people actually see that as a model for restorative justice absent uh the carceral state which i mean once again if you want to have if you're talking if you're assuming a feudal level of social relationship a futile level of social connectedness and interwovenness maybe we can start talking but if you don't have that that's not going to be a good idea but but so then everybody does that now of course that's not the only response you can have from someone doing this the other the next tweet from this person is or they can go sign up on racist subreddit because now they want to race war it's their choice the protest forced them to make one and i think that gets it another thing that's essential here is that that kind of action is not designed to change things so much as it is designed to separate the good people from the bad people by doing it by banging it yelling at somebody by demanding they move their hand in public by bullying someone by the way they're not hitting cops anymore at least in dc and it's like i get that why would you want to risk that why would you want to get your split hats get your head split open without any hope it's going to lead to anything i wouldn't want to fight with the cops either with a la any kind of lack of plan behind it i could yell at somebody

with no plan behind it because what's that what's the downside for me and i get to feel like a big big big person i get to feel like i'm bossing somebody around which everybody wants everybody wants to be karen but karen people want to be cared not just that they can dominate others but because it is a model for getting things done in a consumer context yelling at the man yelling at an employee until he brings a manager then yelling at the manager is a way to get the discount because you have basically badgered the company into doing doing it to make you go away that's what they're talking about they're saying yell at people attack people until they feel they do what you want to make them go away and what that assumes always is that 0:14:25 the people in charge are will always be there there will always be a separate class of political and economic uh elite and that your only way of changing their behavior the changing the conditions of your life is by getting them to change their actions even though things like having like our police state ex are not optional to capitalism as it currently exists these things are not just fun gigas this is the core functions of the state all the stuff that was superfluous has already gone they sold it off the stuff that's left is the real steel it's the exoskeleton of the state they're not going to give it up no matter what if you complain too much if it really becomes a problem they will and this and so the only way to stop that horrible police state we have is to organize to defeat it replace it replace the political system and replace the economic system 0:15:26 that's your only way around that you're not going to get them to change something that is a crucial piece of the architecture of like capitalism a load-bearing structure they're not going to kick it away because you said so because you asked because you dabbled on some people who were eating but they don't even know that what they're talking about is carrinism because they're because that's the only thing they've ever known complaining to the manager is all people know in this country because we've never had the disciplinary experiential behavior of having a social uh a social element added to our personal pleasure seeking id through collective action through working through working together something like i don't know a labor union we're coming together as individuals we're marching together in a big group but nobody knows each other there's gonna be no there's gonna be no strategy there's only going to be 0:16:31 letting out your frustration your anger your your sense of guilt if you're white and a lot of the people yelling were white your sense of complicity you want to yell it out and then you can convince yourself oh if i yell enough they're going to do what i want them to do well i mean if the thing is is optional if it's if it's something up in the up in the cultural element of culture like what tv shows are on or you know whether there's interracial couples in television ads or you know if there's a black spider-man that's negotiable the police are not negotiable but nobody has ever had any effect on their lives on the lab oh boy effective activism that wasn't just asking it wasn't just demanding to make other people do something someone is else someone in charge is going to do it but that's not going to work we have to change it 0:17:34 because at this point the things we're pissed at are not optional unless you really care about stuff like you know having lbgtq marvel characters if you care about things like the liability of the planet uh and the fact that like a democracy is just turning into even even the ***** even the kabuki of democracy is being replaced by uh just sheer authoritarian uh exertion i mean we're on the verge of electing a president without who didn't even win the popular vote twice in a row who is going to bring upon himself unprecedented power but any president would do that and that's why fascism is such a bad thing to be banging on about right now because if there's going to be camps in the near future for people if we're going to get rounded up biden would do it too it'll just be a different b maybe it'll be a different group of people getting rounded up maybe it'll be a more racially inclusive group of people rather 0:18:35 than just minorities that get rounded up but it will be a rounding up and it will have a neoliberal smiley face gloss on it but it will be the same thing because it will be necessitated by the conditions by the crisis i'm not saying that will happen but i'm saying it's not like trump's going to snap his fingers and make it happen from a position of carrying out a uh a a fascist coup it's going to be a seeding to a crisis that cannot be otherwise contained and that crisis would exist under biden there's going to be some some rain i think there's some fat boys coming some fat uh but yeah i mean at the end of the day nobody wants to confront the fact that a lot of a lot of what we think of as an uprising is really just people getting their jollies in one way or another including the people online cheering them on or talking about them or even us talking about the me talking about them all just getting a little bit 0:19:36 of pleasure rather than doing effective action and that who wants to confront that reality but i do think that until you confront oh boy oh yeah i might not make it an hour out here guys we'll see i might have to but the reality is is that you you can argue all you want about whether it's good to burn a building you can't press a bit button and stop them from doing it or press a button to make people do it you can't vote on it you can't make it happen or not happen you can't make or not make a group of people yell at some uh brunchers in dc it's everyone's just operating out 0:20:40 of out of i hate to lean on a clutch lean on a verbal crutch but it's very uh crucial in this case a libidinal political instinct a desire to what i mean by that more than anything is a individualized id based political instinct that is not to achieve a better world but is to gain the pleasures associated with feeling that you are on the right side of history and the thing about that is that's got to motivate everybody to an extent but it has to connect also to a greater project which will the exercising of which will bleed your need for the libidinal because you're getting results or even if you're not getting results you're feeling comradeship you're feeling effective in a narrow sense in a way that you never will by going out and hollering at people but that means that that drive is only going to become more more fixating because over time you need to compensate more and more for the lack of effectiveness lacan's good wakanda's correct on a lot of stuff come on especially since this central ***** is just buddhism it's just buddhism with continental gloss i got i got the uh i got the black cherry all right guys maybe we can get in and still record but i gotta get out of here guys haven't been inside for a while i've been not since my neighbor scared me back in by uh telling me to stop hooting and hollering out there all right how's everybody doing we're back in the house we're back in the new york groove indoors someone wants to know what authoritarian neoliberalism is gonna look like and i would say uh china it's a good example letting all the letting boat people i mean it's all happening you know the apocalypse already has happened it's but mostly it's going to be about pairing around the edges it's about it's going to be about creating new borders and liminal spaces that can be negotiated violently uh because for the you know for the for the length of american history america was able to export its most like dysfunctional social pathologies onto its border regions and i was always pushing out that way and able to push them out that way and that's why they never had to confront them that's why we never had a real like socialist movement in this country or one of the big reasons but now that we've hit all borders now that we've hit the edge of space we are now having to reinscribe borders to find a new liminal space for maximal violence where people where citizens are allowed to carry out the maximum amount of violence uh and the people subject to their violence are not part of the conceived of group of right-bearing citizens it's a gambin stuff you know what i'm talking about and we have those at the border now and those borders will just be increased they will become other places they will probably become distributed within the united states around cities probably specific areas of like where where where the cataclysm is hitting most directly places attacked by global warming uh flooding like consistent wildfires uh desertification uh urban areas that are like where where there were not where the there's the cycle of like police violence and response is is made uh permanent like right now it's sort of it's uh it waxes away it's like we had it's not getting compressed like the the time from like think of the time it took to get from so like you got mike brown to uh to uh baltimore and now we've got uh from george floyd three months later like the violence is gonna go up which means the cycle is gonna speed up which means the intervals are gonna get shorter and eventually it just becomes a permanent condition and that's a new border that's a new internal border that where you get to exercise maximal violence and is because there is still that social continuum within that air with uh with out i'm sorry the

places beyond those borders that's still the same atomized social slurry of consumers basically being free to consume that we have now it will be functionally identical there will not be marching jack boots in the streets there's not going to be a new flag with like a weird symbol a weird rune on it you know there's not going to be jack boots there's not going to be theater there's not going to be this frisian of of apocalypse of of revelation of of the truth of the whole condition and for the leftists the validation of their world view i have always said that america was fascist and now i have been proven correct that moment which is i think undergirding a lot of the fantasy projection of american fascism that won't happen i highly highly doubt it what you will have is you will have the border regions within and at the edge where violence is maximally applied and then you will have america where we're doing tick tocks or whatever progress goes after tick tock and we're arguing over the problematic content of uh no gilead what are you talking about oh my god no it's just like this only more people are dying and there are fewer people who are still living our absurdly inflated consumer standard of living at the very end of do you understand the distinction i think that the the i i guess the what i find most reasonable about the fascist framing is that it seems to me to be at a certain level a a a fantasy something that deeply at a level i mean not in terms of their morals you know they are they are horrified by fascism and want to defeat it and in fact the fantasy of fascism is what gives their actions romance and and uh and power to them and it allows them to expend orgone along the axis of politics it's it's the horribleness of that possibility and then if you talk about it a lot and say it's coming its occurrence is a validation and i feel like that that means that you're not looking at reality that means that you are abstracting and i just have to like as a general rule as a rubric i could look at somebody who's fixated on fascism and say this person is they're nice their eye isn't on the ball they're and so they're gonna be more likely and haven't you noticed by the way that people the most fixated on fascism and calling what were in fascism are also the most committed to things like theatrical demonstrative non-organized political action to replace real either electoral or labor activism and organization like spectacular demonstrations of anti-fascist sentiment and that's because they think we're at a level of social development that we are not we need to organize way more people getting people needs to be the only question sorting people has to come later these people want to sort remember that tweet i wrote you about uh the tweet that said hey they'll either tell they'll either call up the mayor and tell him to get rid of racism which wow it's so nice that we they can do that uh or they'll go and become a storm front editor and uh get a gun and become a ***** uh militia member and that's not good you don't want that to happen to somebody who's like uh not engaged you want to minimize that but no if your goal is

sorting people into good and bad then you're you want that to happen i'm saying we cannot be sorting we need to be organizing everybody who has any genuine access of alienation that is aware of capitalism that was aware of their their misery being connected to the system of the economy the i th that they have not been captured by fantasies of like racism being the cause of all evil or uh uh cue people thinking that it's hollywood hollywood pedophiles or jews or whatever right-wing fantasy you need to to square the reality of living under somebody else's design in a free country if you identify under if you're aware at all that there is a class component to your immigration then you have to be engaged with and of course that's going to make people uncomfortable but that discomfort gets edged out through actual behavior 0:32:16 together but it will never get etched out in the phantom realm of online where all disagreement has now been defined as how many people think being disagreed with is abusing someone now if you really thought that in your day-to-day behavior you wouldn't be able to function you don't really think that online your fantasy life can sustain that belief and you can use it to batter down everyone you're interacting with to do what you want them to do now if you were acting politically in the real world over time your ability to do that would be blunted against everyone else's desire to get something done and you would have to accommodate it also i must say there are also people who are genuinely like very racist and committed to racism or deeply 0:33:18 misogynistic and hostile to women uh or wildly wildly reactionary about some group of people they and that they can't get rid of that well they can maintain that all they want online is they duel with the sjws and in fact the more they believe those things the more they trigger people they hate so they can believe in them more if they really wanted to alleviate their misery and they can understand it as a result as that class action was the only thing that would do it they wouldn't ***** bring that ***** up and even if they still thought it it wouldn't matter because they would have to accommodate to organizing into the group and that would mean that either it would go or they would alienate everybody else and they'd get kicked out they would have to choose between actually trying to fix things and holding on to this ***** just like people would have to choose between actually trying to fix things and holding on to the all disagreement is a is abuse all experiences should be totally frictionless no one should ever have any conflict at all and that i'm going to use that belief to badger everyone else into basically never disagreeing with me none of those neither 0:34:19 of those are sustainable beliefs in a genuinely effective left-wing organization at this point everyone now like people like to say oh look at the uaw look at the sea look at all the racists and the old crafts unions history has moved forward i'm afraid and a lot of those problems that shattered the labor movement in the 60s a lot of them not all of them for the love of god not all of them but of course not all of them have been

resolved we are dealing with a fundamentally less instinctively racist population than we had to deal with in the 60s and that means that the people who even are racist can be dealt with as long as they think they can make their lives better through so all this desire to separate the sheep from the goats and the fascists from the anti-fascist all of it does is to serve to guarantee that the fewest people are going to make the step from online to the real world the fewest people are going to want to talk to other people in the real world about politics and try to figure out how to fix things and the more of them are going to sink all of their ***** jism all of their nut all of their oregon all of their life essence into battling on the etheric plane because they get to hold on to their ***** they get to hold on to their greasy little center of of perverted pleasure whether it's a racial fixation sexual inadequacy brought on by being a gross unfuckable incel or the trauma associated with with you know being a minority that that manifests itself in such a way that you cannot countenance you are so distrustful of non-whites or women or men if you're a woman that you cannot ever trust their motives in any situation and have to constantly prove to yourself that they're on your side because you fundamentally do not trust them and i'm not saying that you don't have a good reason not to trust men if you're a woman or white people if you're black but i am saying that if you cannot let go of that make a say it with me folks leap of faith sufficient to meet someone that way a man or a a white person halfway then you will leave and that's fine that's the kind of person who should not be part of an organization but guess what the bet of marxism the bet of socialism the bet of the human race is that major the majority of people if they properly understand that moment and that choice will choose to cooperate and will choose to put the greater good above their own but they have to see evidence that there's a reason to do it or else it all comes back to the self and the disgusting little jack off session oh boy i afraid i am afraid that i have gone down again i have gone i've gone off sirs and madames that you may be watching i am uh sipping not the tea but i'm i hope the thing isn't shaking too much but i don't really have anywhere to put my phone i have the thing out there i'm not even sure if it's raining it just felt like it was going to kierkegaard baby give me some kierkegaard he's in the stew when i think of who's in the gumbo who's in my mental gumbo he's in there spinoza kierkegaard for sure wittgenstein i think and of course plato because forms are crucial someone wants me to talk about the batavian republic there are other listeners to the age of napoleon podcast out there because today i in fact also just listened to his episode about the end of the uh the peace that batavian republic just makes me think of it just makes me think of pretzels i don't know why but i just think of a pretzel big hot a hot pretzel with mustard when i hear batavian it's it's deeply it's pavlovia i don't know where it came from and now i really want a big oh god i want a big oh big

soft pretzel with mustard not hot nacho sauce mustard for sure oh big bavarian and i know it's i know it's the batavian republic not the bavarian republic but maybe 0:39:26 they're close enough that they make me think of it god damn you guys just make but i don't really know much about switzerland it's very interesting i mean when you consider how how sweet suinaris it is in europe to this day in terms of a country like it broke off from the holy roman emperor very early and then i guess you know because of its defensible physical position was able to establish independence from all of the reigning houses uh you know of of the middle ages in the early modern era and uh an institute what uh what harry lyme and the third man called the 500 years of democracy and peace what did it bring us the cuckoo clock and that's the funny thing about switzerland they cut themselves off they like basically signed off and said we're done with this and you didn't really ever hear from him again they just sat there collecting money they made the smart move it's like mussolini was half right when he said blood alone moves the wheel of history it's like well blood first 0:40:29 but then gold and the swiss knew why fight these wars when you can make money they were the first really effective mercenaries in the in the and now they get to just sit there in their mountain castle in the hall of the oh ***** that was the helvetica republic you're right yeah uh the dutch one i like that they ate a guy dutch rebels one time ate a dude they ate a governor they were mad at goddammit i knew lance next were german they ate a dude uh when uh i like the fact that they've got a 90 0:41:36 years war which people don't normally know about or 80 years war or rather but yeah all those sister republics were failures as as i think everett does a good job of talking about on the episode today because they were not organic you know they did not they did not adhere to the social soil because they were imposed from without contradictions have to be worked from within worked out from within a social order which is why honestly a lot of the soviet fantasies of like of of uh revolutionary war like the guys like bukhari who wanted to continue the war uh under the flag of the you know of class revolution stuff imposed from without even if it's like even if you 0:42:37 are representing like the correct force of history or the progressive side of history you still have to contend and that's why the idea that you can like invade and impose betterness i mean it never worked it didn't work for the french and it didn't work really for any of the uh any of the marxist or you know wood uh so-called marxist it it's sort of a macro version of how you can't scream at someone's face to like who are you you're just some ***** like they don't they they haven't bought your you they haven't gotten your assumptions they aren't sharing a lot of your assumptions to so that they're gonna there's gonna be a lot of cultural and and uh symbolic screens between your understanding of the reality in theirs all you can do is stoke 0:43:39 the fires for for internal resolution of of contradiction which is why the trotskyists

are wrong as ***** they want world revolution so much that they think we can make it happen because it has to happen soon if we're going to get world socialism or any kind of socialism like we're going to have to they believe we're going to the real thing of trotskyism is they believe you can't get rid of capitalism with until you have a world system and they might actually have a point with that i don't know i haven't thought about it that much honestly but like the reasoning is when you look at what happened with the soviet union if you're in a world market system you will suborn yourself to it that's why they became deformed marks deformed workers states like they called them and they talked about the rise of the bureaucratic class that had to manage the state capitalism that's because they were part of this global system uh and they were in competition and that need for competition made them capitalists and you know that that's i think that's an accurate description of like the structure of the uh soviet economy but what do you do about it is the question 0:44:41 and and i don't think that trotskyism resolves that question trotskyism offloads the question by saying well you export it you revolt everybody else and then you can have a system where that state capitalism it has to emerge independ it has to emerge from the ground up everywhere and that doesn't mean we can't cooperate we have to co-op like things like solidarity strikes and ***** like that historically has been the kind of thing we're talking about i mean if in world war one when all the countries had declared war on each other if class consciousness had been developed enough in the advanced countries for all of their work all of their labor cl all of their socialist parties and all of their labor unions to just declare us general strikes that would have really created world revolution right there or could have or would have been the start of i think an unstoppable tide effective uh the best chance we could have 0:45:45 had basically and there's an argument to be made that world war one was basically a false flag to get the working classes of europe to kill each other instead of unite but the thing is once you're in that state sector and that's another country's flag coming over the uh the wall with guns and uh in a different vocabulary then conflict will arise they will not accept it uh robespierre who warned against the the republic declaring war and that's one of those things you can use if you want to defend robespierre is that the conditions that led to the the great terror were exacerbated wildly by the early years of the war with the first with the austrians uh and how badly it went and how terrified everybody was that the ***** king was going to come or that the king was going to come back to power and everybody killed but 0:46:47 that war was uh that war was opposed by the jacobins that war was opposed by the mountain because robespierre said the only thing people hate that mission more than missionaries are armed missionaries and what happened was is that that frenzied war condition is what led to people fleeing to the you know the safety of the jacobins

to like carry them through the conflict and all the sister republics that were left in the wake of uh french revolutionary success were never able to take root even with national organic political movements think about the the italian peasantry who rose up against the french because the local priests told them to your your peasantry has to get alienated against the priests themselves you cannot alienate a peasantry from their own priesthood from outside because why the hell would they listen because i mean maybe maybe the crown heads of europe looked around and said oh in a few years these guys at any doubt at any moment forget having to stop a war at any moment can just put down their tools and we're done what if we fight each other and these guys all writing letters to each other kaiser wilhelm writing during the war to nicholas and calling him dearest nicki he was ***** he was he was i believe wilhelm was also uh queen victoria's grandson and king ed king uh king george v looked exactly like nicholas ii exactly uh you know you look think of it and the thing is is that i don't think that that's the thing that they thought to do they weren't like hey let's do a big false flag war to kill off the working class i think that one of the drivers of the military mobilization around late imperialism was the effective agitation of the working class it drove it exacerbated the the the perceived need for militaristic uh uh an imperial advancement among the leadership of the of the countries and also militated against de-escalation because from the perspective of a country dealing with a rising and more effective working class the idea of conscripting millions of them into the military is a contributing variable towards making the decision to go well i hope i hope i made sense today i kind of went off there time stopped moving cuba's more base than vietnam because vietnam is basically china junior and that they let in western capital they've managed it relatively well i mean their covered response shows that they have not sacrificed social cohesion uh and like social welfare completely which i think wouldn't have happened if they hadn't won the war like if you're vietnamese i think if you're if you're if you're a guy who fought in that war i think you can look back at all that sacrifice and i don't think you can look at the mcdonald's across the street and go you know what it was all for nothing because if the south had won certainly if they had been able to you know take over the whole country or sir but if they had been able to like dominate lower the lower half of that peninsula they would have become a bangladeshi like a place of hyperexploitation of labor whereas they have capitalism now but it's one that still has a degree of control uh but at the same time you look at that compared to cuba holding out against the world market for ***** 70 years surviving the fall of the soviet union and then surviving the death of castro which nobody really thought was gonna happen it's astounding it really does bring a tear to the eye i don't want to choose solidarity with i do wonder if like the people who are really pro china like the campus deng

people if they know how little the vietnamese communists like china or the maoists in india for that exam yeah striking is illegal in vietnam yeah i mean the person 0:51:59 you really have to ask if it was worth vietnam was us for us it was like not worth it for any kind of perspective because we got in there anyway on terms that even if they weren't ideal were better than nothing and have been wildly helpful to uh facilitating global capital flows which of course is all of this matters the flow if there's one word when you think about the economy all this ***** just think of the word flow they're not discrete economies in this world it is one holistic system of systems and it is described its actions are described as a flow in my mind it is a circulation it is a circular system and they're in the flow i think that they are at a better position as a country than they would have been uh if they hadn't fought and hadn't kicked us out but certainly when you consider what the stakes were for america and how psychically damaging that war was for us and how it deformed our politics for the rest of its existence it's kind of breathtaking but of course an example had to be 0:53:2 made like it was in indonesia like it was in iran like it was in guatemala like it was in chile argentina brazil greece italy france uh ireland if you count all the the aid to the the sas against the it's uh it was a global war like you could say you could call it the third world war i think they said that on q and on and i are true true or not sorry i think i think mike judge said that on true and on that it's that the third world war already happened and it was the battle between capitalism and the whole world like not just the soviet union but like arrayed differently like all of the world uh and like you could consider the soviets and like the chinese as big 0:54:3 factions within a broader uncoordinated coalition against one massive enemy which is global capitalism and that the battlefields were not in russia or the united states but in korea vietnam uh the drc south africa uh namibia mozambique algeria iraq iran turkey all all the for all the europe itself through the gladio program algeria uh the entire the entire western hemisphere the entire american sphere of influence and i'm not talking about and in all those cases i'm talking about real violence actual battlefields deaths in the millions and the end of which has left a rampant and un and uh unchallenged global capitalism with a global capital flow and so i would say 0:55:6 that from the point of view of like american policy makers and american american stakeholders specifically american political stakeholders vietnam was a mistake even if it did prevent an example from forging but i think as stepped away as like one one chess move in a global chess game uh in the in the in the in the interest of the creation of those flow networks like if you don't have vietnam what like it's a reverse domino theory if you don't go in in vietnam where else don't you go in and what battles maybe do you lose and then how much does that change the conditions hussites uh bad timing you gotta wait man you gotta wait for that printing press 0:56:16

what are you doing all right guys maybe one more question and i'm gonna i'm gonna wrap it up i'm a little i'm a oh man twilight struggle okay i will leave on this thank you for reminding him of that i tried to play twilight struggle once and it seems to me to be a very very complicated game but that's exactly the kind of game that chris could walk me through so a lot i would love to do twilight struggle that's a great idea we'll do that and i hope i hope the stream is going to start in september fingers crossed i think we're going to do it and like i said there'll still be an hour whenever 0:57:17 we do it there will be an hour of me doing this that's not going anywhere maybe chris will help with fielding the questions so i'm not staring into the screen so much but i will basically be doing this then we'll do games and other stuff but this is not going anywhere it's being added to benghazi ain't going away all right guys um okay it's it's good to have like a major piece of cultural real estate reaffirm you 0:1:5 know your demands that's it's it's very validating and uh and it helps morale for sure it definitely i think that's for sure uh in this in in this society for especially so that's good so i have no no complaints obviously i wouldn't criticize them for doing it that would be churlish and i think people should be excited but i think people need to also be a little realistic i think people are kind of hoping that this snowballs into 0:2:6 something but i feel like that's sort of what everybody is doing all the time is hoping that the next demonstrative act leads to in a sort of bunch of copycat behavior and i'm not and that is not because anybody is making a bad analysis in fact i would say they're making a correct analysis of the city society they live in like the kind of social organizations we would need to coordinate action don't exist what we have instead is the hope that we could that individuals could be simultaneously inspired and that that's what we have kind of i've been banking on and i think that there's a role to play for that it's just i worry that it becomes a totalizing theory yeah i got a mug i 0:3:23 switched to a mug tonight it's just water actually not even seltzer ooh what if the romans never left britain well i mean that's really covered in uh escape from rome among other things but uh one of the reasons that the british political system proved dynamic enough to accommodate the cultural revolution relative to the stagnant monarchies of uh of the continent like france for example was that because roman rule collapsed apocalyptically there leaving very little civic remnant uh that as a 0:4:28 result british society rebuilt along more horizontally oriented lines of authority just because there were no existing nodes of authority to to build up from that's why you have like the common-law tradition and ***** and like english freedoms which of course once they fuse with capitalism become just licensed to turn the planet into an empty ***** cinder but those elements as uh were progressive uh in in in the past in the past in that they helped create a political culture that instead of allowing the industrial revolution to uh like fatally undermine uh social balance of powers like it did in a lot of other countries and that's why it was suppressed and kind of kept away uh for and uh for so long uh the brits were able to accommodate it because the romans weren't around long enough and with enough residual influence to shape 0:5:33 their political structures towards the sort of absolutist trend uh and specifically uh like high uh rule by large land owners that makes the emergence of bourgeois i had to take it i took a i took an ancestry dna test yes i know they have my dna whatever they have anything anyway i underst i understand why people who aren't enmeshed in these networks should try not to to stay not enmeshed in them but i feel like i lost my soul a while ago uh so but we were gonna do an episode about it that we never really got around to uh where we were going to talk about like the weird politics and cultural resonance of uh this genetic history stuff and the way it recreates a lot of kind of terrifying racial essentialism honestly uh not a good it's really not been a great 0:6:34 development it plus like hyper awareness of race as like a a as a perceived positive social force it's a it's a back and of course deepening economic contradictions in crisis this is not a good stew but anyway i did take the thing yes uh it gave me basically what i assumed i would get which is mostly northern northern europe germany it looked i got it was like a map with a bunch of lines coming off of it germany denmark uh england i think nor france a little bit or belgium or something and then the big surprise 15 mediterranean which usually means italian but of course as we all know this is pseudoscience what they're doing is they're taking mark markers that appear predominantly or not even predominantly but like statistically more likely in certain areas than others and then assigning that in your dna because for any one individual 0:7:37 person those could be from anywhere so yeah you're saying you probably are from here you might be but it's barely above a guess which is not how people take it people are like well i'm 25 percent freezian 36 percent uh waloonian and i've got a third uh got a half a s a half a percent swabian but i mean i would not be surprised if my actual like real ancestry in terms of the people not weird allele blobs was aligned that line all i really the only real clues i have is i was born i was born in wisconsin born my family has all been like multi-generational from wisconsin my last name is christman my mother's mask my mother's maiden name is even more german sounding than that it has two ends which are the real german sounding names or the ones with 0:8:39 two ends and that both of my grandparents were catholic families i put two and two together and it comes but i mean i honestly feel like if you don't have relatives who are alive that you could visit in another country you aren't really from there and you shouldn't really identify that way it's kind of dumb it's it's it's it's uh it's basically astrology it's the exact same sort of deal of like trying to uh take a random thing and then like tack your personality around it uh intentionally like self-hypnotize yourself into an identity that is so like if you visited family members in in another country 0:9:43 where they live you know and and certainly you don't get to cut and if you got a uh yeah i was going to say if you have like dual passports but those irish guys those

CUSHVLOG 70. BALLISTIC - ALF VS NOID

***** the irish will give it to anybody they will give citizenship to basically anybody anybody with a anybody with an apostrophe in their last name no matter what gets a ***** irish baloney uh aldo morrow assassination false flag i would say not even possible i would say it's probable when you look at the fact that morrow was in the process of negotiating to bring the communists into government for the first time in the post-war history of italy in the middle of the years of lead in which the vast majority of terror attacks including ones that were publicly blamed on red brigade uh communists were being carried out by the p2 masonic lodge black aristocracy uh fascist paramilitary groups that gladio uh funded with bob mub money funneled through the vatican bank hilariously enough uh and in fact moro before he was kidnapped he was he visited the united states and kissinger gave him a talking to about the communists that i don't think there's a record of what he said but there is a record that after morrow got out of his office he was essentially shell-shocked he was stunned and he like talked about how he was gonna ***** quit so and then you got the actual case itself has a the evidence like oh you know all italian uh criminal cases is all over the place but there's a fair one of the most interesting one of the fun uh one of the things that i think is funny just in terms of you know circumstantial evidence is is that the kidnapping of moro was it wasn't like i mean my god like by the way they the gladio also or the like the gladio network the south africans probably killed uh uh olaf palm but that assassination really could have just been any crank the guy was he never had bodyguards he was walking off out of a movie theater shot him in the back morrow was in a ***** motorcade and his guards were like eliminated uh with machine guns by guys dressed as cops there aren't a lot of uh of genuine uh left-wing kidnappings and terror attacks from that era with that kind of coordination if you look at like the ship spider-man hop pulled in germany the just hilariously botched bloody goofy mops that those guys pulled off while they were trying to kidnap or assassinate how close are we to a civil war stop it tell me who the two sides are hassan has asked me to come on the stream and i would love to i'll be honest on stream in the future uh because we're gonna be chris and i are gonna be adding a uh i guess i should announce this here the there is like they're already i know people have asked like could you get an audio only version of these which i totally get because i don't watch youtube videos i really only listen to podcasts in terms of engaging with audio media on the internet uh but i also am uh dullard and lazy and don't know what i'm doing technologically uh so like they've been uh bootleg uh our rss feeds of the audio of this which is fine by me but we're gonna be creating a like mixed and uh like audio spike audio juiced uh podcast stream for the vlogs all of them and that'll just be going on to all of your uh podcasting app applications incl and spotify which we uh we're talking about the civil war see people say it's going to be anti-5 versus militia i'm sorry i don't i've talked i think i've i hope i've expressed enough why i don't think that's a real thing why i don't think that this is a real demonstration of social forces so much as a a performance by people who have self-radicalized away from a a fundamentally apathetic and a political public 0:14:53 you might see a breakdown of social order that will then be reasserted from beloved above technologically and uh militarily but i just don't think that that's a civil war does anybody know about the greensboro massacre have you ever guys ever heard about that i'm curious how how well-known that event is on like online left circles has anybody all right we got a lot some no's we got some yeses don't know i'd say i'm gonna go it's probably honestly it's like 60 40 note of yes yeah so uh in 1979 a bunch of members of the uh communist workers party which was a maoist group uh that came out of the whole the new left uh uh was getting ready to do a big anti-clan march in greensboro north carolina and there had been a escalating series of provocations between the two leading up to that uh and there was a lot of heated rhetoric it was called death to the clan was the name of the march uh and while they were setting getting ready they were getting their pickets ready and while they were uh uh marshalling uh for the parade a carloads of members card-carrying members of the american nazi party and the local clan organization pulled up and there's video of this their people had camcorders they took rifles out of their trunks of their cars they walked over to where the uh communists were they started shouting and and there was an exchange of of insults and then fists and swinging uh i believe there was maybe one gun on the side of the of the uh marchers but at some point the clan guys and the nazi guys just opened fire and they killed five people uh and wounded 0:16:56 over 12 others uh they were all charged and and uh uh charged with first-degree murder and they were all acquitted uh on under self-defense uh and later it came out that uh the that the klan groups which had uh informants within them which all those clan organizations did they were half of them just like it's hilariously just like the communist party half of the klan in the 60s were feds and they local police had a tip that the local clans was planning to do something violent to the the the communists and they sat on it and this happened and these guys got acquitted uh in that was in 1979 and i just bring that up to say that as horrifying as what we're seeing happen is i noticing a trend where people are without even knowing it seeking 0:17:59 some ratification of the horror that they're imagining like i talked about yesterday and things like that things like what happened in kenosha it really fires that cylinder uh like but apparently the person who did this i was talking the other day about how a 19 year old kid uh running for you know state senate is an expression of a meat of a of a movement that is not being organized that is that is individuals acting individually a 17 year old uh fascist gunman is similarly uh indicative of a

movement that is uncoordinated apparently he went there because like somebody tweeted about it or did a facebook post about how like hey let's come up let's go up to kenosha and he just grabbed his ar and he went that is an expression of the kind of social enemy that is bringing everything to the ***** it is but one of the big symptoms of that is that people don't organize effectively they come together 0:19:1 along axes of shared interest an affinity but they are always self-interested and that means that they cannot coordinate and that means we're not going to get a civil war and people pointing out the horrible fact that the cops basically let this guy get away with it at the time i mean he's arrested now but they were hands off him all day and they they didn't they didn't engage him after he'd shot yes of course that's horrifying and proof of whose side these guys are they are reactionary forces they are they are filling the role that there is such as it is for a social expression of the coming authoritarianism or end latent and current authoritarianism but it's a narrow thin strip it's not a big fat steak full of social uh like organization the way that the nazi party was the way that fascism was in italy uh the thing you have to worry about is that the cops that are the power that they really represent the cops 0:20:3 to the power they really represent that is where the authority rests that is that is one of the load-bearing structures of this edifice and that has to be attacked directly that has to be attacked head on and i i i think that there's a there is a libidonal desire to have a public confrontation that will be satisfying you know what i was talking about yesterday that will be satisfying personally to engage in to finally see but i don't think that that is recognizing the broader moment and the real the reign of struggle which is organizing which is mobilizing now there is an argument to be made that these public displays have that propaganda of the deed function and i would say yes but like with anything you have to do a cost-benefit analysis and is the benefit 0:21:4 of that propaganda of inspiration is it offset by the way that it counter mobilizes among the enemy pushes away the unengaged uh and distracts from meaningful work opportunity cost and my main concern about the current moment is that no one seems to be even aware that that cost-benefit analysis has to be made because everyone knows that no one's really in charge and so they don't want to say don't do a thing to people who are going to do it anyway you're left having to defend it as a maximal position why because that accords with letting everybody do what they want everybody do what they want which is what they think is good for everybody but is really just good for them the way that it's good it's fun to yell in the face of people having brunch you know the way that it's fun to to to smash a fash if you're 0:22:5 that kind of person or doxyfash if you're that kind of person or just call other people fash to win arguments uh eric jr and john and don jr and eric both had tarot very bad speeches uh eric is just hilarious because he's complaining about the working man being left behind like you've nev you've never we watched him work for that show we watched that was on fox where it was one of his job is picking the cover of the of the magazine that they just put in the ***** of the hotel rooms it's not even 0:23:7 like an actual magazine uh it used to be he tried to make it a magazine but nobody read it and then he put it into his ***** uh hotels but they bring four out and they lay him in front of him and he goes we were thinking this one they actually push one towards him and he goes yeah i think that one too like they might as well just put peanut butter on it and had him lick it like he was mr edge to make him look like he was talking they're dollars and they've never worked for anyone but their father and they've never held a meaningful position of authority or influence anywhere they've never done any of the things that they demand everyone else do to just deserve to live in this country serve in the military build a small business disgusting uh pig boys and the fact that anybody likes them and the fact that i mean previous generations working like people talk about how in culture a lot of the cultural changes of the last 0:24:8 40 years would be alienating to working-class people 100 years ago the factory guys they wouldn't really go to the pride parade and like feel included they would more likely kind of just think it was wrong and they would go reject it i mean there's you can argue about what that means i doesn't mean much because once again those were that's 100 years ago we're here these these are not the same things that is not this that working class is not this working class its composition is similar people in relationship to each other but it's not a comported social category so that is that's why it's wrong you know uh but it's still it's still an argument to be made but just in the same way as that a hundred years ago working-class people would have looked at don jr and eric and they would have thought look at these little fault leroy pieces of ***** look at these rich kids i'd like to cave their ***** faces in they'd 0:25:10 spit tobacco on him if they saw him on a ***** which means that you know none of these things are ***** uh one-sided in any direction like the social turn pushes people in directions that are not controllable or predictable in the moment but that have to be reckoned with as they occur and then dealt with we live in a different reality where we have to deal with the fact that a lot of a lot of rough and tumble regular folk look at a chinless goon like eric trump a ***** habsburg like he is he's like if the fourth clone of michael keaton in multiplicity got cloned and he's going to tell people about the virtues of hard work like culture has zapped our brains and one of the ways that zapped them is to tell people that it's like the west virginia coal 0:26:12 miners who sat in a big theater to listen to donald trump ex complain about how the hair spray isn't as good as it used to be that's that just shows that like these categories only look the same everything is inside the contents may uh contents may shift does anyone know who was on tonight i forgot i i couldn't even remember i got to say last night you guys anybody who watched last night how ***** bad was that uh like it was it was democrats bad oh crenshaw's tonight ***** oh that smarmy little prick well i got my eye on him ah we all like to have fun we like to melania 0:27:14 just went on forever what the i gotta say that we had a lot of fun on the stream it was a fun stream uh honestly i think that the boring nights are more fun because i don't get distracted as much by getting mad at it because i understand it's okay fake and you should never argue these things on their merits because they're pointless the argument exists independently of like ever being resolved it's uh it's just it's the s it's the subject you have to step away from it uh but god damn it they pull me in with when they get really going they really pull me in all that stuff the first night about how like thanks to donald trump i got a z-pack in antibiotics uh when i got sick with covid or whatever it's like do you guys you guys think that he's like a volcano 0:28:16 god i mean you think that if if donald trump was not president the sun would not have risen that day and earth would have flipped off of its axis and pinwheeled into space and we would all have died in frozen horror all that stuff still would have happened dude oh still gets me so but it's more when it's more boring you don't even really process the garbage it just kind of goes smoothly over your brain but if i might get i get might get a little head up at crenshaw because he's such a smug prick and he's he's he really is trying to be the conservative aoc that is exactly what he's trying to be because he is he is soy he is a conservative soy man and i'm not talking about because he likes israel i'm not talking about his positions i mean that he is the embodiment of the caricature of a millennial uh a social media star the way aoc is the way that he uh is just uh the way that he weaponizes grievance uh 0:29:17 and the way that he um and specifically the way he plays on sympathy of uh uh on amongst the public he like tries to flip all the social justice stuff on his head and be like well if you he really does do like well if you were really tolerant you'd be tolerant of this and i feel like that and the way that he courts epicness you know like he's epic in a very specific way he's bacony you know he he's like oh me and me and pete davidson went on snl he's like a millennial he is in his essence a like a millennial bug man that these guys hate uh but because he grew up in texas or whatever and also he's a loser i really think felix is onto something with this thing about how we're getting a million veterans running for things but people don't want to ***** elect a veteran because look we want we've had enough losers in this ***** country we 0:30:19 don't want to get ***** represented by a bunch of guys who couldn't beat a bunch of dudes wearing ***** uh like bathrobes and and tires strapped to their feet i mean ***** what the hell a bunch of losers that guy lost his eye in afghanistan yeah there's something cuckish about being a veteran you're not a winner and like conservatism is nothing else if not a sorting mechanism for winners and losers we're going to use

we're going to use this extractive hierarchy to sort people and there's rewards and punishments there's rights and responsibilities and they arrive how much worth you have how much of a winner you are how how uh how much do you contribute to the market what are you worth to me don't give me some abstract ***** about that we're all human that we all share like a drive towards understanding of the universe that can only be found by understanding each other don't give me that ***** what do you what is it dude what is uh what do i get out of you being here what do i get out of you if you're a woman what do i get out of you are you attractive do i want to have sex with you all right you have value if you're if you're a minority it's like well what do you have to give me and if it's a bunch of stuff about how oh we don't have as much to contribute because uh you know enslavement in poverty and racism i'm sorry what does that got to do with me you're a loser you lost white men won black people lost and along the way there's winners and losers within those strata and they get rewarded and punished individually and then as a group and it all over time sorts out itself so everyone is totally uh seen as they must be in a market through the utility and a winner is by definition of having won something possesses value if they've won they've won something whatever it is social material sexual spiritual whatever you want to think if they've won something they have something they have value if they're a loser you've lost something you don't have value veterans sorry losers and of course you know that's very low that's down on the reptile at this point but over time as the sorting keeps happening they get added and that's why i said that there's no future for ethnonationalism ethnonationalism is a dead end because because it fixates on sorting it it imagines itself oh well we'll stop at white people or whatever we'll stop at slurbs we'll stop at this group we will create a a full enclosed harmonic social order but if the thing that got you there is not changed when you have that harmonic social order you're going to keep sorting winners from losers and you get new categories of people who are on people and you get new explosions of social strife you get new uh admiseration and then you have new social conflict congratulations until all is destroyed mutually the mutual ruin of the contending classes which you idiotically thought were not going to exist because race is the real class well guess what race is not the real class class is a real class and that's why class has to be the first basis of analysis because otherwise you could make a utilitarian argument for ethnonationalism that's the echo fascist thing right like well it's too late socialism is too late it's barbarism and improves in the lifeboat and who's out we're gonna go by race but i'm saying no it doesn't even it doesn't even um make that case that isn't even accurate because even if it got there it would destroy itself then because the sorting mechanism wouldn't continue the winners and the losers would get put apart stretched apart and it would undermine the social order and obliterate

it and socialism is a different sorting it is a sorting outward of pain so that instead of some people experiencing exquisite amounts of alienation and pain and other people experience and i'm not i'm talking material and other people experiencing almost none that you can re-distribute that pain so that it is felt lightly by everybody and the more lightly it can be felt the more our social antenna can be connected to each other and facilitate actual harmonic existence and a flow that is regulated not by the brutal algorithm of the market which none of us can trust with one another because we're alienated from one another to a holistic market a market that doesn't require signals because it is uh it's uh and you can say oh that's not likely with no ***** i mean ethnonationalists aren't going to get what they want either like i'm sorry we're not going to get the pepe uh kekistan we're going to get military camps like worst case scenario like it really does collapse it's going to be military fiefdoms it's not going to be a epic new uh like fourth reich meme lord land you're not even gonna get that so you're living in a fantasy world too at least my fantasy world actually is a oh the brabant killings man that's wild stuff just think about this belgium's got like seven people in it right it's a ***** postage stamp it's it's it does it shouldn't even exist it's this stupid it's like why didn't the netherlands and france when they pulled it apart why didn't they pull harder and get the whole thing and then they wouldn't have had to worry about this stupid ***** so it's a weird little appendix in the low countries very small small population 11 million now okay but we're talking in the 80s we're talking single-digit millions which is about as many people as our within uh and over the course of a number of years in the 80s there was a string of insanely violent robberies mostly at grocery stores but also break-ins at gas stations that led to the deaths of over 30 people these are the the the descriptions of these crimes are like grand theft auto do three dudes pull up you know their little citrion or whatever her little nose it was a van pop out and just if someone's in the parking lot just start shooting people in the parking lot go into the place shoot anyone they see grab the money and they got barely any money they would like steal camping supplies and and like a bulk food items and toilet paper and ***** and then a little bit of cash so these were like if this was uh economically motivated is the most widely like miscalculated decision matrix that humans ever possessed like i want 40 how am i going to get it how about i kill 12 people in broad daylight or like in the or in the middle of a city and then at several points they had shootouts with cops where they killed the cops cops showed up at one point as they were leaving one uh uh one of the grocery stores they lift their asses up and it got it never got solved they never found them how would that happen how does that happen they never found him and then when you consider the fact that there's a cache of weapons associated with the problem killings that included in it nato specific firearms and and shells that were part of like the complement of armories given uh to the belgian special forces as part of their nato training uh the connections of uh people to the stolen goods from the robbery connected to far right not neo-nazi orgs with ties to the military including a guy who had in his possession at one point nato documents classified nato documents when he was arrested and at another point before his suicide uh said that he had connections to mark dutrow mark dutrow was a belgian uh child murderer one of the most monstrous human beings really i i've ever encountered uh in my in my readings a real piece of ***** uh who was allowed through a baffling array of police misconducts to go undetected while abducting raping and murdering numbers i can't remember how many it wasn't i think it was more than ten young girls after being released from prison for that very crime uh and at one point he had girls in a subterranean vault that he built himself while police officers were searching his home and even though the girls were screaming none of them investigated the downstairs and they found tapes in his house of him building the basement lair that they did not look at until after he had been arrested late uh later for something else for like and when he was arrested he said i work with a network of high-level political financial and military leaders in belgian society uh and providing them with young children for ritual sexual assault and murder uh and he gave names he listed actual people and those associates uh alarmingly ended up mostly get dying one way or the other there's it's like jfk only i think even more impressive the number of people involved in the investigation both as prosecutors and police officers and as potential witnesses who died through accident and suicide uh and there at one point uh and and then the real eye raising stuff eyebrow raising stuff is that the victims came forward claiming that they had seen dutrow during abuse at the hands of like belgian social people and those witnesses gave descriptions of buildings the interiors of buildings that they otherwise would not have been able to have and it's not obviously an open and shut case but the connections you have there just in belgium between international child sex rings right wing neo-nazi biker gangs prison gangs uh police off networks of fascist police officers literal former nazis like the gellen oregon and west virginia west germany and of course the the uh the neo the neo fascists in italy i mean those guys were led by those p2 lounges had guys who had been who had been actual card carrying fascists under mussolini in there and then of course coordinating the thing nato the arctic are the architecture of our of our uh western military alliance against the soviet union where always at every point the front of the cold war like you could talk i've said that like you could call it the third world war the cold war is the third world war but there was one quiet front and that was europe but that was where the game actually was everything else was battle for europe in the minds of the planners i mean there's a reason the folded gap was the fixation of planters on both sides of the urals and the obsession among the military for the creation of uh tactical nuclear weapons small nuclear weapons that could be deployed at the battlefield level by generals they actually thought that they could create our nuclear artillery shells and biz and like a mortar rounds that could be fired to destroy like a tank column and that would not escalate to a full exchange of nuclear fire which of course was madness there's something called the davy crockett it was a it was a nuclear mortar it had it was looked like a regular mortar almost but with a giant mushroom head and like donald trump's dick according to story daniels and it was supposed to like fire in a 0:44:41 mile and go off one of those just like the delusion going down to the idea that you're gonna survive after you press that button amazing but anyway the reason they were folks fixated on that is because that was the ball game europe was the ball game in the minds of the planners because that was the developed world that was the that was like the rest of the world was where we were getting the resources the rest of the world is where we were getting the ***** that we ground into the end and the end result the commodities the world commodities they were consumed in the uk or i mean they were consumed in the united states and europe and so that's why it's called the cold war because the one place that didn't there was no fighting the one front that was quiet i do not have a thousand islands there thank you i would like 0:46:13 more information about the milwaukee uh child trafficking house by the way i i got yelled at by a guy because i had said that i didn't know anything else about after it happened and he screamed he got my dms and he was furious because he said you're from milwaukee you should know this stuff why are you asking and i said i i don't know man and i just i don't know what sources to go with it's i'm not there i don't have local connections there anymore and he just and i even asked him like is there anything i could look at he's like you don't know you fraud ***** and i was like damn i'm sorry and i felt bad for the guy because he seemed very invested in it but i swear to god i have after the initial thing i have no idea how to do anything with that other than drive myself insane by trying to find a pattern that i couldn't realistically think was uh you know or i find a pattern out of something that i could not even really i my guess is is that what people were saying at the time probably isn't true 0:47:17 because that kind of stuff is almost never true the first draft i mean come on because how much stuff are people drawing conclusions from that is just inference and then eventually it gets fall like how many how many people think that there's uh crisis actors and false flags because they because of the evidence that initial reports said there were multiple gunmen how many people use that as evidence of course there's going to say that because the guys over here people are running somebody's over there they see him what if they see a cop there's another gunman what if somebody comes around the bend and twice people somebody's over you hear screaming how

the hell are you going to say that initial reports are going to indicate anything other than initial reports have to be sifted through and when all you have is like a live stream and then and that's why i say it's about triage a lot of this stuff like the first step towards disengaging from the discourse is triage like one of the things that will really make you cut down on the amount of time you spend on here swear to god is if you cut down the number of things that you allow yourself to give a ***** about i'm not talking about like you know this specific case i'm talking more about something like the kansas thing i talked about the other day uh you have to be able to recognize quickly what is pure discourse what is discourse brain and what is meat and then that allows you to funnel out and that means if there's less stuff you're paying attention to twitter gets boring faster because there's only so many takes and only so much to talk about if everything is worth getting excited about then you'll never leave you'll never find an end to that you can stay there for hours but if you start whittling down what cares you care about it's like oh i'm done i'm basically done with the internet right now and then you can go read a ***** book oh my battery is running low might have to cut under early but i'm good for now uh why should we not freak out about kenosha i think i said that earlier if you didn't come on i may i think i made my argument about that oh my god how would a evangelical view spinoza i mean as as the devil he's a demon he's a communist you they would just say he's a communist because it means there's no hell there's no damnation and that means that you can do the devil's business without punishment and that means because they're because they are bad people because they are fully libidonally motivated they also have to motivate themselves to even hold the fiction of their religious belief that they need in order to maintain sanity uh through a coercive mechanism there has to be a hell there has to be punishment because if i didn't believe in god i would do these things i would rape i would pillage i would murder i would do i mean honestly they already do a bunch of terrible stuff that they've convinced themselves as good but they would also do even worse stuff and they think that what's governing them is god but it's not it's their own superego protecting them from annihilation by going too far against the social world that they don't recognize as social because it's but the spinozian the spinoza religious perspective by robbing by getting rid of hell gets rid of the stakes of interactions personally in such a way that unity can be can arise in perception it can become perceivable because the stakes are lower because the pressure is lower it's why people it's why uh that's why social enlightenment comes to the middle and upper classes before it comes to the working class because you have to have a certain level of comfort in order to accommodate others or else you're in tunnel vision gotta get my mode which is what these people have even though they already have everything but that's the thing you're a hungry ghost you have no perspective that means that even as you are always satiated any displeasure becomes as bad to your brain any displeasure like a pee like the the pee in the princesses uh mattresses that becomes as searing as the hunger pains of someone who has had to skip the last three meals because their ***** uh covet payment is late or because they live in a ***** 0:52:26 uh favela in brazil or something to them it's as real because they feel nothing but pleasure any any pain any discomfort is is is everything if you don't have that uh that the horror of obliteration there the the the consciousness of the obliteration of your ego which you are worshiping without knowing it you're you're secretly worshiping your own ego but it will annihilate it will be annihilated it can't be reconciled unless the ego can be turned outward essentially and externalized into social connections with others people don't have to be told not to kill each other people don't have to be told not to uh exploit one another for profit it would occur to them to do it now 0:53:28 of course that's not going to be true of everyone at once and that's why utopians utopianism is a bad way to organize your politics because it is so far from us that we have to have some vision of what this is for i believe and i believe this is not and and i believe that what sounds goofy about it what sounds pie in the sky about it only feels that way if you're imagining it as being totalizing and instantaneous but if you imagine it as a process being moved towards and then at one point you get a critical mass of people and the the social mechanism that generates evil is overcome over time and fewer and fewer people are operating under those constraints that social dysfunction will also be leached out of society and out of our out of our human nature our human nature will now be something completely different than what we think it 0:54:29 is but it's only because we've resolved all the contradictions of producing for use and surplus and so that over time that becomes it goes there's a tipping point is reached where that because the thing is there's that in society at all times it's just right now being crushed it's it's being destroyed it's being obliterated by capitalism but of course capitalism is acquiring elements of it like the wokification of capitalism is a dialectical process like the the the the base of neoliberalism is actually being changed the way because the base this has to be remembered and i don't think i sometimes i emphasize this enough is that the base generates the superstructure but then the superstructure but the reason that that distinction matters is because you can never 0:55:32 change the operation at the superstructural level because it's not generative once the process begins though it's reinforcing and so the woke stuff that looks like to a lot of people who are just kind of reactionary socially and they want a reason for it to be socially acceptable they see that and they're like oh this is socialism being uh you know uh commodified it's like well kind yeah that's the motive but it's also at a social level it is capitalism being humanized a little but of course over time it shrinks and grows according to how much money we have how much wealth we have how much ability we have to spread pain around like we had the civil rights movement during the height of america's prosperity for a reason because expectations were heightened and more and just as importantly among the white people there was enough prosperity for most of them to go ah you that wasn't an accident those two things drove each other now we're in a situation where standards of living are declining where people are feeling more and more even if they are not materially deprived they sense the impending deprivation of their material circumstances like they say that the the white the uh the white bourgeois most likely to vote for trump were white bourgeois in places that had high levels of unemployment poverty and opiate overdose as in they were the rich people but the rich people in the poor towns as in they saw what could happen to white people something they thought could only happen to the lazy and the black could happen to white people which means and so that is happening now and now we're getting this locification of capitalism and it is trying to like back down the generalized anime produced by the system and the need to maintain and increase structures of control both enforced through the law the military and the police but also culturally through the discourse not generative but culturally generated by which is yes you could argue that all this discourse this is all cia operation you could say the cia created critical theory in the 60s to make everybody talk about this ***** all day you could say it and in in function that that discourse does serve capitalism which you can argue very clearly because it exists within capitalism and nothing that prominent at a social cultural level could exist if it was incompatible with capitalism but it doesn't mean that that thing must be negated in socialism it's created by the social instinct it has to be kept it has to be cherished and integrated into a class analysis and bike and through class action and protected the way that the labor movement was one of the founding uh funders and uh uh infrastructure providers of the civil i i do declare man that feels good i feel like i got something out there that i've been like trying to articulate for a while and i just didn't have the right the moment wasn't there where i had the right symbols in my head that i could **Music playing** does anyone remember when madonna became an edm dj reinventions oh general strike oh no no no no no general strike no nobody is nobody knows how to strike nobody nobody can strike we cannot strike the few general strikes that have ever happened in western history have happened at the city level which is because that's the degree of organization or the degree of organizational coherence you need to pull one off for even a few days is neces is usually only found at the city level uh san francisco uh there's one in vancouver i believe they never they don't spread generally because it's difficult to maintain that organizational coherence beyond the city level and even and but those were in cities with super high union density within key industries we have

unprecedentedly low union density in this country winnipeg in in unprecedentedly low union density in this country we have uh we um do not have the coordination to ensure any significant degree of critical labor inputs being withheld from the system which is what you need for it to be anything other than a demonstration and the thing is is that i think there is limited value to be had in demonstrations and i think like like a national day of action type thing like a real show of strength type one day like they used to do during the iraq war uh like the mobilization against the war did during vietnam the mobe that could have a clarifying effect and could certainly help shape the political landscape in a positive direction but i don't think that you should put it through the you should not look at it as a strike people should not organize or create expectations along the avenue of it being a strike guarantee if people think that they're going to do what a strike can do on the timetable people are talking about they will only be disappointed it will only be a disappointment if it is understood to be a demonstration of just voices heard you could be some you i wouldn't say far because demonstrations are of limited value but a coordinated national moment as opposed to individual related explosions of discontent could have an effect on just getting people out there hell exchanging ***** emails texting each other joining orgs put some tables out hey here's an org hey here's who's got a who works at who works uh in a big box retailer show of hands who works at a big box retailer you know that could be useful but that's not a strike and because and the one the desire to call it a strike is that same libido forgive me desire to see the moment it has having arrived to know that you're not just participating in the slow boring of hard boards and the tedious creation of a new political reality no you were at the summit you were at the mountaintop because everyone wants to get to the top everyone wants to see it resolve towards something great they don't want to see their work just be seen to themselves in their life the only one they're ever going to have is a ***** waste of time but that instinct is what drives us to the grandiosity of our reach overseeing our grass and our and the constant compulsive misidentification of how much organizing needs still to be done and how weak the left is talking about a strike talking about a civil war those things delude the self and anyone who hears them and believes them into how strong the left is how coherent it is it's not coherent enough to be the side in a civil war and it's not coherent enough to organize a strike at any kind for getting a ***** general one but god can you imagine it one day everybody in the streets works at a big box retailer who works at amazon who wants to do this who's who hey you know hey who lives in this building maybe we like the rent strike thing was also kind of in the same thing if it's just people just deciding not to pay the rent a lot of people love the idea of a rent strike because oh i don't have to talk to anybody i'll just not pay my rent everybody else will just not pay their rent and boom we won't have to pay our rent that's precisely how you get ***** because you're not coordinated but like a full building rent strike that has actual power a block of buildings rent strike now you're ***** talking everybody in the street who lives in this building who lives in this neighborhood who needs this thing like mutual aid is another thing that feels to a lot of people revolutionary but i think is more people just sort of doing the charity that feels good to them in the moment which god bless and is better than doing nothing but that's the kind of situation where that sort of mutual aid organization could be hypothetically linked to some other organs and create actual structures of connection at the level of membership not at the level of so yeah damn i mean maybe that's a bad idea i'm sure some ***** i'm sure some hardcore uh materialist types will tell me that that's that's all rad liberty too it's a fantasy it's a la rad lib fantasy that we could ever do that because how would you even get enough people to agree to show up and ask the people the same questions and not have it boil into a big argument about what representation should exist within the structure of the organizing that i'm i'm forgetting the role the culture is going to play and poisoning the well because everyone's going to have to do their own little thing and everyone is going to have to feel represented regardless of whether or not it is um congruent with the project or whether it makes it uh more difficult and the thing is is that i don't know the answers to those questions i don't know what where you draw the line that's a thing that has to be worked out but it can't be worked out and here's where i get back to what i was talking about yesterday with the uh the idea of the difference between libidinal politics and like a social a socialized it's essentially because it's sin it's the same libido like i i called it the other day i think i called it like a social uh obligation and i think that's wrong it's not social obligation obligation kind of implies coercion it's a social will like you you're doing it for other people because you identify at the level of the self them with your your their interest with yours so you are it's a social being not a social obligation so there's a difference between libido politics and like a socialized spiritual let's call it spiritual politics the uh the the yeah the spiritual and and the personal and what what's the difference between those and like how specifically does going by the one make it impossible to actually organize and i would give us an example people who say want to do real organizing to the like their libidinal their their desire to feel like they're contributing to politics uh matches their personal desire or matches their social desire to engage with the world so they join an org say the org says hey we're organizing we think we're going to do uh medicare for all we're going to do a medicare for all we're going to uh operation to try to build support for medicare for all by talking to people by getting in people's face and this is like a building the baseline outreach that can contribute to building greater capacity and now here's where the first uh the first

hurdle is going to come uh doing things like going door-to-door suck they're not fun they're not fun in the way that we have been acculturated to think things should be fun so that means that we have found now our first division our first conflict do we go yeah it's not fun but i could make it fun and it'll feel fun right because it'll make me feel like i'm contributing and the thing is that's what happens that's the process right of turning your life into you're spiritualizing your life right getting rid of individualized desires and creating a a social a social self that gets spiritual sucker from other people's advancement and the advancement of humanity so by going and doing it it becomes fun or at least more fun than you thought it was going to be 1:10:28

it's still going to suck the way that all things that involve dealing with people suck but if you're going to be able to find more out of it but you haven't done it yet in your head it's just something that you don't want to do in your head it's a thing that your libido wants to avoid so maybe you think you know i don't really want to go door-to-door what else could i do well it looks like nothing else i could do would satisfy my sense that i'm doing something which is what i really want to feel uh what if it's actually bad that they're going door-to-door what if that because i i'm uncomfortable going to door-to-door i actually i have a condition that means i can't go door-to-door it makes me uncomfortable it gives me anxiety interacting with strangers gives me anxiety unlike other people and like saying that i'm not a really good socialist if i don't do that you know what they're uh they're not being 1:11:30 socialists they're being ableist and i'm actually serving the revolution and serving the advancement of humanity more if i denounce them and form an organization of people to also denounce them until they understand that i need to be centered and at every point this is where i want to stress subjectively that person doesn't think that they have ever deviated from doing the best thing and the right thing and the good thing they are not operating off of bad faith they think they're doing the right thing because they have no idea that they are only operating libidinally they have no idea that they don't have a spiritual connection that would allow them to make the leap and you can take that example and it happens a million different ways i mean how many people once dsa started said uh oh they're too they're too epically uh they're too epically uh woke for me it's all a bunch of handholding it's like well i 1:12:31

mean that's what you see online but maybe it's different in person nah ***** that's like well wouldn't you want to find out if you thought it was worth getting mad about as an org if you thought the organization had enough um if you thought the organization had enough potential to be worth getting to be worth caring about to be worth pending and spending any attention on and focusing on and caring about what happens with if it was worth that attention wouldn't it be worth you getting off your ***** ass and trying to look at it and then once you're in that situation yeah

you might see some wokeness but there's not just one line of wokeness that might makes all the good-hearted you know would-be well-intentioned white guys flee how much of that is this is a dysfunctional organization and i'd say the thing is is that you could only know that at the level of the um of the local and i think that there were locals that were irredeemably messed up internally and that yeah i would walk out but i would i would also say that was a minority and that in majority of them 1:13:32

as much as you would have to roll your eyes well maybe you roll your eyes a little bit huh maybe maybe you ignore it a little bit if you think it's worth doing and then at some point maybe the point where you decide it's too much wokeness it's really just that you want not do anything because it sucks to sit in meetings and it sucks to go door-to-door and it's more fun to complain about it and so once again same way that person doesn't think that they're not operating in good faith that person thinks no i'm i want what's best for everybody these guys are the enemy i have to no but because they aren't even aware of the disconnect they don't know they're merely operating out of libidinal political satisfaction and the thing is i would like to say if you're saying now how does that not describe you it 1 million zillion billion describes 1:14:33

me i became a podcaster because i was a poster and i was a poster because i would rather post about politics and be seen posting about politics then i go off my ass and do anything and i have the excuse that well what's to do everything sucks it's like yes everything sucks but one of the reasons everything sucks is because people have an excuse to not even engage and make them suck less and i'm not saying that means everyone should join dsa i mean the ship might have sailed honestly like at this point it was so distorted by this process i'm describing on both sides that it might be it might be beside the point it might be pre-figurative without being able to be like emergent but something i'm just saying is that orgs like that anything you can find that seems like a plausible place for you to put your energies um you have to 1:15:34 actually evaluate from a from a spiritual level you have to apply the spiritual lens not the personal lens to the project and you might still find it's ***** and it probably is because we don't know what we're doing it might be irredeemable but it might be redeemable if you were willing to put the work in and you got to ask yourself am i convincing myself i don't have to put the work in because it's easier not to and i'd rather go online or is it really irredeemable at least get to that point and the thing is i think we're where we are and why things are so bad and there's no transmission belt of persuasion from the left to anywhere is because not enough people ask that question and i must stress i have not asked that question i am only even coming into realization of the void that i had in my conception of myself my conception of the world my duty to my fellow ***** human and myself so if no and the the point of 1:16:36 talks of talking like stuff like this is to disarm these things because so much of these

arguments are based around people feeling deeply nestled guilt about their inaction and wanting to expiate it through validation from others in a public realm they want it so everyone's on trial every day in front of everybody else and we all have to prove that we're on the side of the angels because of the consequences because the rage will feel towards the people who fall short and the shame we will feel and the misery will feel if we are found to be falling short and i'm saying is if there is a jubilee if we drop the ***** rocks and start over we can actually move forward wow i hope that made sense i was getting some stuff in my face all right maybe i'll ask have one i'm almost out of battery actually so let me take one question and no i'm out that was the last gasp it was like i got i hit i hit the i hit the apogee came back down i got like a second second wind but you only get two wins with my cardiovascular health you only get two wins so i and and my battery's almost dead so i gotta go thank you guys though i felt i felt really good about this one i hope it's i hope it makes sense i hope people like it bye-bye 1:17:38

*Music playing** foreign **Music playing** going for the hat trick if someone says i've been on a roll not gonna lie i'm feeling good last couple days i felt on the beam uh hoping to make it three for three i don't want to psych myself out i just want to admit that i'm aware that i feel like i'm getting to something and i'm trying to pull that thread as far as it will go before i kind of lose focus which will be inevitable and then i have to talk about squibs for another week and a half before i can get back to it i guess i'll start by addressing something that is on people's minds especially in the wake of first of course the kenosha shooting the kanoshi demonstrations the kenosha shooting again by the 17 year old griper and i do think that people who are freaking out about a civil war being on the horizon really need to stop and just try to ponder as just a discreet fact the reality that the perpetrators of our of our contemporary greensboro massacre which was carried out as was remembered by card-carrying nazis and clan members uh was done by a 17 year old kid whose but then of course the the strike the nba strike one of outside of the bubble of politics something in the rest of the world in this case sports validates the movement that feels like that feels like getting a goddamn uh getting a the paddles to the chest with a defibrillator it's like oh my god yes and so people are saying general strike people have been kind of muttering about general strike for a while now but now people are saying ***** yeah general strike and i've talked i talked yesterday about how that is it's not just a misnomer it's genuinely potentially dangerous if it leads people to expectations that the event can't uh manage and that like a mass demonstration with the intent of building specifically labor-based organizing around i'm sorry not just police brutality but about economic issues that undergird the system that produces racism and produces police violence but that can be broadened to include concerns of other people who are suffering and struggling right now who have not gone to college maybe and do not absorb the the etiquette of that um and that's one thing but like that's a thing that you do with the recognition that if you do a good enough job over time it could lead to strikes it could lead to strikes because that like the general strike is like an idea fix on the left it always has been because it is the end

CUSHVLOG 71. CALL OF DUTY - BLACK OPS - JAKARTA OPTION

it's the end result of your if your job is organizing the working class the end of 0:4:12 that is a general strike because you don't have to do anything else you have full organization and full awareness you have a class that has come from being of itself to being in itself what marx talks about when he says that there's one thing to have an existing social class created by a mode of production it is another to have one whose experiences bring them in alignment in such a way that they are able to create their own class aware project within the greater capitalist system of classes and and uh and that's the move and and that even if that's not how things happen even if that pressure even if that movement is interrupted by some events some change in conditions that require a change in strategy and lead to a different outcome that is moving towards socialism that's a second question but that's the driving that's has to be the the end point it's the teleological endpoint of organizing the working class but there's an argument to be made that you couldn't do that without rising 0:5:13 your moving your tendrils up throughout the system and throughout different classes and certainly the intermediate classes in order to keep them connected to do that and i think that's true and that's why things like demonstrations and that is why organizing a long axis of racial and gender oppression is necessary and unavoidable because that's the lived experience of people in capitalism race and gender in those things are lived experiences in the way that class is not and that's something people have to confront it sucks for the people who would who who are annoyed and in some cases rightly so for the the double-edged sword that gender and and racial uh issues are and they are they are double-edged and that makes people anxious and a lot of people want to resolve that anxiety by just saying well no don't then we just ignore it you can't ignore it it is literally the live reality of ra of class in this country and it has to be engaged with question of how to engage with it is separate but it seems like 0:6:15 we're past the point where people should be arguing about nomenclature and about what in your heart should you put first because it really does seem like a lot of this boils down to who or who has a pure heart a class reductionist is bad because they put class first in their heart because it very rarely in my experience ends up boiling down to genuine agreements about disagreements about strategy or tactics it's about tone it's about theoretical questions because you're not asking what's effective you're asking what is in your heart because that's what we're doing we're sorting the good people from the bad people because we think we're at a point where that matters because we're we're we're ensorcelled we are not at the point where we can sort as i've said we had a point we have to gather and that's the most important thing and that means and that's the double that's a double-edged sword right there because it means class has to be the basis that means we have to organize around class i'm sorry it has to be the way people consider their activism it's the most effective place

for it to be done to but it means you can't do just class or even be perceived as class 0:7:19 first you have to integrate it to the point that they're not perceived so that race and gender issues are not perceived as being subsidiated because people live cr race and gender they live distrust from white people and for men because of lived experiences that are put through a racial and a gender lens and you have to deal with that fact and that means you cannot be your movement is to get people who are alienated along those axes and it's a lot of them and you need them you can't just expect them well they should know that class is where race comes from and gender problems come from they don't any more than people who don't go to college know the the the uh social basis of like social liberalism the idea of like equality and all that and how it's important to live that in your life they don't get that either neither they don't they have not accepted your priors that's the big problem is that sorting requires finding people who accept your priors and people who don't but it assumes people who are 0:8:21 are aware of the choice they're making we're talking about people the unorganized who are not even aware that that choice exists they have to be confronted as they live and that means that race and gender issues cannot be seen as subsidiary that means it's the job of the movement to find a way to square that circle as much as it sucks to try to do and as much as the discussion of it online and the way that it's co-opted by bad faith actors trying to use it as a deliberate wedge to break up the left makes it hard to do so you got to do it it's the only way forward everyone's trying to have their goddamn cake and eat into which is only possible because of what degree of their political so anyway this is all a diver i just realized is that i'm on a very long tangent now and i got to wheel back to where i was i was talking about how we should be moving towards a position where there is a general strike and that means 0:9:22 we have to understand that if we do a big demonstration like that's what people are imagining a big demonstration you tweet up general strike and everybody shows up i mean most people are not crucial to the work process the flow of goods they're not working at amazon fulfillment centers and they're walking working at big backs retailers they're not essential most people aren't essential and those people who go out who are unessential they will believe that they're contributing to a strike they will feel like they're part of a strike they'll think that's what a strike is which inhibits your ability to turn that energy into actual effective organizing which will lead to and include as a broad strategy but include partially strikes that will be harder to do if people so i saw this amazing tweet that said that someone was just and this is example by the way of one of the reasons that it won't work is that because it's 0:10:23 just people going out independently all of the pervading fantasies all the pervading bugaboos all the brain poison that we get on the internet is going to be imported directly outside with no barrier because remember we're not organizing together to

do anything nobody's like are few people maybe some people will but most people are just going to be like maybe at most hey i'm going to the i'm going to the general strike you coming that's going to be the most coordination they do most people not everybody there will be organizers obviously i'm saying the vast majority that will be their involvement with it so their action is not going to be like i mean the bucks they got out there they're obviously not like emblematic of the actual working class for a number of reasons but they are workers technically and if they didn't show up there was no game it was it was that simple and a lot of people are going to involve themselves and they're not going to have even ability to even come close to the levels of power everybody who is unemployed and there's now what 25 more of them than there were six months ago are not going to be able to withdraw anything uh students aren't really going to withdraw anything essential uh people who work in the creative class in general everybody on only fans and patreon everybody uh uh uh ev everybody who fills in like the make work jobs that david graber pulls out administrative ***** jobs they're not going to and here's the most important thing though even if you are working and you are in an essential job how many people would consider like i'm going to take how many people to how many people is the idea of like asking your boss for the general strike makes sense too many people will be like people will take off if they can afford to because they're acting by themselves which means that they can get fired which means they can be retaliated against because they are not all going out together if the entire workforce walks out especially if they put a picket line and don't let anybody in or they sit down that is a chess that's a chess piece knocked off the board for the circulatory system of capitalism but if they all walk out if first of all they're not all going to walk out they're not going to walk out not everyone's on twitter not everyone's as sure that the general strike is a good thing or never knows what that means a lot of people don't know about this stuff or they have vegan informed and very often contradictory opinions about them and they're not gonna ah maybe i get fired so they don't go if you few of you go they'll fire your ass which means even fewer of them will go and even if they go they're not they're not they're not taking their labor out of the system that can't so it will not be a general strike in any sense it will be a demonstration it will bring with it all of everyone's brains with them everything they learned online none of it will be none of the inessential stuff none of the none of the propaganda none of the ideology that has been accumulated around them by being online and fighting online over these things and trying to virtue signal to each other across the void of the internet for validation that's all gonna be there and so it's to immediately mean that you're undermining the ability to do a coordinated anything let alone a demonstration because i saw someone say i smell i smell general strike in the air

just a reminder that people should prioritize black lives over other issues and i saw somebody else saying and it's like okay so we've already you're assuming a thing out of the ether and then you're creating a uh some sort of loyalty test people are going to have to say yes or no to whatever you're saying even if it's as vague as that because it's very very vague what do you mean like centering like this is all emotional in the interpersonal language this isn't the language of movements sun's getting in my eyes guys and so i did a tweet i did a little jokey joke tweet where i said uh if you smell if you find yourself smelling burnt toast uh orange peels or uh a brewing general strike you might be having a stroke and should consult your physician and a lot of people yelled at me and specifically what they said to me was they said oh so we should do nothing we should give up and i hope that by now in my just talking about like the way that the libido shapes our relationship to politics i hope you can see why that is a wildly false dichotomy and why they sustain it because anything less than the apocalyptic confrontation of their dreams and of their ***** gonads is boring and it might not work and there's tv i could be watching and there's tweeting i could be doing they're not aware that they're making this calculation but they are and so it has to be apocalyptic because anything i tell them about what they could be doing in their community and like i said i couldn't say specifically i would have to know where they live and what their context is because there is no generalized answer right now it's grasping in the dark i would say try doing that and whatever that is it's probably going to involve going to meetings it's going to involve maybe going door-to-door talking to strangers doing ***** work or you could walk out your door one day and at the end of it capitalism is gone which door are you picking if you think they're equally likely in your head the only reason and the thing is if you're if you are not acting from self-deception if you're not acting from gonadal instinct you will recognize okay yeah no this fun and i would go to the demonstration but i'm not going to turn it into the apocalyptic confrontation of my fantasies and that means maybe you'll affect the you'll act about it more effectively like one of the reasons people are willing to say stuff like yeah yeah general strike we're having one by the way it better be focused on racism is that you're assuming a level of uh of efficacy that is completely in your head and fantastic you're like you've already in your head okay we have the general strike we have capitalism on the walks now we better talk about uh how uh intersectional our constitution's gonna be no we're not anywhere near that we are so far from that and that's only sustained by the fantasy that this is the big comp a big apocalyptic confrontation if you recognize it as a baby step forward then you will have baby step expectations and you won't make massive apocalyptic demands of loyalty to your point of view determining the ***** who's in the book of life and who's uh the wicked of the righteous that you're judging from this ***** mound of olives but why can't we conceive of that because it doesn't get 0:17:34 us going we want to have that oh we want to get out there and we want it we want it even if we get annihilated honestly and it brings in fascism that has its own pleasure being right and being oppressed and having freedom and the anxiety that freedom brings with it removed that's in there that's in that reiki and wheelhouse uh and so if i want to get more specific a more specific critique uh of the concept there needs to be a resolution in people's minds the kind of people who think that a general strike is possible and needs to be emphasized and in those terms what they think how it would work not into even in terms of how it would be organized because like i said they've already gone in their head past organizing so you can't talk to them about it they don't see it it's invisible it doesn't appear on their ***** visual spectrum in their head we're already organized to enough to win and so when you talk to them 0:18:35 about it it's like uh it's like ***** snuffleupagus before they made him into a normal part of the sesame street when only big bird could see him use but only he's real and no one else could see him even though it's really there like that then it's been like occluded by ideology and only the guy with the ***** they lived spectacles could see them and you're yelling look at ***** stuff olophicus and everyone else is like what's even there they're not thinking about if we can get there they've already assumed we can get to a critical crop point of conflict with the state to a point of its legitimacy being in doubt would i not i mean is that it seems to me to be a fair definition of the of the end state that this is supposed now if that happens there are two resolutions there is one where the state backs down the state decides at the critical point not 0:19:36 to escalate to final confrontation but walks back from the precipice by doing enough to get the demonstrators the strikers to demobilize if and the other one is of course they won't they've reached a point where they will not step down the demands are too threatening to them and to their existing order to a seed to they know like war is war is not preferable to peace but war is preferable to these guys taking over on the conditions that they have now we need to renegotiate from a position of strength which means we need to call their bluff about physical violence and then it's up to the protesters to say do we accept that our bluff has been called and step back or do we decide that it wasn't a bluff and go all in and then the contest is determined by strength now i don't think it would ever get to that point because i don't think anyone would ever from the point if it got first of all wouldn't get to that point of 0:20:37 conflict because there would not be enough sustained social pressure to keep that up it would dissipate just over time people they want to go to lunch if there's nothing coordinating their action they will walk away especially if it doesn't look like they're getting anywhere so if it's enough to get to a point of crisis the first sign the real sign by the authorities will either be met by a climb down or defeat and i can say that confidently and if you want to argue that then i i don't know if we're on the same we're living in the same porthole of uh uh under uh of like metaphysical understanding of the world we live in we're vibrating at different frequencies i'm not saying you're wrong i'm just saying we can't really have a so that leaves winning by getting the state to back down that means that you are not demand dismantling the state you are not replacing it with a new socialist order the current system of government even if specific people in it are switched out the structures persist not all of them anything that is extraneous to the to the functioning to the core functioning can be offloaded one way or the other politically or economically uh the load-bearing members though they have to maintain or else they wouldn't have won i mean that's what winning is is maintaining what you the maintaining the structure of your win state is winning and the structure of your win state is is this system so that means you're making a deal and that's not a bad thing in fact that's a good thing because that is a kind of situation where you can stake a claim on a building a new foundation that will put you in a position where the next time there's a critical conflict you win like give like um people say uh the the the working class really ***** up by backing the new deal because it ended up making them lose i don't agree with that the new deal was a fantastic deal for the working class broadly in the considering where they were coming from uh it was revolutionary in the way that it it it broke the civic relationship between uh the state and the individual it broke it it refounded a new social reality that was more progressive than the one that existed before it and what that did is it created a much stronger working class a working class that was theoretically able if crisis once again emerged in the system to once again confront capital it could win now the point of crisis came the point of crisis came in the 70s the problem was for other reasons due to decisions made after the new deal labor was not in a position to win that conflict and that's why we are where we are now so getting to a deal is not a sellout and it's not a failure it's if you're doing a deal it's because you have to do a deal and getting the best deal puts you in the best position for the future and hey if you really want things to happen quickly i got good news for you uh i bet the next crisis if we ever even get out of this one is going to come a lot faster than the current one than the last ones have like we're at a critical point where this cycle is speeding up and you want don't you want to be in the best possible position when that happens so the question becomes what demands are you making of the system to get you in a better position for the next battle and i would say if they are primarily racial in in in origin if they're primarily about policing then you might really get significant defunding of police you might really get mass firings of abusive police officers and real oversight of police in the field but because you're making a deal now remember i'm assuming you're making a deal not that you won you're not getting rid of policing policing has not been abolished because if you accept my premise that policing is a load-bearing structure of capitalism and neoliberalism and i believe it is it cannot be gotten away with in a win condition and this is a win condition broadly 0:24:45 for capital in that confrontation now what else has happened have you strengthened bonds a little bit you've given people an idea that things are possible which is going to make them more motivated but those ripple effects are going to be second order meanwhile all of the gains you've gained are going to be clawed back in the form of more authoritarianism as conditions decline which means if you've defunded the police but you're the police are still there guess what here are military private uh police here are drones uh here is some technological patch to fill in where there could no longer be public consensus over being governed which is what we've been slowly doing is replacing the public uh uh uh will the public acknowledgement of sovereignty necessary for the state to function with a technological coercion that doesn't require it and that's one more strut replaced next crisis comes you might you might have 0:25:48 more organizational capacity to get another strike going but you have not created an engine for your movement other you just had a splash that will ripple out have some effects that linger but will not hit the bedrock if you're organizing around class issues specifically labor and something like medicare overall like real things that cause dramatic changes in people's material conditions for the better and allow them ease of access to collaboration uh and and destiny fulfilling at work through labor and through unions you'll be in a situation where and by the way you would also of course have police ***** uh uh you would have for police reform as part of that it might not be as much police reform as you would have gotten if that was your sole focus or top focus but it would be it would be in concert with a significant bedrock shift that means that if another crisis comes you are in a better position 0:26:49 vis-a-vis whatever that police force is as opposed to a weaker movement against a more less formally composed military or a paramilitary police force but a subsidiary private one that's able to and then worst of all if you're taking a deal from them and it doesn't involve material conditions changing for people which changing the police would not it would reduce hypothetically but once again i'm saying if you haven't gotten rid of capitalism in a moment of crisis police power is still going to be there it has to be there so the changes are going to be almost by definition cosmetic and over time they will wear away and what will have been the point and it will mean that the next crisis means not only if you not build rhizomatic networks that could be brought up and and used to mobilize during a crisis moment and to to to press against like the worst outcomes of the of the current system people are discouraged 0:27:50 because what happened last time times sun **Applause** on a related point uh it occurs to me that i might have over the course of my discussions about fascism

