

20191012 Devolution of Society

Viktor Nonong Medrano

Many people talk about human evolution, but is there human devolution? Walking through the slums and ghettoes of this world would make one think that there really is devolution of society. Every city has at least one ugly garbage dump. As we come to the 2020's, people are less spiritual than in the 1960's or 1970's. There is really more materialism. People generally know less about their position in the universe. Of course, there are intellectuals like myself, but we are few, and we have lesser children than non-intellectuals.
