Who is Princess Lucinda?

It's a question that has both a single and many answers, but before we get to that, a little background on the publishers of the Princess Lucinda comic.

channel m

Slogan: "Stay tuned for Adventure"

Channel M is a Dallas, Texas based table-top role-playing game and comic book publishing company. Formed less than a year ago they have licensed for publication comics and games based on;

Nemesis: Youth quake: A Teen-Team Superhero Action Adventure.

Witch Girls: A Dark comedic world of magic and mischief.

Princess Lucinda: A Dark Comedic adventures of a wicked witch-girl in the Witch Girls World

Squad 60: A Futuristic action adventure about the first alien invasion of Earth.

Outlanders-Legend of the 14: A Fantasy adventure of people from modern earth spirited away to a medieval world of magic and dragons

Kid Arthur: The second coming of the legendary British hero in the form of a sixteen year old American kid.

Channel M was founded by current president Malcolm Harris an award winning comic and game designer. Staffed by a group of up and coming talented artist, writers and game designers Channel M is set to take the world by storm.

With the comic book and game industry quickly expanding into the film industry and the internet being a vital marketing tool for the comic and game industry Channel M wishes to use the potential in all of the above to help set it apart from other start ups by producing short films as promotional tools for the internet and to show at their convention booths.

The first of those will be Princess Lucinda

Now back to the original question. "Who is Princess Lucinda?"

Princess Lucinda is a comic aimed at teen girls. It's an irreverent and twisted take on the typical tale of the story book princess. Lucinda is the anti-Disney heroine she's not good, she's not sweet and she never needs a prince to save her.

In fact she's sarcastic, wicked, malicious and imperious with more than enough power to back up her motto "Obey the Princess"

Who reads Princess Lucinda?

Lucinda fans are the typical fans you expect. They are young girls who are a bit Goth, a bit Geek who need a heroine who takes nothing from no one and who is more than happy to teach the bullying, static and short sided mundane world a lesson.

Lucinda fans also tend to enjoy Japanese animation and comics where stories tend to be more complex and female heroines who don't follow the rules are more common.

the origins of the princess

Princess Lucinda sprung from the need to put a single face of the Witch-Girls universe. A young witch the exemplifies the dark and wicked world and separates it from something like Sabrina the Teenage witch and Harry Potter. Also we wanted something that would be unlike the typical comic book heroine or the typical idolized Disney princess.

We wanted a heroine for the girls who felt left out, the freak and geek girls out there.

In the world of Princess Lucinda our Heroine is Lucinda Nightbane. She was born to Emperor Arturus Nightbane and his wife the Empress Talia Shadowspell. Lucinda and her older sister (The sweeter Princess Millicent) lived with their parents in the aptly name Dark-spire, the seat of their families' evil empire.

Now in typical story fashion the evil king and queen is overthrown by the forces of good and die and battle but in the world of Princess Lucinda we see that from 12 year old Lucinda's point of view to her the rebellious and self righteous goody-goodies killed her parents and forced her and her sister into exile.

Exile thanks to a last spell cast by their mother (wanting to keep them safe) sending them to the back end of reality to an unremarkable universe and an unremarkable planet called Earth.

So Lucinda finds herself on a world so unlike hers is treated like a common child and without the position of Princess, no servants, no, slaves, no guards, none of that. All the trappings of her position and title stripped away.

Her Sister Millicent likes the fact on Earth she can do things that were thought as unseemly for a princess like cook and go out without a guard. Lucinda however still wants to be a treated like a princess and unfortunately (for the people of Earth) has the power to eventually make it happen.

For you see Lucinda and her sisters are not normal, they are of the High-Blood of Bruja children of a witch and a dark-warrior/wizard and possess magical power on a level rarely seen on their planet where magic though not common was well known. Power that on earth makes the lives of anyone crossing Lucinda very interesting at best and at worst very short.

the power of the princess

What would a comic book be without a main character with really cool super powers? (It'll be Batman but that's not the point.) Lucinda like all High born are basically immortal living into the tens of thousands of years and with immunity to normal immortal sickness and disease. They also heal faster than mortals and are extremely intelligent with a human genius intellect being low average to them.

Lucinda's main power comes in the fact that she's a su-premely powerful witch. Even at 12 she has mastered spells that Merlin the magician believes to be legend. Although she is far from all powerful to a typical lowly human she appears that way. Altering reality with a snap of a finger or wave of a hand. A wicked, bratty, hyper intelligent princess with magical powers would be bad enough for the people of earth. But with Lucinda it gets worse. Lucinda has mastered completely one aspect of magic. An aspect of the witchly arts she enjoys using more than any other the magic of transformation. To put it simply

From Lucinda- Transform A-Z
Z is for Zebra

Lucinda can turn anyone or anything into whatever she likes and does so often and with delight.

mind of the princess

Not everything is psychological or has underlying tones. Lucinda isn't a very complex character. Lucinda just wants the things to be as they were before coming to earth. She wants her parents back, she wants her room (actually a palace in itself) back, her servants back and the fear of her people all returned to her. She resents being on earth, being treated like a child, being told what she can and cannot do and being told she must follow silly mortals rules.

She has zero tolerance for those who think they are in charge, for human stupidity or short sightedness. She does have a heart. She loves and is very protective of her sister (who because she is good Lucinda views as naive). She is protective of her human pets (friends) and has a soft spot for children in trouble (whom she sympathizes with due to her parent's fate).

Ok maybe she's a little complex...

the princesses players

Every hero, in this case villain as Lucinda even when being heroic is villainous has to have a support system as well as enemies.

Katie: Lucinda's best mortal friend (i.e. a favored pet in Lucinda's eyes). She has no powers of her own but uses a wand that Lucinda gave her as a gift that allows her to cast simple spells.

Millicent: Lucinda's sister and fellow witch. Sweet kind and spends a lot of time trying to undo Lucinda's wickedness. The only person earth Lucinda listens too.

Ian: A geek boy who discovers Lucinda's secret. He has a crush on her despite the fact she often abuses their friendship by casting spells on him when she's bored, annoyed or just feeling wicked.

Adam: Millicent's boyfriend who you guess suffers at the hand of Lucinda quite often. Square jawed heroic and good natured.

Fenwick (not his real name but what the Lucinda calls him as his real name Bob is just plain silly): Friend of Adam who Lucinda uses as a spy in exchange for allowing Fenwick top occasionally exist as a human Justicar Wulf: Hero from Lucinda's home world sent to earth to hunt her and Millicent down to be taken back to pay for their parents deeds. She has a special hate for Lucinda as Lucinda turned her children into bugs and never turned them back.

Justicar Lyon: The senior Justicar, straight laced and by the book.

Justicar Behr: The not very smart but loyal Justicar, an expert tracker and a bit feral.