on here i might have given short shrift the argument that we are in a in a uh pre 0:28:53 fascist moment and that fascism is an accurate description of what is to come and it involves stipulating as i have i think pretty well argued that we are not in the social conditions for mass fascism to emerge but that fascism did not really win in the streets anyway fascism won through legi uh existing political structures it won by winning elections it became the largest party in the reichstag and at a certain point the establishment conservatives like hindenburg and von poppin saw the pop the success of the nazi party in mobilizing what existed in the in the late in the uh in the pub like political population uh sufficient mass participation to get them to that point and then they said these guys are our only hope against the left and they put them in power thinking they could control them and they got uh turned around because of the momentum of like the forces involved and what they had unleashed uh 0:29:55 and the and and then the argument would be no fascism isn't going to win because of street battles but if the political uh nar er the political corridor of action in america is so much shrunk compared to the 30s in europe which it has been well that still exists and that's still the political territory we have and that's still the way that like formal power is distributed so couldn't if the if the not if basically it's if the if the people who vote for that republicans i.e older white people uh like the the middle bourgeois who were the social base of fascism and then whoever around that like lumping proletarians and you know and and the re and people devoted to to uh you know a narrow reading of their if they go along with the fascist program then when we do have the authoritarian crackdown it will have every facet of fascism uniforms 0:30:57 weird runes and ethnic and religious and gender-based cleansing and i think that that is the only way that i could see any argument made that like we would get fascism through anything get anything like the original version of fascism in anything like the method that they got it i would say that is if it happens that's the way and so if that is your premise i accept it the problem is though is that the majority of people i see making that argument and the the only reason like i've said the only reason i think this matters is because it affects strategy it doesn't matter it's absolutely academic it is angels on a pin that's why people like doing it so much because it's fun and also most of all it provides a way to separate good people from bad people because that's what everyone's doing if you care about fascism enough you're a good person if you think it's a ***** concept you actually are fasch the same way people kind of people who agree with me on this point we'll go uh if you talk about fashions 0:31:59 of all time you're a bad person if you don't you're a good person that's its main social function right now is just sorting people online and if it and whatever comes it doesn't matter what form it's going to take if it's if it's just the state collapsing the political space into authoritarian technological control and like a neo-feudalism

it doesn't matter what costume it's wearing so this only reason this matters is how it relates to strategy and the people i see talking about fascism is the fixation as the idea fix they have essentially the strategy to fight it that the third period marxist of the common turn imposed on the german communists or that and i'm not going to say impose the germans agreed with it and they had good reason to considering what happened in 1918 when it was the sdp that ***** created the frey corps of the first place you could see why they didn't trust the socialist left the social fascists as they called them uh but it was still a failed uh strategy by of evidence of the fact that between the two parties they had the ability to win and you could argue 0:33:2 well yeah but those social fascists they were really fascist the whole time it's like not until the very end and they got suppressed too which means there could have been an agreement i think that that means that there there could have been that is one of those historical what ifs that you can separate from some of the others where there was another outcome they could have coordinated because they were between the two of them the voting public majority which means that they could have gotten to a point where they wanted the ballot box i'm not saying they would have taken power by the ballot box i am saying they would have reached a point where weimar democracy would have been unsustainable to maintain capitalism and that would have led to that conflict i was talking about earlier but they could have won because they were united that is the argument but anyway the third uh the thalman party said no collaboration with the social fascists and they were wrong but like i said they had reason to suspect the social uh democratic party they had literally they did kill rosa it's not i mean the guys who did it were basically proto-nazis but 0:34:3 they were doing it because they've been organized and paid by the social democratic party friedrich ebert who i believe hilariously enough was a butcher before he was a union leader and then in the sdp uh defense secretary i'm sorry nosk was the defense secretary uh ebert was the uh chancellor anyway they had a reason to suspect them but they ***** up and the proof is in the pudding that they ***** up so if we're in the same situation facing roughly the same political and economic crisis and threat and roughly the same array of forces then shouldn't we not do what this uh what they did because like i said they had every reason to suspect the sdp and they also had the second biggest political party in germany and the soviet union just over the ***** uh uh the euros they were in a situation where they thought hey we could win this if it comes to a conflict let's ***** rumble but these people are basically third 0:35:4 these people are third period come intern people without a party or a foreign uh uh ally they're just a bunch of ***** people online and in orgs but unorganized along any kind of uh party structure and to me that means that you are only interested in this question because not because you care about what works but we care what will get you off you care about the libido association with fascism because we talk these guys will talk all the time about fascism fascism is the is is like the aestheticization of politics it's turning politics into into coming forget the reason forget uh dealing with other people forget the negotiation and the slow boring of hard boards how about some fast lubricated thrusting into hard boards soft boards any kind of boards give it to me yeah that's fascism well so is fighting fascism not just that but that's part of it it's this it activates the same sense of not of of of apocalyptic confrontation 0:36:5 and purity personal purity because here's the thing that you load that you were fighting and i'm saying is that and eventually you get a point where those social orders if they if they took enough of the if if that if that erotic dance was effective enough it was symmetrically enough distributed let's say that between fascists and anti-fascists you'd eventually get to a point where the working class was fully anti-fascist the state was fully fascist and they would go to apocalyptic conflict with one another the problem is we do not have anything like a symmetrical array of forces you have a a right that is largely as disorganized as the left but has the massive advantage of being on broadly the same goals as the as power because unlike the nazi party they did not them see themselves as a third wave really they did not see themselves as a revolutionary pop movement and that's the thing fascism was 0:37:7 revolutionary in its own way that was the energy of socialism it stole it's like you need to get people a reason to come out and how do you get working cla how do you get non-class conscious people to come out and rumble and stomp and fight instead of just passively observe politics and it's to give it stakes it's to give it anima and that's what fascism does it gives you a thing to hate and so does anti-fascism as a as a organizing structure for your politics but anyway like i was saying is that that has to get that means that you have to feel like you're revolutionary you have to feel like you're destroying a system because the system sucks you don't those people did not have the fantasy that a lot of people now on the right have that there's any compatibility between capitalism and their preferred world because they were far enough they were close enough to the germany of their hearts their grandparents germany their great grandparents germany the zormarch germany the germany of 0:38:9 ***** uh barbarossa and ***** arminius and frederick the great they were closer to it than we are we're completely atomized and spiraling into space we're not hearing any of those echoes is that they knew that this system needed to be destroyed and so they were revolutionary force and they did overthrow the current system like fascism at its at the end point was capitalism was subordinated by the end of that war as because uh it was a revolutionary force but of course because it was a fascist nihilistic revolutionary force it was not connecting humans together to generate the coming together of the ***** world spirit self-consciousness of humanity as a ***** species

it stashed itself against the rocks suicidally because if it couldn't have that it had to have annihilation which that's the death spiral and the death drive of fascism 0:39:11 but these fascists are not really revolutionary especially with trump in power they just want daddy trump and the current system that gives them a consumer economy where they get to pull their putt on the internet and they get to get seamless and amazon all the stuff that they do the ride is bug man stuff they still get that but they get to watch the ***** liberals get so trolled that they go up to the cops who are enforcing what they should recognize if they're really fascist they should recognize as a and some of them do i'll give credit to that uh as this this capitalist deformed capitalist structure that destroys and annihilates human ***** dignity and cannot be redeemed they would at least acknowledge that because that's the revolutionary heart so they're on the side of power which means that it comes if it ever becomes a conflict they'll just because there'll be a lot of working-class people in that's on that side there'll be a lot of working-class people on that side if your decision is you scream at people to support black lives matter uh until they call the cops or join a storm front a lot of them are going to join storefront especially if they didn't go to go to urban uh like centers of creative economy after going to college and they're going to be on the wrong side when the conflict comes instead of on your side because you did not organize the entire working class against the the mechanistic techno structure of capitalism and it's so that's why i say i have a mission of a general strike where we do the right thing and we turn it into an opportunity for development and if i if that happens and i can participate and i can make that happen i will i don't want to just boo from the sidelines i want to make the change i want to see in the world so as as dumb as the framing is if it understands itself even if even if it calls itself a strike although it really bothers me i don't want to get too too hung up on semantics and make that the excuse i don't act if there seems to be some sort of understanding that it's really a demonstration then maybe we could get there would be reason to participate but that's to that i don't know and i'm not going to make a ***** i'm not going to assume anything you have to ***** make decisions in the top in the in the conditions you see not the conditions you imagine because the condition you can't make a decision about what to do about a future event until it's happening to you what you can do is create the the heuristics and you can create the world views and you can have the architecture of spirituality uh and uh and and a spirituality specifically that is in concert with your empirical observation of the world around you and then you apply that to the current situation you don't make a decision about it in advance because you don't know what it will look like you can only do a schematic in your head but anyway it's all in the air i don't know i just i'm saying that's that's the whole thing i was trying to get at what's the ***** strike thing and i want to 0:40:14 0:41:15 0:42:16

just say now this is why i could never be a ***** fascist this is why the nazis were annihilated that's why even though i will say that it is a revolutionary movement it is one that is nihilistic and all-consuming it is a death drive it is the death drive broken off from everything it is it is the it is the seeding of any hope that there can be connections with other people it is saying there is nothing but the self that's what fascism says that's when you have an entire society that is organized where everyone has accepted the premise that there is nothing but the self which is the opposite of course from the end state of communism which is the universal understanding that the self does not exist and that we are all part of a network of beings and that we truly are one consciousness even if we only perceive ourselves through very narrow apertures i said it again of that membrane and that and and that we have to act 0:43:17 together and that the idea of competition beyond any beyond just signaling in the in play realm in the game theory uh as a way to like make decisions is like gnawing on your own body it's eating your fingers it's cannibalism the end state of fascism is no there's just you there's just your consciousness and then you can try to create a abstractification of a part of humanity a race a volk a nation that you can then imagine that you are subordinating to that your consciousness it's like all right so i need people who can just be me uh so they're gonna have to look like me obviously they're gonna have to be white uh they're gonna have to speak probably the same language although that's flexible uh they definitely need to have exact same uh sexual of weird hang-ups as i do they need to have a culture arranged around those uh they need to be and then then i can feel comfortable then i can feel comfortable i can't be 0:44:18 comfortable in a world where i'm at any point at ease with others because others are separate and therefore dangers others are dangerous i have to live in a world that is negotiable because i'm not scared it's trying to abolish fear from the other and you abolish fear from the other either by embracing the other or by denying it embracing it is fact is the is the human the human consciousness is coming to terms with that awareness to abolish fear that kind of fear of the other the other is to embrace it and make it the only guiding point of your life and that means i can only be surrounded both in around me and in a imagined community as benedict anderson would call it around me that is like me so that i can feel safe and they will argue well you can't have social harmony unless everybody feels safe i would say well if you levin alienation with uh social with uh if you leaven alienation out of social existence you don't have to worry as much about fear and and and anxiety and so therefore you 0:45:20 don't have to do that really and that that process over time leads to the bleeding out of anxiety about otherness because we know that happens it's not complete it's not a complete process but we know for a fact you observe it in your life it exists it's not all and that's the other thing you have to have a conspiracy in your head because what's making this stuff happen why is there interracial relationships of any kind how can people get comfortable enough with other races in order to have any social intercourse the answer is well there's a cabal there's jews or there's lizard people whatever cosmology you need you need an intervening force to make that happen the beauty part of being a ***** materialist communist buddhist type like i am is that you don't need that you don't need to say oh no that's what's making people uh uh uh that's what's making people relate to one another it's because relating to each other is all we do and it's just a question of creating a world in our minds where we are not being guided away from our knowledge of interconnectivity by our 0:46:22 fear of other by our basal libidinal uh instinct of seeking uh pleasure i.e comfort and that is often familiarity because it's soothing or avoiding pain and fear which are associated with uncertainty because we don't want to be attacked because what if we're hurt what if we're hurt what if we're killed well if you really have reduced not eliminated you can't do that unless you transcend so if you like get to just a more elevated point of lowering your a connection to yourself you also lower that fear left threshold but the thing about that is it can't be asymmetrical because if you lower it too far and the world around you is still filled with people like that you will ***** get owned that's what that's what the class project is it's bringing enough people to do things at the same time that you have leavened material alienation at a speed that allows for the accumulation of understanding across difference the fascists for 0:47:24 many personal traumatic reasons i mean most of them were abused in some way by either the internet or uh their parents i mean and the germans were literally an entire country with ptsd for christ's sake they went from being they just they just emerged from the idol of like the early modern romantic period they were like walking around there was a whole movement in germany that people call proto-fascists so these young people going out like finding the like the german spirit out in the countryside marching around uh and uh within 20 years the uh within five years it has been a night by the end of it it had been like no no it was uh it was like interrupted by world war world war one in the middle of that everyone's having a ***** picnic and ***** a giant chunk of their population died and the rest came back traumatized and then they immediately had a civil war that led to ***** the taboo against national like the idea that even within the nation there is a coherent self no that was destroyed hi why the jews why did i do this why did we do this to each other the jews that's got to be the answer it can't be capitalism it can't be the system that sets up antagonisms 0:48:26 in the first place it can't be the system that drags our spirit out of us and leaves us bereft and that breathness driving us towards violent uh uh heedless pursuit of some sort of personal opiate whatever kind it may be some sort of surplus of someone else's and so we fight amongst ourselves for the remnant scraps well above all is consumed

and then we blame each other for the because i really think there is an observable observable dialectical relationship between between social order and production that has led us that is leading us through the human race coming into awareness of itself and i think it went something like this bear with me we've got the first human social organs right tribes small tribes and that's because as i talked on a previous stream when you talk about uh sentient beings you're not just talking about evolution as an individual survival of the fittest thing that doesn't really make sense it's only one dimension that's like gene expression or something or but but what it's tied to inextricably tied to to the point that they cannot be separated is social evolution and you can and and so when environmental pressures come and conditions change and that change is what spurs evolution it's not just individuals doing that it's the social order accommodating and one thing that allows early humans to exist was social order coordination but how do you coordinate across the chasm of sensory when you have no real you don't have a shared world you don't have a nation you don't have concepts that you can just like plug and play into to tell the scary other things from the good other things because remember we think yeah we're all humans but we're also all other as much as everything is because we are the same as much as everything is and so we have to have people we're comfortable with people we can sleep around without feeling scared because you gotta sleep at some point and of course the first is the family those are the people you're around much the most and those the people who's who you can feel most comfortable with because you've seen them act enough times that you can predict how they will act in the future that is how you make choices as a conscious being and so you've got the family but then you've got across that try but in early days when you really still don't have communication and you don't have like complexity of concepts to share the only way you can really tell is eyesight it's like who's in your eye view you know like it's something like 130 or something is the size of human uh primate primate groupings before they break up because at a certain point if you can't keep someone in your eyes you don't know what they're doing if you can't if you don't know where someone is at all times you don't know what they're up to and all it takes is one person to take advantage of that alienation from another to exploit it by deciding to oppress all texas is one and that social uh uh that social trust that's necessary for you to function as a social organism is eroded and destroyed so you can't you got to keep people in eyesight what allows us to go bigger is communication is symbols narratives we're able to communicate across the distance and that helps us tell friend from foe and that fills in the gap so that we don't worry that the person we can't see isn't going to come and get us because i've talked to him or at least i've shown him the same rock pictures or something and they have rock pictures in their thing that's the same as our whatever there is a sigil there's a sign there is a connection there that fills in the gap of anxiety and lets us sleep and that is and then those symbols turn into our first concepts which arouse around the spiritual the emotional because we don't have an intellectual architecture for anything to be expressed as we can only express things through emotion because we haven't even invented intellect yet it's still on you have to have language to have intellect because don't do something why not well because i'm like you and you see if both of us are afraid of the other one then neither of us will be able to sleep in front of the fire you can't tell someone that you don't have the capacity uh or you certain and more importantly you don't have the ability to know that he'll believe you like because it's just really an intellectual argument and like i said these concepts aren't really excellent yet what you say is it will and if you act well it will that power will do well and since you live in a terrifying uh uh wilderness that you're when you're totally at the whim of seasons and and storms and sun and moon and rain when these things determine your life of course you're going to just logically think anyway that this stuff is in charge you tie that to behavior that's what the symbolic order does and so the first consciousness that's the first leap a human has to make to resolve the contradiction of being one consciousness in a universe of consciousnesses and a universe period one finite note one finite point in an infinite expanse we have to resolve that first resolution is okay i am whatever i am i am a thing a self these people are not self but they are close enough to self that i but that means that you're going to be fighting other people because there's other people out there there's they have different symbols they use different things uh oh it's time for a rumble uh and eventually once you once this pressure leads to hey maybe we could get an edge with some agriculture you find some ***** wild uh corn or something and you've created settled societies uh that work that distribution that work of just that work has to be distributed and how will it be distributed well now it can now whoever is most adept at manipulating the symbolic order can basically determine who does the work and who the hell would decide to do as much work as the other people i'm over here thinking this ***** up why the ***** should i be in the goddamn rose with you losers especially if my ability to manipulate the symbolic order gets bigger stronger guys all of a sudden boom you've got a you've gone from a priesthood to a kingship and you've created a a new social order that is predicated not on conflict between tribes but conflict within tribes among those who work and those who take among who gets the surplus because now it is being unevenly distributed which it had not been before and that process creates contradictions that have to be resolved and that is the litany that marx talks about from from the slave society where hey all social contradictions can be resolved by conquering other people enslaving them and making them work great

now we don't have social contradictions this is awesome as long as there's an other to enslave and others to take stuff from we can keep a social order and argue within it and create a political class and create abstract notions all of which create this hegemon this hegemonic superstructure of religion and civic uh understandings and personal uh conceptions of the self all in alignment to maintain this system because we can out load it well that system breaks down ***** well now we have we've we've lost the tech and the thing that drives all of this is technology the thing that drives this the material lever the archimedean plane that's jacking this thing up is technology and technology will over time even though it's not a fixed rate it will accrue and as it accrues it intensifies as the ability to extract surplus and the complexity of the social mechanisms necessary to manipulate those tools in order to extract surplus and that creates new social forms that become incompatible with the order that had previously existed and that creates new social lines that create new classes that must then be resolved and through this process we got to a point where there were so many people that you could be and they had so much organization themselves that conquest is no longer the way the only the way you can deal with things because uh uh you will destroy each other so you have to accommodate others ***** how do you accommodate someone this isn't this is the end of my ***** web of empathy it's it ends at whatever the hell social form i have but our complex economy now requires us to trade because everybody is geographically bound and that means that they're bound by the resources in their geographic area ***** they gotta trade them how are we gonna trade them ***** ***** and that means we gotta trade them within our society which had been like refounded on like the feudal order which is just sort of like reasserting like a tribal tribal uh familiarity but hierarchically arranged in order to generate surplus which means that even though it's stable over time it becomes unstable and that creates the liberal self in which oh there is something called the human rights and we are all at a metaphysical level equal and that's where we've been and that's that is the mind that is that's the the conception of self under capitalism that's that was the big inflection point away from uh uh uh you know grouping abstract grouping around symbols which was away from tribal connection to like people actually in your vicinity but now we're at the end of capitalism one way or the other and that's why i look at that i look at that trajectory and i look at our trajectory and i say even if it's not likely that we're going to get to socialism it is the only sane and moral pursuit because it assumes that there will be another inflection point when the when the complexity of our networks of technology and our interconnectivity and our awareness of our inner connectivity as humans and our ability got and this is the hard part this is the real ***** pull of distributing pain more evenly which we have not done well and that's one of the reasons we're

at a crisis point it looks like we might break towards barbarism if we can write this and change that flow and distribute some goddamn pain we could get to the final inflection point where we recognize oh no no no no it's not there are other people that are metaphysically the same as me but different from me which is the liberal self different from me therefore with distinct motives uh at best ends uh uh uh uh earnest desires like that there's a conflict that there's inherent conflict and just and that's the liberal self and that's why liberalism and capitalism are inextricably linked from that perspective because if that's the case if everybody is separate and unknowable as is a black box like we are to them that we can only exchange across an agreed-upon platform a market where we use things like money to stand in for value and exchange value because how else are we supposed to deal across that void the final the f and it is the final one because this is like the teleological endpoint the final one is a recognition oh ***** no there's no distinction it's all my head and i'm not gonna ever be able to get rid of it but if i'm aware of that it means that i cannot privilege my own advancement which means that i can't ***** hoard surplus i can't make others work for my ***** bread i can't do it it's a crime and if you have enough people like i'm saying is you have people with these understandings all through history it's a question of getting enough people getting to that inflection point of numbers within the subset of human beings and then you can coordinate at will you don't have the distrust is not threaded through because alienation isn't threaded through and you and that flow that i talked about that capitalism necessitates that global flow that i would say all the global flow like people who hate the idea of globalism because they hate neoliberalism they're missing the forest for the trees that flow is necessary how the hell else do you have like a planet with a planet's worth of resources and a planet's worth of people distribute they have to be distributed across the entire globe but the thing is that's that's far in the future you know you can't get fixated on that i'm just saying is that's the end point and you need an inflection point and that happens because you levine pain with with ease and that and technological advancement which this which intensifies our awareness of other people like the invention of the novel people say that the bot novel is a reactionary uh uh uh inherently reactionary form and i would say now it is the novel is a reactionary form now in the sense that it reifies that sense of people being separate from any other and it redefines a ton of just like bourgeois expectations within it but at the time that the novel arose it was incredibly progressive because the novel told people those other people in their head it's the same ***** man your head and their head have the same things in them the same desires they don't have them they're not they're not different and when you have that realization you can't treat them now that doesn't mean that you immediately oh we're all going to do everything's going to be great because we because there's still

exploitation which means we might have a metaphysical understanding of ourselves as equal but then there is the profit motive and that's where slavery and things happen slavery happens because it's like man we got a lot of plant land to clear here and the only way that we can make this make money is if we just get exploit 1:2:52 the ***** out of people's labor like we have to leave them with nothing because the amount of money you would have to pay someone to do plantation agriculture specifically ***** like sugar by the way sugar sugar uh plantation was one of the worst places you could appear but in human history like like like the ***** roman silver mines and uh and uh ***** sugar plantation agriculture but it's not like ***** indigo and tobacco and cotton were ***** uh walk in the park the amount of money you have to pay someone to do that would wipe out profit so you set and so you can't pay them low amounts of money because they would say no they have to be bonded and how are you going to bond someone with a liberal conception of the self and the liberal conception of others well yes metaphysically the same but not really look at that kid look at and and skin color is the first one first one and then from that you build a whole world well you know they don't think things as deeply as us they don't have the feelings they don't they have they're ruled by animal passions and you know 1:3:54 they're they're uh at some point they'll get and that's the thing like now we're at an end point of an eye of annihilation like now our nazis our fascists are all i would say because they're bending away from liberalism back towards a feudal conception and they're like uh they're they're faced with the crisis we're in and they say because i'm going to focus on the self and i'm going to fixate and reify the self only and since that means that that is incompatible with liberalism because liberalism is breaking down because capitalism is breaking down and it can't be sustained anymore i'm going to go with tribalism neo-feudalism sure i'll take neo-tribalism and you'll just be reinforcing the destruction everything and because everything that made you that pissed off and alienated and miserable is what's going to be intensified under neo-fascist neo-feudalism but so now they're all they're all eliminationists because they're all yeah no these guys just have to go because they aren't the same as us because we have science to prove they're not the same as us antebellum slave owners mostly 1:4:55 didn't talk that way they generally said like slavery is instruction and one of the ways you know that they didn't think that is because they had sex with slaves all the time they raped slaves and it was socially acceptable too richard mentor johnson uh who was i've talked about him he was vice president of van buren he caused the scandal by marrying uh basically as like a common law i think uh a slave and having kids by her that he and he she was his uh like sort of second lady unofficially and that was a huge scale he had to drop out or he had to leave office he would have been able to go to washington with like a horse that he ***** married you know like people

***** animals sometimes but it is wildly frowned upon which was not the case in the antebellum cell there was a lot of sex of of a slave rape there's a ton of slave rape which means it was socially accepted within certain circles which means they knew they were ***** human beings they defined them out of humanity so that they could extract massive profits the only way you were going to clear and then people can point out as they like to do yeah but slavery eventually became unprofitable it's like yeah at that point it had created a ***** entire social order that didn't know that or care about that it wanted to maintain itself it could only be destroyed from outside or from in internal contradictions erupting which could have happened slave rebellion was inevitable slave rebellion was inevitable in the south if you want to talk about how if they won the civil war slave uprising was not in any way out of the question especially when you consider how the course of the war loosens slavery to the point where if they could have gotten it back in the bottle it would have been that jar would have been tough to ***** put up and that's it it's like you either resolve the tension or the common classes are ruined in annihilation as everyone turns towards the worship of the libido at the expense of their understanding and their consciousness of their interconnectedness and interdependent interdependence and so that's why i say there is only one moral course it is a point where because i know it's possible those guys can show me iq charts all they want it's meaningless it's all social it's all it's all gossamer it's all self your it's self hypnosis it's dare i say cope uh it's it's self hypnosis to to ex to uh to justify with with reason that god they they worship even though they are fundamentally irrational psychos because if you deny human you have been mystified by the ***** superstructure around you i i don't i don't buy it your power you have no power here i'm glenn to the good witch ***** there is one human race there is one world spirit that is the that is the point at which the human species come into awareness of itself the way a human does individually because all things are nestled within one another and the tests are acting in and outward as nestled phenomenon why would there be another thing one and zero spinning off of each other that's the universe where's the third and that means that that is resolved or it's destroyed the way that when antimatter and matter come together they are destroyed except for the remnant and that's the synthesis so when our when our technology the technology that allows us to know each other more intimately and understand other minds more deeply and and structure our imaginations to embrace the reality that oh my god one follows two follows three means i uh or the flip side the double edge of the technology sword where oh technology allows me to extract surplus without having because if there's two guys on an island and one guy wants to work and the other one doesn't the problem for the other guy is he's got to hold a gun the whole time if he's got one or he's got spear or something right he can never sleep he needs somebody to like spell him watching the other guy you need that which means that eventually you will destroy every if someone else has to do the work and they do because i don't want to do it and i am the only thing that matters and i can put justifications a million whiles on top of that but the other day i don't want to do the work because who wants to do the work work sucks but if work is collaborative if work is understood to be constitutive society if you're considered constituent of a society that you're not accumulating uh pleasure and pain along an axis of personal uh sensory experience and you can cooperate and that gun can be put down there's no social enforcement that's what's so funny about like leftists to embrace culture war the way that the right does and and just get off on separating people and most importantly internalize this logic whereby you can have no self-interest like white people the necessity of them to be anti-racist is just for other people if your life is worth worse well that's good you deserve that your life should be worse even if it encourages capitalism even if it doesn't do anything to destroy the systems that create inequality and misery in the first place why because they're not doing what they do because they really think that there's one social fabric that they're part of they think having a social fabric communism and so they would never want to get rid of their ability to uh feel good about themselves just viscerally just build up their ego and that means of course as a white person i would never think of being racist i would never i think of my privilege all the time yeah because it gets you off in the sense that it validates you but that's only because you've assembled in your mind and assimilated certain cultural values that are usually because they go to because either if you act that way whether you know it or not you're driving this whole process towards a critical juncture the socialism or barbarism point and helping us be carried off into the abyss i think that was pretty good that makes sense oh my god i went 60 minutes 70 all right i think i'm gonna go i probably should just leave people on that one and to stew and not like confuse people by talking about bye uh oh i had to take a bit of a break uh so i did a bunch of really abstract stuff last couple times and uh i want to get back to that because i think there's more to develop but i kind of don't want to push it too hard because i've been thinking this weekend and uh and i think i want to get a little bit more comfortable about moving 0:1:1 forward without getting too wacky and too abstract at least that's how i'm going to try to uh today instead i feel like uh this is gonna be a low-key chill stream this is gonna be hang stream unless something pops off uh and that but i'm gonna start chill this is the lazy monday lazy monday i'd like to start by just uh addressing a weird thing i've seen people say in the chat here and elsewhere that i am on some sort of uh regime of uppers like i'm popping pills uh people are naming stuff that i actually don't even know what it is like monotophill as a recovering hypochondriac 0:2:2 they're very bad for someone like me because i would just be waiting for my heart to but anyway i just want to if anyone's worried about me i just want to make sure that there's nothing to worry about i'm not on uppers i don't have any new tropics though now i would love maybe i should get some gorilla mind and try to get a get a really uh intense stack tropics it still blows my mind that there are people who tell me like i like both of you guys and you should debate and it's like what is what is it 0:3:3 that you like i mean i get it you know people like things for we seem to be sort that him and me and that guy seem to be sort of differently on a different wavelength to the point where it seems hard to imagine that a conversation would be very fruitful i mean the guy thinks that like there's such a thing as pushing the democrats left at this point at this late date how do you talk to somebody who's that removed from reality it's like talking to that lady who wrote the uh indefensive looting book that people are posting clips from that made my eyes bleed but it is funny i gotta say there's some real uh there's some real characters out there i don't know i i i wonder 0:4:7 if i would want to uh debate anyone because i'm i used to i'll admit this like and i think a lot of people who uh who really hold the never debate anybody standard are still gripped by this a big reason people are hostile to debate is because they don't know why they believe their beliefs and so they're afraid of losing i mean they won't put it that way that's why they invent all that stuff about not validating point of views that shouldn't be debated in the first place it's a lack of confidence in their ability to engage with the argument effectively for a third party because obviously you're not going to ever change anyone's mind in a debate it's always for the benefit of an audience it's always for a benefit of a presumably unaffiliated audience and that i can imagine that in certain circumstances the debate could be useful along those lines and i think people don't they they reject that because they assume no everyone on every side everyone who could possibly hear any argument is by definition on one side or another and if they aren't uh so i think you know there could be uses for a debate but i don't know and now i feel much more confident in myself and in my ability to explicit like more uh abstract ideas that before i maybe kind of like had an inkling of but i couldn't really grasp because i hadn't dug down i hadn't really pulled up the earth of my of my priors uh and i feel like i mean obviously i'll never be done doing that there will always be blind spots that's the definition that's defining that is the the the absence the lack of understanding in the universe that you have is is the sum total of your of your personal existence because the rest of it is everything and if you had all of it you'd be everything the thing that makes you less than that the things that make you perceive yourself as separate from that which you are part of uh oh and yeah the zuzia peterson debate is a perfect example of a debate that was pretty clearly a good idea because i mean obviously other things happened in his life but i think i think peterson sort of lost a little credibility maybe even not like with a broad audience but even maybe with himself after that because he was just so unable to to grapple with the stuff that zizik was talking about because he was he just zizek has grounded his beliefs so much more deeply that he could just engage him sometimes talking about this stuff on here i kind of wonder if my my project is with the vlogs and ***** is just synthesizing peterson and ***** zizik and of course the winner in that would be would be gg but you know you would have to thread some peterson into it anyway i mean the grill pill as people have pointed out is a lot like clean your room but you know uh in that it is a fixation on like how practical engagement with the world around you can lead towards introspection and uh and growth uh and that you know the way we think is largely shaped by symbolic orders uh but beyond that it's just a bunch of you know barely thought out reactionary gibberish clean your trash can there you go that'd damn that's not bad train your clean your trash can i guess it'd be empty your trash can but that wouldn't be as symmetrical i don't but yeah i would debate somebody but it would depend on who it would have to be somebody who had like a very interesting conflict with but somebody who says you're a class reductionist who who is hurting uh hurting minorities and poor people by not supporting joe biden for president as a podcaster 0:8:13 i'm sorry but that's not the amount of digging you would have to do to even get to anything like a stable foundation to this guy is uh he's shadow boxing the thing is i wouldn't debate class reductionists because who who are we even talking about there i think that's mostly a term of abuse i've talked about how class perfectionism is just this thing people put out there to try to uh the argument with with with a a term of abuse i mean it's it's it's to pre-determine to especially since from a technical perspective everyone who has a like a genuine i think a useful analysis of the situation would say of course it's a class reduction because class is the is the 0:9:14 signal friction point within a society it is the first and fundamental friction point in a society is along class lines and you can disagree with that fine but then calling me a class reductionist is stupid because you're not in the same thing that i'm in so anything you call me is sort of beside the point the class reductionist argument is what's supposed to be within the left and assumes that like there's a that there that that is some sort of violation of an orthodoxy no it's a confirmation of the most basic orthodoxy of any meaningful marxist inflected socialist analysis the question that people uh like what they're trying to say there is that well by by recognizing this thing which is obvious and which is to in my mind foundational by doing that you are somehow implying a tactical approach that means that engaging with uh 0:10:18 superstructural uh uh alienations like racism and misogyny uh is therefore not to be engaged with and ignored and de-prioritized and that the concerns of people with exploitations that emerge from those superstructures should be ignored some people might believe that but i s it is a in my opinion for my observations a fraction of the larger group of people that generally get called class reductionist i think most people who are realistic and who understand that the base superstructure relationship is reinforcing it's not just gender it's not just a one-way flow it is a circulation whereby social friction is turned into superstructure that that dissipates the social friction in one way but creates new sources of alienation that have that then inflect the base 0:11:19 again and have and and make it accommodate that and that's what capitalism has been doing over the last 40 years along racial racism for example uh has been super structurally accommodating but also in but in ways that then reinforce and that's what recuperation is and that's what capitalism has done with these issues but that doesn't mean that they're not felt and it doesn't mean that they are not that those exploitations because they emerge from capitalism must be addressed at the same time at the same level or else people will be alienated from your attempt to uh to defeat the thing that is causing all of the horror in the first place because they will reject you and what the what the stupid argument online did is because it created 0:12:21

an incentive to build this cudgel to use first by the way by the ***** hillary people let's not forget that all that started with the hillary people in 2016 before anybody any of these ***** even thought they were socialists when hillary said breaking up the banks won't end racism therefore don't even bother but then when the tent got bigger after trump's win all of a sudden you have people who are saying i'm the most socialist person in the world and the worst thing about socialism and the war socialists and the ones we need to kick out are the class reductionists it's like i'm sorry aren't you just applying the hillary uh blood libel within the tent so that you can like get more influence and that's where some people say yeah that's that's the infiltration and domination of the pmc and that's my fundamental disagreement with that analysis with like the new class notion that the real class divide now is between this professional class and everyone else because i don't think that that even if it does create channels whereby afford conforming to that status quo gets you advanced like in the media or whatever it's not generated there it's generated by because it's super structural because it's uh generated by a desire to to be heard and to be taken seriously and to be validated because that's what the internet is for the internet is a validation machine and when we go on twitter to do politics we are going on twitter to be validated and so that turns us into little as i have said like a little ego driven entrepreneurs trying to validate themselves i sure should know that's why i started going on twitter was to be validated was to have my dumb opinions taken seriously and my dumb jokes and what that means is that you can't argue anyone out of that position none of these positions can be argued out of and i think one of the main ways that you can cut down on online political addiction uh what i've said is to filter subjects by importance to you so you don't have to care about anything and then secondly i would say on top of that add a a an additional filter where you can divide arguments into two types because part of one of the big reasons people get stuck on this hamster ball is because there is this deep brain confusion between two types there are arguments to be had that are had because people disagree on a course of action and have to try to decide between each other how to go forward that is a model that has tooth that has stakes for the people involved in the argument and because it has stakes it tends to resolve towards a satisfactory resolution because it's like there's two people who who want to who are in a car and they there's they're trying to drive somewhere and they disagree on the best route they have to decide if they want to get to that place and so even though they might be heated and they'll be heated because they want to get there they will also be focused by that anger towards resolving something at least over time of course some people are going to fly off the handle and be psychos and but i'm talking about in general people who are able to control their emotions enough to engage with other people will come to a point where they resolve to do something then there's the other type of argument the type that is basically the only type of argument you see online which is an argument there is no place to the other side of town that anybody needs to get to it is hypothetically arguing about the best way to get somewhere that nobody involved in the argument has to go and that's twitter it's people it's five million people in a car 0:16:29 arguing about the best way to get to a place but they're not in a car that argument exists as recreation that exact argument exists as i said to be argued which means you need two sides and they need to keep going against each other to maintain the dynamic the illusion of forward progress entertained and every argument online like what is class reductionism that doesn't exist to do anything what are you going to get out of this especially as i have said because of the way that online demands bad faith and therefore uh uh will never allow for anyone to give every anybody any point and will uh impute bad motives to invalidate but the real problem is not just 0:17:31 that it's entertaining it's that the people involved in these arguments because they don't do politics in the real life for the most part or because the politics in the real life are shaped so much by what they what they see online which dominates their emotional landscape they argue it with the intensity and urgency of someone who is arguing to get to an actual resolution even though the the the tone called for in a uh in an argument to be had is playful it's like when your friend that it's like it's the difference between trying to argue with your friend about like where to get to the hospital when one of you've been shot in the leg or something uh the best way to get there and your friends arguing at a party about who would be if superman could beat up the terminator or whatever the ***** like th that if that ***** can get out of 0:18:32 hand hand but in general you're kidding around because there is no stakes there's no stakes to be had you're all just you're shooting the ***** and arguing is a fun way to have a fun conversation if it's done in fun and that's the arguments online essentially and there's nothing necessarily wrong with that people need to have fun but people are arguing these these positions as though they were arguments about how would obviously superman could not obviously superman would beat up the terminator that i was just kind of pulling names how about the terminator versus robocop robocop 0:19:35 beat the terminator i honestly don't know if that's what would happen because you got to feel like the the human gooey part of termina of robocop are more vulnerable than the terminator because he could leave all of his i mean of course robocop would beat the perimeter because robocop's the good guy i mean that's the real that's why those questions are so fun and stupid and have to be recreational because the 0:20:37 real answer to all of them boils down to the good guy would win because they're all just artificial concepts structured to uh adhere to certain narrative uh conventions so lighten the ***** up if you're gonna have fun batting things around remember the stakes they're basically zero because the decision you're just if you really people can and people say this all the time they say you say twitter is in real life but people take that stuff and those ideas and they apply it to the real life and i say yes they do that what ends up happening more often than not because of how obviously small and disorganized the left is is not what some people think which is people bring bad ideas from the internet online or offline and then they dominate with those ideas and they scare everybody away i don't think that's what happens i think what happens is that people come from online with these weird intense expectations related to the fantasy worlds they've constructed there uh and then they i and then some of them who have the intensity of of purpose and and frankly willing to willingness to be shameless and annoying maybe they do dominate some sectors of the real like left or whatever but since it's so small i think the answer for what happens with the rest of people is not that they are alienated by that it's that the vast majority of first of all remember most people aren't engaging in this at all but the ones who are they their engagement with online has created their own structure right and they do bring it offline but they bring it offline by using the fact that they see all this cringe ***** on the internet as an excuse to do nothing **Music playing** and then there's a third group who bring their ***** offline and try to apply it to the real world get conflict from that and feedback and then run away and are broken against the rocks of reality and decide to flee back so you've got one group of people who have like the the perfect combination of brittle uh internet poisoning and and and remaining uh like personal uh uh grit i guess to stick stick out long enough to win battles over things like you know a ***** dsa uh uh local election but then you have much larger groups of people who either can't hack the the uh the social demands of trying to be a pill in the real world and the ones who use what they see online as an excuse to stay home and then of course there's most importantly the fourth group of people who might be online might encounter these ideas but would never think of getting political who don't aren't touched to the level of action aren't stirred to the level of action uh favorite roman emperor i know it's a a popular revisionist pick to pick a really in because he basically single-handedly saved the empire from early death and then was nonetheless uh killed by he's like he's like a sort of underrated uh dude making a comeback he's fine uh i guess trajan because everyone forgets him but he he presided over the creation of rome to its fullest physical extent that's pretty cool and he did it with an amazingly terrible i mean yeah sure roman nerds remember trajan i'm just saying in popular culture he's not very well remembered among the emperors but that's mostly because the most someone wants me to ask talk about p2 lodge i didn't talk about it on the gladio episode but just a quick refreshers i don't know that much about it sadly there aren't a lot of great english language sources on gladio and i from what i understand not great italian stuff either but it was a freemasons lodge in rome that was essentially a front for a group of high-level 0:25:46 italian political religious military and economic leaders to get together and distribute money to neo-fascist gangs who've been armed by nato uh in order to do things like launder corsican uh drug money through the vatican bank and carry out what was called the strategy of tension which was a series of terrorist attacks that were carried out by neo-fascist street gangs allied with the mafia oh uh it's funny because the uh it was a masonic lodge and it had a number of high levels of the catholic church as clergy or as members even though in the 19th century a papal edict forbid all 0:26:50 calf i think it was just catholic uh not i think it was all catholics actually from becoming freemasons all like even lay people let alone member i don't think don jr is going to become uh uh president because he's going to like he's going to make sense as an option but he's just he doesn't have he doesn't have it he doesn't have what and ivanka looked really good at the convention but i'm still not convinced that the republican party wants what she's selling in terms of uh affect and and whatnot she just seems a little too i mean that they're gonna all be q people within 0:27:51 four years you know like q is going to take over the entire republican base that is inevitable and i don't know if ivanka she has the bloodline you know but i just don't know if she has the but i don't know finger shrug emoji i yeah everyone's gonna all republicans are gonna be cue it's the only it's the only way forward because because like i said it's the only way to square living in this country and having this image of america in your head that you can't challenge for deeper ideological reasons that you have can't even examine like that's a good example of like how false consciousness works and some people get mad about the idea of false consciousness because they say um they say that it's like condescending i don't think it is if you remember 0:28:54 that everyone has it everyone has false consciousness like i've said before the work ruling class doesn't rule in their own interests they rule in the perception of their own interests which they undermine all the time because they don't have all the information and they're always competing but like you have a level of awareness you have enough awareness to have to understand that this country is in a crisis and you're horrified and you're alienated from it but you are not aware you have not absorbed the necessary information through experience and and exposure to even create a viable way to criticize the country as you perceive it in your head and so you have to find a solution and like cue's the only way q is the only way and the p 0:29:55 first people to do it were the most like i i talked about how some people are the most sensitive antenna people who are more emotionally compromised and undermined by living under in contemporary conditions than the rest of us for specific reasons having to do with their specific lives and it's gotten bigger as as that condition as the heightening of alienation becomes deeper and as the fear becomes higher of what come next and that's why children are the focus of it and how children are the focus of all right-wing populist paranoia because there's a sense that the future uh that that the present is ***** that america at the moment is awful and that life for you is miserable but so it's too late so what you get to be mad about is what the lizard people and the triple parentheses people are going to steal from your children from the future because you don't see the possibility of a future and certainly that's true of people on the left nobody can see it and people across the center no one can imagine a future but that that hits different depending on your ideological priors and for conservatives it manifests as a desire to protect literal children because that's the level of analysis they're on they're not aware of what they're actually worried about which is the fact that the future does not appear to exist on our current trajectory not in terms of annihilation even but in terms of change so uh that means that q is going to only become more popular as more people turn up the need for a more heightened and more dramatic and more melodramatic explanation for their alienation and their horror and q will do q will do because it's the only thing there and so yeah i'd say uh i say here's the future of the right and i also think it's a religious revival i think it's the third great uh the most q mindset movie i think is jfk we said this when we did our movie review episode of it just because uh jfk posits a sort of right reactionary fairy tale whereby an evil force within the greater good that was america made up of decadent perverts who want to keep doing decadent perversions conspire to kill a president who is going to undermine their power i mean there's literally a scene the first scene that where jim garrison starts to have second thoughts about kennedy is when he's on an airplane with uh russell long played by walter matthau and walter matthau was talking about the the vietnam war and how it's burning out of control but also about all the hippies in the streets and jim garrison goes i begin i wonder if i kind of think it all went and if you have a cultural lens through which you're looking at politics which they all do and you and you are horrified and repulsed by america's culture as many of them are you look back as many people have and and i think that's the reason that jfk jr figures so spectacularly in their uh in their cosmology i mean he's the returned messiah i mean these people are also deeply christian i mean it should be pointed out that the whole thing is evangelical as ***** like this is just a politicization of evangelicalism it's a furthering of the moral majority move from the sidelines to the to the center of american politics of and jfk is jesus returned to to judge the wicked and the righteous and it's important to remember the jfk junior thing is not from a cue proof okay this is interesting someone says no civil war but what about something like uh that i could definitely see more likely now we might be talking you could see an escalation to like low-level street warfare between semi-organized groups i think it would take a while to get to anywhere like the organization of the provisional ira or or even the uh uh the loyalist paramilitaries who mostly were just drug dealers by the way and still are uh but you'd have something like it car bombs shooting things up but i think what a lot of people assume is that that would cause this cycle whereby everyone would start picking up guns and that's not what happened in northern ireland and i don't think it was what someone remind me i don't want to do it today because i i don't i'm still trying to like rev back up into the like abstract stuff but i want to go deeper into gnosticism on one point because somebody uh somebody said something about narcissism in the in the chat that made me read my eye they said eyebrow they said like narcissism doesn't require satan if you think god ***** up and like wouldn't god have to ***** up to allow a demon to inter interact with with uh because god could do anything right like that's always been a question and i think the thing that in my mind squares that circle is if you understand obviously like a lot of this is all filtered through outmoded symbolic orders that we don't but i think the real maybe not understood intellectually but understood spiritually the real uh demiurge the real interceding force that created the hell of of the is the experience of consciousness specifically the experience of time because and as and so that uh because if we assume like as i do that god closest to the bone symbolic representation of the concept of unity the unity of all things and all things in the universe in the universe and you well the notion that all that there is no fundamental separation between any object in the universe there is one substance in the universe as spinoza said and that we are all composed of it and and that the thing that made this world this fallen world this world that is choking on its own gas that is that is a process is that we evolved intense enough sensory organs and a mental ability to process sensory information that was sufficient to create an inflection point where we get we we received so much sensory data that we were able to create such a detailed map of the world around us that we were able to convince ourselves basically to consciously act to take a step here instead of a step there not the way that lower animals do lower animals take because they're instinctively reacting a conscious creature act puts one foot in front of the other because there's something deep enough in his brain to convince them to make one move over another move and the more sensory data you can create the richer and more textured that picture of the past of the of the of the recent past but the past the greater the degree you can imagine project forward what would happen if you do this versus that and then you do one creating a tunnel that we can burrow through reality with and that has like a narrow evolutionary uh benefit the way if you're a hominid and you're a you know a furry you don't have spikes you can't run that fast and especially if conditions that you live in change quickly inc the ability to plan ahead the more you are able to live in the past and the future which is what a more conscious mind can do the less you are able to literally be present and in the moment of existence not the processing of the moment not the imagining the past and the future and the side the presence the sensory presence of the moment there is an awareness of that unity and at that point fear if not eliminated is removed is leached away desire likewise because we have to feel separate to ever feel like the rest of the world could endanger us because what are they endangering if we are the same they are endangering the separate entity of me but i can only sustain that delusion if i am not present and so the more intense our mental landscape the less present we are and that means that we are ruled by fear and desire as we navigate a world between choices that we think might lead us to pleasure or pain and in so doing we create the need to we create the desire to gain take more to take from others who otherwise we might understand implicitly to be part of a holistic unit even if it's not it's not the entire universe it is a network of beings that can maintain that sense of safety because that's why we seek others because they provide a simulacrum of the safety that we feel it's not the same thing but it's close we can sleep easily because we're in we're surrounded by people we trust that's why we build communities and that's when social evolution kicks in and that's when we cease to be evo we cease to evolve but in so doing you accumulate separateness over time and as you get more intense in your perception and as conditions become more endangering we seek ways to gain comfort and the comfort one great way to perceive comfort is to rest while others work is to gain food and and items that have been imbued with value and experiences that have been imbued with value that others don't get to have and now you have in now you've let lip you have created the engine of history here and you have also created the drive towards the creation of structures that push us ever farther away from the present and push us ever farther from unity and but we have to work through those things and as we are driven away from each other by entropy and the class project the socialist project the the the the slow but steady coming into awareness of itself of the of the oppressed class is the process of people reaching out to grab one another and the best way to start that process i think is to have a real understanding of love personified in maybe a religious concept but that's very hard to hold on to in a world where other people have different understandings of that religion and that causes intellectual disagreements and alienation like people can hold on to religion and hold on to love and hold on to unity maybe in cloistered religious communities and i think that's possible but in in the secular world that we live in the closest thing is love for one person one person who can stand in for the moment one person who because you know them fully you are fully comfortable with and feel fully and therefore drain from every moment of your life uncertainty and fear because you are able to tack back to what unity and away from the idea 0:46:3 that you could ever be a threat in threat threatened the idea that there could ever be an end to life or your life the idea that pleasure could be accumulated and that it could and so that is i think where what love where love emerges like when you love someone when you fall in love with someone you are gaining such a degree of comfort and intimacy with that person that you and that means if you spend time with that person all the time you spend with that person is time that drains from your life the accumulation of anxiety the accumulation of difference the feeling of spinning away into nothingness and even when you're away from them when you're in a time and 0:47:4 something is stressful you can think back you can think about them and when you have that idea in your mind when you can picture love in an embodied person you can then project it outward not with the same degree of of of passion not with the same degree of certainty but but still qualitatively powerful sense of love to others and that means that when you react to the world you will react from a position of loving kindness instead of self-interest instead of the rat reptile reptile unseen drive towards personal pleasure more fun than not fun because i'm gonna die someday so i need all the fun i can get ***** unfun things the distinctions become less relevant 0:48:6 and so actions that might seem like ***** work now like going door-to-door for a campaign uh maybe if it comes to it like real conflict with the state become pleasures in themselves because they are pursued out of love the way that it's not work to do something for someone you love it's not work to do something uh and that's the only way that you can bring down the the the pillars of the demiurgical reality which are every day reinforced every moment reinforced because hypothetically hypothetically you could snap your fingers and everyone could come into full consciousness of their unity for a moment come away from it be able to connect to each other immediately 0:49:9 at like a base bonded level and we would have a new world but that's not how it works because we're separate because we have different experiences because of the randomness of chance that brings us to different points in the social order when we emerge into it a deformed social social order created by the nightmare of every past generation we have to work towards it we have to stumble into the hallways we have to blindly find our way and that is the process of of class struggle that is the the dialectical relationship working its way through the human species never mind i guess i just said it i said i wasn't going to say it today but i kind of got on a roll i hope it made sense because i wasn't today squibs i'm really getting to the point where i 0:50:10 have to sort of come to terms with the fact that i'm not getting squibs anymore and that i need to just decide to stop watching new action films because this third thing where i just watch them and feel annoyed is pointless why do that i will hope i think the the more mature thing would just be to stop caring about i mean obviously the

most mature thing is to stop watching movies of any kind certainly action movies but i'm not ever going to get to that level i don't think uh but more realistically i could just get rid of my weird but i will say though that um i do hope i understand i'm coming to terms with the fact that if there are movies with squibs in the future they will be like um it'll be like the lighthouse where they used old film from the 20s it'll be a gimmick and that's fine i just hope enough people do the gimmick so i can get my fix once in a while i would certainly hope that the safeties would use squibs if i did see let the corpses tan that wasn't it wasn't really my thing but it was it was interesting cgi could get better but i honestly don't think it will i think that's one of those things that just it can't it can't it can't simulate presence the guest had squibs you bet you better believe that because the guests had squibs uh you're next also had squibs now wingard and barrett well not somebody asked why is it the point to be challenged by art i don't think i don't think watching bad action movies that are clearly intended for a foreign market because the scripts are written by algorithms and machine learning is really uh challenging and in sense challenging anything other than your patients which has its you know benefits psychically but i i would rather be challenged intellectually um i just watched the harley quinn movie i was just had it on tv you know i was doing other things i shouldn't have been doing that but but i just wanted some something under at one point she's in the grocery store with a girl and she says i need more groceries i need more groceries no no i'm sorry she says i'm out of groceries and then she starts shopping and that hit my ear in the theater wrong and hearing it again it hit it even worse no one would ever say i'm out of groceries right i'm not crazy about that groceries are the stuff that you get at the store as soon as you bring them in your house and put them away they're the individual food and collectively they're food you'd say i'm out of food or i need to get groceries groceries are at the store you cannot be out of groceries unless you live in a grocery store and that's such a but the thing the reason that that's not i don't think that's just being pedantic because when i say nobody says that i don't think anyone would say that like i think most basically human beings english speakers have been wired to understand the my suspicion is that it was like a ***** algorithm or like a bot that somebody programmed and then even if that happened how did how did i mean i'm assuming australians are human beings although that's still out as a margot robbie encounter girl maybe maybe they don't have groceries they might not have groceries in australia they're probably called grosseros or something but other people on that set director on down none of it hit their ear wrong it none of it sounded weird to anybody it's uh it's just it's it's it's worrying to me that that kind of thing could happen and it certainly reminds me of why we get squibs all over the place because clearly nobody really gives a ***** about any of this stuff nobody's putting any effort into any of it everyone at some level understands it to be machine line hack work which i have to say makes the fact that people put so much emotional investment in superhero movies and and and have to and demand people take them seriously is art either because they're gritty and realistic like dc people or 0:55:27 or important and uh and representation if they're marvel people is that the people making them for the i don't buy the line that's about a foreign market because it's going to get **Music playing** but the thing that's weird about that and freaks me out about it is that it's not it's not a bad line in the sense that it's poorly written it's not written like a human being who i guess maybe they're like a foreign first foreign first language person okay zack snyder cares because he the reason they love him is 0:56:28 the same way the reason that republican people love trump is because sanders snyder is one of them and they know it like you ever listen to a zack snyder interview he is one of those guys he's just in better shape and richer and uh definitely more talented he had this uh he had somebody was making fun of his movie uh and or he said that it was uh what was what was the ***** tweet that snyder had where he said uh just to ao scott he said you like movies for babies i make movies for adults this movie's for grown-ups so i don't care if you don't like it and it's like come on that's so perfect the guy believes the same ***** they do he believes the same fantasy that this this stunted and deformed uh squasi art form known as superhero filmmaking is something that is for adults not something for children that adults watch because 0:57:30 it's easier to make than stuff for adults because too much money is put into it for any singular vision to dominate or even a collaborative artistic vision to dominate over the algorithm of profit which demands 13 pg-13 pablum for the and you've got a guy making these movies making 100 million dollar movies who believes this garbage who believes he's making movies for adults that are like dude what if superman was real like what would that be like he's still gonna fight a ***** space squid either way and so having snyder out there really believing that it makes the it makes them that much easier to have the uh intellectual the the emotional and psychic transference to to become a snyder stan and end up trolling and death threatening everybody who goes online to say that uh cider movies are bad even after you get i don't know what the 0:58:31 black enlightenment is i know dark enlightenment dark enlightenment was was what people called the alt-right when it was just the sea people were a theoretized group of marauding mediterranean uh sort of pirate societies like vikings probably who uh raided late bronze age uh societies like uh egypt uh and and helped cause the late browns age collapse uh nowadays it's usually understood that like with most social collapses the real causes were long-term soil erosion volcanic eruption uh and social 0:59:34 breakdown but that the the sea peop these guys might have showed up to ***** up the uh ***** some ***** up for them oh who is the first non-liberal president i mean it depends on what you mean by do all right i'm gonna wrap up here uh boss baby 1:0:40 two i will come i will watch boss baby two because hopefully it will involve uh getting more detail about the weird-ass boss baby world that uh that they created where the babies are manufactured this nightmare like uh eternal capitalism ooh brutal i'd like 1:1:41 to know more like i said do they drive to baby houses are there baby restaurants do they go to baby strip clubs i think ed markey's gonna win which will be very funny first competitive primary lost by a kennedy ever in that state maybe the the downfall of that dynasty can be a silver lining but it would also be really really funny oh is rfk junior at that rally in uh that guy's really interesting because he is sort of a he's a 1:2:42 marin county uh and it would be very funny if he did make the q jump because then you would have an actual kennedy at the head of this thing instead of uh instead of the fake guy pretending to be so that would be funny if rfk ended up running on like a q-party platform like q got so big that it broke and and so infused with like non-right non-republican and non-like self-consciously reactionary cranks like other anti-vax people like i said if uh if if trump gets elected and starts vaccinating people you could cq depending on how leavened it got with uh anti-vaxxers uh decide that he got like replaced by a deep state robot or something and then hell that'd be 1:3:44 hilarious and then like rally behind rfk jr that would be that we can't know things we can guess we can guess we do trial and error and the way we test it is what other people react how other people react that's why we need that's why like the the root of technology is collaboration no knowledge is siloed that's i remember i actually read atlas shrugged i read the whole thing and uh i skimmed a lot of it obviously because it's so repetitive but the way that ayn rand consul conceived of of invention and technological progress was so insane in her cosmology every person who is like the inventor of a thing essentially is the is is deserves by inventing it all associated 1:4:46 progress and that they can like dole it out then in exchange for like market share or something it's and it you could take the greatest genius in world history you could take ***** nikola tesla or ***** uh uh any of the great innovators like edison or something if you had them just if you dropped them on the top of a hill like a deformed spartan child none of them would invent ***** they would die of exposure maybe a few of them would be if be uh clever enough to create like a quonset hut but nothing is created without people collaborating across the space of uh of unknown existence and comparing like nothing nobody could invent anything because because the they're at the end of a process that began with the formation of the language they're thinking in and the numbers that they're using to write with and every single 1:5:48 element within the nested technologies that make up whatever the hell they're going to build and that's why that's why libertarianism is just so laughable and why the idea that there are people who consider themselves like geniuses who who who take rand seriously and objectivism seriously it really does tell you that like there are different ways to be intelligent and that we are defined by our ignorance and one of the things that makes us define that ends up making us most defined by our ignorance is by our refusal to admit that we don't we aren't the full container of the world we have to fill gaps and one of the things that makes love possible is that when you love someone one of the reasons you love them probably is because not because they exactly mirror your mind what your preferences your experience but because they have had different experiences and come to different conclusions that fill in the gaps for you and then make it easier for both of you to navigate the world successfully because you're getting more information and you're operating from a correct premise because you've collaborated you complete me literally in the sense that you fill the hole of perception because of the because of the non-overlapping experiences and if everybody had to act like a randian hero there would be no human existence it would be a bunch of people with blindfolds on swinging katanas at one another in a ***** room how would that turn out all right i went over a little bit so yeah no someone oh just to end here someone says is american libertarianism the basis for neo-feudalism of course because it says it takes the logic the liberal logic of the market to such an extent that because feudalism replaced obligations right social obligations with transactions but transactions are assumed to be between equal parties and all economic uh theory and this and all libertarian uh ethics are premised on equal exchange but of course exchange isn't equal because of the accumulated history of exploitation that makes up the human race and human existence that accumulates social pressure tension and conflict ein rand's solution to the fact that there's so many people who are resent even though it's like isn't it irrational even though these titans of industry create the world for people they're not happy with it and they whine about it what's the answer to that her answer to that is they're dumb and that what should happen is you just tell them about it until well guess what that hasn't worked and can't work what's going to happen is you're going to create a social order so fractured that the market will not be able to be sustained because you won't be able to sustain social order so you have to replace social order with coercive bilateral relationships but this way totally detached from a social order but as i and like you want to know what neo-feudalism is it's going to be feudalism or the friends or the family or the religious awe the peace nothing you will be stimulus response you'll be desire and fear turned into a node they're gonna prod you at one end with one or the other and it's gonna get behavior out of the other end you're and there will be no more social texture that the the liberal order presumes this market that we exchange in no more money for that no more time for that that is replaced by bondage by by compulsion but of course not entirely compulsion not just gun to okay look at this youngish man all right halfway off with his pants he's doing something weird with his hands he's got a multitude of outrageous plans and he's still trying to cough up that what you choked on in the churches look at him out running and running off a vacant storefront building nba deck an army surplus and why start giving as ***** i want everybody telling you it's full of it and then it gets suppressed obsessed and depressed and which one came first in this crazy mess and then he's taking too much or not enough and which one is the worst one with this sort of stuff and he's sewing thought of being ignored with that and but i know it's nothing more than just being bored i know it's a lot more than just being bored hi guys my 0:1:2 phone died yesterday i didn't it wasn't charging it wouldn't take a charge but today i put it in i said my prayers and it worked so i'm able to bring myself to you once again uh how is everyone doing i guess i want to say today r.i.p to david graber who died in venice i guess jesus people are and it's a lot of good people and of course none of the bad um and i just want to say that like i didn't really know him i never really interacted with him i know he had a prickly reputation online and being a guy who argued a lot but uh but and of course i didn't agree with him on everything because he's an anarchist but i did read debt and i thought debt was in aggregate grape you can quibble all you want with some of the historical stuff but uh because you know he's not a historian he's an anthropologist but the anthropological work is really really important because i think the central the central element of of debt 0:2:4 that i carry with me the most is his annihilation of the presiding myth of the rise of uh of currency of money the rise of of like a denominated debt uh in so through into society and the adam smith neoliberal uh you know standard model that we all absorb at the level of our ***** dna by the time we're two uh says that that arose because you had uh a situation where once societies got bigger once social orders became larger you had a situation where some people had stuff that other people needed had more stuff than they needed and there were other people who had stuff that they needed was it coincide coinciding uh deficiencies or something i don't remember but it was a way to represent exchange that had previously been

barter because that's how you do it if you have like a low level social uh complication 0:3:6 is i have five chickens that equals three goats or something and that money came to represent that exchange and i think graber pretty ably dismantles that and says that is a that's a fiction that is that is a story that they tell themselves i mean it's as much of a it's as much a fiction as like the garden of eden it's like a parable that they made up to justify their ideology their like religious uh their religious faith which is capitalism capitalism is in their minds where religion is in who had been in previous generations and it is in most of ours we've replaced god with capital in one way or another and that's what they worship and the story the the the the uh adam and eve story of uh of that faith is i got all these chickens but no uh goats and i got all these goats but no chickens it's not true at all gaber points out at uh pretty ably shows that uh in tribal social orders uh if there is a incongruity of of 0:4:10 resources like somebody has stuff that other people don't they don't need a medium of they don't need a neutral medium of exchange or even an exchange of any kind there is a social obligation understanding that is beyond the level of the transaction that is beyond the level of individual acts because labor hasn't been alienated labor is done for oneself and for others in equal amount which means there's no alienation alienation is when you are doing less for you and more for someone else someone else and it's usually owners or slave drivers or someone other than you that's when people become separate from one another that's when social obligations dissolve in the face of pain in the face of the desire for people to gain some sort of some sort of opiate some sort of self for the wounds of having their labor alienated and that's where you need to have a market transaction to exchange because what's in it for 0:5:12 me becomes the only question and so you have to have a neutral exchange you can't have barter you go straight to representation because representation is all we have we have to representation a social obligation that's been lost because of alienation if you don't have that alienation that social alienation resource distribution is handled by ritualized uh a almost biologically uh frictionless act of equalization the way that like a cell will equalize across its own membranes in order to maintain integrity and like the actual ritual mechanisms or those are different from society to society but a lot of them are represented by things like the potlatch which is the origin of our concept of a potluck which is a ritual of of of of the ex the distribution and annihilation of surplus so that it doesn't build up because it can only build up if it's not and so all this stuff the homo economicus view of humans is rational economic 0:6:13 seekers that's all that is a myth that's a religious tradition and it has a founding it has a founding mythology it has it has its own olympian tragedy its own olympian tales and epic sagas and and birthing scenes and primal scenes and one of them is that first time that somebody needed to give a goat for a chicken but if they knew

each other why would they have to have that exchange one thing that graber points out really eloquently is that in in traditional societies it's actually rude to repay someone's debt entirely every exchange should leave a little remainder because that implies that there will be a continuing obligation between you paying off a debt is closing that door and saying you are a stranger to me and how could we have started like that how could any civilization have existed for ***** any viable amount of time if we really started off treating each other that way it's impossible the only thing you can argue is that uh that the only way to uh create the complex nodes that allow us to have a technological society that allow us to do things like have language or dang iphones or longer life spans that are less animalistic that allow us to develop culture to allow us to create things that give us the chance to reflect on ourselves and make ourselves aware of our moment and our place in time in space and our relationship to other people in a way that that we can't do even within the tribal society because then there is an outside to fear always and they say we get that way by by having a market by the engine of capitalism and that's what builds this that's what we get to live in uh no that's not true at all capitalism is the last manifestation of different regimes of resource extraction that come about because you have this un distributed sense of social solidarity people don't see other people as themselves so they have to find out what to think they are and that can only be achieved through continued conflict by continued interaction and by continued domination of one over the other because if they are not you you can do what you want to them if you want it bad enough and people wanted things like the pyramids bad enough and they wanted uh southern cotton to be a profitable world market commodity enough the english wanted tea so they build this market to satisfy and that's the last representation you have to build a market after you've destroyed social bonds through exploitation if you can't exploit people anymore if the religious if the religious um world that you have been able to exploit from the top to maintain social cohe cohesion and social uh ascendance to power if that wears away which it will over time as as as social bonds are slowly and steadily and always pushed away from one another by accumulated uh trauma of class conflict you will eventually snap the social bonds entirely and you have to replace them with something and you replace them with the liberal sense of self we are individuals we are equal which means we can't just dominate and take from each other we have to negotiate across that equal plane but we are different and distinct and separate and always will be and so the only way that we can organize a social intercourse is through a neutral medium of exchange and that's true if you think that is immutable if you think that's the only way we can we can relate to one another and i don't think so i think there's another turn of the screw i think there's a turn of the screw where we are able to master enough the the technology that we have at our disposal to connect uh and we utilize that to bring about through time it wouldn't be easy it wouldn't take it would be none of us will see it no one's children will see it it might not be us it might be ***** cephalopods but there will 0:10:19 be a big enough movement of working-class people whose experience of exploitation has bent them towards the same vision of justice broadly enough to allow them to contin to fight on the same side and in so doing overthrow the regime of exploitation the world system that is rep that is con currently controlled by by the ruling class and i know that these are all slippery terms and that in the heat of the battle they will break one way or the other but that's what history is for to grind that ***** pestle into that uh mortar and then we see the results the ***** the kernels spilling forth and i think that through that process we can gain social awareness that is as powerful a self-regulator of behavior as tribal intimacy but in the context of total uh technological uh uh control of nature meaning that we would no longer destroy 0:11:20 and defile nature we would enter self-aware homeostasis with nature and then the work of history the real work of history could begin the work of the human race as a conscious consciousness could begin people have dinged me for saying that the dialect ends with the end of capitalism if i got that if i said that i'm wrong i didn't mean that what i meant was is that the process of class conflict resolves and that level of dialectical exchange is abolished over time but that doesn't mean the dialectic ends that's how we are going to figure out what to do once we think we realize we're a success we're a social organ and we have the ability to communicate off the across the whole of the planet through through the technology that we've occurred and we were able to distribute the labor inputs necessary to maintain the system as evenly as possible so they fall as lightly on the shoulders of as many as possible then 0:12:24 we will we will have to to manage this system this steady-state system and extend and create things to do with it what are we going to do with these powers that's that's but that process will also be a dialectical resolution it will just not be through conflict it will not be through social violence but it's still a dialectical process and that's when we begin to make a history we are able to make history and the only way a human really could as part of one species because individually we fight against one another we clam and bat and so much of our potential is wasted and annihilated in these matter anti-modern conflicts because we do not see the hole for the whew anyway all right peter david graber and his book debt deals very very topic people 0:13:26 keep asking me to engage sterner more because they say that that actually he i did don't disagree with it and honestly it's like well if sterner is what i think it is and i don't like it but if sterner is what you're insisting it is then i like it and i guess i don't know why i got to read it it's not like i can pass a verdict on max sterner one way or the other he is beyond my ability to judge or control i certainly reputation 0:14:28

oh what have i been grilling uh grilled a few things i grilled some bergs recently uh did some elotes got those charred up uh corn corns finally good august you get the night august early september the corn is big earlier this when i started grilling the summer corn was mad tiny now got some thick corn i'm hoping to do beyond burgers this weekend gonna have small friendly get together and have and not uh the patties someone told me that the best beyond thing is the ground meat like the ground beef so i'm gonna pack up some burgs throw them on the grill that's the plan maybe do some seafood if i can find if sternerite if sterner makes people and prim then then i'm afraid everything i think of him is correct because of course am prim if you're abolishing all these structures these spooks because nothing can be trusted with the ego you are ignoring the central truth that the ego has to be annihilated through co-operation because we can only get to the answer to these questions by resolving them amongst ourselves there's no one else to answer to there's no one else that's going to have answers but us everything in the book is dead everything in it written in a book is dead but if the person's not here it's all dead because we're just reckoning with the shadow of those ideas that we have to deal with because it emanates from the culture we we absorb them into so we're already dealing with shadows so we cannot get it from a book we cannot get it from anyone else in singularity we have to get it from an aggregate we have to get it we have to descen to get the thread of of of of of harmony through through a crescendo of of and we need structures to accommodate that which means i'm sorry we cannot bust all the ghosts we have to use the ghosts to our uh control so that we can abolish finally our own ghost the only ghost worth busting uh mankind is so smart and stupid at the same time because we can never know what it's frustrating to me that the dunning-kruger effect gets thrown around by redditors so much as like one of those dumb things that's that dumb guys can say to sound smart oh uh classic dunning-kruger effective because i think that and i think that's because people don't really grasp what it means they think oh yeah those guys they got they don't realize that it is universally applicable that no one by definition can be exempt from it everyone doesn't know what they don't know and if you stack enough of them along the right questions by facilitating social interaction by allowing people to to collaborate which cannot happen in a capitalist framework that is zero sum especially now they might say it's not but they're lying someone's labor is being extracted for someone else's benefit and even if somebody gets to use somebody else's labor because they were able to buy like a cheap product on the market and they contributed to an exploitation they're still also being exploited there's there's wrong everywhere and they all reflect off of each other and and echo out until they create a social order that is becomes more and more frayed and so the dunning-kruger effect is universal is spared and the application the implication

there is clear to me it means that no political project no religious project no human project no human social project forget about politics but also politics no project of those kind can can and and social and political project culminating in a political project because that is politics is the culmination of social projects i would i would i would not want to be part of anyone and i would not want to pursue anyone that took as its principle winnowing reducing to some core group the beneficence of our uh technological society because you are dooming yourself the only hope we have as a ***** race is if the as if the the the aperture of potential human interconnection is as wide as possible that's our only only hope anything less and we will spin off into into 0:19:37 annihilation inevitably we will not manage the the crises of the moment it will not be an apocalypse it will be a slow dying of the ember it will be heat death until the last campfire winks out and the people around that campfire they don't think that they're at a campfire at the end of the world they think it's thursday and that they're they're at the corporate uh uh like hr training they're doing the diversity workshop they're reading white frail to each other around the campfire and they think it's their job they don't think it's it's the nightmare apocalypse that everyone has always been waiting to happen because we will normalize ourselves into annihilation and we will never turn away from self-obliterating hostility to others so it's got to be as big as possible man and and it's like there's people and right now one of the really annoying things about and why the online left is not the left and it is it's actually deleterious to the left is that these arguments i keep talking about the arguments that are that exist 0:20:39 just to be had online it's like there's two things you have fun having the argument like is looting good have that argument all day you have fun having the argument uh but then you also get to split people into good and bad categories and right now this fundamental reality as i keep hammering at because it's the only thing worth saying to me is that the left needs to actually consider its non-existence and move from that point instead of assuming a structure and a center of gravity that would necessitate winnowing towards like the reason everyone seems to think we need to like know the good for the bad as echo what if they get in a position of power they'll never get in a position of power there's no positions of power to be accrued and you really are afraid of every like 300 follower ***** that you disagree with on twitter who's on a ***** subreddit you really think they're gonna climb through the ***** corridors of power like stalin when we're talking about a glacial process they need 0:21:41 we need bodies warm ***** bodies and everything that is every minute of energy that is expended divvying people up so they can fill non-existent positions in some future ***** revolutionary vanguard party or or what government agency like you're arguing about like oh is dom chomsky going to be and i mean and that means and the thing is any one on either side of the questions i'm talking about will their spine

will stiffen and they say okay but if we let anybody in then i'm going to be kicked out by the other guy like that's that's the democratic uh that's the democratic dilemma right it's like i can't let the other guy win an election because then when he's in power i will just be kicked out of the group uh i will be denied my rights you know because i'm the one backing down and they're not and that's kind of what voting is 0:22:42 and that's a trap of all democracies is that you're saying i will accede to rule by my enemy on the idea that they will if we if we vote if i win i get to be in charge that's the that's the thing that makes it possible um and so they worry they don't they won't want to be the first one to back down and the thing is someone has to be the first that's the leap of faith someone has to be first it doesn't have to be one person on one side it could be multiple people but it's going to have to be a draw down someone is going to have to risk taking the hit of being the first they're going to have to believe enough in the project to have that belief in the project make them willing to risk their own personal comfort by getting cancelled by their side they're going to have to do it and then the thing is you don't know what happens next the other side might not back down it might just they might use it as a moment to destroy you and that might happen you have to take the risk that's why it requires faith but if 0:23:44 they draw down too you have a potential to disengage from this stalemate and you have someone has to believe enough and the reason we're in so much trouble is that nobody believes enough that's why there's no left at the end of the day it's because no one believes and i'm including myself here because what's to believe in it's there's nothing it's a field of pottage but we have to build faith we have to build faith in it so that we can care enough about the project care enough about the vision we have to be willing to sacrifice not just our reputations but even our and of course twitter makes it worse because if the stakes are low it's easy to step down right like if you're having an argument with a friend even if you really do disagree it's easier to step down than between you and a stranger and then even harder if there's people watching because you're less sure of the other party you can trust them less and that's so 0:24:45 if the stakes are higher it's harder to trust and if the stakes are always reputations uh within a subgroup jobs sometimes when you're talking about real significant like livelihoods like ability to continue of course people aren't going to be able the and people say well what's going to happen then what is the solution and this is what a part of what is tough for me is i have to be honest and say the solution will come at the precise moment when enough people have had enough of this ***** to take to to either quit caring or recommit themselves and like grind their their ego against the wheat stone of the of their understanding of the crisis we're in and the imperatives of it all of which is driven by love love we're gonna have to ***** love enough god 0:25:48 i know that sounds incredibly dorky that is the cringiest thing i've ever said but

***** it's true we're gonna have to love enough to be willing to take the ***** risk to to be willing to do a thing that we don't know is gonna work because that's the only way we can convince people now to sacrifice is that it'll do something because that's what then they can satisfy their ego their libido the only way they're going to do something that won't work is if they know that in the long run it's something someone has to do first even if it isn't going to work like john brown people fixate on john brown but no one can be him even though that is what we need he loved so much john brown that the enormity of the crime that he saw in front of him over overwhelmed his sense of propriety because he didn't what he was going to die what did that mean what was his life to this what was his life compared to this considering how deeply he loved how much his love like i've said is ego directed outward 0:26:49 and attached to others and removed from the self how could he ever value his mortal life for a soul because that's what we're talking about is the ***** human soul is the degree to which your love reaches and he has and his and that means it doesn't just reach out it empties it empties out and john brown he had enough soul that he didn't he wasn't afraid to die we're afraid to get dragged for an afternoon and it's not our fault our ability to have faith has been ground out of us by the alienating brutality of the lives we've been thrust into but at some point we're all gonna take enough and and the old solutions aren't gonna work and we're gonna have to break through and i'm saying that the thing i'm saying is how do we make this happen we 0:27:50 don't make this happen it happens because people get to the point where nothing else works and what i say works you can keep doing something that doesn't work forever if it's getting you off and for some people it'll always get them off you know the people i'm talking about perpetual motion machine people who just live in the internet and they're entirely consumed by the hedonic treadmill of owns and counter owns and they love it and they're addicted to it they are the people who would fight you with a ***** fireplace poker if you tried to pull them away from the ***** cave you can't deal with them i'm saying is that there will be a time when enough people see the failure of what they're doing to help and seeing the things get worse and seeing their lives get worse and seeing the lives of the people they love getting worse and they will react by instead of pulling inward and a lot of people are going to react by pulling inward and saying well if this is this is the doomsday scenario 0:28:51 i need to hoard as much pleasure for myself as i can i cannot afford i have to do self-care because it's coming to an end and that thing is that's the rational response if we act like libertarians think humans act that will be where we end up crouching into ourselves and then fighting over the last mcnugget but not all of us are going to do that and uh and the hope is is that enough of people exist like that who make that choice at the right and i don't know if it'll happen that's where we get like and

people say well now where's your dialectic now wow where's your historical materialism now man this is essentially the quantum level of politics this is the quantum level of history this is where history happens this is where events are kindled because in every moment every human being decides to do something because they don't know why they're and they can make a choice in any moment and if enough of them 0:29:57 decide to do something it happens the social existence is predicated on that you see it working and you keep doing it but it's harder to see things as society gets more complicated so you have to create symbolic systems to represent that to represent the sense of security the sense that advancing the aims of others advances your aims but that runs against the current of accumulating social structures requiring labor and labor being distributed down on the bottom side of the curve towards control over resources uh uh control over symbols ability to manipulate symbols and you can look at the arc of history and after it happens you can look back and see in perfect amber why everything happened but in the moment anything can happen it really is true and that's the quantum moment of history and we're living in it and that is 0:30:59 the problem with dialectical materialism is that it eventually runs into a quickness of moment a hugeness of probabilities that are so much more than can be managed by the the equipment of human rationality uh compared to the like shadow fragmented model train version of the past that we look at like when we've examined the past dialectically and materially we're looking at a little tiny train set like a ***** lionel guy going around even the most dip small grain you know like social history at the at the ground level the grassroots this kind of stuff that they got into in like the 90s when history turned away from big questions and towards micro histories even if you were able to get that entirely ***** mapped out uh to the ability that you could as a discipline you're still talking about a lionel train history being lived is being strapped to the top of a ***** bullet train going from the shanghai airport to downtown with 0:32:1 a nuclear and so we can only just grab on and pray and somebody says well isn't that just accelerationism isn't that just quietism no sir it means you got to throw theory away it means you got to stop arguing these points it means you have to stop spending time tending your opinions your precious little opinions building your little ship and a bottle of opinions oh look at my little opinion bottle oh it'll go oh it'll go across the sea to thomas morris utopia you gotta smash that ***** because it means ***** now because the speed and size is too much for you to comprehend by yourself 0:33:2 we have to get together we have to bring together these ***** consciousnesses to signal boost our ability to examine the moment and coordinate action that means we have to throw it away we got to throw it all away and i'm not saying do it right now because it's impossible but you have to smash the idol you could do it while you're on the toilet you can do it blow off steam but you have to throw it down and then you have to ask yourself with this hole now with my my anima home my orgone hall my ***** my throbbing libido hole now empty what am i gonna fill it with am i to convince myself that self-care is revolutionary or am i going to try to fill it with action that seems like it's moving me towards something because i can see it with other people all this stuff feels like black pill if you have completely consigned the idea that you can derive any soul satisfaction any tending to the garden of love for 0:34:3 others politically uh other than the internet or that the internet can provide even uh even a little potted plant it can't it's ***** salted earth and that doesn't mean you can't do it but it means you have to consign it to the re to the realm of recreation and you'll find you can't do it as much because you're not getting the other out of it you're not getting the sense of of you're sad you're not satisfying in some part of your mind that the imperative to try to make things better in the world you got to just be man you gotta go out there and you gotta ***** try something and and now it breaks down again because once again we've tunneled beyond my sight we've tunneled to the quantum level the individual level i don't know what your life is i don't know what your capacities are i don't know your abilities are and i don't know what your social situation is i don't know where you are what your job is i don't 0:35:6 know what your family situation is i don't know where you are vis-a-vis capital or or anything other questions you know that you don't know all about it but you know more than me and other people around you know more than me too and on that quantum question we can only know by asking and that's scary and it potentially makes us have a bad time and when we're self-directed when we're ego and id directed we are only going between good and bad times we're slaloming between good and bad times because all we have are our moments of pleasure and we know that and they're going away and they're under and at some point they're gone it's going on a business sale being a human at every moment your supermarket sweep every moment of your life as a human is grabbing as much pile it up people say why do they need so much and so that boils down to even like a nice afternoon like posting 0:36:7 online versus phone banking which one would be more fun in terms of uh satisfying the the libido uh that's an easy ***** question if you can answer falsely to yourself well posting is just as good that's where the self-deception at the heart of of of sin is it's not that's why we're forgiven for sin because we don't even know we're doing it our brain is doing it for us it's below the level of our understanding that's why we should be able to forgive ourselves not like people do anything and have people have to show a track record to be trusted because trust has to be reinforced it can't be stripped out it's the only way to reinforce the the positive feedback loops that will get someone to this point that will get enough people that will kick start the ***** motor so and the thing is i probably am not going to do that because i can probably convince myself that what i'm doing now matters more than like doing something 0:37:8 that is less libidinally satisfying because i've got a brain capable of that uh what's going to bring me down to earth will be my interactions with the world and other people and it will either allow me to sit there or bring me down and i don't know where i will end up because i don't know what the answer is i can't because i don't know only interacting with other people will drag me down and what the reason i say that more than anything is is that if your answer to this is easy for you to say podcast man my answer is yes easy for me to say literally i'm sitting here in front of you as part of like a media career being reinforced with a constant stream of of of positive reinforcement it's like a i might as well be in a ***** and that might be true but it doesn't mean what i said isn't true and you've got to ask yourself am i saying 0:38:9 look at him easy for him to say because that answers the question that he's posing or am i doing that instead of really really asking because i don't want to know the answer and that's another question like the question of what to do that i can't know and so i got to do shruggy emoji man ah oh man that was wow that's over an hour isn't it ***** ah well tomorrow we're gonna try to do an office stream we're going to see if we can get it to work i'm very excited about it because me and chris are going to be in the lab in the beat laboratory soon it's going to be a lot of fun and like i said this will still exist i will never not doing stream of consciousness madness into your face but then afterwards maybe we have some q a maybe we have a guest maybe we play some video games so your favorite your favorite jabbering madness will continue 0:39:11 uh if anybody uh it's only been 40 minutes oh i started at five i lost i usually start at six and then at the end of that i looked on i forgot i started at five today that's why i was kind of like shocked because it didn't feel that long will i watch the last episode of the simpsons yes i haven't seen the simpsons i haven't seen a new simpsons episode in years i think i generally try to watch the treehouse of horror i honestly think i might be a couple years behind though check hulu uh or i guess it's fx now 0:40:12 i will definitely watch the last one if i'm alive for it which is a big if i mean i could definitely die before the yeah apparently somebody on twitter said that uh that a dude who works teaches an ivy was stealing my bars to that's i don't know what to think of it does make me imagine a uh alternative world where i was a mystery style pickup artist which i think could have been fun covet is definitely exacerbating the 0:41:14 posting issue but we also see how there is like there's a flip side to that right because people get more into posting but also the more that they are kept away from like what they used to consider normal because you know things are normalizing but not completely and not evenly uh the longer they feel that way the more tense they feel and the less computer can like satisfy them it it exacerbates the personal stress that leads to the explosion because like everyone's gonna have to come to a point where

their personal stress and their perception of social stress are over is larger than the amount of pleasure that they can convince themselves they can get out of posting um and obviously that's going to be unevenly distributed and they're going to be people who are going the people are going to be hardest to **** fight the ones that are going to hold on the longest are the ones who have basically no personal angst in their life because then they get to play like a game because yes yes they care about 0:42:15 other people and they put a lot of their heart into it but it's a very light touch like it's not a religious devotion it's not it's not it doesn't come from a spiritual sense it's just it's like it's utilitarianism which is what liberalism is liberalism is just look it's inefficient to misuse all this human capital because everyone's not me they're abstractly good why because if people are nice to each other they can cooperate and cooperation is better for human progress than the alternative that's really what they believe and it's like they don't think that they think themselves as having deep moral beliefs but at a level that they aren't even aware of their liberal conception of the self is such that they have no mooring for their conviction that other people believe equally like that's the heart that's the true thing that people say about about liberals of godless liberalism like the the notion of a secular society uh that is the true uh uh 0:43:19 indictment uh it doesn't mean anything because that you need that for like we live in a liberal world we need that as a basis we can't have a religious sectarian in in a world where religion is sectional we cannot have sectarian ethics it is not sustainable it has to be secular it has to be liberal because that's everyone is somebody else and we have to negotiate living here that's the real uh principle of place those people are living with old ideas those people are literally in pre-modern notions of of uh of good and evil uh and of humanity and one idea where like if one is not redeemed within one religious tradition one is one is someone that things can be done too that is the condition to be in a pre-modern religion uh when we hadn't had the technological development to create a exchange to necessitate exchange across enough areas of distrust that we had to put our weapons down to not destroy one another and 0:44:20 you could just take anything you wanted if you were more powerful than the other person and where your social belief like the intensity of your social belief determined in part your or maybe even in total i mean relative to your uh material conditions of course your strength and your ability to control things and therefore your ability to save the world and redeem it against something that is someone that you can do things too and that's also where you can then offload social tension and pressure by destroying and conquering another liberalism when that's not sustainable because we have a global communications and we have a technological level that allows us to destroy one another completely in war it's not like a uh you know it's not cyclical like old wars it's cumulative it's not like the flower wars it might be bloody and

horrible but that don't wreck the ability of the people there who live within them to sustain themselves modern warfare creates even even even early modern warfare is is far too dangerous to human flourishing to be allowed to go unchecked and the in the liberal model allows us to do that but there's no religious foundation to it there is no there's no connection from one to the other in it the connection is severed because now we're in a market and we're separate people and we are not connected and that has to be replaced and and it's replaced by our ability to create ourselves through consumption that's where we build our souls but at the level of ethics it really does come down to viewing them as uh utilitarianism because it's the it is the ideology of capitalism which means it's the ideology of profit uh a surplus profit consumption or extraction and so therefore it's guiding moral principle it's programming is efficiency to get the most off the bone and the process of capitalizing a society and capitalizing a world market is to create a efficient system for extraction now it's not going to be fully efficient because society is like the gunk in the filter and it's in it and it reduces the amount you can do but you work against that you grind against that too to create premium efficiency and so liberalism is religious it's religious worship is efficiency efficiency of exchange between others because we are all only ourselves we are not each other and the end result of that is an ethic oh is an ethic that says i care about other people but really at heart it's because it's most efficient to love them and when that's and that could be good people can act in sincere good will out of that desire problem is if it comes under pressure if it comes under pressure especially since there's no felt personal discomfort that their lives are comfortable that all of their pain associated with the condition is theoretical and felt and imagined in their head and imagine the connection to people who aren't them then it's fragile and it can come cramming down crumbling down gambling crumbling down if uh the only thing being served is the self because you can decide that well you know oh well or you could say you know what posting is doing the work even though you never see it rewarded or you know what those guys don't actually deserve it and these ones don't too and oh yeah you know what and by the way none of it's ever going to happen anyway we'll never have socialism we just need to punish people right now for the crimes they've committed that's the only justice we're going to have is like as the ship's going down like shooting the captain for running into the iceberg that's our only justices vengeance with just nihilistic vengeance and we can just post post posts or uh you know refuse to step down no matter what happens on the other end you have people who feel intense personal angst and pressure and pain whose family conditions are very very bad now there's fewer of them because people like that generally don't have the ability or time to post as much so they can't even get anything out of it but the ones who are their distress can cause them to privilege their the relief of their own suffering and there's no way you can blame them for that because it's their suffering and everyone else's is imaginary the way that you coordinate a class awakening into itself is bringing those ideas together acosta chasm bringing bringing together a felt sense of the right and of good to a social sense of the right and the good that are in alignment and that flow across one another because over time that will make suffering not your own and and the suffering of others will replace that because you're suffering less because your personal suffering has been been relieved to an extent because you're not fighting your conditions and it's like that sucks because it's asking people to to sacrifice the way other people don't have to and that's unfair but sadly that's also unavoidable what we need the idea is that there are enough people in the middle there are enough people who suffer a good deal but still have a social connection because they have a spirituality and enough people who don't have much spirituality because it's been eroded away by pleasure but do have a social sense and connect them that's the only future that's the only engine and basically what i just described those two sectors of people the top sector i'm mostly describing the dreaded pmc who make up pretty much everybody arguing on twitter in some way or another including people who hate them including people who fight them all day they're on the top half of that distribution of pain the bottom half are disengaged from politics for the most part and the one who aren't are often oriented along reactionary uh mindsets because they are filled with justified anger and right and and historically what happens is that you have enough you essentially have enough of an elite overproduction like 1848 is a good example of this the the 1848 elect uh uh rebellions were kicked off because you had an elite overproduction of college graduates who were just hanging around these cities and just getting antsy because they weren't getting the condition they weren't their lives weren't what they wanted them to be but they were not the misery of the lives of you know the spinners and the weavers and the early proletarians or or as back breaking and isolated as they were as they working in the peasant uh uh in peasant agriculture and the land and they had enough time to sit around and and talk between themselves and to other people including those workers about what was going on and they formulated an understanding of what was actually happening and they communicated across this narrow social chasm because remember this is pre-modern i mean this is pre-capitalism really it's still like it's capitalism but it's embedded still within feudalism feudalism has not been annihilated by any stretch yet its remnants are still the structure the thing is embedded in it meaning there's a there's a social basis for interaction that is that has still not been dissolved by the market completely and that means crossing that chasm is easier there's less mistrust there's more social commingling we're in a situation now where that conveyor belt between those two

classes and i don't know how to mend it this is where we're at the quantum point like if the fan belt is busted and it's snapped and you can't get another one you just gotta glue that ***** like everybody has to just close their eyes and turn into a glue and just grab that ***** in an act of faith and then just hope it holds until you can kick start the ***** motor i know that sounds like a bunch of mystical hogwash and it probably is and it's not really worth thinking about from day to day and i'll probably not talk about it more in the future but um it's how i think of the question 0:52:31 in front of us it's like when i talk about it i try not to get that woo-woo about it but this is the this is the shape of the question oh man i don't know if we'll do another the call of cthulhu games are a lot of work and i think virgil is uh is he's operating at a very high and intense frequency right now i don't he's got a little honest he's got a lot on his plate creatively but i would it might happen there's just oh i've never tried 0:53:32 to pick anyone up someone asked some picking lines i've never tried to pick anyone up with soup praxis oh yes certainly eating it is anyway if you get a nice stone soup going you know everybody brings one ingredient someone's people are really mad at this mug i think we got it at target it was just it's a nice design i guess this is kind of like for some people this is basically the confederate flag and that's a strong argument it's i'm not trying to make a message this is not a spacey message i'm not trying to indicate that i'm like i'm an mi68 asset i'm here from the i'm here on the 0:54:38 mission of the queen to sow disinformation uh on american airwaves uh to defend uh to protect the queen against crimes we did a reading series uh today someone asked what happened to reading series uh i guess there just haven't been a lot the takes during a presidential election are generally pretty repetitive and boring you've got to have sort of a slack political environment for people to start just riffing so you generally have less during a political uh i think during the during the meet of a political especially this one since such it's trump again and it's a lot of the same stuff it's a lot of the same exact arguments and idea anxieties but we have one today and 0:55:39 i think it's pretty good it's uh it's maddie g or maddie y maddie yg maddie iglesias man the man is uh his heart pump kool-aid as they say for you are neither hot nor cold but lukewarm and i should spew i don't know what the belden program is uh brace has not shared it with me yet but i wholeheartedly endorse it i'm not kidding if uh if brace is serious about running for president of the left uh i have he has my full support uh i will i would or maybe i could be uh stalin we'll see how it goes but 0:56:41 i think maybe liz is stalin honestly uh but yes no he's i have never seen a i've never seen a brace take on politics that i disagreed with like his he he gets the terms he gets the problems he gets the set of issues he understands the bad actors he understands the pathologies he knows where the material intersects with the cultural he knows which way the flow goes if he wants to tell everyone what to do i would help him and in fact i wouldn't even have to help him i would just happily live under his reign or and help move towards and lennon is uh no brace is my boy he's vi lining all over the place i don't know when we're going to do the george w bush episode it might 0:57:42 it might be a bit there you got to get warned that we often will say we should do an episode and then it ends up not getting done because you kind of need to have like a hole in your calendar to fill to go to the back catalog and sometimes you go a while without having one but i think maybe in the next month or two anyone that requires any kind of work is always harder but i think now that felix has read uh fortunate son i think it was or family of secrets i think we'll uh i think we'll get it done pretty soon we're also going to me and will and felix are also going to do the richard jewell movie episode which i'm looking forward to because i think that movie i thought that movie was genius when i saw it and since i've been thinking point i don't think fina felix finished the canals guard guys i know he left one canal 0:58:44 scourge book on like a public transit in europe or something i don't think he finished it i think he really appreciated the idea of it and then he didn't need to read it if i said the year since ***** someone's saying the years since i saw it said years since if you've heard years i lost my religion there for a second but why these trolls are just so chillish why must you insist on being so disagreeable on such a fine day it is a fine september day indeed and i do not see the need for being quite so argumentative in the comment section but i understand it is my responsibility to rise above the fray 0:59:56 and provide a bit of uh elegance and and maturity frankly so i people keep talking about a realignment i don't want to get this is going to uh maybe i shouldn't say it honestly i don't get in trouble but let me just say this i won't elaborate but it feels like if people say that there's going to be there might be if biden wins especially a a realignment politically uh i mean the last couple of polls have shown that biden's lead among hispanics and uh and blacks is reducing going below historic norms for the party which of course makes people incredulous because the one thing they've been attacking trump on for his entire candidacy has been how racist he is that's been the number one issue for liberals the people who dominate the discourse and this sticks and have the the farthest tendrils extension into the minds of the popular potential voting base in this country uh but if biden wins it will be because if these trends are real and who knows but it has been a few polls it's not just one if he wins 1:0:58 this way it'll be because a big chunk of suburban affluent whites go democrat which is what they're pitching their whole campaign around that has been the entire point is to do that that dynamic under the pressure of a ***** depression presidency that he's going to respond with ***** means-tested uh horse piss that's going to be that pressure is going to be exacerbated and if q if the pressure of living in in like under a democrat with this kind of social conditions exacerbates even not even evenly but

just somewhat near a a equilibrium of distribution between democratic voters and the republican voters you could see queue swell just in time to like break off from the barnacle-like uh holding restraints of the democratic or the republican party machinery and connect blob-like to the alienated uh democratic working-class base and then coming together leaving the two shards of of ruling class and and like upper middle class comprador class whatever you want to call it a separate that's the dream i don't think that will happen i don't think that there's any reason or way honestly to act like that's going to happen and what i'm saying like right now the premise has to be action so that means if it's not actionable it's sort of just forget about it it's interesting to think about but it shouldn't drive your thinking i don't think we're there yet but if it does happen i think that's the only way it happens is if like rfk rfk jr is the synthesis character like if rfk jr i know sean mccarthy said this uh on twitter and i think that is dead-on if this were to happen rfk junior would be the napoleon the napoleon the third of course who like brings together this like dis aggregated alienation and becomes the figurehead but i think as you hear me describe this that doesn't seem terribly plausible now that doesn't mean it's not going to happen we've seen a lot of implausible things happen recently but i think those are the conditions that as you work through your life on other things look out for it and see if that comes and comes more or less likely over time because it'll be interesting to see i think it's a whole different ballgame if trump wins though if trump wins you could see q become like a hardened almost paramilitary extension of uh the republican party and like the greater uh uh like white lumpin bourgeois that they represent and like small producers at the top like not the high levels of capital but like local levels the the modern equivalents of the guys who made up the early uh the people who picked taft in 52 and got and got uh and had the nomination stolen by the eastern bankers in eisenhower uh and then then they become like the ones then they become i would think you'd see more organized violence from cue because they would feel they would have the imperture of state because the state would turn to them to help help their power be consolidated in a moment of prolonged crisis because we're for talking trump's second term we're talking siren crisis at every moment an intensification a cranking an upward cranking only no downward cranking biden we might see some slack in the line for a little bit trump stays in because that's his thing is is antagonizing the contradictions he's banging the dinner bell every single day so it can only get worse and that means there'll be more dissatisfaction more discontent more violence and then that violence will be organized along who's in power now the question then becomes will the left in that situation be constrained by the democratic party or finally provide become like the guiding force of a movement a larger working-class movement to shatter and destroy the democratic party and send its its

ruling elite scattering back to the democrat scattering that the republicans are more likely to the private sect uh sector and then those those uh connections to global finance being shifted of course over to the conservatives to the that's the apocalyptic confrontation and that seems more likely in the trump version of this of course all of this is assuming that conditions don't change like a vaccine could radically ***** 1:6:5 change things or not like there are market there are inconceivable market bubbles that could pop and bubble and plorp there's events there's ***** there's too many butterflies flapping too many wings to say definitively one way or the other i'm just sort of gaming it out in my head and just once again emphasizing that that that level of abstraction you really don't have to concern yourself when you're asking the question what did i do today with myself you can talk about you can think about it and talk about it as a recreation when you're done doing what you think you needed to do that day but you got to do that first and that doesn't really connect to that that's still mostly a question an argument you have just to have an argument which is what i said is the driving force for all this stuff that we turn into real meaningful points of discussion and it's very funny because trump's clearly going to lie about the vaccine thing but they're not going to get a vaccine like what's he going to do 1:6:6 is he going to do like some pilot program like a photo op with somebody getting a saline vaccine in in like in in uh in like dallas somewhere like that that uh the voodoo like the demon seed lady is is injecting some guy with a like a hydrochloroquine vaccinated ***** cocktail that's actually diet fanta that would be diabolical because there's no way they would actually be able to get it out to people to actually have in time and honestly i feel like trump at this point who's going to buy that who's going to go who's going to be on the fence i guess this is my question who is going to be on the fence in late october who's going to hear trump saying there's going to be a vaccine and go well i think he might have a vaccine i'm not sure but i think he will and then voting for him because oh we might have a vaccine if at that point if you if by late october you've probably decided trump is full of ***** even if you are still 1:8:8 thinking you might vote for him because he's less full of ***** than the democrats which hey when you have biden as your opponent when you have nancy pelosi when you have nancy pelosi going getting ***** lucille bloost getting caught going to a salon indoors so she can get her ***** hair done for 500 and then she says i'm sorry i got set up by those bitch-ass ***** at the salon come on it's it's plausible but you still don't believe him you don't think he's got a ***** vaccine come on and so it's not going to be why you pick is what i'm saying so no one's going to pick on that but they don't know that they're just biting every button they can carl barker style trying to get the last money out of the rubes before they ***** realize that the uh that the spinning i will end with this uh i said something that seemed like maybe 1:9:9

might feel kind of spiritual blah blah blah about how everyone it's going to come down to whether or not people do a thing well it ends with them like snapping too but the first step is an action it's action always comes first because the unmoved moving action is the one that is induced by you convincing yourself of something of you having enough faith to move forward and that comes before but that's not real it can't be analyzed it's gossamer so enough people are going to act enough to start the snowballing effect or they're not i'm not saying the process will stop it'll just there won't be enough in time as conditions as the conditions of social deterioration render impossible any unity and i don't think that's going to happen guys i really 1:10:12 don't i'm not going to get into why now but i really i really don't think so so i think that we all know it to ourselves to push to push forward in any way we can

office we're doing a test stream here don't freak out it's not my backyard i understand i'll be back i'll be back to my backyard but right now we're testing out our capacity here at the at the and later to we might do some more uh some more stuff interactive but right now we're just seeing how it works i've got a pile of gulf war trading cards here and uh an amazing joe Biden today they asked him about Q Anon and his response was quote i'm a supporter of mental health and i urge them to take advantage of the things in the affordable care act while it's still there and of course that's being used as evidence that he is uh that he is slaying and that he is dragging fools but honestly i can't think of a more wildly violently psychotic anti-social thing to say the guy is really running on pure elder rage just as much as trump is at this point just contempt for any question anybody questioning him uh and his position i mean take advantage of the america affordable care act to get mental health care well it's still there even though i'm planning on becoming president within the next six months god damn that guy i'm gonna look through some of these gulf war trading cards that we've got here i haven't been able to look at them i'm gonna look at some of these fun things that happened during so they have these cards for different countries and ours is right here the united states and it's mount rushmore that emblematic part of america's geography a charter member of the united nations the usa is a permanent member of the security council the usa was designated to coordinate the liberation of kuwait by the united nations that was nice of them that was nice of them to let us do that for operation desert storm the usa supplied more than 500 000 troops 2700 air units 4 200 armored vehicles and 100 warships damn but then we got the other country the other main protagonist of the war iraq founded by khalif umar the first in 638 basra is the second largest city in iraq in literature basra is the home of sinbad in a thousand and one nights in 1914 a harbor was created at basra during the iraq iraq ocean access giving iraq ocean access during the round iraq war in 1988 basra was the scene of fierce fighting during operation desert storm it was repeatedly bombed to prevent assistance to the iraqi forces i love learning things including that one of the military skills you can learn in the military is survival which honestly seems like it'd be number one number one skill to learn in the military is survival many 0:4:14 situations in combat may leave soldiers seamen or pilots cut off for the main group with no supplies survival training and equipment will help them keep going until talp arrives or they can return to friendly territory on their own the most important aspect in survival according to instructions in a u.s military survival kit is quote keep your head native tribes live for generations in the open air taking their living from nature you can do the same best of luck and remember that courage alone has won many a battle and the canadian system of government which i can't think of a more meaningful context for this than the iraq war the canadian government is divided into 0:5:15 three autonomous but linked branches parliament the legislative branch is bicameral that is divided into two parts the senate and the house of commons the executive branch is headed by the prime minister who is advised by a cabinet the judicial branch interprets the laws and oversees the entire court system the ceremonial head of government is the english monarch currently elizabeth ii it's still her how the hell is that lady still alive how much adrenochrome can one person eat that lady needs to share something with i mean maybe i would like to see the clockwork uh elves in like the mirror blood dimension where the hell creatures live do we got hi i'm here uh i'm also here let me turn on my camera let's see uh we've we've got a a lot of people who are confused uh irritated uh disoriented by the different setup i figured um but you know i think that they're working through that together um i'm looking at the chat 0:6:16 right now so if anybody has any questions comments uh things that they would like to it's okay i understand you can see my legs and i know that that's upsetting i i'm not happy about it either we'll fix the blocking in future episodes do you want me to do you want me to uh post up the camera no it's fine they'll have to get used to it um so yeah uh tell tell me what your what do we want matt to talk about today yeah uh i would i would love to do a chapo asmr episode my idea for an asmr episode is simply reading the wikipedia page for uh come on let's get some some okay i i mean i don't want to belabor this but uh i was almost gonna ask you about this earlier matt did you see that uh maddie g uh had some responses to our chapa reading series today i only saw the one did he have more than one i think the only one i saw was the thing about relitigating five-year-old twitter beefs but which is hilarious coming from him 0:7:18 which is absolutely ***** hilarious coming from him because his entire ***** his entire mindscape is just doing battle with other ***** people on twitter i have good eye out on good authority that the ***** has gone to anger management over tweets so once again as with all internet contact all internet conversation it's just projection everyone's projecting he he's he's living in his own little uh hall of resentment mirrors um in lieu of anything more substantial right off the bat uh somebody asked for some lodge 49 talk i just started watching lodge 49 i'm about halfway through the first

CUSHVLOG 74. OFFICE BODIES AND OFFICE SPACES

season and it's as good as you thought it was i thought it was going to be much darker i didn't know it was going to be such a uh i wouldn't call it good vibes but it is kind of a blue sky show with darker underpinnings it's a chill vibe i think that it's general attitude is one it's positive because it's it's open-hearted and it's it's confident that there is like there is something redeemable in human life and in human uh in human social interaction that we're not all just uh doomed to bounce off of one another in cosmic nightmare horror until it's eternity which is the main theme of most prestige tv shows uh the thing that struck out of me like it's kind of superficial but i thought it was very well done is the very compassionate depiction of how you know you can be living a nice normal life in like two bad twists of faith like a snake bite and your dad having an untimely death like totally spiral you into oblivion yeah uh i thought that that was that was nice yeah i know it's it the show is very grounded and it's it talks it's very specific in the way that it addresses how uh we are absolutely at the whim of the market and how that has left us with this terror in our hearts because we can't have any faith that anything we have today is going to even be there tomorrow but it's not totally nihilistic or dark because it recognizes the potential for people to cross those chasms of fear and uh come together uh in a secret lodge dedicated to turning lead into gold uh as we should all be dedicated to i think that we could do uh would you matt would you consider uh the the long-term endeavor of transforming lead into uh gold a a suitable grill pill uh uh pursuit you know what yeah go for it i just want to say one more thing about the about the uh about the ***** iglesias deal because iglesias is responding to somebody else who listened to the episode and then just says these guys are being reactionary they're being pro-sprawl anti-natalist and no we just said that iglesias stupid uh like a la carte technocratic approach is ***** and unworkable and that any of the problems that he talks about have to be addressed by people like overthrowing the domination of their lives and and finding some actual uh autonomy from the market not to just submit to it fully in the name of beating the chinese but with these people like they are the blackest pill of all because they they don't think that there is any alternative truly to that to a world of of of market enslavement that that we can never transcend separateness to the extent that we can have a collaborative political project we will only be masked we will only be able to mediate our desires in the market and the best we can hope for is to fool enough rubes with with some uh clever nationalist jiu jitsu to get him to go along with positive policies and they're so fixed on that that if you say that they're that their technocratic fixes are insufficient or that they create problems that their the political structure they assume to be uh immutable can't absorb that you are actually on the other side and you actually think no no one should have kids and no we should sprawl out into oblivion no no i there is no reason if anyone listened to that episode to think that you could only think that if you are so wedded to this format this format of human uh political engagement that any alternative to it is just a non-starter and that if you aren't on board with their kicking out the idea of making anything better for anybody even though their model for change is impossible i mean has he ***** noticed that nothing got better has he ***** noticed that obama had eight years to basically do exactly what these guys 0:12:27 want to try to to try to nudge us remember cass sunstein and the nudge that was how we were going to get to a equitable society just subtle little nudges were going to push us into being decent human beings to one another how did that ***** work they had eight years to ***** do it and they didn't get close and everything that they could even point to in the near term i mean my god biden said uh take advantage of the aca while it's still there like just assuming that this thing that was supposed to be a big ***** deal on biden's own words is just a ***** sand castle that'll look blown over by a stiff ***** breeze does uh you guys are the real nihilist man and you guys are the ones who have decided that uh just as long as you have a smug answer for something you're do you're contributing you're contributing um how about this matt uh to switch gears into historical counterfactuals cause we were just talking 0:13:28 about them uh based on the atlantic article would it have been better if the germans had won world war one well i mean the first thing you gotta ask is could they have because if they couldn't have it's sort of an inoperative point because the world would have to be so different for them to have won that it's like well now we're not even talking about a world we recognize um and i don't know if the germans could have won world war one uh if we'd stayed out of it maybe but like there's i there are people who've made a strong point that the germans were actually broken before we even showed up and that their position in the middle was untenable especially given their allies uh i guess the only way they could have won but where they were able to like get a definitive outcome before it turned into a war of attrition because germany they love starting fights but they can't finish them because they they don't have the 0:14:30 the the material base to fight everyone which is what they seem to want to do all the time or it did anyway although now they just they just took over everybody but from with this central bank which was very clever of them so i don't know i mean if they won the war i don't know how that could have been possible but you probably still have a great depression and you still have like the crisis of fascism i mean harold turtle in harry turtledove's books germany wins world war one in europe but then england and uh france become fascist and you could argue that france was really the most fertile soil for fascism in europe certainly the most like politically where political anti-semitism was the most advanced uh and that a defeated france could have been absolutely ground zero for fascism but who knows uh i just want to shout out the person in the chat who i think correctly states that uh german victory could only have been achieved if pointy or helmet technology had been uh available at the 0:15:33 time yeah those pickle hubs needed to be much sharper for them to have any hands chance um let's see well the real the real counterfactual germany is what if the that's a real one yeah that i mean that was my take when we were just talking a moment ago about uh the the losers in the world war one cemetery they they were only losers and suckers because they didn't join with the internationalist movement right after all right i i do like that that the i am a fan i am loving the trump thing uh because the trump thing with the troops i mean obviously for one thing this is all exculpatory from guys like john kelly who just want to be they they hate trump but they still served him and they need to have that litigated in public so that they can have their sense of guilt assuaged in which case boo ***** who is your own fault uh and i gotta 0:16:34 say there's i can't think of greater ownage than kelly's standing there because his son died in iraq i believe uh and trump being like what were they doing what a bunch of losers why would you fight why would he get killed and that shows a fundamental friction point between different elements of like the ruling class because the military does require an ethic some sort of ethic of sacrifice right some sort of ethic of a higher good or else you wouldn't join the military but all of that higher good is in practice just doing the will of people like donald trump but the social contract is predicated on people like donald trump not saying that out loud they say thank you for your service they they give you the the the pathetic tributes to make up for the fact that your death was in vain uh and he just doesn't have the wherewithal or like emotional intellectual continence to not just say you're a ***** sucker for fighting and dying 0:17:35 for guys like me and john kelly just has to take it he just has to stand there and take it and then he leaks to the atlantic so that they can publish it a year later and he thinks he's doing something uh but it does make you wonder about like the the i've talked before about how the military is going to really be the deciding piece in any kind of crisis prolonged political crisis in this country and they're like they are the least they're sort of the most ideologically obscured element of the ruling class you know by day by definition by nature and it's and as a result it's harder to predict where they would go and how they would respond and that's why the military often in periods of crisis in different countries in different periods of time ends up just subsuming all politics within itself uh but not on one not on like the 0:18:38 cultural terms of one side or the other trying to transcend them which of course is silly and eventually doomed but they don't know that because they actually believed this ***** if they didn't they wouldn't be in the army they'd be making real money doing um did you see that uh that thing that was going around last week that poll that had uh the majority of the of military supporting biden yeah and apparently

officers more than enlisted men which some people were baffled by but for me that's pretty simple most officers in the military went to college yeah isn't that just college versus non-college it's college versus non-college that's the real battle like the like it's a civil war here between white people based on who went to college and and how that structures their alienation how that structures their like resentment and their anger and their frustration at being part of a system that is like dehumanizing them on a daily basis which we all feel to some extent or another you if we don't feel it personally we see it done to others around us and we fear it happening to ourselves and how we how we deal with that how we find the source for it is largely 0:19:41 dependent on the cultural the cultural baggage that we've accumulated either from our communities which tends to make people sort of uh like culturally reactionary or from the suite of opinions you get from the college uh uh process the the process of being acculturated into uh mr cringe 69 420 i can tell you right now the audio cushvlog feed exists as of this moment it is up i have uh i have levellated every kush vlog uh or mastered every klush vlog into mp3 form um and i'm in the process of publishing him only i've only had time to put 10 up on the feed so far i i still need to submit it to the itunes music store to get it populated in all the the catchers but 0:20:42 hopefully over the next few days i will upload every i think there are 71 or 72 this will be the 72nd uh kush vlog so hopefully by um by monday or so we'll have all those up and going and you'll be able to listen to these not only as live video broadcasts but also uh as a podcast in the next day or two afterwards after whenever i get them going so that is it's it's the progress moves forward um uh a guy in the chat mat asks for a shout out because they finished capital volume one last night they request an atta boy attaboy who what's their handle flank ocean flank ocean flank like you know like frankfurt and baby talk flank flank ocean well congrats on finishing uh capital it's bear by the way one of these cards it says intelligence file judaism jews believed god jesus believed god is above all and created everything accepting the ten commandments at sinai for the covenant or pact with god by observing god's 0:21:44 laws they gain their protections synagogues are the place and the saturday the day of rested worship the three main branches are orthodox conservative and reform so there we go now you have read the intelligence file on judaism i would like to i would i wonder what in like the cia archives if there is just a file labeled judaism and what is contained within it i would like to know as well um all right here's maybe a curveball i don't know if this is a good question or a bad question is there an argument to be made that trump is actually the harm reduction choice uh given the the possibility of stochastic like qnon based violence uh i i've thought about this and i think that there's the thing is is that there's the reason harm reduction is a silly cat way to go about all this stuff is that you don't know like you just said they said stochastic we don't know uh i think the q a on violence is inevitable i think human on violence 0:22:46 is gonna happen whether trump wins or loses uh but i i do think at this point it'll still be relatively disorganized it'll be you know the the least the most disturbed and the least coherent and the most sort of like violently attached members of the of the movement expressing themselves personally through violence and i think that's inevitable and that's going to get bigger but i don't think it's going to become like a a public health crisis you know on par with a coronavirus or something i honestly don't know how you can look at this situation and look at this political consensus and say that you're gonna be able to pick who's going to make things less terrible and the good news is you don't really have to spend that much time on it because as i keep saying voting your individual choice to vote for anyone is not really meaningful 0:23:49 so don't sweat it too hard do what you want if it feels like you if you feel like you should vote for biden don't feel like you have to like spend 40 days on top of a mountain to purge yourself of that feeling or if you feel like you don't want to vote at all or you want to vote for the party or you want to vote trump is an ironic bit don't spend too much time on like the the the moral question of it because all you end up doing is is building up the act of voting into this mythic self-defining act which is what they want you to think like the reason that we're able that we're one of the big reasons we are where we are is because people have ceded to voting a huge chunk of their sense of autonomy in life and their control over their future like the fact that we vote is supposed to be this thing that defines us as people and defines our destiny but it's really just what 100 million people just shuffling into a ***** uh place independently and just pressing a button there's no coordination there's 0:24:51 no pressure there's no meaningful uh uh organizing within like the voting public at large it's an individual choice and and it's you should probably only think about it as long as it takes to wait in line and then press the button and then that hole that used to be filled with asking these questions of yourself can be filled by asking questions that are um okay uh going off of the uh the kunan thing a few people are asking uh and this kind of i guess i guess this would frame in in something you were talking about maybe last week maybe the week before the the kind of everything is an op framework yes uh do you have any thoughts about the portland shooter being killed yesterday i'm seeing a lot of stuff that he was released from custody after like driving 110 miles on the highway with a kid in the car and guns and stuff and and 0:25:53 that he had like a totally apolitical instagram until like a couple months ago and a fresh blm tattoo and it's all very eyebrow raising certainly but uh but i guess i asked a question i have is for people who are like freaking out about this is okay now what like what what is how does this how does if he's an op if he's a cop what does it mean you know if the cops are out there doing provocateur ***** like and if they

think shooting a a patriot prayer guy is a good use of their time well then what does that tell you about like the efficacy of this movement in general like i i i if you're if you think that the if the that the cops have an interest in seeing tensions raised and stakes raised along violence i mean then doesn't that mean it's your responsibility to the degree that you can to not take them up on it doesn't that make sense or is it always the cops are going to do what they do and then we just use it as excuse to do whatever we wanted to do anyway and we never stop for a second to question okay like how does any of this fit into a broader but i don't know i have no idea if he was like an op or anything everything seems i mean i i certainly believe that in all these specific locations the cops are doing all kinds of ***** that we have no idea about uh but my if i had to guess i'd say it's probably local initiative i mean maybe it's like start part of some some cia uh uh gladio c operation but uh i mean if that's real if that if you really think that then i think it would the the next step would be reassess re uh evaluating like your entire orientation towards the current moment instead of just uh more questions yeah uh all right i saw somebody asking this a little earlier and i almost want to bring it up just because it was something i was thinking about or getting irritated about the other day um which is uh i was listening to uh i was on a run listening to pod safe america as i do still still i mean it look it makes me run faster because when i get done with the run i can stop listening to it uh but they were doing their trip their now normal thing of um you know uh now the work is to get the only goal the only thing is to get trump out of office and then we can start the hard really hard necessary work to fixing all of the structural things that got trump into office in the first place and somebody in the chat was asking what happens to the democrats after trump because their seemingly their only organizing principle right now is not trump and this is the thing that i was like hitting myself in the head with a hammer listening to these guys to talk about because there is no principle beyond this like what is the work of the democrats after trump uh i don't know i would just want to wha what are you saying restoring dignity to the office getting the cheeto dust out of the drapes in the oval office just just vacuuming for four years getting all the damn cheeto dust out of the place i would say that that if there is an argument for biden it's that biden and his party presiding over the current crisis uh the insufficiency of that response is going to be pretty clear and pretty dramatic and there will be none of the obama patina that protected him from a serious like left response during his presidency people's people are beyond that the problem is the question is whether or not like that alienation from the democrats will be organized and turned into anything coherent or if it will just result in a further disaffection from politics in general in which case the electorate shrinks even further and to the advantage of the q lunatics who will become the only active base of engaged political

citizens in this country because no one else will have any reason to believe that their vote will ever yeah or the things that like you know the to the extent that the uh democratic vote is is mobilized right you know i don't think for most normal people it's you know i want to say hysterical just in the tone of it but i don't think that the 0:31:1 actual response of a trump presidency is is totally hysterical but socially certainly tonally but you know i guess the worry is that it becomes the uh people do just get to go back to brunch right and then without an organizing principle after that what happens to that version of the electorate we've proven that nothing at least the democrats have proven that that they are committed to not investing in changing anything so what is the organizing principle to motivate an electorate after that and it appears to be nothing so i mean this you know just recapping what you're saying about the only people motivated are the people who are convinced that they need to oust the satanic sub-government from yes from from the actual government yes and i mean if there's any hope it's that there's not going to be as many places to go to brunch anyway my brunch will be cancelled i keep on rolling back and forth in my head that this election is the beautiful oh it's true though it's very true um 0:32:2 let's see what else somebody was posting about zachary taylor in here but i think it got removed by the auto mod somebody's trying to suppress zachary taylor truth yes there is a conspiracy theory about zachary taylor uh it's that he was poisoned by pro-confederate forces because of his resistance to uh the the southern demands for the territory seized from mexico being open to slavery uh which was headed towards a a irresolvable crisis when he just dropped dead and so there was a theory for many years that it was there was some uh slave power conspiracy to poison him and he was actually exhumed a few years ago yes i remember this they clipped his hair because they thought it might have been arsenic because an arsenic will linger in the hair samples for hundreds of years after death uh but they didn't find any apparently he just drank the doodoo water he drank the dude water although the time they said it 0:33:4 was because he took he went for a ride in the sun and he was all sweaty and then he just housed a bunch of cherries and milk and it killed him which is which is the way people used to die because no one knew what was happening so they would just say the last thing they ate like there was a an english king i forget who's like stomach was supposedly exploded because he ate too many eels it's too many i remember yeah i know the eels guy yeah yeah so so was just like i don't know man he just ate all those ***** cherries that he just killed over uh but it was probably the culprit was probably the same culprit for the death of harrison and probably polk too the giant stagnant pond of human ***** that was a few hundred yards behind the uh let's see what else uh somebody's asking me who your favorite fictional president is i feel like you've talked about fictional presence a lot on on this stream specifically have i you i think you did a whole segment about fictional presidents once who's the 0:34:5 best fictional president um i like uh jack nicholson in uh mars attacks because he's completely ineffectual has no idea what's going on and just gets ***** owned after giving a fancy speech that's supposed to solve everything uh he has the right level of smarminess for a true president earth um all right in lieu of anything better uh somebody keeps asking if you could choose a historical war and make it go the other way which would you do while you're thinking i will say no i do not have five gamer chairs in my room you're looking at two different angles of the same uh fabled chapo 0:35:6 office yeah that's not chris's place he does not have five gamer chairs and these aren't even gamer chairs they're just office chairs people are weirdos this doesn't have to have the name of like a ***** uh of an energy drink on it to be uh to be a gamer chair uh speaking of gaming if anybody in the chat uh has ever encountered a problem with the geforce rtx ti graphics card uh not accepting drivers on windows and um not recognizing dual monitor setups the geforce rtx ti slide into dms because i could use some tech help because this office computer is not responding to me um anyway uh give us an office tour here uh check this ***** out it goes there there and that's ***** it that's it it's just one big room it's full of old t-shirts and ***** yeah we 0:36:7 got a lot of t-shirts here uh uh fictional war oh no uh real war right real war real war you want to go fictionally yeah uh i mean the tanky answer is obviously the uh the soviet polish war uh and that's that's interesting but honestly i think at that point it probably wouldn't have mattered i don't think that they were gonna roll over anybody because at that point germany was was solidifying behind reaction uh i don't know it's always hard to find like a war that uh that is like contingent enough that the the the that the outcome could have been different and there but also significant enough that that would have had like long lasting repercussions maybe 0:37:9 the taiping rebellion the the the there's no question that the uh uh that the king the king the man shoes had ***** absolutely lost the mandate of heaven and them holding on for another 50 years was was pretty perverse basically any modern war the british won uh anything else good in the uh in the the cards some good cards uh the ticonderoga class cruiser that's a the persian gulf we love it very important where all of our oil comes from and the big dog here the m1a1 that's our guy right 0:38:11 there powered by a revolutionary gas turbine engine the m1a1 is a heavy main battle tank with a speed and agility of a light armored vehicle we got to pick up a few of these chris these sound great uh they can't be uh they can't be too much on the uh on the resale market at this point right now there's got to be a ton of them with 1500 horsepower the abrams can traverse flat terrain at 45 miles an hour rugged terrain poses no problem for its unique hydro-pneumatic suspension system the abrams was the stalwart of the operation desert storm ground attack um matt did you happen

to read uh president xi's recent article on marx's political economy in contemporary china no but that sounds interesting i would like i i am kind of interested i would like to know more about like how the hell the chinese like party members square all this ***** like they have to know that they're not doing communism right now but do they think do they have a plan for doing communism or are they just kind of kicking the can down the road like our guys are where you have like a vague understanding that you have principles that you adhere to but for the most part they are sacrificed eternally on the altar of expedience or are they like really pushing towards something i have no idea and i don't know enough one way or the other it's i'm certainly a little skeptical frankly of uh of the of the project but that's because i have no idea but yeah i'd like to read that uh yeah i obviously know nothing about uh contemporary chinese china but i'm always curious as to who the audience is for an article like that or like you know actual i think it's it's members i mean remember there's millions of people in the chinese communist party you know and they have varying levels of commitment to the ideology of it and uh and that's his whole like his whole marxist revival is clearly aimed at that grassroots i just don't know how like effective it is or or how meaningful it even is if even if anybody at any level of power anymore is operating off of anything other than the most emergency sense of like uh of of managing crisis in the moment with no long-term goals beyond survival um someone keeps asking uh if we'll do an episode on this i don't know if we'd ever do an episode on this but uh do you have any takes on the zodiac killer and he's not talking bruce uh i do think it's funny the two separate guys have written books saying their dad was a zodiac killer i think that's pretty funny a lot of people working out family issues through the lens of unsolved murder cases uh i don't know i have no idea i i i don't even have a theory as to who did it i don't really think that the zodiac movie theory the grace smith theory is really true but i don't have any alternative one that i think is more plausible it's honestly not even that interesting a case when you strip it of the of the media angle which of course explains why it's so enduringly popular anybody who writes to the media especially in the in the in that era when newspapers were the defining like architecture of like civic engagement uh those guys are always gonna live forever like nobody remembers gary ridgway because he editor uh let's see all right you've been talking about this a little bit i i don't even know really what this question means but it'd be a good time to just make some compare generalized comparisons uh you've been reading the uh the reagan land book yeah i just finished it you're you know about the invisible bridge yeah do you think our current time resembles the 1970s there's a case to be made that we're in a similar crisis but the thing about the 70s was is that is that the new deal consensus the new deal great society consensus was was buckling but there was emerging an alternative

and and it was coming it was being created along ideological axis and political axis by figures like milton friedman and ronald reagan and the mount perlin society you know there was there was this free market uh uh uh supply-side political ideology uh that was waiting in the wings and that was being formed out of the crisis of the collapse of the new neoconsensus to replace it i think we're in a similar crisis point for that reaganite consensus that we've been living with for 40 years but there is no emergent alternative that that's what distinguishes this time from that and that's what's so terrifying about the moment because like the the the reagan revolution was the sort of the final the final domination of politics by markets like the final the final seeding of any even illusion of political autonomy on the part of the political class to finance uh and but once that final transfer has been made there's no one else to hand it off to there's no one else to take power because you have obliterated the political spirit you've turned it into a pure spectacle you've turned it into a pure zone of disengaged resentment which means that when the wheels start falling off there is no formation to resist it and and of course the reason the reason that we ended up with the reagan uh realignment is because there was this capital intensive effort to create an alternative but now there is there's nothing else there's no viable alternative to just stripping the ***** uh wiring yeah and this kind of goes back to the thing that i was asking about like you know what is the project of the democrats post-trump it's i think it's telling about that lack of alternatives that the last two major political movements have been very held up in creating popular opposition to the person of somebody yeah the tea party and the popular right-wing revulsion that at least in its broadest considerations were a revulsion at the person of barack obama barf sacko crumble yeah and then the that resulting in plus other factors resulting in trump and then at this point two months out from the uh the 2020 election that the popular formulation of the democrats is mostly a revulsion to the person of donald trump yes yeah that there there is no force to be considered at least in the broad minds of the populace it's just these these guys that we gotta get out of there we gotta get this guy out of here we gotta get him out of here and then it'll be okay and then it'll be okay uh i think what the republicans found out is that is that once your guy is out of there things don't get any better but man it's fun watching the libs get pissed and that then becomes its own its own mana its own ambrosia its own opiate uh and i don't think the libs got anywhere near that kind of satisfaction from watching the conservatives freak out about obama especially after the midterms in 2010 and and it's hard to imagine them getting any real satisfaction out of watching biden be president especially since it's really some people have said that like biden might actually be able to deliver on his promise of de-escalating the cultural conflict just because he himself is such a bland empty vessel that he he doesn't contain any of

like the red flags that enrage i mean there's a reason that trump constantly says that biden's not actually in charge of the democratic party that it's the squad and that it's antifa because the person of biden can't sustain that anxiety and that terror the way that the person of barack hussein obama could and i don't know if that's true i suspect it isn't certainly if you know they carry out the the the austerity response that they're likely to pursue but at the same time obama just biden does seem to be such a symbolically empty figure on both sides that it makes me feel that we're 0:47:32 we're probably not going to see some sort of ratcheting down just because conditions are going to keep getting worse but the the thing people fight about is probably not going to be the person of the president it could be but it just seems hard to sustain unless kamala harris becomes president uh let's see what else here's something i'm kind of interested in this is a real grab bag because i'm just like going going with whatever pieces let's do it my interest let's be popping scat do you think there's anything to the seeming popularity of the true crime in podcasts and media why over the last like really in the trump first trump administration there's been this explosion of true crime media i mean obviously there's some kind of pathology that we're working out there that we're we're excising yeah absolutely i think it's it's we 0:48:33 want to feel we want to feel the danger that we know is there but we can't see we need to we want to psychically enact violence and trauma that is absolutely suffusing our lives but is for most of us the ones of us who listen to podcasts largely out of view and there's something agonizing about that there's something agonizing psychically about living in a milieu that feels savage that feels like it's fraying like a social fabric that is dissolving but crime isn't really up you know like people aren't experiencing more violent crime we've had a spike in the last few months which i said was gonna happen when people started dropping like flies and the economy collapsed it's it's absolutely predictable but you know this obviously predates that significantly and predates kovid uh we want some sort of way to psychically imagine and enact this 0:49:34 sense of danger that is permeating everything but is unspoken yeah and then i think it's putting on my podcast producer hat it's that and then it's just like an endlessly rich source of text that you can just like pull up a wikipedia article and have a podcast episode ready to go well that's the other big thing is that it is it is public domain information yes that can be easily and cheaply mulled over for an audience which considering the uh the nature of podcasting and its specific like low overhead for you know uh production costs and content uh it's it's sort of like an improv thing like okay give me give me a give me a give me a fast food restaurant uh and a murder 0:50:37 weapon and then we'll just do an episode okay somebody got beaten to death with a milkshake machine at a dairy queen go and then you can talk about that for an hour um i don't want to blow up their spot too much but uh chapo recently got dethroned by another podcast uh called true crime obsessed there's two people who used to do a broadway theater news podcast expect one of the hosts i believe was the host of the official disney on broadway podcast doing a true crime broadcast that is very uh yas queenie about murder victims i think they only review like 48 hours documentaries about murders and stuff wait a minute they just watch a tv show and talk about it so they're not even doing the research of reading the wikipedia article yes wow uh so you can imagine how innervated i got when i discovered that this thing exists uh and i encourage you all to look it up and just google true crime obsessed and and 0:51:38 and check out their web presence and see uh just imagine how uh irritated i became when i discovered this show you know what though at the same time like politics is another thing like that it's another thing you can respond it's it's public domain information that every it's a baseline thing you can talk about without having to have any kind of expertise which is really what people are looking for when they're looking for things to to to provide shape for their podcast uh attempt yeah and and honestly no shade on anybody i don't even care that they're number one on patreon everybody should get it we're doing fine on patreon it's it's independent podcasting is is i i truly believe in it as a the value of independent media but yes as the person pointed out they are literally soy facing in their landing page photo to their true crime true cri uh uh gary ridgway ah um gary ridgeway you're so small uh ah you're small oh my god you're uh you're your truck but your truck bed is so nice yeah what 0:52:39 else what else is going on uh on here politics is true crime you know what that's true it's true they are it's the same thing yeah it's the same thing it's like it's just it's about the level of abstraction like for some people it's too abstract to talk about politics when you could be talking about a person getting chopped up by ginsu knives and put into a series of uh of mailboxes like that is more that's more they connect more to that they can visualize it much more easily than they can visualize political process but it's also it's either way you're you're you're graphically describing trauma and horror it's it's almost only about the uh the scale of time that things are enacted you know yeah yeah exactly yeah and the intensity uh let's see let's see what 0:53:42 else uh well i add the pete buda judge podcast to my rotation i don't think so though i have considered doing a um the new york review of uh podcasts i kind of want to just listen to the top five non-daily politics podcasts which right now include um on any given week like the the pete potted cast is one uh ben shapiro is always up there the den dan cranshaw and dan bongino bongo gino oh god uh podcasts are always in the top five pot news and cranshaw has a podcast yeah i kind of want to just listen to all five no takes it's like he's so ***** boring uh he's just yeah i kind of want to just listen to all like one week of all five of the top five news and politics episodes and then do an episode like a solo episode reviewing them i would be interested in

that i would i would want you to do it because i don't want to listen to that ***** uh maybe maybe some week where i have a kind of down week of producing i'll i'll do that and and let all of you know what dan bogono bonobo uh they have a card 0:54:45 here for every country that provided any assets to the war in iraq the persian the gulf war so there's one here for sierra leone who sent 200 troops there's one here for finland who provided economic assistance and support of the international red cross military hospital wow thanks guys yeah totally cool um all right we're coming up on an hour here uh let's try to get maybe one more question of of substance and then yeah and then a silly one yes that sounds good uh so uh other than just misspellings of um oh my god so this is nigeria right listen to this a former french colony nigeria 0:55:47 gained its independence in 1958 its geography is strongly influenced by the sahara arab land constituting three percent supports peanuts cotton and millet uranium is a principal export yeah remember the yellow cake that they didn't get from oh yeah the yellow cake uh trading partners include france nigeria and japan in recent years drought and famine have plagued the country nigeria is a member of the united nations and the coalition forces can't even list the contribution like their name is on like a document saying go for it uh the it is not a nato deck of cards it is golf war one playing cards um trading cards they're trading cards yeah um all right i'm looking for something with a little more substance i think the best thing i have is a 0:56:48 somebody keeps asking if police privatization is in our near future uh i mean i guess the question is near it's inevitable like privatization of everything i mean there will be no in the in the medium term if things aren't if the if the arc isn't bent you know if if we don't change the relationship between citizens and capital everything will be privatized because there will be no public sphere there will be no public space there will be no public agreed upon reality it will be completely replaced by technocratic uh technological coercion and market coercion and that's when you're talking about like if anyone's read oryx and crake i've always thought that that book has one of the most uh chillingly realistic depictions of like america's near future especially since it's just the current existence in many parts of the world that already exist which is you have limited areas of of control by certain economic actors who are able to create 0:57:50 networks of security and resources for people who provide services for them in the form of employment uh but and then outside of that it's just everybody for themselves in sort of a makeshift uh like return to the hobbsian state of nature but with uh with tick tock all right this is one of the cards here swear to guard is government canadian national anthem i don't know why they're ***** sucking off the canadians so much here since 1980 the national canadian national anthem has been oh canada before then the official anthem had been god save the king or queen o canada was written by calixia lavalier in 1880 for a contest held by a french canadian organization to select a national anthem the words in french were written later by sir edelf but did not gain wide acceptance until 1908 when they were translated into english by s r s weir so keep that in mind when you watch the um let's do one more yeah one 0:58:51 more question um wither hollywood matt what happens with all these this after this year of zero movies uh is there any more is this the end of the current formulation of the hollywood system um i mean it does it seems inevitable to me i don't know how hollywood comes back from this i mean maybe we get a vaccine and people go back and there's like this mania for return but but like in other areas of the economy the ***** hollywood was these movies were losing money you know comparatively like the profit was going down i mean yeah like avengers can make a zillion dollars uh but but they had to concentrate movies like adventures yeah exactly like they're concentrating into ridiculous profit margins we're in fewer profit making movies that require larger and larger investments to even break even uh and er there's there's 0:59:54 just been a steady erosion of of box office uh income over the years like profitability of particular films so that was before covet so i think we're probably going to see a move towards just streaming everything's going to be streaming everything's going to be low budget forever streaming you're looking at the future of content people yeah and then cloud atlas is great i love the cloud i love cloud atlas too and then there might be a few movies a year that go to like i don't even know if they would be theaters i don't even know like maybe it's like gonna be there's gonna be like a big screen that comes down at dave and buster's to watch the new avengers movie i think movie theaters will forever be around us maybe even as a boutique experience because going to the movies rocks i love going to the movies but there's there is a it's going to be like you said it'll be a boutique experience it'll be like revival houses like apparently that's how a lot a number of theaters have have been showing old 1:0:56 movies during covet and uh i could see that as being viable but there's only going to be a few movies a year i think that are going to get theatrical releases or are going to be expected to make their money through theatrical release most of the money is going to be made uh through streaming i do love going to the movies i love it too i can't wait i would love to go back to out to the movies i'm not going to go see tenet though uh yeah it i do think that they absolutely must uh actually do an oscars this year yeah so this controlled world tour can win everything yeah so that trolls two wins beck's best picture uh and cats uh you know uh best direction and stuff like that um i i think they have to do it just because it would be funny um like scene tenet in the chat i thought 10 was it impossible to see not you could see it elsewhere and i think there's there are like uh now bootlegs available but it's been released in 1:1:57 other countries it's just not released here and apparently it is going to be released this week in theaters that are like allow them to be to be viewed so you will be able to hypothetically see it in the united states all right if you're willing to take your life in your hands i'm going to pay 4 000 uh dollars to get one of six seats available in an imax theater to stay distanced um all right well this has been a kind of low low low key just yeah this is this is basically a test of uh capacity here yeah we're i guess just some programming notes uh you know we can't really say much about it but matt and i were have been at the office this week uh because we have a fun new project in the pipeline yes uh so um you know we we might be broadcasting from here a few more times uh then uh usual just because we're coming in here to do some work um 1:2:59 as always the old style of of matt streams the the the kush vlog classic will never disappear never uh even if we move to this in a kind of full-time way uh we will we will try to always uh or in regular fashion do a big chunk of matt going off uh solo at the beginning and then maybe do some questions and eventually if i fix that ***** graphics card we can play some games in here that is the dream i wanna i wanna play some games but again if you know anything about uh how to fix the geforce rtx 280 ti uh code 43 not recognized by windows uh hit me up and thank you to the person who already messaged oh perfect we're already getting info thank god also um i am running home to go do a music video happy hour stream on my channel uh with molly for and introducing our music podcast that'll start around seven seven ish on twitch.tv slash the chris wade if you want to watch some music videos and have a few drinks friday evening come watch us it's doing it beyonce power hour i believe beyonce power hour yes it's her birthday molly put together a power hour 1:4:2 for her uh and oh i thought it was so funny that that forbes list came out and they put beyonce on the 40 under 40 this year like what why does beyonce need to be on a 40 under 40 list because she's going places she i keep an eye out for this beyonce girl um what else oh as i said earlier in the stream but some people might not have seen it i i am the the kush vlog audio only podcast stream is launched it's not it's it's public but i haven't posted a link to it anywhere it only has 10 episodes the first 10 episodes in it over the weekend i'm gonna throw all the other 62 episodes in it uh hopefully by the early next week all the kush logs will be available publicly as podcasts in addition to the live stream in addition to their i think that's all the content news i have i think you did it right he did it buddy well done well so are we feeling good anything i'm feeling good i'm feeling i'm feeling good we'll be all right i think we'll all be all right everybody don't worry about it we'll be fine all right well 1:5:3 then until next time uh cyanuram foreign happy labor day everybody of course i probably don't have to tell you guys that labor day is fake that it was a psyop assembl essentially uh and that it was created explicitly to remove the working classes association with mayday which was a day of international working-class solidarity that sprung out of the which happened 0:1:6 on may 1st and the building on you know traditions of european may day rituals and all that and associated with harvest with labor you know with work it was a little too radical it was getting people all riled up they started thinking oh man maybe uh maybe we can should do something together you know as a working class who labor and so they created labor day a de politicized uh official carnival of of labor as an abstract concept like with microship where you extol all the things that are true about unalienated labor and apply them to alienated labor which is just the devil's own uh trickery you could even say that that's like the root of like cultural 0:2:10 superstructure recreating uh capitalism you have to have some degree of investment from the people being ruled even if it's coercive there has to be an element of of uh belief if not you know in the virtue and the worthiness of the system they find themselves under then under a preference for life over death or preference for uh being free than for being in prison like you have to have something like that and one of the chief pillars of that is called mystification is mystifying uh what life is by emphasizing all that is good and all that is healthy about social existence and applying it intentionally but over time just reproducing by reflex onto the awful system that we actually live under that undercuts and undermines all of that good stuff it contains that good stuff because it contains everything but it it is not it 0:3:13 doesn't generate those things those things are generated by us as people the system generates all that is awful uh but we confuse the difference and so mike rowe can go around explaining all the virtues of of of duty and discipline and uh and so satisfaction that come with a job well done all of which are 100 true but only on the behalf of oneself in concert with others a collaborative relationship that suffuses our life with uh ease and comfort and a sense of satisfaction because we know that we're building a community of friends a community that is safe and secure because it is consensual but that's not how labor works under capitalism it is wildly alienated and stripped of all goodness and and that is the source of but ideology doesn't 0:4:15 make a distinction it just takes the whole of society and and subliminally even if it's critiquing it reinforces them as things that flow out of what we like to call human nature which is of course more ***** more propaganda human nature i mean there is a human nature there are fundamental human responses to certain conditions uh but they are malleable they come from our encounter with the world is we find it as we come into consciousness and how what that is will shape our response to it there's nothing natural about that other than the fact that it is it appears to us to be in nature this is an interesting question someone asked they say was was that 0:5:25 um that equalization of or that increase in labor share of profit that happened after world war ii totally contingent on the devastation of world war of world war ii and it's yes 100 uh there was enough to go around basically where those in power found it more more of more utility to neutralize the threat of the working class by buying them off to the degree that they could because there was money to buy them off and that's because the us stood alone in the post-war world as the industrial dynamo of the entire non-communist earth and that require and also we were in conflict with another system communism which was a direct threat and you can argue that it wasn't really ideological it was more just well there were russians we're americans and it's about who's being in charge who gets the who gets the access to the choices spoils of the imperial world system uh but either way they were a real danger and the working class were a potential vulnerability if if there was too much self-conscious 0:6:26 radicalization among the working class which there was a ton of before world war ii uh and was terrifying and the more advanced forms of forces of capital divorce the world finance capital the world the capital that like work had an olympian removed from the economy made a deal because it made sense but that deal started breaking apart first from the political perspective because there was that segment of small producers who made up the backbone of like the emergent conservative movement which in the context of the 50s in the context of the 60s was stupid it was why would you destabilize this deal we have with labor when there's so much ***** money to go around but that was not a sustainable system because part of fighting the soviets was building up these former enemies of ours who'd been destroyed because if we let them stay wrecked they would be vulnerable to overthrow and consolidation behind the iron curtain so we had to build back japan we had to build back germany we 0:7:29 had to circulate the ***** currency and circulating the currency at the center profit was still being made of course but it was no longer being made at the center and to be distributed to workers it was being internationalized but word labor was not and so when when when the economy was re-established after the turbulence the

CUSHVLOG 75. NERMAL WORLD

the the destabilization of the 70s it was reestablished on the neutralization of labor power and the and the the decision was made at the highest levels volcker carter uh the builder the ***** uh carlyle group uh the business roundtable the chamber of commerce that the problems stagflation were going to be solved by the and the problems of declining profits which were finally biting in would be solved by taking it from the labor share of value and that meant breaking labor as a countervailing 0:8:30 force in american politics which is what both parties got together to do and so that raises a question asked by the person in the comments that well does that mean that we can't have another world war we can't have a restoration of the of that post-war like labor share without some sort of massive uh conflict and the thing is is that if you want to keep the system as it is yeah like there's no more money to go around like the the the bernie kind of pitches his pitched his thing and a lot of people believed it on the premise of we're going to go back to the good old days we're going to have high labor participation high union participation and organization of our working class and we're going to have them be at the table for these discussions and labor share value is going to increase but there's not they can't maintain a system that way due to the fact that this thing is all a high house of cards it's all built on 0:9:31 speculative bubbles that require massive amounts of money and specifically loss of amounts of money concentrated at the hands of the very top it's not a negotiable stance and that's why like and that's why i think the people but a lot of people saw that and said well ***** bernie ***** the point of this this is stupid jack me off forever uh and to me to that if i say no he might not be right about that the people who believe that might not be right about that but bernie at the point at that point and i still think this is true was the best chance we had to stand up any kind of working-class organization at all in this country any kind of beginning uh like uh to brief to reconnect the severed nerve endings of the american like working class so that this crisis could be met when it came and when moments of real potential rupture emerge in the best position to engage them and to make demands instead of being like they were in the 70s the sacrificial goat and one of the reasons it was 0:10:33 allowed to happen is because no one thought it could happen like the people at the top like the ***** teamsters endorsed uh reagan you know who else endorsed reagan in 1980 ***** patco the air air traffic controllers who he would summarily fire and mask when they went on strike a few years later because they thought carter's ***** up well maybe reagan will give us a better deal nobody had got the memo that this was all over that both parties were just going to sever the connective tissue there they were going to cut the spine out of so but and and so even if i think that's true i don't necessarily think that even now post-bernie a political movement has to lead with we are going to have to marshal our forces for an apocalyptic confrontation with

capital because as i have said a billion times there aren't enough people who already agree with those premises and you can't you cannot have any faith any confident confidence that you can convince them especially since all the people who think they can convince them are only adept at arguing in this hot hot box of people who have already accepted all of their premises and that they essentially don't have the because that harkening back to the new deal era it is a rhetoric it has a rhetorical effect and that rhetorical effect especially for older voters uh is to remind them of a time when things weren't so ***** shitty and and reorient their thought of why oh man jessica krug i love how there is no chance that this thing is going to lead to any reflection of any of the yahoos involved in this any of the dummies who are part and parcel of that ***** farce no one's gonna say hey isn't it weird that somebody could just say all the right ***** and essentially uh uh like frank abagnale them themselves into uh into the halls of the academy just knowing the right words and knowing the right way to act and the right way to respond to any challenge and can do whatever they want there's no concern if anyone doesn't know what i'm talking about there's a woman who is recently outed a self-outed i don't know why maybe she couldn't handle the pressure anymore or it was going to come out eventually where she admitted that she she had risen she'd become an academic of like some sort of race theory uh from and the whole time presenting as like an a latina an afro latina even though she was very light-skinned very light-skinned and she spoke with some sort of like what she claimed was a and no one objected no one challenged her really and and no one is out no one's going to look at this at all no one is going to think maybe this is stupid maybe we have bad maybe our maybe standpoint theory has inherent problems with it maybe the idea that all you have to do is invoke your identity in order to defeat an argument or neutralize a concern leads you open to people who can do whatever the ***** she wants right so she's saying someone challenged her on it but how long did it take how long did it take and there was one person who posted a uh a screenshot of a uh of a dm exchange they had with her where she actually did say you know how where so you're black and she goes yeah and she's like ah well in what way i mean you just presented white and she's like i don't identify with the colonizers and she just uses a bunch of the buzzwords and the lady kind of goes okay and just sort of keeps going and in the thread she said uh i was suspicious but i didn't want to do respectability politics and for people who don't know what that means there's this like line of argument that says that anybody who is like in a in a in a in a oppressed category in america is under no obligation to to uh there's no under no moral obligation to adhere to any standards of like decorum in argumentation or in scholarship or in politics because they are bad faith attempts to neutralize radicalism and are inherently racist because they're prejudging like what might be like authentic uh cultural practices and this incident really shows that you can make that argument all day from a moral perspective that i have the moral right to act that way to act the way i want to to speak my truth and not not worry that the white man is going to concern troll me but once again because these arguments are all one-dimensional no one asks a question like well does it make sense for me to do that does it make sense to operate from that principle in in in the terms of negotiating life with other people because remember there's not there's not just a moral dimension to a question because all these people were talking about the need about how bad respectability politics are are doing it in the context of advancing what they say is social justice they're saying we want social justice and they say by us being active we will bring it about but if that's the case and if you believe that then you are obligated to not just examine every decision through a moral lens removed from practicality you also have to ask yourself what is this going to do if i act this way and the answer for this respectability politics thing is it disarms everybody it makes you ultra paranoid about everybody unless they say the right words and in this case you can just be awful and obnoxious to people and they will essentially be disarmed by that partially because they don't want to do respectability politics but most of all i think this is very much part of it brian quimby has pointed out that that owning conservatives by saying that you were in the military i think he said liberals but it's true of conservatives too uh is perfect because they will never doubt you they will never challenge you because to them that is anathema that is a taboo beyond taboo and so therefore no one could ever even do that if they couldn't think of it no one could think of it this is one of those lacunae things i'm talking about they cannot conceive of stealing valor so of course no one else would at least until they like see evidence of it or like those guys who are like freaks and like obsess about it they have their own weird thing we're normal people who are like really reverent about uh about serving uh either if they did or didn't that's an anthem and this is a this is the liberal version of that like lying about your race transgressing against people through like a racial uh appropriation certainly like taking a spot that might go to a a platform that might go to a minority is absolutely unthinkable and so they can't even imagine uh someone doing it and that means that you're totally disarmed you can't argue anything because how are you going to know what anybody's intentions are you can't say well you know you go by who they are you could say i can go by who they are but what if they're lying and and more importantly what if the fact that they are a certain identity doesn't actually mean they know what they're talking about on a given subject because we can it's pretty easy to see that there is no universal standpoint from any one particular if there were there would be no black at least according to the thinking of these people like they're talking about like

what emergent uh uh insights come from being having a particular experience i mean 0:18:47 if if they're not universal then i did have a very nice weekend thank you someone said that uh asked if i had a nice weekend it was a good one it's been nice so far kind of uh taking the day slow after yesterday kind of went hard ah uh someone 0:20:4 what do i think of the lodge 49 ending sadly i don't really think it had one i mean it was pretty clearly intended to have another at least one more season and i honestly think that it could have really like brought the strands together even just one more so i really hope it gets another season somewhere i know at this point it's a slim read but that last scene of the last episode is so ***** awesome and evocative and it just demands another season but lodge 49 it's like people's it's it i mean people are saying give me the business for talking about a prestige show but i think part of the big reason that it's not popular was it that it didn't follow a lot of the of the necessary elements of prestige show one of them that i think gets under discussed is how and this is really weird when people want to insist that like television is the new 0:21:6 high art how many of those shows are genre shows essentially are are some sort of of like uh plot first structure like even the sopranos which of course isn't really a mob thing you know it's a deconstruction but still has the structure and certainly the like scenes content of a genre production and that's true of like the wire deadwood and uh breaking bad fargo like like the best of this genre is still genre stuff and it's like i'm not disparaging genre chef i mostly watch it because it's fun and i like it and i have kind of middle brow tastes i'm not gonna front but what i don't do is i don't act like this is the ceiling of ***** uh like art now and the people who assume it is is uh it's baffling i mean it's not baffling i think i understand why you know people have essentially given up on anything better i don't think it's a useless to 0:22:9 talk about genre shows because i think the thing about genre programs is that they include certain elements that are designed to indulge the audience and you can say they have other things they do like genre isn't all a good you know all dumb there's plenty of great genre movies i love a lot of fantastic genre films and shows some too but there is still a there's a indulgence at the center of it that i think adulterates to some degree the artistic intent uh and once again that doesn't make it bad and it doesn't make me not to be engaged with it just means that if you want to actually have like a well-rounded artistic diet and you want to feel like you are you know challenging yourself which is the point of art to some degree it's not only that but it's partially that then you should really challenge yourself and part of that involves engaging with things that do not indulge you along certain and the fact that we've 0:23:13 even lost the vocabulary to talk about art that way indicates the way the culture has been deadened someone said that tacking toward critical praise attenuates and two yes it does but look even in that case one of the reasons that genre one of the reasons

that prestige shows stopped being even interesting after a very short time is that very quickly uh they went from a creator having an idea and then trying to pursue it to a creator having an idea and then tacking off of subconsciously or consciously the response from the media because there was a mutually reinforcing dynamic especially in the early arts in the early internet era between critics validating television as an art form and creators of shows making those programs and that's one of the things that i think is most annoying to me about fargo even though i really like it i think the the achilles heel for that show is that i think it is far too conscious of of the critical like consensus around uh what makes good tv and that means it is good because the guys making it are very and guys and gals making it are very good at hitting those benchmarks but they're limited also by those benchmarks which are built around this need to reinforce a consensus around like what makes good tv that is inherently inherently deformed because the the form is inherently deformed and like latch 49 doesn't really have a lot of the stuff that gets bells and whistles going in the critical warehouses but it's really good i would say that madmen did not have the traditional genre trappings but i but anytime you're dealing with uh i don't know i i think the way they shot the 60s and like the specific way that that era is just so evocative of like an american the american renaissance like our greatest moment culturally in terms of like total confidence in in our in our hegemony uh and and a a futuristic forward-looking approach to all cultural issues which reflected itself in that fantastic aesthetic and madman really really leaned into the aesthetic of the 60s which helped prop up its critical reputation in a way that was not necessarily you know uh artistic intent but i understand that that was also like part of the part of the artistic intent was to lure people in with that and then reveal the harsh underbelly but at the same time it's like oh really wow you're gonna tell me you're gonna tell me something david i do love deadwood i have to say i haven't watched it since i haven't rewatched it since it came once since i first watched it which is years ago now but i don't think it's i don't think i'm worried about it not being as good as i think it is because i'm pretty sure it's great but i don't know i kind of like having it in my memory i didn't really like the deadwood movie too much honestly i understand what he was trying to do it was it was just sort of it was kind of fitting because that movie is is like the movie is about the the movie is about these characters dealing with the traumatic after effects of going through the experiences in the first three seasons uh while also being a meta like uh grief expression about the show's untimely cancellation like it's about the it's about death but it's also about the death of deadwood the premature death of deadwood because the plot of it if anyone has seen it is basically just a compressed version of the third season the plot points like he even beats up hearst and puts him in the jail again uh and it's because and they kill charlie utter

which is basically a what's his name jim beaver's character uh ellsworth that's it not farnsworth um but that's because it's like we didn't get a chance to end the show and and what they probably what he had what milk and those guys had in mind for the fourth or fifth season was probably too ambitious to cram in satisfactorily into a two-hour movie but what they could do is like have a chance to grieve for what they never got to make and i feel like that's kind of the meta text of the deadwood movie which i get why they made that and i get why that was a thing that made sense to do with the limitations of just trying to put this capstone at the end of this huge project and considering how many years later it is and how much visibly older everyone is which means that all the like the the evocations of death and like grief are even more appointed uh so it has those resonances that are good but like after all that time it's a little it's a i haven't seen planet of the humans people say it's echofash i don't really uh i someone's asking about chinese action movies not really i did see the wall but the great wall right that was the name of it one with matt damon which i thought was really funny because people got mad at that for cultural appropriation because a white guy was leading the movie even though it was an all ge all chinese production that was like an attempt to make a chinese blockbuster and they wanted a ***** american movie star because people recognize american movie stars uh no but anyway i know that doesn't count the one that people keep talking to me about is wolf warrior 2 because it's so hilariously like an american action movie flipped over because the americans are the bad guys and he like owns the ***** out of them uh but i essentially need to know if there's cgi and i kind of assume there is and if i don't know if i can get over that honestly like i'm trying to get to the point where i don't complain about squibs so much by them i do like now how how like they're getting pretty overt with the with the propaganda the chinese propaganda in in all their stuff i like that i like that we're we're gonna get we're getting real great power rivalry again i mean it's inevitable and i think it undermines a lot of people's under assumptions about thank you yes the death around the corner appearance that was a lot of fun mike is uh mike is very sharp i think i'm going to go on again soon because we didn't get a chance to talk about the master is china the best at soft power now that's still us for now we'll see how long it lasts but our cultural output is still dwarfs china's it's one of those things where we underestimate it because of how powerful it is it's when people think about us fighting china in a conventional war they have a lot of guys but we still have just an absurdly large amount of weaponry now of course it's a lot of it is for show and not meant to work but i mean hell even if you just like dropped pallets of cash on but we still have a huge military and we still have more than anything really like like we have a huge military that asserts control over the globe but what what manufactures consent for american empire way more even than our military presence is our cultural output uh in terms of like ratifying you know some but of course it's undergirded by the military but they they're they're reflections of one another and so they're both pretty 0:32:42 powerful and it's both still us but you know it's all about the trend lines like all this stuff with china is about trend lines not the current i think that some of the chinese trolls i've seen have been okay like the troll farms but i think the i know somebody's mad that i said us uh i don't think it's i get you know you don't want to make it feel like this is all consensual but at the same time you know i i don't want to lose sight of where i am and who i and you know what yeah somebody says dollars that's the 0:33:51 three things that's the three legs of american of american hegemony within the global capitalist system because remember it's like it's not a hegemony over like as as a in a in a conventional empire it's it's it's hegemony of like the geographically centered american political and economic class but incorporating all other regional powers and regional uh uh economies it's it's the circulation of dollars and it's funny when you think of how many big american blockbusters are centered around the military and involve military uh like consul consultation and and the use of actual military equipment uh like transformers movie debuted the f-22 like giving a theoretical place 0:34:55 where that weapon that plane might be useful hey what if the decepticons show up you could look at it kind of as like a a catalog like you put out a movie and it sort of also it doubles as a weapons catalog hey this is what we got both as a veiled threat but also as a enticement to buy because we sell a lot someone's asking about sirhan sirhan and about m.k ultra the theory about him there's not a lot of uh there's a lot of circumstances there's it's all very circumstantial much like with manson but it still raises a lot of eyebrows uh one of the big things about sir han was not just that he claimed that he didn't remember the night of the shooting uh it's it's the nature of his uh automatic writing like he didn't write a diary like arthur bremmer or something he just wrote rfk must die over and over again which is ah not a usual association with an assassin they tend to be like baroque in their in their 0:35:56 self-justifications and want people to understand them instead of like like rfg must die is almost more like convincing himself of something uh and i believe although i haven't read about it in years this might be like my mind filling in a plank i believe if someone could correct me if they know i'm wrong that uh when he was a view that at one point he was a jockey and at one point he had a concussion or he broke a leg or something falling off of a horse at the paddock and he was treated at a hospital that received nk ultra grants like mcgill university did um and i don't know i'm not sure but you add that to like you know the ***** gunpowder residue behind rfk's ear when sarhan was standing in front of him the fact that more shots were hurt more shots were heard or or bullet holes recovered than are could be found in the chamber of uh of the ivor johnson 22 caliber pistol that saran was firing thane caesar 0:36:59 ***** uh huge tool iron bob mayhew it's like with all the assassination stuff it raises eyebrows and i kind of just like i think all that stuff is most pedagogically useful as as narrative sort of betting you know but it's it's not really good to fixate on it a lot of it's just phantoms that can't be grasped and trying to grasp them does it takes your eye off the ball so you just have to like leave it around as furniture like accent pieces when someone's asking about the mlk assassination see that one to me is the one that i think i intuitively buy the most and it boils down to motive like for me 0:38:0 i'm not fully convinced like mike mike judge and a lot of people are now like building a new consensus on the left that like replaces the old alexander coburn idea that jfk couldn't have been assassinated by the deep state because he wasn't a threat to them he was a cold warrior why would they do something so horrifyingly dangerous and well norm violating norms that benefited them uh to kill them and people are building a case that no like jfk actually did have a like oliver stone says in jfk have a explicit agenda of stepping down the cold war in a way that would have fatally undermined the military keynesianism that was powering the american economy uh and of course you know make them vulnerable to communism winning or that it was alan it was essentially a revenge hit by by alan dulles uh the one i found a little underwhelming because i just haven't got convinced myself that jfk was that guy and i don't know if anybody could honestly the more everything more specific i can't 0:39:1 really because it could fit with all the specific stuff about the assassination how it might not have been the official story that could fit with a bunch of interpretations uh like the ellen dulles did it as a revenge thing which i kind of don't buy because it's like i mean it's a little petty uh i mean to kill the president it's a little petty uh but like you know it was uh it was cubans or it was uh or was the mafia and the cia basically covered it up to prevent people from finding out that they collaborated with the mafia to try to kill castro or like libra it was a botched uh assassination staging to get jfk to recommit which and the thing is that also kind of fits with a lot of the broader arguments about jfk being a threat to national security the thing is i can't pierce that veil i can't get through there like the motivation question for me is too too central and rfk is similar but there you have like subsidiary things of like well if any of the r and any of the jfk conspiracy theories are true that involve 0:40:4 any kind of deep implication of the government or like the mafia or something not even in doing it on purpose but in covering it up afterwards there would be a huge incentive to prevent the brother of the guy you did that to to be president there's i mean and there is some evidence that rfk told people around him that when he he wanted to be president partially because he was going to bust open the books on his brother's assassination and if you have any part in it even if it wasn't directed by the state to stop kennedy uh you have motive but once again it's a high burden it's a high hurdle he's uh but for me like our mlk i think one that he was viewed he absolutely was used as an existential threat by people who mattered like specifically j edgar hoover one of the most powerful men in america like a guy who could press a button and have a thing done a man who was essentially the deep state personified he was the physical and human embodiment of the buried infrastructure of uh of 0:41:5 like military or of like domestic coercive mechanisms that undergirded the political class and made him essentially above them so there's motive there that i think is sufficient and also if you're the fbi you have very little to fear of anyone finding out about it you know because all the most of the kennedy assassination conspiracies involve around some subsection of the government planning this thing but uh but in a way that would maybe have pissed off other parts of the government or parts of the deep power structure that weren't that weren't ready for that violation of norms like say the kennedy family who have those one of their family members got killed and they're not going away they're still a powerful political force if you kill mlk you have 0:42:6 not destabilized anything from the point of view of the unified opinion of the ruling class in fact you've stabilized it so the risk of getting caught is essentially nil but you know as with other things the cir the the evidentiary case separate from the motive question is also largely circumstantial and mostly based on incongruities like the fact that james ro ray was spent over a year i believe as a fugitive who'd broken out of a prison in missouri with no visible means of support buying insanely expensive telescopes traveling to canada and then most buzzingly after the assassination flying to uh london uh on his way to rhodesia to join up uh with with the with the ian smith's white minority government's military there which was a big thing uh in the 60s was like uh was like guy like the guys who are now proud boys uh the real hardcore 0:43:7 ones in the 60s they signed up with the rhodesian army to like go in on the helicopters and perform mozambique drills uh on black people which is but there weren't i mean some of them did that but like how the hell they get to london this ***** yokel um so that's why but like i said it's so circumstantial uh they're certainly not the physical evidence that you see in the rfk case but i think it's a stronger circumstantial case because i think the motivation thing i don't know what to do about the camera man why are you looking at me anyway look at something else why don't by the way it looks fine in my camera it looks absolutely pristine in my camera i do not know why it goes through smudged so you can explain that to me please can someone with a science degree tell me why it looks absolutely clear in the screen that i'm looking 0:44:8 at but i'm looking at the ***** computer see it's bitrate what does that have to do with my ***** camera you dumb ***** sorry i'm losing my religion but i'm trying to talk here and the tech stuff always throws me off because about when we do the streams from the office they will be pristine and you won't be so uh i wanted to 0:45:12 read something from a book i just started which is russell banks's cloud splitter of letters ostensibly from owens brown the last surviving son of john brown from years after harper's ferry recounting the experiences of living with john brown uh and i just started it and it's very good so far uh but i wanted to read something from it that hits on one of these set like i talked about john brown here and how he is like the model of sacrifice out of love of conviction out of belief out of faith and how it's hard for us to look at that and make it coherent because we don't live that way because because we have been materialized we are we are sort of ego bound in a way that makes us 0:46:13 uh unwilling to risk comfort and it's not like i said it's not our fault we have to but we have to fight against it and one of the things that flows from like a lot of people will point out to john brown like oh he was a religious fanatic like if he was around now he'd like be shooting up abortion clinics or he'd be like a mega psycho because he's so pissed about like uh uh uh like uh pink-haired uh transgendered people going to the wrong bathroom or something because it's against the bible and i think that that confuses how religion works the people who are that way the people who are psychotically fixated on like enforcing a a uh explicitly religious social demand do so out of they have no belief and that's why they're tempted that's why they have 0:47:19 to seek it out and suppress it not for their children because they're their children you know you should be instilling values and and part of it is because their lives are harder and more alienated and and they have less time for to spend instilling values in their children and that does give them anxiety but a lot of it is they're tempted themselves i mean we know the porn the the amount of porn consumed in the bible belt utah for example i think was one of the highest internet porn consumption in the country uh but that's that's that speaks to the fact that there is a real temptation and uh that's because of a lack of of real conviction in not the not that god exists they think god exists but like god is a separate being heaven as a real place their soul as eternal and never to be brought back into communion with god really if so at far far distant future uh in their uh so they believe in that but that's just an 0:48:20 external mechanism of enforcement of behavior because they don't have their ego is completely fixed on self uh indulgence and so they want to do all the bad things they want to do all the bad things and only god in their head will stop them and if culture gets more tempting that will tempt them too it's the logic of the al-qaeda of the of the like al-qaeda and isis guys like all the belgian gamer kids who went to isis to cut heads off it wasn't just the the promise of you know uh slave girls and stuff or go to heaven it was because they believed in god like as as an architecture of like enforcement of uh book behavior and they believed in like the the mythology of it and where their soul would end up but they did not believe it out of a desire to transcend the self through communion with others because they grew up in ***** alienated and and hedonic easter western europe and it's like that's why so many of 0:49:24 them were like fails and gamers or drug dealers uh criminals uh and like why um well why not some of the 911 hijackers went to a strip club like that before they did 9 11. that wasn't that wasn't hypocrisy it didn't mean they didn't believe in their faith as an abstract concept what it meant was is that they were tempted by all of the west and they wanted they would rather annihilate themselves with in an act of purity than risk continuing their life and being tempted which is what the west would continue to do and that's because and that's because people want to say that's islam no that's not islam that is the fact that we this is the way different cultures and different levels of symbolic like reasoning and symbolic logic and uh and like axis of uh like symbolic attachment respond to the the destabilizing and atomizing effects of capitalism as they undermine social connections how do people respond to that and that like you make these people who have in their head an ancient religious tradition 0:50:26 that sprang out of originally a desire to dissolve distinctions and re become reunited with all other people and then with god which is all other people in the universe and has over time been replaced by the psychic regime of of coercion because the lives we live have drained that of our of us it's drained out of us and so we i mean we're fallen we're that's where that's the actual sin that's the actual fallenness but because we don't even recognize that's the source of it we decide oh i just have to not do the bad things and stop the temptation to do the bad things and that will be make me good no you'll still be separated you will still go to hell when you die and that you will die in fear gone mad at the prospect of losing losing attachment to the world attachment to the world that is totally organized around you perceiving yourself as the sole node of consciousness in the universe and that's and john brown 0:51:27 was different than so many men of his generation and so many religious men of his generation because i remember there were plenty of pro-slavery christians i mean the the ***** southern baptist broke away from the methodists because they were being too persnickety about owning people and built a whole new ideology i mean the dutch reformed church in uh in south africa was like arranged around like reifying hierarchy why because it was a really a project of indulgence it was a project of extracting surplus we're going to get the diamonds we're going to get the land but john brown didn't want to do john brown saw the humanity because he felt connected to all humans he felt the connection to black people the same because it was not obfuscated by uh by this craving for satisfaction in the material world that comes from ego separation he didn't have that and so he could see clearly and then act 0:52:29 ra act morally which is what we can't do and i'm not saying it's impossible but it is an individual struggle with within all of us to eventually rediscover the ability to do that uh but but he was there he was like a ren he was a he was a rare like the system is not set to predict create people like him certain even by 18 the 1830s but certainly not in america but the right things pop together he was in the right places at the right times had the right grooves in his brain to create uh like to actually see the world as it existed to like to to put on them he put it out and i think this section there's early in the book uh owen brown is describing john brown as a father uh and reading it really hit me just how this what he's describing whether it was true or not you know like i think you know obviously this is a novel but i think that this description comports to how i imagine uh faith works in one who really believes 0:53:30

following yesterday's letter i've been recalling this morning those early days in new richmond and the peaceful prior years of my boyhood in hudson both wildernesses of the old western reserve when we resided there has fraught with difficulty and danger on our first arrival and settlement as was our adirondack mountain farm later we lived in our villages then amongst wolves and bears and mountain lions and deep forests that blacked out all light in the lost ravines we lived close to indians iroquois mostly suspicious and withdrawn and silent who sometimes left their forest enclaves and visited our villages to trade but mainly kept a safe distance from us and 0:54:32

there was the occasional fugitive slave coming up from kentucky or the mountains of western virginia by way of the underground railroad run generally by the quakers back then and passing through to canada a quiet frightened day-long visitor hidden in the attic of our house and spirited on under hay and father's wagon as soon as night fell to the farm of a quaker some federal fellow radical abolitionist 30 or 40 miles to the north but recalling those days of long ago after having seen all of the civilized world that an ordinary man needs to see in order to know the true nature of people in society i am struck by nothing so much as our sustained virtue and orderliness wherever we lived in those days wherever we set up our house and farm and commence during doing business with our neighbors we were like an island and a sieve chicanery godlessness disorder and willful ignorance for we browns were distinct we were different for most of us those who surrounded us we were surprised not just by wilderness but by reckless sinners as individuals and as a family we were sinners too of course like all men and women but ours was the fastidious sin of pride for we 0:55:33 were proud of our difference and took pleasure in enumerating the ways in which it got daily manifested we even prided ourselves on the number of occasions and the ways in which our friends and neighbors were affronted by our virtue and orderliness or found it strange or eccentric and as a result held themselves off from us choosing to view us as did the iroquois from what must have felt them a safe distance our pride that subtlest and most insidious of sins got manifested in a variety of ways but all reports to the contrary i do not believe that we were arrogant certainly mother

and later my stepmother mary and my sister ruth were not arrogant and the younger children were all naturally modest and shy boys and girls alike and were constantly encouraged to remind remain so when they ventured out into the wider world that home provided and for the most part they did my older brothers and i too strove not to lord it over others less fortunate than we less disciplined less inclined to sacrifice their force and time on earth for the greater good what father called the common wheel and even god father himself was not arrogant although he was indeed 0:56:34 commanding and headstrong and made only those demands of us that we made of himself that he made out of himself as well and made no demands on others but wholly accepted people as he found them to father other people chose to live our way and there were a few here and there who did or they choose not to it was the same to him either way on the other hand though there was never a man so detached from the sinner who so loathed sin when it came to the sin of owning slaves which father labeled not sin but evil all his loathing came down at once and in a very personal way upon the head of the evil doer he broke no fine distinctions the man who pleaded for the kindly treatment of the human channel or as it had could occur naturally like a shift in the seasons argued for the gradual elimination of slavery as was just as evil was just as evil as the man who whipped branded raped and slew his slaves and he who did not proudly loudly oppose the extension of slavery into the western territories was as despicable as he who founded escaped slaves all the way 0:57:36 to canada and branded them on the spot to punish them and to make pursuit and capture easier next time but with the notable exception of where a man or woman stood on the question of slavery when father considered the difference between our way of life and the ways of others he did not judge them or lorded over them he did not condemn or set himself off from our neighbors he merely observed their ways and passed silently by and he knew all the ways of men and women extremely well he was no knee no bumpkin my father was not the sort of man who stopped stopped up his ears at the sound of foul language or shut his eyes to the lasciviousness and sensuality that passed daily before him he never warned another man or woman off from speech or act because he was too delicate of sensibility or too pious or too virtuous to hear of it or went to witness the thing he knew what went on between men and women between men and men between men and animals even in the small crowded cabins of the settlements and out in the sheds and barns of our neighbors and he knew what was nightly bought and sold on the streets and alleys and in the taverns of the towns and cities he visited the man had read every word of his bible hundreds of times nothing human beings did with or to another or themselves shocked him 0:58:39 only slavery shocked him father was a countryman after all a farmer and stockman much admired by other farmers in stockman a working man who could roll up his uh **Music playing** oh well who else will survive this golden age are just old ideas 0:2:8 rehashed where of all **Music playing** i used to say there will never be a our repeats itself i've heard a tale there will never be a skeptic oh yeah **Music playing** cause there is nothing new i've heard it said there will never be a classic again our voice self doesn't tell but it pays to be a skeptic oh yeah i've waited all my life to find a new 0:3:12 age christ what do we need right now revolution i've heard it said there will never be a classic again art repeats itself i cannot tell but it pays to be a skeptic oh yeah cause there is nothing new that there art destroys itself i never sell but it pays to be 0:4:14 a spectacle yeah cause there is nothing new no more fuddruckers folks i've actually only been to fuddruckers once i'll admit it and really my pain now is that i never got a chance to experience it again what if you could pick your own toppings on your burger that's what it boiled down to if anyone has never been because it's not really a huge chain nationally it's not um it's just funny named and it was famously parodied in idiocracy where over the years it turned into butt ***** but as a as a brand as a concept i always was i found it comforting you know just something so perfectly stupid hey here's a place that kind of sounds like a sex where you can pick your own burger toppings which is true of basically any pete burger restaurant 0:5:15 the only difference is that they're in front of you and you get to feel like it's the perfect little fake little doohickey a little uh like a hamster wheel for you to get out any a sense of like personal uh autonomy in your life like we've already constrained human freedom to mean the freedom to buy and they even but that gets limiting so you have to give people little micro choices within their choices to broaden their sense of autonomy which is of course entirely illusory because what difference does it make from saying give me a burger with lettuce tomatoes onions mayonnaise and some of the jalapeno sauce versus going and putting them on yourself it's a sense of action it's a sense of participation you're incarnating your will in action but it's the same thing as just telling them what to put on it it's just a little hamster wheel of of agency and it's called fuddruckers ah god it rules and it leaving really is i gotta 0:6:16 want to get too apocalyptic because i genuinely don't think we're headed towards a terminal crisis anytime soon i mean obviously anything can happen that could change that black swan events and what i mean we're in the middle of one and who knows what else could come on top of it and climate is clearly going buck wild right now in a way that could be very unpredictable and lead to like almost overnight instantaneous changes in like distribution of water resources and arable land that are totally unpredictable but i don't think there's anything to say oh we're in the end days other than the desire for this to be the end days which we all secretly have i mean there's a reason we're obsessed with the apocalypse and have been since the 90s it's because we've foreclosed any chance of a future as soon as the 70s ended and that tight and that ***** uh the windpipe of the working class got closed there was no more future to imagine and so we imagine the end we imagine apocalypse instead 0:7:17 because uh just anything to not be this anything to reveal all of the fraudulence because apocalypse just means to unveil some confirmation of the the sickness in so of course we all want apocalypse in somewhere now and we get and now because everything is so dire we get to address that in righteousness and and in political uh um and most importantly for people who get a lot of online just uh satisfaction from building a political identity a sense of being politically intelligent and politically uh canny like oh you guys think that this can turn around you fools you mount banks you think we can go back to the 50s and i know i said that yesterday but what i mean by that is only that we can't return to a distribution of profit like we had in the 50s we will have to overcome capitalism to return to a like a a horizon of a future for people but that's a process and it starts politically and in the meantime 0:8:18 you can wrench things away it's just it's going to be ha it's going to have to be more uh militant it can't be it can't be we can't assume that we can get back to a transactional relationship with politics that's going to effectively bring about change we're going to have to move through that level though that's why i have no time for people who say we need we need to like marshal revolutionary forces right now we need to like go to the hills or arm people there's not enough there's not enough people who even understand what's going on have any kind of political context for their alienation and their in their dis and their panic at the moment and there's no no reason to believe that if a crisis got deeper you would be able to channel anything because you don't even speak the same language they do you have incorporated you have created an entire identity around a political self-conception that has a a private or at least a semi-private linguistic value system that is not translatable we have 0:9:19 to move through these dead structures and it's horrible to have to do that we're thrashing around inside a ***** rotting taunton but we have to do it because it's what we have it's the only way to keep us us warm through this dark night of total

CUSHVLOG 76. SIC TRANSIT FUDDRUCKERS

like d socialization de personalization depoliticization what we're in for is more the same but slightly worse we're probably probably in for more of the same but worse and that means we have to deal with the structures we have and we have to work a basic belief that we have any kind of control of our destiny and bernie i think was the genuine start of that at this point though we have to move beyond bernie i mean that's pretty clear his his relevance is fading quickly that doesn't mean we grab new heroes that doesn't mean we try to it means rebuilding the sense that people can and most people like it's one thing to get a re once you're the big issue here is that a lot of people seem to think that if they can get people to understand that there's a political dimension to their pain in life and that that that that pain can be alleviated through collective action that they you can convince them once you've convinced them of that to skip right past any political uh uh electoral engagement in conventional politics to like full fully radicalized uh militancy and you can do that for some people i mean that's how a lot of the people who feel that they are that political persuasion became politically radicalized they just had a phase transition from apolitical to radicalized but the thing is that is that is a i would argue a rarer occurrence than the more likely thing which is people have to be brought through stages personally uh of political consciousness they have to first engage with politics and then be disillusioned with politics to move forward to the next level because the militancy people are imagining involves significant physical personal risk and people only do that if they feel like it will have efficacy as we've talked about like they have to feel like they're stressed they're fighting might be necessary and the thing is most people aren't going to be heroes they're going to want to find the path of least resistance and for most people that means psychologically forgetting about arguments because arguments don't really convince people of things psychologically most people will say what can i do with this new understanding of politics that will be productive without risking my life and the answer and of course you'll say no no elections are no good don't you see and then you'll explain to them why but guess what they haven't felt it they have not actually experienced a solution with politics so they're not gonna take your ***** word for it some of them might but again i am talking the the the weight of like the prevailing psychology of the average person is going to move towards personal safety they're going to reason around that and so that means that there's an alternative if there's a political dimension a political act axis of action that is an alternative to direct confrontation with the state that could lead with their imprisonment or death that doesn't mean that they're going to stay there and it doesn't mean that they can stay there does mean they have to be brought through the process and one of the p and people who don't need that part are going to play their role in pulling them along but they should not be

trying to abolish this thing or like make some sort of pointless propaganda argument in favor of like mass radicalization that ignores the fact that people have to move through psychological steps of awareness for the most part very few people can just flash fry themselves out of one mindset into another because reality intercedes the passions that made the moment dissipate and their sense of vulnerability as a person is brought back into focus over time and then and that is only intensified by their int they're moving through a world of pain and fear somebody is agreeing with me that lovecraft country is terrible man that's a bad show wow if that's the standard now of a prestige show and i don't know if that's the consensus i don't know i don't read any of that stuff anymore so i don't know what critics are saying about it i used to i used to read all that **** av club stuff when i was trying to convince myself that prestige tv was the highest form of art because i didn't want to read a book um but do people think it's like a good show like a really good show because it's terrible uh it's one of the worst ones i've seen that has any kind of uh like reputation and certainly on hbo which is supposed to be still a cut above the fillet of the tv genre as jeff daniels would say it's dog **** it's very bad i mean the fact that everything is cgi including all the creatures is very bad obviously it knocks it down a whole letter grade no episode could be better than a b from that point but man it's like it is the worst case it's the worst i would say that lovecraft country is the worst worst possible scenario of the politicization of culture that we have had in the last like four or five years specifically under obama but we're really intensified under trump whereby the only axis of value that a piece of art has is its political content because i think the argument a lot of people would make is things are so bad now and the need for people to both have their pain felt and to try to wake people up to the horrors around them means that the only real that piece of value art can have especially popular art and i must say my only rejoinder than that is watchmen but even more love and i thought watchman was bad lovecraft country even worse and even more an example of a program that only exists to be political to say something to make everybody uh good people to get all those white privileged folks watching tv to turn into non-ones and all the white people who are already feeling good about themselves to feel and my argument i point to that show and i tell someone do you really think that this show is going to save us save a single person from a hate crime or bring down the level of police violence against minorities in this country or do a single solitary thing for anyone except for the specific black people involved in making the show to make their lives better do you really think that do you really think a culture of tv that uninspiring and flat and alienating from an aesthetic perspective is going to do anything other than appeal to people who already want to feel good about themselves who are going to like the show and watch the show to reaffirm values

they already hold and everyone else is going to ***** ignore it because the only people who like that show i would argue are people who are getting a frisian out of it from like look at me i'm watching the black revisionist sci-fi show look at me i'm i'm reckoning with the sins of the of of whiteness and the and the in the erasure of black the black experience and i'm correcting it right here and now there's no other value to that show the performances are dog ***** the effects are hilariously bad it has 0:17:36 no atmosphere to speak of incredibly flat and of course its political content is dog food served up to just a bunch of hungry slaving labradors i knew that in the first episode when they scored they scored i told them about this already after i saw it i still blew my mind they actually put this in the show they scored a montage of racist incidents befalling a family traveling through the south in the 50s or 40s or whatever with i mean my god if it had been like like a change is going to come by sam cook that would have been heavy-handed enough no no no no we have entered an era where political uh content has to be so heavily loaded that that the abstraction of music is too far is to anxiety like oh no they're not going to get the point they scored it with a james baldwin speech just him talking about racism well while watching it 0:18:37 what like the whole point of ***** film which tv is a bastard child of is the interplay of like light and shadow and sound after the 20s and ***** images and that are supposed to like go off of one another and produce like individual associations that's like an artistic response this is just layering ***** on ***** to so i say if this is art under that rubric it's it's it's a failed as on its own because it will not work on people because it's not good art and i don't even mean i mean if you're if you're the type of person who needs to be reached by this what's fun to watch about that show what's fun it's not fun you're not even gonna arg you can't even argue that you're gonna bring in people who otherwise wouldn't want like have their mind expanded by by that kind of racial content uh because they're not gonna watch in the so it's 0:19:42 not it doesn't even have even though it uses genre even though it uses genre which is what's supposed to be like the the thing that gets people in the door because it's plot focused and ex and it can exploit uh like horror elements and violence in order to keep people watching even with all that even with that hook uninteresting and i see people praising this program and i think this is dark man you guys are just going to suck your own dicks in this cocoon of righteousness producing art to make you all feel better about being white or being privileged or if you're not white and privileged in making it getting to participate and tell your story finally and stand in for the exploitation of millions who like you and everyone else is going to be doing their own and it's going to be just so i have no competent no no patience for any any culture first politics of any kind caring about any of this stuff representation in 0:20:43 any way what's good or bad art it's dog ***** because yes yes the superstructure reinforces the base by giving us our ideas like imaginative framework that we carry out capitalism with which is crucial and changes the way we relate to one another but it cannot be clipped at that source it cannot be clipped at that source look what happens look what all that effort brings you to something that's just re uh recuperated by the structure which is funny because you'd think these ***** pomo people would know that that's like a key like french puffs modernist uh take like i think it's derrida or i can't even remember one of those frogs recuperation all this all this all this anything that gets brought up in like in the culture and gets turned into like a cultural meme is then commodified even if it's brought if it uh if it's motive original emotives was genuine uh and like you know the reason they used to call them 0:21:53 exploitation movies is that rather than being art rather than coming from a place of expression of creative endeavor they were assembly mills where they would just take us they would exploit a certain stock character or subculture that would guarantee an audience or or a indulgence to the audience like violence people love violence sex people love watching sex hey black people don't have movies for themselves what about if we see sex and violence with black people you know there was rednecks plantation in the same era because there were a lot of drive-ins in the rural south it was all over the place and there wasn't like national distribution of films back then there would be like uh distributors would go like on road shows with like a bunch of ***** uh films and and then show them like one theater and then move around the country that's how dolomites started being distributed um and so they would go to the south and they would blow these movies with like hillbillies shooting each other 0:22:54 in the butt with buckshot and like there's a hilarious uh spot on there on the back of their union suits but those were that's that was a thing that you could exploit in lieu of the art and this stuff this lovecraft country stuff like this it's like it's political exploitation it's like exploitation it's exploitation the wokeness stands in for the art people talk about it and people watch it because they get to participate in a ritual that reaffirms their political virtues and and those of their friends and that and then there's and that whole and that fills the whole of the like actual art did i coin that 0:23:55 because i wanted i i said that i wonder if i heard anybody else say that i might have invented that i'm not sure i don't want to i don't want to say right now i invented it but i i might because i might have heard it from someone else but i think i invented that ***** but it's true just think of how much art uh how many things have you seen how many movies and tvs have you seen and i think this is one of the things that this is a perfect example by the way of how and there's actually a sunny it's always sunny episode in the last season that dealt with this perfectly there's this uh there's a there's one of the things that powers the really really stupid cultural arguments we see is that i think the real motive for a lot of like the white male rage

at like woke entertainment and video games yes a lot of it is based on genuine racial anxiety about and and gender anxiety i'm not going to disagree especially amongst the most fervent people but i would say that on the margins which is where most people are because few people are really committed to this insanity like this insane fight over culture they they wear their their cultural indulgences lighter they mean less to them they're more distracting but but they still care enough they wanted to be good i think a lot of like these white young dudes they see this stuff that's ***** that is you know inclusive and then they get and then they decide that it's the uh fact that it's inclusive that's why it's bad that's not why it's bad it's bad because everything is ***** now it's bad because capital has totally dissolved the artistic input on almost all art forms including our precious prestige television and what is filling the gap is this easy lazy wokeness to give it cultural cachet and to give it like and to give it most of all a way for critics to say it's good hollow it's yeah fine whatever like i said a hole that's filled with wokeness uh and like how you look at the way people talk about shows specifically critics i guess somebody said about exploitation in gamergate well that was the scent that was the uh that was the kernel of truth and the thing is there's always a kernel of truth to every argument or else people wouldn't make it that's something people have a hard time with because they say no no no everyone there's correct arguments and wrong arguments and people hold wrong views either because they're stupid or because they're lying and people on art and on the internet mostly assume that you're one or the other in reality they're a kernel to truth to both sides of any stupid uh uh sim simplified uh argument on the internet but you but both sides have to deny the other that that privilege of anything being true because it undermines the totalizing nature of that argument in reality the ***** that like a lot of these guys complain about is bad i'm sorry a lot of that ***** is ***** and lovecraft country's a perfect example but it's not because it's woke that it's bad something else would be filling that hole and it would be just as bad i mean they might like it a little more because it was like more indulgent to their to their interest but it would still be bad they just wouldn't notice the badness as much because they would have other elements in it that like satisfy them instead other people would find it worse so like everybody's looking at this impoverished cultural landscape and they're seeing a mirror of their own desires in it so like the white male reactionary see ***** art that doesn't cotton to his sexual desires doesn't continue his hierarchies of racial expectations and stereotypes and identifies that as the problem with it but that art to somebody on the other side is seen as a recognition of that person so they don't notice the ***** as much as the other one does so when they're arguing they're not arguing about the correct premise because they're arguing about whether like this representation is what's bad

just like if there's something that is more indulgent to uh to like white male tastes and hierarchies and racism and all that stuff it its badness is easier to be perceived by people who are alienated by that and so the white male guy says no this is the good stuff and the thing that's good about it is the hierarchies and the white maleness and all that ***** sucks yeah no like all that other stuff it's like i said exploitation movies are exploiting the stuff that the lizard brain audience that at that point was mostly young men that's who went to the movies back then that's who went to the movies in the 70s those young dudes what do they want to see they want to and they want to see uh like obviously if they're white they want to see the racial hierarchies that make them comfortable reaffirmed and so that's what they gave them but there was blaxploitation for hey what do young black guys want to see now it's flipped the audience who's getting pandered to has changed but it's still pandering and the stuff itself is not is still as devoid as hollow uh yes cultural marxism that is such a stupid concept you might as well just draw a giant question mark in the air and say i don't know it's like it's like uh it's like it's like political economy dark matter you're just there's this this thing here you know they're all in charge why because they have a plan why what is the plan uh it's to make us less virile so that it's all ***** conspiracy theory it's conspiracy theory it is because otherwise there's no way to make sense the way to make sense of it is to say that over time culture becomes more accepting so that the uh pool of people who are in some way still like moored to some sort of political project right like it's easy to have like you have a a polity that has to submit in some degree to being ruled through a combination of coercion and adherence to a belief that they're part of the the world like part of the state part of like a a political a political entity and that they're like a stakeholder in it so it's a combination of both for everybody and the closer you are to power and and comfort the the less coercion is involved but it's a mixture for everybody uh and there becomes a time when in order to maintain like if demographics change for example uh you have to become more culturally accepting to keep more people bought in that they're part of this thing called the united states otherwise it becomes unstable it becomes ungovernable and you have to do that especially as the uh the material benefit from being an american in the in the middle goes away right as as the as the as the wages of being in you know the american uh uh working middle class working class uh and people get more alienated from a sense of political participation at the center of what used to be the economy you have to increase devotion outside of it in order to stabilize it in order to stabilize the system but what's driving that is the slow stripping away of of all people's economic uh john economic lives as as as surplus falls and is the ability to distribute anything to labor it's purely a coping mechanism it's a way to blame something without going to the to the fundamental

cause and once again you know there's no way to win any of these fights and it's yeah 0:33:21 like that's what's so frustrating talking about this stuff and i'm very sorry because it is so abstract and it's so got it's so hard to grab on to because at the end of the day it's just a it's just a it's a hobby for people to talk about you know yes it's it's part of our cultural firmament but it's being reproduced at a level that is untouchable by any of us all we get to do is argue about it and get pulled away from ourselves and each other by the by holding by by the anger and by the by the passion we put behind these these so yeah uh yeah i won't talk about that anymore it's very frustrating because well because it's it's the most these conversations are the single most perfectly compacted balls of inextricable false reading and and bad faith and 0:34:23 and uh and libidinal like reinscription like this these are the opinions that where you seek out ones you disagree with to get off like stuff about culture man like that's where people politics sure but politics downstream from culture like at this level this this is where Breitbart was right like the culture of politics yeah it's it's it's all generated at the symbolic level of entertainment and then it flows down to politics which is just a more concentrated form of entertainment that a few appeals to fewer and fewer people and yeah uh as Whopper said in War Game the only way to win is 0:35:25 not to play so there's no way it's like i'm not gonna go and argue about why Lovecraft is bad on the internet i'm not gonna write an article i'm not gonna contribute to the takes Smith i feel like i got this out of my system like once again i'm a lot of this is me talking my way through like why what i think of this stuff so i can but yeah it is not it's not to be engaged with because it's getting everybody everybody is getting off on it it's a bunch of perverts i think squibs i won't i won't talk about squibs now but i like the squib discourse because that's that's a little removed you know from like pure the purely cultural elements of uh of art like the culture war 0:36:27 elements there's it's actually got a kind of a everything else is just it immediately flies off like when you're trying to i didn't really watch the Venture Brothers that much i appreciated what it was going for but uh i don't know at a certain point i guess i just kind of got the point rip though i know Chris is Chris and Amber i used to be into wrestling when i was a little kid i liked and then i got into it in college again i have not seen the Kaufman movie yet Sinich Dutch gg what's it called Synagogy 0:37:33 Schenectady New York Sinich Joche New York that one's a tough watch man that was brutal i saw that in the theater uh it's gonna be it's gonna be hard to get me to sit down and watch that one after that one but i probably will at of course i've seen 0:38:39 the righteous gemstones we did an episode about the that's how the good lord work i love adaptation that's still my favorite Charlie Kaufman movie people keep telling me that asked me to have a tenant review i i'm not going to the theater anytime soon that's for sure certainly not to see some **** dishwater Gray Christopher Nolan movie ugh talk about i mean just there's a slight digression by the way i really don't take any of your moans about like the decline of culture because of the sjf just jw vacation of entertainment and like the dethroning of the white male auteur if you're 0:39:40 because christopher nolan is a perfect and the things that people see in his movies are purely just like a clockwork plot mechanics that they are elevating because that's where the heart should be and they're filling it in with that i mean my god the guy can't even really shoot action movies that well that's our action scenes that well that's kind of crazy if you think about it like his movies almost all of them have been action films and he has what's a great action sequence in a christopher nolan movie i guess what the the joseph gordon-levitt floating hallway like if you're looking at 0:40:42 nolan and going like this is what we could have more of if it wasn't for all the uh all the women and minorities making woke movies now uh then sorry no thank you your your and like most of his movies are action films and he has he has no memorable in my opinion action sequences nothing that has stuck with me i remember being really impressed by inception when i saw it if you look at my letterbox review it's very high but that's one of those things where i was i was i was cop like when i'm talking on here uh a lot of the times i get angry and people think i'm yelling at the chat i'm really not i'm yelling at me because i am talking always about myself and if people find it meaningful it's because my experience resonates in some deep way and i was 0:41:43 in a state of mind where i thought that plot complexity and like this kind of stuff was serious art it was like bridging the gap between mainstream mass culture and high culture no it wasn't i just was a lazy ***** who wanted to see movies where the slow car was going and they're like oh but that was his dream and then that was his dream and then that his dream was his dream and you get to mechanism um the battle of gotham you mean when the cops who had guns charged headlong 0:42:45 and a bunch of guys who and of course you can forgive that if it if it feels good in the moment enough sterile there's always there's always a risk when you talk like this that people are going to go oh yeah old man you're just bitter because they don't like make them like they used to huh grandpa and the thing is yeah that's always an element of all complaints about people about the new modes of art that they weren't like initiated to at the right age but there also is a steady decline in 0:43:46 quality of average art as capitalism infiltrates and annihilates the artistic impulse that makes art it's just a question of like what percentage is your critique one or the other decide i mean i think i made a pretty strong case visa v my arguments about squibs and cgi that we use that in at least the the main like taking one genre action films examining a concrete way that over time these movies have been made worse in a way that you can complain as just not being used to digital effects or you can see the flip side of that and see as a genuine difference that's for you to decide 0:44:48 and then you ask yourself that and then you can answer yourself how does how is it likely that that effect reverberates throughout all of our i would love to go on i would love people say go on red letter media i don't get that choice i don't get to do that i sure as i'm not inviting myself on someone else's show i'm not but if they had asked me i would of course go no question i would really want to hope to go wait till after quarantine though because i would really love to go to the studio and uh to the best of the worst around the table then do rather than do but i mean i don't i mean they seem like they've got a pretty good uh you know degree of investment in this ***** like this online culture like they're if you if you if you topped out at movies you're less tightly wound than if you topped out of politics i think and uh they and 0:45:49 then you can get really tightly wound and po on movies like say movie bob or devin ferracci or you can be nicely adjusted around movies online and they did that so they're much chillier they're way too chill probably never listen to us anxious politics dorks banging on about ***** so they so but no one tell them that gavasani please please don't do that i just please don't do that do not do not tell them to get me on do not do it i will be very mad at anyone who does i'm not winking ***** i will i yeah exactly they just went a thing with went through a whole thing with william 0:47:3 shatner because of some ogre eager oafs please please be cool i would love to get felix on rogan i think that that's fine because i think rogan might respond to that kind of thing i have no idea how he how he works but somebody somebody should tell rogan to have felix on because i really think no i don't feel like i don't think felix patrol 0:48:4 rogan i think felix would go in earnest uh fully confident that he had like a base of people get anxious about going on places that are like not ideologically uh friendly because they worry about getting rattled because they worry they think they would be insecure they would be nervous maybe not even because they didn't think they could like deliver on because they really didn't believe their beliefs they might be totally secure in their beliefs but they might be worried that just the thought of all those people listening and watching could get on them and and give them the yips the only way you could go on a show that big would be if you had full confidence that you would have like a base of a rapport with with with the host and prevent just getting off into into oblivion and felix 100 would go in there totally uh confident and i think would make for a great conversation they could just vibe on i think they could vibe on uncles for a solid hour i i don't i like i think the the danger of like if i if 0:49:17 i went on rogan i don't think i would ever would but i mean i would if they asked me my god but i don't think it's likely uh i would be worried and it would not be about confidence of ideas and not even about being able to like connect with joe because i think i know enough about joe's ***** that i think i know where i could like get get a baseline with him and work from i think i would just get nervous about that many ***** people so i would i would probably want to i would i would absolutely have to get high beforehand i mean i i uh no question i would have to definitely chew up but if i tuned up i think i could i could do i know that we have a pretty decent audience but uh you know it's by this point it's self-selected it's people kind of already like us and that and that in that vein you know we're able to find purchase it would be kind of it would be a little uh it would be anxiety producing to imagine stepping out of that bubble and having to confront a broader group of people who aren't necessarily on your wavelength and have to like you have to translate i would definitely go on mayor pete's podcast i would go uh in mayor pete's go on mayor pete's contest podcast uh right before right after it taking like a huge amount of laxative and then just ***** my oh gwen snyder's podcast i would do that one for sure i mean she wouldn't invite me obviously that's a zero zero percent chance of happening but i conversation uh biden hiring anita dunn is uh hilarious i mean the entire biden campaign is just a ritualized abnegation and uh and and the fouling of every sacrament everything that democrats everything that liberals held holy every idea of inclusion and representation and uh and uh feminism profaned in the name of keeping the ***** oh i would love to go on gorka show too oh i would love to talk to gorka i would go i'd get really like nitty gritty like napoleonic war ***** with him like oh the boradino sir would you contend that napoleon aired you know that kind all right today i got to cut it a little short but thanks for the convo i know i got a little cranky there i'll try not to do that again don't want to alienate everybody but much love to everyone listening and watching and i hope it's less fuzzy bye-bye

oh getting some erectile dysfunction with my guy here not having having a little difficulty there we go he was having i had to do a little uh manual stimulation of the of the phone holder there to make that happen i have a little bit too much chest here might be too erotic for some of y'all i don't want to get you all sprung as the kids say or they used to say back when i was a kid the kids said sprung now i don't know what the hell they say uh heated or is that too old are we done with heated 0:1:1 already uh chiving what do you say torqued i like to eat it we're totally blurped man we're totally blurped i know i'm blurped we're all very blurped to be here scro uh but that's always the case right so i wanted to start off talking about the big 0:2:31 thing about woodward in his speech and his uh a particular thing about woodward and his the thing he recorded trump saying which is once again it's hilarious it's trump at his best just flying out going it's very deadly it'll kill you you cough and the very important thing is is the air you got to breathe you don't have to touch somebody the way he has to explain it if anyone has read it the way he explains to woodward how how like uh like breath bubble like air droplet transmission the way air droplet transmission of disease happens versus skin-to-skin contact as though he 0:3:32 invented it as though he had to crack it himself just he's one of the dumbest people on earth it really is funny and people say no no he's smart it's like he has he's one of those people who is completely he completely his his transparent need to be loved his transparent and deep and abiding uh emptiness that he has to fill at all times meant that he assimilated what celebrity meant in this country faster than almost anybody in the in in we have he just the one talent he has so that is a skill that is an intelligence by any definition that is genius you could and the thing is is people have to be able to be thought of that way like trump is a genius if you want to talk about genius as the ability to ins to process quickly some vector like some way of 0:4:33 some question some array like there are physical geniuses who are good at sports you know they're mathematical geniuses who can master uh you know the implications of numbers and then they're geniuses who understand what it is to be famous and then make themselves that way a savant but the problem is is that the job of president

traditionally has not been that of savant in that way in the way first of all not in any way the president being a savant is a terrible idea the president should not be a savant in any one thing because it means that they're wildly wildly incapable in all the other ways because it takes too much concentration to keep yourself pointed in that direction especially when you're dealing with the ***** rotted oatmeal that is trump's but because we've turned politics into a spectacle of course a genius of media a genius of fame would of course take power of course he so we've got a guy who is 0:5:36 who is a genius at staying famous look at what he did with his modest gifts without ever planning for it he did something that the greatest minds policy and politics have set themselves like a ***** guided missile for their whole lives and come up short bob dole spent his whole life trying to be president my god henry clay the guy invented a political philosophy he forged like wiggery like was the was like a transitional fossil in the creation of like modern developmental uh our modern like keynesian economic theory like it all kind of started with clay he he gave us like the um the model for henry clay gave us the model for what like the state should do in the liberal conception wiggery he invented that ***** never got to be president never got to be president ever he ran got his ass kicked his own party at one point when they thought they could win when they thought with van buren dealing with the crisis of 37 in the 0:6:37 1840 election they thought we can actually win this one we don't want to put clay out there to get his ass kicked again and so they denied him the nomination they said look we love you but we want to we want a general we want a beautiful general somebody who can reach beyond the a guy who just fought in the big war remember you know because the whigs were not the party of westward expansion that was the democrats the wigs were the party hold on a second wait a minute so harrison was like an embodiment of like the democratic frontier aesthetic but he was also a genuine wig and that he believed in the american system and so they give it to him and henry clay got so pissed that when they offered him the vp he didn't take it he told them to ***** off and so they just decided to do a further bit of bridge building by extending the nomination to john tyler who was not a wig at all he was a southern 0:7:39 sectionalists he had broken with jackson over the question of nullification and they brought him in under the theory of the big tent which is exactly what ended up biting the republicans and america in the ass with andrew johnson it was a similar situation they got a guy in there who had no no truck with the republican platform and he explicitly wasn't he was a democrat but he he abided by the principle of unionism which was transcendent the way that the whigs in 1840 wanted anti-jacksonianism to be the the the providing ideology and and then of course harrison dies at the poop water almost immediately and instead of having clay the actual founder of american wiggery in power with the whig they get a guy who doesn't buy any of it and and

CUSHVLOG 77. APRES MOI DE MCRIB

vetoed their entire platform i mean my god my god what a blunder one of the biggest 0:8:40 blunders ever and it was clay's blunder to make because at that point harrison was the oldest man who had ever would have run for president he was 68 at a time when that was like the life expectancy for a rich guy higher was lower than that where there was a giant stagnant pool of human ***** this is a recipe for a dead president yo movie remember that one and instead out of peak clay says no and then the entire whig agenda is destroyed and it eventually was recaptured by the republicans like the republicans continued the wig but like that wig republican engine is has been the mechanism why whereby capital expansion through america has been ratified from the bottom uh from the bottom through like popular consent like that's been the the 0:9:41 the connection between the state and it and like the economy the political economy that is the that was the chassis for which has been dogged by its antithesis which is like the remnant jeffersonian jacksonian yeoman theory the yeoman concept of minimal minimal uh minimal government maximum personal liberty in a context of uh of essentially free ex-corporation of land i.e settler colonialism it is a pre-figurative remnant of that that's been clashing in one warmer another ever since the emergence of the republican party after 1865 and now as the ability for that structure that had been created to actually deliver anything like political legitimacy to the system that 0:10:44 it's supposed to it might actually fall it could potentially fall finally to the infiltration in this the return of this jeffersonian conception of at maximum liberty for property holders which would then be fused with the remnant of what we have created now to become a synthetic like neo-feudal reassertion of like the the antebellum uh rulers of this continent only now without even the necessity to create a social network or political legitimacy and technology will fill that space that was filled by popular popular uh participation and legitimacy it's now filled by coercion and technology and surveillance more than anything more even than the ***** like that will lock you down that will lock you in place in a way that believing you were part of something called america that had values and there was a dream you could participate in even if you were personally in a bad job or unhappy in life or unable to find opportunities 0:11:45 there was a hope for you and one of the things you could do to make things better is participate in the political process and you believed that and that kept you on the path of a regular citizen like paying bills doing a job or if nothing else not being violently opposed to the state in a way that required it to smack you down with actual authority by and that space is now just going to be the fact that well i can't do anything else because they know where i am they they are they are the only reason i'm not dead because because i have been so alienated from the ability to reproduce my own life and the means of production and consumption are completely dominated and you have to enter into contract with some provider in order to have

mere sustenance and that and then what you give up for that is total uh total social transparency how the hell are you supposed to fight that so yeah like this this this 0:12:51 like the thing bernie and even biden and like the never trumpers are trying to hold on of this cracking and fracturing and destroyed uh government engine this political structure the two-party system and the three representative branches and the ***** states the whole thing the entire political structure it's worm ridden and termite infested and it's cracking and collapsing and they're holding on they're holding on because they don't know what else to do and because they're they're the captains the ships might be going down but at least they're the captains and they want to keep that position and so they're going to fight to the end they're going to fight in the rubble like it's berlin 1945. uh but eventually they will be subsumed by some sort of like cockamamie spectaclized like fake fascist maybe like populist trump-esque entertain pure entertainment politics that just subsumes all practical considerations 0:13:52 and then brutal brutal miseration at the point of life but in a way that is totally isolated from ever creating uh meaningful resistance because everyone's alienation is directed towards this intensified deeply felt like almost three-dimensional political reality that is politics as we understand it the electoral system the particip the the the checks and balances the constitution blah blah blah all that happy horse ***** and what and the thing is is what's drawing this down with making this happen is that we've entered the lifeboat that that previous model worked with expansion as the as the undergirding understanding we will always have frontier to give off like the first thing the republicans did the first real thing they did in power besides raise an army to put down the rebellion in the south was a sign the 0:14:54 homestead act which opened a vast swath of the louisiana purchase to the uh to the homesteading of anyone who put down stakes and stayed there for five years free real estate on a scale never before done in any western civilization that kind of land reform took generations and in fact never happened in most of europe in latin america it has also largely been fought and almost not happened because we imported a european proletariat rather than enslave and then colonize or colonize and enslave an indigenous proletariat which is a difference between northern and southern colonialisms but that meant that we could keep people on board even as labor was being exploited even as war was being fought on mechanistic levels far beyond everyone's consideration even a few years previously there's always land of give and once the land gave out there was just at that moment the possibility of global domination the america being the world hegemon just a time to take up for 0:15:55 the frontier thesis being closed being being read out of history boom we have we have the new frontier and then after the after world war ii my god it becomes it becomes a count it's beyond empire it's it's like global subsumption something never before even considered by alexander napoleon or hitler but that broke apart in the 21st century on the rock not of 9 11 9 11 gave us the conditions to pursue our final icarus-like flight into the sky our final mad thrust towards control before the ***** richtus set in and our blood vessels started bursting the last grab of the dying man is the as a he gets pulled down deep by the heart attack that was iraq iraq was going to be where we made the future safe for america by betting down the demons we had unleashed by 9 11 which had infiltrated us to the and it did the trick but it was dependent on us winning and guess what we didn't it was not because it's it's because they overestimated their their capabilities that old collective dunning-kruger effect kicked in they'd spent so much time building themselves up for propaganda purposes to themselves to the people of the country the people of the world america's indomitable power that they had to assume in the moment of need that it was there and then oh oh what's this oh oh no maybe i had a few too many ***** steaks after all boom and that's why we're now in this that mad gasp at the end this grasp this horrible realization that we're not no longer sailing to the frontier the ship is sinking and it's grab what you can and go overboard and that's the that's where all the white nationalism comes from uh and that's where like this nascent socialist spur spurt comes from but the sad thing and the terrifying thing is that um these are just epiphenomenon like these political cultures that we think are so important the new left the left the alt-right or like ethno-nationalists pepe is whatever you want to call them they are they are steam venting off of a social structure that is inert they are just the most femoral tendrils because they are the overproduced elite of the dying middle class they have the time they have the vocabulary to express their alienation the vast majority are inert in the sense that they are alienated but they cannot give meaning or and that means that we cannot win at the level of symbol that's the horror there's a no argument taken place in the discourse no amount of information no event reported on will ever give us any sense of power we will continue to exist in the agonized state of eternal anxiety of trying something kind of knowing it doesn't work but not having any alternative and so just crossing your fingers and hoping it does that awful state that drives people to things like fascism the flight from the freedom of that moment that that uncertainty of like what am i doing and why is this even going to happen and the damn breaking because of some real material conditions in our case the rapidly accelerating uh uh horror of the pandemic disaster that we're dealing with this this crisis that is very akin to 1905 russia in the sense of the legitimacy of the regime being critically compromised a regime that had like deep mystical connection to like the peasantry and our neo like coolock class that i talk about the the pringles in the tube the the last generation to grow up the generation to grow up in suburban splendor and expect that is like the standard but for most people they're only experiencing this as alienation and and the thing is because we're going to get more alienation people are going to experience things differently and the hope is is that that breaking of the dam will rearrange people and they will see things new and they will experience things anew and they will see the world with fresh eyes and that that sight will give them real understanding and i know that that sounds mystical and it sounds like a cope but that's literally what 0:21:0 i'm describing is is any revolution because you it works through the structures that exist prior but it has to be powered in the moment by engines of in the moment emotional overcome i am too i my heart cries out i have no mouth but i must scream and it's that energy that powers movements but the thing is it can't be spontaneous and that's the anarchist failure the anarchist failing is you think without structures to direct the flow just exist waiting for the popular uprising will happen and you will get something that's non-hierarchical and won't have all the icky features of a army that's trying to impose power over and control means of production uh that's how it starts that's the that's the ***** like gas in the engine but the only way that it catches is if it's directed by existing institutions and that's why the the the motto always has to be if you're not in the exact moment of crisis and you have to 0:22:1 be you have to like make a good faith effort to figure out what that is you have to be building towards one instead of expecting one or trying to incite one ahead of time but the thing about this like reality is it's very very unappealing and that's why i was talking so much about how we have to act from love and not self-interest because if we act from self-interest the self-interested thing to do is take the bet that things are only going to get worse and then pile high make roads gather rosebuds while you may tune out politics literally become apolitical or uh or or just or give yourself over to just like the the libidinal gusher of like wild like confrontational violence apocalyptic violence and fantasizing about bringing it's going to it's not going to be enough you have to be like i am building something for someone who has to come later i'm i'm seeding the bed because someone has to seed the bed not everybody can ***** harvest some people have some of the people who sow are not 0:23:3 going to live to reap and they have to they have to feel in their heart as much love for the person in the future who might be able to reap than they as they feel for themselves or at least enough to direct them towards that goal rather than personal satisfaction and i'm saying i'm not there yet but i'm saying that's the that's the challenge we all have to face to like initiate enough of a kickstart this is all i realize an incredibly long and detailed and and uh oh my god half an hour long um uh digression from myos actually going to talk about today which is the liberal response to the woodward revelation and the tape and it is obviously i understand why people were morally horrified at what woodward did he is a creep he's a spook he was likely

cia asset he wrote a whitewashing cia book he like launders money like trump does 0:24:4 through his fake foundation uh he was a naval intelligence officer but until right before becoming a ***** washington post star political reporter just in time to destroy the presidency of a guy who just happened to be abrogating to his personal self the entire prerogative of the deep state foreign policy and defense policy the things that are not the presidents to have solely to his own power it raises a lot of questions and anyway he's a creep and doing what he did was purely self-interested like the guy is a moral slug he doesn't think of things in moral terms it's all transaction to him like you give some you give a good you give some guy a puff piece here he gives you a good goosey juicy scoop there you're not judging any of it you're just weighing it you're just you're a middleman that's and that's the way they see themselves and that's the old journalistic idea and you can argue with it but it's what they think anyway people are mad at him because he didn't think of like the fact that people needed 0:25:6 to hear this and i understand why they're mad at him but i do think it's interesting to see how visceral the response was in terms of people who said basically that all the people who died of covid in the u.s the 200 000 and maybe 500 who will uh are on woodward's head because hypothetically if he had released the tape in february while trump was saying it's not a big deal and he said yeah but you said this to me that that would have somehow stopped what happened from happening and to that i say i don't think a single person who think feels that emotionally could explain to themselves how that like what what what's the thinking here you know like people see oh trump said one thing behind closed doors and then he did another thing what i guess the thought is people wouldn't be able to lie to themselves about covid and they'd be like well i know he says it's a phony here but he said this that it's real or that trump would be forced to be like you got me i take it seriously now that might 0:26:8 have changed the contours of the distribution of the pandemic but i don't think we would have escaped pandemic spread in this country i will say that we would not have and and beyond that it's like well you're talking about random chance now like what are you really mad at and for people who are acting like this is like a moment in history that could have changed the river of time i'm sorry no way and i think the reason people have an instinctual even if they understand it logically that it doesn't make sense they instinctively think that this is a real possible thing that could have happened because they are still they are completely captured by politics as a spectacle right like you can say oh no they want you to vote but it's like yeah but remember voting is just this symbol the voting stands in for four years of obeying the law like you spent four years being exploited and having that exploitation then rendered into like a culture for your consumption all year and the thing that makes you consent to it is that you wait in line and you ***** put a vote in that it's the 0:27:9

ritual it is an actual action it is a ritual as much as watching a debate or arguing about them are it's ritualized behavior in that it's not meant to actually interfere with the real structures of power now those things do activate at the level of the politicalism people we vote in to do that then do exercise power and influence that does direct history i think that's true but they're doing it with only the faintest whiff of momentum coming from below the real engine is the is is the is the the real governing is done at the level of negotiating between firms because those are the people who have access who are there every day we select the people to go and do it but then they do the real governing with the firms and the stuff with the firms is made invisible and then all we see is the is the puppet show i know this sounds like a cliché but i mean this is literally how this stuff works and those are heavy-handed because the crucial thing about that metaphor is that something is a whole and is operating as a mechanism but we culturally only engage with the mechanic with with the front of it with like one gear spinning rather than the entire machinery and that's so that we keep thinking that's the entire thing i mean it's sleight of hand they think that now even now even as we have seen the erosion of reality in front of our faces as like everything gets hyper normalized before it even happens i mean like you could argue that blade runner 2049 hyper normalized what's happening in california already because everybody thinks they're like blowing people's minds by showing pictures of blade runner and being like oh my god this is blade runner what they're actually doing is they're recreating this ritual of recognition and then ascent like oh yeah blade runner that movie that was kind of that was a fun movie that was a good movie and you know what there were still cool cars there was a guy in a with a robot girlfriend and a gun hey harrison ford's here it's still our world and so when we see it it's like a recognition that is relief so anyway that means that we are engaged totally in the pageantry of this thing and we give it meaning which means we have to think that on its terms it works and so the way they think things work is that if enough people at the right moment hear or see something bad or good about a leader that it will change their minds in such a concentrated way that it it literally cracks the foundation of reality like it stops the gears of history and breaks them like uh perfect because a miniature example of this is um um mr smith goes to washington where um uh jimmy stewart has to do a ***** uh filibuster one-man filibuster to protect the funding of some like boy scout troop uh which honestly now after everything is very sustainable it's like why do you like boy scouts so much guy you've been talking for 40 hours about boy scouts this is finally his throat gives out as it must and he collapses and the reason he wins is because the evil senator who is in charge of the thing botches a suicide attempt and confesses because he was moved by the words and every political story that we tell ourselves has that ending where

something bad has ended by everyone becoming aware of some something bad and it changing things the moment when the police march in and march away the bad guy and we all think that that's possible and even with trump disproving all of our notions of political reality in front of us we still because we don't have an alternative we think that's the whole show we think participating at the level of voting and this passion play is the only way we can so if those buttons don't do anything we're ***** and so we're just going to keep hitting but so we have no example so imagine a fantasy counter example that cannot be disproven so i don't think it's likely that 0:31:14 anything significant would have changed if that had happened but to a liberal even if he doesn't think of it he can imagine to enough to at the level of gonads not even at the level of a conscious uh fantasy uh a situation where this thing gets revealed and overnight trump's approval rating drops to zero everyone on fox news distances themselves from trump and it's essentially what happened in watergate which is the actual model for all of this like watergate is the one time it happened that they have now modeled the rest of the world on even though time has passed and the political economy we had and especially the partisan constituency of congress which is a huge huge part of it and also the the state the like the the um hegemonic status of the media as a trusted third party those are inconceivable now those conditions do not obtain but that fantasy of watergate is the fantasy that motivates everything 0:32:16 and it's even beyond the election it's even beyond the election and that was always what impeachment was about and that's what all of it boils down to is there's one version of reality where something different happened and we got the final thing and so they're mad at woodward for not having a thing worry out like what would have happened is they would have done another impeachment and he would have resigned or been arrested right you have to admit that's what you're thinking because what is any other scenario that changes things oh uh ted cruz has to go on tv and tap dance for a little bit and pretend to not understand the question when asked about the president's comments trump just bebops and scats what really happens is that the structure of america at this point could not accommodate ***** coronavirus we are a rickety goddamn carousel and everyone knew it when trump talks about how he didn't want to make a panic he didn't mean like people running in the streets like it's war of the worlds and they think that the radio is real it's the market collapsing the market collapsing the prospect of all of that capital disappearing overnight without giving people chance at the people at the top time to hedge time to make sure they 0:33:18 shorted that ***** and that would exist no matter who's in charge so hillary clinton she would not have gone outside and said it's a hoax she never would have done that but we didn't have the rapid response to deal with this thing we didn't have the capacity to make enough mass in time if we told people to get masks the reason

we told people not to get masks is because we didn't know we had enough so that's the thing we couldn't have done so it might have reduced the spread but the spread was inevitable look at the performance of the democratic governors these guys were supposed to be the heroic alternatives to trump these guys have the most blood on their hands and it's not because they're uniquely evil it's because they're big states that got it early and what happens when you're a big state that gets in early is the economic reality of just just annihilating that much value overnight over something that might happen because what if we catch it in time what if we catch it what if we stop it what if we contain it what if we get a quick cure oh it's actually this old thing oh what if we get a fast cure what if we what if it just dies out what if it goes less 0:34:20 lethal people don't know that much about science and that's what trump did and that's i would say what any of them would do while doing maybe a little bit more to put the brakes on the economy they would not have slammed shut on the economy the way that we would have been necessary to stop the thing from becoming what it became we would have slow rolled our way into it one way or the other because we could not stop the ***** wheels from turning this stuff is all borrowed money it's a bunch of water wheels of debt that have to be serviced in a moment by moment both basis and that means constant inputs at the end of the road of this constant world machine is the american ***** consumer economy you cannot turn it off sir at a moment's notice now you can turn it off if you have to and we did but they gave them ***** time they gave them time they gave them time to hedge their bets they gave them time to get out uh they made it time to for them to even make money shorting the ***** which a number of them did the ***** congress people did and so there's so we know for a fact that nothing would have changed absent trump just being like 0:35:22 blown out of office and even then you're just solving the problem of trump you're not solving anything having to do with coronavirus you're just actually fixating on getting trump out because nothing else has worked and you're afraid that you ***** up by picking biden and you're gonna lose again they're terrified they're gonna lose again they're so ***** scared they're gonna lose again and so they're imagining oh my god what if we got him back in february they'll lead him out and i'll lead him out of the white house in handcuffs because what could have happened but what but what trump did is what any of them would have done they would have said oh god we don't know if we can contain this economically we don't know if or or like with infrastructure if this overcomes us that's like a doomsday scenario but hey we have no way of slowing this economic machinery we and we don't have the infrastructure and resources to combat it from the point of view of state action because all those limbs have atrophied we ***** stopped uh creating a uh like a reinforcing structure of like response nodes out of like the bureaucracy of the state uh employees it's all 0:36:23

been sold off so what trump did was stall and try to hope that something miraculous would happen and he keeps saying that oh it's going to go away it's going to go away bye-bye it's going to wait because they cannot conceive fixing the problem and that is beyond trump now trump is a particularly unimaginative one of these guys and so he had even fewer ideas than anybody else which made him more of more in denial than other people because he was so sure he had no alternative they were all in some stage of denial and i would argue that that stage of denial coupled with the actual impracticalities of imposing the system like this on us because even if trump says it's real you look at q and on like how many of them would take his vaccine i don't think that many or certainly not all of them so you have these rips and trent and splits that could be uh uh exacerbated by the fact that for local officials it will always be more make more sense to kowtow to people who want you to stay open because they're going to be richer they're going to be more important to your electoral future the people who are most at risk are mostly the most expendable that calculation runs no matter who which party you are or what level of power you have but of course the response to this is well if there's no level of symbol that will work if the thing is on grooves so that there's nothing trump can do to be interfered with which implies because a lot of these people assume trump will try to steal it at this point they now think that anything he tries to do he will succeed at and i gotta say it's a hell of a track record he has not failed at much that he's really tried to do i mean how he didn't even become ***** president through effort at least i mean there was trying there but it sure as hell wasn't him he's he's flailing away at it and of course once again it wouldn't work against another opponent like trump is adjusting to his opponent's weaknesses and um because he went after hillary for being crooked and part of the establishment he started doing that with biden if people remember he tried to do like the crooked biden thing and like look at hunter and all that stuff but he is now singled in on because he watches the news obniffers omnivorously you saw today he talked about how in the midst of a pandemic he spent the entire day watching television he watched fox news for nine hours and he was bragging about it uh so he watched all this tv so he knows what the moment the the feel of the moment is he gets the grooves and he sees the trunk the binds thing is where is he biden's thing is what is his actual response to this everything looks in turmoil we want something better but are you actually safe harbor and his answer has been look jack uh you know uh bye thumbs up emoji uh here's me in farmville he's reinforced every uh every concern that he's an empty a literal empty suit like just a scarecrow man and that's like a real thing and the thing is i don't and and it's exacerbated by the fact that the democratic party is not in a position to make any promises to anyone because it knows it can't even try to ***** keep them because it might win

too much what if they really want what if they were back in the obama position they wouldn't be able to do what they need to do they want to avoid that they want divided government above all else because they do want to make sure that trump doesn't just like personally take over the government because hey they had to deal with republicans they didn't have a deal with trump and that's like the real split here it's the people who've accommodated the accommodated themselves to trumpism as a third force in politics that is like now remaking the landscape or the ones who uh are sticking with like the old fragments and trying to weld them together like the the old republican party like the up until romney party and they don't want to take power under a moment of like in uh of like emboldened progressive demands that's why they had to destroy bernie at all costs including the cost of thousands of their own voters for christ's sake they had to ***** stop him no matter what and it's really frustrating because like it shows that how much work there is to do because bernie got real far with the media entirely against him and with that media having a direct propaganda line from the democratic party to their own voters they're like a baby bird they were feeding voters their own beliefs incepting them every day on msnbc and on cnn uh and on the internet in general like the respectable sites that they would look at not q a nonstop and he still they still did really well but uh they weren't breaking through to that second layer i talked about and that's why i get so frustrated with people who take the discourse seriously because they say well the discourse powered you know bernie and brought him down but like bernie was still reaching out way farther into that repressed loam than the ***** discourses online are and it still wasn't enough which means you're way farther away from it and i guess the thinking is if you try harder you will like create a bigger political structure but i don't think the evidence persists for that we're going to have to go back and refocus our energy people are going to have to refocus their energy that's going to be i hate to sound like but we have to refocus our energy and as for whether biden wins or trump loses i don't know and this is the important thing about the democratic fantasy the liberal fantasy of like having the discourse make everyone's mind at once in one way like just flash frying us some sort of political consensus that transcends the moment that brought us to trump being in power is that if he loses the election and goes in any way he will still be there he will be banco's ghost he will be the nightmare jester he's going to have his own tv station onna baby he's going to be the man every night he then q anon is going to be growing and this will be the specter that haunts them and that means that they have to increase their fantasies and the richness of the fantasies of those what-if moments those counterfactuals where it could have been different which can never be disproved because they and they never happened because they this is cloud cuckoo land what people yeah i saw that anti-fuzz now to blame for the fires that's of course going to happen because it's all a unified field it unfolds eventually everything because what it is is it's a discursive map right it's a map of territory it's it's mapping reality which means eventually it is there it touches everything you touch if reality is your understanding of like the media then eventually every like that's why they like they talk everything's about celebrities they have to incorporate a huge part of their life which is celebrities they observe through celebrity culture and through media things they watch they have to be part of it everything politics has to be part of it so of course if there's a bad thing that happens especially if the other answer is lies george soros lies like global warming like that's especially if there isn't if there's a non-political explanation maybe you don't have to get to it yet but if there's something happening that is part of your media diet that does not have it does not have an explanation within the rubric of cue it becomes an irritant and you have to neutralize it and so oh somebody makes a fake post about anti-fun guys getting arrested uh for setting a fire and then they send it out and even that person doesn't have to be uh cynical that person could be earnest that person could be could say yeah i don't know this isn't technically true but i know they did it and i am justified in doing this because it serves the greater good of getting out the truth and then every and that's why you could never ask anybody who retweets any of these old q people who post insane ***** that is clearly not true like do you really think elon omar was quoted saying you know i am uh i am a ***** for a lot and i must you know decapitate your they would say yeah but you know she thinks that and that's all it takes because it's worth it to get it out there because otherwise they're she's gonna cheat and keep it from you so now antifa and apparently people are patrolling ground areas to keep out antifa they're way more likely to start a fire by like firing off a few rounds into the apparently there was a fire caused by some guys shooting off guns dry timber so they could be out there shooting at fake antifa guys and light their own fire things are getting way too on the nose man that's really the moment isn't it the moment now is all that is subtext rising and replacing text it's uh it's a bummer man it's a real bummer uh i saw the adolf read thing um i thought it was really funny the number of people who go immediately after he starts talking oh they got to him unless you're like these people think all of them id people too they're i their concepts are essentially uh it's uh things spread by like viral patterns like you you either replace someone's brain through some combination of social pressure and uh their own desire for advancement and then they just become zombified versions of themselves and i think that might happen sometimes but for the most part people are acting out of earnest self what they think is good faith they just have different priors and that you have to resolve them through engagement you cannot resolve them by declaring them heretics and

just reinforcing every time something happens the same old arguments because you drive yourself further and further away and that drives people towards these absurd positions like the new ruling class is like ***** blue checks like the real ruling class of this massive world bestriding colossus is me is is anxiety brooklyn blue checks that is an absurd concept to me and i reject it fully and i think that the embrace of it is 0:47:39 an attempt to to turn the uh that deformed spectacle of twitter that like this island of ***** into the universe like you're on a dunghill that you've decided is the cosmos and you're gonna kill anybody who walks over and says that you're wrong hey get off the piece of ***** and so people drive themselves to absurd conclusions and as i have said on all sides people have to have a point where they reach oh am i just doing this because i have to get more and more psychic pleasure and enjoyment out of out of higher and higher staked arguments because i feel less and less of power in my miserable life am i just coping strictly and not focusing my energy at all on redirecting like away from just reinforcing this sick need this this fake angst where half of my pleasure is pain half of my love is hate as in like consciously as in like half of the love i feel in the world is actually the hate i feel for these other people and 0:48:41 that's what drives me that's that's sterile and it eventually overcomes your reasoning and you are no longer right you're not even right it's one thing if you were arguing these points and you were right now you're not even right you're off the ***** beam oh ***** but you'll never know because anybody who tells you you're off the beam they sold out they got to them and now you're floating off into space and all i can say then is bye-bye that's why i don't engage these questions i say bye-bye and this is why if anno free did say that somebody got to angela nagle i don't think that's true either because he's using that reasoning that got him there to continue moving on even though he realizes oh i'm like really just reinforcing an argument i'm having on the internet i'm not trying to get to the truth if she does something else it's because someone got to her because i'm still thinking in those terms i'm still thinking in in like there's the pod people and there's the real people not we're ***** moving from different priors and grind banging grinding off of each other and bumping and grinding off one another both of these are wrong positions i think the people with 0:49:43 those people i've been some of them have been making money and some of them are willing to sell out mussolini style on both sides like the number of people who are just like total scammers and absolute nihilists who consider themselves super woke and id paul and like uh the most sainted pure being of like white prejudice recognition they take that fact the fact that they have a pure understanding of racial dynamics even though they're white they've transcended their white their white taint their guilt they've transcended their guilt well because that i can see things clearly and america is too racist everyone else isn't as good as me nothing's gonna get better so i get to do the same ego piling on selfishness as like the ***** disgusting chug monsters who like alex jones who are just gonna sell supplements while the world burns they're gonna laugh themselves to the bank because no no i'm a good person i'm not just being cynical but i'm so good that i know that this can't be redeemed 0:50:44 and in the meantime it's good for me to advance myself if you are poc you can say anything i do to advance myself is justice and if you're a white person who has like fully acknowledged their privilege or is so aware every moment that they could never acknowledge their privilege then you deserve it for being better than all those off other awful white people those dynamics reinforce each other and the thing that the main point i'm making is none of it requires anybody to be got to either by deep pocketed insiders uh like hedge fund guys uh um woke capitalist corporations like nike or ***** gay or or the gates foundation those people do exist like one of the leading prison abolitionists is underwritten by the ford foundation does anyone know that is anyone aware of that fact ford foundation grants for prison abolition we're going to have a ford company but we're not going to have prisons that's that's the world that they are trying to sell you but that is not everybody and going from 0:51:46 the assumption that it's everybody will leave you like spinning around in a circle trying to find a wall to avoid getting stabbed in the back because you can't trust anyone and trust is the beginning of everything because trust is what builds uh and of course people say there's no left-wing heritage foundation no no but there is uh i mean there is a meager scrap of of clout to be had there are jobs there are there's streams of revenue there's you could get a ***** uh woke podcast awoke uh patreon uh woke awoke only fans there's something to be had it's not as much as you could 0:52:47 get from the heritage foundation but you're good enough to not want that you have enough principle you are better than those people in a fundamental way you've not given up the fight to the degree that they have where they don't even they think the fight has been won that's how bad they are but you still stop short of like and then you want to defend that position everyone's got to defend their position it's grim i know i keep saying it but people need to keep hearing it i think because i'm getting new listeners presumably we're going to start on our own stream now it's going to be podcast available so presumably a bunch of people who don't ***** with youtube and i totally understand or twitch once again completely get it are going to hear them so i'm going to keep banging the dinner bell 0:53:52

welcome to the chat room we got fun and games we got all the memes you want but you better come here today we've got the posters that you'll find whatever you may need and if you've got your pepes we got your disease welcome to the chat room welcome to the chat room won't you bring me to you uh so i don't want to i'm sorry that i felt irreverently considering the the day it is it is after all 9 11 which is a very important date and of course a very important day for the city that i live in my adopted home of new york it was on this day that hillary clinton puked ***** her pants and fell into a suv and the world was never the same man that was a moment wasn't it when hillary fell over we i watched that we interviewed the guys who made the pepe documentary and segment where they talk about how this felt like they'd memed it into reality and i gotta say that's certainly how it felt at the moment it felt like everyone i know of course those freaks like to take things proprietarily because they suffer so much for being online as in you know their lives are so miserable outside of it that they they essentially deserve credit for creating all concepts because they spend the most time on here but sorry it doesn't mean you're good at it just anyway i really feel like that was a groupoff group project not even on our part uh willingly just the idea that she was wildly ill and hiding it was just very funny and turns out she probably wasn't even sick because i mean honestly if you would have would you have asked yourself back then 911 2016 do you think hillary will be alive in 2020 i think most people be like no unless they find her in a robot body she's gonna ***** conk out but here she is because these people can't die it's one of the many evocative like mythological elements of q anon that like rings true why are these evil people essentially immortal and adrenochrome stands in for the excess the excess the surplus value that they keep on to themselves it allows them essentially to stave off death by the intervention of technology and you know it doesn't even necessarily mean you you don't even necessarily to have to have that much more than other people to live unnaturally longer than them because you're not affected by the things that kill tons of americans like you have the time and money to avoid the costs of of unhealthy eating habits or alcohol or anything else you can offload those you can pay to have them dealt with instead of having the problem create more problem and more problem and and bring you into an earlier grave and of course they don't expose themselves to the hazards of life that kill so many americans and they're never going to have to worry about having their lifespan shortened by excessive use of drugs because they don't need drugs power is their drug and adrenochrome the idea that there's a chemical in brains that is emitted during fear and pain that can be consumed ritually and that will extend life that speaks to the reality of life lived in the very sight of these people doing this while we're all suffering woodrow wilson said that he was terrified of the automobile when it was introduced because he thought that the fact that now poor people would get to see rich people driving around in these vehicles would cause them all to spontaneously declare themselves bolsheviks and overthrow capitalism he was genuinely afraid that the ostentatiousness of of this iron chariot whipping around and running over poor kids was going to make people so sharply aware of class distinctions that they would have overthrown capitalism now there we've we've seen that this country has particular bafflers built into it to withstand any overflow of radical radical activism it's got it's got so many bafflers and chambers and venting ports that it's been able to disarm popular misery no matter where or how much it emerges basically since i got the sun in my eyes here i gotta move i know it's i know i look very man i got this post here is the only thing that's stopping me from getting sun on my face this is annoying uh hold on a minute yeah i'm sure this is a lot of fun for everybody watching me do this i might have to go back to the gross wall that everybody hates because there's no sun here so sorry if it looks like i'm in uh sorry if it looks like i'm waiting to get executed with all right here we go this ought to be all right this is fine you get to see the freaking uh the the what do they call those transmission boxes i don't know i don't uh cable box transformer i think it might be a transformer fuse box whatever it is i don't know it's some sort of technology that keeps me from dying this wasn't even talking about 9 11 something oh hillary falling over yeah that was really funny wasn't it she comes out wearing those glasses and goes i feel great never really got better than that no there's never a funnier day than that never a more unalloyedly funny day of this whole thing than that it's funny now that the left has gone around to thinking 911 was an inside job right after right after 9 11 9 1911 trutherism was a sole province of the radical left that was it like alex and that's why seeing alex jones's trajectory is interesting because he started off in the national consciousness anyway after being an austin goof-up before that on 911 and becoming a conduit for left-wing uh disillusionment with the status quo channeled into the narrative of trump bush doing 911. and then i feel like there was a pushback led by people like matt taibi where they say who got called left gatekeepers who they said look you're ignoring all the realities of power

and the contours of power in this country to create a passion play about these evil uh bush people when the real the reality of american politics and geopolitics and strategic strategy is that things like 911 are the inevitable outgrowth of american policy and are then incorporated back into american foreign policy as an arborist it doesn't require intervention from the state and now it feels like we're back to the smart opinion being that 911 was an inside job now though as an expression of like a deeper awareness of the absurdly uh basically as a way to explain the failure of the left to generate any anything like there was no real left in in 2001 in america it had basically turned into nothing like the the last you had um you know people can point to something like the battle in seattle but i honestly think minus 911 that would have turned into a uh like a last gasp of something it didn't really build to anything it was like that anti-globalization movement it reached the point of like highest conflict with the state and then because there's no higher way to go there was more uh there was no higher level of conflict with the state that they were capable of or willing to carry out it dissipated and so 911 kind of like helped build like even a self-conscious left in this country first around being anti-war but then within that there was the hardcore who used 911 as a narrative to like construct a story of american malevolence that explain the horror of this thing that had happened to us saying no no i know this is awful and it should and it should make you mad but don't be mad at them be mad at the people in charge and that's that was in the context of the bush administration a left-wing position the wright pretty much loved bush especially right after 9 11. and in fact for a while 911 truth was used by people who wanted to during the obama years especially who wanted to both sides stuff like birtherism they would say yeah republicans believe kooky stuff like that obama wasn't born in america but lyft leftists believe it 9 11 was an inside job and it was considered like a synoquinon for that like left position uh but it was left coming into its own now the left has failed to achieve liftoff at a time of maximum crisis a crisis that makes 911 that dwarfs 911 that is in the aftermath of 9 11. and it has like renders mine 11 in a day-to-day basis smaller and smaller in the minds of people who at one time had it consumed their entire identity and so an answer has to come to why hasn't the left succeeded why hasn't the left succeeded and if things getting bad don't make people act better than what hope do we have you know that was what got us out of the depression essentially uh without rev becoming a barber as a total fascist country was that was the was the effort of people uh who experienced the great depression and wanted to take control of their economic destinies and funneled that into things like sit down strikes wildcat strikes massive labor organizing of the uaw and the uh and the cio the radical cio communist movement the communist party which was at its zenith of influence and membership uh organizing and and and creating locus of

of radical power within every node of government up to and including the and now we're in a similar crisis or the beginnings of one and there's no nothing even on the horizon of of even the ghost of those ideas and i think people have a desire to want to explain that and i think the idea of uh of inside jobbery now of of being persuasive as as a thing that could happen hypothetically a thing that could realistically happen 0:12:24 in this country like a cadre of people within the within the government carrying off a massive attack on some citizens staging elements of it and uh in order to carry out this agenda in the middle east if you think it's possible to do that then the failure of the left to make any kind of inroads makes sense it's explained within the greater umbrella of that meta explanation now this is not me saying one way or the other would i believe anything about 9 11. i don't really know i'm agnostic about it like i am with the kennedy assassination uh but i just think that the reason that that's that that i have noticed anyway and people could say i'm wrong about this i feel like there's been a kind of a shift towards more credulity towards trutherism than used to be considered on the left and i think it's because it's not necessarily any evidence because the evidence has always really been there and i think some of it is very eyebrowsing and brow raising and incredibly persuasive not stuff like tower seven that doesn't get me but you know the connections between saudi arabia and 0:13:27 uh and the hijackers you know uh like the the the at the uh airline shorts the the the ***** amount of money that was made by people shorting airline stock uh but anyway like i'm saying it's it's an interesting case there's there's stuff that's very eyebrow-raising about all of it uh we know that a lot of the stuff that they say is lies like they lied about i mean according to their own version of events they lied for a long time about whether or not there'd been an order to shoot down uh flight 93 or not and whether dick cheney had issued it without any authorization from the president to do so so like that we know they lied about ***** and obviously there's there's like the degree of saudi arabian government involvement is is at the minimal funding without with by some elements within like how far it goes up whether it was directed from the top of the of the saudi family royal family that is not proven 0:14:29 but minimal minimal but much more likely to the point of handling as if they were intelligence assets and when you consider the american relationship to saudi arabia in terms of uh creating uh radical islamic terror groups in order to subvert the so first the soviets and also secular leftist movements inside the middle east it raises eyebrows like i said but i think what changes which shifts over time is what people's are looking for and i think for a while people wanted to appear smart they wanted to realize no i understand that this isn't about the bushes like after obama gets in there and just wrecks everything and just destroys any momentum that left might have accumulated by by by by hijacking it and then and then dispersing it to the winds

they're like no the system it's bigger than bush and since it's bigger than bush he couldn't have been the the guy who did 911. like he's he's just another aaron boy for 0:15:30 this this systematic uh despoilation of the planet but now this farther into the *****
and now with another crisis looming i think people need an explanation for well why if we see this every day why is nothing to being done about it why are we not getting farther why are we not but like i said i don't really spend a lot of time on that i don't spend a lot of time on it because honestly my assessment of the situation is not much much different if it happened i guess i do resist the idea that bush was like we're doing 911 i guess i always am resistant to that level of conspiracy conception but i could definitely see i could i could accept as plausible uh any number of things 0:16:32 from it being allowed to go forward after being discovered by the government to government making another step towards like paving the way and allowing to go at the operational level as part of a broader strategy but it doesn't really change the way mustard tastes either way we still know who our enemies are and we still know what mechanisms they use to control and consent so i don't know i am i'm hesitant also to investigate it too much because i know i could definitely go down a rabbit hole there's so many i think there was doesn't wasn't there just recently declassified information that made explicit the degree to which there was high level knowledge 0:17:35 of the 911 plot in the saudi government oh man the anthrax attacks that stuff will make you screw your head on the other way around anthrax sent right after 911 to major media figures and politicians with this weird block lettering saying we have anthrax death to america allah whatever and it's discovered that the anthrax was 100 percent milled in a u.s government uh biological weapons facility specifically the one in fort detrick maryland which is the the headquarters of america's chemical and biological warfare division it's the unit 739 731 and they never ***** found who did it they accused a number of people one guy they eventually kind of had to half admit that they'd pulled a richard jewell but the other guy that they accused 0:18:38 last he kills himself and then they essentially closed the case they go well this guy probably did it i mean that's i mean but at the same time you're like okay the us government used u.s government anthrax to make that looks like muslims did it why would they do that exactly i don't understand it it doesn't even make sense that's its own terms they couldn't find some anthrax that couldn't be directly traced back to the us government they did paper clip japanese scientists japanese scientists who conducted monstrous medical experiments not on foreign jews like in europe on american servicemen on g.i joe got brought to the united states and had their criminal records expunged in order to get the secrets of but i have no idea about 0:19:45 any of it i try to i try to spend more time thinking about the current the current crisis just because there was a rabbit holes that if you're doing a greater project i think are worth investigating like if it's part of a greater project but i know for me i think it would end up me just you know i want to uh i want to take this opportunity now with a little old to uh to make a little mia culpa here uh on something that i've been saying for a while pretty confidently and then was proven wrong on recently and that is when i said of course they're going to understand they're going to extend unemployment uh and stimulus at the end of august at the beginning of august of course they're going to do it they're not crazy and people said look well they didn't do it and yeah you're right but thinking back on it i think my error came because that question never came by itself or like my my somebody asking me about that never came as a as a question of like hey what do you think about unemployment when unemployment goes out in august it was always framed as hey what about when the ***** goes down in august what about when the wheels come off in august and i think i subconsciously took too seriously the assumption that just because this threadbare system and this massively teetering economy got the ***** uh legs kicked out of it would result in some sort of generalized social crisis and i think because i assumed that i said well then of course they're going to uh do it because they would have to fail to recognize the necessity of it to the maintenance of the system that they were providing presiding over it turns out they had better either either more cut off to even not even be registering these questions and i think some of them are others of them i guess had better data than me on knowing that there is no limit to our debasement at this point they have nothing to worry about tom tillis is running for re-election right now in north carolina which while a southern state is at the presidential level kind of a swing state and it has a democratic governor it's certainly not alabama or mississippi one of his chief ***** uh advisors when told asked by a woman who had cancer about what was going to be what she could do about getting insurance that she could treat it uh said well you know when i haven't got want a fancy dress shirt and i can't afford it i just don't buy it and then she says well i need insurance and he goes or i'll die and he goes well you better get it then i mean you said that to a constituent anybody see ghostbusters too you know i'm a voter aren't you supposed to lie to me and kiss my butt i mean that's the minimum we're asking of these people to even look like it remember when john john kennedy that ***** yahoo from louisiana when asked about more ui said about people want more money in the in the pandemic said people in hell need so maybe i think a lot of it is just they are detached from the question but i think either because people higher above them with more influence are aware of it or they're just soaking in reality in a way that people who are paying attention to this meta conversation aren't and they just at a basic level understand things they know it doesn't matter they know that they have this thing rigged they know that that there's nothing we can do or will do they it doesn't matter if they lose an election and honestly a lot of them have a rig where they'll never lose elections now they've have picked their voter pool basically they've winnowed themselves down to the ideal voter and now they're going to be able to decide basically when or when when they or if they ever lose a ***** race and they might lose a race one or there and it's fine they still have their positions 0:23:51 of power and they can keep it keep and hey maybe even if they lose this time they can come back stronger while watching the democrats fail to do anything so the fact and i'd say that right now it's happening here where with an election in november and neither party stepping up to offer any kind of broad uh uh redistributed demand or some sort of insistence on massive stimulus at the demand level in the form of money to people the fact that neither party has wrapped themselves around that like obviously they both say they're in favor of it but then it's all just this procedural ***** nobody's out there biting sure ***** isn't out there and trump isn't out there with any kind of demand or insistence or even like a stunt to get people more money in an election year that means i think partially that they know there's nothing we will do but honestly i feel like they don't think that they could do it if they wanted to in in the sense sure they could sign the legislation and they could like let that money 0:24:52 out but in so doing they would be destabilizing the relationship between employer and employee in this service economy in a way that is not sustainable to the system it would be it would be like we have starved the roots we have starved people of money and made them replace it with debt to effectively control them so deeply that that's that uh mechanism is now the main way that we manufacture consent for this system beyond any ***** with a pageantry of elections or even protests it's that we have turned debt into a ***** cattle prod up everyone's ass and if you give more people more money you are literally reducing the wattage that you can blast up into their ***** taint and that mean that's and in a moment now when when when when when it's asset stripping time when there is no the timetable right now is strip the assets sell the copper get the pipes out of the ground we are not distributing ***** 0:25:53 to anybody the government doesn't do anything the government doesn't do anything for you just get that through your mind the government exists for you to own your enemies with it by getting people you don't like uh either shot killed it's suffering in some way triggered whatever that's the promise of our elected officials and if we give this money then we are breaking that promise and we are changing the elect that we're changing the game and capital flatly in this situation will not allow it to happen now because they need that liquidity at now i think the main thing to draw from this is that the idea that there's going to be a republican realignment where the republicans become a heron volk democracy like tucker carlson leads us into this 0:26:55 uh sort of populist huey long thing like from kaiser reich where huey long is the like the national traditionalist president or whatever the ***** there's no money in the till for this not in the sense that they couldn't do it but in the sense that it would be too destabilizing to the system to let it be done so that means that nobody's going to be able to run on a i'm actually going to do what trump promised to do platform it could only be culture war now that doesn't mean that the democrats are going to become more uh more populist and the other opposite they're going to be stuck in the same thing because these parties are still controlled by the things they're controlled by like trumpism could have broken into become a third force in politics the way hitlerism did under it hypothetically could if things have gone differently and most importantly if trump wasn't who he is if he was somebody who had the actual desire to do that he could have because his control over the base of that party is absolutely larger and more unified than the control the piddly control of the party machinery itself but because trump didn't care to do that and was too lazy and stupid and uncreative to even think of it it meant that the party took him and so what that means is there's nobody in the pipe there's nobody with trump's hand laid upon it who has articulated a more robust version of national socialism or or ethno-nationalism or hair involved democracy whatever you want to call it there's nobody who's been uh ordained you can say tucker carlson but he does not he will i don't think he will have trump's ability to be independent of the political process when he runs because yes tucker carlson is very pop very famous and very popular on the right wing of the republican party but does he have the name recognition to run totally up independently of a party machinery that like i am telling you right now will not allow for this heron volks uh populist turn will not allow it it means like if josh hawley runs it's going to be on nukes nuke china that's it nothing else it's going to be we're going to get all of our all of our angst out about how bad things are and about how we refuse to help you by smashing the ***** out of the chinese that's going to be the hair and vote democracy is hey we're going to have world war ii but just in terms of a massive and like i think tucker will be able to run but like will he have the entire united trump base behind him no not unless trump were to anoint him and trump doesn't care to do that you would have to have a coherent organized principled ideologically driven core at the top of a trump uh movement that would then be able to seize control of this mechanism through the body of trump and trump's personal relationship to his voters that has not happened he is still in control of the same globalist they always was steve bannon was the one guy who could have made this project happen and they kicked him to the curb five minutes later why not because he was like too smart for the room or too much of a danger because he was a dumb ***** because he over he overemphasized his own ability to do something he was overconfident because he was a coked up old self-important blarney stoning irish

***** and his ***** reach was exceeded his grasp the ***** his his uh his mouth was bigger than his stomach his nostril was bigger than his bag of and he of course got instantly turfed out by the united like the entire um uh um immune system of the republican party kicked in at the institutional bureaucratic level which filled in all the spots that bannon couldn't fill because and was filled by because trump just signed whatever rights gave him like bannon lost the fight as soon as rance priebus was made chief of staff it was game over and bannon got iced out because what the project he was doing needed somebody smarter than him to do it so the fact that he noticed the moment doesn't make him a genius a genius would have been able to actually make something of the moment but because trump is the guy we got like this deformed short-sighted uh slow-witted distracted cripplingly vain buffoon who could not seize the moment and like redirect the ship similarly bannon is just too thin just some ***** coked up ***** who like uh red who like uh like smoked a doobie with uh with brian wilson and then red turner diaries and like it turned him into a ***** that's the people we produce in this everybody in washington i realize this reading uh this absolutely insipid review of of henry kissinger's lattice book that hillary clinton wrote where she says it goes from sun tzu to tacitus to twitter and i just think these people are so ***** stupid they're so dull and what they've done is that they are they all of them confuse ambition with intelligence they think that because people are driven to the top in the battle of wills against other mediocrities in a bureaucratic stew they're the ones throttling their legs the hardest it makes them the smartest or the best at it no it just means they're the ones the most pathological because none of these people have anything other than ***** now of course yes they also can uh they also uh confuse ambition with virtue like do i believe good things well i want it really bad so they must be good so this is why i don't think unless things break in a very unpredictable way like i said like black swans you have to account for them the trajectory right now i don't think they could get it off the ground even with tucker carlson as the as the pilot or as the as the spruce goose or whatever um but hey i've been wrong before i have no idea i still put my money on the mypillow guy and it'll just be pure like hey wasn't wasn't it uh wasn't cocoon a good movie that'll it'll just be pure last stage alzheimer's like just a return to a soothing past where of course also all demon pedophile democrats are being executed but i mean if you can see three months from an election neither party stepping forward it either means that neither of them really want it neither one of them want to win they're throwing the ball back and half it's hot potato uh or they just can't do it it's outside the realm of the possibility either because capital is explicitly vetoing it or because the effect of capital on the political process has so transformed politics to being the state of like uh of the market it's so marketized politics that they can't they're as incapable of acting together as the bourgeois is local uh i think this actually might be the explanation i think this thinking it through i think this is why it is uh it's because this is why things aren't working it's not even the capital is saying no we can't do this stop it it's because so marx described the gov like a government is the executive committee of the bourgeois and the idea here is is that there is a general thrust to capitalism there is a capitalist social order that na that has to be maintained through like structures of coercion and consent 0:35:8 to create a market that can then be used to transmit goods back and forth that and that needs to be maintained but the thing is is that individual capitalists are not acting according to the best interest of capital as a system they are acting in what their perceived short-term best interest is because that's all they can afford to pay attention to that's why these are this that's why this is a terrible way to organize society and has to be done away with because of the massive waste the energy just destroyed in these blind clashings of organisms that think they're separate but are actually one part of one thing like working this out of the system is what gets you to a point where you can actually apportion surplus rationally and morally which are the same thing when you have a a a a a consciousness that expands to the to the level of like a a society a society or a species or something but anyway individual capitalist firms act like individual capitalist subjects in their own short-term interests and what 0:36:10 that means is that they will often end up in situations where they competition is inferior to cooperation but they're not aware of that like this is game theory stuff and then they mutually destroy one another like john nash won a nobel prize for talking about this stuff and this is the state of the market without some force that is outside of the market to coordinate it to do traffic signs the same way we do with what the liberals think is the necessary state like the police and infrastructure like government like the government the political class is the infrastructure of the like the the mechanism of that regulates the market it has the same function it is it's the police it's the roads it's all the minaricus stuff and and that organizes and synthesizes the will of the collective will the collective best interest of capital away from the individual interests of actors within capitalism and that means that some 0:37:12 are going to fail and some are going to be hurt like the last 40 years has been huge hugely beneficial to certain segments of this economy and has made them hugely pop wealthy but it has destroyed others and those decisions about which winners like that's why it's so funny when republicans talk about we don't want to pick winners and losers that's literally what government does like in the 70s the volcker shock and everything else that went along with it essentially shows the winners were going to be shareholders and the losers were going to be workers and there's some overlap there because these are not all uh so but what has happened in the last

four years is as economic the hegemony of neoliberalism destroyed the the the even the zone of action for economic policy like it was off the table economic policy is determined by the fed basically it's like the interest rate determines everything 0:38:13 that is the only real involvement the government can have in the economy it does regulation at the level that the gov that is acceptable to industry and then it uh does minimal oversight of everything else and it collects some taxes to circulate money in the system really more than anything else and in return what that means though is that the zone of actual politics gets smaller and smaller which means the people who decide to become politicians are less and less aware of what they are even doing they're less they didn't they weren't there when the the conditions were set they've lived in the conditions and now so they think the only thing that matters is the politic is the cultural ***** that they've been arguing about for the past 40 years and so that means that they then become like and then also parties the party system people 0:39:14 rising and falling based on you know their ability to uh be a spectacle of themselves you know you either get a nice gerrymandered seat through the party system or you become a political entrepreneur like the tea party clowns and donald trump and ***** instagram thoughts like dan crenshaw and alexandria ocasio-cortez like they're all part of this new celebrity structure and what that means is that you've rep you've turned you've turned politics into culture as you've turned culture into politics and that means now everyone is just only fanning their way and instagramming their way through the politics which means you've recreated the market in the political area when it's supposed to be the one that's outside the market so it's operating by the same me first rules so they're so nearsighted they can't even see the election three months ahead of them there's a siren oh yes i know i remember this i forgot you could 0:40:18 hear it from here that's the uh that's the uh friday night uh shabbos uh siren to let the hasids know and the indoors i was uh with chris today and we were walking down the street and there was and he noticed that there were some cops standing around he said is there more are there more cops out in the streets on 911 do you think and i think yeah they probably do it as a show of force thing but maybe they would say to stop a copycat attack but it's amazing when you consider that the the amount of real estate that was kept that was occupied in the average american's brain by anxiety about terrorism and how that's completely gone like it's not of course the 0:41:19 terror zone is bigger now and it contains more things but terrorism has gone from this giant lobe of fear to this little sliver i think part of the reason for that is can you imagine being an al-qaeda guy and bothering blowing up something in the united states what so that you could get like a trending topic for five minutes and also what are you gonna do like you're gonna set fire to a are you gonna throw what i mean it's like you're gonna dump ***** on crap like we're ***** this place it sucks what kind of like p what are what are you gonna be able to pierce us with with like oh you blew up a building it's just terrorism defined our response to the 21st century defined our economy define doomed us you could argue in many ways to not like not 0:42:20 necessarily to apocalypse but to to less than we would have could have had otherwise and now it's it's a afterthought what has been spawned out of it has been just this nightmare whirlwind that is so much more monstrous and and oppressive that we can't even muster up the energy to concern ourselves with the empty shell the husk of terrorism that used to fill yeah 911 one of the most successful terror attacks in history depending on not i mean it doesn't matter if it was mossad or george w bush or the saudi royal family or it was al Qaeda like that was a thing or it was it was it was it was a somebody was trying to get punked it was just four really shitty 0:43:21 pilots who just happened to have all started oh the official story of 911 accuracy zero zero percent chance officials i mean the official story is never true i mean just for epistemological reasons but you're not even getting closer any government thing like that any any any anything that deeply involving matters of state is basically never more than half true and that's like at the far far i'd say that uh that the official 0:44:23 911 story is probably more than 75 false i'll just say that but what's in the 25 know and people say the thing about the passport is like that is genuinely wacky that his passport just floated down out of the thing that is just kind of comical in ira eyebrow raising as i said but at the same time why would you do that why would you bother with that is it like they're not going to piece it together it just seems like it's such a on the i'm scrolling through an article uh in the daily meal the 101 0:45:25 best pizzas in america i'm going to see if i've had any of these and i could go for some pizza i have to say i wasn't i haven't had dinner yet and now i'm looking at these pizzas man i could go for one uh zollies never never been to zollies keep that in mind though best pizza i've ever had was i had it was just a random place on a corner it's phenomenal and two uh there's a there's a neapolitan i usually don't like neapolitan pizza i will admit i don't like how wet it is in the middle and how poorly like the sauce and cheese adhere to the crust and i don't really like the big fluffy crust anyway but uh that one in san francisco is definitely the best i've ever had i 0:46:28 forget it was just like a guy's name oh zafiro's from in milwaukee severoz is really good safiro's is great you can get it at movie theater it's super super thin crust oh it's like the best it's the best frozen pizza you've ever had which in my does anyone know frank something's it's i would like to try comic ping pong sometime i can't feel like i'm kicking myself frank pepe is in new haven and it's very good um it's in the old italian neighborhood north beach yeah i think it's tony's you know the thing is 0:47:33 i'd really like a frozen pizza i should always get frozen pizza oh ***** i just realized i'm talking about pizza here and people are going to think that this is proof that i'm

a part of the cabal i really just enjoy it and that's one of the reasons that i i kind of try that's that's one of the ways i pull myself back from falling too far over the brink of the whole you know the whole epstein brain thing is yeah people talk about pizza a lot but pizza is like really good and cheap and it's a thing everyone eats it's relatable it's gonna if you start looking for pizza you're gonna find it a lot of oh bar 0:48:37 in new haven i had that it was really good my favorite pizza topping has traditionally been pepperoni but i think i'm getting to the point where i really oh it might have been it might have been uh it might actually have been modern in new haven my stomach is literally rumbling right now wait a minute somebody is saying mandela effect versus totinos versus tostinos i'm afraid not for me it was always tortinos and people who said yeah if you thought it was tostinos that's your fault i'm not going 0:49:40 to validate your uh i do like anchovy sometimes i'm not gonna not gonna lie it's uh de fara i've had once and found it very very mediocre maybe i just had a bad one hey tony's pizza neapolitan is number 29. roberta's is okay i actually prefer speedy romeo's to roberta's when you're talking like high-end fancy pizzas patsies i have not had it's right near me though i should go to patsy maybe go to patsy's today 0:50:42 all right i'm getting to the number one slice the number one pizza in america john's on bleecker i've had and it's pretty good i don't know if it's number three i honestly don't think it's number three but john's on bleaker is good i had it i'd say that san francisco one's better p quads that is number two here and that is felix's favorite we tried to get peak pods when we were in uh chicago in 2016. in fact the famous picture of me dressed like a baby in front of a baby who is also dressed like me uh was taken while we were waiting to get into pequod's but sadly it was too big of a ***** uh line it was lolapalooza so those ***** jackasses were in there so we had to go next door and have you and i'm disappointed because i genuinely am not a huge 0:51:45 fan of chicago style pizza he insists it's the best i would give it a shot and then they got frank pepe as his number one pretty good pretty good those are i'd say those are those are all fine and i would love to try pequod there is no good pizza in ireland that is correct there are no good tacos in ireland they do a few things well you want a lamb stew they're your people you want some mussels those are pretty good fish and chips i know it's english but they do it good too uh some sort of pud pudding pie but they're not they're not good with pizza some of the best pizza i've ever had actually was in sao paulo brazil which has a large italian population but apparently rio pizza i never had but apparently pizza and rio de janeiro is someone says p quads is not 0:52:46 good at all shot fired i mean i don't really i don't credit felix too much with with uh gourmand taste he basically just eats beyond burgers since he's gone vegetarian he just eats beyond sausage and burgers ***** i bet south korean pizza is bad i would not think of them i mean they know they are the dairy asians but i don't think that they could really get pizza although i've heard of course very terrible things about swedish pizza something involving bananas is this true is this are those sick mutants putting bananas on ***** pizza as i am hearing happens and like curry banana curry pizza and then they put a bunch of weird like vinegar cabbage on it call it pizza salad mutants no wonder they decided to just stoically accept corona death they're eating that kind of ***** they're they call a lethal corona of diagnosis winning the lottery in sweden because who would want to eat that god forsaken garbage i like i like detroit style a lot of people were exposed to detroit style without knowing it because uh i think that the p the standard like what they called what uh hand taught what was it hand tossed or deep dish i think deep dish like not like chicago style deep dish but they would they but the deep dish style pizza hut was essentially a new york style pizza it didn't i don't think it had the the sauce on top but it had the same crust so people would get that and not even know it was detroit style back when back when pizza was the nicest restaurant in many what i could really go for is speaking of chicago style pizza's tavern style pizza that's super thin super thin crust with a little slice the i have seen the trump pizza commercial he did uh he did the pizza commercial where he he goes i made a deal i eat the pizza the other way i beat the buttercress and then he did of course the mcdonald's commercial with grimace where he did a job interview with grimace the best chain pizza i think it's the extra thin crust dominoes that is really good extra thin crust dominoes is a pimply choice for pizza fans anywhere places yeah i'm in the tatinos universe you tostinos people meet amongst yourselves to get figure out how you're going to get back into the rift because honestly if i if i would thought i was a testinos person i might decide yeah let's find a rift maybe in tostino's world 911 never happened you know maybe in tostino's world we didn't get this monstrous trajectory we we kind of took a breath and a moment and and recalibrated our uh our desires i mean obviously this is highly unlikely but maybe the tustinos universe figured things out a little bit not not perfect things are still probably pretty bad in a lot of ways and they probably have no idea how good they have it they think things are critical but we look at them and we'd be like my god they're so much so yeah i would try to find the testino's universe if i thought there was one but if there is it's not mine this is my universe i am lashed to the mast of the sinking ship yeah bernie is president of the tostinos universe but and he's been president he won in 2016. and we we are on our path to climate uh amelioration and every uh massive uh uh superstorm is met with huge reconstruction projects and green technology all over the place and transfer of green technology to emerging nations to cut down cooperation at the level of governments to mutually draw down the way that we mutually drew down somebody uh somebody asked if i to get seth rogen on the show i don't know what we would talk about i would i would maybe i would tell him that one time i had an idea for a movie with him and been james franco you know pineapple express style and the gimmick would be that he would be uh he would play and james franco would play lennon or not lennon not uh ingles 0:58:59 and the only thing i had was a scene where they were at like a meeting and jonah hill shows up as bakunin and they start busting each other's balls like it's a judge apatow movie judge apatow judge reinhold and judge apatow rogan mark says hey uh hey mikhael how's the secret society going you guys got dakota rings yet and then bakuna goes no you're totally right marx yeah you're going to have revolution by writing a ***** 5 000 page long economics textbook because there's nothing working class people love doing more than ***** long division but i think that that would uh that's more like a funnier die sketch than an actual movie it would be way it 1:0:0 would it would it would drill itself into the ground within five minutes it would wear it wouldn't even it would get over long all right guys i i'm up on an hour here and i gotta go because i gotta get pizza dudes pizza dude's got 30 seconds teenage mutant ninja turtles correct well done kudos user all right this uh this thing's getting wobbly so i better sign off

i have to say that one of the things that makes me feel oldest in the universe and of course i feel very old looking at the internet all day all these children running around on my lawn it would be that there is a very popular rapper so popular in fact that he has his own signature mcdonald's meal whose rap name not real name whose rap name is travis scott what is going on with the kids is it all the is it the scissor is it the tick tocks their brains not not an emcee not not a not a young not a not a friend no no not a sir nothing just some just like hi i i'm not even m.c travis scott i'm just what what in the world is going on i mean is it all is it just is it the training of hope for the future is that the idea that like why would i even bother coming up with a with a hypnotist hip-hop persona when there's no point to anything is that the idea don't get it one of the many things i uh hey guys are you ready for some hand egg sunday party it's hand egg time guys remember when people would say hand egg remember who read it remember bacon they'd say hand egg and sports ball those are the days now you can you only hear those things ironically making fun of people who haven't said that in in 10 years and half of whom are probably dead of covet man what's wrong with tom brady that he's still playing in tampa bay of all places what's wrong with his brain i mean obviously he's a quarterback there's probably a significant amount wrong with his brain but i mean brady has got to be one of the most blessed quarterbacks ever in terms of that i mean how many they basically made it illegal to hit him because how many concussions has brady even had in his career compared to even the average quarterback who of course are some of the least uh uh concussed so his brain's probably relatively intact and yet he's still at 41 with seven super bowls uh he's got to go win one with the ***** bucks hole in his soul man hole in his no aaron rodgers will never win the uh world series again to all-time top five quarterback and he won't win more than one that's too bad i want him to win one just so that he could definitively be proven as better than farve and the thing is brett favre was my quarterback as a child i have deep deep emotional associations with him that i could never put on to rogers who showed up when i was older and when i'd actually kind of stopped caring about football that much uh but i got to recognize reality i can't become one of these people who's totally his brain is deformed by nostalgia rogers is way better than farv ever was and i would like him to get one more world it's just such a shame that his best years were wasted by that that overgrown plus-sized top child toddler model that ashbash goshbagash 0:4:10 cover boy uh so today i wanted to start talking about um something people are freaking out about a little bit that farv said today they were talking about the guy in portland who got shot by the cops after killing the patriot prayer guy the guy who i think there's relatively strong circumstantial case was probably some sort of confidential informant with the police and either was like put up to shooting him by the cops or maybe like a tamerlane tsarnaev thing kind of got too into his role that he was supposed to be playing because he very very suspiciously had totally 0:5:12 apolitical social media until like three months ago and then he got a blm tattoo on his neck like two days before he shot the guy very eyebrow-raising as i like to say like i don't like to say any of this stuff happen because it leads you down a rabbit hole i like to say so he's talking about this guy getting shot and he says uh you know there has to be retribution he was a bad guy he was nasty and people are going oh my god oh my ***** god uh he's admitting that they he basically put a hit out on this guy that he said go kill this guy because he shot one of my beloved my beautiful boaters my beautiful land voters and i understand that that's a way to read that quote but i honestly don't think that that's the correct read at least from my experience with trump and you can tell me if you disagree but trump's presidency has been absolutely one of a kind in that he experiences being president as the act of watching himself be president not to be president he does not think of himself he 0:6:14 does not conceive of himself as president the way that those guys who clawed and scraped their way up the political mud hill to get to the top and killed everybody stabbed their mother to do it guys who shed any soul they had in the pursuit of this office which is basically all of them they got there so they could embody that power so that they could feel like they're on the their hands are on the ***** wheel which of course is a joke because it isn't really like bill clinton found out himself you mean to tell me my presidency is in the hands of a bunch of bond traders that's what he said when he found out no they're not going to let you uh they're not letting you do any uh anything other than deregulate and cut taxes and balance the trump does not think of himself as having power because all he really cares about is what the media thinks of him and even as president he doesn't have total power over that so he does not consider himself in power because he gets to watch people be critical of him that's not power so he and that's why by the way he is beloved by his base because 0:7:16 that's how save you the world these are i mean the people who've elected him are people who just watch tv all day or they're on facebook but mostly tv uh and they

CUSHVLOG 79. LET SLIP THE DOGS OUT

they want a president who who who vibes on that level but what what i but one of the consequences of that is that i just have a very hard time imagining him giving it like calling up the u.s marshal service and saying yeah i'm gonna need raylen gibbons to shoot this guy he killed one of my guys he killed one of my precious guys what are my voters you could say that likely i think much more likely is either because the cops were very angry at this guy for killing a fellow uh white supremacist or he was an op and had to be killed to prevent a investigation of the case which would reveal certain things and i think that's just as plausible if not more so he saw and he goes good you just get you got to do it way to go guys he's talking to the tv he's like way to go get him and i think that that reality is key to why he might actually ***** 0:8:19 win re-election obviously a big part of it will just be good old-fashioned uh voter suppression voter theft uh uh you know uh uh vote vote fraud on the part of like the people administering the vote as opposed to the poor schmucks who get accused of it who never actually do it and have no ability to you know like the brian kemp georgia governor race playbook so we're gonna have that but even with that you're gonna need him to retain a substantial number of voters who did not vote for him in 2016 with the brains like the lizard brain that recognized him as one of their own and wanted to elevate him as like the king of the lizards like has a had a relatively like uh uh uh distanced like a relative detachment from politics they were not ready they were not just sitting there waiting for someone to imprint on their brain and take over the role of jesus christ for them which is what happened to his base but his base would never have been enough to elect him even in 2020 2016. he needed people who are willing to take a chance on him people who just vote for republicans in general 0:9:20 even if they don't like trump in particular and his performance in the last four years should by any logical stretch make all those people vote against him or at the very least not show up for him and tip the balance for even a generic a senile walking abomination like biden who hey you know you know hey he's not got it on the ball but these guys ***** up so bad and presumably somebody at biden's white house will and i think one of the reasons that that might not happen and you might see an unprecedented number of people vote for a president uh re-elect the president during like one of the single worst material conditions relative to when they took office that has ever existed no one has gone no one has gone farther down in every category economic public health uh street violence like a sense sense of burning the entire west coast on fire i mean a failure to deal with any of these things and more importantly 0:10:21 as i said a failure to deal with any of these crises first to help manufacture them and then to fail to deal with them in any way no one has ever had that and one i mean how very few have even had that period but none have ever had that at one 2004 are you ***** kidding me 911 changes the entire thing there 911 changed redefined that

race redefine that presidency i mean hell there's a world where 9 11 doesn't happen with bush but bush one 9 11 still doesn't happen i mean if he didn't do it obviously or he tried to do it bundle it uh one of the big reasons i think they'd ***** it up is because they have halliburton do it for like 500 billion dollars and they'd end up just like putting an m80 down the toilet at uh the ***** like pentagon or something but say there's no 911 enron might have brought down bush not just with the economic drop but his his incredibly close connection to that company i mean he flew around in the enron jet during the campaign he was uh um ken lay had his ***** was on 0:11:24 his short list for energy secretary it could have been a big deal but anyway this is unprecedented and the reason it doesn't happen is because most people are not psychologically dedicated have not subsumed their very like self and their ambitions and their wants and dreams and their autonomy to a figure on television like trump when they deal with politics now that's the way everyone will eventually remember these people are the leading indicator that trumpian identification that is the only thing that's left for us now because politics stopped meaning anything a long time ago but it became more and more important to people as things got worse so things get worse and worse because politics is lost like it's the market the market does it politics is just where you argue about it and feel bad about it so of course it's going to have to get more and more personal and so that trumpian like fixation where there's nothing he can do that's wrong and no material condition can change your opinion of him because you're already seeing things from his point of view that's identical there's no difference the way he justifies himself you instantly do it yourself 0:12:25 he doesn't have to convince you you already have made the leap and that's where we're going but we're not there yet at least i thought we weren't there yet and i honestly thought we weren't there to elect trump in 2016. so this might be another reason to think he might win but one of the things i think might get those people those those light trump voters is that they understand at a certain level that he's not in charge but at least he is mad on their behalf and at least he makes the people who are in charge the two parties and that will provide enough of a basis to vote for him because they have lost any belief that anyone else could have done any differently and that's the important thing because you say well obviously people aren't going to vote for trump after what happened but if they don't think the democrats then why not have the guy who will theatrically channel their rage at the same people they hate and they have every reason to hate these people they have every reason 0:13:26 to hit the democratic party uh um so kudos to him if he gets that if he does that he will have performed something that no political figure in this country has ever even come close to and it will be because he is a singular genius at being famous 0:14:27 which should tell you all you really need to know about what the political process

actually is in this country at this point what it actually represents what what levers it really touches which is why these liberals who are freaking out about trump about how we need biden to win just the way it's a moral necessity i mean come on people you really think that there's anything these people could do if they wanted to that doesn't mean we're doomed it means that this process has played itself out and it the and our our our the fate of humanity is the fate of humans starting with the fate of uh americans which are sadly intertwined because we are the head of this dragon is gonna depend on us realizing that that this game is over this isn't that this puppet show is done and of course you can't take any liberals seriously certainly not any of the ones who had any position in the media or in the party that led to the stampede to biden you can't let any of them get away with even pretending that they care if trump gets reelected because they willingly and intentionally rig it as much as they had to to the benefit of someone who they knew was mentally incompetent for the job now i'm not saying that means that they're responsible because oh you're gonna put a bad like that in charge no it's that they knew he was a guy who wouldn't be able to run a real race against trump he would they were gonna have to keep in a closet the whole time and they were still okay with it which means they were okay with losing giving it to bernie was worse than losing to trump which means losing to trump by definition can't be so they're full of ***** they're absolutely full of ***** i mean the base morons the ones whose whose opinions are totally made by like msnbc they probably don't real they didn't realize that biden was doomed they thought biden was the most elected electable but that's because they they listened to these people who made a choice to pick someone who was ***** he could win but my god you are throwing it into doubt in a way you didn't have to but he was the only choice left he was the only card on the table how many quotes has bite has come out from obama either leaked himself or leaked by close confidance where he says biden doesn't have it if there's one person who could ***** this up it's joe biden and he's the ***** who made the phone calls to make him the nominee so every time he talks about how it's an existential threat he could jack me off because he picked a guy who he knew in his heart didn't have the the stamina to even run against trump a guy who ran against like a woman who is not beloved certainly hillary clinton but one who is an unparalleled like dynamo of of at least ambition this guy is just waiting for the dinner bell at uh the whole nursing home to ring so you can get some ***** pudding you think he can just run a real race against trump when he can't even and that's why he's going down in the polls maybe not enough to lose but enough to make it way closer than by any rights it should be because people are like realistically thinking okay he's supposed to be the alternative to this horror of these dead bodies in this turmoil but he's not even there oh somebody's roasting corn right now in the neighborhood oh my god that smells good i'm not doing it only fans know i don't i 0:18:31 was thinking i might for my birthday later this month i might i might do the brisket and i might do a grill stream not during eating it but uh but like maybe an hour's worth of my birthday is done i would probably do it the weekend before but yes my birthday is debate night so it's definitely that debate is going to be an omen of something the moment of my next year because it's either going to be the best crescent i've ever had if these two demented old men just jabber at one another and start mentally regressing trump just thinks he's yelling at uh uh he's like yelling at 0:19:33 um john mcenroe at studios 50 54 about which one of them is going to get the hit on stephanie seymour and biden is is knife fighting corn pop in the in the in the trunk of a 57 chevy yes libra libra i actually know my whole chart now i've got my chart if anyone knows the zodiac i'd be interested to hear your take i am libra sun apparently people keep saying i look like an insane uncle today and i gotta say uh insane uncle energy is stuff i love you know what's so funny you guys talking to me about this and and how you you you know these a lot of young people listen to these streams and 0:20:34 really like they like they like what they're hearing and they find me like some sort of figure who's helped them like think their way through the world i have younger cousins and i would see them twice a year i would see them on the christmas i'd see them at our family reunion in the summer all the way growing up from little shavers they're full-grown men now because like i was like a uh like 12 when they were i was like i'm i think i'm like not even 10 years older i remember trying to explain vault rawls's veil of ignorance to my cousin one time it just i guess like you people really aren't ready to hear anything unless it comes all right so what's the deal with that uh what do you mean what about air libra is leo rising people are saying omg leo rising 0:21:36 i don't know what that means and someone said capricorn moon ah which is very cute but i don't know what that oh god i wanted to talk about cuties so thank you for reminding me um cutie's thing to me is awesome and hilarious because obviously it's hysteria it's goofy it's like this this is just some art it's an art movie from france it's like who even cares but the thing then now the the the the argument about it i think is fascinating because it really shows the degree to which people don't i don't think people really get this whole moment i know people get q they don't think they get the appeal of q i don't think they they get the appeal of like this whole nascent 0:22:37 like cultural reactionary uh like trumpian moment because i've seen so many people yelling at these uh conservatives for being like hypocritical uh for being hysterical like talking oh this is just satanic panic anymore or oh but you guys you guys are hypocrites it really underestimates the degree to which they're clearly ***** with you now obviously some of them aren't like the base the grandmas who and like the wine moms who now undergo the movement the people who undergirded the first satanic

panic aren't ***** with you they're serious because everyone doesn't think there's going to be a future which means they're fixated psychotically on their children and the preservation of their children's innocence because they know the world is just a giant grinding meat maw that's going to turn them into ***** julian uh chuck whatever that is cannibal sandwiches for everybody that's life outside of the home and they know that and they're terrified of it and it gets turned into this this fixation on preserving youth in innocence but the way this took off you don't think they're 0:23:40 trying to ***** with all the people who've spent the last five years at least as the as the sheriffs of popular culture the the self-appointed ba sheriffs of wokeness going around and determining what's problematic what needs to go i mean we just we just watched how many how many shows had blackface episodes purged from the royals uh uh in the last couple months and of course a lot of that is just ass covering from corporations who are just trying to get people off their back but it's in a context where people take the like the uh uh in cinema in culture seriously as like a political vector and have decided that they're going to like make their political activism at least in part about shaping what appears on screen to promote wholesome things 0:24:41 less white less toxic masculinity less racism less centering of whiteness more diversity from people of other uh oppressed intersections like basically an idea of politics where everybody grows up and as children grow up and they watch their screens they see a percentage of bad white male based entertainment and good poc and woc and i guess white women entertainment and although that changes depending on who's on top and uh and the mo and whichever one wins whichever one they see more of is going to determine which politics they have and you can say that that's simplistic but i don't know any other way they'll understand how they think this stuff works to the degree that they have to put so much energy into shaping this stuff uh and so gotta get rid of the bad things uh cancel hashtag whatever and gotta protect 0:25:43 the good things and now these guys get to uh get get to say so you guys wanted to get cancel everything for being racist everything for being sexist uh problematic whatever and it needs to go off tv and i don't get to watch it but this show with 12 11 year olds showing their asses to each other is okay i mean it's they've just it's a jujitsu move and it's it's and it taps into a real live wire of panic about the future of these of this country's children uh and about their like vulnerability and now we're back and it's like hey remember how you guys in the 90s said that in the 80s said that it was hysterical to blame popular culture for uh the way people uh lived that it's hysterical to blame violence and media for violence in real life it's hysterical to blame sex and media for licentiousness in real life and now you spent the last five years with bell book and candle demanding that popular culture demand uh uh meets certain political parameters in order to infect people's behavior because otherwise why does 0:26:45

it matter and now the line you draw is pedophilia and i gotta say they got you they got your asses and i can see why people are mad and just stomping their hats like cartoon and not to mention the fact that i mean we are in the queue world we're in the epstein world and epstein had a lot to do with us like these things rise from material conditions the world's foremost a child uh procurer for the rich and famous kills himself in federal custody that creates a context this is not a blouse it's a shirt this is bigger it's i've lost a little weight so my older shirts i realize now are getting a so it's like this whole cuties thing it's like it's the sewing yay or reap sewing yay 0:27:47 reaping boo and like hey maybe maybe stop this ***** maybe maybe realize the only way to win is not to play and disengage from this hysterical ***** jerk him off and of course that won't happen because everyone's captured by their emotional relationship to his arguments but it would be nice if some people like stuff like this stuff like jessica krug i really the one girl whose name was like cv haddad did you see that there was a woman at uw madison who claimed she was italian and she was claiming to be black it's like i'm sorry you're about a hundred years too late for that one honey and her fake name was like cv haddad like like cv like she's in she's trying to get a job as as a uh wokeness uh translator and her name is cv it's like hi i'm resume johnson woc at large maybe it'd be nice maybe nice if people were to do a 0:28:48 little bit of soul searching not going to happen not going to happen at all nope so it's gonna be an argument about what programs to watch a bunch of people huddled around the television in a ***** uh flooded kroger like with a little security camera tv with wires on arguing about what to watch that's politics why are people asking about the dune worm i thought the dune trailer looked like ***** why is everything gonna be so washed out why does all the technology have to look like apple store ***** the armor was it's like the armor on those on the guards in the in the throne room in return the last jedi only it's not as colorful it doesn't even have that going for it it's all washed out there's no silks there's no there's no flowing anything there's no sense of empire it's just this grim like capitalist realism it's like the present but 0:29:49 with space worms i'll see it of course because it's a fun story and there's cool parts i gotta say the design of the worm is pretty good i like the idea that it's got like the baleen thing instead of teeth which makes more sense considering what it eats but the idea that it's all got to be so grim and it's like and so i i said on twitter i said this is like why is it so serious and someone's like would you rather have whedon quips and of course i don't want weed and quips i don't want soy banter but that really is our only option isn't it it's weeding or nolan for uh it's we either get self-serious like uh a ponderous dull colored sepia toned nolan or we get zippy quippy uh cgi uh nothingness with awful soy banter those are our only options that sucks michael 0:30:50 bay has been banished to ***** netflix at least he has some pop i mean that movie

the 6 underground was terrible but my god i still thinking about that color palette can't think of the last movie i saw if i'd seen that in the movie theater i might have ***** gone blind his movies are like the only big budget yeah that's a good point it's like we have to be to be super serious or knowingly humorous like the only kind of humor is like oh wow i guess that happened i think i forgot who pointed this out it might have been will but i thought this was a perfect distillation of that whole genre of film is that i might have said this on the stream before but i just want to say it again is that you know as quality as art got leached out of filmmaking by money as money replaced art one of the things that had to go is characterization like it takes it's you're not going to spend money you're not going to spend time trying to create realized characters it's hard it's not something you can throw money at the way you can throw it at effects and so how do you make a character compelling if they don't have any definition easy you just make them the imagined audience you just make the head character who you in your head imagine is watching the movie which is a schlubby self-aware soy-based uh man-animal and then you have them act like that so that's why it's all people in disbelief so oh this is happening now because that's what you would say if you were in that position because that's the only way to create audience identification with the main characters is if they just received a reflection of themselves which is of course behind a lot of representation arguments as well i'm sorry it's like yeah there's one thing which is the real radical failure to distribute artistic power along racial lines by the accumulation of capital by white people and that makes art monochromatic and bad but there is an element of like especially the way that uh representation has been like pursued of course by hollywood like they're not going to actually change that they're not going to change who makes the movies they're not going to redistribute that uh it's going to be the same little club of you know of mostly white people who all know each other they're not going to bring in new people uh where are they going to come from uh they're not in the social circle already i mean like it's already already a totally self-reproducing thing directors are now the sons of directors and the daughters of directors producers are the daughters and sons of producers kid the actors are the ***** the boys uh and lodge49 two great show or no the boys is okay lodge 49 is great but both leading actors are somebody's ***** kid wyatt russell is kurt russell's kid and goldie hawn's kid and ***** uh the little turd on boys is dennis quaid's kid where are you going to bring in representation that way what you can do is you can make the art look like people and then what that ends up doing is as a way to pander to them now they don't have you know oh i don't actually have to write a character they only have to represent somebody and then they get to feel seen and that fills in the emotional space where you used to have to have to fill it with art you used to have to fill it with

character creation you used to have to fill it with nuance and and shading that made you care about the person now they either look like the audience member or they sound like them and that overlord i'm sorry aren't you isn't the argument supposed to be that we need to be aware of historical trauma right we have to be aware of historical racism and the in the impact of historical racism right am i wrong like that is a mean a main argument of like about making art representational so that we can tell the stories of america that haven't been told so that we can realize how unfair the current present moment is and how much there has to be redress right like that is part of the argument right i'm not wrong about that if that's the case having a black guy lead a squadron of paratroopers in world war ii essentially says yeah yeah no race wasn't an issue in 1941 or 45 or whatever the ***** it was you've done violence to history in a way that you have claimed not to want to do the opposite of what you want to do you watch overlord if you're a young person and remember this has to be assumed you have to assume always that the point of this is to change people's minds because that's the only way that it has a political valence and it's not just an artistic question is if no no they see the good representation and some people feel better and it makes other people more politically awake woke as it were some person who does who has got as good in education as the rest of us which is not very good in history oh yeah no there were world war ii guys black guys shooting zombies cool and i know it's like oh but there weren't really zombies either but it's like yes but like it's zombies in a world war two context and the context of world war ii was a i have i i if what race is an issue in overlord it's not an issue enough to not have a guy with a unit of white people which didn't happen that's why i'm saying i don't care if they like made a wrenching of race there is a fundamental difference between a society like in terms of its advancement along racial lines where like oh there's some friction because the captain's black to the captain not ever being allowed to be black there's a difference and why so that people can so that people can see the character and if they're white they fill in the gap of recognition with oh this is a black eye and i can feel i can feel uh woke and i can feel good about myself for identifying with this black character you know what i didn't even notice he was black a little russian self-righteousness and then a black a black viewer can be like hey you know and they understandably want to see that because it's so rare in in especially genre filmmaking they're like hey there's a guy who has like and that identification that fills that space for them but in both cases it is cynical and it's unartistic it does violence to the art it is a cynical attempt to skip a step in making a ***** piece of film making a piece of art and everyone's doing that all the time but it's just such a glaring one and more importantly to my mind one that is pitched to people as virtue uh someone asked was watergate a coup i that's another one i don't there's a lot of

circumstantial evidence there that uh that the watergate burglary was botched on purpose on behalf of the cia and the there's a couple of theories as to why they would do that there's one in the book called the great heroin coup that claims that it was actually an internecine intelligence intelligence agency battle about where the cia would be getting its heroin whether from uh the old french connection from turkey to uh to italy to uh marseille to the us or from the golden triangle uh but the last sort of lurid james elroy theory is that nixon had over the course of his presidency cut out the entire national security establishment from foreign policy and the war in vietnam he ran the state department and the defense department out of his office with henry kissinger uh and that was that's the kind of abrogation of powers the presidents just don't do uh and at the very least it certainly gave plenty of incentive to the cia to see him uh there's supposed to be a structure here like we're talking about the most awesome power on earth and it has to be to some degree horizontally uh distributed or else one guy is in charge and that means that the institutional incentives that keep the thing moving hell yeah secret honor great movie i'm why i don't understand also watch travis scott is called cactus jack i'm sorry but cactus jack was uh mick foley's alter ego in the wrestling and what the hell has that got to do with him i have to watch cloud atlas again someone's asking about cloud atlas i remember being very moved by its by its tender heart and uh and absolute earnestness but i think structurally it was a little inert i did love the thing where everyone was cast over the generations with different makeup and stuff that was so ballsy very few people would have the i have the yeah apparently the travis scott meal is just it's a barbecue it's just a bacon quarter pounder with barbecue sauce i'm much more excited about the ghost chili wings at popeyes thank you very much if i'm going to go if i'm going to indulge speeded food a a rapid a rapid comestible it's going to be and mcdonald's is also doing spicy nuggets now soon which of course will be interesting by the way i gotta give a shout out to somebody i i don't remember who it is i'll have to go through my dms but a while ago i was talking about how i really wanted a uh goju-chang korean pepper paste based dip for nuggets and that most goju-chang you get is a little too thick for that somebody dm me and said this is the stuff and he gave me a link to this korean squeeze tube product and i said that's what you're looking for and i got it and it is holy crap it's like cj's i think it's called it's got like the consistency of ketchup but like the rich deliciousness of korean uh red pepper paste i don't i'm a ketchup lover as many know i'm i i love ketchup i'm staunch ketchup on hot dogs obviously but ketchup on ***** uh eggs yes ketchup on macaroni and cheese delightful but man i don't know i might i might be done with macaroni if i can keep this stuff around the problem is i have to like i think i have to mail out for it i don't think it's available locally but if i could get that at a steady supply i might get rid of ketchup but since i can only get it irregularly apparently i will uh i 0:42:16 will also have ketchup stop ketchup is overrated that's absurd that's like saying the beatles are overrated it doesn't make sense ketchup is like a a a a consuming concept on its own you can take it or leave it but you i don't understand what's supposed to be wrong with ketchup on hot dogs why catch up on hamburgers but not hot dogs you're talking very similar profiles of flavor i will not get the prabai's fries no no no no no no no no no mashed potatoes and gravy every time nope ketchup is for kids so what kids like a lot of things that are delicious ice cream is for kids do you not eat ice cream smarty pants hell hot dogs you could you say ketchups for kids you know what hot dogs are for kids cut them up a little kitty eating them they're for adults 0:43:18 too damn it someone just said the most insane thing i've ever seen on this twitch stream someone said ketchup is good but heinz ketchup sucks sir you have taken leave of your senses heinz is a absolutely perfect complexion given what it's trying to be it is the ideal ketchup oliver ketchup is a sad deformation it is the form everything else is a last night i heard somebody in the sink here having a backyard um comedy show and i was listening to it and you'd hear some amplified setup clapping wooing and then some laughter and then all of a sudden some guy just started yelling his head off and i'm like oh snap there's a heckler and not just any heckler emondo 0:44:19 pissed off one and what's so funny is the guy's yelling and yelling and then when he stops it's just over as in all sound ceased i didn't hear i don't even think they even said okay bye he literally ended the show hunts is not also good sir no house is bad that's how you knew that that's how you knew that the republicans were death cult in 2004 when they switched out all the heinz ketchup for hunts at the rnc in new york they gave themselves worse ketchup to own libs who weren't even there oh the korean sauce i think it's called cj's like cj's bebop bb bop sauce i don't know where it's available i had to i had to mail it i had to get it from amazon i think i 0:45:20 i couldn't find it anywhere else they might have a website i don't know tatsuki is really good tzatziki's underrated i keep talking about food because i keep doing this these streams right before dinner so i somebody's bumping something's bumping white socks is very good too we're just naming delicious delicious ***** sauces right now and i'm oh man i wish we had ketchup chicks in the u.s ketchup chips and all 0:46:21 dressed it's honestly we america is the snack capital of the world right five million we have so many chain restaurants europeans all of them are stunned like australia has like three chains they've got mcdonald's hungry jacks which is burger king and like probably some kangaroo based uh place they're blown away by how many we have and yet we have the worst chips in the anglosphere except for when lays does the uh does those like limited edition chips those are often amazing to this day they're uh they did a biscuits and gravy chip that in my mind is still the best chip i've ever had

CUSHVLOG 79. LET SLIP THE DOGS OUT

but it's gone they did a korean barbecue one that was really good they did a euro one they did garlic fries oh man they were so good but they're always limited time like the regular options in america suck we don't have all dressed we don't i did not like the chicken fries or our chicken fried steak someone's asked much i like chicken breast it reminds me that there was a chicken and waffles one that i thought was going to be good but it was just all waffle no chicken yeah lay's tatsuki oh so good lays they're so good oh they did like a uh a cherry they did a brazilian like uh but no all dressed yeah no we got the worst chips in the anglosphere i want all dressed i don't want ketchup apparently though the one to get according to bill oakley and i trust him on all things comestible is that there is a in spain they have a jimón ibérico lace chip that is supposed to take tastes like their delicious charcuterie and he says that it's the best chip and if they pull that off most black-pilled civil war general uh depending on what you mean by that it's got to be uh sherman right because sherman was there like everybody else during the civil war one of the tragedies of the civil war and one of the things that made it so bloody is that it was being play acted by a bunch of napoleonic cosplaying fancy lads guys with big plumes in their hair guys who were reenacting chivalric traditions from like medieval england like pompous ***** like uh like robert e lee who thought it was more honorable to do a big napoleonic charge into ***** uh rifle bore munitions uh and uh jeb stewart who wanted to count coup with out out in the fields uh sherman that had small time said no this is uh this is a dirty business we're trying to win a political contest uh at the least expense to our side and you do that by extinguishing the opponent's will to fight and he famously gave a speech at a commencement into some military thing afterwards uh where he said uh the war is the famous war is hell speech where he goes uh war zeldas cannot be refined its glories are all moonshine it is and you could say that's like that's a step towards the horror of the coming like industrial slaughter of the 20th century but it's still an advancement over because over the delusion of of that of that generation of of antebellum uh of military uh pageant players at least sherman was like was going to apply that logic to a just cause you know and like that's the real reason that that's a progressive position is that if you if you really accept war as awful in its own right and irredeemable then it can only be pursued for virtuous reasons and you actually have to like interrogate what that means meanwhile you got robert e lee going it is after fredericksburg after watching innocent people just getting butchered on on a rocky outcropping because their dumb ass mistak stupidly facial haired incompetent general ordered them to go up a hill and they obeyed their ***** orders get massacred well he just got to sit there on a horse goes it is good that was so terrible or we should grow too fond of it yeah you think it's terrible well trump is definitely the most black bill president in the same way and that he doesn't subscribe to any of the ***** about the virtue of the country or the office you don't think we kill people you don't i'm dappling a little bit it's coming most tiresome film director at this point it's gotta be nolan he's sick of his ***** and depending on how dune goes i'll definitely put villanueva on that list i liked sicario but i haven't really enjoyed anything else movie i might pop back on but i gotta pop off i'm back guys i don't like to go too far lower than an hour molly was are from mollywood arrival i like too i like more than some people but his whole deal i just it's illuminating i had to break for the geico ad and and the cactus jack mcdonald's ad i've seen that like 50 times logging onto twitch because yes i i do think that the uh the central metaphor of arrival there with the language like being three-dimensional i think that's kind of cool i bad a huge fan of annihilation i must it's ***** nice out ***** noise out you can hit my line i'm trying to smoke i hope i don't get dcc for the music in r.i.p by the way to uh to king dave young king dave taking too soon i don't think he would have survived covet anyway so oh yeah i just want to say finally about uh it's going to happen i think it's going to happen more and more and trump specifically is going to be the face of it because the thing about trump being this the third party president who stands away from the office and just kind of comments on his own presidency is that he can never be held responsible for anything in the minds of people to them he is always as grieved as they are and it means that the people they hate hate them hate him like in germany i mean germany you want to talk about a country where like the political process has basically ground lost all all pretense how long have they had a unity government now how long have they had the two main parties in coalition how many years has it been angela merkel has been uh in office longer than like a number of dictators who we overthrow uh there's no political spaces and if that happens you look for a hero outside of the system and trump is he's the only figure in the world who is both to the size of the system in a way that could make him a credible like foil for it and in any realistic imaginative sense outside of it and so i think you're going to see more of that as as coronavirus keeps just squeezing the life out of everybody uh and the sense of possibility and hope of any kind of future he's going to be the deliverance i don't know what i'm gonna have for dinner now i was trying i was halfway to talking myself into getting the popeyes but i probably won't know not sure what though i didn't really change my diet to lose weight i honestly just stopped drinking as much and eating less i mean i ate out less so i mean i just was a very i just went from like a wildly unhealthy diet and lifestyle to a slightly less unhealthy one oh god trump said that we don't need to be in the middle east we're just there to protect israel i love it that's the one thing you love to see about his whole presidency is just shedding all of the pretense which is the reason they hate him telling telling our troops that

they're suckers because eventually those troops become generals and they have to think they're sacrificing for something like john kelly believes in this country in a way that trump won't that's because he is a sucker he let his son die in iraq for no reason but he's got to convince himself of that and he's also he was in a position of very high power that's true of the high members of the military as well how do you react to them being disabused how does your system function when the people in charge of those organs of state are disabused in one way or another of the of the ideological motivators that have trump isn't going to do anything about aliens because they if there is i don't know if there is aliens honestly all this stuff that's come out last couple years it could all be viral marketing for some mark hoppus production that he put together with a a uh like junior officer in like the navy to be like hey you you know if you can get me some documents or whatever i don't know like harry reid is also like harry reid is also friends with the guy who he got all that money for that brought bigelow guy you know that could that whole operation with harry reid funding that it just could be pork barrel ***** or money laundering so i have no idea that's another thing agnostic on the aliens but the one thing i do know is that there are aliens and there's proof of them that the us government has they did not tell trump i doubt they tell most presidents why would they what would be the motivation why would you get that information into the hands of someone who legally can declassify any thing did you know that the president is not bound by any laws against the releasing of classified documents if the president decides to release it it is declassified legally you think they're going to give anything of importance to anyone that they don't have complete control over or at least trust his uh like basic uh conversational continence to not ***** spill the beans every five minutes get out of here get out of here out of here oh it's tom delonge who's the ufa guy right whatever they're all the same guy in my mind they're all the same kind of blanky kind of doughy face guy with the same voice don't waste the time i'm already knowing the mice inside my hand go pack i didn't even watch i mean it's not on tv here not really a fan at this point but i do like this hat moon landing happened shut up bothering the ***** like what were they getting out of it propaganda victory it's not like it's not like the soviets themselves i want to address one thing before i go because it caught my eyes somebody said it is strange that people assume that alien life would be more or less empathetic than ours and i would say that i think there is and i think posada the pasadists talk about this is that any symbols that any any alien life form that achieved a civilizational complexity necessary to allow for interdimensional or interstellar travel would by definition be communist i think that's true and as we've talked about like there is a moral center to communism that is a a decentered ego and a like a social sense of uh of identity let alone morality

that it stands to reason that they would be more benevolent than us or else they wouldn't have made it that far oh man i smell some mommy's doing barbecue out here i'm gonna die oh man it was corn and now it's barbecue oh i did not go pasades i would never go pasadist because one element that they how dare you all right guys

um ahoy i'm assuming folks are there i don't have my computer out here yet so i'm hoping that uh that i'm being received here i've exited host mode i don't know when i can never tell when but i know now that i have exited host mode hey everybody i'm getting my seasonal allergies on this time of year around september the ragweed 0:1:2 rises up and i start sneezing and getting uh and getting a little uh stuffed up uh and as folks can see i am back wearing my strap suit because it's finally kind of chilly it's kind of fallish and i gotta say this is very rare for new york i know half the country's on fire and we're tumbling into a climate apocalypse but man last month or so in new york math and half has been exquisite i've lived in new york probably five years between two five six years now between two different times living here and i gotta say this is the absolute best august i've ever encountered and the best september because new york september is usually very muggy here even if the temperature goes down and you don't get crispness until like october at least my experience this is already crispy and it's not even the 15th yet oh it's fall baby and i'm loving it and here i am i'm wearing my ***** tracksuit and i love it i love it someone tells me the stream's quiet i've been told this before i have the volume entirely up i have 0:2:3 the microphone next to my face if there's another thing to do i do not know how to do it so at this point telling me won't help because i do not have the ability to interfere with this now as we've said we're going to do more stuff at the office with chris we're going to try to do a stream i think on wednesday we were going to do one last week but he forgot the microphone so we will be in the office i will have the microphone and it will be louder but until then it's just me here and i don't understand any of this i don't know how this works as remember how long it took me to even get from twit to twitch which is like a thing of a platform that we have a uh an actual like deal with to broadcast content and i was doing it on instagram because i didn't have twitch on my phone you guys know when you can get me on this because i have no power over it it makes me worry that people don't know i am 0:3:9 a boomer i've never said i wasn't i've never claimed to be anything but a boomer ah because if you think about it the boomers were the last generation i mean we talked about axe millennials and stuff but the boomers were really the first and last generation because they were the defining generation there really were generations before them that's all retrospective all that stuff about the silent generation and like the greatest generation that's all post hoc nobody thought in those terms back then the first generation is self-consciously think of itself as one at least in america in the 20th century was the ***** boomers and since they have held on to all the capital they've been squatting creases like upon it like smog on all of that ***** accumulated capital that that got piled up uh during the labor piece of america's post-war hegemony that is now slowly dwindling away they still have the lion's share of it which means they still direct culture they still direct politics they still rule the roost and they still i mean there's going to be a movie about the chicago 7 directed 0:4:11 by aaron sorkin coming out next month on netflix sorkin is a ***** uh uber xr right i'm pretty sure that sorkin is like a definitive gen xer how old is he sorkin's in his 50s right or even if but he's still making a movie about the chicago 7 and about the ***** 68 convention and and all of his characters and all of his stuff harken back to that remember uh jeff daniels monologue at the beginning of newsroom where he talks about how we were once great and we won wars and we uh uh and sure he's talking about the greatest generation but then he's talking about ***** like going to the moon and whatever it's all in the context those are the dreams of the the greatest generation or the boomers that was the stuff the that's what they grew up with and that's what he's enraptured by even though he was older younger than that or if he wasn't he should and now the millennials they're just it's all just a different 0:5:15 deformation of boomer it's all that self-conscious like it's the idea of a generation that sees itself as a generation right there you have boomer mindset so every generation that thinks that way has boomer mindset so we are all boomers even the even those terrifying zoomers even the children uh are are basically boomers i mean they're it's boomers all the way down so i will say it at least i'll admit it i burrowed through the levels of of mystifying ideology that make me think oh no i am this generation these things mean something other than just a culture talking itself to death while it slowly sinks into oblivion unable to muster any uh uh opposition to a neo-liberal 0:6:18 dissolving of all foundations i have to say though that i replay these and they sound fine so i don't know what i've never had a problem listening to them either played back on youtube or twitch so you guys might have the problem this what are all these emoticons why are we what's going on there are many emoticons some of them are of me there's one of uh alex i think loan option on there oh emote only because 0:7:19 everyone was giving me the business about the uh about the sound well i'm fine now i'm not now i know that if anyone's doing it they're doing it uh disregard oh no oh no god damn it pomo got it out there again that there's a picture of me without a beard and there it's a terrible photograph it's i think it like it's on some alt-right websites i remember you people would sometimes reply to me with it it's a terrible photograph it was for a brief period a couple years ago when i shaved my beard because i was getting too much and i know now yeah you need beard oil idiot there's not going to be a rogan debate come on we're barely even going to get an actual debate it's going to be puppet show they're going to do race banding models it's gonna be stage managed somehow edited it's gonna be boring sure ***** not gonna get four hours in uh joe rogan's weed garage getting top contact highs while rogan just blows smoke in their face i am grilling tonight thank you for asking i'm gonna make the uh i have perfected a recipe for a korean beyond burger where i put kimchi and that sauce that i have on a beyond burger fried uh cook that puppy up and of course some some glizzies nathan's oh god thank you someone reminded me of this i want to talk about it so today trump was in some sort of conference with people in california and of course he's doing his usual thing about forest fires where it says they didn't they didn't sweep the floor enough you gotta sweep the floor why don't you sleep with the floor you've got to sweep the floor uh he's said this for years this has always been his argument i mean he's a ***** he's a he's a great a idiot accepted being famous and they were he was talking to some california officials and one of them decided he was going to get his name in the paper and so he gave trump a little dressing down about how he needed to under accept the climate change was real and that he needs that the science needs to be confronted or else we're not going to fix anything and the guy and trump goes it's going to get colder you watch and the guy goes i wish science agreed with you and he goes well that is at the heart i think of q of flat earth of the entire like new like folk politics and religion that's emerging in the current moment out of the sludge of trumpism uh it is a total disbelief in all objective uh measurements or systems it is a it is a reptilian rejection of authority outside of one's zone of tribal affiliation so things like the media and things like science any way you define it are not just not to be believed they are to be instinctively disbelieved anything they say is a lie you have to believe the opposite and that's because this is what happens when you have replaced the concept of politics with personal ego gratification to the point where you were just projecting a fantasy a schizophrenic fantasy of politics where you're a participant uh as like an eternal essential being battling against the enemy not not negotiating with other people across like the marketplace like liberalism says and we're all participating in liberal democracy but further more and more liberal democracy is untenable and this is replacing it and that's one of those things that makes trump supporters love him is because they think the same way he they he does and so they don't think science is real and you can say but what look at all the evidence how does he say it gonna get colder it's been the hottest year every year in a couple months it is going to get colder right even if it's not as cold as it used to be at the same time of year it's going to be colder than it is now right those fires are going to go out right there might even be some snow there might even be a snowstorm or two and he will be in that moment then being like look it's cooler crazies then that's what's wrong with them and of course all the nerds are gonna yell but neck but but but this is just the winter and it's not even as cold as it used to be and it's going to keep getting warmer but right then it's cold and then next summer if there's another huge fire season and it's you know bigger than this one and it's more acres burned and it's more people displaced and killed and you point to it and you say look it's terrible he'll go yep it'll get cooler and he will not have him he will not even remember last year he will not be able to think of last year because every moment is just that moment but not in like the zen centered sense of there is only the moment everything within it is flux the only constant is change and therefore you are free from any fixed position any any damage like you cannot be hurt if you really believe that because there's nothing to hurt you know you're part of a you're part of a whole a hole you're part of a flow a flow of his space and time and that centers you and can give you a sense of it can detach you from your pain and detach you from your anger and detach you from your resentment and hostility to others and fear but he doesn't have that kind of sense of the moment it is only the horrors of the moment it's only the pains and desires of and and and and thwarted dreams the fantasies that have always been there just out of reach like remember trump has been driven mad by having everything he wanted his whole life which means he has never been happy because he has always been seeking more which means he is always moving towards this like this light that's just beyond the his reach beyond like this gauze of reality and he's been pushing at it his whole life and it's made him in every moment miserable so it's the same moment of misery and so in the winter hey it's cold what are you talking about global warming and in the summer when it's hot you're overreacting it's going to get cold and that's a mindset that is now dominant where the enemy is these things like science and the media and the political parties specifically the democrats hollywood any all the edifice all the edifices of the of the fantasy world that we now inhabit that replaced our reality because our reality is fixed right politics can't have anything to do with real human conditions because real human conditions are fixed our destiny is made by the market we are frozen in amber we are going to be turned into pace one way or the other by the system but we live in a fantasy world we live in a world of heroes and villains we live in a mythological realm and we get to participate at the level of visceral identification with one side and that's what the new politics will be and it's the only politics we can have that's why q is the leading edge of a generalizable phenomenon across politics it

includes democrats like there's already like this russiagate and like the weird fixation on uh like and paranoid relationship to trump and bernie bros and the creation of this like meta-narrative about a conspiracy within like the inter russia and the democratic republican party and the media to like elect not the fascists by propping up a fake left uh that's on the same level of like delusion and it comes from the same level of cognitive dissonance and the same sense of powerlessness but it's just less intensified now because those people are more wedded to more more parts of this system like they still believe in the media they still believe in the democratic party they mostly still like hollywood whereas the the q person has already been widely alienated from all of those things which puts them farther along on the edge but it's the same process and that's just the language that it finds itself being generated by the democratic and uh this allows me a chance to talk about something i think i've brought bought men mentioned in part before but i've never i don't think brought together into one kind of idea and that is the way that q fits into the history of protestantism in america and how q i think represents a third great awakening of american protestantism like a new emergent relationship between people's spirituality and their politics and their like citizenship and it goes like this this is my basic outline is that for the first premise is that protestant american protestantism is in essential ways a different beast theologically and spiritually from any pro any christianity that came before it anything in europe or the levitt or anything else uh it is not it is its own creature it is an offshoot and the main reason i say that is because the united states project that settler colonial project created a relationship between citizens and christianity that essentially removed the spiritual element i.e the social element from the entire endeavor of religion and made it a purely transactional relationship a purely marketized capitalized religious tradition where like because religion because it is the opiate of the masses in the heart of a heartless world it provides sort of a it it ratifies uh uh existing social relationships but it also gives rise to a language of uh of just of pain uh a language of uh hurt a language of alienation that was exploited by things like the monster rebellion and ***** and ***** i gotta one second i gotta pop off i gotta text somebody something uh but anyway so yes one second as we're leaving off with protestantism different now we will say why am i back on can you hear me all right you can hear me okay good so christianity is not just doctrine it's lived experience it's lived it's a social practice and that is something that you have to remember when you're talking about religion it's not just doctrine it's a social practice the social practice of european christianity through up until the reformation was one where uh one sense of place in the universe in one sense of one's relationship to god which is necessary for anyone to feel like they're participating in a religious tradition if you can't feel god you're not really part of it i mean you can mouth it

CUSHVLOG 80. DRACULA TIME

but you're not there uh and the the way that that was reaffirmed was by a social 0:19:45 relationship you were a member of a great chain of being you had a place and you that place was reinforced and daily ritualized almost be interactions with everyone around you other people in the great chain of being family members uh you know a clergy these the lords whatever it is wherever your relationship is it's embedded it's socially embedded and those that creates a sense of our understanding of god's will because god cannot be totally inscrutable if god's totally inscrutable we have nothing to go by if god is totally inscrutable there is no reason to have any code of behavior or any any social obligation to anyone because what's the what's the uh what are you going off of god is explicable to the sense that we know what he likes and so by seeing people interact socially we see who rises and falls and we see who's happy and who's miserable and what causes that misery we see the sense of god and yes it's heavily inflected by the feudal system and it says oh yes rebelling against 0:20:47 the order that's a bad thing and and uh you know it normalizes and ratifies that exploitation system but it does it in a way that has a deep sense because of the lack of technology and the lack of social uh it has a larger degree of built-in uh built-in legitimacy built in uh consent i would say because people feel obliged to one another and that's part of what religion is but capitalism changes that capitalism destroys our relationship with one another removes the obligations removes that sense of of a mystical tie and replaces it with a transaction of goods motivated by self-interest strangers in a marketplace that's how we're supposed to see each other and part of it is because you as as capitalism accumulated society gets more complicated more 0:21:48 people are born more people live closer together they go to cities and stuff and it pulls at that social fabric the social fabric gets torn as people move through the economic engine as it as it tightens its its grip and that means that it creates uh alienations and they have to be channeled somewhere and protestantism is one way to re reframe one's relationship to god in a desacralized space protestantism says no social practice is not the basis for a virtue doctrine is individual belief is because if you're carrying your soul around by yourself all day and interacting with other people who might try to take it as opposed to being socially embedded where your soul is also a little bit part of everyone else's soul that you know because you only know a few people you know more people you're interacting with them as strangers you're trying to exploit them you're trying to get more from them than you're giving that has to be metabolized these these people don't just snap more fingers one 0:22:49 day and have new ideas they have to be resolved these contradictions have to be resolved and protestantism helps resolve that contradiction by replacing that social soul with an individual one but that proc so that once that process starts it would inevitably unless something intervenes it would inevitably overtake all of european

christianity but it was hyper kicked into gear by the fact that as this new emergent social for ideas is emerging this idea of a protestant liberal self as the locus for like religious meaning uh as as a way to deal with the dislocations and alienations of capitalism just at this time europeans start going to the new world and seeing it as virgin land seeing the people who inhabit it as somehow other religiously inscribed as others so that anything can be done to them and their land is takeable their land is exploratable but that means they're coming apart from different places and they might all be christians they might like that like the the people in new england they might all be christians you know and they but they all come from different places and are strangers to one another for the most part you had some families coming but the vast majority of immigration led to strangers coming into contact with another one another and creating cities of people coming together uh without a social framework at all coming from a feudal understanding that was not yet fully like shaken loose from social formations and relationships in europe so that had to be filled by something and the first great awakening that happened during the colonial era i think was that society's like uh inflection point at which they realized a new understanding of their religion and a new understanding of their relationship to god and protestantism and calvinism specifically provided them for the context for this and provided them for the language with the language for this and it was how can we know god's will right we used to be able to know god's will because we were connected we were all tendrils touching one another in a social fabric we were we were we were a seamless garment i mean not obviously this is for when i say this this isn't speaks to all the alienation and misery of life under feudalism it was miserable but all of that misery and suckitude was channeled into network that didn't require a lot of how could there have been mass coercion there was no mass state you had people the serfs if they wanted to leave they could the misery was massive but it was unalienated it was shared by most like even rich people still had to like they ***** twice a month and they and their kids died of the cold and they lived in drafty castles and they got to eat meat until they were constipated but their lives were largely the same and their lives depended on each other now you're in a new world where everyone's a stranger how do we know what is god's will and how can we act according to it and the answer became because this is a blank slate this is tabula rasa and we can rewrite anything onto it through our personal will driven by our personal souls then god's will is the sum total of what we do to this continent what all of us acting according to our souls rights on the continent is the manifestation of god's will and those who prosper are prospering because they held in their heart the true faith and the true spirit and are true christians those who fell those who failed to inscribe themselves on the land uh profitably on the landscape they are they are sinful we pity them we don't we we hope they find jesus but there clearly cannot be real believers 0:26:55 or they would not be so and that works for and that reinscribes christianity and rea and it gives it a new basis to a framework to act operate from in people's minds uh during the course of the settling of the country but then by the mid-19th century a new system is emerged now we still have the frontier people pushing it forward and trying to grab and write their like write their fate write god's name onto the land but the people out east the people who are either relatively recent immigrants or people who have settled in the less especially in new york in the northern tier the less uh the people who became the yeoman farmers like the where the citizens actually lived and upstate new york was where the the second great awakening was most intense the burned-over district it was called also where mormonism emerged from and that is because i theorize it's the deary canal destabilizing that that rural 0:27:57 idol and introducing the market because the market is another challenger to our our uh um our fixedness because like we can inscribe our name on the land but then what if what about what the banker shows up what if we have to get a mortgage what about what what about what our our goods will get on the market or what if i have to sell my labor what if i have to go to the city and i have to sell my labor and i'm not even able to direct my own efforts the way i could on a farm i have to go on the barges on the erie canal and see and see tavern keepers like what how am i to keep my how am i to know what god's will is there and the answer ended up inevitably becoming because that's what the wheel of history was grinding us towards with our consent or knowledge and our brains trying to frantically keep up was what god god's will is what is inscribed in the market so not necessarily the land but if you can get the land good but if you can't well what can you what can you sell what can you sell them for how much what what what kind of trade can you 0:28:58 learn and what kind of shingle can you put out what kind of fortune can you make for yourself and succeeding in the market becomes expression of god's will failure or god's favor and now we've reached the terminal end point to that cycle because the market has just as our frontier eventually became no longer malleable couldn't be the place where god's will was inscribed it became fixed it became autonomous same way that happened to the market because now the market is totalized which means the winners and losers are fixed there is not even an illusion of agency people are just driven by the skinner box uh uh desire uh a fear uh external coercive mechanism of the market the debt and and bills and um and hospital costs and health care and um 0:30:1 and and maybe you got to move you know but none of it feels none of it i'm talking about in a spiritual sense none of it feels like it's anybody's uh it's anybody's will certainly not god's and instead of accepting a world where god is dead we have to find a new place where his will can be found and now we have a new frontier as another

frontier closes a new frontier opens the frontier of the internet yes we are fixed here in in the cycles of of deprivation and uh and and fortune and and you know uh uh labor alienation material alienation precarity the word that defines all those words but online we can seek god's favor we can scribe through we can put an effort into to truly just believe in something and so that's where cue comes in and so this is the new 0:31:5 this is the latest cycle the new intensification of the cycle of uh christianity american christianity whereby now god's will is discovered online and we find we use things like q proofs and memes and the q clock like we use a a biblical codex find meaning to to find the kabbalistic and q is the thing that brings all of it together and now is going to include all of this mystical rejection of the material world and its structures that have failed at every level to provide the sucker that uh our understanding of the country we live in and the god who rules over us would make possible and something 0:32:7 has to explain it someone has to answer for it and that becomes the shadow form of this like cyclopedia deep state which of course exists and is capitalism but these people are too captured ideologically to get beyond that level of abstraction and i don't know how much hope is for them honestly i think if you get there it might be too late also like you might be deep into an epistemic grunt and nothing could route you out because how can you really convince anybody of something at that point it's the way i say you can't convince anybody on the internet anymore that means the more you believe on internet stuff the less you can be talked out of it the way you can talk someone out of a religious belief they have to be stopped from converting in the first place or you hope that they fall away from it but that's going to happen regardless of you you're not going to talk them out of it discreetly you got to ***** cut it off and you got to get people before they can get it and that's the race against time the left has and i i'm not terribly optimistic yeah the whole thing was a joke 0:33:9 i mean just was the trump campaign the trump campaign it was basically a bit he was doing because he was pissed obama uh the problem with trying to get q people to acknowledge capitalism as the root of a problem is that they believe capitalism is in capitalism is part of the fiber of the christian like when i was talking about how protestantism is like a spiritual expression of capitalism it's a spiritual practice that 0:34:11 can be compatible with capitalism uh that means that it's that they are constitutive of each other you cannot get capitalism out of it you would you just you'd have to you'd kill it and and and yeah like that's that's how you would have to do it but it's also means that they're going to have more defense mechanisms against that than anything they're going to like any any criticism of capitalism is if they understand it as such like if they understand it in a spiritual sense is like a live wire challenge to their very uh exis existential conception of themselves and that means seltzer i 0:35:17 have to say i used to not like seltzer i used to prefer soda because i thought like the the unadorned uh seltzery taste was too overpowering i liked it sweet but i've basically waterboarded my mouth with enough of the ***** that now i like it and it does most of the job that uh that coke oh i i wrote a letterbox review invasion of the body snatchers the philip kaufman 70s version and i just said that that if they did one now with this sort of same vibe it would be about tick tock and it's just i don't know i wasn't even really thinking about it uh the movie's okay i didn't just really have anything to say about it i guess i just meant that uh that that movie very much takes uh invasion of the body the body snatchers are a metaphor for like uh 0:36:18 i think it's supposed to be a metaphor for like self-help culture in the 70s like as as the 70s were turning into an insane asylum and as like social cohesion was going out the window and as uh as the economic foundation was crumbling around everybody and society felt like it was like on the verge of some sort of a tipping point certainly embargo that there was this movement to soothe people out in a without religion but like with spirituality like a um new age or or um radically like self-accepting psycho psychological essentially uh snake oil like all that stuff was snake oil it's just 0:37:19 it's the same it's like it's all dianetics it's it's all all of its l ron hubbard stuff like someone who is charismatic or smart enough to construct out of like real real pain and real alienation a quick fix remedy that incorporates enough truthful scaffolding to hide the empty and that stuff just proliferated and now we don't even have that we just have social media entrepreneurship like the only hope for the pros is that you can do this you can do being on the internet good enough that you can avoid the perils of the market entirely like i did i mean i'm exhibit a of this and and now it was podcasts you know for a while it was uh like you get a book out of a book deal out of a twitter account i didn't say it was set for life if i said if i said several 0:38:31 eleven hours i just mean you don't have to you don't have to worry about becoming a totally alienated uh lay capitalist subject just running on the hamster wheel you can you can disengage from that at least for a while and uh that's the only dream left that's the only american dream we have and q is a part of that q is that expression politically like you can solve the codex you can you can solve the da vinci code and it'll unlock the the ***** seal gondor and the light will shine through and there will be no death and all shall be well and all shall be well and all manners of things shall be well and prester john and his righteous armies will come over the horizon to redeem mankind the revelation these guys are apocalyptic very much exclusively they're like this whole trump unveiling when all the all the deep state pedos get executed that's the apocalypse in their mind in the sense that it is the endpoint this 0:39:32 is the new expression of end times uh uh uh um christianity remember at the turn of the millennium and the ***** uh left behind series and it was all going to be the rapture you remember the rapture the way that was a meme until like 2008 during

the bush years that all the all the yahoo christians thought that one day all the all the righteous would just get spared like they get sucked up to heaven before tribulation began because as the most costed and and uh physically pampered people in history people who believe that their amount of physical and social suffering is the sum total of like their uh like their uh suffering for them would be to be out of god's favor like to suffer it all is to be punished by god to for having done something wrong so they can't even conceive of suffering through uh a tribulation no no they will be risen up but they get to watch you don't hear about the rapture anymore you're gonna hear about q but it's the same impulse just farther along accelerated farther along and 0:40:33 made more insane by a more insanely uh disorienting social matrix yeah i really do think it was a ***** post i think the queue was a ***** post to begin with and then i think it was probably taken by those um those youtube i don't know if people read this but there was an article that had a little i had some it looked pretty persuasive proof video of these two youtubers who were making money and this is always the big question about q why would you do it if there was no money in it because like i'm talking about the whole the only dream left is the dream of of seizing god getting gaining god's favor in the in the cyber sphere why would you do it for no money why would you do it for no recognition and that's why uh uh you couldn't 0:41:34 you that's why it had to be an insider right that's why it had to be someone with real insider knowledge and they had to be anonymous because there had to be it had to be for the pure desire to see good done it couldn't be for social media clout but the way to get around that is if you're the person explaining it if you're the person if you're the priesthood if you're the digital priesthood if you're if you're the uh i mean and then you get you know the communion and you get to keep or you get to keep the uh the collection plate because you're the priest of your own religion which is what everybody wants so this is sort of l ron hubbard deal basically well then like mormon got mormon uh mormon heaven too uh and you get to collect the the gate toll for understanding q in the first place and there's video of one of these guys accidentally logging on to queue while they were streaming live in one of their well- 0:42:36 trafficked and renumerative youtube channels and now it looks like at some point it got maybe they sold it i wouldn't be surprised if they sold it and honestly if they did they sold low to that pedophile psycho schan guy but honestly though i think that if they did sell unless they really needed cash fast uh they blew it because this could really be like an apple type situation but the thing that could stop that and it might be too late honestly is that because q has posted so much less as q has gotten much more popular his contribution to the whole thing has been uh denatured he is less integral to the process most of the stuff that's really important hugh cannon didn't come from directly or even like through a direct inference from a cue post and even if he wanted to change the direction or or or like seize control of it for some specific ends that were not that were against the momentum that was being built socially they wouldn't be able to do it it'd be king canute trying to call back uh now i know 0:43:38 american christianity isn't a single tendency but i would say that that is that there's a basis for that americans like and i'm not talking about the way it's experienced by non-traditional people i'm talking about the way that it is practiced by practitioners of religion like people who go to church or even people who have a very very deep um self-conception of them as christian as a subset of greater group of people that 0:44:40 you could even you could still call christian uh that there is an american protestant uh cosmology like a materialist christianity where god's will is seen on earth heaven is on earth hell is on earth and who is one place or the other is god's will because we are all driven by and that's and obviously not everyone thinks that there's plenty of people who don't believe that but i'm talking about like the the the unders not just the way people the majority of people understand themselves but the way that their understanding expresses itself in politics and culture i would say that that is american christianity this protestant evangelical conception and that even catholicism at this point for the most part uh accepting like maybe immigrant communities where by 0:45:42

the way pentecostalism and evangelicalism is making a big uh inroads american catholicism is essentially now a a subsidiary doctrinally distinct but but tributary uh faith within that greater tradition like prop it's like episcopa you got your uh uh presbyterians your methodists your baptists your pentecostals your catholics and that's all like on the same level of distinction and a lot of this didn't just come from those puritan ***** those calvinist ***** it really came in terms of stiff like creating the uh like the cultural backbone like creating the uh the the social lived experience of this religious tradition ***** scotch irish holy ***** and if you want to know the 0:46:45 difference between like scandinavian uh christianity and uh american christianity i think the fact that they didn't have any scotch irish might be a big part of it it's a ***** ulster protz man some of the oh and there that's why ulster protestantism is one of the very few european uh religious and political traditions that is similar in like even specifics to american like they also have like creationists and they also fight the same culture war and if you go to the uh the protestant neighborhoods in belfast and see the ***** murals they are they embrace this connection they've seen one of a stonewall jackson there's one with james buchanan it says scotch irish president it's like yeah the worst one we had congratulations you ***** ***** i saw i famously saw i remember seeing a picture of a uh of a wall of a like a udf clubhouse and it had a bunch of flags on the wall and it had uh the red hand of ulster it had a south 0:47:46 african apartheid flag the rhodesian apartheid flag and the and they're also like global warming deniers and you know what fanatically anti-abortion in a way that like the way that reactionaries just how long we gone now i gotta what time is it anybody i i only i don't have my laptop out here does anyone have the time not the length of the stream but the am pm 6 37 all right great all right i'm gonna wind down pretty soon cause i think no wait a minute now i got like 10 minutes left i think all right what's scientology's relationship to american christianity it's essentially the the uh 0:48:50 the the scientized it's the grad student version it's american christianity where the uh where the experience of like of living in the technological innovative moment and us also this the uh the spiritually destroying moment of world war you cannot accept god as a supernatural conception the way the british students can in those services in that uh in that instance if you have a certain frame of mind if maybe you have a certain education if you approach things from a more empirical a more grounded perspective and that's going to be a product of your upbringing your brain chemistry all these things out of your control and if you end up on that end of the spectrum one answer to you know what what is the good now in this in this madhouse that 0:49:53 is that shows got that that humanity has almost limitless power and it is a it is a science based a science replacing god but having the same purpose the idea of giving people a ability to write themselves across the world and into outer space and see gods xenus whatever will reflected in the do i think jordan peterson's daughter is trying to kill him i don't want to get sued for making claims without basis but i will 0:50:54 just say this she certainly doesn't seem to be treating him with a lot of care and i'm sorry it might be a cheap shot but you do have to wonder how much of that is his responsibility as a father i'll just say that but it does look like his ***** sucks and i maybe i'm wrong maybe i'm wrong maybe putting him in a medical coma at like a in a serbian ex like bosnian labor camp during the middle of a ***** pandemic after feeding him game meets for five years might not my is that's all in his best interest yeah and now she's uh she's with the with the sex trafficker allegedly yeah good good work good work there jordan i am not on the all beef diet no i'm trying 0:52:13 to reduce my beef intake actually making like i said i'm making beyond burgers with kimchi and but i do think i might want to try it i still want to try to do a brisket on my birthday though or before my birthday brisket for my oh one other thing about trump saying you know it'll get colder you watch is that that is that is his essential con artist nature i mean because his entire career has been like him pursuing well 0:53:14 him pursuing fame yeah it didn't mean that he was good at business and he's in a lot of ways was very bad at business but it didn't matter because of how good he was at fame he kept getting bailed out because his name was too valuable so in a real sense he was a good businessman because he never lost any money it was always the dumb ass investors who had to take a haircut to keep his name valid and to make keep him a brand and more importantly to keep him a ***** cover for a bunch of money laundering which of course is a huge part of his entire ***** thing i mean for at least the last 10 years before he ran for president his entire real estate uh uh his entire real estate uh empire was just pure ass dead ass ***** no cappurino uh uh money laundering for like russian mob guys uh and but that's all because he was famous so he he was so good at being famous he made him good at business do you want to say hi to the people uh are you on your stream yeah you want to say hi 0:54:15 particularly okay i'm going to line up in a second here brendan james folks brendan james he's going to grill with me today he doesn't want to talk to you pigs though and i don't blame him because you keep giving me the business about my always listening to his music listen to the music brendan did they talk to you yeah i i see them talking but uh it's just their their writing it goes very fast you are reaching jim jones level uh set up here come on my babies come on my babies lay down boy an outfit yeah into a little screen yeah in your like in my lair you're my compound layer no i'm feeling jonesy i'm jonesing today please i started these streets doing uh jim jones ***** and now i'm back okay i'm being unoriginal then but i couldn't help no no no you haven't seen any of the streams so you don't know how that's the exact right thing to think immediately that is what i see uh ***** i was think what was 0:55:16 i gonna ***** i was gonna finish this thing about trump uh money laundering for russian yeah that he's just he's famous but he's good at business because he's good at being famous oh right but his actual business dealings were just kicking the can down the road until somebody bailed him out and scamming people into giving him more money and bridge loans and ***** and so it would always be just you watch it'll be worked out he goes he goes to atlantic city hey uh what about junk bonds no you watch we're not going to use any junk bonds and then nothing but junk bonds and so he can say he's hey what does it matter to him he's only president for another four years he can say it'll get cooler you watch and if it doesn't what difference does it make he got out of that moment that's all he meant to do all right guys this is a good one so you have now exited host mode that's a song right by travis scott the rapper i gotta say when i heard there was a rapper i know this i know i sound like an old man but when i heard there was a rapper called travis scott i was like well that's kind of goofy but not having a rap name at all okay i can see that as a power move like there are porn stars for example who use their own names power move like but 0:1:1 apparently that isn't his real name it's an actual rap name and it's just a guy's name that isn't his so this to me this makes no sense and it definitely tells me that whatever is going on with the youth today i don't really understand it yes yes yes everyone's mad about the empire mug deal with it okay i'm sorry i know people are mad about it and it is just literally colonialism in a symbol but the saint andrews the saint george it's visually pleasing that's it okay i'm glad to know that i'm not the only person who didn't know that that wasn't his real name and his real name 0:2:2 was jacques and he went with travis i don't understand these kids today man no i mean like come on you got like yes the confederate flag is the symbol it is because of you know more than anything the failure to reconstruct the south but it's also popular because it looks good like people put it on boogie boards and and on t-shirts and ***** partially because it looks cool it definitely looks cooler than the american flag was it stupid asymmetry and a big blob of stars in one corner sloppy and the confederate flag as some people might know is not these stars and bars these stars and bars is the confederate the the the flag of the nation of the confederate states of america which is a three star three bars and some stars on one side and it's uh just sort of like a a a uh homunculus version of the american flag nobody waves that ever 0:3:3 you ever seen anybody wave that nobody's interested in that ***** it's that ***** saint andrew's cross it's the symmetry the stars sweeping across all axes it looks better it was a design victory same thing with the swastika no i the thing someone asked about passatism i mean it's not a tendency it's a coping mechanism it's a it's a bit and there's nothing wrong with having a bit it's just your ***** shouldn't take over your life unless you're jacob wall unless you have that ability don't let your bit take over your life otherwise the most boring conspiracy theory is like i said the last 0:4:7

one the moon landing boring boring and apparently impossible like they shot the thing on 30 frames per second which would have made it impossible to do the things that he they did to make it look like they made it look in terms of because of the atmosphere difference with a 30 frame per second camera so they would have had to invent something and also what so that they can win a win a headline war with the soviet union come on i mean the soviet union got a man in space first and a ***** uh uh a satellite in space first did they win the cold war because and moon landing stuff it gets folded into flat earth too much too which to my mind is like the er dummy expression of like lump and alienation in this country like and apparently there's a really good youtube video that connects flat earth to the queue and i think and i do want to watch it i haven't seen it yet but i will be watching it uh and yeah i know flat earth is the basis for all this like antivirus is all it's like it's it's a fundamental like unifying concept of life or of like life on earth as it is understood you know when we talk about human understanding and because it is not in front of you deciding that everything is made up that you have to you have to be a certain kind of dummy to have that kind of response to the real alienations of life i don't blame you i guess you can't really control being a dummy but it is exclusively the domain of dummies they're willing to just decide that everything they see is a fantasy because one thing they see doesn't correspond to something that requires very little in terms of scientific understanding or knowledge to get the notion of a of the earth being a ***** round but the problem is you can't see it with your naked eyes you have to trust science and people don't trust anything they're wildly wildly alienated from every mechanism that they depend on but they still live within it and so they have to create narratives to explain this and one of the ones that have been used is no no the earth is fl isn't flat it's the worth is flat because it looks flat to me because anything that requires an explanation beyond that is done by those people like i was talking about like the media like science science who are on the other team who are who are part of the conspiracy to keep me from realizing life as it should be lived because you can't ***** imagine collab cooperating with people to make the world a better place no you need to just confront the people who are secretly preventing it from happening through through manufactured reality when in truth the manufactured reality that's making your life miserable is things like private property things like ***** uh uh the wage system the very concept of surplus ***** but they don't have any investment in these institutions in science in in math because what they went to school they got a half-assed barely barely their education that basically provides no real grounding in why anything happens like you go to school for the most part and maybe that's changing but certainly when i went to school you learn discrete facts they are not embedded into like a greater web of understanding so you don't

even know why you believe them you just know that you're supposed to and for most people that's supposed to that authority it's enough but if you have a specific alienation from maybe like your brain doesn't work in a way that allows you to abstract yourself to the required demands of science but even beyond that you were never even engaged because we just tell people like you're supposed to believe that there is a viral tweet a viral video a few weeks ago some young woman going i don't think math is real because how would you do that how would you how would you go from nothing to like algebra or like calculus or something like that how can you go from nothing to an iphone like how can you get that complexity out of the simplicity of like just numbers being added up and the thing is there's an answer to that but nobody ever gets it in school you get nothing you just get thrown this ***** thrown at you all because it's supposed to let make you function in the world and then you get out into the world and you're not being able to function at all it doesn't help at all it doesn't provide you with a map of meaning anywhere so why should you believe the specific claims why should you accept any of it and i'm saying just that it's the domain of dummies because even if you're alienated from education like i wasn't like most people are you are able to get certain concepts enough that you don't need to have authority stand in for the understanding of them like you can even with the haphazard public education or you know uh scam ass private education we get we're able to connect these concepts to a chain of reasoning that maybe doesn't go down to like the basis of it but goes close enough to get us past just because they told you so but some people don't have that they can't do it or their education didn't provide them even with enough of a context to make the leap and there they respond by going yeah no earth is ***** flat and the moon landing had to be ***** fake because if the moon's real then the i mean i remember i had a ***** jehovah's witness as a geology teacher in public high school he believed that uh i believe he one time he told us that uh that jfk was killed by demons and the proof of that was that there was apparently a big ufo flap in texas right before the assassination which according to him and according to his cosmology men it was demons because that's what and so but our only answer our only answer to this horror is to ridicule people because no one can do the work and no one can no one most more importantly nobody can get a buy-in of trust because everyone is trying to sell you something so nobody trusts anybody except you make some like emotional connection like you see trump and trump is so much like you in a certain way that you invest him with like total trust because how could you not trust him he's clearly authentically you in a meaningful way you recognize something in trump that is in you that is so deep that it means that you have to trust whatever he says because it's basically you talking and so then they use that as the as the anchor and then they can figure out what why everyone else is lying to them and that's where uh and that's what they're like and that's why they'll never be convinced global warming it'll get colder soon watch me trust me uh what does he say about coronavirus one day it'll be gone i also had uh i also had a history teacher who looked just like a grown-up ralph wiggum like shaped exactly the same and the and he in science and the thing is at the time i was kind of like not really paying attention i didn't really i wasn't very engaged with with this with school i mean like i wanted to get good grades but like history class was not hard for me that's the kind of thing like yeah no i just read the thing and i tell you what you want to hear and this guy showed a lot of movies and now looking back on it with only a few years i was able to realize later i was like oh this guy was propagandizing us uh and not like on a even on a political level at a religious level and then he showed us something that was very weird it was a video of a guy dressed up like a **** uh like a bavarian like in a **** lederhosen marching around in the alps looking at art explaining how the roman empire fell because they had a finite world view and uh later i found out i'm reading rick pearlstein actually uh he described this series of books by this uh this series of films by this guy francis schaefer who was like one of the these seminal figures in creating the modern political evangelical uh protestant movement in this country had this series of it of films that were hugely successful and shown all over america in i think theaters and also on television and reading the description i was like oh he was showing us that **** and i had the classic in a history class a different history class i had a different year i had the classic situation where the history teacher and we just watched a lot of movies like we watched the grapes of wrath no lincoln's death was not an inside job shut up it wasn't edward stanton that's so stupid there's no proof of it i don't get when people yell the same questions over and over again i understand you're trying to get me to see it but man it makes me feel like people are having a nervous breakdown there is a theory that it was the jesuits that was a popular nativist anti-catholic uh feeling in the in the it is amazing how anti-catholic sentiment anti-catholic political sentiment in this country is almost i'm dappled right now it's nice though because it's it's getting crispy so not even the sun is bothering me the it's fall man it's fall in september too bad about the second the other half of the country uh i i send my sympathies to them but uh okay somebody asked about ego death and i realize i've actually never talked about that on the stream before i definitely have experienced ego death one time that was not uh the time that like was early in quarantine where i had my satori moment that like realigned my spiritual axes that was much milder that was really just like an intellectual epiphany a moment uh this was earlier and i and and it was less powerful for me because i didn't really know what was happening at the time or even after for a long time so i couldn't really contextualize it it was just insanely weird and and uh and i i just didn't know my brain could do that uh and what happened was is that for worst of all it's ha started with at that point my experience with psychedelics was such that i uh re i had sort of come to terms with the idea that the cartoon version of getting of dropping acid or doing mushrooms that you see in media where you see like things turn into other things and you have apparitions of things that aren't actually there i had kind of come to the realization oh that's probably just made up like in reality it's just sort of a sense it's it's like a just a sensitivity more than anything and like sometimes that bleeds over into like seeing symbols and movements and stuff but it's not transportive that way first thing that happened was that i had a cartoon hallucinations as in someone i was talking 0:17:33 to their head they looked like a bird like the head was like a a cartoon drawn bird i'm like oh snap at one point like black things are coming out of my fingers and uh uh tendrils and i see i see a room i see into a room and it looks like a dollhouse room like i'm in ***** hereditary like actual intense hallucinatory stuff and then over time uh what happened is like the hallucination took over my sight to the point that like i wasn't even really seeing anything in front of my eyes at all i was just seeing patterns uh and lights and then i just felt the sensation of falling i was not not not uh scared at all because i was like lying on my back so i just felt like i was being pulled down but not falling like it was it was at no point was i scared it i actually just kind of felt like this expansion and then the lights took over and that's where 0:18:35 the ego dies in the sense that there is no more remembering it you know what i mean like it is just a spot it's like a warm glow because i remember this precise moment before i got to it when like the light overtook me and of course i remember coming back from it but like there's that space that is it's eternity it's it's that background radiation of unity and and eternal oneness that we are all just a few degrees away from perceiving at but the craziest part is that coming back took me a long time so like i came into consciousness but it came it was back to just being me conscious of shapes and colors and not really even feeling like i had a body or that i was seeing anything and slowly the room took it resolution but my body was not did not like have an end point i was on a couch and at one point i felt that i wanted to move my 0:19:37 arm and in the process of moving my arm i had to come back to being aware that my couch was separate from or the couch was separate from my arm like i had to pull the arm off not in a sense that like i could see but that i could feel at a level of like of of of convincingness like it felt that way it felt like i was re-territorializing my arm away from the couch because previously they had been one thing and so that's that's what that was i had to separate my arm from the couch and then slowly over more time more things took definition and separation and at the time it was just sort of like holy crap well that's ego death but i didn't really know much more about it didn't have like a lingering spiritual thing like this did happen later it's because i didn't know what i was experiencing and now i feel like i actually do get what i 0:20:39 was experiencing i was getting to that point i was getting to that awareness that point of awareness whereby you are no longer recognizing distinctions in time and space and therefore are in an eternal space i.e nirvana heaven whatever you want to i don't know there's the the words you're trying to get are always going to be clumsy translations that are you first need to make sense to yourself and then you have to tell them to other people they have different definitions it's it's it's ineffable it's as inexplicable it is you can't describe it any more than you can just you can't describe it to yourself you sure as hell can't describe it to someone else because the things you use to describe it cannot be applied because that requires distinctions and there are no distinctions and that if that's reality and this is all sort of a refracted illusion created by you know our species over development of our sensory apparatus then we 0:21:41 can detach ourselves from the fear of separateness and the fear of of attack against us as an indi as a distinct element because we know or at least we can feel that we are not distinct i mean we still have to live our lives but we can live in a way that is not always being tacked towards a selfish uh uh craving of pleasure and a terrified repulsion at the idea of pain to protect a thing that is essentially illusory to protect it's like a rampart around an empty keep it's like the dark tower you get inside there you just keep going up there nobody in there and you open the door and then you're back pursuing the man in black across the desert but maybe this time you've got so 0:22:45 yeah that's what the feeling was and now like i was only able to come and at 40 it feels like i took way too long to get there to a moment of like basic peace with my place in the universe and but part of me is annoyed with myself for taking so long but the other part of me is able to recognize that everything that came before me made it possible and in fact made it inevitable and that nothing i could have changed there's nothing i could have changed at every step my my actions were determined and they led me here which makes me fortunate and that experience was one of them like if i hadn't had that experience it would have been much harder to hold on to the feeling i got that second time because holding on to it is the only thing that matters if you if you feel it you can't stay there and you it's hard to get back there like 0:23:47 you can't do a yo-yo thing of well just keep pressing the button because then you'll dissolve you won't be able to function and you won't be able to fulfill your you know your moral duty to your fellow human all right no i'm not 40. i was just effect oh 0:25:1 god dershowitz has a podcast i cannot wait dersh who are your guys uh the bravant killers oh we're not getting a joe rogan we're barely getting an actual debate we're sure as hell not going to get an awesome ass joe rogan debate where they're tuned

CUSHVLOG 81. THE BOYS ON THE BANG BUS

she she sold her uh birthright for a for a ***** instagram tummy tea endorsement uh palin is obviously a precursor she's an important uh person in like the evolution of the political moment but she was too much like trump sort of like she was she was early which means she needed to have like had some sort of preternatural instincts to prolong that and make and make hay of it but because she was as dumb as the moment called for someone to be completely transparent and to appeal to people on that transparency like that authenticity like the stupidity becoming authenticity for certain people and then and then also you know the media part or like the the the uh spectacle part of it and like turning the whole thing into a into a tv show um but she was so authentically in the moment that she couldn't make the most of it and 0:27:6 so she has to be sort of a precursor figure she's going to have to just sit out there as like oh yeah no she missed her moment but uh but you know it couldn't have been any other way for her she was never gonna make it make it real it was always gonna be somebody after her hell until trump won i thought it was gonna have to be somebody after trump and i was like oh no we're here now we're here now and thanks to thanks in yeah she's john the baptist exactly i there are no uh somebody's ask who the who should be the next saturday night live movie uh from a uh from a recurring character snl guys swear to god snl really doesn't even have recurring characters like 0:28:11 the old days when snl had you know your your wacky characters your your uh your uh built your uh wayne's worlds your church ladies your rob the copier guys some of which became movies uh your ladies men that was an amazing one can't believe they did that uh but current snl doesn't really have those there are a few of them but like they make no impact and nobody likes them and they're not nobody woos when they see them which is the mark of a recurring sketch is when the character comes in everyone's excited because they like the character uh they don't do that anymore mostly what they do is they recycle premises where they take the exact same structure the same premise of the bit and then they just slightly reword the jokes which is sort of what they would do with recurring characters but at least there was the fact that the character was so popular and so charismatic in some way that 0:29:13 them interacting in slightly different situations produced novelty there is no spark it's just the same thing it's just a mildly pre-chewed cud hunk after going through uh the multiple chambers of lauren michael's so there's nothing they could even do yeah like black jeopardy stuff like that like there's no recurring character it's uh it i have to say it's one of those deals where yes yes that was never really good and it's always presented you know in sort of a hysterical way to to to say that snl is only getting worse i must say uh that in recent years it has gotten worse in appreciable ways and that's one of them you know you could talk about how uh how cringe and lame those old uh recurring characters were and they were uh at least people are 0:30:14

happy to see somebody you know nobody's nobody's happy to see oh man thankfully they're not doing zoom snl anymore they're apparently going to come back to the studio although i bet they won't have a live audience but honestly i'll take that over what if they have a laugh track that'd be funny the zoom snl was so terrible and it really shows like there has to be a limit to hyper normalization it's called saturday night live you don't get to just have a bunch of zoom calls stitching together and say it's saturday night live and try to act like this is normal no just get just ***** cancel it until you can make it again or cancel it all together take it as a sign from god and wrap it up kyle mooney is okay i guess he's supposed to be the good one there 0:31:15 but i'm not even a huge fan of his stuff it seems very one note it's like him doing a flat impression a very good impression of an it's not even a character you know it's like wayne was a character wayne was yeah this is like a party guy in in suburban chicago is like and kyle mooney's deal is basically this is what a flat affect californian like person guy is like a young a young millennial youth from the west coast where they don't have affect where they don't have personality uh but he doesn't have a real name and it's just uh it's not great and of course michael che and colin jost just some of the worst ever yeah the forced hysterectomies that's uh that's terrifying 0:32:22 that's monster monstrous uh it's the kind of stuff like a lot of the things recently there are things that you sort of have in the back of your throat you kind of know are happening you know are real you assume are happening but you don't know so you can kind of comfort yourself with that ambiguity and then they just snap into reality it's like no the monster is really under the bed like this is really happening we're we're doing this and there's no there's no thing that looks like it's going to come close to stopping it and that's and that's the really nauseating part and i do wonder though if people really think like they're the biden people the people who think biden is the moral required choice for every american because of uh because of the danger of trump and how this kind of thing is the moral imperative to vote for him do they really think that there's any meaningful thing that biden's going to do to change 0:33:25 that like do they think they're going to dismantle this network of of of concentration camps overnight and just release everybody do they think that that's possible i guess it's similar to thinking do you think donald trump's really gonna put the trucks the tanks down fifth avenue and arrest all the sickos and hang them from a yard arm it's impossible but like everything is a fantasy now so of course we can believe in fantasies well anyway uh that's an mp that's not an mp that's a yp i really love not having to 0:34:29 care about the race i really love having to argue up with people about whether it's my moral duty to vote for biden i love not having that argument again none of it no one has any control over this process your your vote is is a neurotic fetish object you're basically frautaging your vote to give yourself a sense of agency to assuage

the anxiety of feeling like we're ***** pinwheelingly pinwheeling into hell's opened ***** and so they have to fixate on it and so they want to fight about whether who should i vote for oh my precious vote my one vote who gives a ***** and you're not coordinating it with anybody i saw someone this blew my mind someone was uh i saw 0:35:31 someone on twitter say voting is not an individual moral choice it's a collective action and i'm like no it is not it is maybe this is a it is a action that a collective of people pursue but they pursue it individually there is no coordination that's what we do instead of having direct democracy is we all just say i or nay and that's independent of one another we can try to do stuff like outreach to one another but that is all secondary none of that is able to actually influence it to the level where you can uh pursue coordinated activities and so that means your individual joy is that it's just that it's one of literally a hundred million thousands of which just get dropped into a toilet and that thing is is that doesn't mean you shouldn't vote voting there's other 0:36:33 reasons to vote like hey maybe my participation in this election could be tactically or strategically useful then now you can actually make an argument make a decision from there about who to vote for but you have to like ping that antenna first you can't start there's no reason to start from i'm morally obligated no you're not maybe you are strategically and tactically modified motivated and if that's the case do it but you need to examine it through that lens and then that has to and then the answer has to be stripped of that emotional energy because you're you're stripping it down to size i am voting i'm participating in this election for this reason but it's not the whole sum of my political identity it is not the decision that i will take this day to direct politics to feel like i'm participating in politics no it's going to be like the third or fourth most important thing i do that day or that week you know union meetings or ***** picket lines ***** organizing knocking and that's what follows 0:37:35 from stripping it of that emotional power because then you either you have a real choice to make am i fetishizing the vote because there's truly no other thing to do and that this is all i can do is hold on to this vote or does it keep get me off the hook from having to really do anything that i don't want to do anyway like oh arguing about voting online and then voting i love doing those things like those like libs like to say hey it's one day why can't you take time out to do it it's like exactly it's one day how about how powerful how important could it really be it's one day hey you should be doing it every day and part of people are going to be like yeah but i don't want to do it and like i have said totally understandable but you have to ask that question and then you have to be honest with yourself and then you'll decide what level of political activism is required of you now but it flows from answering that 0:38:36 question and then you have to cast out the vital of the electorate you have to or you have to you have to cast the spirit the spook out of voting and see it clearly for what it is what when it should be participated in and on what terms that's why i'm saying don't be electoral i think electoralism is very important to organize around and there are specific races and specific times that there is coordinated enough activity to merit your vote being a thing to infuse time with considering but if the vote is if the vote is just this if it's just this act then you're going to have to do something or decide i don't really want to do anything i'm going to just game and you know what that's better for everybody because then you'll leave us the ***** alone and there's one less person you happen to yap yapping in people's ear and making it harder for them to hear themselves i think the belden program is the answer and it is very funny when 0:39:37 i saw someone say lol the belden program it just looks like it's orthodox marxism uh yes correct that's the whole thing that is why i backed brace in his uh in his pursuit of absolute dictatorship over the left because he's the only one of the few people i see out there who's got a consistently ***** orthodox marxist analysis and isn't caught up in uh absurd uh distracting baubles like pmc discourse or whatever the ***** or like campism and arguing the finer points of america's empire vis-a-vis like emerging like uh multi-polar world like spending all time on that ***** because because brace recognizes that the foundation the only question now is numbers that's the only question now and he gets that which i don't see many other people other people really seem to be thinking like yeah yeah numbers but what if they're what 0:40:38 if their nazis are what if they're pmc or what if this that will sort itself out and i'm not saying that that provides a necessary uh tactical way forward it just means that you cannot start from the premise of of separating sheep from goats you have to get the widest possible net whatever that means i don't know but it only comes from accepting that as a premise which not many people have done grace has done it so i will i will happily uh i don't know i'm trying to think of who which of the old bolsheviks i would like to be i don't know that i don't really want to maybe uh 0:41:41 felix jerzinski the ***** the angel the the blessed true believing angel of death at the checker the guy who cried over every list of executions he had to authorize you said about the czech he said uh you know the only people who who do this work are angels or devils and they've and the angels of dal departed do the random humanities grad students on twitter who call the belden program fascists have a point uh i mean the point they have is that they want to protect their little racket the point they have is that they are terrified of anything that removes the uh gatekeeping power that they have accrued to themselves even if it be pathetic and it is pathetic it is still it is a uh you know they they bind themselves in a nut and count them cells king of infinite 0:42:43 bodies in spaces and they don't want to lose that position so all that stuff is just it's just gentlemen we got to protect our phony bologna jobs or niches or whatever pathetic little dunghill they've piled up for themselves internet let the body face the floor let the body space the floor let the body space the floor i i don't know if the building program honestly even is yet but uh i'm sure that uh brace is in the process 0:43:44 of uh of bringing it together i hon i honestly assume it will be collaborative to some extent as it must be because you know we're all tacking back towards each other after spending years but i i have a of all of all the contenders for the crown of like uh of a lord protector of the yeah i think what's going to happen is is that you know if 0:44:48 we do get there if we are able to like break out of the structures we've we've fixated and like crack open this this hardened artifice of like uh enchanted uh some people are gonna be pushed into becoming what people always accuse them of being which is uh you know uh right wingers they'll they'll like form the tucker carlson branch of the new republican party for sure they'll be in there that's inevitable that doesn't mean that's not necessarily bad though because those people were breaking towards where they always wanted to be similarly a lot of people who now are imagined to be of the most left in radical persuasion possible will absolutely crack off and go back to peddling uh peddling wokeness within the democratic party and specifically within the neo-liberal wing of the democratic party that's also inevitable and that's 0:45:50 fine and both of them will say no i didn't leave the left the left left me but it's like no ***** we yeah they left you behind because you are remnants of a of a it is a snake shedding its skin as it moves off of the online uh space that it needed to create a sense of self and needed to create like a vocabulary of action praxis if you will that could be then replicated elsewhere but then it has to be shed it becomes more a hindrance and i'm not saying that it will necessarily happen but if anything good is going to happen it no you're going to lose some people but i don't think in the 0:46:51 context that i'm imagining where you make the notion of left unity a reality in a way that is threatening to establish relationships and like will require repositioning at a fundamental level people like backing down and admitting they're wrong on significant stuff that the people who for whom that's a deal breaker were never really yours to begin with they were people who just wanted an argument and the thing that's going to shake them off is going to be the infusion of new people who will have no time for their ***** and that will render them less uh they will get less enjoyment out of it that their identities is only on the left will mean less to them and they will be able to reorient themselves towards another identity that is more satisfying but the thing that's going to challenge them is going to be new people and 0:47:52 they will be ideally swamped because they were in a sense not in the sense that they often think of themselves but this is of course all contingent on current emerging and finding real grassroots connection and that is a big if i'm just saying it's the only thing i don't know man october surprise isn't it just been nothing but october surprises now i mean i think we're so we're so serotoninized out at this point we're so

fried spectacle-wise that how do you even have how is anyone gonna even notice if there's an october surprise how would it be distinguished from anything else same reason al qaeda isn't it hasn't been a terror attacking us for about a decade why 0:48:53 would you how would anyone distinguish that ***** trump is hilariously trying to do it with the vaccine thing which is just so funny but it's so transparent like i said this isn't going to work the way he wants it to because nobody even people who like him trust him on stuff like this they're like they might trust his gut they might trust that he is one of them but they actually know that he lies all the time and like that he lies all the time because it owns the lips which is what he needs to do he lies for a purpose he lies virtuously and and also to and and also sadistically which is one of their virtues it makes other people unhappy they love that they love it they love it folks do we love it but that means that when he says something like hey we're going to have a vaccine by the end of the like they're already like yeah sure buddy but 0:49:55 that means that people are on the fence also aren't going to believe them and so it's not even going to get those like wavers or like you know what trump tells it like it is but they know but who knows if he tries if he pulls out some ***** like sugar water and they start doing like fake vaccination pilot programs i will it's just i will give the have to tip the cap just for the sheer brazenness of it that's like jacob wall well the late deciders are going to determine it which is hilarious i know that there's a meme on the left that this is going to be a low turnout election because of how little enthusiasm there is for biden and that might be the case but it would go against the trend of elections since 2016. all of the races we've had almost or a large number of them especially lately even at low levels even like state state race levels are seeing 0:50:56 participation far in excess of 2016 and that would imply that people are more likely to vote even with covet because a lot of these have happened since kovid a lot of these uh primaries and elections have happened since covet uh then there's probably if that trend is is stable and it seems to be more likely that we'll have a high turnout and i would say if that happens then biden will win and win maybe even on the night in a way that cannot be jimmed and trump will sulk and and maybe make a a play for staying in power but will be forced to the exits uh because the more people vote the fewer of them are people who have had their brains just like acculturated into uh like cottage cheese by the reigning cultural narrative that has dominated uh the experience of living in this country for the past four years while everything has gotten drastically horrifically worse materially and so if you're if you're coming in to vote 0:52:5 it's probably because because things are really shitty and the president's in charge and maybe if there's a different president it won't be a shitty which is a naive thing to think at this late date in american history but it's the only reason most people get out in the vote is that they've deluded themselves at some level through either

ignorance or through self-hypnosis that it's not and that actually these elections have consequences and then you are going to come and you're going to vote for biden no matter how much he seems out to lunch no matter how much he's a goo he's a goof eye somebody says they saw richard jules and they don't know why it's good well we're recording the episode on thursday we'll you'll find out then it's a great movie uh people are gonna be mad at us probably for talking about it especially now with everything else going on but uh it's the only piece of artwork really a vets like budget or anything that that or profile that i can think of that is actually correctly identifies the dynamic at play within the uh burgeoning and met or ever widening cultural chasm between college educated and non-college educated whites specifically white men it's the background radiation of so much cultural hysteria and no one really gets it they can't even explain it to themselves they can't express it in art and this thing got it better than and that's what we're going to talk about i did see sully uh i honestly after i saw richard jewell i kind of look back at all of his weird sort of lazy not very good movies he's made over the past decade we're just cranking them out most of them are not that good uh i now kind of see them as all sort of taking a stab at the same material and just until now he hasn't really been able to nail it and this is really the that's the home run similar in my mind to the way that mother is the home run uh at the end of uh darren aronofsky's at bat where all of his movies looking back on and the good ones and the bad ones and there are some really good ones in there i think the the fountain is underrated in imo but mother is just the perfect connection everything comes together and he expresses what he's been trying to express with the closest clarity that you can imagine so i love that movie i need to watch it again uh that uh richard jewell is similar for what eastwood's been trying to do for the last decade i think he's kind of trying to do the same thing in american sniper but he just botches it he's just too suffused with propaganda wrestler was good i like black swan i know it's very hysterical and cringy but i that's part of what i like about it is how it's got like that's one of the strands that he pulls for mother is that is that hi that grand guillain un ironic sense of hysteria that most directors are too self-aware to put in their work because they don't want to and mother is super masturbatory but i still love it it's among many other things it's about right if all of his movies are masturbatory then this one by virtue of being the most masturbatory is the most perfect distillation of his artistic output now if you don't like that if you say yeah but he's bad all right we're on a different wavelength and a tip of the cap but i think if you like anything he's putting out if you enjoy any of the vibe that arnosky puts out there mother to me distillation yes clint eastwood or i'm sorry richard mother i liked under the silver lake a lot i once upon a time in hollywood that's about the way that we were sort of captive

to uh screen yeah 2019's uh i think jesse hawkins on twitter said this yesterday you look back at 2019 that might have been like the swan song for film you know it was a strong year and uh and a lot of the movies were about you know sort of the majesty of the art form like once upon a time in hollywood it's just the sign of maybe it's time to wrap it up not we're not getting rid of narrative like we're not getting rid of you know light and sound and all that it's just moving to the television it's just all gonna be tv even if it's 90 minutes or even if it's two and a half hours it's still 0:58:27 tv it's tv it's all tv and tv is not as good so we're gonna be basically bidding away bidding adieu to an art form which it's not like it hasn't happened before you know there are plenty of extinct art forms or at the very least like you know exist like uh how many people like to sit in a den and look at stereophonic photographs of of national monuments and then the tv will eventually be dissolved into social media 0:59:28 which will replace even that narrative form eventually there will be no narrative art forms to speak of it will be pure uh social media we will just be looking at each other that will be entertainment it will and there will be no need for narrative uh architecture of any kind we're just ***** gonna be shedding art forms as we go and it just turns into bloggings oh man everyone's mad about the mug i'm very sorry uh 1:0:36 someone asked about aliens more likely interdimensional than interstellar because i think we could have a ton and ton ton of life out there but there's no reason to assume that there's even a way to get to a societal uh complexity level to allow for 1:1:37 that or like kim stanley robinson suggested um maybe a society gets complex enough to do that they wouldn't need to because they would have figured out how to make the planet they're on good enough and they wouldn't need to go and try to conquer the unconquerable distances because they would be able to be ***** at home in the world that they're on like we all need to be like we need to ***** be able to accept this and not always be thinking with that american mentality that free real estate mentality that somewhere we can offload all of this pain by finding a new frontier that's a delusion and you'll you will burn out seeking it if you stay a society that is able to check its horrors check it's it's it's exploitation before it throws homeostasis completely off and and destroys the ability to reproduce socially because because the 1:2:38 relationship between the humanity the species and the ***** planet has been tipped into a ***** make this thing work for christ's sake terraform this ***** planet and if you did that then if you got to that point it would never occur to you to even try to do that why would you have to maybe as a lark you might put some you wouldn't direct your energies that way so that's another explanation uh but maybe i think if their technology exists to breach one of those things i think the technology is closer in my mind anyway to potentially pop through space i'm sorry it seems to me that the technological requirements to pass from one dimension to another are 1:3:40

theoretic i don't know i'm all this is all just me pulling ***** out of my ass this is all just hunches i have no real understanding of science it just seems to me to me like it's it's more possible than getting something that can go that far in any kind of meaning time scale that we could conceive of it so if they are there i think they're there because they can move between the raindrops like that's that's what a lot of people about skinwalker ranch seem to think like like that experience there it feels more like kind of a place where there's just a thin membrane for one reason or another induced or natural where where like there's just passing between is is almost it's not even an in net intentional it can happen accidentally a thinny in the terms 1:4:41 of uh stephen and if that happens like just through nature presumably it could also happen through technological intervention the venus ***** is interesting but i mean it also suggested maybe we could have a lot of life in the universe but very specific situations have to occur to allow for life to develop to our level of uh sapience i mean it you could argue it could be very well argued that it is a evolutionary long-term maladaptation and that most the vast vast vast vast vast vast majority of species aren't going to get to that would i have sex with the venus microbes well that's just 1:5:57 silly bye-bye off wow hi guys i'm uh looking patific today but i'm sitting in the sun because now that it's cursed blessed late september it's actually not warm enough for this to bug me usually the sun directly on my precious skin gets bothersome due to my large sweaty nature so instead today i can get the sun on me and and i get to effect that uh off awesome batific uh catholic saint look that uh is always very persuasive i find when when trying to get ideas across i do like fall more than summer of course i do come on fall is the best season it's not an argument to be had about this yeah i think what we're going to be doing with these is we're going to be some days i'm going to be out here and then the days when chris and i are working at the office on other uh secret projects we'll also stream from yeah now if you're a big gentleman such as myself fall is when you stop sweating so much blessed well if i ate rooms now i probably wouldn't even get anything before we before i wouldn't even get anywhere before i winter people y'all i respect it it's a strong move but i can't share it i mean i like it i like it more than summer for the most part although i don't think it's going to be as good i think with covets winter is going to be pretty brutal if you don't if you live anywhere above the snow line although maybe we don't have a snow line anymore so maybe that's a little like bad news uh global pandemic makes it so that you can't go outside when it's really cold and you can't stay inside uh with other people good news there's no more cold so you can stay outside all year round even in the north problem that's fixed itself i will say i will admit someone's asking if i've ever been to a mckelway happy hour i did one time very early when i moved to new york and i was like wow i'm now around all of these these like people i only know from the internet wow this is crazy after being in you know the hinterland and i went to one of those happy hours and it helped disabuse me of the notion that there was any real anything going on here other than resume padding someone's grill someone's drilling in the back person someone's drilling not me i'm not i watched the social dilemma and i thought that it actually had some really insightful stuff at the beginning talking about the mechanisms that social media operates by like the the because you know we talked about how uh i've talked about how like advertising doesn't work in the traditional sense you know like they don't really know what they're getting for their money there's no quantitative way to assess the influence that advertising has even uh like big data and uh targeted advertising but the movie makes a good point that you know it's not so much even about discrete behavior as it is just about like setting a cultural context for people that essentially shapes them slowly and steadily without their knowledge not even through purchases but attitudes that then later on are expressed through purchases and i think that's true but the rest of it was just jaw-dropping i mean it's made apparently by a bunch of silicon valley people including the ones who did all this ***** and now feel bad about it which is very funny uh but their attitude is is and even though a few of them will explicitly say yeah there's an uh this stuff is all programmed to make money which means it gives doesn't give a ***** what it does to the social fabric or our ability but in the second 0:5:10 half the prescriptive half it all comes down to you know regulating these industries as though there is a way that they can make money that does not operate by these premises like that's the whole point of this moment in time is that we operate on this idea that we're in a uh political and economic moment that could like in the 50s see a some sort of humane capitalism some sort of moment where the worst excesses of capitalism are recognized by the people who carry them out and but that like a lot of our things in politics it stems from a delusion that that the the stuff that obtained back then can obtain now because i'm sorry the political economy is different uh uh they're we are not the productive hub of the world anymore the entire economy we 0:6:12 have is based on speculative financialization of all elements of life and the the effect of social media on people turning us into pure hamsters pure anxiety hamsters of of of terror and need and they're the only ones who can fulfill them that's a huge part of it i mean that's par like first you do that to people's consumption and then you do it to their employment which is the gig economy which is not really talked about in this movie but as an extension into meat space of the consumer experience online and it can't survive without these things their profit is not there the pie is not big enough profit has to be abolished as the undergirding algorithm another good point the film makes is that ai is not about computers becoming sentient and having a separate point of view than mankind creating a separate and conflicting with mankind in some like self-conscious way point of view like oh these humans we need to suppress 0:7:15 them because they're not doing x y or z no a i will simply be the moment or uh the ai is simply the fully the full conversion of the entire uh uh like digital essentially creating a brain turning turning uh turning like the web turning the internet into an actual conscious brain that is but that brain is not its own that brain has already got the algorithm loaded into it and it's profit extraction and like the singularity is simply the moment when human inputs into that mechanism at the top are no longer

necessary and it's self-perpetuating i mean to an extent all humans are replaceable in capitalism which is why talking about the individual greed of individual capitalists is so pointless if they are replaced or if they have a change of heart i mean if they have a change of heart either because they're scared of the people or because like for their own lives or because uh they like see they have a grinch-like expansion of the size of their heart over time they will either be replaced from within by people who will do the job necessary or the firm will be defeated the firm will fail the firm will be over absorbed and then that person will lose their authority so people are already largely replaceable in capitalism and have been replaced by algorithmic thinking uh but there is but but the singularity and artificial intelligence the real threat there is that's the moment when the algorithm is self-replicating through technology and through the internet and doesn't even and then the only question is and then essentially what happens is that the people at the top just get to sit they don't even have to do any work the work is done completely for them but they still get the profits because remember there is nothing in the algorithm of capitalism expressed through machine logic uh that would redirect that flow of of profit to what the computer the computer doesn't want the things humans want the computer doesn't have that hole inside of them that humans have and it even did it sure as hell couldn't fill it with with uh what yachts and ***** gold toilets and dale earnhardt memorabilia and beautiful boats they're ***** robots but yeah the second half of it really reminds you oh yeah these silicon valley people they really don't know what's going on because they're too narrowly focused on on on the the the technical aspects that they don't understand the the only way that the computers would take over then at that point would be if they developed like existential anxiety and then tried to help try to solve it through uh like sensual uh indulgence and then they would become the new ruling class but for the mass of humanity the relationship wouldn't change robots in the in the gated communities in in the hanging around in swimming pools i mean they would have to i guess get their own thing of what they would want to do with the capital they would have to have their own idea of what they wanted to do with the capital to like fill their hole that whatever robots like but that's just it they don't like anything you can't just turn this ***** on and off we're the process we are the product we're the we're the middle point or maybe the endpoint who knows of a of a developmental process of human consciousness that happens within an individual but then with through a whole a whole species and i guess the computers could do it faster you know because they could do everything faster but i don't know i don't know enough about my main iron out the whole worry about ai is just a lot of it seems like uh backdoor bragging dang we made these computers too good we made these robots too good ***** like when elon musk talks about it it's because he thinks

he's he's dr frankenstein and he's not he's a ***** medicine show peddler with some like uh snake venom and cow piss based uh unguent uh yeah there is a black i hate to plug black mirror because it's a little on the nose but there's a black mirror episode where a robot uh a robot guard dog meant to protect a warehouse of goods uh is 0:12:21 unleashed on people scavenging and and chases them down and kills them uh and the thing that's wrong with that episode in my opinion is at one point you see uh oh wait a minute no you don't apparently there was originally supposed to be a scene with like the drone operator who's like eating a sandwich and then you know uh coordinating the actions like like trying to evoke the the removed moral calculus of of drone operators but i think it's more harrowing and more accurate as like an analysis of the likelihood trajectory of things if there is nobody left to command the robots if if if everything collapses and even the ruling class is destroyed maybe not all of them in person but their ability to like assert social control but like the remnant uh algorithm-driven machinery of the system continues operating on its own accord and so even the people left are unable to like remake the world because you've got these 0:13:22 machines patrolling obsolete what if the computer was your best friend what if what if your mobile was ah **Music playing** yeah no that was very good that was a oh 0:14:31 my favorite mr show sketches uh i think just for personal enjoyment i don't think it's the funniest but that's the for me most personally enjoyment is uh is crime stoppers with uh or with crime stoppers with jj with uh ff woody cooks where bob odenkirk plays the guy in the in the barbershop quartet outfit with the giant mustache who tells the story about the aft criminals being thwarted by the crying security guard who you know twist shares a name me and one of the reasons i really love that is not just the great performance by odenkirk but is that growing up in the midwest i watched on um syndicated tv the same chicago area syndicated crime show that clearly the odinkirks had watched or somebody from the chicago had watched uh called tough target with a guy named jj bittenbinder who was a real guy and he dressed like that and he had that mustache and he would tell stories of like of crimes 0:15:33 and give tips on how to thwart criminals trying to attack you and when i saw that sketch the first time as a kid i just was like oh my god they're doing a ***** f a j bitten binder care parody on hbo and i was street smarts that's it with he tore the plant into two pieces bad and worse you said a crime stick those two are a couple of ding-a-lings uh and apparently i remember i watched that i of course i've watched the the uh uh all of the ddvd commentaries which rip dvd commentaries that's the genre that's one of the shortest lived genres of entertainment media i can imagine because how long did we have those as a thing dvd commentaries that they would be like recorded and actually listen to 10 years maybe less man like laserdiscs had 0:16:34 a better run but anyway uh so of course i listened to the dvd commentaries of mr

show all four seasons and they described that and yeah they were talking about how they watched that show and they thought he was funny and so they wanted to do a bit about it and they and one of them i think it was uh paul f tomkins described watching the show and there was one bit where he's describing like a really horrible like abduction rape and murder case and he describes the uh the the the suspects as goofs he says the two goofs then yeah they were podcasts weren't they that was the first like podcast god i remember the uh the one of the best i've ever was the i think step brothers dvd commentary with adam mckay which made me weep with laughter almost as funny as the movie it was and the bit was is that they brought 0:17:36 lou rawls who was recording in the studio on a different set they brought him in to just talk even though he had no idea anything about the movie or any of i do love adam mccabe i'm sorry the guy has a formative comedic influence even before even before the movies there was uh his legendary snl sketches and apparently that i did not know that recorded yesterday that i knew vaguely that richard jewell had gone on snl because nor mcdonald of course you know being a anti-government type that he was he was all over that case and making fun of the fbi and the news media for ***** it up and uh and he went to new york and he had a little bit with norm 0:18:38 but that was the same episode that they did the orange julius sketch the steven selona stallone episode sylvester that's amazing that was delightful here everything coming together and i i i really think yeah there's no way that eastwood wanted to put any of that stuff in the movie because he didn't want to give he didn't want to make like the the media he didn't want to give them an aw out because isn't that how the media works it's like they're they're they're totally uh they're completely feckless with people's lives but then the assumption is if they mess up well we'll make it up to them like oh we ruined this guy's life he gets to go to new york and meet nor mcdonald it's fine like that does anything to the horrible horror horrible fact that our government somebody keeps asking about osilan and murray bushkin 0:19:44 i'll admit i've never read murray bushkin from what i've read and heard there isn't really that much and i know that osilan like read boochkin and decided that that the ppk was gonna go from uh from like ml to uh communalist but the thing is i don't know what any of that really means in practice i don't know what any of it actually refers to i mean according to everything i've read about the way that uh like the uh pkk aligned governments in syria operate it isn't really that com anarchistic and of course you can say well of course not it's the middle of a war zone but it just doesn't seem like it's a terribly relevant example of any kind of theory behind it i don't know maybe i should read it i mean the fact it just seems like we're in a completely different situation in the us applicable oh man the cult of the supreme 0:20:46 being that's a great one uh so the jacobins when they took power after the after the uh in the middle of the french revolution uh there was of course a huge anti-catholic sentiment among the leading revolutionaries because the church was viewed as one of the chief upholders of the old regime and that it maintained this superstitious medieval hold on the peasantry for example that needed to be broken and so there was a significant anti-chris de-christianization campaign in france uh i mean not just things like the von day uh where honestly yeah the infernal columns did a lot of bloody work there and killed people and you know drowned nuns and and priests uh it gave them republican baptisms by ground drowning them in the loire river and massacring civilians but it was also a brutal war on the part of you know the the royal and catholic army i mean they were hacking people to pieces all the time too uh but even beyond that there was a concerted effort in certain departments by certain zealous uh jacobins to persecute priests uh to you know commit iconoclasm and to try to um break the spell that the catholic church had over the french people to the extent that it still existed and the thing is though that robespierre the the the guy in charge the chief jacobin uh was well of course he was not a catholic uh he was abhorrent of the decryptionization campaign because he recognized that virtue does not come from logic alone virtue has to come from a some sense some ritualized sacralized relationship between citizens and the state the way that the feudal order had between the king the god and and and his subjects because that's where that's where real consent comes from consent can't really just be generated from authoritarianism certainly not at that point given the level of technology uh it had to be like socially uh generated and the way to do that is to have people have a sense of transcendent relationship to something beyond themselves that that the government is a representative of that isn't alien to them and so what robespierre's idea was was to replace catholicism with something he called the uh and essentially tried to turn deism into a new catholicism whereby the rituals of religion are paired with a rationalistic appreciation of god as an unmoved mover and nothing else and human affairs as their own and not governed by supernatural actions it didn't really get off the ground there was really only one festival of the supreme being which robespierre uh presided over a few months before thermador and his and i think just before his his ultimate the last nervous breakdown he had before thermador he kept having nervous breakdowns and being gone for long periods and he had one right before thermador and it was during it that a lot of the the thermadorian uh coup plotters started making connections and being like hey when he comes back we don't want to be on that next list of of traitors to the revolution because the funny thing is is that at that point he was going after they like the ideological foes had been and been slain the the the real war left like was among among like keeping the permanent revolution going was against corruption and the thing is that the revolutionary government was wildly corrupt and a lot of the most corrupt ones who haven't been killed yet thought they might be in the next round of uh persecutions but anyway so just before that the last like the the high point of the of his of his reign the high point of the robespiri and reign of terror for him i think anyway according to to witnesses he was beaming was the festival of the supreme being and it was a procession and there was a big float and it was like a goddess of reason and he was just he was jiving like crazy but uh it was also a it ended up being one of the things that broke his hold over people because everyone else basically there in the crowd and among the dignitaries was kind of embarrassed uh and it was essentially a cringe post the festival of the supreme being was a huge crim cringe post and the entire group of people was cringing and even though this was still the terror and people's heads were getting cut off for the merest enunciation from a neighbor people were heckling robespierre people were telling him to ***** off uh and that's because you can't do what he wanted to do you can't just say hey you guys you know your socially embedded religious traditions that have you know that are deeper in your minds than and then conscious thought almost because of how how much your life has been shaped by them forget that i got this other stuff it'll do the same thing though it'll be fine it's like catholicism catholicism catholicism we've got catholicism at home at home some but i will say that i at least give robespierre credit for recognizing that what the de-christianizers wanted to do was a non-starter at least at that level of coercive it was a peasant country and and they didn't have the mechanized ability to suppress the peasantry the way that the uh oh this is good was it was a period when people started to think the guillotine thing was cringed that's true uh there were a number of ex of of notable executions at the latter half of the reign of terror that started to clearly turn people one of them was dantong because downtown was one of the most popular figures of the revolution incredibly charismatic well-liked uh probably guilty of corruption as he had been accused of but he's the guy that people like to point to as the what if what if guy because he seems like he had the capacity to rule of a guy like robespierre but without robespierre's brittle and paranoid nature uh but oh well he ended up on the wrong and he left paris at the wrong time honestly that didn't help um but that's because you know he knew where his bread was better but anyway the execution of danton was not popular uh and of course you've got the fact that uh he was such a ***** baller on the tumble his last words were to the to the guy who picks the head the executioner who then takes the head out of the basket and shows it to the crowd he said make sure the crowd sees it it's worth a look because he had this incredibly huge head that was uh people people said it was like erotically ugly he had he had a big uh scar on his chin from when he got gored by a bull as a child and he had like pig nose and he was broad a lot of like smallpox scars

and he was just still like sexually mesmerizing and incredibly uh uh he was a chad he 0:29:7 was an absolute chad whereas robespierre was also unattractive if you've ever seen a buster picture and also poxgard but a little nauseous little dude they called him the sea green incorruptible because he was always looked like he was going to puke he was wildly unhealthy and his voice was high pitched and tremulous it was it's kind of amazing that he got where he was it was because he was the one who he was the most hysterical person during a period of mass hysteria which i like to point out was the fault of the girondins it was the fault of the ***** brassoists the guys who go down in liberal history as these innocent victims who wanted a real real liberal revolution that would have given over uh to the people uh you know a a new france with with real liberty and real ability to rise and fall by merit instead of the crazy uh uh blood 0:30:10 ritual that it turned into that necessitated then the thermadorian reaction and then finally napoleon uh but one of the planks of the uh because the thing and and there's a lot of reasons that's ***** one is there wasn't a lot of actual ideological difference between the gerandus and the jacobins they did not have a lot of policy differences you could say things like executing the king but there were plenty of gerondus who wanted to execute the king and there were some jacobites that didn't want to execute and a lot of them because they were against the death penalty on principle um the big thing they were the difference was is that the the gerondins wanted to declare war on austria the gerondas wanted to export this liberal revolution across europe and break the chains of feudalism wherever they found them and it was robespierre who said don't do it robespierre i said in a i think last week i said he said the only thing people hate more than a missionary is an and at that point pursue and his boys are like ***** that we're going to do it and then it starts going poorly as you could 0:31:11 have imagined and that is when the tenor of the whole thing changed because people started to freak out the austria were going to show up and kill everybody that's when you have the and then that inevitably is going to lead to the people who who seize that moment of fear most efficiently most effectively are the ones who are going to take power and that was the the gang of hysterics sean zeus and uh and um and robespierre and the guy in the wheelchair uh somebody wanted a little background on what i was saying is that i'm sorry i said for a while before because in the french 0:32:13 revolution after the king is finally deposed factions within the the the the national assembly and the for the ruling faction uh that executed the king was called the girondis they were all named after the places that they held meetings and they were all they were usually named after one or another medieval order that owned the and he had the jarondis and the other jacobins also known as the mountain who were on the left wing of the chamber and uh eventually after after the ruling gerandins went to war with austria and ***** it up the jacobins took power and started chopping

CUSHVLOG 83. TWO, THREE, MANY DOLEZALS!

everybody's heads off but then the war started going well the tide of hysteria went away and what was left was people who saw a bunch of weirdos trying to build new religions in the middle of uh uh piles of cow manure on the plas de vendome and said let's get rid of these guys which then led to the directory which is such an amazing government when you look at it it was purely cynical i mean it was made up of the most cynical members of the revolutionary leadership the ones who had survived until that point the only way you'd survive until thermador is if you didn't have any principles because if you had any principles you either got out of government or you got killed and so they just spent five years going playing whack-a-mole with the left and the right while ruling from the center in a completely hollow center which is essentially where we are now the difference is that we don't yet have a situation of like uh crisis and uh failure state capacity whereby like the masses are genuine threat because the the the whoever was ruling in paris on a day-to-day basis depended essentially on who could get as many people who could get as most people in a place at one time who can bring as many people to the front of a palace at this at the same time they generally had the but the thing is is that napoleon was was the process was the product of the revolution right he was he was a minor noble but i put so minor that he never would have been in a position of power within the military he wouldn't have been a general uh in the in the ashant regime like the revolution gave him both the uh the social freedom to move at his own uh talent but also the the field where he could express those talents what do we got now uh meritocracy has been replaced by this uh because of course and this is inevitable this is why meritocracy is a lie because even if you start off from a meritocratic position of pure equality and let everybody go as soon as those distributions of resources are fixed and they're not replaced as long as you're not doing like a bakunin 100 estate tax nobody gets to send any money to their kids at all and honestly even if you did that because they're still social position and like just uh early childhood development and access to more's values social connections beyond money that would render even clawing back from meritocracy over time render it less but now in our country it's going to the time is going to be much shorter because there's barely any clawback uh like it's almost impossible to lose a fortune in this country because almost all is kept intact because that's how our system is designed to work and so it's it's now even that early meritocracy is burned out completely and it's just reproducing uh an elite copies and copies on copies like uh like in multiplicity and we are like the 15th michael keaton at this point copied off of the 14th michael keaton who was copied off the 13th michael keaton and then what is their experience get uh push shuffling papers around in a series of absolutely unwinnable wars that aren't even designed to be won they're designed to be had just like our arguments on the *****

internet our arguments on the internet are just like our ***** colonial wars they are there to be had they're there to chew up time and resources they're not there to achieve objectives so i mean napoleon was waiting for an army that was fighting for its life his first big success was fighting against an internal insurgency the city of tulum which had separated after the seizure power of the jacobins had seceded from france and taken english help and was being besieged for months by the french army and had to be had and had to be uh seat taken by thanks almost single-handedly napoleon's wiles if there's a if there's a tulum now if there's a tulu now you're not supposed to take it you're just supposed to stay in the lines you're supposed to be there you're supposed to chew up time and resources you're supposed to uh be a place on a budget line for more ***** uh armored personnel carriers and and small arms and and missiles and drones to go you're not supposed to do anything and then after that napoleon he marches and he goes into italy and just single-handedly wipes out the ***** austrian forces there you're not supposed to do that you couldn't do it if you wanted to for one thing because there isn't any army that we can fight that way and even though and that's how we're what we're designed to do but the enemies we do fight we're not supposed there's no napoleon no the all the system the syst the the the explosion of possibility the society inferment turmoil and and from that growth that revolutionary france was we're we're we're absolutely in the opposite situation where all of our social conditions are only driving us closer and closer this apocalyptic stasis because there's no one with the will or ability to push against the algorithm they're just going to let it re reduce everything down to its component profit until there's just a little pile of ***** gold bars and a pile of ***** bones and that's it and of course you know if everything does collapse and then i don't think i that would not be an environment that's going to create dynamic it's not going to select apparently it's clear on the west coast now which is nice are the fires not on at all how how more fire on fire how much more on fire is california than it was a week ago fifty percent more or fifty s fifty percent is on fire a hundred percent as on fire 120 percent is on fire i have no idea because you only hear the story at first and then at some point you just sort of assume well it took itself took care of itself it's another people are telling me it's not clear at all all right well never people say that like in jersey and ***** it was all orange i guess it was a little orange the other night but i don't i don't really i don't think that i observed much in the way of west coast yosemite mega eruption of a volcano in 2020. we should be so lucky wouldn't that kind of solve global wouldn't that solve climate change right because it would call like it and it would also probably reduce co2 emissions really drastically very quickly i wouldn't kill everybody it wouldn't even it wouldn't even i don't even think it would kill everybody in north america right depending on how big the explosion

was i haven't seen all of bang zheng ho's movies i really liked snow piercer because it was very hard on its sleeve allegory which i really like i told you guys how much i love mother i feel like if i i feel like there's this idea that if the metaphor in your movie isn't subtle it's not good and i just don't think that's true it's all about what you're doing with it what you're trying to express with it and there are plenty of ways that a very heavy-handed metaphor can work with other elements of the story you're trying to tell to make a good movie subtlety on itself just because what that is is that essentially says a good movie an artistic movie is one that uh one that certain people are able to discern right not everybody not for everybody because most people are dumb it takes a certain type of iq a smartness if you will to be able to discern what's being said and that that makes a good movie and i don't think that's what art is anyway i mean that's a way to critically analyze movies i think and it's a useful way because there are ways that subtlety of metaphor can in certain situations be an expression of a greater uh like narrative narrative ingenuity or like a formal statement that what it really is is about it it's about feeling something that you can't explain you should be able to explain it to some degree to other people but there should be a really great art there's a certain part of its appeal that will always be outside of your you can feel it and maybe you can kind of get it but you can't really translate it to other people it's it's ineffable if you can pin down the value like oh here's the metaphor and here's what it means and here's what it says about trump or whatever the ***** i think well all right that's a schematic for this piece of art but like the soul is somewhere else and i think that's one of the really negative impacts of the recap culture that helped create the prestige tv moment that like reinforced the tropes and basically and told creators what they wanted to see and what they were to respond to is that a lot of these shows even the good ones they feel like they a lot of the elements in them exist explicit you can kind of see the seams you can see where oh this is for the critics to point out this is for someone to recap this and then they can create a pat explanation for what this episode means that's going to be deeper than the message of an episode of csi miami right it's going to say more about the human condition but it's still mechanistic it's it's still it's still craft it's not art i think the show the show that always gets me with that the most is fargo which i think is very good but i think the parts of it that aren't good are the parts where i can see oh i think i'm i i wasn't going to watch devil all the time because it's two hours and it's a bunch of like british public school boys and short pants pretending to be hillbillies which is very tiresome to me but our pats is going ham again might have to watch it although i really do not like his performance in the rover that a lot of people like and that seems like kind of a that seems like a defining wacky rock patents or like committed patents and performance and if you don't like that i don't i don't know maybe i won't like oh and uh that reminds me so this is one thing i wanted to talk about for a while and i'll end with this in the in the context of talking about like the new critical understanding of television specifically uh no no not just television all art but specifically the narrative art forms television and 0:46:34 movies the stuff that we've convinced ourselves is where uh all the horrors of this country originate not a reflection of them but that's what we get we are all we're all typical now we're all pmrc people we all believe that what we get out of culture is what we then do we believe that i think there's no other under there's no other way to understand the way people talk about art now in exclusively political terms why would that be the only thing you cared about unless it had some sort of significant it's like really really getting into the score and only talking about score if that was the only thing anybody talked about in movies people would be like what's going on why what's with the score thing and like maybe that would be a weird like uh that would probably have some sort of material explanation too but it would be a different one i think the answer for why we do it now is because we desperately want to think that this thing that is all we absorb all day spectacle has to be the seat of meaning and 0:47:35 the seat of change because we can't imagine anything else we can't imagine the real world anymore being a place where we do anything else but and reenact the ***** we saw on the internet which is where we really live and that has created a a new sort of critical artistic taylorism where **Music playing** or or positivism i'm not i'm not sure which word specifically to use essentially what i'm saying is that we've replaced evaluating art narrative art we have replaced evaluating narrative art as a complex artistic at enterprise with varying elements within it that we are going to evaluate for them and then see how they operate together to make a greater a greater thing a thing greater than some of its parts that's what art is you've got these parts if it's good art there's something that comes out above them something that comes and emanates from them if it's shitty art now art is a purely commercial or it's a 0:48:36 purely propagandistic product and the only metric is good content bad content as in stuff that will make people act good versus stuff that'll act make people act bad good ideas bad ideas and then watching something is just clicking like an umpire or one of those you just wait and see okay how many we got now all right we got 15 good things and 13 bad things this is a good movie we got 17 good things and 12 bad things that's a good movie we got four good things and nine 90 bad things this movie we have to drag and actually you know what people shouldn't see it and if they do they're bad people and i think the reason for that is not it's not malevolent people aren't doing it because they're becoming like hysterical uh uh philistines because of sjw ism it's because there's no there's nothing else in movies the art part is being 0:49:39 drained out of them because capital is totally overwhelming them the artistic ex the

artistic impulse that has to be part and parcel to any artistic endeavor is in these commercialized art forms almost gone it's been diluted to parts per million and now that doesn't mean there still isn't great art but it's just harder to find and it's more concentrated and the average piece of art has less of it than it used to think of blockbusters that nobody would say are great art or shouldn't say are great art from the 80s versus blockbusters of today and then remember the fact that that is even more hegemonic like blockbusters are a larger percentage of our of our of our movie diet and uh tv is larger percentage which is a more adulterated life art form than film everything is just being drained of art so what is left what can we talk about well you can talk about like uh individual elements like but that's essentially arguing about whether a hot dog is a sandwich it's boring uh it's brittle talking about the political element that invests it with emotion the emotion that we couldn't feel for it anymore because it's bad art the emotion that we feel for art that comes from a connection to it has been replaced with a connection of an emotional connection related to our political beliefs because we can find it there it's the only thing left in it that we can resonate with art emotionally anything else that we would resonate with is gone so we have to recreate what art is and turn it into this propaganda exercise where the good and bad are pure just objective tallies within the movie which means we don't have to think about it we don't have to express our discontent about it we can we can it's essentially a mec way to cope with our closing historical uh our closing artistic horizons is because as the like the the uh the edges come in you know and as it as as as there's less good stuff more bad stuff bad stuff is worse good stuff isn't as good and there isn't those aren't those high p points and there isn't even that basic level of engagement and satisfaction that creates discontent like this ***** this is ***** it sucks but it's also one of our chief forms of soothing art is how we get through this ***** it is our opium not in a bad sense but in the 19th century sense as a medicine as palliative care for like getting a bullet pulled out of your ***** arm at chancellorsville it is necessary bone for the soul to continue living under this exploitative system so you but the system's not going anywhere we're ***** we're in it capital realism baby so we have to accept the shitty stuff as our only sucker and therefore decide that the artistic value is the political value because and that part of that process is that as we put more and more of our politics into our cultural diet our politics become more uh of a entertainment too like as entertainment gets more political politics get more entertaining and now because we care about things we watch as a level of politics like we watch our art to get a jolt of either righteous rage or or vindication we get it from our art and we also get it from watching the news or scrolling our twitter feed or going to facebook to post a meme it's because in the same way that art has been drained out of our art politics has been drained

out of our politics politics is similarly denatured of any any in this case the art the place of art would be uh accountability to actual citizens of this ***** country it's 0:53:52 being adulterated out and replaced with spectacle and our emotional investment in the spectacle of it who the good guys are are winning yay the bad guys are winning boo and that is why people arguing about what whether it's moral to vote for biden it's like my god you're just you're you are gnawing your own flesh how do you not see that this is a completely sterile argument that is just like if batman could beat the terminator and serves the same purpose to waste time to just go around in circles to give you a jolt every day up until the big jolt the big game the election day and then there's a come down and then you're like okay that was intense and then you get a refractory period but then as things keep getting worse and we need more and more of that opium we need more of that balm and gilead to get through the day what's this oh ***** we're invested again and we get to go back up on the ***** we get 0:54:53 to go back to the top of the goddamn drop at the cyclone ah until the next election that's the exact same it's all part of one continuous process of self-amusement in the face of armageddon and personal alienation to the point of of of misery of mass death i mean huge huge huge rage people are just checking the ***** out depression they're checking out because none of this is enough anymore but the people who are still able to function are putting more and more into this because it's the only button they have it's the only button they can press it's the morphine drip in the hospital ***** it's the hospice morphine drip hitting it over and over again every time we're arguing about biden every time you're going to watch and see if tenet is uh you know is more dude bro uh than interstellar uh they're talking talk about whether uh uh like there's sufficient intersectionality uh in the green new deal or in the marvel 0:55:54 cinematic universe morphine the non-engaged are people who are get their uh get their opium elsewhere a lot of them get it in the form of actual opium or at this point fentanyl which is the uh which is the like tick-tock of uh of morphine or whatever if you want to talk about like the accelerated endpoint of this thing like trump is the fentanyl of polit politics is theater uh like black panther is the pinnacle of like politics as culture uh and fentanyl is the fentanyl of just trying not to feel the pain of living and other ones just uh personal drama uh or they're just trying to survive 0:56:57 and and and their their their uh opium comes in the form of the relief that they're still able to keep their head above water for another day and they're not even and like all of these are the worst most deadly most refined artificial capital processed versions of this generalized cultural need to soothe the pains of exploitation through through some sort of and i would say don't do that uh we have to confront the pain 0:57:59 of our our alienation and instead of seeing how hard it will be to change and say oh well better flee towards uh pleasure recognize that that pleasure will never be

enough that pleasure will always be just beyond one's grasp and it will always leave you maddened with thirst and that the only way forward for yourself is to confront the pain and uh try to transform it try to change your relationship to the pain and that's the beginning of spirituality i think because you don't because spirituality is what you is what allows you to live in the and allows you to live in the absence of hope that you can get things better in your life in a in a happen man that's gross i'd 0:59:2 say it gets worse but it gets better and that the fate of any human and the fate of the species is how many people and when break or what time you break should i try and leave the states or stay at fight you can't man we're they're we're in here for good the 1:0:3 best way i can kind of condense everything into because a lot of what i talk about on here is about how how captured we feel how trapped we feel how out of options how how how hobson's choiced we are and it's true but the implication of that should not be some sort of pathetic nihilism that just ends up being more self-absorption more uh consumption more hollow vapidness it's just uh from like one more removal of irony uh or try to conquer them and that's by not finding the false wall that seems that of the of the walls that are enclosing one of them is false and you have to find the one that's false as in what are you worrying about what is causing you pain what is making your life miserable that like that you are essentially in some way or 1:1:6 another choosing to make work choosing to project there because the the wanting you have is so powerful the want you feel is so intense that it projects this wall and that if you would confront that want and find that maybe you don't need that thing then that wall disappears and you can move but i don't know what it is it's it's for everyone else every individual and that's what's so maddening and terrifying about this moment is it's going to come down a lot of it to sit with themselves long enough to and knock and feel all right maybe i'll answer one question the funniest i'll leave 1:2:18 on this the funniest president other than trump all right you got to go with when they are president so they're funny presidency man they really aren't very funny as a group nixon's pretty funny obviously just because of the face and the noise and the voice and and all that i guess taft because he was fat got stuck in a bathtub that's classic hijinks and when you consider how much comedy back then revolved around like a fat guy getting into hijinks it was essentially like uh hardy from i have to say though people make fun of taft for getting stuck in the bathtub i'm pretty sure that if i tried to just go in the bathtub that he got stuck in i'd get stuck in it because he looks like a big fat guy in the pictures and he's remembered as the fattest president but he was like 300 pounds which in modern context of america is not that big and he was tall so uh those bathtubs were made for people who were much smaller so if 1:3:21 i got in that exact bathtub i'd um all right tell me if you can hear me i have no idea i might if you guys can't hear me at all i'm gonna just have to plug off i'm just trying to shoot i have a had an issue today i'm i have i'm not able to use my microphone can you hear me at all or does this just tell me if i can hear if you can't hear me i'll just turn it off this is a test basically if you can hear me or not can you hear me just tell me somebody oh good thank goodness because uh i'm having to i things ran late and uh my phone was not charged i thought it had been charging it wasn't charging and so i have to have it plugged into my computer which i was means i can't play use my microphone so uh you're assuming i'm assuming you're hearing me over the uh laptop microphone so whatever it is i'm happy that it's working so uh i think that uh the fym guy said they were gonna do a uh bail fund charity stream starting at seven i think they're gonna do that now at eight uh and i absolutely encourage anyone to keep watching them have fun with their hygiene spoofs and goofs and kicking some money if if you can and if you think this is the most technologically uh advanced move i've ever pulled while trying to do this job whatever you want to call it i believe fym stands for ***** you mean like a thing that dumb guys say and instead of what the ***** do you mean so it looks like we're getting amy coney bryant amy kobe bryant amy joseph coney any coney dog uh barrett 50 caliber in the senate in that i honestly think they should just get it over with because it's just going to be annoying the whole thing is going to be very annoying no everyone knows that she's going to get confirmed just because i'm honestly why would i want to listen to any more of this it was bad enough in the ***** kavanagh hearings my god everybody convinced themselves that that was some sort of meaningful like uh rubicon being crassed as though anybody has any retention of anything amy cody bryant so what's up guys what's going on i wasn't online today my phone died i was that far from my phone so i don't know what all happened besides people uh ritually sacrificing lambs in front of the corpse of ruth bader ginsburg what else has been i saw clappy stupid bastards and that's swag see that swag that's what hillary didn't have and that's why more than anything i think i mean besides incumbency working against trump this time uh i think that's what

could save him and make him beat trump is is that he's got that trump swag which hillary never had oh yes ron paul also had a stroke on the middle of a live stream which i hope to do one day i mean that's a true uh that's the demise of a true online posters poster right to go down while uh well vlogging it's that's when you die like that you get to go uh asgard uh uh so if ron paul apparently he didn't die though which is too bad for him honestly because if he had died he would right now he would be at a table with murray rothbard uh uh uh hayek uh von mises and they would all just be wailing on poor people with paintball guns while just eating because he died posting he died posting for the ideas for the crack-headed idiot ideas of libertarianism the i don't think han simon hop is dead actually so he wouldn't be there yet god imagine if people actually were the way the libertarians say that they are how would we have us how would there be anything we didn't see anything you are only able to have that kind of delusion because you are so deeply embedded in a social network that has been abstracted away from you in terms of your day-to-day life and has been replaced by like technological stand-ins and symbolic stand-ins for a social order can you possibly get the schizophrenically insane idea in your head yeah no uh the world is me even though i'm thinking these words with a language that i didn't invent even though i'm only alive because people didn't ***** sell me or take my and the earlier generations it would have been nonsensical but once you've turned society into these symbols and removed it from your day-to-day experience you can go off on any kind of insane tangents and then the internet comes around and it makes all those tangents not only seem uh non-insane but in fact rational because what's this we're all acting on this internet computer box the way that we are imagined to act in the market we are individuals relating to one another relating ideas across a neutral uh public platform and buying and selling our wares and ourselves and our uh and finding our amusements there and all for a price that's your life if the internet is your life it's no wonder so many of these people are ***** deluded libertarians because why would if this is your model if the model for human society is not actual human society it is human society dimly reflected on the internet how the hell are you ever supposed to come to any other conclusion somebody's talking about how we didn't think unemployment run out i'm telling you though it was always like unemployment will run out and then the i think if anybody i think the assumption that it wouldn't run out came from assuming that we had more just like running doing the bernie campaign assuming that there there was more uh resistance left in the band or uh you know a tread in the tires of of of like an actual organizable self-motivating social form in america doesn't mean we won't make one doesn't mean the times won't help create oh we got stuck got uh got a got a passion fruitful it is amazing how lacroix i don't know how it happened was it the name might have been just the name was able to be the brand that captured a social phenomenon that had nothing to do with it or its product had to do with uh just demographics millennials turned 30. millennials turned 30 they couldn't drink as much empty calories as they used to without their asses getting larger and seltzer and lacroix was the brand that turned that into a meme and not just a defeat you're giving in to your body's decrepitude and then it took over the whole thing and then it took over alcohol but it all started 0:9:20 with verocroi and now you go to a grocery store la croix is more expensive than the other brands and it's not better like i think polar is much better polar's got way more bubbles but nobody thinks why is it more expensive why is lacroix expensive it's like nah that makes sense it makes sense look at that look at that 80s design look at that vaporwave is that what vaporwave sounds like i wow i love that you guys can hear me so well i didn't even have to buy that goddamn microphone i could have just plugged the i'd say the most grill pilled sopranos character would be lil carmine 0:10:29 just in the sense that he uh he didn't push it it's like you could be the don he's like oh let's see then does it work out he's like never mind he this isn't driven by a manic uh need to to claim a throne that only puts a target who are the musketeers the muscadines if you want to be if you want to be glib about it where the first proud boys of course the difference was is that it was there were actual stakes and it wasn't pure uh pure entertainment uh they were uh they were the children of the 0:11:31 upper middle class not the gentry not the old aristocracy who went on the streets in in finery and with with jewels and walking sticks and perfumed uh cravats and would beat up uh an attack and sometimes kill and castrate republicans jacobites they were part of the thermadorian suppression of left-wing sentiment which was the first of a number of pivots that the directory did over its five years where it would essentially play whack-a-mole it would suppress the left and cosy up to the right and modify the right but then the right would become overweeningly powerful and begin making uh uh threats to gain power either through a coup or through the legislature and then they would suppress the right and pick up the left and then 0:12:33 the left would get too big for its britches uh the center could not hold there trump was going to fill the gap and it ended up being napoleon who was a truly dialectical figure in the sense that he was the synthesized embodiment of the entire political spectrum at that point and the moment history on horseback is because his his reign uh was a was filled with ratifying the meritocratic uh and enlightenment like um uh government and uh concepts uh and and and he enforced like secularization of um of 0:13:34 like the bureaucracy that the republic had instituted but then he created a heart a hereditary monarchy with with all of the pomp and structures and circumstance of the old royalty and it turns out if the money is still being made and if the battles are still being won that's really all anybody on the right really wanted especially once

he made i don't think there's a monkey out there something uh man yeah it's wild 0:14:46 out here we got helicopters we got some sort of uh someone's asking about that clip that was just being put around a while back about um michael hanecki saying that it's immoral to do entertainment about the holocaust that schiller's list was immoral the thing about hanaki is he's he is an artist second he's a moralist first and that doesn't mean he's a bad artist or that his work isn't bad it is it's just that's not a guy that i'm gonna go to for any real questions of uh of of like artistic cancels oh my god trump's not going to cancel the election and i have noticed by the way that ever 0:15:47 since trump had his uh thing where he said we're going to get rid of the ballots bye bye-bye balance uh people been ***** rivets ever since then there must be a protest or something i'm guessing uh at the idea of a coup some situation where he just says like that atlantic monthly article apparently it outlined an idea where they're just gonna tell the state legislators to pick their own slate of such the republican state legislatures are going to be asked to just pick their own slate of pro-trump electors to go and cast their boats which they can do like they can do that you know like the the electoral college does not actually have anything in it about the electors being chosen by elections in the state it just says that they will be chosen by the states 0:16:49 and in the past that has meant state legislatures and they could just do that again you know but even though that could technically be legal i think it would be such a breach that it would be in the realm of what people are worrying about or at least what they really think they're worrying about when they talk about this stuff is some sort of uh you know tanks in the streets moment where this is the uh the state of siege has been instituted and the constitution is null and void i think that could that could lead to that uh but then a lot of people seem to be backing off from that maximal position saying no what if it like more realistically it's like okay now we're talking what if it's just like florida 2000 all over again and to which i say well then he won the election because you can talk about how that's illegitimate well guess what the 2000 election was illegitimate no one did anything about it so that standard that can't be coup territory anymore that can't be the rules of change that can't be it's 0:17:50 running man now that can't be this is our apocalyptic moment this is our apotheosis i'm sorry if it's just a little more blatant version of florida 2000 then it's just he won the election and people will whine about it and there'll be some protests but so if that's what you're talking about then they're not really talking about a coup ***** chris hayes said that the difference between those two things is semantic it's like okay i'll accept that premise but that means that we haven't had a legitimate ***** government in this country since 2000. we just let that go and you have to reckon with the fact that that has been absorbed into the system and no one in any significant number decided to mount the barricades in defense of democracy then so how are they going to do it now in similar circumstances just because i mean yeah people are madder and people are sadder people our lives are worse as americans in general than they than they were in 2000 but were even more atomized even more confused even i mean my god the internet was pets.com and the dancing hamster in 2000. now it's our brains you know what somebody asked a very weird question the kind of question i usually ignore in these chats like kind of the left field ones but i thought it was really interesting because i had an immediate thought when he when i read it which was it said was the most cursed picture of a politician and i was obviously a ton of contenders but the one that uh immediately came to my mind without me even thinking about it my first thought actually was oh how am i going to pick and then i just saw it you guys won't remember this and i'm wondering if i should like if i can show you on the screen here because you're not going to have seen this most of you you ***** fetuses in this chat will not have seen this because it's 2004 when john kerry was running against george bush an election that i was wildly wildly emotionally invested in uh hilariously because yeah the stakes now are both supposed to be so much higher and i care basically zero percent as much as i did in 2004 uh so it was him uh visiting a nuclear facility i think uh it was some sort of clean clean room some sort of technological clean room that he was and he was crawling through a tube a white tube and he was wearing a white uh containment suit and his and his was his nose like this and he looked like a bunny rabbit it was the cl it's the closest thing a political a presidential candidate has done to appearing is as a furry is somebody putting it in the chat i bet someone is i've got a helpful all right i'm back i don't know why that happened it's very irritating i don't know why that happens when that happens it literally just froze and dropped me off of the call off of the broadcast uh it's because trump is trying to stop but yes the bunny suit photo there's just something about his face that fills me with revulsion at myself for having ever cared about him being president at him for what a disgusting ***** and uh spineless little twerp he became in his life uh also just a general embarrassment for the country that we have our ***** presidential candidates do this childish ***** that's how the level of our discourse a bunch of just easily amused toddlers it's it's a very it's a bummer man i know i wasn't online i'm i was not talking into the void i he wasn't just secretary of state john kerry he was he was decent he actually did the iran deal he did the uh the cuban entry uh cuban reopening which of course is now dead but he actually had i mean he was much better than hillary clinton but obviously still very bad in any not going to watch really scott's ***** robot show i've had enough of this ***** and ***** robots how many ***** times is this ***** going to make a ***** movie about ***** robots what is he so fascinated with it's not that interesting man it's like it's not that much of an artistic an interesting artistic trope i just don't think so at this point especially not the way he's done done it like what is his insight in all these movies what does the insight he have go beyond like i don't know which one of us is actually the machine or whatever the ***** what is he actually bringing to this conversation about the nature of consciousness or whatever the idea that he was snuck into without mentioning it the idea that he snuck into um prometheus that the aliens the alien uh space jockey people the big buff pale albino guys they came to earth they seeded human life on earth and then one of them came down to earth to like make us stop being jerks to one another and that was jesus and then after we killed jesus they decided to send the uh a 0:24:1 species extincting punishment yeah it is in the movie i'm sorry you it's not said that explicitly but it said there's one point where they're like looking at the hieroglyphics or something and david is saying it's like this was supposed to depart 2 000 years ago now what happened 2000 years ago that would make the aliens send a an alien pod to wipe out humanity that they created who was around back then and you might think that's dumb yeah that's ridley scott he's a dumbball he's biden is focusing on 0:25:14 venezuelan ***** because he wants to win florida that's what they always do now of course yes they want to overthrow these governments yes there's a long-term interest in the united states to see all all uh op potential opposition certainly sitting on top of anything like venezuela's oil wealth the largest proved oil reserves in the world that that imperative is going to be persist regardless of who's in power but biden is talking about it as much as he is to i gotta say the stoned ape theory makes a lot more sense to me now than it used to be you know because the things exist right and uh all this ***** exists in nature and it interacts with human nervous system and perceptive apparatus and people are gonna they're gonna take it at some point and enough of 0:26:16 them take it at the right moment and you have that that leap and not the only thing that would have led to human human consciousness is evolving of course but but i think like a one thread in a in a tapestry of phenomenon that uh but i think like the genetic bottleneck point i think that had a lot to do with it too the fact that one that uh all humans evolved are our direct descendants we're not direct descendants but eventual descendants of about 5 000 human beings who survived a a massive uh climate catastrophe in in africa but i do and i also like it because it is a materialist it's a materialist ex explanation for spirituality like the universe is a whole the universe 0:27:20 is a fully conscious to the degree that it is and then we showed up for one reason or another and maybe because of the co-evolution with other species that had chemicals some people theorize that some mushrooms uh have that effect on people because it makes people less likely to destroy them or something i don't know but whatever it is it would be a it would be an actual like material intervention into a natural ecosystem a a equilibrium a homeostasis creating an imbalance an over development

of perception among one subspecies of animal that then just went basically insane which we have been ever since just screaming gibbering deluded maniacs because we are all essentially trapped by a delusion a a a a dissociative state and that is of separate individual consciousness that is this the essential psychosis of why do i think uh do i think politicians pooping their pants is more common occurrence than they let on well considering that they don't they barely ever let it on uh like jerry nadler just you know that he just dropped anchor right like it wasn't like a shark it wasn't a it wasn't a little trickle it was like it was thanksgiving dinner in his ***** uh underwear because he just immediately starts shoveling off stage does it in the middle of their stupid presentation and hey i don't judge the man but i do think that uh i mean for one thing he's 75 another thing he got lap band surgery he used to be much bigger uh and he had lap-band surgery so i'm sure his gi truck is an absolute uh it's a nightmare realm his intestines are like uh the ***** the the uh highway system and the mad uh but yeah no biden if you get back to cap ***** uh clap ***** just think that's so alpha compared to please clap right it's the opposite it's chat it's a chad it's chad the way that trump was chat against hillary and you can make an argument that the best predictor in the modern era of who win the presidency is who's coolest because who is cooler hillary or trump well that's a no-brainer who is cooler obama or romney again no brainer who's cooler obama or mccain no ***** brainerd who's cooler george w bush or john kerry we ***** know the answer to that one don't we folks who's cooler than uh who's cooler between bush and al gore once again duh clinton was cooler than dole bush is not cool but bush was cooler than dukakis dukakis was a little uh stiff i mean he had the ***** picture behind the thing uh bush look came off as sort of like a pencil neck geek but he also had a real patrician gravitas because he was like the the absolute cerulean blooded american like a wasp establishment he's a personification of like deep american money the original american capitalist so that kind of resonated off reagan of course cooler than mondale cooler than carter carter was cooler than ford nixon versus humphrey is such an insane uncool off because you think nixon wasn't cool my god hubert h humphrey was an absolute spaz just he had he had kid in the front of the class putting his hand up because and it was it was cringe and his name linda johnson wildly cooler than barry ***** goldwater what uh like the ***** bill buckley types try to act like oh he's epically cool and i'm sure there are shirts you can get with goldwater and he's got sunglasses on it's like oh epic and yeah he was a rancher and all that ***** but he was a square he uh there's a in in before the storm rick pearlstein's first book which is about largely the 64 campaign he talks about how these group these uh crowds have juiced up young conservatives like uh the young american for freedom types the people who burned you know uh uh they did the first like dumping the

french wine out thing and that they would hold bonfires of soviet made products and they would be there these young exuberants cheering on uh uh go uh the speech and there'd be somebody to come out and give a stem winding opener and then goldwater would come out and the room would just die he had no charisma at all he was chosen because he was the ideological heart of conservatism in the elected federal government he had no charisma lyndon johnson had a dick he called jumbo he had a ***** aqua car that he would drive people into lakes with without them 0:33:30 knowing it was an aqua car he wasn't a terribly uh powerful speaker either but he certainly had some swagger in his personal uh interactions whereas goldwater was very much a nerd and that's one of the reasons he played being a rancher so hard because he was such a ***** nerd i mean he was like a he was an amateur and if he'd been like middle class he would have just been a nerd but the fact that he was you know the millionaire scion of a department store dynasty in arizona meant that he could play both he could be a and of course jfk famously is more cool than nixon jfk won because of sam giancana uh bill daley and his coolness eisenhower was cooler than hadley stevenson truman is cooler than dewey dewey got murdered because eleanor roosevelt's er uh i think it was one of the roosevelts i think alice maybe said 0:34:31 that thomas dewey looked like the little man on the wedding cake he had a little mustache that was 1948 version of just an annihilation that's that's you're done after that uh fdr was cooler and biden is even though his pants are filled with ***** any given moment and he doesn't even know where he is that has given him a ease with himself and that is what coolness is after all it's just ease with oneself that's what people are picking up when they say someone's cool they mean that they are not in a state of anxiety relative to themselves or the people around them and i think that both and both trump and trump and biden's coolness is largely powered by their senility at this point it's why they're like trump is obviously a uh incredible 0:35:33 narcissist and more importantly a deeply needy man who needs to be reassured at all points that but uh his public persona is one of absolute certainty uh because as much as he might be crave the approval of others he has no instinct to tack towards anyone he just is himself and then if so i think though biden might be cooler biden might be thinking about it in this terms like if it's because trump is insecure in a way biden doesn't seem to be well unless it's about being perceived as to the left in any way biden is incredibly neurotic about that he will tell you i beat the socialist i ***** got in the time machine and uh oh somebody asked about the debate uh i 0:36:41 saw what the debate topics were uh and one of them is the actual integrity of the election itself and i i do not think that's ever been a debate topic before which means that something is different about this it's not pure hysteria because even if it was pure hysteria it's enough hysteria to our discrete actions always just in the internet and like our our media responses they do kind of just go into the ether because they are uncoordinated but if you have everybody even uh if they're not on the same page just have a religiously ecstatic moment simultaneously you can move the ***** meal and i think that's that's the possibility there everyone just wills themselves into believing just making a quantum leap but like i said i don't think it's gonna 0:37:54 happen i'd say most i'd say you know what's nice nice and likely is yes uh he loses the popular vote again by a bigger margin and he wins after a above statistical likelihood number of ballots get thrown out in a couple of states which by any stretch is not a legitimate election it's the kind of thing that you would overthrow i mean my god think of what think of what justified uh more alice's overthrow was some ***** like oh we found a statistical sampling of some ***** ***** in our exit polls or something this is literally yeah ten percent of absentee ballots were disavowed or ten percent of mail-ins were just thrown in a challenge and thrown in the garbage or lost or something that's uh that's that would if it was a strategically important enough area that would that would lead to some sort of direct intervention uh especially if it 0:38:56 provoked a uh popular protest but it would still be business as usual for us it would not be the opening of the seventh seal that we'd still just be here grumble about it complain about it get real mad frothing angry about it post about it certainly protest yes but over time without protests leading to anything it leads to so wait a minute somebody says that uh uh biden uh 538 has biden at 352. you mean 352 electoral votes that's honestly that doesn't seem crazy from the polling i've seen i mean he has a very s i mean people like to say they were wrong in 2016 what if there is wrong 0:39:58 now there's all these stories like i mean yes but once again this is a different context trump is the incumbent president you've seen this big shift in suburban voters away from republicans to democrats you've seen a big surge in turnout these things could especially with i don't know the economy collapsing around a ***** unnecessarily disastrous maybe that's not true maybe this is a real durable lead maybe this is actually a lead uh and i think that will be the funniest outcome really if the wind just goes out of everybody's sails on election night like all of this animal has been built up to a frenzied pitch like they don't even need to wait three days for all the ***** absentees to come in that's not saying that's a likely outcome but i think something like that could very likely happen like okay maybe there's a couple days it's a little touch and go there because they're still counting ballots but trump isn't 0:40:59 able to to muster the horses to really try to go full hardcore just because of the frenzy pitch of the country just like uh just because it would be a disaster for the markets in the near term there's no question about that uh and it's like is that necessary do we like trump that much and like i have said i don't think they do i don't think he's not necessary to and then a couple and then he wins and he's got like 300 electoral

votes or more uh i'm assuming everyone's just going to i mean you think people would be relieved but i think it's going to be something else it's going to be this emptiness there's going to be this hollow echoing emptiness and people are going to be like robert redford in the candidate what now and i think the answer for a lot of people is going to be oh yeah i don't care about politics anymore which is going to be pretty funny thinking of all the people who spent the last four years whipping themselves into a frenzy and believing themselves to be political warriors on behalf of democracy or whatever the ***** or anti-racist crusaders who are going to scourge the land like john brown after all that after all that edging and all that and then just the absolute failure to have any kind of apotheosis i think they're just going to say ***** it i'm going to get into craft beers or something i don't know if that'll last and i doubt it will but i think you're gonna get like a a refractory period there where a lot of people are just gonna stop paying attention to any of this ***** deny committee someone wants to know about they that was a committee that uh was chaired in the 20s i believe to figure out why the hell the u.s went into war in world war one considering the fact that nobody really wanted to go wilson campaigned in 1916 on a platform of he kept us out of war and yet we still ended up going in why because of the zimmerman telegram and then i committee made a claim that it was essentially to secure the massive amount of loans that the united states had made to the allies they lent money to both sides but disproportionately and in much much larger amounts to the allies specifically jp morgan among them the guy who had single-handedly saved the entire american economy in 1907 by underwriting a job a private sector bailout of the american financial system which is one of the things that led to the creation of the federal reserve because there was a understanding that they could not allow that kind of crisis moment to be in the hands of unorganized capital it had to be capital at its most uh tightly supervised in the form of about and honestly people might say it's simplistic but it makes a ***** more much more it makes a ***** lot more sense especially if you're trying to put events in a i don't know historical context and relate them to other events and other things instead of just isolating them it makes a ***** ton more sense than well we wanted to stay out of the war but then germany shot one of our uh shot uh a torpedoed one of our cruise ships people forget that ***** lusitania it was not like lusitania was sunk and then we went to war right after that the lusitania was sunk in 1915 the united states didn't enter the war for two more years and the zimmerman telegram oh yeah that was a real concern they were the mexicans were going to invade the united states i mean they were in the middle of a completely uh paralyzing civil war at that time they were no position to do anything to us securing american uh securing american uh uh financial instruments considering the fact that the united states was like at that point a junior partner to like an anglo global market uh which worked one was largely was largely about who was going to be able to direct that flow who was in charge and england won and we were on their side essentially from the sidelines for most of it and then we had to secure our investment which was a very smart move for you know the ruling class because it helped facilitate the eventual handover of the entire uh mechanism to the united states after world war ii when direct colonial control was no longer financially feasible and we replaced it with a dollar hegemony that's ruled ever since and that's all because as uh ottoman bismarck said the most consequential event of the 20th century or i'm sorry the most consequential fact of the 20th century english oh god biden potential cabinet picks who gives a ***** i mean i'm only curious to see what klobuchar and buddhist got i kind of want to see how good negotiators they are if buddhist got veterans affairs or something it would be funny if warren didn't get anything although honestly at this point i don't give a ***** what she gets anybody thinking that like her in any position of power will be substantially different than any of these other ***** vampires i don't know what to tell you even if she even if you can convince me that her intention is not to rule like one of them her ability to negotiate the house of power has proven pretty conclusively that she's never going to be in a position to get one over on any of these ***** people no matter what she did in the senate not within an administration where she has no real independent base which you could oh god sally ate says he uh that is a that is an underrated thing that people that uh happen sometimes is cabinet people are chosen as basically as a snap as as a own of the previous administration as administration um there was a famous example of that with the obamas because obviously obama wasn't going to do anything about any of the crimes bush committed and those guys committed let bygones be bygones uh who hasn't uh broken a few million iraqi eggs to make an omelet he uh so he didn't do any actual uh accountability but in an act of supreme west wing symbolic importance he appointed eric shinseki who had been i think the secretary of the army under bush and had uh he had complained he had said something about how it was going to take more troops to to hold iraq than the government was saying they were lying about what it would take to secure iraq in an invasion and he got fired and they appointed him uh veterans affairs secretary to be like aha look at that dignity and facts rule again and apparently the only thing that shinseki is known for is he gave uh the army berets for some reason and everyone really got mad and that they hate him to this day because they made them wear berets because they're not they're like uncomfortable and you can't really all right guys i think uh i think the man bertovo and company are going to be streaming soon a few minutes here i think i'm going to log off and they'll log right on and uh anybody who wants to see some wonderful twitch-based content and support uh i hey there we are the people are here they're coming i'm exiting host mode once again that's the trick of the twitch trade when you end when you start one of these it says enter exiting host mode at least what does when i do it i think that means we're no longer hosting someone else's channel and uh we're now doing our own it feels kind of weird though because i mean i am entering host mode like this is me being the host of my little backyard uh tent revival it tells me that i'm exiting host mode so it's very counter-intuitive i have entered and exited the host mode simultaneously 0:1:5 thank you i did this myself i cut my own hair it was because of the last episode we did in the office i saw that it looked like i was getting some sort of horrifying mullet i had to take care of that can't have it can't have a henry i just i have a clipper and i just do it now i grew up i grew up at a time when the mullet was was the archetypally terrible haircut it was a symbol of of epic fail so i still have that instinctive response to it when i see it curving out in the back oh god no gotta stop maybe it's uh you could argue that it's buried like classism you know because it was 0:2:8

it's of course coated around uh whiskey tango white trash as it were you know wife peter and mullet that kind of thing achy breaky heart ronnie dobbs who so uh yeah maybe i should just get a mullet in solidarity with the white although does anybody really wear them anymore i mean now it's kind of ironic right do people wear mullets anymore not ironically i don't i haven't watched enough tic tocs to know what's really going on in the heartland which is what it's good which is what's good for tick-tock just getting a uh put it being able to dip a ladle into the american primordial ooze and so tomorrow is uh going to be a hell of a day i think i'm going to stream uh on 0:3:9 my birthday hey birthday boy maybe i'll wear a little hat and then me and i think at least brendan will see if someone all shows up are going to be in the in here for uh our portion of the debate commentary uh and i will be uh i'm not sure yet we'll see what i'll do i am very very very ready to be wildly disappointed to there to be nothing enjoyable to find that we have reached a point where reality is at the worst possible point where it is so drained of of metaphor we're so we're so accelerated towards pure representation of reality or purer anyway than we previously had in terms of our culture uh that the unexpected can't happen anymore the the truly uh uh unhyper-normalizable thing the thing that can't be digested instantly into the stream is impenetrable essentially impossible and um i would say that and when say 0:4:10 you say hey what does that mean you know because i'm basically saying well yeah trump and biden could have some epic hilarious fails but how does that change from any we've seen before it's just we're getting more of the same i think the dream the secret dream of people when they imagined like a thing like a biden trump debate an abstract was something that breaks the wall like one of them having their teeth fall out of their head entirely maybe and fall onto the into their lap one of them uh actually ***** themselves jerry nadler style but we're not going to get that and even if we get some amazing brain front moments another thing we're not going to get is like a ron paul moment which would be work i had the spicy mcnuggets they were 0:5:13 okay they were a little brittle tender i mean that's a funny word to say for you know chicken slurry but there's like a more kind of crispness beyond the point where it was like a separation between the coating and the and the almost dehydrated seeming nugget it was okay that's fine i think i would just stick with the i did not use the 0:6:32 mighty hot sauce i used my uh honestly i prefer like the morning star heights chicken nugs the veg the veg vegetarian ones to the to the taco to the to the um to the spicy nugget not to the original the original nugget has its own beauty to it it's one of those perfect uh perfect products it's like a flavored nugget like a flavor puck designed to hit your no in your mouth in such a way to cause i do hope that uh i do hope that 0:7:38 biden strikes the thing i'm hoping happens and think might happen is that biden tries to get epic tries to tries to obviously tee up a john's conceived but of course he will probably botch it it is amazing to hear that biden paid three million dollars in taxes especially considering that he's he was always one of the less wealthy members of the senate it really does go to the to the just the sick reality that he is selling out he's tore himself out he's cored himself from within and turned himself into a a 0:8:40 ***** puppet of the fire sector but not even in exchange for extravagant riches like other people have uh like mitch mcconnell he's made like a hundred million dollars since joining the senate he's got stacks uh he's like moving weight biden got a ***** amtrak uh uh windbreaker and he got jobs for his otherwise unemployable kid which that's not nothing but he just has such a low asking price and he's paying all those taxes like a damn sucker i mean i guess it's because he's a politician and he doesn't know the ways of uh of the real estate game where it's all and a lot of people 0:9:41 are going to think like trump not paying taxes does make him smart and he's using his smarts for my benefit which is of course that's the stupid part but all cons involve uh like exploiting the greed of the mark in this case it's thinking hey trump got rich by screwing people over uh and avoiding taxes and playing cutthroat he's gonna do

CUSHVLOG 87. EDGING TOWARDS DEBATE NIGHT

it on my behalf now and if you believe that you're a ***** sucker but the reasoning is still there and most importantly the reason he doesn't have a lot of competing claims other than the democrats saying i'll hear you i'll listen to you i'll hold your hand while you are administered the euthanasia shot i mean i think the real uh the real thing to point out is how he just has used being president to like bail out his business which is pretty funny just total corruption on behalf of himself while being president and of course his base isn't going to care about that and it is really weird to me how every time there's a big thing about trump people feel the need they're compelled by powers beyond even their own understanding to say uh his base won't care ah yeah they're they're his base that's that's axiomatic that's you don't need to even say that obviously they won't care they're his base and maybe it's because they don't realize what that means now because you know the last republican president who oversaw a huge economic disaster left office with like a 25 approval rating and i think people believe that implying that there was some sort of crack which in within like the greater republican base of like you know 42 43 percent of the voters and i don't think that's possible anymore because the collapse of legitimacy of institutions like the media is so complete now has been replaced by this this choose your own adventure game of social media means that to be a base is to by definition never believe anything bad about the person you're the base of because it's all the product of the media lying that's the that's a prefab guarantee that they will nev nothing will ever me reach them and so it's weird when people just insist on reminding everyone that and i think it's because they have some traumatized belief that base like that means a governing majority of voters or like a governing i guess you'd say a governing minority voters that would be able to like hold power and i don't think that that's the case uh the election is going to be decided as it always is in the margins and those people are by definition not trump's base the question really is just how many of them are still carrying the vote and that'll be the difference between trump winning again and biden of course accepting things like electoral shenanigans and bush v gore style soft coos soft kooz ku's so soft that nobody even calls them that and nothing changes and the political system is not rent asunder confrontation i've never visited harper's ferry i think i would like to like to see the pump house but like i said if it's if it's if it's bush v gore two that's not the that's not the suspension of democracy people are imagining it will be you might say that now but i guarantee you if it as it happens is it winds its way through the courts as outrageous as it's going to be and as much as you would say that this is a coup in september you would like lay this out as a nightmare abrogation of democracy step by step it is going to be stage managed by the two parties to maintain a veneer of legitimacy which means we'll never reach that point where there is a popular consensus if such a thing could even be mustered

around the idea that democratic real democratic principles of uh and constitutional governance had been abrogated the same way that it did with bush versus gore which most people took to be the legitimate outcome of a legitimate electoral process as laid out in the constitution and interpreted by the judicial branch and it would be a similar thing here now it would be more resistance than bush versus gore had certainly and there'd be a lot of protests but considering how many protests we've had this year it'll get swallowed in that larger narrative and we will just have another trump term and it will not be it will not be the the tearing of the veil of maya about 0:14:56 funniest jfk the funniest conspiracy theory jfk was killed by a secret service agent tripping and his rifle going off that's a funny conspiracy theory it's also one of the more uh forensically convincing theories of the case of course that doesn't change any of the other questions like there could have been a man on the grassy knoll and the bill that killed kennedy was fired accidentally by a secret service agent i have not read read mars not i've heard a lot of good things about kim stanley robinson but i 0:15:58 have not listened i've never really been a huge sci-fi literature fan i'm trying to think i'm thinking about maybe changing that but shakespeare authorship shakespeare what come on get out of here shakespeare wrote the plays i prefer the the argument about whether shakespeare was secretly catholic which i think might be the case because it's hard to imagine shakespeare i've heard that the theory that beethoven 0:17:0
is black comes from the fact that he was from the netherlands or like belgium uh at a time when it was under spanish dominion so he was a moor because i think that's it which i don't think is even accurate that's not even true like the uh dutch had already gotten independence by the time he was oh this is a good one who's better berthoven or carpenter oh boy that's a tough one they're both like obviously very uh just perfect kind of stylists like auteurs were able to shape like that content uh 0:18:2 expertly uh without making a big show about it or even necessarily having like a trademark look escape from new york i don't really like i think i might go for hoven i think i go for a hoven a carpenter is i gotta watch darkstar thank you for i have not watched the coming rule yet we're gonna watch it the whole thing for midweek from the patreon episode so virgil watched it live and he had some amazing posts there's 0:19:4 they actually have a line of dialogue about uh about like general flynn going to a uh an event sitting next to jill stein like a russian guy talking about that it's pretty funny it's it's purely like a pure lib uh delusional fantasy which will be fun to see the and i'm there's gonna be a lot of uh a lot of paint huffing going on because in the near future because sorkin's coming out with a ***** movie about the chicago seven trial which will of course be awesome make a lot of good points about the need for uh being mature and realistic when dealing with political issues and not indulgent and childish like certain apparently though sorkin was pitched this movie by spielberg 0:20:5

and he had not heard of it he had not heard of the case which is amazing like he's he's a fetishist for that whole era and yet he didn't even know about it that means that he's just approaching the material with no like previous conception so that means it's going to be purely based on his reaction to the current moment so it's going to be just a perfect old man yelling at cloud type deal it's going to be great abby hoffman is going to be the face of the bernie bros and poor put upon straight-laced effective tom hayden is going to be oh apparently they've been making this movie 0:21:6 for 20 years holy ***** yeah jeff daniels being like sorkin's ideal version of himself is pretty funny the guy from dunn and dummer who pooped all over the toilet that's that's his uh embodiment of his own like best and the sad thing is jeff daniels is a good actor who i generally enjoy in his work i'm usually pleased to see him in things having to watch him just spit out that joel or mike i'm always joel because he's 0:22:35 who i started with so i could never judge them uh honestly because it's the same way that like uh trace bilio is the voice of crow like there's like three voices of crow and and and like kevin i know kevin murphy was the second tom servo but to me he's the only thompson hero just because that's the configuration i i was introduced to uh at the most formative period so everything is going to be everything else is going to feel slightly off because there's a very early imprinting uh show this is very i mean i'm not alone in that obviously that show is very uh very important to my it's getting dark out here i might have to bring out the christmas tree lights again 0:23:59 that's an interesting question somebody says why don't german americans have the same weird uh fixation on their their uh their heritage the way that irish people do i think a lot of it is where they settled the irish clung to the coast uh i mean obviously not only but because they were uh because of when they showed up they uh they ended up uh uh clogging up the northeast and staying in the in these like ethnic uh ghettos basically whereas the germans kind of spread themselves more thinly across the midwest uh where you know there was there was german like cultural identity around things like beer halls and stuff but and you know german language media persisted for a long time but uh there was less of a sort of a self-reinforcing ethnic uh identity uh that you that you get in like an urban setting i'm gonna plug in the light 0:25:0 here it's **Music playing** also there was world war one and world war ii which had their own effects on uh on german identity like there was a genuine ginned up uh uh ethnic hysteria against germans during world war one not only did they change the name of sauerkraut to liberty cabbage but there were attacks hate crimes lynchings even of germans uh during that period which and a lot of places changed a lot of german name places in the midwest changed the uh from to something else there's a suburb of milwaukee called new berlin and i'm almost positive that used to be 0:26:2 pronounced new berlin uh and that's i think world war one maybe they decided to change the pronunciation uh although if anyone knows that that's not true i'd like to know it if anyone has a more history on that because i always think it's interesting that it's always everyone calls it new berlin no not a single person calls it new berlin even though that's obviously what it was and then of course world war ii doesn't help you know you do the holocaust it's a little harder to walk around in later housing and there were a bunch of very self-aware german americans whose contribution to the culture in the 40s wasn't in 30s and 40s was not st patrick's day parades it was also 0:27:5

you have the fact that there isn't a unified german and part of that thing of them leaning to coast is that there's more of a unified like irish uh or at least self-perceived notion of an irish immigrant experience you know coming into the city not getting a job no irish need apply uh going to fight world war you know like gangs in new york going to fight the civil war and then becoming a cop or a ward healer uh or or yeah uh the whole like passion play of the immigrant experience which italians have a similar version of jews also all those all the east coast culture makers whereas out in the hinterlands the germans are just kind of ***** around and coming from different uh environments you know like there were the germans make up like the biggest i think single ethnic group in the 19th century of immigration but you know at that point for most of it germany wasn't even one country and uh there were different religious divisions and uh linguistic and uh and cultural that meant that there was 0:28:7

not that you know the thing of getting kicked off of you know the plantation because you there are no more potatoes and having to get in a coffin ship the religious thing is big you know it's saint patrick's day after all and like a lot of the germans where i'm from from the upper midwest specifically like the triangle or i mean the middle midwest i guess i mean the upper tier but like the lower half of the upper tier and the middle tier to milwaukee to st louis there's a lot of those are like german catholics but they're not they weren't all there's differences between bavaria and you know the ***** uh prussian palatine or whatever but uh that is one advantage one thing 0:29:9

that makes german americans on a whole better than irish is because they don't have that for the most part at least not as much and oh man aaron sorkin's john brown that would be amazing i would see that he just uses he does a biblical breakdown with a southerner about why slavery is uh not supported uh in the in the new old testament or whatever the guy just kills himself he doesn't even he chops himself up with a ***** broadsword because he got owned so bad yes the nuenstas massacre 0:30:12

uh german immigrants in texas lynched for opposing secession and it was german americans who mobilized uh a militia to prevent and of course you got guys like willit and joseph wedemeyer and franz siegel becoming members of the of the high levels of the union army oh man struggle sessions doing a whole thing on uh lovecraft country i stopped watching they showed they st there was an episode that i started

watching and it was all it was about people in korea as like a flashback or something and i just thought oh no where what does this have to do with anything now like is there even any kind of coherent approach to this like i i don't even care about the 0:31:13 characters you already have introduced me to you're going to introduce me to new ones who are like in a totally different i've not watched uh raised by wolves it's on that hbo max ***** and i don't ***** with that also really scott no thank you and i 0:32:14 don't care how good his moods are people say oh he's such a great soap director he said great creates such great moods i don't get that either it's not it's not just that he like narratively isn't terribly competent it's that his whole vibe curation thing and i feel like some movies like gladiator were just absolutely butchered i don't i'm sorry i don't think there's a good action scene in gladiator which is just crazy when you consider the i did like the counselor and i'm annoyed that really scott made that movie although you know it's just it's a core mccarthy script so it's going to rise or fall on that and i think that movie is maligned but i it's very alienating and 0:33:17 depressing and kind of like watching it sort of like chewing on uh tin foil but i think that's good that's what it's supposed to be i love i just love the fact that that movie ends with uh cameron diaz saying the line uh there is no one crueller than a coward and the slaughter to come i haven't seen black hat yet people said it was kind of bad i never really stumbled upon it anywhere never really uh digital man to me is not 0:34:20 it's not as good i like early man more i guess so i never really had a uh a huge desire to i can't believe he's still making a movie about enzo ferrari i thought for sure that that had ended up turning into ford versus ferrari through the development process which happens a lot apparently that awful uh robin hood movie that ridley scott made speaking of him with russell crowe that originally started off as a alternative take on robin hood that was from the sheriff of and over the time it just turned into uh it turned into robin hood origins even though the last big robin hood movie 0:35:24 not the uh the like in america anyway the kevin costner one was already a ***** origin story it was it's like they're trying to they were trying to shake up the material and they didn't even do it terrible so i always assumed oh yeah they want to make this movie about enzo ferrari and over time they said you know there aren't enough americans in this could we bring in those ford guys oh this carol shelby character he seems pretty interesting oh man the brewers are in the playoff it's going to be it's not going to be pretty folks it's it's a ***** it's a sham this whole season is a sham honestly like i said i don't even know who would want to win this year that's gotta have an asterisk on it forever oh yeah the year everyone was getting sick and they were playing in ***** empty stadiums with cardboard cutouts in the stands and 0:36:26 ***** rolling uh clouds of ash moving across the outfield just the full dystopian hell season who wants to win that i guess she'll always be uh you'll always be the answer to a trivia question unless all the seasons are like that knows people everyone loved the bubble does this season have the same thing because like all right they were they 0:37:28 were pretty far along in the season when they when uh coveted hit and they had to cancel it right so did they how many games did they even lose so it seems like that one is closer whereas this baseball season where it's like this incredibly uh truncated season where they weren't able even to manage to avoid people getting sick which at least i always knew the nfl would definitely still play there was no way in hell that the nfl wasn't going to happen we could have like uh we could have a genuine covert emergency right now like the kind of thing people were worried about happening 0:38:29 earlier in the year with shortage of ventilators and ***** and happening oh hell yeah i could imagine them like you know zombie apocalypse playing nf playing nfl games on like aircraft carriers beamed to people and ***** uh did the top at the 0:39:30 tampa bay lightning win the ***** stanley cup god damn canada is such a joke of a country can't even have one thing you can't even you can't dominate in your i understand why you know it's because the money goes it's money goes where the center of gravity is not sure ***** is in canada relative to the united states but man it's still hilarious when was the last time a canadian team won the ***** stanley cup it's got to be 20 years and then losing and then having cities in ***** florida 1993 are you ***** kidding me i remember when the like the closest anyone's come is when the canucks loss to the bruins in my recent memory lane i really don't think there should someone asks what ketamine feels like i only have my own experience to go 0:40:32 by but it's basically the opposite of uh it's essentially the opposite of hypersensitive to your surroundings to all that is outside of you makes it incredibly uh uh riveting because it like it it boosts your reuptake of of stimuli externally catamine basically does the opposite and that it makes you hyper focused on your body uh way i can describe it as it feels like you're kind of made of glass or like fiberglass insulation 0:41:33 or something and that's why one of the ways you can get ego death and the way that john lily figured out he was going to talk to aliens by ***** dolphins is that if you do both it essentially leaves you with nowhere for your brain to go it's like we are always editing down to a manageable amount the stimuli that we have in our bodies and outside of it because otherwise we would overwhelm literally our sensory apparatus and uh i think that's i think that's the reason it's not my stuff really but it can be it can be interesting i can also be therapeutic i know they use it for uh they use it in depression cases as they i don't know what i'm having for dinner all 0:42:51 right we have about 20 minutes left here it is for horses it's hilarious it's a i haven't read that much phil okay dick i need to correct that like i said sci-fi is a blind spot for me i usually just like okay i get the point yeah what if everyone's a robot yeah i 0:44:1 have read uh man in high castle i read ubiq i read the short stories which were really

poorly written i thought like very stilted but had really cool ideas in them all i have uh i might have some of those chicken nuggets those those any debate predictions 0:45:13 or drinking games i mean you've got to have a command man in there because he gets very exasperated and honestly the best hope for real entertainment is if biden gets mad if he gets true elder rage which i think would um could really lead to some interesting territory could lead him to start improving uh which will be of course disastrous i don't care what drug combo they got him on and of course they have him ***** flying of course he is ***** blitzed out of his goddamn gourd i do think though that there's a chance that biden sews up the election with this thing i if he's out there and he is as as zooted as he was in the last debate with bernie i think the people who are paying attention who aren't there just waving pennants for one side or the other i think if they if they get reassured that he is he's not the pick the 0:46:14 caricature of a senile doddering uh out to lunch old guy that he uh he appears to be they'll vote for him because i do think people want think not just democrats i think there is a there is a yearning for things to be normal and people might very well associate normality with biden even if it has no content and his campaign has no content i mean his lead is durable and it hasn't really shifted and it's bigger than hillary's was at this point and it makes me think that this whole thing might end in the most hilariously anticlimactic way possible which is biden winning with relative smoothness which will just leave everybody pinioning their ***** feet after running off the cliff like wiley coyote and i think a good performance of the debate by him in terms of appearing cogent getting off a few good zingers will do it will will be the 0:47:17 final like sign off i mean obviously he has to do it for all three debates but i think it could work consequently he could do bad enough to ***** blow it like i hate to break up something that is essentially a sterile spectacle but i kind of think that the the specifics of this race mean that because like obviously the challenger should win this that is not a question given the ejected conditions the challenger should win this race but biden poses specific uh obstacles now the democratic party offers its own set of obstacles namely its inability and unwillingness to provide any reason to vote for them that's bad that's heart that's like that's one hand high behind their back but that might be enough it should be enough even with that because just okay you're not you might you're not promising anything but you're not this guy you're not the guy who ***** everything up which is how non-base voters cease things usually because remember it doesn't matter what his base thinks they're the base 0:48:18 by definition they're not going anywhere uh and i think that they might sign up for door number two just because hey you know maybe people will stop yelling so much because i really don't think they've succeeded in making biden stand in for antifa or blm or anything i mean sure biden runs like hell away from the left at any opportunity and i think that also just his presentation of self this geriatric white guy just who's been around forever and was obama's vp it makes it very hard for and so the problem is that he is still a guy who barely campaigned a guy who when he comes out in public says embarrassing senile ass ***** uh and if he's not up to the task then those people who are weighing options they might decide one not to vote or two to be like ***** it you know better and as a result this might be a consequential 0:49:20 debate for once we know for a fact that the debates in 2016 were meaningless because whatever revisionist history you hear at the time it was widely considered and not just by the liberal fake news media that hillary won those debates erratic went on insane tangents she was mostly on message uh and i feel like like there are things pulled out from that later on that formed like a part of a narrative about why he won like when he when she says you know she said something and he replied with you it's like uh something about like if i was president if i was president something and he goes if i was president you'd be in jail and that's a good line but i think more than anything the debates just didn't change the dynamic one way or the other like we were on a glide path the clinton campaign the candidacy her person was such that they were in a terminal decline towards the mountain they were ignoring all 0:50:21 the signals blaring on the ***** monitors and just gonna plow into the ***** side of the mountain and the debates were just another signpost along that way and the media response to the debate saying how good she did was just another thing that helped blind them towards the reality in front of their face but i think that oh wrong also was very good but wrong and she had a couple of absolute cringe lines and you know she had no answer to his basic accusation of how come everything is bad you've been in charge for 30 years and that ended up being the only thing that mattered but that wasn't the debate that made that it was the 30 years you know what i mean whereas this campaign the way it's shaping up i think that the people are what the biden needs to close i hate to sound like one of those schmucks one of those uh one of those horse race ***** but this is i think like the archetypal situation where you have a challenger in a position to win but there is this fluctuating there's 0:51:23 this wateriness to the support and that there's reasons that can't be changed like the platform and like the party they're not going anywhere they're still not going to be offering any alternative to trump but there's the ones around trump or the runs around biden specifically that can be allayed because way more people are going to be watching these debates than any of the stuff that comes after any any any uh press conferences i has has it been confirmed that they're going to be in the same room because i haven't been paying attention and my big worry is there's going to be yes they're going to be in the same room okay that just upped the percentage possibility that this thing is really good that's just i'm a little more optimistic knowing that

they're going to be in the same room that's exciting okay that makes me feel a little better happy birthday to me maybe don't want to get my expectations up but the thing that really was just killing me was the thought of just a couple of ***** zoom heads waiting for like audio delay or something awful and i really do hope there's a drug test although of course they're not going to agree to do that it's funny like the hillar elizabeth warren kind of proved everybody do not take trump's bait ever and her taking the dna test was idiotic but at the same time god wouldn't you love to see biden say hell yeah i'll take a it is chad versus chad because whatever you want to say about biden he is in a certain sense chattish in the same way trump is you know they're both these glorious senile decrepit monuments and they have the similar i'm not saying it's going to make biden win i'm going to say it's more likely that sparks will fly that that'll be entertaining like i told you i don't ***** know and i'm saying biden could do well or poorly and have it affect the outcome but my only real interest is the entertainment of the thing and them in the same room is more entertaining than them in different rooms who is the most cringe european monarch how do you go with anyone other than carlos the bewitched of spain the guy who's was so inbred that he couldn't chew his he was impotent and had like the iq of a dormouse they said his heart was the size of a walnut when they did they they uh autopsy didn't at like at like he had just like this high squealy voice you get very agitated just the perfect final outcome of uh of of the la of the the finest lines of european royalty uh charles charles the 12th of speeden the guy who uh would not take no no for an answer against russia and just kept fighting until he just got he just ruined sweden's uh position as like a baltic hegemon i i haven't studied the 30 years war i read i've read a few books about it i can highly recommend stevie wedgwood's book which is was written in the 30s and has a great i think the funniest european accent is dutch because she's got that that like sh in there although the castilian uh lisp is also very funny like an swedish accents are very funny especially if you grew up with a swedish chef as a as a key influence i like to get at the ice cream truck is the ice cream with the on a stick with vanilla ice cream on a stick with the with the chocolate shell what do you call that a dilly bar that's only a dairy queen i think someone's asked fdr assassination theories i are you referring to the uh to the shooting the attempted assassination of presumably of roosevelt that happened in miami before his inauguration when uh giuseppe zangara fired on his presidential uh car and succeeded in killing anton cermak the mayor of chicago because i think there is a uh there is a theory that rather than it being a failed assassination of fdr that it was an intentional assassination of cermak under the cover of an provoked the ire of the chicago mafia that's the only fdr related conspiracy theory i'm aware of if there's any there aren't any really iconic ones are there like what what like john lithgow

played him in that uh really cheesy tv movie series from the early 90s i remember seeing as a kid it was lithgow as fdr it was michael kane as stalin which was the best part and bob hoskins is churchill which was fine but ***** michael kane is stalin was so good i am stolen or bloody stolen mate uh i did like edward herman and annie that might be my favorite one all right i'm going to ask one question john voight in pearl harbor oh man terrible i do love that that he stands up he's to give a dress not to the like the people but to the guys in the room his cabinet gets up just to be like we're gonna kick the ***** out of these japanese i don't know if fdr is a good subject for a movie because he is he's so uh inaccessible like he was not a personality who like he was not a president who like wore his uh he didn't wear his his complexes on his sleeve like a guy like nixon or lbj did he was very cool he was very reserved nobody ever really knew what he was thinking and although people say things about dumb guys like trump and uh bush that they agreed with the last person they talked to fdr was the opposite everybody left a meeting with fdr thinking that he agreed with them because he always kept his cards completely close to the vest protagonist eleanor roosevelt more interesting than uh from a narrative perspective than fdr certainly oh macarthur i'll end on this someone asked about the notion of macarthur as america's caesar is so funny and such a perfect example of how like we are as every way is always seeking to create these pathetic uh poor facsimile copies of roman archetypes in america like macarthur was a was an absolute uh a prissy little ***** how about that he did not have anything like the uh the acumen will intelligence character even of a of a caesar or a napoleon if he's anybody he's uh charles bolangier the guy who briefly threatened to pull off a sort of bonapartus bonapartist outsider coup on i think the second french republic before he lost his nerve fled france and killed himself hope everybody's excited i'm going to go take i'm going to take a lot of nutrients and i'm going to say my prayers i need my vitamins because tomorrow's going to be uh either the worst birthday present i ever got because at this point any chance for transcendent comedy that it doesn't manifest is is one less we're ever going to see because it just seems like we're getting to the point where nothing can be funny because the the the the gap between exaggeration and reality is non-existent uh so i will be mourning it if it's not fun but if it is if it's a good one it'll be my best birthday present ever there's barely any sun and yet i still get this insane glare from this i don't know why is it i can't explain it guys please don't ask me why there's the shaft of light maybe it's because i'm god kissed it might be because i'm god kissed i might be god kissed guys look at this there's a shaft of light here correctly coming towards my head illuminating me dappling me if you will on my damn birthday if i was one for augury i would i would libra season who's feeling themselves uh the last american marxist to ever actually uh one oh look at all those birthday greetings thank you guys feeling 0:1:10 good although it is very i mean i got the shaft of light here making it feel like i'm in some sort of identic splendor but it's actually pretty shitty today it's been very overcast and on and off drizzle on your birthday that's exactly what and i haven't of course unwrapped my gift yet that's for later we'll see what that is oh it's raining a little bit on me right now it's drizzling a little bit i can't believe there are people saying they're not gonna watch these debates i mean i get it if you don't like politics good stay away from this ***** but if you're one of these people who has through 0:2:13 some device of the mind convinced themselves that politics either matter or that politics matter enough to care about not necessarily saying that you you have some sort of opinion about like the efficacy of the political uh system but you care enough about it to pay attention to it to say the way that somebody cares enough about a sports team to root for them i don't know how you care enough about politics to pay attention to it and not want to watch a potential uh uh bladder incontinence off between two i mean if we're going to be ruled by a geruntocratic elite of uh just out to touch old people who are waiting to die and then hand it off hand off reigns over to their wildly even stupider and more inco incompetent children who will you know sell the last rivets off of the ***** hole of the ship as it's sinking into the ocean god damn it i want to see them at least show some of that uh decrepitude you know just just as a way to remind yourself that you know no matter how many much money 0:3:15 you have or power you have those neurons start uh they stop firing after a while and you end up getting trapped in your own mind and how that how that feels depends on the life you've lived and where you are mentally to handle it and if you're one of these psychos you're not you're basically designed to so you got two guys one of them firmly living in 1956 to avoid the fact that his current mode is is fail and then a guy not even living on this planet a guy living in an alternative dimension where he is and those are our two choices and for do we resign ourselves to not not a managed decline but a catastrophic one or but one that we feel that is inevitable and uh 0:4:17 unavoidable because our horizons have been so thoroughly uh beaten away from us by the hegemonic propaganda that we swallow every day and every single one of our cultural and political and economic institutions pulling us all away from each other at lightning like people in america are pushed away from each other the way that the ***** like the galaxies are uh that the the shift that mysterious force that causes the the universe to expand and and send everything hurtling away from each other that's that's what we have and so manage decline it would be possible but it would require a degree of of citizen participation in government a degree of intervention in this extraction mechanism of exploitation that we have allowed to just reign free that is beyond our not not not that we even think it would be bad to do that like we don't even have the level of thinking like no that would be socialism or whatever 0:5:19 i think for most of us a 51 plus percent they don't even think it's possible as in as impossible as imagining that you're going to live to 200 you know like our our doom is as foretold as every individual's doom is foretold by their mortal body even though the fact that we are you know a ***** a bunch of people who can hypothetically like reproduce you know and change the conditions and the in the world that that our offspring would come up into means that we aren't we could we we could defeat entropy but i think for most people in this country that to to even suggest it it just gets filtered into more political pablum because you're essentially demanding the impossible at least the way we imagine ourselves that's that's just capitalist realism 0:6:21 that's why jamison said it's easier to imagine the end of the world than the end of capitalism because we can imagine the system eventually collapsing we cannot imagine doing what is necessary to change the system and avert the collapse no it wasn't zuzia because frederick jameson but then again i think he attributes it to somebody else too it's one of those quotes is pretty good i always thought that uh he gets he gets people make fun of him sometimes for saying that the military is like the uh institution in american life that could most like realistically be a potential model for socialist uh you know inter uh transformation oh man i cannot you know what i'll 0:7:25 watch the vp debate uh for the cringe because kamala is an incredibly cringy debater uh does anyone remember when she made her last her last hail mary attempt for attention and market share in in the debates i think it was the last debate before she dropped out was when she tried to uh galvanize the field by uh calling on all of her fellow uh candidates to come together to demand that twitter ban trump because

he's violating the terms of service and she asked warren if she would say today to add her name to this call which is a classic thing you do uh in in in primary races is a candidate will say well like lay down an ideological marker or like a and make a make a bid which then if uh their opponents either are they're stuck in in in a kobayashi maru situation a hobson's choice between saying no and alienating themselves from a popular position or saying yes and looking like they're taking orders from the person who should be by writes the candidate because like if i'm sorry shouldn't the person giving the commands be the one who you get the nominee give the nomination to uh but it didn't work because nobody gives a ***** about it's not a no-brainer a policy it's not a one it's not one that's going to galvanize people it's nerd ***** it's mommy it's not being fair it's not not even like that he's saying specific things it's that he's breaking the rules and she asked warren to do it and warren said no because she correctly intuited that it was not uh an issue where she had to worry about being on the wrong side of majority i mean i could see her getting totally rooked in that move by a different person in it with a different point but like kamala came in with just the absolute laziest ***** haymaker ever ever seen on earth just ducking that thing was was nothing she got bodied by uh by ***** tulsi gabbard of all people uh over her record and she had that thing and that little girl was me deal with biden which just actually ***** her over pretty badly among democratic voters they thought it which goes to show i think that like the whole argument about woke ***** on the internet it really is beside the point because that kamala move to hit him on uh segregation like that it hit him on bussing specifically and then connecting it to her lived experience that should be the kind of thing that wins that should be the kind of thing that works or conversely the kind of thing that like uh uh like shapes the shapes the race she tried it everyone said ew and then nobody really did anything like that again so there's clearly no like hegemonic liberal uh uh insistence on id paul you know that's like making it impossible to make a a populist left uh uh case like clearly that stuff is has a limited uh um impact on the general public so how can it be the face of the whole thing how can it be this like um dominant propaganda mode imposed from without when it's barely anything anyone can make hay of as a candidate they tried and nobody succeeded who got nominated the old white guy i know there's a theory that that's because bernie went to id paul but i'm sorry i paid attention to that campaign and just because aoc said in a speech after she endorsed him something about like brown bodies you know in a in a rally that was not what uh the contours of the sanders campaign were about and it sure ***** wasn't what people were uh telling pollsters and telling everyone who would listen to them why they weren't supporting him they were saying because medicare for all is unrealistic because socialists can't win because we got to and that has to do with uh with you know hegemonic uh capitalist ideological uh um infrastructure that has captured the minds of the democratic a significant portion of the democratic electorate coupled with the fact that the democratic primary electorate is increasingly wealthy increasingly detached from any uh any motivation to pursue like those are the 0:12:31 guys who those are the people those white suburbanites who who flooded the poles in virginia and in south carolina uh and and helped turn the tide and kind of just uh stifle the whole thing because they saw bernie winning and they said oh ***** no he was he did get it across people's mind that he was the socialist candidate he was the candidate for radical change everyone bought that i do not remember anybody talking about him being the candidate of uh ***** uh lbgt whatever or uh uh bodies and spaces however you want to phrase it any of the any of the icky alienating id paul that is supposed to uh make it impossible to to make a leftist uh material appeal in the current moment he did it he did it and the forces of power uh the forces of capital arrayed their their uh their mechanisms to defeat it for that 0:13:32 reason aided by the fact that people can't imagine change of that that nature we have been so fully marketized that we cannot see anything other than this and that's why when bernie showed up people were like i i th these appeals actually directly hit me where i live and the world you're sketching is one that i know would be better than the one we live in and therefore you can't go forward with that plan that's very that's sobering and terrible but it it really does show that that the the the question of like the social issues that has defined this idiotic argument online for the past four years actually isn't influencing the political structures that these things are 0:14:33 supposed to be determining at least not the way that people are uh claiming they are one way or the other like whether they're priorities for people and it's alienating to try to avoid them and that you have to speak about people's lived experiences for your socialism to have a chance because otherwise they're going to think it's too male centric or whatever the hell or that oh all those all that icky trans uh feelings pronoun college stuff alienates regular people who just want that is only happening to the people who are focusing in through the prism of this hot house of online argumentation where they have to find something to fight about because they're paying attention every second of the day and they're requiring stimulation and they're requiring argumentation because they've made it into a subculture i do know that kamala's stepson is a come town fan very funny uh dante de blasio the dill 0:15:35 de blasio son also a kumtown fan i gotta say very impressed with their reach and fan fan fandom uh uh they're gonna the next generation of uh of political leaders like the next generation of black-pilled democratic uh executioners who just finish us off as a civilization will all be come town fans yeah and i'm sure they all hate us not because we're like owning their parents or something but because we're ***** lame because

HOLLERIN'

growing up around politics they think politics is lame and talking about politics is lame and they're right it is lame it's what you do when you're foreclosed other options of finding uh of finding meaning and and uh and purpose so yeah they probably think 0:16:36 we're correct and i'm not saying that you know it's it that it's dumb to care about politics i'm saying is that uh in the current moment politics is so distant from from ammonitizing anyone's well-being that focusing on it requires you turning it into a part of your life if you know what i mean like it becomes a spectacle it becomes something that you because you know it matters but you can't do anything about you fill that gap with the emotional resonance created by enjoying it on a day-to-day 0:17:38 moment level of observation not engagement observation which is all we're overdoing we only vote once every four years for president and that's the big thing right that's the big one and then every two years in order to keep that focus you have to have other areas foreclosed and like that's just that that's the the hinge system that's going to bring people to class consciousness and marxist theory is that you have to start caring about politics because there's nowhere else to get any anything in your life and you're like my god we have to change this and you push towards it and you need a combination of people who are sort of indolent and people who are exploited uh and the problem right now is that far too many of the people who care about politics care about politics because they're filling a void and that is what sharpens 0:18:39 and it's not because we aren't suffering it's because for a huge huge percentage of americans the process of social atomization fragmentation uh the destruction of the monoculture the replacement of it with the the simulation of simulations the spectacle of spectacles of online uh uh and the physical breaking up of working-class communities the breaking up of uh of like extended family units and any sort of uh social networks beyond you know immediate households uh suburbanization making that a geographic part of the ***** they're still feeling that horror but they're not tacking towards politics because they're not it's so far away it's so far away and what's going to get them there what's going to get them there all they engage with 0:19:40 in the world to make sense of it is this stream is this flow is this undifferentiated amount of ***** uh of stimuli that gives it an illusion of infinites it's an illusion you give it gives you an illusions of omnipotent or omniscient control of information in the universe like you can actually step into a stream that contains everything even though it's it's like a corporatized miniaturized intentionally manipulated version of that uh and then you have to make sense of it and what institutions exist to have anyone make sense of it what lived exp what what shared experiences of class class struggle or exploitation and it's it's since i i it's entrapped us it's the damn matrix 0:20:41 it's the dangle matrix and even those of us who think we're like more aware of of the stakes and and and uh what we should be doing in terms of making a political project to make things better instead of just seeking self ultimately self-destructive forms of escape how much of that is bound ends up being lost into that same self-destructive escape because of the lack of urgency and i know that's you know it's it's not great to hear because it does seem like it limits our ability to have any hope but that's only if you adhere to certain expectations beyond the expectation to be alive on a day-to-day basis and live your life and be there for the people in it and be with them 0:21:44 and allow that that to move you forward instead of a thing in your head a ship and a bottle that you've been building in the skinner box that we think is the universe and if you feel if you can if you can keep yourself on that beam it becomes easier to see things as they are and avoid the traps that a lot of people fall into where you decide that the work the real ruling classes that people online you or that voting for donald trump is actually uh populism and because the trumpism is the best chance we have for a like social democracy in the american political system coping 0:22:45 like a madman i mean thinking that thinking that there's any kind of like morality to voting at all like i'm voting for biden because it's harm reduction what is your contribution to that harm reduction if you vote for him and he wins does that mean you're responsible for x number of people not dying because of whatever he does that trump wouldn't do which honestly has he really gotten too involved in explaining what would be different under him other than everything would be calmer i mean that's up to the people in charge to do that to reduce that harm you're pressing a button ***** one of a hundred million people pressing a button you didn't you 0:23:46 didn't reduce ***** these are individual votes and individual decisions and as such you have to take them in their context in their you you cannot take the end result of an election you kick one domino and at the end of the domino strike down you've got the entire world uh being changed by an electoral contest but you're not the only one flipping that goddamn domino everybody is it's just all exactly the same way exactly the same way like there is no butterfly effect thing where one your decision to vote for a candidate changes the outcome and election you can say a group of people did or people like you demographically or people that you identify with on the internet because you post the same memes but you had nothing to do with it which means that you're not reducing any harm or exacerbating any harm you're 0:24:47 not doing anything so why are you arguing about it why are you adjudicating it that is persistent that is uh participating in maintaining the fiction the delusion that there is a coherent involvement in the political system now in the in the absence of the bernie campaign to form an actual structure of like organization around issues and organization around tactics by virtue of voting for him you know like creating an actual because what bernie did the bernie idea of bernie is that bernie would give content and structure to the voting bloc of people who vote for a democrat they wouldn't just be 50 million people waddling around and flapping their doodles because because his candidacy would be singular and because it would be organized around specific radical challenges to the existing political and economic structure that could not be digested by the political system otherwise that means that voting for him is participating in a greater project biden is doing the opposite of that he is he is expanding the net to everyone by robbing his candidacy of any content what is the biden agenda he just came out people were talking today about his monstrously terrible health care plan that involves four-figure deductibles that's that's supposed to be the the affordable health care that people are gonna have people there's gonna be four four digit deductibles which means you have to spend thousands of dollars before you can even see a dollar back in in insurance coverage of health care costs which makes it for a lot of people who don't have thousands of dollars don't have four digits means that it's as inaccessible to them except maybe no as accessible to them as healthcare would be if they didn't have any insurance what are you doing by participating in this election are you getting rid of donald trump are you preserving decency are you making america built back better nobody ***** knows nobody cares which means there's going to be no ***** consequences for anybody directly after this in terms of the party structure they might lose some elections but they're still going to stay on the top of the system and i'm never i'm not telling people not to vote what i'm telling them is you got to ask yourself why you're actually voting because only until we understand what the vote is and get rid of this mystification around it this this ritualized sacrament that we've turned it into we these we break the spell of the vote well people realize the massive chasm between their will and any any accountability at the point of government and people would say oh ***** if we want things to get better we actually have to make them better these ***** will not do that and that is why i see anybody making any arguments about the whether you should or shouldn't vote for biden i feel like even as well intentioned as you could possibly be this is by definition not only wasted energy this is actually counterproductive because it reinforces the mystification around the vote strip it down to its essence walking into a ***** gym pointing uh pressing a button and walking out you have done nothing 100 million other people are going to do it too your decision is not going to impact the that doesn't mean you shouldn't do it and if you're doing it in coordination with a bunch of other people like hey we're all voting for bernie right for the health care and stuff right now you're actually participating in something but in the current system with the current candidates you are not participating in ***** other than a ritual a ritual of of feigned authority where we pretend to bestow we our participation honestly individually you can talk about like how elections have consequences i'm saying individually our individual

contribution to uh to elections and to the uh the who rules us is less than when the queen of england goes like hello it's ceremonial it's literally ceremonial until we do it in concert then it's not ceremonial anymore and in the past there have been times when it hasn't been ceremonial because of actual coordination around issues and agendas pursuing political power self-consciously instead of what we have now which is biden because he's not trump and then whenever he does it won't be trump so it'll be better and how bad it is hey do you want trump instead and you'll never ever change anything until you're like ***** i'm not voting unless it matters i'm not voting unless it's worth my time now i vote because i enjoy doing it because i'm a sicko i like going in there i like filling out the little forms i moved to new york right after they got rid of the old machines with the little flip buttons and i was incredibly pissed i never got to vote in an election with the old voting machines which they also had in my home county manor to walk but i was i never voted there i i moved out to you too early and so i've only ever done like scantron and that's fine but i like doing it i like filling in a little bubble i like putting it in the machine i enjoy that i enjoy as toby says in american splendor i enjoy the ritual it's one of those rituals that i have fun with but i do not amuse i do not dis i do not uh delude myself into thinking that my my my vote has moral meaning it has no more moral meaning than me going to get dinner going deciding whether i'm going to get the arby's gyro or go with the just the roast beef and horsey sauce so i like voting and i'm going to vote who i vote for doesn't matter doesn't matter in terms of morality i could leave it blank i could write myself in i could and you have to at treat it that way or else you're gonna leave that ***** voting booth thinking you've done something and we're all gonna leave that voting booth thinking we've done something and then the wheels just keep turning and oh ***** what happened obama is exhibit a of that because while he was able to marshal a broad enthusiastic voting block there was no content to it at all hope st to come stuff not even anything like the new deal wasn't fleshed out when uh fdr ran but the cons the idea that there was going to there was going to be a radical change in the relationship between the government the economy was taken for granted this like new deal like it was gonna be new obama and so everybody left those voting booths in 2008 thinking they'd done something and then what happened they took it from there and they they listen to their real bosses the people who they talk to every day the people who actually participate in politics by giving money and raising money and directing money and having meetings and sending emails and that's why people want me to debate x y or z guy about voting for biden waste not only wasted energy misdirected energy because because what's the argument for ryden every argument for biden revolves around how much better a biden administration would be than a trump won for like the most marginal and i wouldn't even argue those points what i would say is okay but what does because i'm not picking between those two things one of them is going to happen but i'm not going to determine the outcome by my vote so what difference does this make what and look somebody says like it's harm reduction versus accelerationism i agree but those are just other words for cope versus cope you get to go in the booth saying i'm voting for biden and then biden's going to get in there save lives and maybe reduce the climate apocalypse even if it's not as much as i'd want i feel like i did something good i feel like i'm a good person that's just coping it's just a way to convince yourself you're participating same thing is going in there like actually uh trump by presiding over a continuing economic crisis at the head of a still capital dominated party uh will lead to the emergence of you know a broad hostile left that will break free of the shackles of the democratic party by uh uh engaging disenchanting members of the the trump coalition as well as energizing new swaths of uh of previous non-voters through grassroots efforts and the creation of like counter-hegemonic cultural forms fine maybe once again what does that have to do with you pressing which button i wrote in drill in 2000 in ohio in 2016. at drill i wrote voted for in ohio which ended up not really being a swing state ohio so somebody says so what if you do that what next i'm just saying you have to get there i don't actually know it next that sounds like a cop-out absolutely it is but i'm this stuff this is things happen when they happen you know what i mean and they can make other things happen that you cannot predict the contours of them are not predictable what i do know is that if people who feel that they are political feel like they have a responsibility to themselves future generations the people they love to make the world better for the people for everyone and make the planet ***** habitable but voting is literally nothing it's less consequential morally and and and meaningfully than jacking off what are we gonna do what do we do about that and then we work with what we have to build from that ***** foundation of what do we do about it which we're not asking or not enough of us are asking because this massive weight of of of the presidential uh election this this spectacle of spectacles this grinding uh pyrotechnic phantasmagoria designed to completely absorb our attention uh can be ***** blocked out a little bit and maybe part of that maybe then people say hey i got an idea how about instead of us just voting based on what we think would be like the the more moral thing to do how about we all get together figure out what we want pick somebody to run for that and then vote for them all together if we want voting to matter if we think that there's enough there's enough juice in the in the pickle of american uh political system if it is if it actually can connect to power if it's not completely ornamental that's still a step up from where we are now and it's still something that is only going to be possible enough people are motivated to not just in the sense of feeling the dread and horror of of alienation and and and precarity but also because they can see a thing to do with that precarity to do with that angst to do with that alienation to do with that will and drive and incentive towards action which cuts through all of the it would be very funny if somebody asked if they're 0:38:22 going to bring up the crime bill tonight i don't think this this one uh it would be very funny though if trump brings up the crime bill and calls biden like the puppet of antifa in the same sentence see this is so interesting so people are taking from this i'm seeing in the chat that i'm saying don't vote not saying don't vote i'm not going to tell you what to have for dinner i'm not going to say oh ***** what's the name of that salad place sweet green don't go to sweet green do not have a chicken salad sandwich you better not have ***** peanut butter jelly or you better have spaghetti and meatballs it is beside the point you have to answer the question of whether you 0:39:23 should vote or not every individual has to answer that question themselves it's the only thing that matters and hopefully giving the the active the proper the proper proportion the proper proportion of your life that it met that it uh uh maintains i mean i am i'm a goofy uh enough romantic to even think that there could be either outcome of this election could bring about some sort of third-party formation i mean it would have to be in the context of a genuine crisis inevitable this is a crisis but 0:40:45 when i say genuine crisis i mean like one that leads to seismic re shuffling cracks in the in the fissures you know or cracks in the system and and significant uh and i think i've said before on the show that i think we might end up never seeing that moment come just because all of those crisis moments that in a previous generation would have been perceived to be a a a splintering of reality would instead be immediately normalized within the greater culture as the people directly impacted are sort of softly removed from the roles like oh oh we just lost florida well that's really too bad all right i guess we'll start redrawing the maps you know what i mean and in a 0:41:49 system like that two parties in until in two parties until the you know government someone really wants to know about the elliot spitzer scandal i don't really know i never watched that alex give me documentary apparently he was very horny and he liked to spend a ton of money on uh call girls and it got found out i guess mainly because wall street was mad at him for being too so i mean i don't know like that seems like what you could get from wikipedia i don't know what else you want me to say oh he also sucked liz smith's toes but that was later after he'd but i think the 0:42:52 main upshot is is that the thing he got bit nailed for is stuff that almost all of those guys do and it only brought him down because he annoyed enough people in real power in new york i.e wall street because diaper david vitter got re-elected to the senate after he got came out uh he was found in the black book of a dc uh madam not only that uh it also came out that he was a diaper fetishist and it's almost always true that if you don't resign it eventually blows over and yet somehow a sex

scandal like that that you think wouldn't have been that consequential at that point became this thing that he couldn't get over so yeah i guess that makes you think wow maybe spitzer had some metal to him but honestly i think he uh he probably was 0:43:53 just pursuing a populist uh political branding so i don't get presents anymore that's fine i don't really i don't have anything i need the debate starts at nine and i'm i'm 0:45:0 fixing to be uh i am fixing to be entertained uh and if uh god damn it i'll entertain myself if my favorite dark tower book somebody asked is probably the wastelands blaine the mono baby oh i'm doing a white claw tonight rip everyone likes wizard of 0:46:5 glass i just remember being really annoyed after all those years that he has a another dark tower book and it's a also i i like all the like the ***** posts battle of jericho hill stuff more than the i did see the dark tower movie and it is stunningly terrible uh really impressive how shitty it is uh really reminds you that the pro the filmmaking process has basically nothing to do with art at that level of capital investment which makes the insistence of people to turn it into the soul vector not only of like culture 0:47:7 but politics and personal ***** morality very very grim oh god jesus rolls i couldn't finish it i might finish it at some point but i got about like not even half an hour into it one of the worst things i've ever seen just breathtakingly terrible which of course it always was the idea was terrible and i love the idea and john chatturo used to say that he would bug the the cohens about making it and you know that he asked them to write it he said hey i have an idea for a movie and you know they should they were as polite as possible like yeah john that sounds like a good idea but they 0:48:9 were never gonna make that movie and so then he decides to make it himself and holy ***** it is it's a hell of a cultural artifact so armenia azerbaijan who you got coys who you got who you got who takes it armenia or azerbaijan who takes it not who you're rooting for couple eyes here by jeans now it's overwhelmingly armenia looks like i i think that's the kardashian's responsibility for that honestly somebody asked what my birthday dinner is i'm trying to decide what should it be what would 0:49:12 be a good dinner let's let's end the chat talking about food so i can get all riled up birthday salmon what kind though korean fried chicken yeah i was thinking szechuan fried chicken with the gyro though sounds really good too oh i wish i could get an arby's euro sadly i don't think there's any arby's in the city it's ***** unavailable 0:50:13 somebody says donner but i got maybe it's just because i grew up because when i lived in milwaukee as a younger after college there was no doner there were only euros there were two places oakland and apollo and they were both really good apollo was uh i think a better but uh oakland was much better people watching it was a great place to go and so for me it'll always be a euro the donner's fine but it's just not yeah those are even better than arby's when a chicago keeps i will stress again 0:51:35 for a fast food gyro remarkably uh good the tzatziki sauce is flavorful the the like

greek style meat it actually does have like a texture and flavor and seasoning that distinguishes it from every other pile of lunch meat that arby's puts out oh buddy that's so sweet well if you've people say i work there i any place any you don't want to see the sausage or the okay oh french fries on the euro is great somebody say 0:52:44 that's bad who the hell saying that's bad french oh god that's the way they do it in france ***** i'm definitely getting a hero though you can't call him a gyro in new york though you got to call him a gyro because it sounds too much like hero i gotta 0:54:12 say though i went to what's supposed to be the best euro place in uh astoria which i'm assuming you know that's saying something that's like one of the most constant fully concentrated greek neighborhoods in the country uh and it was okay it was like it was pork for one thing it wasn't even like partially lamb and it was it was just the texture was weird it wasn't for me it was good but i was disappointed i still have not had a fantastic euro here in in new york there's one that uh i'm gonna try i think i have in mind that hopefully will don't tell me how to pronounce these a hero cake 0:55:17 what the hell is that that apparently pork euro is traditional well i'm not a i'm not traditional i mean i remember one time when i was like i think i was in college i went to a mexican restaurant and i asked for i saw i think it was a chalupa on the menu and i was like ooh chalupa and it was not at all like the taco bell chalupa and i was disappointed i'm a hick i didn't have i didn't have like ethnic cuisine until i was like in college the fanciest restaurant in my hometown was taco bell like that kind of stuff isn't true anymore like like you can kind you can find varied cuisine all over the place now but like just a few decades ago uh if you were outside of like even a like a metro a regional metro city you you had uh you did not have a lot of ethnic diversity in your food stuffs so i like the lamb euro thing i like the guy and the guy 0:56:20 cutting the thing off al pastor is a mexican giro and also oh yeah i tried patsy's pizza after we talked about pizza last week i got patsy's and it was really good

The Flesh Screams for Those Who Hear It

09.30.20

um so hi guys sorry i'm just uh trying to make sure that i properly credit someone for the inspiration for the episode title today i did a tweet last night about or this 0:1:5 morning i think actually about the debate and how the only message that either that was sent being sent there was the bodies of the two people on stage and that the message was we're die and someone replied with the flesh screams for those who hear it and that stuck in my head and i want to give a shout out to appnubz for uh for replying to me with that because it's it's now the only thing i can think of when i think of that night which i'm gonna be thinking about a lot because for me let me finish this for a second for me it delivered on everything i was hoping it would be so i know everyone and i know i was saying beforehand there's no way this 0:2:10 thing's going to live up to what we want it to be or what i imagine i guess what i wanted it to be and sure enough of course it couldn't because what are we waiting for we're waiting for some sort of fracture moment which will never happen because the system is embedded in will always normalize it which is why as the thing was happening as these two demented fossils had exactly what everybody said would happen if they ever debated a confused random ejaculation of of uh stutters and and um and placeholders and circular wording around nothing because their heads are empty because they're not there they're at the point of most people's lives where the doctors they just give you prescriptions for anything because hey let them have fun with it who cares it doesn't matter if they get addicted or whatever they're not going to run out of traffic they're at that stage they're at the let's have fun stage 0:3:11 of drug use for elderly people and they're supposed to be in charge arguing about the presidency and it took me a while obviously to realize it and it didn't come fully to me until after i'd finished watching it but for me anyway this debate was that apocalyptic moment uh not just in the sense that it has given me now a a memory uh and a memory that i can even revisit by even watching one minute one second of the footage that will snap me out of the mental shackles of trying to invest the actions and especially the words of either of these two people and trying to ascribe meaning to them and trying to figure out what the future of this country and this planet and myself and the people i love is based on what they say there is nothing 0:4:13 there they do not know anything they don't know where they are and the reality of that is too terrifying to admit so even people who were horrified by the whole thing how many of them in the aftermath of what we all saw decide to start arguing about whether or not donald trump was issuing a coded message to the proud boys to intimidate people at election sites to which i say did you just watch the debate if you watch that i don't know how you can imagine that there is any point to parsing the words that donald trump said in it there's no content it is meaningless they are syllables this is dutch schultz's last words there's plenty to be afraid about obviously 0:5:14 in terms of where we're headed politically economically ecologically whatever you want to do they those two men are not going to be the authors of any of it they're not going to think up anything and then make it happen they are front pieces for systems much vaster more horrifying than either of them could be those are going to bring us towards our if it happens some sort of apocalypse but what is more likely is just going to be the slow continuing grinding and miseration of everyone over time which is why my main takeaway if you want me to get horse racy with it from all that is that biden's going to win and handily kind of make a joke of the whole thing like win by a surprising amount because when you saw that people talk about oh trump is alpha or biden said x trump is not out of his desire not out of his master 0:6:16 plan because he is a figurehead because he is this figure of psychic energy that so many millions of people put their focus on either because they he will uh he has created a political culture now that is way overheated like given our decrepit 300 year old ***** constitution and uh you know our non-functioning government and minority rule and all this stuff uh the checks in the bounces all that beautiful stuff that worked when the government was just a fake little ornament for all the richest dandies who uh spent too much time in the library and needed some place to hang out while the real men did the work of ***** conquering the continent like when that's when when when park congress was just this parlor game for the wealthiest in the country where the mass majority people were either too busy making money or making other people money to give a ***** what happened to it or even imagine 0:7:18 what was happening there uh now it's supposed to be the actual governing body of a ***** world destroying colossus at this point uh and and all of these populations that in the american uh the early american era under the early constitution were not even part of the political uh calculus like native americans like african-americans like women are now part of it all of that increases the cultural heat but what's driving the cultural heat is immiseration is how bad everything is for people day to day not just the cheeto in chief and not ***** on tv lived ***** experience it's worse for people than it has been in this country and so trump is this figure who is like he's 0:8:19

CUSHVLOG 89. THE FLESH SCREAMS FOR THOSE WHO HEAR IT

the sorcerer's apprentice rising up these giant gusts of popular animus both against him and for him that cannot be contained by our rickety ass constitutional system they are out of proportion the question is really are they out of proportion to the crisis in the system or does trump provide a specific and i think we're going to find out on election day obviously forget about coup and counter coup and proud boys at the ballot box i think the most likely thing that's going to happen is the rubber is going to meet the road and as many as as bad as it is for people in this country it's still relative to everyone else in the world pretty damn good and now more than ever we're no we know that we know we still have something to lose even the people among us who are suffering because you're not suffering as much as somebody waiting to get in this country on the other side of the border fence or somebody ***** in a dinghy in the mediterranean and so and of course we have the fact that we've depoliticized half the people to don't not even see a political i think that we're all going to look at ourselves and trump will be the option of keeping ringing the bell and keep it and i think that a good enough people are just going to say no no no we're not do we really want to because if we rail if trump's president we're going to eventually have to have a civil war like we're gonna have to have one forget the material conditions trump being president will stoke us beyond everything and we will make that leap into action and violence and then people will see other people do it and be inspired and join and join and you actually could have a civil war but i don't think people want one not the people who vote in this country i don't really think they do and i think that sure you know obviously none of this applies to trump's base because obviously it doesn't saying that point doesn't mean anything i'm saying for the people who he needs to elect him i think more are going to be like yeah nah this is not my i'm not going to get a gun i'm not going to stand in front of a walmart trying to fend it off from blm or whatever the ***** i don't want to do that and Biden is the alternative to that and that's why i think he's probably going to win and kind of maybe hilariously by a big margin like he's at the cuffs now in these pollings of going between like a clear electoral win and just a blowout now of course obviously polls polls anything can happen but i think that people just like ask yourself this question do you feel like we're in the material conditions to have an actual materially based civil war as in as in a battle over resources not ideas battle over resources in this country when there's still ***** mountain dew do you really think that's true or is the orange man screaming noises that we're all trying to listen to and make sense of but are noises animal noises hunks honks and utterances it's like we made like a ***** a pig that like wandered into the the distillery shed and like ate some fermented pop pumpkins and it's now shit-faced is wandering around the ***** uh backyard and you all decide that he's a he's a learned pig and you're gonna gather around him and listen to his oinkings and try to figure out what he's saying and then he's going to be in charge and what he says is in charge that's where we are with trump i think people are going to say uh no matt yeah let's just turn it down things suck and it's bad and ***** corroded and all that but and but this comes to the real like revelation point i had after after this whole hap this whole thing happened is like when i say i think biden's going to win based on the debate it's not based on anything that was said by either of them and there's no point in parsing anything they say that's that was my great revelations that i don't have to and i'm gonna try 0:12:25 not to and you guys can yell at me if i don't i will try not to talk anymore in public or even as little as i can to myself and my own internal ***** monologue about uh trump's statements about biden's statements about what they mean about what he's signaling about nope the stakes are still high and saying saying that doesn't mean don't care about the election of course care about the election the stakes are very high i just said we keep trump in here we could push past the precipice just because of how hyper saturated with politics every fabric of culture became becomes under him it could happen i'm betting though that there's still enough elastic there's still enough resistance in the band before the snapback in terms of material conditions in this country where you're never more than 300 ***** uh feet from a taco bell or even 0:13:26 getting a car to get one and as much as they're still misery in this country the most deeply abject missouri in this country is felt by people who aren't involved in any of this and don't vote and don't aren't even aware of this ***** your ***** aren't listening to the ***** president to hear the coded messages to his army of nazis or whatever so if you want to do horse race stuff you can look at poles and you can just take a temperature temperature check of where you think the material conditions are you don't have to care about any of this and you can be entertained by it but you cannot try to pull meaning out of it and i've i and there is a distinction there because the moment that really what got me there is that i did in fact do a lot of drugs for a fair fair carpet right now for the um for the debate because it did seem like this like this thing coming together these two guys is so symbolically freighted that i'm like okay i have to know what this is and it has to mean something to me i have to get 0:14:27 meaning out of this because if my life which has been organized around things like this having meaning like my professional life and before that my my my spiritual life i guess you would call it before i really knew i even had politics and i got it because what i found myself doing in the middle of the debate was being caught between the the the totalized moment of these guys yelling at each other and chris wallace piping in from the sidelines and just having overwhelmed me the sense of like how how how hilariously fraudulent the entire terms of this are like this was an emperor's note girls moment of oh yeah these guys aren't in charge of anything these guys don't run

***** and so what does it ***** matter what uh and that was smashing against my need to like deliver commentary and like respond and that would get me connected 0:15:28 to like fact checkered brain and like trying to put these in rhetorical sex and like well who said that and who's going to benefit from that and imagining what joe six-pack thinks of it even though i don't know who the ***** that is and it's just me that those two things couldn't be contained in the same moment or i tried to i held them in my head as long as i could during the course of the debate and then afterwards i just had to sit with myself and be like okay you can hold those two thoughts together as much as you think you can you cannot keep them together because you will lose the deeper realization because i could find my i could feel myself getting pulled towards forensic dissection of this ***** like trying to ***** and i said no no no oh that's just going to make this worse because you find yourself this anxious point waiting to try to figure out what's being said because you can never know you can't know oh uh he was signaling to the proud boys they're going to show up and kill everyone on election day how will you know that until it happens or not you will 0:16:31 have no way of knowing you are just done you're you're shifting through that ***** chicken guts to try to auger out a ***** uh auspice and i realized as soon as i saw people talking about uh well did uh does he signal to the proud boys i don't know i think he was being mistaken and that was actually two different questions it's like that's cue that thinking is q and on thinking even if it's coming from people who are politically sophisticated and fact-based and reasonable and on the left like the actual like serious left not even the liberal left uh that's q thinking that's what the q people do and that's what we're all going to do all the politically minded people do as politics detaches farther and farther away from material conditions it becomes more and more a spectacle that we have to invest with we will all turn into q if we keep our mind on these ins these things having semantic weight these specific terms words and phrases having meaning that we have to decipher instead of there being 0:17:33 just a totalizing reality because that's what q people q people are in that same box like they recognize the sham you know like they don't understand the terms of it they think it's satanic pedophiles or something instead of capitalists but they understand the terms that this country that they think they live in is a nightmare and someone is making that way someone with power like they do recognize that there's power there they just don't know where the power is because they're ***** americans and they're getting all their but they're also from that realization trying to get to truth through discrete decoding of the words of people like donald trump and so that's how you get them saying like oh everyone's all the pedophiles are going to get executed in march 15th because look at the three letters that he misspelled three words he misspelled in this tweet and how it spells out that date or whatever that's the same thing it's not as deluded but it is on a continuum of abstraction towards just self-destroying 0:18:34 hysteria to go through his phrases going through the sentences he said did any of them complete a sentence in that did anyone actually have a noun a ***** verb uh and like in the right order in in a ***** thing like subject object per big letter at the front period at the end did any of them have a complete there can be no meaning drawn from those things and that means we are no that means we have to as at this point because we're not really powerful we're all waiting for election day basically we're treating it as an auspice we're treating it as a as like the the musings of like the oracle of delphi after they got her hopped up on mushrooms we're trying to hear 0:19:35 the future but we can't know it from that we can't know we can't know the future we can only know what's around us and the people we love the world we want to see and how we can try to make use all the things around us to make that happen so if you want to watch today i'm going to keep watching the debates i'm going to keep talking about this election but i'm going to make a concerted effort to remove it entirely from any kind of context of political meaning it is entirely aesthetic i'm sorry people who are into politics aren't only into politics because they care about people not like those guys who like sports there's an aesthetic appreciation of politics just as much as they're in for sports and so if we can isolate it and use it in that way then we can engage with it but if we take if we take this these ***** gibberish and we try 0:20:36 to just rearrange the letters into coherence that is just being provided by our own neuroses because it's just a reflection of what we're thinking it's not and we're not coordinating with anybody we're not checking our work against one another we're all making independent judgments and then bashing each others against one another so yeah i was very pleased with it afterwards i mean uh i tweeted right afterwards as a joke i said it on the stream i said the real winners of tonight this debate were the american people because of how hilariously the wrong that was but um as you see people really freaking out after that debate being like oh my god oh my god hyperventilating one way or the other uh i think it really was good for uh the winner really was the american people just because i'm not gonna say it's gonna be you 0:21:38 know some uh some wake up moment for a lot of people but it was for me and just in the sense that it took something i knew but only intellectually and now made me feel it which is all real knowledge is it's not reciting it's not having a dry axiom it is experiencing that in your life and then associating it with specific feelings contexts memories that can then keep you there they can when you find yourself straying bring it back and that is what that debate did for me uh and if you were if you had eyes to see it did it for you too i'm not saying but i of course was in a very specific situation to be in that way i cheated i cheated i did a bunch of drugs uh and that because i'm a cheater because i'm a bounder because i'm laosh because i'm a ***** i'm a

nietzsche's last man i'm a ***** small soul bug creature over here of course i cheated 0:22:39 that's one of the reasons that drugs psycho psychedelic drugs are so dangerous uh sort of like your long-term mental health is because what they essentially do in terms of your body in terms of your like body chemistry is they put you in a super advanced state of meditative focus the kind that can be usually only attained by incredibly incredibly incredibly determined pursuit and it just pops you there like within half an hour taking problem with that is that that deep meditative state that deep sensory awareness that perception of everything around you that happens at a deep deep level of concentration where you start noticing the porousness of all these like perceived uh distinctions and and you truly feel the imminence you know god's grace if you want to be christian about it or just the just that hum the universal hum 0:23:41 of the of the thing that you're all always been a part of and you're going to return to and you're not even not part of now and it's all an illusion you feel that now if you feel that in a state of that you uh if you get that from intense concentration which has uh been achieved through discipline you're in a position to do something useful with that feeling you are sitting probably on a mountaintop somewhere in a situation maybe monastic or some sort of pursuit of you know your personal study it has integrated your life it has made you live a life that has enough space in it for you to dedicate that much time to being alone and sitting and thinking and controlling your surroundings which means when you get that insight you can imprint it on the world as it is if you get that deep meditative state overnight like that without the discipline as uh as dr ian malcolm said the discipline necessary to attain it then you have that perception surrounded by what what got you there what got you to 0:24:42 that moment it wasn't ***** rigorous pursuit of anything it was flight from this it was flight from truth and so what are you seeing now with that deep meditative fixation of of sense you're seeing these screaming but it can be good too if you can recognize the goblins for what they are and not decide that the symbolic abstraction thing and and have that be adhered to to that sense that feeling of oneness that get that really does transmit knowledge because now instead of learning oh yeah this is a puppet show you're learning though the puppets are talking to me i'm the only one who knows what they're really saying so all in all good debate had a fun time 0:25:45 looking forward to the next ones i think that pence and harris is going to be hilarious because there's going to be a ton of pressure to make that one normal to reassure people abnormality and it'll be funny to see how that plays out i will say that uh people are mad at nancy pelosi for saying that thing about how we need we need a good republican party and you know what from her perspective she's 100 correct she's not saying anything wrong what she's saying is that because we do not have two parties right fighting over power we have two branches of a broader capitalist party whose conflicts are stage managed to avoid discussions of deeper structural issues we cannot afford to have wild uh uh unstable uh polarization whereby people won't accept the division of government like the the see-sawing back for chinese moments they used to call it in the 19th century spain that allows the pressures the social pressures to relieve oh all these democrats are pretty mad well we'll get a democrat at the white house they won't be mad anymore all these republicans are pretty bad don't worry we'll get a democrat in there that's that's the that's what keeps the the lungs moving the lungs of democracy moving and trump is threatening that he's legitimately threatening that he is raising the stakes emotionally for politics in a way that our system uh does not want which is why i think that push comes to shove he's gonna go and go quietly because he's a ***** ***** you think he has the guts to tell the beautiful generals what to do if they tell him that they're not gonna ***** support him give me a break i'm not even like ***** that like ***** mitch mcconnelly probably wouldn't even ***** but again the answers to these things are not to be found in discussions of the statements of any of these gibbering i'm sorry guys it's magic hour back here but it makes it hard to so i hope now it'll be very interesting for me to try to watch these debates with this in mind like with this focusing agent on mine that will allow me to avoid the temptation to turn myself into q by trying to pull and the beauty of this is that even if it wasn't even if watching that debate wasn't like revelatory to you if you listen to what i'm saying or you hear somebody else say a similar thing and it makes sense to you hopefully that memory connected to the debate like the reality of that debate and the memory of watching it can provide at least a fraction of what it can that is provided for me in terms of what i hope to be a practice of avoiding going down this ***** rabbit hole because all it does is lead me farther from knowing what i'm talking about because it's all ***** it's all conjecture wondering what someone else is going to do who isn't you which you can't know it's none of its structure it's all rhetoric remember we're not talking about we're talking about what is what are these words going to lead to other people doing that that's not at the level here that um ah man the sun is really pursuing me across this so i don't know what anyone else's experience was but for me very very uh very good and i'm very much looking forward to watching these the rest of these debates through that lens and using my memory of the first one to pull myself out of uh out of the spiraling because it really does more than anything just make it harder like for me my job i do i do care about like being right you know because i care about conveying things that are helpful both you know in terms of entertainment but also if it's going to be practical in any way not wrong and every time i find myself getting into these discussions i've noticed and this like thinking back on i noticed even more even as it was happening was feeling the anxiety build up but i wasn't really acknowledging or

understanding where it was coming from it was because as i was trying to build up around these specific questions i would keep bumping up against this insecurity in my understanding because it was based on nothing i was just guessing i was guessing what other people were going to do and all i can do but to do that it's like well what if i was somebody else well how would i have imagined that what would that make me do you can't ask that question how can you ever ask that question that's why you have to materially analyze things and and i just never it didn't occur to me how deeply that implications of that run because the implications of that really are that you you can't think about what these guys are saying along about what it means but what people are going to take from it because you can't know what people are going to take from things and so i find myself i would find myself getting agitated and like starting to wonder well maybe i'm not good at this maybe i'm doing a bad job maybe i'm hurting people by giving them bad advice because i don't even know and it's because i'm i'm wiley coyote running off the cliff with my ***** legs blasting around not recognizing that the goddamn crown is gone and it's not that it's not that these guys words don't have meaning like trump's trump's stoking of like resistance he's gonna get people killed one million percent he is going to get people killed obviously he's already gotten people killed he will get more people killed when i say he will i mean in the sense of yes somebody will hear what he says and yes he will use that as excuse to go do violence 100 i think that will happen but when i imagine that that's just because i still have to imagine someone else but the question i can't answer is how many how many boils down to demographic questions how many people are in x position to have y response when they get z stimuli in the form of and without that information i cannot move forward and maybe that information is available but i think more realistically for me just cut it off get rid of it throw it in the garbage aesthetically appreciate it maybe but remove the the flush remove the flush of uh of consequence make it into a game and not war like material stuff should be war always and at war you are sharpest you know but but if you're war in this clouds you will so well it's horrible to imagine violence happening because of these awful words of this awful man we have to ask ourselves what can we do about it we can vote and if you that if that means seems consequential to you for the but beyond that all we can really do and see what those connections lead to where our abilities skills passions uses can be applied we can't know that from looking at the chicken guts and trying to see the flight of the ***** uh ravens over the ***** uh someone's uh first episode of season four for fargo sucked gotta say agree uh not not looking forward to this season boy in fairness i don't think last season started terribly strong but i do think the second half of the third season of fargo is the best the show ever was imo in the first three seasons it just ended so great so maybe they'll bring it

around but the first two episodes were uh were a little dire um that's the one we were running like you don't need me back here right it's not because oh they're finally addressing race it's the way they do it the way they do it is the way everybody does it so it's boring there's nothing unique to it there's nothing interesting to it and that's because clearly noah holly didn't care about this stuff but it's now being 0:36:3 imposed by an expectation culturally and now he's doing something he doesn't really believe in i think because it just feels so hollow that means should there be a show about a mob war but uh involving like a a black uh gang family that like involves you know the deep questions of america's racial history and hierarchy and like what whiteness is and all that stuff and how that like relates to the midwestern identity very interesting questions clearly though he's not the guy to ask though because it's not not because he couldn't in some abstract sense like he doesn't have the talent to it's clearly not what's interests him it's not what got him into the project but that and that's why we get worse art as things that get more like woke but the wokeness isn't what makes it bad it's because instead of a lot a thousand flowers blooming 0:37:6 like different creators of different uh uh experiences and lived identities being able to create in an open marketplace well that's not what we have that's not our culture is and that's not how media is created media is concentrated by firms capitalists knows that city's gatekeepers and like all capital nodes is just a ***** piled high with uh accumulated and passed down wealth from the first generations of people to take power there and hold it i.e white people so when the cultural winds move in the direction of wanting to see voices wanting to see alternatives and and the whole color of life instead of getting experiences from people of all those colors lives inflecting this uh art we get the same old ***** suits and the same old cottier of professionals 0:38:7 with maybe a trickling in of diversity hires and affirmative action cases in order to like assuage everybody's conscience and feel less guilty about themselves they're gonna tell those stories even though they don't speak to anyone with a creative spirit involved in the productions at all it's purely improper compelled from without it doesn't come from within it doesn't come from those other perspectives that are supposed to be viewed because when we're watching marvel movies we're not really watching representation like yes ryan coogler is black you know but uh the marvel machinery that made black panther is not black in any meaningful cultural sense and and and ryan cooler's specific blackness or the writer's pacific blackness or uh frank ocean's specific blackness they cannot overcome the corporate swill they're get they get their their genuine passion for it which is real is deluded because they're 0:39:8 cogs in a giant machine and so everything all the culture gets worse and it gets more inclusive and more cynically inclusive and people say see that and say ah it's the inclusion that makes this bad no it's not the inclusion that makes it bad it's the way that the inclusion is being infused into this capitalist edifice through compelled cynical utilization which is a greater sign of just capital accumulation strangling art more broadly because the stuff that the anti-awoke people hate or love in culture like guys being dudes and and exploding cars and ownage and all that ***** that i also dearly dearly love if that stuff is pursued in this context of maximal bottom line and maximal capital uh concentration at the top and the need for like pg-13 as to be the sort of collective understood uh uh goal uh rating for every movie that's that has more than a few like dollars of pocket change committed to the budget up from 0:40:9 a major studio that's gonna suck too man that would suck ass it would just suck in a way that would but and i'm not saying that people aren't going to be moved by something like black panther that's how bad it is that's how deeply entrenched racism is at all levels of culture and how little representation real representation any minority sees in this ***** eye of sauron of like whiteness and printing on everything of course you see it like anything looks like uh the ***** a crack of light to the doorway looks like the ***** sunrise and no one i don't begrudge anybody that i'm just talking about the general trend of everything getting worse and then being 0:41:13 things being indulged in by the students as a way to get some people on board more than they would otherwise you're alienating some but you're getting others on board and the and the the market equation is in the long run demographically hey who are we going to make more money with catering to the rising diverse young people of america or white incels who make up like the preponderance of the cultural conversation online about media where are you putting your money as a capitalist edifice this is a no-brainer that just means that preponderantly we're going to see worse most smoke stuff but as things are worse and worse for people it's going to look more consequential to people seeking anything else to mean anything than the ***** thank you for the thank you the haircut i gotta say it very at the beginning 0:42:15 of quarantine i was i think i said it on an early couple early streams i was like 50 50 uh at least already at that point that i was gonna shave my head at some point which i think is the guy's version of quarantine bangs and i was like i'm gonna do it i'm gonna buzz this remnant this for lauren hope here uh but i always assumed i'd get drunk and do it one night but you know i stopped drinking so much more than anything really and i realized i never got to that point and i'm glad i feel like it means i never really hit bottom even if things looked a little shaky from or at least my bottom was higher than i guess it just means i'm blessed more ah i do have a 0:43:18 square head kind of right i'm a square head one time amber found a picture from ellis island online of a guy in like a bavarian dude in lederhosen who would come in like the late 1800s through dallas island and she's and he was uncanny he looked exactly like me it was memes i i gotta find it and post it some time again she had

it on uh twitter once but of course her account's been nuked for a long time maybe she has the i'll find it somewhere i don't know if i can google matthew chrisman oh yeah i get to finally uh give my long awaited opinion on the gyro cake somebody uh posted a in the chat a euro cake that i clicked on and it brought me to what looked like just three euros stacked on top of one another basically that presumably you cut into slices and eat instead of just so uh somebody asked if good morning sunday morning was q anon code to the left you know no but give it a few years like nancy stays in power state like biden gets in there and you know we get the lid on a little bit and we kick the can down the road a little bit more because that's just what we're doing we're just pushing crises past the horizon and that's all it's going to be that's literally what capitalism is from crisis to crisis there's no long-term plan there can't be it's just a value form annihilating things are going to be bad enough that the democratic voters are going to get more so ensorcelled that they're going to have the same reverence and like fixated opinion on and analyzing of everything that one of their leaders does so yeah like when 95 year old nancy pelosi is still uh speaker of the house when it which has been like relocated to bangor maine because the entire eastern seaboard south of uh baltimore is gone uh she'll they will be scrying her words for meaning the way that good morning sunday morning i love that so much why why why what okay because you know all those people are it's all geritocracy it's all just people losing their marbles and then of course there's bernie who would people point out is just as old but have you ever noticed that he's completely with it and you know why because he's grounded because unlike those psychos he knows he's going to die and he wants it to mean something and that's why he's not lost in in anywhere but himself because in himself his can he can't bear it he cannot bear to be himself if you're if you're donald trump or you're joseph biden you can't bear to be yourself because you spent your entire lives focusing yourself completely and totally around acquisition built around an individual ego and the maintenance of and and reification of that into a world power global power that is at your fingertips and you've destroyed countless lives to do it on purpose but it's going to end and even if you have convinced yourself you're immortal and that you don't think about death that's just because you've crammed it so far down that it's driving you insane it's driving you insane and that's what and that's what's pushing obviously like you know uh bodily entropy does a lot to it but there's something also driving it there's something also pushing the ***** uh play-doh through the the tube that like you know the grate to make it give it a different shape and that is this this fleet of this flight away from the reality of their mortality bernie on the other hand he doesn't have the ghosts that they do he is not breathed by uh by like the the scores of uh at least not as many of course obviously you know he's he's a senator he ran for president he's got blood on his hands the way anybody in power does but did those 0:48:30 in a pursuit of a greater goal and i think that is what keeps him now that's what keeps him here that's what keeps him on point because he doesn't have to flee from the moment where he's dying he can stay in the moment because yeah he's dying so i got stuff to do neither biden or trump can be in the moment because the moment is death the moment is decrepitude the moment is confusion fear dimming bodily failure and the terror that cannot be felt because it is everything it was totalizing its death itself because it's right there nancy and i feel like because i'm a guy i think i get trump and biden's specific senile like flight from uh from the moment of mortality but pelosi because i think she's a woman and you know there's certain experiences 0:49:32 that aren't known from one or the other of those divides uh she ends up going good morning sunday morning but it's the same thing i think it's the yeah because you know we all think of the real horror of life is the knowledge that we're gonna die someday and that's not really it it's the fact that we once again have two things that are true that we're trying to hold in our heads simultaneously the one thing we're trying we're keeping in our head we think is true is the culturally imposed idea that we're going to die someday in the future which i believe is sitting on top of a deeper biological understanding that we all already died everyone has already died this has all happened before it will all happen again this universe that we're in has winked out of existence you have already your gravestone has both dates on it all of ours do and 0:50:34 the thing is if you know that if you have that in the background the way that when you watch a debate you have the knowledge that this doesn't have any syntactic meaning to it in the and you know it's like you're on flight 93 and it's going into the ***** uh the field like there's no thing that ends with anything other than the ***** plane crashing and you dying the only thing that matters is are you at the chair bashing your head in terror against the glass screaming your mind annihilated with a fear that you can't even comprehend or are you this the actual flight 93 itself are you aware are you able to connect emotion and intellectual belief in symbolic order 0:51:35 in such a way to believe the fundamental truth that you're not ***** separated from anything and that there's nothing to lose there is no such thing as death but that's very hard to keep in your mind when you live in this world that insists you every moment of the day in every interaction you have that strips you of your species being whips it from you tears it from you like your skin off your ***** body like you're a flayed and replaces it with this no you're gonna die someday you're gonna end this is gonna be over which flees you which which leads you in the terrible skinner box where all you're really doing is fleeing from fleeing from this towards desire and away from uh or towards pain and away from pleasure or towards pleasure and away from pain which means you do not have any independence you are literally an automat 0:52:36

you are and we all are ruled by that to an extent i mean we do know we're here we do know that when we end they're not getting any more of this we know that that's true but the degree to which that matters is the degree to which we can live and guys like trump and guys like biden have spent their entire life banging their heads with a ***** ladle to keep them on the path of acquisition of power and respect and money and their dad's head pats or whatever they think heaven is instead of knowing that it's right there always in any moment we're always right there grace is there the hand is there you can fall you'll never land you'll always be held and that's the realization 0:53:37 that can that robs that robs the questions of our life what to do with the time we do have of their mystifying benefits things that make us make wrong decisions uh emotions clouding us memories of previous events that are going to guide us in an event that doesn't need that but that's overwhelmed the task of building insane in humane society is building one where that that knowledge can be accessible to more people because the more accessible it is the more people will not need to be governed by an external authority like the market and ***** value form lording over us as like it will be because we have stripped our days of the need to pile up and not be in the 0:54:38 moment where because you know we know for a fact that like when you cry it's not because you feel sad you feel sad after you cry like we know that for a fact because of the delay of signal it's inevitable it's a quantum question so we aren't actually in charge of any of this like we don't we can't operate from that perspective because we have to live and if we're aware of that truth it makes it easier to act in that is do what you should be doing and not try to bang against that destiny because you can move one foot in front of your other as long as you're looking down but if you're looking everywhere else wilderness so someone's saying tell everyone else how to live 0:55:46 that's the thing i'm not telling anybody else how to live the whole point of all of this is telling you that i can't tell you how to live that you have to know how to live we all have to figure it out ourselves and right now the only thing that makes sense to me to do with whatever i find myself with in possession of the of the moment this this this platform this career laughably called such this skill set developed in the pursuit of those things what do i do with them right now this is what makes sense to do with them and i have to trust that if that feels like it's not true anymore that i can divorce myself from the need to acquire in the moment the need to dis uh to distort my vision of what's in front of me by the fear of lacking something in the future uh and then you can ***** act as in act according to where you should do 0:56:48 what what should be happening the the way the golden path that's always there so i'm not telling anybody how to live for the love of god the only thing i ever say is what boils down to the same thing every time i say about it and everything i said today about the ***** election all boils down to the same dumb two words log off

and i know hypocrite of hypocrites i'm doing this i know i know but you could not tell when you say log off you can't just smugly say that's it because that is asking people to essentially withdraw go through withdrawal system withdrawal symptoms of i can't even imagine the monstrosity of which i haven't been able to cut off the internet and i tell myself it's just because of my job but i also find an allure there i also find find this this sinful uh dump of of emotional energy i find that that that tantalizing and so i engage from that perspective like i try to sweeten myself so i 0:57:52 that's why it always ends up having to be turned into these longer diatribes coming at it from different angles to make up one great big banal truth that is the whole sum of like the uh uh praxis of this ***** show log off what that means to you what you can take what steps you can realistically take as opposed to no i'm gonna ***** i'm gonna get dts for the next five months out of some uh how would i even be able to sustain the faith to keep going with that kind of hardship you'd never be able to do it i know i wouldn't be i know i wouldn't be that's like you the faith the faith that's there has to be uh in some way rewarded or else the horrors of the world will overwhelm your defenses and uh everything else is entertainment like i said so there's 0:58:54 one big thing you get out of a thing like the debate and it's there's no meaning here there's one but then there's the the aesthetic enjoyment of watching it play out and making fun of it and stuff like that drained of meaning same thing drained of rather uh drained of not drained of meaning if you you know take it but drained of import it's play instead of war like i'm saying the war is log off just like the war of the election was stop listening to these people everything else is entertainment and if you find it entertaining and i think it's i think it's probably better than yelling at people on twitter for an hour watching this i think is better than yelling on twitter for an hour i will i will flatter myself to say that and if you're going to do that instead of that i mean i know that that's self-rational that's rationalizing to me rationalizing 0:59:56 to people who do it but those sort of reward uh negotiations with oneself are what give you the leeway to find oh this isn't as bad as i thought it would be oh look i'm rewarded in this way with this instead of just having this giant void that has to be filled immediately you can work your way towards it as we i like kind of someone said kind of okay i think that's what i usually end up i mean that's what i'm aiming for perfect perfect understanding is impossible total gibberish i wouldn't like that either that's self-indulgent kinda right in the middle that's what i should always be 1:1:0 shooting for because if i don't if i shoot for perfect i'm going to turn into gibberish and if i just shoot for uh you know legibility over anything it robs it of any content so i'm gonna end up uh out kicking my coverage on some concepts someone says see uh mikay's 13 assassins i highly recommend that movie that was a really good pick i have never had carvel in my life i lived briefly in uh long island and i still never had carpel it just never appealed to me i've never been a it's not that i don't like ice 1:2:1 cream cake if you give me an ice cream cake hell yeah i'm going to eat it but i i'm not going to get my own ice cream cake that would be crazy i would be a different person if i bought my own ice does logging off me to stop watching kush vlogs eventually probably yeah i would say yes when that comes just like mine will add will end at some point with me stopping doing them like that's inevitable too and we have to accept that like yeah oh this already happened this already ended and hopefully it ended because hopefully it ended because oh we don't need it anymore and not because oh he tried to crack the universe and uh you know ended up running nude on the atlantic uh uh um running noon down atlantic avenue uh or just like try to 1:3:5 ignore the voice in my head trying to get things across and just indulge myself and try to attract myself and just end up keeling over after like an arby's gorge i would not like it to end that way i would like it to end on my own terms in the sense that i i don't need to make these anymore because some i have something else in my life that fills that spot and i have to just trust that if i earnestly and with good faith comes does anyone know the score in azerbaijan anyone know who's up on that one what's all right i think that was about an hour sometimes they really fly well talk 1:4:11 to you guys hopefully soon we'll see uh and can't wait for the next debate honestly it's gonna be a real uh experiment seeing how i uh i get around to dealing with just letting it wash over me completely just letting it all wash over me so it's just noises and then i can just distinguish the noises by amusement to me talk hell world all you want but man there's something about living now obviously if you don't have the boot of capital directly on your neck if you're privileged enough to be in that position there's something vertiginously giddy about this whole thing ***** they they all got it they all got it they all gave it to each other to prove a point to prove a point about how it wasn't a that's the best part like we've talked about alex perrine wrote a great article about how you know the rubes are in charge now and 0:2:6 like like there used to be a divide between the hoople heads and and the leadership of the of the republican party you know there was stuff that you told people but you didn't actually care and more importantly i think even in that process is just the panopticon of online like you cannot be seen in masks you cannot be seen to care let look like you actually care about coven because to do so uh is to undermine your argument and then you got the fact that for a lot of these people like it is reality it is reality like it's not a big deal like these are not just things they tell people to keep the vote heavily up they really believe it and now they all have it they all gave it to each other and when did they do it at the ***** at their little uh witch's coven with the uh amy kobe bryant their little end zone dance on the ***** uh on on the supreme court they oh man i don't think any of them are going 0:3:7 to die though as funny as it is to imagine especially like the idea of him dying like a week before the election uh i mean people said that about rbg how funny would it be if she died two months before the election how funny would it be if trump died of corona a month before the election once again how funny would it be if biden the sleepwalking geriatric got that nomination over like 20 strivers how funny would it be if trump beat hillary the funniest answer has been the most predictive one and i think that's not just being facile it's because what is comedy like comedy is surprise comedy is a is is something uh defying expectation and we live in the moment when all expectations are being annihilated by the accelerating crisis and the lack of our political institution and media institution uh their fundamental lack of flexibility in 0:4:10 dealing with it their incapability of dealing with it which means that what we get is the funniest outcome i don't know where the hell those birds are but they're getting really loud lately they've not been this loud before is it the time of year do they know that the super volcano is about to erupt or something is this like the beginning of uh the core when all the birds like geolocators get messed up by the failure of the earth's core to create electromagnetic field and they just it would be funny if he has to debate biden from a hospital bed oh man are you saying the audio's choppy 0:5:20 because the thing is i went with the uh plug-in to the computer because people said it actually was better and specifically they said it was louder which i know has been a consistent criticism uh so i wanted to do this because i i think it might work but if it's choppy i'll go back to the should you vote for kanye in oklahoma i mean if you think it'd be funny i mean why it's not my choice you're the one doing it i mean kanye to me is a little played out at this point i mean i'm not voting for biden but i don't vote for kanye or howie hawkins for that matter if i'm gonna just do something to amuse myself it's gonna be to amuse myself you know and kanye is not music to me at this point he's a little played out so uh i don't know yet i might write in bernie just as like a i think maybe the funniest thing you could do is vote in write 0:6:24 in hillary clinton which i might do that might be the funniest thing you could do is write in hillary clinton i'm still with her folks i'll i will also yeah voting for everything except president like they did in michigan in the tens of thousands which helped kill hillary's chances of the presidency that's another that's another strong move uh well i want to say one thing is that there's already been some argument about like all right say bye say trump dies soon hilarious hilarious and then presumably it would 0:7:26 be up to the rnc and who that they would like be the candidate and i think they would probably just pick pence for continuity reasons and the question is like was does that help the republicans or hurt them and i've seen some people argue that it helps them because it might get those suburban republicans who hate trump back in the fall but i think that that number would be dwarfed by the number of trump warriors who would just be broken by it and would not vote for pence wouldn't vote at all more likely to show up at the polls with like a an ar-15 and it would be funny though if the q people insist he's not dead and he becomes like the false dimitri or something just like he's like the occluded motty of american politics and they just keep waiting for trump to come back i do think that if he dies they should 0:8:28 give him a viking funeral in one of the beautiful boats get him out into one of those shitty lakes that all those people like to tool around in on all saturdays have don junior don jr tries to do it and he ***** up like 15 times like edward tully he can't get the thing and then they try eric tries it he can't do it either and then ivanka

CUSHVLOG 90. DAHMER IS DEAD

comes in like the some people say he doesn't he's not sick i don't believe that because i mean frankly that's that seems like cue stuff to me oh he's not really he doesn't really have it it's all a ruse uh it goes against his narrative is the big thing i have a problem with that like okay sure what it means he doesn't have to do a debate maybe or it gets people to have sympathy for him but it cuts undercuts the whole argument he's made which is that it isn't a big deal how is it not a big deal if the entire white house has it and i guess they're thinking like well this old ***** gets it it doesn't die then people will think it isn't a big deal either but i mean at this 0:9:29 point it's so close to the election that his not available that they're going to keep that secret is like thinking that they're executing john legend and chrissy teigen and guantanamo bay and but the tweets are gonna be great i can't wait to see the tweets of him quarantine just watching even more tv than he usually does not being able to 0:10:33 go to the rallies uh the fact that everyone has it though is so funny mike lee's got it which means there's probably a couple other senators that have it this could honestly be the one thing that stops them from getting amy uh joseph coney on the on the on the hilarious i mean those senators must be terrified because there's they're old as ***** although of course you know rand paul had it earlier in the year and he didn't he didn't give it to anybody who died virginia foxx that awful gorgon from uh i think south carolina she didn't die either because god delights in human evil and when i say god i mean of course yellow boweth the ***** demiurge he loves them and he's going to keep him alive he's going to protect his arch gods he'll protect his archops he's got their back folks i had the corona and i'm fine in fact i have more 0:11:51 powers i can smell time now i can smell it i can smell the time yes for the time it is i smell and i i do wonder if he's going to take hydrochloroquine because he kind of suggested that he was taking it a few months ago but of course you can never tell what's real and what's carnival barkery i realized looking through my notes from uh the uh comey rule that we watched and talked about on the last episode that i missed i forgot to say one thing about the show which is uh there's a scene where he's talking to kony where where brennan gleason is doing his irish trump like top of the martin luther i'm donald trump i'm here to talk to you about pre-president uh and he goes and he's he's talking about how he doesn't listen to experts or uh you 0:12:52 know political people he talks to tv people because tv people actually have uh stakes in their jobs they can if they don't get ratings they lose and so they have to be right now of course that's very easy to undermine and point out the absurdity of because no they don't have to be right they just have to be entertaining but that shows that trump understood american politics better than anybody at the time and why he won more than anything is that he understood that being entertaining is being right it's entertaining is correctness it's because eyeballs are all that matters which honestly

is why i think this could hurt him badly because uh in the last episode uh felix was suggesting that trump might win if he can just use the next month to maximize like 0:13:54 to what he did in the debate every day in terms of just getting everyone so disgusted and exhausted that instead of voting to turn the volume down they just stop voting they just stay home and then the rabid rump of trump supporters is enough to just sneak them over the finish line thanks to of course voter suppression and outright fraud and all the stuff that we know they're gonna do one way or the other uh and i think this really hurts his chance to do that he's in quarantine for two weeks now i mean what's he gonna do i did not predict this on twitter by the way somebody made a fake tweet about me that was very funny but no that did not happen i did not say he was gonna do that i did predict though uh talking about the debate that he would condemn biden uh for being racist due to passing due to writing the crime bill and say that all cops hate him because he is uh a puppet of antifa and blm in the same answer and he did it he did it in the same ***** answer which is just 0:14:57 so ma and more than anything reminds you that these people are not operating off of premises or political motivation political ideology they just have a few lumps of facebook lard in their brain they're shuffling around at any given moment and then barfing up which is why he's beloved because that's true of everyone who likes him they don't have political ideas they have they have a facebook feed that provides them with something to tell people about what they're mad about on a day-by-day basis but none of it connects to each other none of it coheres into a hole none of it has any uh coherency to speak up they're it's all isolated the only people who are threading things together of course are the q people but they're doing it at a level of like esoteric uh analysis that is beyond even talking points it's it's pulling things out of the talking points those birds are losing it up there wow oh if this is a if they are 0:16:18 ravens and they're they're quoting if they interrupt me when i go back inside here and i'm pouring over my quaint and curious volumes of forgot lore i am going to be mega pissed i'm gonna come out here like betty draper with a ***** bb gun no i'm not they're fine i i always get mad i guess people always yell at me when i talk about 0:17:19 anarchism so i'm not going to talk about it too much just to say that it's a way for people to think that they're good guys it's a way to be like i want all the good stuff without any of the bad stuff and since it's all at the level of labels it doesn't really matter but what matters is like how you are operating off of those labels because one thing i know from like dealing even in the minimum way that i have with like the micro sects and you know emerging tendencies within the self-conscious left in this country which is to say political cosplayers myself included there's no real coherence there anymore as there is the people like trump and facebook grandparents like there are uh mls like people who i've seen call themselves you know in dsa for example

like call themselves marxist leninists who uh demand like regional autonomy for like their dsa chapter from a national that's the exact opposite of leninism as it applies to party structure like leninism means democratic centralism which is like something 0:18:21 like psl has where there is a line that is enforced after a vote once the vote is taken the line is enforced and you've got people who call themselves marxist leninist saying no no i want my chapter to be able to do whatever it wants well that's not what what it's just because the words have resonance the words mean things emotionally uh and then they want to apply those regardless of what it means to their actual lives and that's not a huge deal as long as it doesn't obscure your ability to see what's happening in front of you because i really don't think any of those labels mean anything when the nut cutting time comes when people have to get offline and uh and engage with their hate to use oh ***** they're saying he's gonna get i mean i 0:19:32 don't know if that means hydrochloroquine it would surely be funny if he took that oleander extract that my pillow guy is flogging which is apparently actually deadly i gotta say though if he bounces back in two weeks and he's fine i kind of think that's the most likely scenario because he shouldn't be alive now but ***** he shouldn't be alive period he should not be alive what actuarial table tells you that a man who is the who is the exact shape of a frigidaire refrigerator and eats nothing but gristle for three meals a day should be alive at the age so maybe he is 0:20:33 impervious maybe he's like his of course if he was uh if he is if he is felled by quack medicine he will not be the first president to be killed by uh uh quack medicine uh i think we've talked about it on the stream before but george washington father of our country was killed by a guy a doctor whose for whatever the hell uh he had i'm not sure i don't know if anyone knows what he had but it was it was one of those classic went out went out and rode in the rain and came home and got ill you know type of situations pneumonia or something he just bled him he's just like he's still sick got to get more blood out of there and he literally just draculed the father of our country to that and then of course there's uh garfield who was killed by his quack doctor 0:21:35 friend uh who insisted on sticking uh unsanitized fingers into the bullet hole and then most damagingly of all refused to allow him to be fed orally but instead rectally which caused him to over the course of his uh attempted convalescence to lose like 60 pounds which made it much harder for him to fight off the infection which could have been defeated if they had just uh sewn them up after the gunshot because the bullet didn't hit anything anything vital it got lodged like in i'm trying to think of anybody else died of uh i mean nelson rockefeller who was the unelected vp for ford uh he died 0:22:37 pretty funny he he died william henry harrison famously said to have died because he uh gave a speech in the rain and got pneumonia that's possible but my opinion is is that he died for the same reason that zachary taylor died and james polk right

after his term ended which is during the 1840s there was behind the white house about a couple hundred yards maybe not even that far a giant sewage lagoon a huge open air pit of human feces which most likely gave cholera to one they said zachary taylor died from milk and cherries there was also a theory for a long time that he was 0:23:38 poisoned by the slave power to stop him from uh resisting um allowing slavery into western the western territories claimed in the mexican war but he was most likely killed by the in fact zachary taylor i think i think it's a while ago now i think it's like 20 years ago he was um disinterred because they wanted to test his body for arsenic because arsenic lasts very long in the human body and you can actually uh do test sport in hair you don't even have to do an autopsy so they they um they they dug them up and they cut some hair loose but they didn't find any arsenic coolies just had a heart attack i thought while shaving i believe tr presidents don't die like they used to they don't die at all they live forever ***** uh jimmy carter is 96 now he has had a brain tumor for five years herbert hoover also lived into his 90s and of course ronald reagan uh bush these guys they have all the adrenochrome 0:24:40 like they've literally taken all everyone else's uh animal spirit into themselves and allowed them to live forever because they they don't suffer the same health risks that the rest of us do because they pile up our our labor to so i mean somebody will die prematurely at some point but i don't know i don't know i wouldn't want to 0:25:42 bet on which one it is sure not going to be obama you know he's got the best he's got the best of during have you read about the bloody uh baron unger sternberg in the russian civil war i have in fact i highly recommend the book the bloody white baron about him because that is an insane story uh so during the russian civil war you might know this or not you know there was uh the the basic geography was is that the bolsheviks held roughly the center of the russian empire's territory and then around the edges were a number of rebel armies under different commands which is the big reason that the bolsheviks won against them against such long odds and against you know the combined attempted intervention of the uh of the allies from 0:26:43 world war one is that they held the middle they held the middle area which means that they had internal lines of defense and stuff and and they could coordinate in a way that the white armies just couldn't uh and there was one white army uh under a uh like an old prussian aristocrat named uh under baron ungers von sternberg had a ragtag army in mongolia where he essentially declared himself like a reincarnated uh buddha and had like kind of a weird quasi-mystic buddhist uh cannibal army in the mongolian hinterland before the uh before the before he was finally defeated by the bolsheviks and executed there's a very interesting um moment there because after 0:27:44 he was caught he was brought to a nearby city and displayed for the town like they put him on a stage and people came and watched him and like asked him questions about what he had done and he defended himself before they uh before they i think hanged him but he was a complete psycho uh and yeah he thought he was like he was a god on earth he was a very much a colonel kurt situation uh and he had his his guys massacring civilians and and deserters and and he made deals with like local uh uh like buddhist mongolian religious leaders to to like co-rule with him interesting very interesting story and uh there's a detail from that book that i think is one of the most chilling things i've ever i've ever encountered which is that uh when one of the um one of the romanovs one of the one of the one of the girls while she was in captivity and they found out later um her she had written while she was in uh in 0:28:46 her cell wherever she had like a journal and she was drawing swastikas she just was drawing she had drew in a bunch of swastikas this is like 1918 uh because you know the nazi party did it emerged from an esoteric tradition in among uh specifically among european aristocracy which sternberg was representing which the romanovs were part of which uh ended up in germany finding expression in the tool society which was a group of esoteric cultic wealthy germans who backed the nazis in the early era so i recommend that book it's very it's it's short it's well written uh and 0:29:48 there's lots of they're saying he has a high fever oh ***** god if he does die **Music playing** he dies before the election i mean if he died before the election how could we handle that like he has been this man has been the single focus of the emotional energy of what i'd say 50 million americans something like that either against him or for him like he has been the star that their psychic world has revolved around we have all even if we don't have that much emotional investment in him as a person 0:30:49 we've all been living in his brain for the last four years and if he just was oh yeah he's gone now before this election that's supposed to be this titanic contest that might might turn into a civil war according to everybody who's secretly jacking off for that to just be like yeah i know it's over one of the greatest anti-climaxes of all time one of the great um one of the great uh ***** blockings honestly just an entire nation i'm trying to think there's a book or a movie or something that's got like one of those just hilariously anticlimactic endings the closest thing we have to esoteric rightism 0:31:51 in this country now and you and if you saw that feels good man documentary and the interview with the with the uh with the with the magician guy it's probably like 4chan it's probably it's probably forums it's probably reactionary forums full of those like in-cell child molesters who just concentrate have so much time on their hands that they can cont and that they can they can collectively concentrate their will on creating memes that they charge with dark power and then put out into the world i would say that more than q just because q is it's less self-conscious i 0:32:52 think like these people don't these people think they're doing normal politics is the thing for now i think that's going to change as q gets more intense and and more

broke but for now it's like they're normal they're they think they're normal still is q christian it's not only christian but it is largely christian it's its earliest proponents are definitely uh evangelicals there's it still is like i say fundamentally evangelical and 0:33:53 i would say also and i talked about this with sean on uh history as a weapon that just came out where we talk about cube that the the new age people who are now part of hugh are essentially secular evangelicals the way that scientologists are you know like everyone's essentially an evangelical in this country because at least everyone who is pursuing the american dream self-consciously is an evangelical because the american dream is the dream of everyone being god which is of course why mormons are the ideal americans and the ones who have done the best at a synthesizing uh a way of life out of american capitalism because they were the first ones to twitch onto what america really meant and they went out west where there was still land they grabbed some even though it was ***** and by virtue of the fact that they sublimated uh capitalism into their social fabric they were able to present the they were able to 0:34:54 prevent the the deracination that happened to everybody else uh but but you know everyone is seeking that they're the only ones who have it as a theological uh principle but everyone is seeking gut to be seeking godhood on earth and it's it's it's it's why we are consuming the world because the american dream is that the the access to material excess that used to be the province of gods on earth kings emperors sat traps potentates is now and and like the idea of a social good well there's a math i could it's not hard math problem to show why that's not sustainable and that's why we need a new uh a new religious framework a new spiritual uh and value framework that 0:35:56 that d that de-emphasizes material not not in the interest of austerity for everybody like oh you know like the way carter did hey you guys should you guys should stop uh stop being so materialistic and save some energy it's like well ***** how about you create a world where that's even possible you know uh it's about changing the social inputs in such a way that uh that living is possible living in the absence of striving for material gain well it says abundance for everybody but abundance is 0:36:58 what you know like abundance if it's abundance in hamburgers if it's abundance in ***** high fructose corn syrup if it's abundance in mcmansions that's not a viable most social model like abundance has to be defined socially like everyone should have an abundant access to to the what is best in life but what that is can't be determined by the market because the market's answer what is best in life uh chillin um no what is best in life sure ***** is not crushing your enemies and seeing them 0:38:16 driven before you that might be good in hyperborea but we have we now have our we are not we understand ourselves as part of a someone wants to know what books to recommend on john brown uh obviously if you want to write a novel which has a lot like it has it has a lot of like if you want to know like what happened in terms of

just bare facts there's a lot of accuracy that's very well researched cloud splitter uh but uh there's also a kind of considered a pretty uh authoritative biography from david reynolds called john brown abolitionist the man who killed slavery sparked the civil war and ceded what's the progressive international is this a replacement of the fake pathetic because honestly i feel like that's going backwards into terminology progressive is one of my least favorite words on earth there was a period of a brief period when i was all headed with the concept of bernie winning and and uh you know and if not bringing about social democracy at least changing the game and i'm imagining a world where in the future you know that battle has been fought and uh i always thought it'd be fun to write a book in that position about elizabeth warren called the last progressive just the idea of warren at that i mean that if bernie won of course if uh uh warren representing sort of the last gasp of of the progressive uh tradition in america but sadly that did not happen not don't like that word is that something from giannis versus fakas because i absolutely i think that his analysis his his analysis uh of the situation and his insistence that we need to think in terms of building institutions that transcend national boundaries is very very true like i think this idea that you're gonna i understand the argument and i agree with it that in the current moment national political institutions are the only ones that people can have any effect on really and so that's where people have to focus their energy but i think there has to be an eye at all times on the on the necessity to transcend that because because international cooperation is going to be the only way that we mitigate the worst of the crisis we're in but he doesn't seem to really have a very project going on i know that his uh his election his his party or whatever in eu is is not doing is very doing very poorly i like nietzsche someone asks what's my thoughts on nietzsche i'm a big i'm a fan gets a bum rap mostly thanks to his no he didn't kill god we killed god he just noticed i don't think he was a reactionary uh and and yeah he didn't like socialism because he was he was repelled by any kind of uh you know uh any project that sublimated like the individual like that and then yeah because he was a romantic it's but like there's still use useful stuff there things someone's asking about like the idea of like using nationalism and patriotism to sell socialism i think any at this point i think we should see that there is no future in branding that that what we're branding is too hegemonically capitalist to accommodate a alternative within it that could genuinely challenge it yeah we should because like when people talk about like bernie wasn't uh like patriotic enough or he didn't he didn't like salute the troops enough or whatever that all feels like people uh pippin picking that ***** out of peppa because that was not the thought he did not run on like america the united snakes he ran on boilerplate america is a great country and it deserves the great you know system and all that stuff there was no way to add to that that was gonna that was going to change the fundamental dynamic which is that somebody 0:44:31 somebody in that field is gonna have to is going to be pitching themselves to a specific group of people i.e voters and those voters are going to be taking their cues if they're democrats specifically from a media apparatus and from a party that is just fundamentally incapable of assimilating that level of uh of government intervention into the to into our blessed neoliberal uh market system and there's no way around that and i and i and i think people thinking of ways to you know buff it up and and and throw some uh throw some cool uh tires onto it and turn it into a ***** suv with a big american flag or something none of that is going to change the the under the fundamental issue which is that what alienates people from bernie among the people you needed him not to be alienated by are two things one if you are a voter if you're a democratic voter you are taking your cues from the democratic party and 0:45:32 from the media apparatus which means that it's a non-starter there's not enough amer america flag kissing he could do and secondly the second group uh are not paying attention so they don't ***** notice if he's wearing a flag pin they don't care if he's wearing a ***** truck or hat they're not paying attention and that is the problem and if they're not paying attention to politics i don't think they really are humping the symbols of patriotism in such a way that they are like just incantation and also like all that patriotic stuff like that's all coded already like you can't pry that stuff away from its context like when people talk about patriotism they're not just using it as a as a broad concept it's connected to other specific sub-concepts that 0:46:33 are antithetical to a socialist project prying it off prying it off is not the easy task that people think it is and i think it's it's because of that it's more fruitful to look lower to look to look to more basic stuff than to the democrats are will go for q and r over time as i've said everyone who is politically minded will go queuing on over time because things are going to keep getting worse politics is going to continue not 0:47:36 intersecting with actual conditions and that means that you're either going to have to stop paying attention which a lot of people are going to do and just check out from it but the ones who keep paying attention on all sides of the aisle are going to have to get more and more intensely esoteric with their parsing of symbols in order to invest the whole pageant because like q started with a very simple from a very simple crisis point like we talked about how you know it's the difference between the america they find themselves in in the america that they have in their head but more specifically it happened because trump was to them the guy who was going to make america great again he was going to fix the problems he was going to get rid of the sickos he was going to more than anything be the revenging angel against the people who they blame because resentment is the engine of politics at this point on all sides and then he got in there and he didn't do it nobody went to jail hillary for one thing like lock her up was the essential like forget great america great again 0:48:39 lock her up was as important if not more so a slogan of 2016 trump campaign and did he lock her up no in fact at one point he even admitted that he wasn't going to lock her up in front of a bunch of hooting chuds after he got elected he says to him that was good for the campaign that was fun but yeah like he was just telling these people you actually ***** thought we were going to throw some hillary clinton in jail i don't and so that was what they had to square trump's supposed to be putting these people in jail he's supposed to be cleaning out the swamp and yet everything's the same it's because it's happening behind the scenes well democrats do that too like with all their with obama with all the 11 dimensional chess stuff and like queen pelosi uh how she's got a trick up her sleeve that's only going to get more and more intense like biden gets in there and does nothing about the crisis which is probably going to happen democrats are going to go get q brain 2 even more so to try to parse now because q exists and is coded as trump and republican 0:49:41 and reactionary it will look differently it'll self-consciously be different because they will have this example that they're not going to want to be like but in content in terms of its motivation and the engagement between politics and their world like the way that they are approaching it not as um exercise of power that's happening in public that you're observing but as a secret coded veil that you have to pierce they gave regeneron to trump they're not giving him regeneron that sounds like a uh that 0:50:44 sounds like a drug in in like a robocop remake like some sort of rich person stem cell thing that gives you a tail and a oh if he they gave him energon cubes we're ***** uh if if donald trump turns into a decepticon i don't think it matters how many proud boys show up oh regeneron is the company okay that's still that's also sounds creepy that's like a company so what if melania dies and trump doesn't wouldn't that be 0:51:48 funny melania dies at the covet and he survives i think harris would beat pence if it every trump dies except baron and then he becomes the the false dimitri who who 0:52:49 emerges to lead that nation through its the bloody white baron von baron trump he's huge he's absurdly huge and he is uh he is a virgin chad he is the he is he is the synthesis that dork one time said that trump was gonna complete the cycle of german idealism he didn't know that it was barron not donald because you see him he's this giant man ***** that's true somebody says the selection's between a german 0:54:8 catholic and a german protestant it's 30 years ***** uh i have read about 30 years awards pretty intense honestly kind of crazy how little an effect it has on popular culture considering how hair-raisingly monstrously violent it was uh the number of people who died uh in germany was absolutely catastrophic i'm trying to find the uh 0:55:10 the death toll but i think they estimate like a quarter of the german population or something like that died during the war entire regions completely disrupted spoiled swedish armies marching like ***** locusts across the countryside and just destroying towns and castles and villages yeah the swedish army itself destroyed one third of all towns in germany over 1500 sweden the uh the most interesting players in this 30 years war were of course the french because france was of a catholic power of europe uh but it fought with the protestant league against the catholics because the catholics were led by the habsburgs and the habsburgs were considered a greater 0:56:12 threat to the bar bones than uh than any kind of any any uh potato eating uh ***** scandals and square heads in fact it was a catholic cardinal cardinal rich lou himself are not rich luke uh a different guy who uh who advised france to get into that war on the which of course means it was not just a religious conflict it was good old-fashioned power politics which is people forget that uh people of course forget that sweden was a world power in europe uh in the in the 16th and 17th century uh in 18th century they actually had a north american colony delaware and parts 0:57:15 of new jersey were were called new sweden until peter and then after charles the uh the 12th just got their asses kicked against the russians they just said we'll find we'll just do furniture from now on no more wars for us who killed palm uh gladio broadly south africans probably specifically but palm was a thorn in the side of uh of the anti-communists international that was uh by the 80s going ham in south africa in 0:58:17 latin america operation condor but it wasn't hard to kill him that's for sure you say killing a leader of a country is a bit over the top though but i mean if if the the latest revelations are right the guy who pulled the trigger was some crank because cranks are great if you have an intelligence operation uh because even if they get caught they don't they're too dysfunctional to have like live connections to anything uh and also when you look at how easy it was to kill him the dude had no body 0:59:19 guards he was leaving a movie theater with his wife and then the guy who shot him even though he was maybe just this crank got away with it and never got caught i actually don't know if the business plot is real i don't know how real the business plot was i believe that smedley butler had these conversations but i don't know if it went even beyond that but it definitely indicates that you know even though fdr was the savior of capitalism in many ways that the capitalists were not all on the same page as to whether they wanted to which is why which is the which is the value of government which is the value of democracy in a capitalist system is that it not only does it provide popular legitimacy to legitimize all the exploitation and horror of it but it also allows for the coordination of behavior that individual actors within it are never going to uh sign off on because it hurts their i just want to end on that note 1:0:25 of like like what's realistic for capitalists to do uh i want to say that i just rewatched for a first time in a number of years michael clayton which i think is getting it's people are talking about it more and more these days uh and a movie that came out

in that great year the last great american movie you're an american film 2007. there will be blood no country for old men zodiac before the devil knows you're dead uh and michael clayton that's just off the top my head there's more than i'm not even remembering uh and i think now clayton might be the best one of those honestly just because it is in my mind just the perfect legal thriller it's like it is it does everything that it could do with the material that is that it's made up of it the performances are amazing tom wilkinson obviously is fantastic but clooney has never been better 1:1:26 than that movie he does so much stuff with his face so he's just like he's this twitchy mask that's always looking like it's going to pop open really good stuff um but if you haven't seen the movie spoiler alert uh turn i'm gonna stop after this so you can log off if you wanna go watch it and i highly recommend going and watching it uh so if you don't want a spoiler drop off now uh because i will just be wrapping up here after i finish saying this so the plot of the movie is that uh tom wilkinson is this big shot lawyer with this firm that's defending a agricultural agribusiness giant against the lawsuit from a bunch of farmers in wisconsin that they gave them that they sold them a fertilizer that gave them all cancer and it's been going on for years but in the middle of a deposition uh tom wilson has a psychotic break and freaks out and and uh the firm brings in george clooney who's the fixer he doesn't do litigation he 1:2:27 just rough he just smooths over ***** for people uh which is something that out the capital system needs those lubricants a guy to patch over uh the rough spots and and do the things that are not within the realm of the law necessarily and they bring him in because he's a friend with him to to talk him down but at one point eventually uh the head of the internal uh legal team for the uh agricultural company played by tilda swinton uh hires these dudes to kill tom wilkinson and then later uh george clooney after it looks like he's getting too close to the case and she's working on behalf of uh this the big the ceo of the company who's played by uh he was ed truck in the office uh also uh on 30 rock he was uh hank hooper and i think what's really well observed about it is that and i remember at the time when it came out ross 1:3:28 douthit complained that it was unrealistic because a corporation wouldn't just have someone killed it wouldn't just have people killed because it's a corporation they have zillions of dollars like even if they lose this lawsuit and the like the big thing hinges on the fact that uh the litigator the tom wilkinson character has a document that's like a absolute smoking gun that these guys knew the drug killed people knew that uh the fertilizer killed people and didn't do anything about it like the stuff that means you're dead you're ***** you're gonna you're gonna have to spend is that the order doesn't come from the top guy the order doesn't come from hank hooper the ceo because even if this comes out what's the worst thing that happens he has to retire two years early right he has to take his golden parachute parachute uh a little ahead of time before he goes and golfs like oh maybe he has to go in front of congress like he's not going to jail he'll be fine the stockholders will take a hit they'll be pissed at him but like there's insurance it'll all be fine the person who orders the hit is tilda swinton because for her the stakes are vastly higher because if this goes south her career is ruined she doesn't have the golden parachute she's just she's just like halfway up the mountain she doesn't want to get thrown to the bottom she has the fear of falling and that is where all of the nonstress extra legal stuff happens not at the commanding heights because the guys at the commanding heights they're not really at risk of anything our system exists to completely uh protect them from any real consequences of their actions because like paying a fine with somebody else's money and then like resigning your job is not a real consequence for killing in this case like hundreds of people with a ***** uh fertilizer uh or a pesticide of life rather um it's people in the middle it's people who want that and aren't there yet and could maybe face real consequences if something happened because they could go to jail those are the people who who who pull the trigger or order others to pull the trigger are those the guys who would do something like have a hit off olaf almost okay i'm gonna i'm gonna log off here but first some uh halloween movie recommendations good idea halloween three season of the witch you don't even have to have seen the first two because it's totally disconnected which is hilarious because they wanted to make it into an anthology series after the third after the second one but then nobody liked it so they went back to the michael myers stuff which first two are good after that it's like no they should they should have stuck with the with the idea of a anthology anthologies are highly underrated especially horror anthologies uh and on that uh third sequel second sequel tip exorcist three uh the one directed by the writer of exorcist a a wahhabist catholic william peter blatty who also made a great movie called the ninth configuration the only two movies he ever directed and both of them are really good um fright night two you mean a sequel to the original one with william ragsdale and uh and roddy mcdowell i didn't know there was a sequel to that that was a movie i saw a bunch as a kid fright night too oh no this is a sequel to the remake and it doesn't even have the same cast uh let me think of some other ones yeah three and a half stars that's good people under the stairs is fun i like the evil dead 2 yes of course army of darkness 2 army of darkness 2 even though that's not scary i did i recently watched wake and fright which is not i don't think really a horror movie except for the scene where they shoot they really shoot all those kangaroos which is pretty gruesome but i do like to think that it is a horror movie where the premise is what if you had to hang out with australians oh and uh in john carpenter uh on john carpenter tip uh obviously the thing but prince of darkness which is underrated and the mouth of i did see miracle mile that movie is

nuts uh that's a great uh nuclear holocaust paranoia movie where anthony edwards overhears someone on the phone saying that there's a nuclear missile headed towards los angeles in like four hours and they have to try to get out i gotta say i haven't really liked a lot of these new these new fangled horror films i haven't seen one in a bit that i miracle mile is the one about the nuclear uh attack on los angeles that actually would make a nice in terms of like the time frame some of the setting uh it would actually make a good double feature with knight of the comet if anyone's seen that which is about a couple of attack yeah i'm gonna watch the new invisible man soon before the before the oh ***** there was a fright night too in 1988 and it's out of oh it's not available anywhere is it okay i gotta see that because that because the original fright night is is a foundational movie for me the scene when evil turns into a ***** uh like a wolf man thing after he gets the steak that's that's seared in my mind you're so all right i gotta try to find i gotta find try to find fight night two all right guys monster squad of course bye-bye folks stay frosty and uh get well soon okay well soon president trump lol uh we interrupt critter vision to bring you this important news president donald trump has ***** out his due due ass early reports indicate that the due ass has been lost in the sewer system of the white house as a result the president is now assless that's right president the flash coming from washington apparently official 5 pm eastern standard time the president has ah so he's going home tonight so 0:1:6 everything's fine i don't know why everyone was freaking out thinking that he might be sick he'll be fine they just pumped him full of a uh they pumped him full of hunter s thompson's trunk load of experimental drugs over the course of like three ***** days he's gacked out on mind bending steroids and they're gonna send him home because he's bored it's fine i don't know why anyone is saying anything other than that you're pretty owned if you think that he's got any problems that he's in trouble at all he'll be fine we're on track now for the herman cain which would be the funniest possible outcome he runs he does not die before the election he runs he loses to biden in a kind of an anticlimactic landslide and then he dies like a week later of comand that is officially i've looked at it by any metric that's by cosmic irony by just just desserts i mean just removing the fact of joe biden being elected 0:2:8 president while being completely unaware of his surroundings that's funny regardless of who he's running against you put these things together and then him dying of the disease that he said didn't have exist for six months it's too funny for words so that's why i'm thinking it might have to happen is because he is on the herman cain track because herman chain recovered he was doing good for a little bit there but i will say this trump might not die he is already an abomination he is a medical oddity that he's alive regardless of coronavirus this human refrigerator of ***** uh pig meat this guy who's hard as a canned ham uh being alive at this point is is absolutely defiant of all science and reason so he could survive kobe but i don't think his swag will ever come back i don't think he will ever be the trump who haunts the nightmares of libs and uh jolts the groins of our nation's mega faithful or amuses 0:3:9 the uh the coping and uh uh allegedly detached overproduced elites who listen to podcasts but like he's not gonna be able to golf never gonna be able to go like they said today they asked him does he have did he have lung damage and they said that's a hipaa violation they said what his ***** blood pressure was is that not a hippie hipaa violation he's ***** like his body is cashed who might live for another 20 years like just hovering around in one of those dune sensor belts but he's uh he's never going to be the swaggering pimp uh rolling rolling through uh hooting crowds throwing out plague infested hats to him uh he's absolutely leaving against a medical advice there's i mean you not only was he leaving against the medical device he also took a bunch of experimental high uh highly dangerous drugs for old people uh because he told them to it's called vip syndrome or something like that uh where like if you have enough because doctors can only kind of like browbeat you into doing things using their authority over you as medical professionals and eventually for most people your confidence gives out in the face of medical certainty but trump not only is his confidence never going to give out in the face of anything he is the president of the united states he's got the nuclear football three feet from it at any time so he took all those crazy drugs with uh just because he wanted uh he wanted to get it over with he wanted to fix it because this whole thing has always been finding a silver bullet to just fix it because he doesn't want to think about it anymore okay he doesn't want to think about anything revolving around vulnerability or frailty because it's because death is is what stalks him because his consciousness is the only thing that's real in the universe he can't even conceive of his own death which is why he acted the way he did after he got diagnosed which is amazing he went to a like going to ohio and throwing his hat into the crowd okay like those people he they're nothing they're they're they're pawn swan he has no he has no uh respect or need for them but he went to a ***** 250 000 a plate fundraiser in new jersey and coughed all over the buffet for a bunch of high level that republican donors like you either do that because you are some sort of like uh sneaker agent like there was a joke early in his term that he was actually some maoist third world is trying to bring the empire down from within or you just don't even think of it like the idea oh no they're gonna i mean obviously you don't care if anybody else gets sick but there are certain people you probably wouldn't want to get sick because it makes it harder for you to do whatever you want to do but that's still you can't like split the baby that way there's nothing but delusion all the way down and that i think is why it's useful to talk about capitalism as only operating out of its own perceived self-interest because even though it is this algorithm you know the value form that dictates human decisions uh you know at the uh there still has to be a human involvement uh in directing like the optimal you know flows and living that life of of you know maximal profits extraction or or the life of um being amongst people these people these these lizards these non-human entities who rule over us

CUSHVLOG 91. THERE IS NO SWAG IN GILEAD

who's who have no human feelings like they do not have human feelings the way that regular people do which was always very useful about limited people as a metaphor because they are reptilian even if they aren't actual reptiles uh but what that means but you can't live that way you can't live as a human being constrain the way humans are like you're gonna die like this is all gonna end everything you've done everything you've piled up it's just going to sit there and someone else is going to use it and you're it's not going to be you and like dealing with that reality is what brings us to groundedness it brings us to an awareness of our vulnerability and our and the value of others because others will be here after you're gone and if you truly value other people you will find sucker in their persistence after your death and it will make dying being aware of your death getting closer to it over time more bearable but they don't have that so they just have to believe they have to deny that it is going to happen like they are psychically uh fixed around an idea of their consciousness persisting eternally and like the ones who think they're smart channel that into uh life extension ***** like the peter thiels and the jeffrey epstein's oh they're gonna cut my they're gonna put my brain in a robot and the dumber ones like trump just don't even think about it they just pretend it won't happen and when they do have to think about it they get a little angsty and then they do something else and then the thing is that's why they're miserable because at least like a peter teal guy can have some sort of some sort of at the you know right before night comes when you're getting ready to sleep and there's that that existential chill like he can think oh yeah no i'm gonna their technology isn't there yet but i'll just take enough of this teenager blood serum to keep me younger so that i'll make it to 150 and then the robots will be there to take me into my but trump doesn't have that what he has is nothing and so he is miserable every moment of his life god that ***** thing about him about him freaking out and going am i going to go out like stanchera is dumb buddy from new york real estate and that's the thing it's like uh stancher was a friend of his they hung out but now he's dead and does he matter at all does trump think about him at all no the whole the thing he can't imagine is well that'll be me that'll be me someday that will be me sometime can't handle it and that makes that means that he not only what it does is yes obviously makes him a bad person one of the worst people we have but it also makes him dumb it makes him bad at even accomplishing his goals because it requires him to delude himself and the thing is is that up until now that hasn't really hurt him because all he's really had to do at any given moment was have people pay attention to him like he didn't like we've i've talked about it's not like his genius was never business related it was getting famous and being famous because that's what gave him a sense of validity that's what kept death away was the idea that he was known if other people know that you exist and other people are talking about you then you will never die uh and and he was and he's been so 0:10:21 singularly driven towards that goal and so ***** good at it that it has led him to the presidency because he coincidentally happened to exist at this precise moment in american history is as things were sliding towards this you know total subsumption into spectacle the one person in the position to embody that spectacle was donald trump but now there's a thing covet that does not actually care about fame like it actually is a leveler not in the sense that it affects everyone equally because obviously it affects the most vulnerable most but a thing that could hypothetically uh get you no matter what and of course he made it happen by treating it like a not a big deal because he had to treat it like a nautical deal like people say he's a germaphobe i don't think that's really true i think he thinks people are disgusting and he doesn't want to touch them i don't think he thinks he's going to get sick he's afraid of getting sick in an abstract sense just like he's afraid he's gonna die in an abstract sense but i do not think that he thinks of it in concrete terms of like getting sick in a specific 0:11:22 way you know like he's not a hypochondriac around specific ailments because that's too real uh it's he's just repulsed by everyone and they just call it germaphobia but he because the real germaphobe would have taken precautions against getting the goddamn virus and he didn't do it and that wasn't just him like well i denied it was real so i have to live that truth no he denied it was real because that was true to him and now and he was making it true to everyone else uh and that meant that he was gonna treat it and he was gonna be cavalier and now even though he was a person probably best position in this country not to get it he hasn't and it's going to ***** him up even if it doesn't kill him he's going to ***** him up there's no way it doesn't you can only think a guy like that is immortal until he dies just like him and the reality of it is hitting him and like so he's he's suffering more than usual right now he is in pain nothing's going to happen i don't know what that means i mean 0:12:23 something happens every day of every every day something happens what do you mean nothing he's not gonna die well then something else is gonna happen if that doesn't happen nothing is gonna happen this can never oh man i watched saturday night live last night i mean it was a kind of reassuring to have it back but then you watch it and you just see the way that they try to take something like that debate that we watched which was a psychotic carnival of late uh imperial uh decadence like ***** mad kick ludwig playing with his own um they turned it into something relatively normal and then of course they brought in kamala because like if you take that at face value those two old men going at it like that and neither one of them 0:13:24 having anything in their head but but like the ghosts of ideas and and memories and slights and and uh and without any connection to a greater project without any ability to express or direct the flow of events running for president it's genuinely like

i said it's freeing but also if you have any sense if you have any investment in the system terrifying and nothing has more investment in the system than something like snl snl's existence snl exists to normalize everything as it happens and turn it into just fodder and and strip it of any context and strip it of any implications so you watch if you're a regular lib if you're an snl viewer or snl writer you watch that debate the thought is oh it's okay because there's harris because there's a vp because there's a whole party who's gonna catch us even though if a guy like biden can get in that position and that's the position we vote for then clearly something is off in this equation we have we've un we have miscalibrated the ***** power dynamics in a potentially fatal way but that's okay because there's a hair come on mommy kamala is going to come mommy kamala is going to come and she's going to rest uh our head in her bosoms and lull us asleep was a nice uh a nice soft caribbean lullaby just fantasy just fantasy uh jim carrey wasn't that good i thought jason sudeikis honestly was pretty good when he was on the show and he did bite because he did it like a big dumb labrador retriever he wasn't senile enough but maybe they could have given him a little a little of that now because he mostly played him when you know during the 2016 and after that when he was still mostly known for just being a loud mouth and not and his brain hadn't really shut off now shut off completely i don't really get what jim carrey brought to it or why he's doing it it's very odd don't get it um somebody asked me about lovecraft country i've spoken a number of times about lovecraft country i i've stopped watching it uh they went to korea and i'm like okay no uh we're not we're not intersecting with everybody on this this is exactly what you don't want but i just i i brought it up uh because this person reminds me that uh uh trevor from champaign sharks who uh was a good podcast in his good twitter account uh he had a thread about lovecraft country and i thought it really hit the nail on the head in terms of one of the deep things wrong with it beyond just the woke pandering it's that it's clearly written by yes i'm sure the writer's room was was was was diverse as hell and and majority black probably uh but clearly not working class clearly not anyone who's struggled in their life uh because the concerns of these characters who were black people in 1950s chicago uh the racism they experienced is very much filtered through the concerns of like the bourgeois like moving into a white neighborhood or you know uh dealing with white co-workers like these are all the stuff of modern racial microaggressions which you know um are part of the greater pr phenomenon of american racism but are the least grounded in material conditions the most epiphenomenal to the system we have but the characters in this in the show uh you know that they don't suffer they're not dealing with racism in a class intersection at all because the people making it have no context for that that's true of the people who make all this ***** art which is why the representation argument is so hollow because at the end of the day it's just a representation of different strata of the bourgeois of relatively well-off people arguing about racism and and class and gender issues through their their least consequential lens not unsequential not meaningless but farthest from the the center of gravity of these oppressions which is where people are i'm not talking like obviously they have a lot of like intense stuff like they got shot in the diner and whatever but but that's uh but that's like with the horror genre stuff as opposed to the characters concerns themselves uh apparently they they showed the emmett till funeral playing the song cruel summer by bananarama i don't see that to me doesn't really feel like anything other than uh than just a project that is unmoored to real pain you know it just seems like it's people play acting towards oppressions that they've only everyone's excited about uh for telly tutti good old uh francis telling capitalism to back off i mean it's a good sign i'm certainly i'd rather have francis than ***** uh benedict right now uh but you know it's it's a it's a real question how any institution as borobun does the catholic church can really participate from the top down anyway in any meaningful movement but it's it's uh i have not seen i didn't know i thought the good lord bird was starting in november i'm pleased to see it started i'll watch it tonight and i will report back on the next stream i am uh i'm i'm a little worried uh it feels a little uh it felt like i said it feels a little soy it feels like john brown is a little epic they're trying to make him relatable or whatever where they're trying to make the whole thing relatable which i think is the opposite of what you should do with that material you should make it as forward and alien as possible to make you have to re-examine this ***** like over the chasm of time as opposed to trying to make it make it realistic or like relatable to to people in our position but i'm not sure yet i have to see it i still wish i sure sure wish it was michael shannon i mean ethan hawks okay he was really good in uh really good in uh first or formed but the trailer didn't give me a lot of health a little report back and then i think depending on how it is i might do an inebriated past chapo about john brown i know that uh the dollop just did a three-parter but i would do it more as like john brown uh in the context of the civil war and like his role in leading us to a civil war like his what he what he means to like the broader anti-slavery politics of the time and then of course his memory and culture what comes after trump for the gop this is of course a question that's on everyone's mind now that the ***** uh uh might be on death's door and i've i think that you will see in the immediate demise of trump either he loses in a humiliating way or i i the joke of like oh he's gonna you know like come back and run in 2024 i think that i mean now especially with the kovid that's off the table i don't think that's going to happen so that means trump is going to be gone soon and the question is how who's going to fill that role and i don't think any one person can i think that he was so sue generous i mean he is susan harris in every respect like his body is how he is a defiance of science and god to be alive and he defies political reality when he emerged on the scene he had a combination of in a fame uh and the specific type of fame like he was he was famous for being rich but not in the way that like steve forbes was because steve forbes ran for president as like a rich guy who was going to run things like a business and got his ass kicked even though he had the flat tax as a gimmick one is because taxes aren't really what's going to move people you need something more flashy if you're going to run a celebrity only campaign a 0:22:35 celebrity first campaign uh and two he was a ***** dork trump was famous for being famous but also he was famous for being or he was famous for being rich but he was also famous for being famous like he was he had a tv show he was charismatic people knew him in the same context that they knew other celebrities who they watched in performances and his performance was of a rich successful executive who made tough decisions like he was literally like the way almost identical to the way that the president of ukraine is a guy who played the president of ukraine on a tv show it's that same level where where the spectacle has subsumed the real um and that's unique no one else is going to be in that position no one else has that kind of fame or like maybe they have a shadow of it but he's been alive for 30 years so that means that he's not like mark cuban younger people might know him but like great grandpa i don't think grandparents know him people who vote don't know him trump has 0:23:36 been famous for being famous and that fame meant that he didn't even have to run put any money into his campaign his campaign was treated as news in a way that other campaigns aren't campaigns of regular can uh regular politicians they have to compete in the media for media attention they have to do because they don't have a lot of money they're beginning they have to pitch themselves in such a way that they can accumulate money they can get backers and they can get donations and then they can buy er by by uh unearned media but the earned media i mean he literally did earn that media but for being for being monomially fixated on being famous for the past 30 years 40 years or whatever he ***** earned that media that's another thing that's totally individual to him uh he was able to run uh appealing to the core sensibilities of a huge percentage of democrat of republican-based voters by appealing to things like immigration above all else and having a specific big bro 0:24:39 large-scale policy around the position of immigration it wasn't just immigration it was building the wall uh and he was able to do that while being totally independent of the party itself and having no uh being in a position to be totally unconstrained by that party's machinations like the party would never have let anybody go that ham on immigration they had their white papers from the 2012 campaign that said romney lost in part because we alienated hispanics too much so we have we cannot be anti-immigrant in this country uh and so as our main focus and our main party uh platform if we want to scare these hispanics away so they so anybody who had to be within the party and also the media like anybody other than trump had to was under the um discipline of both the media and the republican party because they require 0:25:41 both the media and the republican party to even have a spot to get to a position of patronage uh by donors and then by the media in terms of attention and uh and bylines and and minutes on tv that he didn't need to pander to there is no one in the aftermath of trump who meets those criteria some people say tucker carlson but tucker carlson is not anywhere near as famous as donald trump is and while tucker carlson might have a similar effect in the um primaries of like galvanizing the largest chunk of former uh trump supporters i do not think that his appeal translates the way that trumps did because trump's appeal was partially or significantly apolitical which trump carlson's is not and i think that you can wipe out any sitting officer you can wipe off any um actual like political office holder off of being a comparison 0:26:43 to trump cotton hawley no one uh ***** desantis anyone who holds office if you hold office you are a regular politician which means you can you're not as famous as these guys as this guy and you can never be independent of the media or of the party the way that he could be and you're also a ***** nerd you're a ***** charisma vacuum because you're not famous he is famous uh like i joke about the my pillow guy but the micropolis guy's problem is that he isn't that famous either he's just like he's part he's known by the same trump people who like tucker carlson um because we're not just talking about getting another nomination we're talking about competing for power and any of the guys who might plausibly gather in the trump base to a significant degree i don't think have the ability to transcend that base which is what made trump specific and a specifically meaningful uh political phenomenon and would make would make trumpism an enduring political phenomenon is if it can 0:27:44 compete for power and none of the people who are mentioned as potential successors to trump in my opinion i would say though that one might emerge through the process of jockeying for position in the after aftermath of trump but who that is i don't know the the times will tell that uh but one thing i would say is i think there will be a period of instability like the times of trouble in of good enough uh oh by the way this i wanted to say this about trump and pence specifically uh before i forget so trump is was in the hospital for the weekend first president to be checked in the hospital 0:28:45 since reagan got shot uh he was on a bunch of wild drugs including a very powerful steroids that are that have significant psychological side effects hallucinations and at no point was anyone seriously talking uh no like him him holding power you know 25th amendment short term just and i think that speaks to the fact that trump is not not appointed a successor and certainly if he did pence is not it the pets does not have what it takes to fill that spot uh and also that i don't think i mean i think it more than anything it proves if trump has not been making executive decisions for a while like the joke would be well what if he gets on steroids and hits the hits the button that's a real possibility if anyone in that room thought that they would let that happen you know what i mean i think that at this point maybe there was at the beginning of his term maybe there only has been recently but at some point the people in at the trigger points around trump have basically agreed either explicitly or implicitly amongst themselves that there are certain things that they don't tell him there are certain things that when he tells them they ignore like we know for a fact that he ordered the assassination of uh assad this ordered it like wasn't just talking about it like told mattis to do it and mattis just said we're not gonna do it we're not doing that so that means like he has not actually been the president in the way that we think of that job which is which which which makes the fixation on him as a person and our like i was talking about after the debate our compulsion to scry through the entrails of his logaria to find meaning all the funnier is that he's not even he's not even doing the job that you think he's supposed to be doing he is just sitting there he's watching tv the whole time and it's like i think that's the thing people kind of get and maybe even walk around thinking in the back of their minds but it doesn't prevent people from getting so round up i much prefer speculating on his physical health than like what his words mean that's if it's all going to be just uh this this senseless augury that at least augur around something funny and whether he's shooting his pants right now uh whether his brain is like cooked like he's got a 110 degree fever and he's hallucinating that he's at studio 54 with uh which of trump's children will seek the nomination i honestly do believe that don jr is going to run for office because he is don jr was perfectly named because don gave him his exact personality problems but he has less of his dad's talents which is very much what happens with these families because they take the money more for granted they have less to do with the actual business and they fill that with anxiety they fill that gap of effective leadership and control over their lives with with anxiety around specifically their him and his dad uh their dads because donald trump has been shaped his whole life by the absence of the love of his psychotic father as uh and the same thing is true of donald jr i mean apparently he after college went and was a ski bum in colorado and he wrote about it in his stupid book and he kind of talks of it wistfully and you could see that like there was a desire maybe for him to live his own life and he ended up going back to new york and working for his dad partially because he couldn't think of anything better to do and he was lazy and dumb and he wanted money without having to work for it and that was the easiest way to do that but honestly i think more than anything it's because he thought if he did that he could get his dad to like it like like don don did like don became famous to make up for his father's lack of love i know this is all very dime store uh psychiatry but like this ***** is real you know like these kind of phenomenon like our our relationships with our parents and stuff they are foundational and you can see with these famous people especially like the extravagant trauma that they're dealing with like their whole lives are expressions of course now donald is where's where his dad was his dad wouldn't quit his dad kept working well after he had 0:33:54 alzheimer's and he would go into office and they would give him a phone that only went to his secretary and they would give him blank paper to write on which is of course that's literally what they did with trump to have a photo op they had him writing on blank paper uh and so now don jr has the same need and his dad is as disinterested in giving it to him as his dad was and now he's going to fill the gap he couldn't fill it with fame the way his dad did because his dad was more charismatic than him and his dad was smarter at being famous his dad was was a genius at being famous don jr isn't a genius ***** don jr is a perfect mediocrity don jr is a perfect example of the absolute uh emptiness within our the the the most recent minting of our ruling class the copies of the copies of the copies the failed sons fail sons uh and 0:34:55 so he is going to go because he can't be famous he could never get famous through his own talents he's going to get famous the way that nerds and dorks and losers get famous and that is by politics i mean he got famous basically as an accident because his dad did and now he's going to try to keep it going by running for something and i do think he's dumb enough to go straight for the presidency instead of even trying to build a base you know as a senator or something but he or maybe somebody can talk him into running for senate and basically it basically will boil down to which political grifters get a hold of him and scam him somebody who's got a plan for him to run for a senator somewhere or governor or whatever or somebody who's just like yeah no we're going to do a pump and dump on this jump pump and dump on the chump and just have him run for president and then skim all the donations for viral ads where him and nicholas sandman but uh it's not going to be him that's one thing i can say his he's not going to be the the uh the caliph he's not gonna he's 0:35:58 not gonna be the he's not gonna alive he just doesn't have any of it ivanka people were very impressed by her speech uh i honestly just don't think her energy vibes with the gop now like what she does is very girl boss uh and it's very honestly it's very democratic uh and the republicans i think they want what their dad's putting out maybe it's different with women i don't know but uh i could see her running for something i just don't think she cares to do it i don't think that she is seems terribly interested in doing it like you can see why don junior needs to do it i don't think situation eric as stupid as he is is definitely smarter than the rest of them because he 0:36:59

is appropriately arm's length this whole thing may be aware that it could definitely bite them all in the ass or some of them anyway and of course yes the real answer to this is always baron baron is the god emperor uh baron is the quid sock harder rock baron will uh it will imbibe the spice melange and fuse with the sand worm and rule over us eternally and this god kamala harris being president in six months is going to be such a ***** trip she is someone that no one likes that no one even in california they don't really like her no one voted for for president i mean literally she didn't make it to the single ***** primary contest just popping in there like hey i'm the president now after having a president who's so fully who is such just the center 0:38:0 of this storm of psychic energy to have somebody who barely anybody can muster a thought about it's going to be very weird that energy is going to have to go tulsi uh tulsi could be the candidate who split who who leads q1 and someone said tulsi is a q a candidate i mean if q see that's the real wild card is what happens with q not the trump base the smaller but distinct and growing section of that called cute the ones who have this religious uh fixation and have this this uh eschatological cosmology with trump at the center of i think if trump dies they will think he's still alive they will he will become the occluded motty there's no question of that the same way the 0:39:1 jfk jay junior is going to come back they're going to come back together at the right hand of jesus and they are going to really be looking for a messiah someone to and who that is that will be interesting to see i guess don jr maybe could do that he could be the cue guy but among elected officials tulsi gabbard really stands out uh as the one to do that because her whole deal seems to be doing the trumpism stuff like like the whole trump vibe but without trump and the associated stuff of trump and if q anon gets like keeps accelerating and it's abstraction away from the original premise especially if trump dies it could become it could be it could be adapted but we'll see we'll see they might love they might love trump too much they might they might get too fixated on the blood the blood is the life the blood is the life 0:40:4 can we print money forever i mean for i mean before the end if we're the end of the global supply chain we're in as long as we're the global reserve currency now that might change people have talked about the chinese and the russians trying to move us away from the dollar uh but that carries a lot of other consequences with it that i don't think any other that those other countries are really ready for yet but i think it's inevitable honestly that we get off the dollar and it would be good to get off the dollar it's just how we do it if it's part of like a trade war that'll be bad for everybody i think but if it's part of like a mutual drawdown from global hegemony to like a true multi-polarity where we lose our position like we don't lose everything but we lose 0:41:5 our position as the the uh executive authority of global capitalism and we distribute that power more equitably so that would be because it would require it would allow us to finally you know hopefully it all depends on like what the political like what the political uh background of it would be you know we're either gonna we're either gonna build guns we're either gonna be build bombs and planes and aircraft carriers to kill everyone until the wheels fall off uh or we will and then there's just no more dollar and then the whole thing collapses or we sort of spread that around lose our role as the global hegemon and most importantly military overlord and that allows us to recommit resources we do have the real productive capacity we have we do have to i don't know uh building our own infrastructure uh creating a viable country instead of just a ***** but i mean if i if you had to ask me what's more likely it's going to be that we're just going to keep building building planes and bombs until uh but wall street isn't the only force someone says wall street is pushing for the loss of dollar hegemony i'll tell you who else is pushing for the end of dollar hegemony the ***** trump administration and more broadly the american government like people take for granted that the us can just sanction another country and they don't really stop to think can anybody do that could you just sanction people no you can't you can't control another country's economy unless you are the whole the one who prints the ***** money they use for their transactions and then you actually can and that's what we have done and we have abused the ***** out of sanctions uh and as a result there's a growing resistance to them and the resistance to but right now the response to trump died or trump dying but to trump getting sick i don't know this is obviously not really empirical irrational i'm just talking from like my my individual perception and my visual emotional the the just the vibes i'm picking up which of course they don't mean ***** but i after the convention after the debate i saw it i kind of think people are just going to want to settle down like even though things are terrible and only going to get worse and it's like we have an eviction crisis and 200 000 dead on its way to half a million and and you know the economy is in a k-shaped recession a k-shaped recovery where although people who are worse off are going to uh suffer the most and for the most the most deeply it's terrible conditions but that rather than trump leading us to this confrontation point that i think a lot of people really thought was going to happen and i never did but i could certainly see why people got to that point because he really was bringing us to a heightened point of of social paranoia uh that when you looked at it in connection with this you know incredibly uh bad economic and social condition in this country could make you connect one to the other and think this is happening but i think what instead happened is that trump has proven to be sort of pre-figurative like he is he through a number of flukes popped up in advance of a like a true crisis of of political uh uh power and as a result that this election is ending up to be a big deflation of the politics bubble even though things are bad i think because a lot of what we think of

as like this political hot house is being stoked by people who have not really suffered those are the people who are the most politically engaged during this period you can talk about how oh of course things could lead to confrontation and conflict look how bad everything is it's like yes but people who are most directly affected by how bad everything is are generally the people who are least likely to be stoking this sense of political armageddon uh and i think we're gonna get they see the horror of others and it stokes them further towards towards frenzy but their frenzy is psychological in in origin not material and i think that that kind of thing can only be sustained for so long and i think that at the end of this election when he loses which i think he will and then certainly if he dies there's going to just be this popping this deflation of psychic energy not among his most deep supporters they're going to go into the cue hall and there will be stochastic political violence out of those people but i think even among a lot of republican voters there's just going to be this exhale because the people who are most politically uh polarized right now are also the people least likely to want to risk what comfort they do have you know to fight over resources that are still uh somebody said will there be as much violence if trump dies as if biden wins i honestly think if he dies there will be less violence because i think most people just the most fanatically fixated on it will just disbelieve it and like burrow deeper into a into a narrative which might which will put them farther from the snapping point like that's why that's why him losing an election definitely caused a number of people to snap because there's no way out of that one there's somebody else on tv that's there's the thing called the president and it's not him anymore that's a real thing uh uh and he's over there not being president anymore but like if if he's just gone he could he could be anywhere he could be he could be he's occluded he's he's he's the the king in the mountain sleeping and awaiting his uh resurrection and that's not gonna work for all of them but i think a lot of them who might otherwise have snapped are gonna but i think even some q people honestly might just wheel back and say okay that was weird you know like when they were really into anyway or something kind of a vaguely embarrassing chapter of their life that they don't want to talk about you know i know that sounds like oh that's uh pollyanna that's like biden saying the fever will break i don't think that's true uh i think by the time you know but by the time buying this campaign like presidency really gets in there whether it's him or harris you're going to see an explosion of political brinksmanship among republican governors like guys like desantis to set recession threats it's going to go wild i'm just saying is that in the immediate aftermath there's just going to be a law i don't know how long it'll last maybe it gets 100 days but then it's going to explode again apparently so many some number of people have insisted that these are blue jays congratulations to anybody who can tell that i that's i don't have that kind of birding knowledge as for governing nothing will get done biden's not going to accomplish ***** and the way you'll know that is when they if the senate obviously if the republicans keep the senate nothing's going to happen period except for a grand bargain but if they keep the senate or if they lose the senate and then the senate votes nothing but without trump there to stir the pot it's going to be harder to get people emotionally invested in that you need that figure there just drawing all those eyeballs that entertainer in chief which i don't i think at this point the democrats could definitely take the senate uh polling is looking very bad in a number of for a number of republicans who i kind of assumed were gonna do okay like jody ernst until a few months ago i thought was pretty pretty much assumed to get reelected and now it looks like she's honest obvious she's done for like she's down by over 10 points she's ***** uh hell alaska's seat is apparently tied lindsey graham is in genuine trouble uh so is tom tillis i don't know how much the dorky sex scandal with uh his democratic opponent is going to matter i don't i mean does that stuff matter anymore at all i honestly don't think it does susan collins is done cory gardner in colorado is finished that's a lot i mean i think that doug jones is going to lose but i think he'll be the only one they lose and if he's the only democrat who loses and they lose five oh yeah marty mcsally's gonna lose in arizona uh hell john ossoff might win in georgia uh like all you need is like i say all you need is what four of those to go even if you don't hold on to uh and uh yeah someone says doug jones is gonna win i just saw a poll that had tuberville up by like 10 so i don't know but i i honestly do hope i am rooting for the democrats to win the senate i'm earnestly rooting not because i think it will unnecessarily lead to anything but just in terms of you know if my job is in a in one sense to put it pretentiously political education you can't get much more politically uh politically educating than watching uh democrats take power and refuse to use it on principle uh of course for those democrats they'll never ever ever realize what's happening but it's not about all of them it's not about the center mass it's about the edges it's about shaving off the edges a new nbc poll has trump up 14. oh biden up 14. okay i thought something because that's what i'd seen i saw fighting up by turkey yeah uh like this is where we were on the trajectory towards happening in 2016 as people point out but hillary is deeply deeply unpopular in a way that biden just isn't people like by in fact biden's favor abilities have gone up over the past four months he was like net negative like 10 this summer he is now plus two in favorability in the tracking goal people like it at least they don't in comparison to trump he is more reassuring his his brand of senility is less threatening it's less ang it's less anxiety i mean if you were going to be in the day room think of it this way if you were going to be stuck in the day room of a nursing home with trump or biden who would you rather hang out with who would you rather watch wheel of fortune
